In prosecution for conspiracy to defraud United States and to commit offenses against United States by illegally obtaining entry of aliens as spouses of veterans who entered into foreign marriage ceremonies with aliens, evidence that aliens and veterans lived apart after coming to United States, that money was paid to veterans for their part in the so-called marriages, and that suits were started to terminate whatever legal relationship there might have been upon the record, was competent to show spuriousness of marriages and intent of parties thereto, notwithstanding that such matters took place after conspiracy ended. Lutwak v. U.S., U.S.Ill.1953, 73 S.Ct. 481, 344 U.S. 604, 97 L.Ed. 593, rehearing denied 73 S.Ct. 726, 345 U.S. 919, 97 L.Ed. 1352.

The act of one partner in crime is admissible against the others where it is in furtherance of the criminal undertaking, but all such responsibility is at an end when the conspiracy ends. Fiswick v. U.S., U.S.N.J.1946, 67 S.Ct. 224, 329 U.S. 211, 91 L.Ed. 196.

In prosecution for conspiracy to defraud lending institutions, the district court committed reversible error in admitting evidence that, approximately five months after the last act of the conspiracy had ended, defendant attempted to extort money from one of his alleged coconspirators; the testimony relating to defendant's extortion attempt was of slight probative value and was highly and unfairly prejudicial. U.S. v. Hodges, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1985, 770 F.2d 1475.

Testimony of co-conspirator concerning acts of another co-conspirator and himself on subsequent trip to Oregon in disposing of masks, cash box and other articles used in robbery of veterans' administration hospital were admissible in prosecution of third co-conspirator even if conspiracy had ended prior to disposing of articles. Feyrer v. U. S., C.A.9 (Wash.) 1963, 314 F.2d 110.

Acts done by a conspirator even after termination of conspiracy are properly admissible as having probative value as bearing on intent and purpose of conspirator in doing acts during existence of conspiracy. Connelly v. U.S., C.A.8 (Mo.) 1957, 249 F.2d 576, certiorari denied 78 S.Ct. 700, 356 U.S. 921, 2 L.Ed.2d 716, rehearing denied 78 S.Ct. 991, 356 U.S. 964, 2 L.Ed.2d 1072, certiorari denied 78 S.Ct. 701, 356 U.S. 921, 2 L.Ed.2d 716.

While the act of one partner in crime is admissible against others where it is in furtherance of the criminal undertaking, all such responsibility is at an end when the conspiracy ends. Sandez v. U. S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1956, 239 F.2d 239, rehearing denied 245 F.2d 712.

In prosecution for conspiracy to mail threatening letters for purpose of extortion, testimony showing circumstances and actions of accused and codefendant at a time nearly three days after conspiracy charged had terminated was not admissible and could not be considered as proof of that charge. U.S. v. Moloney, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1952, 200 F.2d 344.

Evidence of payment of money in April was inadmissible in prosecution for conspiracy ending in March of same year. Giordano v. U.S., C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1925, 9 F.2d 830.

597. Acts during conspiracy, admissibility of evidence

Evidence established that defendants participated in a single, overall conspiracy to counterfeit beginning in 1981 and ending in 1983, and thus, evidence of 1983 events was admissible. U.S. v. Sandridge, C.A.8 (Mo.) 1985, 770

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

F.2d 744, certiorari denied 106 S.Ct. 808, 474 U.S. 1062, 88 L.Ed.2d 783. Criminal Law 374

598. Admissions, admissibility of evidence

Defendant's admission to Federal Bureau of Investigation agents that he set fire was voluntary where the agents advised defendant that he was under no obligation to speak with them, that he was a potential defendant in a later criminal action, that he could terminate interview at any time, and that they would inform United States attorney of defendant's cooperation but that the Bureau was not authorized to grant defendant immunity, and where defendant said that he understood the points made by the Bureau agents. U.S. v. Costello, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1984, 750 F.2d 553.

In prosecution for conspiracy to use mails in furtherance of scheme to defraud and conspiracy to defraud United States by obstructing Internal Revenue Service, trial court did not err in admitting auditor's testimony concerning certain out-of-court statements allegedly made by one of defendants, in view of fact that evidence sustained finding that defendant's alleged statements were made in furtherance of conspiracy; even if admission of such statements was error, it was harmless, in view of fact that each conspirator's involvement was established by overwhelming evidence, and out-of-court statements added nothing substantial. U. S. v. Fitzgerald, C.A.7 (Ind.) 1978, 579 F.2d 1014, certiorari denied 99 S.Ct. 610, 439 U.S. 1002, 58 L.Ed.2d 677, certiorari denied 99 S.Ct. 611, 439 U.S. 1002, 58 L.Ed.2d 677.

In conspiracy prosecution, document which defendant had submitted to his draft board in which he characterized himself as a "revolutionary" and as a member of an underground group could have been admissible as an admission. U. S. v. Baumgarten, C.A.8 (Mo.) 1975, 517 F.2d 1020, certiorari denied 96 S.Ct. 152, 423 U.S. 878, 46 L.Ed.2d 111.

Where attorney who had been subpoenaed to appear before grand jury investigating narcotics case arrived too late to appear before grand jury and went instead to office of Assistant United States Attorney handling case and there pressed Assistant to explain reason for subpoena and was warned of his rights, admissions made to the Assistant United States Attorney were admissible against defendant attorney in prosecution for narcotics conspiracy, though attorney was not advised, when he made the statements, that he was already under indictment. U. S. v. Santana, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1974, 503 F.2d 710, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 632, 419 U.S. 1053, 42 L.Ed.2d 649, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 1352, 420 U.S. 963, 43 L.Ed.2d 439, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 1450, 420 U.S. 1006, 43 L.Ed.2d 764.

Trial court properly admitted as admission against interest first defendant's out-of-court admission concerning overt acts which occurred during period outside the period stated in the conspiracy indictment. U. S. v. Hernandez, C.A.9 (Ariz.) 1973, 480 F.2d 1044.

Defendant's statement at time of arrest to effect that he had not participated in hijacking in five years, which would have been at or about time of hijacking involved, was spontaneous, volunteered admission on his part, and was admissible. U. S. v. Augello, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1971, 452 F.2d 1135, certiorari denied 92 S.Ct. 1787, 406 U.S. 922, 32 L.Ed.2d 122, certiorari denied 93 S.Ct. 145, 409 U.S. 859, 34 L.Ed.2d 105.

In prosecution for possessing goods stolen from interstate shipment and conspiracy to effect the possession, if any incrimination against defendant existed in overheard statement made to defendant by third party that he did not believe anything that codefendant said until he produced the merchandise, defendant's overheard rejoinder that he was beginning to believe the third party constituted adoption of such incrimination and third party's statement thus became effectively defendant's own admission, and testimony as to the statements made was not inadmissible on ground that third party had not been sufficiently proved to be member of alleged conspiracy to entitle any statements on his part to be admitted against defendant. U. S. v. Metcalf, C.A.8 (Mo.) 1970, 430 F.2d 1197.

In prosecution on charge of conspiring to violate customs laws, trustworthiness of defendants' admissions was established by ample substantial independent evidence. U. S. v. Tourine, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1970, 428 F.2d 865, certiorari denied 91 S.Ct. 581, 400 U.S. 1020, 27 L.Ed.2d 631, rehearing denied 91 S.Ct. 968, 401 U.S. 966, 28 L.Ed.2d 249.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Where defendant's participation in conspiracy to present false claims to Government had already been proved at time co-conspirator took witness stand, and since conversation between defendant and co-conspirator took place during course of conspiracy and was in furtherance of its purposes, such conversation was properly admissible against defendant. U. S. v. Tyminski, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1969, 418 F.2d 1060, certiorari denied 90 S.Ct. 1523, 397 U.S. 1075, 25 L.Ed.2d 810.

Conspirator's admission to FBI agent after conspiracy ended was not admissible against co-conspirator; however, where admission did not directly inculcate co-conspirator, the error did not reach constitutional proportions. U. S. v. Fellabaum, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1969, 408 F.2d 220, certiorari denied 90 S.Ct. 125, 396 U.S. 858, 24 L.Ed.2d 109, certiorari denied 90 S.Ct. 55, 396 U.S. 818, 24 L.Ed.2d 69.

In prosecution for aiding and abetting and for conspiracy to travel in interstate commerce and to use mail and wire facilities in interstate commerce to promote a gambling enterprise, the introduction of defendant's income tax return in which he stated that his business was gaming did not violate rights under U.S.C.A. Const. Amend. 5, since defendant's statement in return amounted to a voluntary admission which could be used in the prosecution in that he had right to claim self-incrimination at time of return. Grimes v. U. S., C.A.5 (Tex.) 1967, 379 F.2d 791, certiorari denied 88 S.Ct. 104, 389 U.S. 846, 19 L.Ed.2d 113.

Statements made by defendant to government witness were admissible against defendant as admissions and acts in furtherance of conspiracy with which defendant was charged. U. S. v. Cardillo, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1963, 316 F.2d 606, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 123, 375 U.S. 857, 11 L.Ed.2d 84, rehearing denied 84 S.Ct. 203, 375 U.S. 917, 11 L.Ed.2d 158, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 60, 375 U.S. 822, 11 L.Ed.2d 55, rehearing denied 84 S.Ct. 263, 375 U.S. 926, 11 L.Ed.2d 169.

Admission made by one defendant to police after arrest and long after conspiracy had ceased, that he had given codefendant key a few weeks before money disappeared from truck, denied by the alleged declarant on the stand was properly received against him and excluded as to codefendant. Lubin v. U. S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1963, 313 F.2d 419.

Defendant's hearsay statement to government agent that he did not know codefendants on certain date was properly received as an admission and was relevant to show consciousness of guilt on defendant's part with respect to conspiracy charge. Williamson v. U. S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1962, 310 F.2d 192.

Relevant declarations or admissions of a conspirator made in the absence of a coconspirator, and not in furtherance of the conspiracy, may be admissible in a trial for conspiracy as against the declarant to prove the declarant's participation therein. Harris v. U.S., C.A.4 (Md.) 1960, 283 F.2d 923.

In prosecutions for conspiracy to smuggle psittacine birds into United States, for smuggling such birds into United States, and for receiving, concealing and transporting such birds, recordings of testimony recorded subsequently to termination of conspiracy and other statements of defendants were admissible as admissions against interest where offered only against defendant making such admission. Murray v. U.S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1957, 250 F.2d 489, certiorari denied 78 S.Ct. 1375, 357 U.S. 932, 2 L.Ed.2d 1373.

Conspirator's confession, made after termination of the conspiracy, is admissible only against himself because it is hearsay as to other conspirators, but, if trial judge makes this clear to the jury by proper instruction, which strictly limits the use of the confession to use against declarant alone, coconspirators are sufficiently protected. United States v. Bando, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1957, 244 F.2d 833, certiorari denied 78 S.Ct. 67, 355 U.S. 844, 2 L.Ed.2d 53.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In prosecution for conspiracy to organize Communist Party of United States as a group to teach and advocate overthrow of government by force or violence, evidence of what a defendant had said off the stand was incompetent. U.S. v. Dennis, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1950, 183 F.2d 201, certiorari granted 71 S.Ct. 91, 340 U.S. 863, 95 L.Ed. 630, affirmed 71 S.Ct. 857, 341 U.S. 494, 95 L.Ed. 1137, rehearing denied 72 S.Ct. 20, 342 U.S. 842, 96 L.Ed. 636, rehearing denied 78 S.Ct. 409, 355 U.S. 936, 2 L.Ed.2d 419.

Where statement made by defendant to F.B.I. agents after his arrest incriminated defendant, statement was admissible against defendant without the necessity of establishing the corpus delicti independently of statement, since corpus delicti might have been established by statement itself plus corroborating evidence. Chevillard v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1946, 155 F.2d 929.

Accused's voluntary admission to policemen at time of his arrest that accused was operating a still was admissible, notwithstanding that accused was not previously warned that his statement might be used against him. United States v. Heitner, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1945, 149 F.2d 105, certiorari denied 66 S.Ct. 33, 326 U.S. 727, 90 L.Ed. 432, rehearing denied 66 S.Ct. 164, 326 U.S. 809, 90 L.Ed. 494.

In prosecution for violations of Mail Fraud Act, former § 338 of this title, for violations of fraud provisions of Securities Act of 1933, § 77q(a)(1) of Title 15, and for conspiracy to violate said sections by promotion of membership club with ultimate object of obtaining money and property from club members, reception in evidence of sworn statement of some of defendants made to an internal revenue agent was not contrary to Treasury Regulation and did not compel defendants to be witnesses against themselves in violation of U.S.C.A.Const. Amend. 5. U. S. v. Monjar, C.C.A.3 (Del.) 1944, 147 F.2d 916, certiorari denied 65 S.Ct. 1191, 325 U.S. 859, 89 L.Ed. 1979, certiorari denied 65 S.Ct. 1192, 325 U.S. 859, 89 L.Ed. 1979, certiorari denied 65 S.Ct. 1192, 325 U.S. 859, 89 L.Ed. 1980, certiorari denied 65 S.Ct. 1193, 325 U.S. 859, 89 L.Ed. 1980, certiorari denied 65 S.Ct. 1194, 325 U.S. 859, 89 L.Ed. 1981.

In prosecution for conspiracy to operate unregistered stills, testimony of admissions made by accused to an agent of Alcohol Tax Unit that accused had sold sugar to bootleggers in the past, etc., was properly admitted where admissions referred to sales which had been proved. U S v. Loew, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1944, 145 F.2d 332, certiorari denied 65 S.Ct. 587, 324 U.S. 840, 89 L.Ed. 1403.

In prosecution for conspiracy to defraud Government of floor stock tax on distilled spirits and wine, where offense was established by other evidence, testimony of Government officer as to statements made by one defendant in nature of an admission was competent. Auerbach v. U.S., C.C.A.6 (Tenn.) 1943, 136 F.2d 882.

In prosecution for conspiracy to defraud Government of floor stock tax on distilled spirits and wine, testimony as to statement against interest of one defendant which was limited to such defendant was not inadmissible because witness was not positive in identification of such defendant. Auerbach v. U.S., C.C.A.6 (Tenn.) 1943, 136 F.2d 882

In a prosecution for conspiring to violate §§ 2833 and 3253 of Title 26, admitting written statements procured from certain defendants relating solely to a murder committed by one of defendants for personal reasons is error, since the statements are irrelevant and hearsay and are not admissible as showing the connection of certain defendants with other defendants, nor as the confession of one conspirator against another. Smith v. U.S., App.D.C.1937, 91 F.2d 556, 67 App.D.C. 251.

In conspiracy prosecution accused's statements to government agent were admissible as voluntary admissions tending to prove guilt. Baker v. U. S., C.C.A.4 (Va.) 1927, 21 F.2d 903, certiorari denied 48 S.Ct. 301, 276 U.S. 621, 72 L.Ed. 736.

In prosecution for conspiracy, declarations by each and all of defendants admitting conspiracy was competent.

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Cummings v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Wash.) 1926, 15 F.2d 168.

Admissions at time of arrest were admissible against conspirators who made them, and not prejudicial to other defendants, where court instructed jury not to consider admissions against persons not making them. Campanelli v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1926, 13 F.2d 750.

Admissions by alleged conspirators were at least admissible against those making them, even if conspiracy had not been prima facie proved. Smith v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1925, 9 F.2d 386, certiorari denied 46 S.Ct. 488, 271 U.S. 674, 70 L.Ed. 1145.

In a prosecution for conspiring to defraud the United States, confessions made by alleged coconspirators to a naval intelligence officer, who stated that it was the best thing for such persons to tell the truth, could not be excluded as involuntary where no inducements were held out. Fitter v. U.S., C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1919, 258 F. 567, 169 C.C.A. 507.

Testimony, given without claim of privilege before the referee in bankruptcy by those subpoenaed as witnesses was voluntary and admissible in a subsequent prosecution of witnesses for conspiring to receive property of the bankrupt, for § 25(10), of Title 11, affords no protection to witnesses other than the bankrupt. Knoell v. U S, C.C.A.3 (Pa.) 1917, 239 F. 16, 152 C.C.A. 66, error dismissed 38 S.Ct. 316, 246 U.S. 648, 62 L.Ed. 920.

On the trial of an indictment for conspiracy, letters shown to be in the handwriting of the defendant, addressed to an alleged co-conspirator and containing self-charging admissions, were admissible in evidence, although it was not proved that they were transmitted to the persons to whom they were addressed, and their interpretation and weight were matters for determination by the jury in the light of all of the evidence in the case. Chadwick v. U. S., C.C.A.6 (Ohio) 1905, 141 F. 225, 72 C.C.A. 343.

Admission in joint trial, on indictments charging conspiracy and counterfeiting activities, of post indictment conversations between two of the three codefendants, overheard by federal agency through pre-arrangement with one participant in conversation, was not, in view of totality of evidence, prejudicial to third defendant who was mentioned but not incriminated in conversation in which he did not participate. U. S. v. Beatty, D.C.Md.1968, 282 F.Supp. 202.

Admissions which a defendant made in testimony before grand jury, after terminal date of alleged conspiracy, were not binding upon or admissible against his codefendants and coconspirators. U S v. Grunewald, S.D.N.Y.1958, 164 F.Supp. 640.

In prosecution for charges arising from scheme to sell stock in sham companies through fraudulent private placements, admission of plea allocutions of three co-conspirators pursuant to hearsay exception for statements against penal interest was not an abuse of the district court's discretion and did not violate defendants' due process or Confrontation Clause rights; particularized guarantees of trustworthiness were present, as plea subjected conspirators to risk of lengthy term of imprisonment, allocutions were given under oath, and trial judge gave clear limiting instructions. U.S. v. Donovan, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 2003, 55 Fed.Appx. 16, 2003 WL 77196, Unreported, certiorari denied 123 S.Ct. 2110, 538 U.S. 1047, 155 L.Ed.2d 1088. Criminal Law ¶ 662.11

599. Affidavits, admissibility of evidence

The admission in evidence in a trial for conspiracy of affidavits made by certain of the defendants, which were competent evidence against them, was not prejudicial to the rights of a codefendant tried jointly with them, the evidence not being admitted as against him. Vane v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Idaho) 1918, 254 F. 28, 165 C.C.A. 438.

In proceeding for conspiracy in restraint of trade, affidavits submitted to Bureau of Internal Revenue in tax proceeding which affidavits contained statements of co-conspirators concerning acts done in furtherance of the conspiracy would be admitted against all conspirators subject to be stricken should no conspiracy be proved. U.S. v. E.I. Du Pont De Nemours & Co., D.C.Del.1952, 107 F.Supp. 324.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

600. Books and records, admissibility of evidence

Where an indictment under former § 338 of this title for conspiracy to defraud through the mails, charged as one of the acts in furtherance of the conspiracy that B. deposited in the post office a letter addressed to D., applying for an agency to sell its shoes, and ordering shoes, railroad waybills showing a shipment of the shoes by D., and an order by B. to a freight agent to deliver his freight to a certain person, were admissible. Stokes v. U.S., U.S.Ala.1895, 15 S.Ct. 617, 157 U.S. 187, 39 L.Ed. 667. Conspiracy ↪ 43(12); Postal Service ↪ 49(5)

Corporate minute book which had been given to defendant by alleged master mind of money laundering scheme and which allegedly was introduced to impeach defendant's testimony as to stock ownership was authenticated in view of defendant's identifying the book as the minute book of the corporation that had been given to him by the "mastermind." U. S. v. Enstam, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1980, 622 F.2d 857, certiorari denied 101 S.Ct. 1351, 450 U.S. 912, 67 L.Ed.2d 336, certiorari denied 101 S.Ct. 1974, 451 U.S. 907, 68 L.Ed.2d 294.

Refusal to admit unauthenticated financial statements relating to corporations which were formed by defendant, an attorney, and which were owned by codefendant did not constitute abuse of discretion, in mail fraud prosecutions where the statements might have been used by jury to draw inferences improperly favorable to codefendant or might have led to other confusion. U. S. v. Alper, C.A.3 (Pa.) 1971, 449 F.2d 1223, certiorari denied 92 S.Ct. 1248, 405 U.S. 988, 31 L.Ed.2d 453, rehearing denied 92 S.Ct. 1605, 406 U.S. 911, 31 L.Ed.2d 822. Criminal Law ↪ 663

Where money and gambling slips seized at time of defendant's arrest were probative as to existence of allegedly prior conspiracy to cross state borders to further unlawful activity, even if conspiracy had terminated prior to such seizure, such items were admissible to show existence of conspiracy. U. S. v. Marquez, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1970, 424 F.2d 236, certiorari denied 91 S.Ct. 56, 400 U.S. 828, 27 L.Ed.2d 58.

Trial court did not abuse its discretion in prosecution for conspiracy to defraud the government and for bribery by admitting into evidence chart based upon bid and purchase records of government purchasing agent that showed purchase orders issued to defendant's company and which contained fictitious bids where trial court carefully cautioned jury that chart was only to assist them in understanding figures and that where there was conflict between chart and underlying data, the underlying data would control. U. S. v. Ellenbogen, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1966, 365 F.2d 982, certiorari denied 87 S.Ct. 892, 386 U.S. 923, 17 L.Ed.2d 795.

Notebooks of alleged narcotics distributor were admissible in view of entries therein as instrumentalities used in narcotics trafficking conspiracy. U. S. v. Cole, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1966, 365 F.2d 57, certiorari denied 87 S.Ct. 741, 385 U.S. 1024, 17 L.Ed.2d 672, rehearing denied 87 S.Ct. 971, 386 U.S. 951, 17 L.Ed.2d 879, certiorari denied 87 S.Ct. 741, 385 U.S. 1027, 17 L.Ed.2d 674, certiorari denied 87 S.Ct. 764, 385 U.S. 1032, 17 L.Ed.2d 679, rehearing denied 87 S.Ct. 979, 386 U.S. 951, 17 L.Ed.2d 879.

In prosecution for making false statement of material fact to Internal Revenue Agents, willfully attempting to evade wagering excise taxes and conspiring to commit offense against the United States, books, memoranda, tickets, pads, tablets and papers recording receipt of money from and money paid out in connection with operation of wagering business and files, desks, tables and receptacles for storing of such books, memoranda, et cetera, were relevant and properly admitted. U.S. v. Clancy, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1960, 276 F.2d 617, certiorari granted 80 S.Ct. 1611, 363 U.S. 836, 4 L.Ed.2d 1723, reversed on other grounds 81 S.Ct. 645, 365 U.S. 312, 5 L.Ed.2d 574.

In conspiracy prosecution, diary entries, which had been made by one of the defendants of his engagements, and which contained same initials as those of another defendant, and a somewhat similar name, were properly admitted over objection that they were irrelevant, where defendant making the entries admittedly received checks from the other defendant at lunch on dates noted in diary, and where evidence was sufficient to go to jury on question of identity of the other defendant as one referred to in diary. United States v. Schiller, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1951, 187 F.2d 572.

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In prosecution of county sheriff for conspiracy to commit offenses against United States through furnishing "protection" to owners and operators of illicit stills, a book containing memoranda of disbursements made during and in connection with operation of stills was admissible, where it appeared that entries in book had been made by a co-owner of the stills. U.S. v. Quick, C.C.A.3 (N.J.) 1942, 128 F.2d 832.

In prosecution of county sheriff for conspiracy to commit offenses against United States through furnishing "protection" to owners and operators of illicit stills, where book containing memoranda of disbursements made during and in connection with operation of stills was admitted in evidence, hearsay testimony of two witnesses who had nothing to do with making book entries was not admissible for purpose of giving meaning thereto. U.S. v. Quick, C.C.A.3 (N.J.) 1942, 128 F.2d 832.

In prosecution for conspiracy to commit an offense against the United States, where conspirators organized and controlled a corporation used in furtherance of conspiracy and caused such corporation to acquire a controlling interest in a second corporation which was also controlled by conspirators, that part of second corporation's ledger covering a period before controlling interest in such corporation was acquired by conspirators was admissible. Cornes v. U. S., C.C.A.9 (Ariz.) 1941, 119 F.2d 127.

Where a corporation was organized by defendant and his coconspirators in furtherance of conspiracy, and corporation was at all pertinent times controlled by them, and in furtherance of conspiracy the conspirators caused corporation to acquire controlling interest in a second corporation, which was dominated by conspirators, and records of both corporations were made and kept by or under supervision of one of the conspirators and were made and kept in furtherance of conspiracy, such records were admissible against defendant. Cornes v. U. S., C.C.A.9 (Ariz.) 1941, 119 F.2d 127.

In prosecution for conspiracy to commit an offense against the United States where conspirators organized and controlled a corporation used in furtherance of conspiracy, a summary of corporation's assets and liabilities as of a certain date, and which summary was made by the government's witness, a qualified accountant, was admissible against defendant, where summary was properly identified and was based on other records which were properly in evidence against defendant. Cornes v. U. S., C.C.A.9 (Ariz.) 1941, 119 F.2d 127.

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate revenue laws relating to untax-paid distilled spirits, journal kept by witness as accountant for some of alleged conspirators, of which entries were copied under supervision of witness from information contained on slips given defendant by alleged coconspirators, was inadmissible until conspiracy involving defendant as coconspirator had been in fact proved. Minker v. U S, C.C.A.3 (Pa.) 1936, 85 F.2d 425.

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate revenue laws relating to nontax-paid distilled spirits, testimony as to entries contained in journal kept by witness as accountant for some of alleged conspirators, copied from information contained on slips given defendant by alleged coconspirators purporting to represent sales and purchases of nontax-paid distilled spirits by conspirators during period not covered by charges in indictment, were inadmissible. Minker v. U S, C.C.A.3 (Pa.) 1936, 85 F.2d 425.

In prosecution for conspiracy in using mails to defraud, books of corporations which were completely dominated and controlled by defendants were admissible, notwithstanding that persons who made entries were not shown to have had knowledge of facts to which they related. Wilkes v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1935, 80 F.2d 285.

In prosecution for conspiracy and using mails to defraud, admission of summaries of book entries and records of partnership which was composed of two of several defendants against all defendants to show connection of each with fraudulent scheme was prejudicial error as to defendants not members of partnership. Wilkes v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1935, 80 F.2d 285.

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

There being evidence that defendant in liquor conspiracy prosecution admitted receiving bribe to let bootlegger "down easy," copy of docket entries and register of actions was admissible. Metzler v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1933, 64 F.2d 203.

Government agents' testimony as to contents of books and records voluntarily left with them for auditing, was not inadmissible, as obtained in unconstitutional manner. Lisansky v. U.S., C.C.A.4 (Md.) 1929, 31 F.2d 846, certiorari denied 49 S.Ct. 514, 279 U.S. 873, 73 L.Ed. 1008.

Evidence found in account book taken from defendant was properly admitted. Cholacoff v. U. S., C.C.A.6 (Ohio) 1926, 10 F.2d 505.

In prosecution under former § 88 of this title [now this section] for conspiracy to violate the National Prohibition Act, former § 1 et seq. of Title 27, and the Tariff Act of 1922 (incorporated in chapter 3 of Title 19), by unlawfully importing liquor, where prima facie showing of conspiracy was made, there was no error in receiving in evidence logs of British vessel seized. Ford v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1926, 10 F.2d 339, certiorari granted 46 S.Ct. 475, 271 U.S. 652, 70 L.Ed. 1133, affirmed 47 S.Ct. 531, 273 U.S. 593, 71 L.Ed. 793.

Admission in evidence of account ledger kept by defendants charged with conspiracy to violate National Prohibition Act, former § 1 et seq. of Title 27, which showed purchases and sales of liquors and payments of money to police officer, was not violation of U.S.C.A.Const. Amend. 5, as compelling defendants to be witnesses against themselves, particularly in view of § 22 of Title 27, requiring record of manufacture, purchase, or sale of liquor, as one who records his affairs in a book subject to inspection under statute cannot complain of consequent invasion of his privacy. Marron v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1925, 8 F.2d 251.

False receipts, purporting to evidence a sale by one defendant charged with conspiracy to another of toilet articles containing alcohol, produced at a meeting of the conspirators and there given to the supposed buyer, was admissible against all on a trial for the conspiracy. Bockol v. U.S., C.C.A.3 (Del.) 1925, 6 F.2d 795.

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate National Prohibition Act, former § 1 et seq. of Title 27, by many defendants, including lawyers, who apparently had a monopoly of business affecting such matters at place involved, record of city court, judge of which was also defendant, showing manner of handling prosecutions, was admissible. Allen v. U.S., C.C.A.7 (Ind.) 1924, 4 F.2d 688, certiorari denied 45 S.Ct. 352, 267 U.S. 597, 69 L.Ed. 806, certiorari denied 45 S.Ct. 353, 267 U.S. 598, 69 L.Ed. 806, certiorari denied 45 S.Ct. 509, 268 U.S. 689, 69 L.Ed. 1158.

In a prosecution for conspiracy to obstruct the draft, minutes of meetings of an executive committee kept by one of defendants, a committee member, showing passage of resolutions pursuant to which the other defendant caused circulars to be printed and mailed to persons drafted, were admissible against both defendants. U S v. Schenck, E.D.Pa.1918, 253 F. 212, affirmed 39 S.Ct. 247, 249 U.S. 47, 63 L.Ed. 470, 17 Ohio Law Rep. 149.

In prosecution for violation of and conspiracy to violate former § 338 of this title as to illegal use of mails, rule against varying written contracts by parol was inapplicable to contract with victims; account book of collection agency through which defendants operated was sufficiently identified; evidence that bankrupt debtors of victims had been discharged was competent on the intent of defendants and admitting account book showing receipt of $130,000 realization charge was without prejudice. Preeman v. U.S., C.C.A.7 (Ill.) 1917, 244 F. 1, 156 C.C.A. 429, certiorari denied 38 S.Ct. 12, 245 U.S. 654, 62 L.Ed. 533.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In a prosecution against two for conspiracy to defraud the United States out of public lands, the books of one of the defendants, showing advances to entrymen, were inadmissible against his codefendant. Worden v. U. S., C.C.A.6 (Mich.) 1913, 204 F. 1, 122 C.C.A. 315.

Books of a corporation were inadmissible against an officer and superintendent of a corporation to establish a conspiracy to defraud the United States of public lands entered under the Timber & Stone Act, § 311 et seq. of Title 43, where it appeared that defendants had no knowledge of the entries nor any connection with the keeping of the books. Worden v. U. S., C.C.A.6 (Mich.) 1913, 204 F. 1, 122 C.C.A. 315.

In a trial for conspiring to use the mails in carrying out a scheme to defraud, the cashbook, checks, and entries of cash in defendant's deposit book in a trust company, made during the continuance of the scheme, were properly admitted to show the conspiracy. US v. Marrin, E.D.Pa.1908, 159 F. 767, affirmed 167 F. 951, 93 C.C.A. 351, certiorari denied 32 S.Ct. 523, 223 U.S. 719, 56 L.Ed. 629.

On the trial of defendants charged with having conspired with a person named and with others to the grand jurors unknown to induce a partnership to accept rebates from railroad companies on shipments in violation of the Interstate Commerce Act, § 1 et seq. of Title 49, where there was evidence tending to establish the conspiracy, and that the arrangement for the illegal rebates was made between defendants and one member of such partnership, entries in a private memorandum book kept by such partner, showing sums received as "freight commissions" and distributed between the partners individually, which transactions did not appear on the books of the firm, were admissible in evidence. Thomas v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Mo.) 1907, 156 F. 897, 84 C.C.A. 477.

In prosecution against bank president and holder of corporate accounts in bank for conspiracy to misapply bank funds and to make false entries, exhibits consisting of checks drawn on Canadian bank and left with the president to be used to cover the codefendant's account overdrafts in event that bank examiners visited the bank, photocopies of those checks shown to the president by an FBI agent for his identification, and deposit slips in amounts of the checks admittedly used by the president to deposit the checks were properly admitted, where evidence disclosed the relevancy of such exhibits. U. S. v. Mayr, S.D.Fla.1972, 350 F.Supp. 1291, affirmed 487 F.2d 67, certiorari denied 94 S.Ct. 2615, 417 U.S. 914, 41 L.Ed.2d 218.

In prosecution of defendants, who organized and operated five trade schools, for conspiring to defraud Government of money by fraudulently inflating cost basis of tuition rate and by increasing cost to be charged Veterans' Administration, defendants' books of account could be used as admissions against interest, and when so using them Government was not obliged to prove they were correct, in absence of challenge by way of credible evidence. U. S. v. Weinberg, M.D.Pa.1955, 129 F.Supp. 514, affirmed 226 F.2d 161, certiorari denied 76 S.Ct. 305, 350 U.S. 933, 100 L.Ed. 815.

In conspiracy prosecution, a book of account which was found in home of one conspirator and identified by others who were witnesses, which books was admitted after proper foundation was laid under former § 695 of Title 28, was not required to be limited as to its probative effect. U.S. v. Dewinsky, D.C.N.J.1941, 41 F.Supp. 149.

In prosecution for using mails in scheme to defraud in sale of securities, for using mails to sell and to deliver after sale certain unregistered securities and conspiring to violate the mail fraud statute, former § 215 of this title and the Securities Act, § 77a et seq. of Title 15, where employee of the company whose stock was involved identified certain entries in books as having been made by her, some having been made by other employees under her supervision and in some instances identified the handwriting of certain employees, and positively identified the books, records and documents as being those of the company, the books and records were properly admitted in evidence. U. S. v. Sussman, E.D.Pa.1941, 37 F.Supp. 294.

In prosecution for using mails to sell and to deliver after sale certain unregistered securities and for conspiring to violate the provisions of § 77 et seq. of Title 15, authenticated certificates to effect that search of records of office of Securities and Exchange Commission where the securities sold should have been registered failed to disclose that any registration certificate had been filed were admissible. U. S. v. Sussman, E.D.Pa.1941, 37 F.Supp. 294.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

601. Character and reputation, admissibility of evidence

Evidence of personal relationship between petitioner's former wife and investigator for Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms (BATF) would not have raised reasonable doubt as to guilt and was not material under Brady in prosecution for manufacture and possession of unregistered firearm and conspiracy, even though sensational nature of evidence could have affected verdict; investigator testified that firebomb used to destroy trailer of former wife's mother constituted firearm under federal law; and former wife's testimony was not necessary to convict. U.S. v. Buchanan, C.A.10 (Okla.) 1989, 891 F.2d 1436, certiorari denied 110 S.Ct. 1829, 494 U.S. 1088, 108 L.Ed.2d 958.

If guns found in searches of defendants and their motel rooms were offered as evidence to prove that defendants were sort of persons who carried guns, and therefore were more likely than most to have committed armed robbery, introduction of such evidence might run afoul of rule that prosecution may not introduce evidence of criminal character or generally of commission of crime on one occasion to prove commission of crime on another. U. S. v. Ravich, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1970, 421 F.2d 1196, certiorari denied 91 S.Ct. 69, 400 U.S. 834, 27 L.Ed.2d 66.

Rifles and ammunition taken from defendant charged with conspiracy and smuggling in relation to plot to blow up Statute of Liberty were properly received both to contradict evidence of character and to impeach defendant's veracity as a witness were defendant had testified previously that he was associated with nonaction groups participating in civil rights movement and that he vigorously opposed any violent action. U. S. v. Bowe, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1966, 360 F.2d 1, certiorari denied 87 S.Ct. 401, 385 U.S. 961, 17 L.Ed.2d 306, certiorari denied 87 S.Ct. 779, 385 U.S. 1042, 17 L.Ed.2d 686, rehearing denied 87 S.Ct. 1040, 386 U.S. 969, 18 L.Ed.2d 127.

In prosecution for conspiracy to defraud the United States by setting up an unregistered still for manufacture of alcohol to be possessed and sold without payment of stamp taxes, evidence of a defendant's reputation as to moral character was admissible. U.S. v. Latin, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1943, 139 F.2d 569.

602. Confessions, admissibility of evidence

The confession or admission of a conspirator after he has been apprehended is not in furtherance of the object of the conspiracy so as to be admissible against coconspirators. Fiswick v. U.S., U.S.N.J.1946, 67 S.Ct. 224, 329 U.S. 211, 91 L.Ed. 196.

Any error in admitting codefendant's confession with incriminating references to defendant deleted and replaced by phrase "the other person" was harmless where other evidence against defendant was overwhelming and events recited in codefendant's statement related to only one of the 19 overt acts in conspiracy count naming defendant. U. S. v. Bobo, C.A.5 (Ala.) 1978, 586 F.2d 355, certiorari denied 99 S.Ct. 1546, 440 U.S. 976, 59 L.Ed.2d 795, rehearing denied 99 S.Ct. 2188, 441 U.S. 957, 60 L.Ed.2d 1062.

Postarrest confessions and admissions of a conspirator are not admissible against fellow conspirator since they are not in furtherance of the conspiracy. U. S. v. Register, C.A.5 (Ga.) 1974, 496 F.2d 1072, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 802, 419 U.S. 1120, 42 L.Ed.2d 819.

Admission of nonincriminating statements made by defendant after his arrest on conspiracy charge and at a time when he was not represented by counsel was not reversible error where defendant was warned of his constitutional rights including right to remain silent and right to counsel, defendant never asked for or was denied assistance of counsel, statements were offered solely to corroborate testimony by prosecution witnesses that they had met with defendant and counsel for defendant read extensively from statement during trial and finally offered it in evidence.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

U. S. v. Thompson, C.A.6 (Tenn.) 1966, 366 F.2d 167, certiorari denied 87 S.Ct. 512, 385 U.S. 973, 17 L.Ed.2d 436.

Admission after he had pleaded guilty to conspiracy to transport worthless securities in interstate commerce of extrajudicial confession by codefendant which implicated defendant in the conspiracy was reversible error. U. S. v. Boyce, C.A.4 (N.C.) 1964, 340 F.2d 418.

In prosecution for bank robbery and conspiracy to commit bank robbery, codefendant's written confession incriminating defendant did not prejudice defendant where trial court emphasized at time of admission and in final instructions to jury that confession was to be considered only as evidence of guilt of person making the confession. Maupin v. U. S., C.A.10 (Colo.) 1955, 225 F.2d 680. Criminal Law ¶ 673(4)

Statements made by a coconspirator, not in the course of the carrying out of the conspiracy, but by way of confession after arrest, are not admissible against conspirator. Rimmer v. U.S., C.A.5 (Tex.) 1949, 172 F.2d 954.

In prosecution for conspiracy to defraud the United States by depriving it of the services of an OPA investigator, admission of confession by investigator with the caution several times repeated that it must be considered only against the investigator was not erroneous as to the other defendants. U.S. v. Gottfried, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1948, 165 F.2d 360, certiorari denied 68 S.Ct. 738, 333 U.S. 860, 92 L.Ed. 1139, rehearing denied 68 S.Ct. 910, 333 U.S. 883, 92 L.Ed. 1157.

In prosecution for conspiracy, confession by defendant who pleaded guilty was not admissible as aiding in determination of such defendant's guilt on theory that such defendant might withdraw plea of guilty if conspiracy were not proved, since jury were not charged with duty of determining such defendant's guilt. Gambino v. U. S., C.C.A.3 (Pa.) 1939, 108 F.2d 140.

Oral testimony of confessions was not error, where supplemented by written statement. Litkofsky v. U.S., C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1925, 9 F.2d 877.

Admission under proper instructions, of confessions alleged to have been obtained by duress, was not error. Litkofsky v. U.S., C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1925, 9 F.2d 877.

It is not error to admit in evidence a confession of one conspirator on the joint trial of himself and others, where the jury is instructed that it may be considered only as against him. Hagen v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Wash.) 1920, 268 F. 344, certiorari denied 41 S.Ct. 323, 255 U.S. 569, 65 L.Ed. 790.

603. Corroboration, admissibility of evidence

Rule regarding corroboration of defendant's statements is that the corroborative evidence need not be sufficient, independent of statements, to establish the corpus delicti but must tend to establish the trustworthiness of the statement and provide substantial independent evidence that the conspiracy had been committed. U. S. v. Todd, C.A.8 (Mo.) 1981, 657 F.2d 212, certiorari denied 102 S.Ct. 1288, 455 U.S. 926, 71 L.Ed.2d 469.

Testimony by coconspirators concerning numerous flimflams and other criminal activities over a long period of time was admissible to support argument by defendant that, while his codefendants had engaged in flimflams, he had never before been involved. U. S. v. Cochran, C.A.5 (Fla.) 1974, 499 F.2d 380, rehearing denied 502 F.2d 1168, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 810, 419 U.S. 1124, 42 L.Ed.2d 825.

In prosecution in connection with counterfeiting of United States obligations, testimony concerning defendants' possession of blank counterfeit state drivers' licenses was properly admitted as corroborative evidence of the overall conspiracy, subject to instruction that defendants were not charged with counterfeiting said licenses. U. S. v. Wilson, C.A.8 (Mo.) 1974, 497 F.2d 602, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 655, 419 U.S. 1069, 42 L.Ed.2d 664.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In making determination that corroborative evidence was of sufficient quality and quantity to permit jury to consider testimony of alleged coconspirator as evidence of a conspiracy, trial court, as stated to jury, was only deciding a question of fact on which competency of evidence depended and, as such, was properly performing one of its functions. U. S. v. Pisciotta, C.A.10 (Colo.) 1972, 469 F.2d 329.

Informer's testimony relating to extrajudicial admissions by word or act of a defendant was properly admitted against that defendant on ground that such admissions were not hearsay but were admissible absent other reasons for exclusion, and, as evidence independent of hearsay statement of a coconspirator, such admissions constituted corroborative evidence sufficient to justify admission of coconspirator's hearsay declarations. U. S. v. Cerone, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1971, 452 F.2d 274, certiorari denied 92 S.Ct. 1168, 405 U.S. 964, 31 L.Ed.2d 240, certiorari denied 92 S.Ct. 1169, 405 U.S. 964, 31 L.Ed.2d 240.

In conspiracy prosecution, admission of testimony of defendant's mistress was not error on ground that such testimony disparaged defendant's character at a time when his character was not in issue, where probative value of such testimony in corroboration of a codefendant far outweighed the possible prejudice to defendant. U. S. v. Del Purgatorio, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1969, 411 F.2d 84.

Where, in prosecution for conspiracy and for endeavoring to influence a witness, before telephone record cards were offered in evidence, witness testified that she had made or received calls to or from defendant at days and time shown on the cards, it was permissible to show in corroboration that calls were in fact made between the relevant numbers on those days at those times, and there was no requirement, as in perjury prosecution of same defendants where such cards were ruled to be inadmissible, that the corroboration be convincing. Laughlin v. U. S., C.A.D.C.1967, 385 F.2d 287, 128 U.S.App.D.C. 27, certiorari denied 88 S.Ct. 1245, 390 U.S. 1003, 20 L.Ed.2d 103.

Admission of corroborative evidence rests in sound discretion of trial court. U. S. v. Bentvena, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1963, 319 F.2d 916, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 345, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 271, rehearing denied 90 S.Ct. 894, 397 U.S. 928, 25 L.Ed.2d 108, rehearing denied 84 S.Ct. 515, 375 U.S. 989, 11 L.Ed.2d 476, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 346, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 271, rehearing denied 84 S.Ct. 1162, 377 U.S. 913, 12 L.Ed.2d 183, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 353, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 272, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 354, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 272, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 355, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 272, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 360, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 272.

Evidence corroborative of that of an accomplice must be considered without aid of testimony to be corroborated, and must connect or tend to connect accused with commission of crime with which he is charged; and such testimony is not sufficient if it requires interpretation and direction of testimony to be corroborated. Ing v. United States, C.A.9 (Alaska) 1960, 278 F.2d 362.

In prosecution for conspiracy to defraud United States in sale of eggs, testimony that after some eggs had passed inspection and cases containing them had been stamped accordingly, employee was instructed to remove the eggs and substitute inferior eggs which she did is properly admitted to prove specific allegations regarding such practice and to corroborate other witnesses and to prove fraud. Nye & Nissen v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1948, 168 F.2d 846, certiorari granted 69 S.Ct. 81, 335 U.S. 852, 93 L.Ed. 400, affirmed 69 S.Ct. 766, 336 U.S. 613, 93 L.Ed. 919.

Where a defendant confesses, corroborating facts may be found from facts material to proof of offense discovered as result of confessions, or they may be such as tend to prove the corpus delicti. Anderson v. U.S., C.C.A.6 (Tenn.) 1941, 124 F.2d 58, certiorari granted 62 S.Ct. 941, 316 U.S. 651, 86 L.Ed. 1732, reversed on other grounds 63 S.Ct. 599, 318 U.S. 350, 87 L.Ed. 829.

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In prosecution for conspiracy to import, sell and possess narcotics, where government agent who was posing as buyer of narcotics testified that while agent was bargaining with a New York distributor in New York the distributor said that drug was in defendant's possession and then called up defendant, who was also in New York, and talked to him in Italian, record of dictagraph machine which had been interposed in a circuit leading from the telephone was admissible to corroborate the agent's testimony. U S v. Bruno, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1939, 105 F.2d 921, certiorari granted 60 S.Ct. 112, 308 U.S. 536, 84 L.Ed. 451, reversed on other grounds 60 S.Ct. 198, 308 U.S. 287, 84 L.Ed. 257.

In prosecution for conspiracy to harbor fugitive from justice, disallowing corroboration of accused's testimony of his efforts to cause surrender of another fugitive from justice was not error. Piquett v. U.S., C.C.A.7 (Ill.) 1936, 81 F.2d 75, certiorari denied 56 S.Ct. 749, 298 U.S. 664, 80 L.Ed. 1388.

Evidence that witness' brother gave him money, which he paid defendant as bribe, was not hearsay, and its admission to corroborate evidence regarding bribe was not abuse of discretion. Harvey v. U.S., C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1928, 23 F.2d 561.

604. Credibility, admissibility of evidence

District court did not abuse its discretion in admitting witness' testimony that defendant told her he was from organized crime family in trial on making of forged checks charges, despite statement's prejudicial effect, where witness' credibility had been attacked; statement enhanced witness' credibility by providing convincing explanation of why witness followed defendant's instructions to steal blank checks from employer and followed his wishes by becoming prostitute, and witness' belief in defendant's organized crime connection made it less likely that she would concoct story against him subjecting herself to whatever revenge organized crime family might take against her. U.S. v. Delia, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1991, 944 F.2d 1010.

Admissibility of tape recording of conversation between buyer of stolen postage stamps and burglar was not abuse of discretion, notwithstanding statement that categorical denial of defendant was sufficient for limited admission of tape, where one count of indictment charged conspiracy to receive and dispose of postage stamps and tape was admitted only to attack credibility of defendant, who denied having conversation with burglar. U. S. v. Skillman, C.A.8 (Mo.) 1971, 442 F.2d 542, certiorari denied 92 S.Ct. 82, 404 U.S. 833, 30 L.Ed.2d 63.

In prosecution for violation of section 1343 of this title, inducing interstate travel in execution of a fraud, and interstate transportation of proceeds of a fraud, and conspiracy, trial court did abuse discretion in failing to make anticipatory ruling that defendants could not be impeached by prior convictions if they testified. U. S. v. Crisona, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1969, 416 F.2d 107, certiorari denied 90 S.Ct. 991, 397 U.S. 961, 25 L.Ed.2d 253, certiorari denied 90 S.Ct. 993, 397 U.S. 961, 25 L.Ed.2d 253.

Testimony of defendant and his uncle concerning alleged offer of co-conspirator's wife and co-conspirator to testify favorably for defendant for $10,000 was not admissible as an explanation or a "legitimate repair measure" with respect to the hostile and "inaccurate" testimony of the wife who had testified as a witness for defendant. U. S. v. Walsh, C.A.6 (Ohio) 1962, 305 F.2d 821, certiorari denied 83 S.Ct. 146, 371 U.S. 876, 9 L.Ed.2d 114. Criminal Law ¶ 338(6)

605. Destruction of evidence, admissibility of evidence

In prosecution of attorney for conspiracy to defraud United States and to obstruct lawful functions of Internal Revenue Service in assessment and collection of revenue, evidence that attorney attempted to conceal evidence during trial by having associate take from attorney's offices records desired by prosecution was admissible where attorney was connected with removal of those records. U. S. v. Mastropieri, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1982, 685 F.2d 776, certiorari denied 103 S.Ct. 260, 459 U.S. 945, 74 L.Ed.2d 203.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Evidence was properly admitted in conspiracy prosecution to show that after termination of conspiracy some of conspirators destroyed evidence showing conspiracy. Harney v. U. S., C.A.1 (Mass.) 1962, 306 F.2d 523, certiorari denied 83 S.Ct. 254, 371 U.S. 911, 9 L.Ed.2d 171.

In prosecution for conspiracy to defraud the United States and of attempting to deliver defence information to a citizen of a foreign nation, that original records of New York tapings of the telephone of defendant were destroyed by an agent at direction of his superior in Washington did not authorize the inference, in accordance with the canon "contra spoliatores", that the records so destroyed, contained "leads" to some of the evidence introduced, in view of the circumstances. United States v. Coplon, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1950, 185 F.2d 629, certiorari denied 72 S.Ct. 362, 342 U.S. 920, 96 L.Ed. 688.

In conspiracy prosecution for violation of former § 338 of this title, evidence of the attempted destruction by defendant of certain papers which he had removed from a Montreal bank vault was inadmissible in absence of a proper foundation identifying papers. U.S. v. Groves, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1941, 122 F.2d 87, certiorari denied 62 S.Ct. 135, 314 U.S. 670, 86 L.Ed. 536.

606. Dying declarations, admissibility of evidence

In prosecution for using mails in furtherance of scheme to defraud and for conspiracy to use mails in furtherance of scheme to defraud by representing an imposter to be heir to valuable mineral rights and inducing others to enter into contracts regarding mineral rights, imposter's purported dying declaration giving complete narrative of what occurred between the imposter and his alleged coconspirators from the beginning was inadmissible, since the statement tended to defeat rather than further the conspiracy. Holt v. U.S., C.C.A.10 (Okla.) 1937, 94 F.2d 90.

607. Evidence illegally obtained, admissibility of evidence

Where federal agents installed listening apparatus in office wherein members of conspiracy subsequently engaged in conversations, but, when such apparatus failed to work, placed detectaphone against partition wall of office, evidence obtained by use of detectaphone was not inadmissible because of agents' trespass when they installed listening apparatus in office. Goldman v. U.S., U.S.N.Y.1942, 62 S.Ct. 993, 316 U.S. 129, 86 L.Ed. 1322.

Fact that evidence in liquor conspiracy prosecution was obtained by wire tapping, in violation of state law, did not affect its admissibility. Olmstead v. U.S., U.S.Wash.1928, 48 S.Ct. 564, 277 U.S. 438, 72 L.Ed. 944.

Ample competent evidence existed before grand jury to justify bringing defendants to trial on charges of conspiracy and endeavoring to influence a witness, and it could not be said as a matter of law that recordings, which had been ruled to have been illegally obtained in prior perjury trial, might have had such force in establishing the charges that the admission of such recordings tainted the entire proceedings. Laughlin v. U. S., C.A.D.C.1967, 385 F.2d 287, 128 U.S.App.D.C. 27, certiorari denied 88 S.Ct. 1245, 390 U.S. 1003, 20 L.Ed.2d 103.

In prosecution of defendant for conspiring to smuggle amphetamine tablets into the United States, admission into evidence of amphetamine tablets found in defendant's automobile in Mexico was proper notwithstanding that Mexican police, who were not acting at instigation of United States customs and narcotics officials, had not procured a warrant for defendant's arrest or for search of his automobile. Brulay v. U. S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1967, 383 F.2d 345, certiorari denied 88 S.Ct. 469, 389 U.S. 986, 19 L.Ed.2d 478.

That federal agent electronically eavesdropped on conversation did not violate Illinois eavesdropping statute, S.H.A.Ill. ch. 38, § 14-5, where one party to conversation had consented, and record of evidence was admissible in narcotics conspiracy prosecution. U. S. v. Pullings, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1963, 321 F.2d 287.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Record would not sustain contention that wire tap made in violation of § 605 of Title 47 furnished basis for testimony of prosecution witness and for indictment where wire tap in question had occurred some nine months after a principal prosecution witness began to cooperate with government and six months after he had introduced federal agent to conspiracy. U. S. v. Bentvena, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1963, 319 F.2d 916, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 345, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 271, rehearing denied 90 S.Ct. 894, 397 U.S. 928, 25 L.Ed.2d 108, rehearing denied 84 S.Ct. 515, 375 U.S. 989, 11 L.Ed.2d 476, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 346, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 271, rehearing denied 84 S.Ct. 1162, 377 U.S. 913, 12 L.Ed.2d 183, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 353, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 272, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 354, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 272, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 355, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 272, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 360, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 272.

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate the internal revenue laws relating to liquor, admitting evidence allegedly obtained by an illegal search was not improper where jury was instructed not to consider such evidence. Butler v. U. S., C.A.4 (Va.) 1957, 243 F.2d 567. Criminal Law  673(1)

In prosecution for conspiracy and bank robbery, money and other articles seized in the defendant's hotel room at the time of arrest were not inadmissible for lack of a search warrant where the seizure was incidental to a lawful arrest. United States v. Nirenberg, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1957, 242 F.2d 632, certiorari denied 77 S.Ct. 1405, 354 U.S. 941, 1 L.Ed.2d 1539.

In prosecution for conspiracy to bribe police officer and also for bribery itself, to influence officer in enforcement of gambling laws, contention that recordings of conversations between police officer, who was subject of the conspiracy and bribery, and defendants were illegally intercepted and used in preparation of Government's trial was without merit where police officer himself made the recordings and transmitted the same information legally to other police officers to be utilized in preparation for trial of defendants. Monroe v. U.S., C.A.D.C.1956, 234 F.2d 49, 98 U.S.App.D.C. 228, certiorari denied 77 S.Ct. 94, 352 U.S. 872, 1 L.Ed.2d 76, certiorari denied 77 S.Ct. 94, 352 U.S. 873, 1 L.Ed.2d 76, rehearing denied 77 S.Ct. 219, 352 U.S. 937, 1 L.Ed.2d 170, rehearing denied 78 S.Ct. 114, 355 U.S. 875, 2 L.Ed.2d 79.

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate revenue laws, a receipt, showing that accused had paid for repairs on pump used in connection with still, was not inadmissible because improperly obtained by city police officers in raid in which federal officers in no way participated. Bryant v. U.S., C.C.A.5 (Fla.) 1941, 120 F.2d 483.

In prosecution for conspiracy to commit offenses against the United States, evidence procured by federal officers' intercepting intrastate telephone communications was inadmissible. U. S. v. Klee, C.C.A.3 (Pa.) 1938, 101 F.2d 191.

Evidence of intrastate communications procured by federal agents by tapping telephone wires is inadmissible in a federal District Court and therefore in prosecution for conspiracy to commit offenses against the United States admission of evidence procured by government agents' intercepting and divulging intrastate telephone communications between the parties to the conspiracy constituted reversible error. Sablowsky v. U. S., C.C.A.3 (Pa.) 1938, 101 F.2d 183.

Introduction of evidence obtained by tapping telephone wires were not in violation of defendants' constitutional rights. Olmstead v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Wash.) 1927, 19 F.2d 842, certiorari denied 48 S.Ct. 117, 275 U.S. 557, 72 L.Ed. 424, 72 L.Ed. 729, rehearing granted 48 S.Ct. 207, 276 U.S. 609, 72 L.Ed. 729, affirmed 48 S.Ct. 564, 277 U.S. 438, 72 L.Ed. 944.

Testimony of prohibition official as to conversations heard by tapping telephone were not incompetent, because not covering all conversations heard. Olmstead v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Wash.) 1927, 19 F.2d 842, certiorari denied 48 S.Ct. 117, 275 U.S. 557, 72 L.Ed. 424, 72 L.Ed. 729, rehearing granted 48 S.Ct. 207, 276 U.S. 609, 72 L.Ed. 729, affirmed 48 S.Ct. 564, 277 U.S. 438, 72 L.Ed. 944.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Prohibition agent was properly permitted to use memoranda copied from originals in testifying to conversations heard by tapping telephone. Olmstead v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Wash.) 1927, 19 F.2d 842, certiorari denied 48 S.Ct. 117, 275 U.S. 557, 72 L.Ed. 424, 72 L.Ed. 729, rehearing granted 48 S.Ct. 207, 276 U.S. 609, 72 L.Ed. 729, affirmed 48 S.Ct. 564, 277 U.S. 438, 72 L.Ed. 944.

U.S.C.A.Const. Amend. 4 is no limitation on authority of state officers, and testimony with reference to raids by state officers in which federal officers had no part is admissible in prosecution for conspiracy to violate National Prohibition Act, former § 1 et seq. of Title 27. Marron v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1925, 8 F.2d 251.

If the premises of one defendant or conspirator have been unreasonably searched without a proper search warrant or pursuant to a defective one, and property seized, he alone will be heard to complain thereof, and the evidence, if any, so obtained is admissible against all other defendants. U.S. v. Wexler, D.C.N.Y.1925, 4 F.2d 391.

Under U.S.C.A.Const. Amend. 4, declaring against unreasonable searches and seizures, and Amend. 5, declaring that no person shall be compelled to be a witness against himself, it was an arbitrary and unlawful violation of defendant's constitutional rights for officers of the secret service to demand from his wife ledgers and delivery slips for use as evidence in a prosecution for conspiring to defraud the United States, and, where the wife delivered the same on demand, such documents were inadmissible in evidence. Fitter v. U.S., C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1919, 258 F. 567, 169 C.C.A. 507.

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate narcotic laws, admission of phonographic record of conversation between an informer and defendant procured by attachment of device to telephone wire inside house of narcotic agent's associate from which call was made at agent's direction was not erroneous on ground that § 605 of Title 47, prohibiting interception of communications had been violated. U. S. v. Yee Ping Jong, W.D.Pa.1939, 26 F.Supp. 69.

608. Exhibits, admissibility of evidence

Where relevance of checks tending to refute defendants' contention that purpose of SBA guaranteed loan was to make company an operating business did not become significant until the Friday preceding the Monday when the trial commenced, checks were admissible even though copies of the checks were not furnished to the defense within five days as ordered in the pretrial order and were given to the defense when the trial on charge of conspiracy to defraud the United States opened. U. S. v. Smith, C.A.10 (Okla.) 1974, 496 F.2d 185, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 225, 419 U.S. 964, 42 L.Ed.2d 179, rehearing denied 95 S.Ct. 646, 419 U.S. 1060, 42 L.Ed.2d 658.

In prosecution for mail fraud and conspiracy, admission of certain government charts and summaries was not error on ground that they were misleading and speculative, where charts and summaries were based upon substantial evidence introduced by the government through its own witnesses or in cross-examination of defendants' witnesses, all of whom were subject to cross-examination or reexamination by defendants' counsel. Koolish v. U. S., C.A.8 (Minn.) 1965, 340 F.2d 513, certiorari denied 85 S.Ct. 1805, 381 U.S. 951, 14 L.Ed.2d 724.

Blackboard diagram of farm area, which contained, inter alia, unregistered still, drawn and used by alcohol and tobacco tax agent for purpose of illustrating his testimony, in prosecution for violating revenue laws in regard to alcohol, was admissible, although it was not drawn to scale, where various distances marked thereon were measurements made by witness while he was present at locality represented in diagram. U. S. v. D'Antonio, C.A.3 (N.J.) 1963, 324 F.2d 667, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 662, 376 U.S. 909, 11 L.Ed.2d 607.

Admission of exhibits showing delivery of heroin to other conspirators before defendant joined conspiracy was proper under rule that when one joins conspiracy, evidence of previous conspiratorial acts are admissible as evidence against him, in prosecution for conspiracy to violate narcotic laws. United States v. Williams, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1956, 239 F.2d 517.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In prosecution of two corporate defendants and five individual defendants on charges of conspiracy to defraud United States by delivery under contracts with Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation of rejected egg powder and conspiracy to defraud United States by obtaining payment of certain false claims, exhibit consisting of accountant's summary compiled from exhibits previously admitted, which gave the total barrels, total weight and total contract price of rejected lots of egg powder, was relevant and properly admitted over defendant's objection that the total contract price would unduly prejudice jury and was unnecessary. U.S. v. Samuel Dunkel & Co., C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1950, 184 F.2d 894, certiorari denied 71 S.Ct. 491, 340 U.S. 930, 95 L.Ed. 671.

In prosecution for using mails to defraud and for conspiracy, admission in evidence of certain charts prepared by post office inspector was not erroneous since the charts were prepared on basis of proper interpretation by inspector of two identical clauses of two trust agreements. U.S. v. Bramson, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1943, 139 F.2d 598, certiorari denied 64 S.Ct. 636, 321 U.S. 783, 88 L.Ed. 1075.

Admission, in prosecution for conspiracy to defraud national bank, of exhibit showing number of embezzlements by defendant and others, was not erroneous under circumstances. Fox v. U. S., C.C.A.7 (Wis.) 1930, 45 F.2d 364.

609. Expert testimony, admissibility of evidence

Expert's proposed testimony, in prosecution, based on rebate program, for mail and wire fraud and conspiracy to commit mail and wire fraud, was both unreliable and irrelevant, such that exclusion of testimony was not abuse of discretion; expert had no adequate basis for comparing rebate program to other programs, inasmuch as he had never encountered a program like that run by defendant and his personal knowledge related only to other programs, and expert would have added nothing that a juror could not understand on basis of common sense. U.S. v. Fredette, C.A.10 (Wyo.) 2003, 315 F.3d 1235, dismissal of habeas corpus affirmed 65 Fed.Appx. 929, 2003 WL 1795858, certiorari denied 123 S.Ct. 2100, 538 U.S. 1045, 155 L.Ed.2d 1084. Criminal Law ¶ 478(1)

Internal Revenue Service (IRS) agent's testimony that there was minimum of 20 "false" tax returns in connection with defendant's involvement in real estate transaction and that falsified IRS filings "obstruct[ed] and defeat[ed]" entire process was admissible expert testimony in prosecution for bank fraud and conspiracy to impair and impede local functioning of IRS and Federal Home Loan Bank Board, even though testimony embraced ultimate issue; and agent did not couch opinions in terms deriving definitions from judicial interpretations, based testimony on personal knowledge, and merely posited factual conclusions. U.S. v. Duncan, C.A.2 (Conn.) 1994, 42 F.3d 97. Criminal Law ¶ 470(3)

In prosecution for conspiracy to cause false entries to be made in building and loan association's books and records, concealing material facts from government agencies and devising a scheme to defraud, testimony of accounting expert was properly excluded when it became evidence that he would do no more than make basic arithmetical computations with figures supplied to him by counsel, since it is a proper exercise of discretion for court to exclude expert testimony concerning matters clearly within realm of jurors' comprehension. U. S. v. Grizaffi, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1972, 471 F.2d 69, certiorari denied 93 S.Ct. 2141, 411 U.S. 964, 36 L.Ed.2d 684, certiorari denied 93 S.Ct. 2142, 411 U.S. 964, 36 L.Ed.2d 684.

Where defense counsel revealed that defendant would raise mental incapacity as defense to offenses charged, permitting government psychiatrist, who did not testify as to any statement of defendant relating to his guilt or innocence, to testify on basis of psychiatric examination, which defendant had been ordered to submit to, did not violate defendant's right against self incrimination. U. S. v. Weiser, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1969, 428 F.2d 932, certiorari denied 91 S.Ct. 1606, 402 U.S. 949, 29 L.Ed.2d 119.

In prosecution for stealing, uttering and publishing United States Treasury checks and for conspiracy, expert testimony relating to handwriting exemplars obtained from one of the defendants was clearly relevant, and, where handwriting exemplars were themselves admissible, expert testimony concerning such evidence was similarly admissible. U. S. v. King, C.A.6 (Tenn.) 1969, 415 F.2d 737, certiorari denied 90 S.Ct. 465, 396 U.S. 974, 24 L.Ed.2d 443.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Where government's case against indigent for conspiracy to pass, utter and publish forged and altered United States postal money orders depended almost entirely upon testimony of two handwriting and fingerprinting experts, denial of defense motions for appointment of such experts for indigent was error requiring reversal. Bradford v. U. S., C.A.5 (Miss.) 1969, 413 F.2d 467.

In prosecution for engaging in business of accepting wagers as copartners and attempting to evade part of excise on wagers, court did not err in admitting testimony of government witness as to his computation of gross amount of wagers reflected in records found by him on basis of hypothetical questions where court instructed that jury was not to take for granted that statements contained in questions were true. U.S. v. Shaffer, C.A.7 (Ind.) 1961, 291 F.2d 689, certiorari denied 82 S.Ct. 192, 368 U.S. 915, 7 L.Ed.2d 130, rehearing denied 82 S.Ct. 392, 368 U.S. 962, 7 L.Ed.2d 393, certiorari denied 82 S.Ct. 193, 368 U.S. 914, 7 L.Ed.2d 130.

In prosecution for conspiracy to organize Communist Party as group advocating overthrow of government by force and violence and for knowingly advocating and teaching duty and necessity of overthrowing government as speedily as circumstances would permit, testimony of witness who detailed his career as member of Communist Party for period of 15 years and who testified as expert in respect to ultimate aims and objectives of the party was admissible. Bary v. U. S., C.A.10 (Colo.) 1957, 248 F.2d 201.

In prosecution for conspiring to commit offense against the United States by attempting to willfully evade income taxes due United States by third parties, error, if any, in admitting testimony of government tax expert as to falsity of report filed by alleged co-conspirator, who was acquitted, could not have been prejudicial to defendant. U.S. v. Gordon, C.A.3 (Pa.) 1957, 242 F.2d 122, certiorari denied 77 S.Ct. 1378, 354 U.S. 921, 1 L.Ed.2d 1436.

In prosecution for conspiracy to organize Communist Party of United States as a group to teach and advocate overthrow of government by force or violence, former Communist Party member was competent to testify as to meanings of terms constantly recurring in Communist writings and having accepted conventional meaning among Party members, and concerning certain passages in Communist Constitution which were innocent upon their face but which were understood by Party members to be only a cover for violent methods advocated and taught. U.S. v. Dennis, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1950, 183 F.2d 201, certiorari granted 71 S.Ct. 91, 340 U.S. 863, 95 L.Ed. 630, affirmed 71 S.Ct. 857, 341 U.S. 494, 95 L.Ed. 1137, rehearing denied 72 S.Ct. 20, 342 U.S. 842, 96 L.Ed. 636, rehearing denied 78 S.Ct. 409, 355 U.S. 936, 2 L.Ed.2d 419.

Where records of company whose stocks and bonds defendants had been active in selling were introduced in evidence to support government's contention that concern was operated as a stock selling scheme, it was not error to admit testimony of an expert accountant who summarized and analyzed the records, especially where case was being tried to court. Harper v. U. S., C.C.A.8 (Mo.) 1944, 143 F.2d 795.

In prosecution of physician for conspiracy to violate § 2550 et seq. of Title 26, testimony of a physician that in his opinion the use of morphine in the treatment of one of defendant's patients was not justified, was not prejudicial, where there was prior testimony, received without objection, to the same effect and testimony of physician could not have affected result of trial. Heller v. U.S., C.C.A.4 (S.C.) 1939, 104 F.2d 446.

In prosecution of physician for conspiracy to violate § 2550 et seq. of Title 26, testimony as to how much morphine was proper in treatment of one of defendant's patients who was suffering from myocarditis was a matter for expert opinion. Heller v. U.S., C.C.A.4 (S.C.) 1939, 104 F.2d 446.

In prosecution for use of mails in furtherance of scheme to defraud owners of public investment trust units, for violation of § 77a of Title 15 and for conspiracy to commit such crimes, record did not disclose that trial court abused its discretion in permitting a public accountant who had examined accounts of company issuing the units and testified that in his opinion company was insolvent to testify as an expert, or that testimony called for a special cautionary instruction regarding weight to be given it. Troutman v. U. S., C.C.A.10 (Colo.) 1938, 100 F.2d 628.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In prosecution of bank employee for conspiracy to commit grand larceny and embezzlement, admission of testimony of expert witness as to conclusions resulting from investigation and examination of books of bank was not error, where grounds for conclusions were explained and expert testimony was necessary for jury to understand case. McNeil v. U.S., App.D.C.1936, 85 F.2d 698, 66 App.D.C. 199.

Expert testimony as to when and why net worth basis of computing income was proper was properly excluded, in trial for conspiracy to defraud government by making false returns. Lisansky v. U.S., C.C.A.4 (Md.) 1929, 31 F.2d 846, certiorari denied 49 S.Ct. 514, 279 U.S. 873, 73 L.Ed. 1008.

Experts' opinions that defendants need not report profits on usurious loans until repaid was inadmissible in trial for conspiracy to defraud government by making false income tax returns. Lisansky v. U.S., C.C.A.4 (Md.) 1929, 31 F.2d 846, certiorari denied 49 S.Ct. 514, 279 U.S. 873, 73 L.Ed. 1008.

Expert testimony that glass burial caskets were not commercially feasible was admissible in trial for conspiracy to defraud by selling stock in corporation manufacturing them. De Camp v. U.S., App.D.C.1926, 10 F.2d 984, 56 App.D.C. 119.

The admissibility of expert testimony, depending on the qualification of a witness, is to be determined by the trial judge. U S v. Fischer, E.D.Pa.1917, 245 F. 477, affirmed 250 F. 793, 163 C.C.A. 125.

In a prosecution for conspiring to use the mails to sell corporate stock by false representations, evidence that defendants knew of possible invalidity of one of the patents owned by the corporation, and represented to be of great value, was admissible on the question of their good faith, but expert testimony as to the validity of patents was inadmissible. Menefee v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Or.) 1916, 236 F. 826, 150 C.C.A. 88.

Expert testimony that defendant suffered from exceptionally and excessively rigid thinking was inadmissible in prosecution for conspiracy to defraud government through commingling of funds in warehouse bank, given that such thinking was not defense to willful violation of tax laws. U.S. v. Anderson, C.A.9 (Or.) 2004, 94 Fed.Appx. 487, 2004 WL 604937, Unreported, certiorari denied 125 S.Ct. 192, 543 U.S. 863, 160 L.Ed.2d 105, rehearing denied, rehearing denied 125 S.Ct. 493, 543 U.S. 984, 160 L.Ed.2d 367, certiorari denied 125 S.Ct. 203, 543 U.S. 863, 160 L.Ed.2d 105. Conspiracy 45

610. Grand jury testimony, admissibility of evidence

Defendant, who had made self-incriminating statement to grand jury which was introduced at his trial with the names of his associates deleted therefrom so as not to prejudice other defendants, was not prejudiced by prosecution's reference in summation to statement's contents respecting names of other defendants, since statement concerning associates was not inadmissible against him, and his conviction for conspiracy and substantive crime of transporting stolen cigarettes in interstate commerce was affirmed. Kitchell v. U. S., C.A.1 (Mass.) 1966, 354 F.2d 715, certiorari denied 86 S.Ct. 1970, 384 U.S. 1011, 16 L.Ed.2d 1032.

If witness had testified before grand jury, defendants would have been entitled to have judge inspect minutes and turn over any parts useful for cross-examination of witness; the government ought not to be allowed, by having its principal witness speak to the grand jury through the voice of another, to deprive a defendant of this right to impeach by contradiction; that inconsistencies found in grand jury testimony of such a surrogate are less susceptible of effective use than if the witness himself had testified is not sufficient reason for the trial court's refusing to open this avenue of impeachment. U. S. v. Borelli, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1964, 336 F.2d 376, certiorari denied

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

85 S.Ct. 647, 379 U.S. 960, 13 L.Ed.2d 555.

In prosecution for conspiracy, statements in grand jury testimony of one conspirator were admissible as against such conspirator. United States v. Bando, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1957, 244 F.2d 833, certiorari denied 78 S.Ct. 67, 355 U.S. 844, 2 L.Ed.2d 53.

Where witness had made incriminating statements to district attorney and investigators and had repeated them under oath before grand jury but when called as witness in prosecution gave exculpatory testimony, evidence of the previous extrajudicial incriminating statements was admissible, but the previous statements could not be considered as evidence of the alleged facts recited in them. Ellis v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Mo.) 1943, 138 F.2d 612.

In prosecution for conspiring to cheat and defraud State Turnpike Commission, transcript of testimony before grand jury of one of conspirators was admissible, limited to such conspirator. Torrance v. Salzinger, M.D.Pa.1961, 195 F.Supp. 804, affirmed 297 F.2d 902, certiorari denied 82 S.Ct. 1161, 369 U.S. 887, 8 L.Ed.2d 288.

Admissibility of transcript of testimony before grand jury of one of co-conspirators in a conspiracy to cheat and defraud State Turnpike Commission was a matter for state court. Torrance v. Salzinger, M.D.Pa.1961, 195 F.Supp. 804, affirmed 297 F.2d 902, certiorari denied 82 S.Ct. 1161, 369 U.S. 887, 8 L.Ed.2d 288.

In prosecution for conspiracy to obstruct administration of justice, prosecution could present testimony of each of several defendants before grand jury as against him alone on ground that it contained admissions against interest under instruction that proof of conspiracy and doing of an overt act must be found before admissions of a defendant could be used to determine whether that defendant was a participant in the conspiracy. U. S. v. Johnson, M.D.Pa.1947, 76 F.Supp. 542, affirmed 165 F.2d 42, certiorari denied 68 S.Ct. 355, 332 U.S. 852, 92 L.Ed. 421, motion granted 68 S.Ct. 357, rehearing denied 68 S.Ct. 457, 333 U.S. 834, 92 L.Ed. 1118, certiorari denied 68 S.Ct. 355, 332 U.S. 852, 92 L.Ed. 422.

611. Hearsay, admissibility of evidence

Tape made by undercover police officer as he was looking through window of defendant's home, recording his impressions on allegedly seeing defendant take food stamps from codefendant and give him money in return, while hearsay recorded out of presence of defendant, was admissible in prosecution for conducting illegal traffic in food stamps as prior consistent statements offered to rebut defendant's claim of fabrication and improper motive when she alleged that it would have been impossible for officer to see inside house from his position in parked car in driveway. U.S. v. Andrews, C.A.11 (Ala.) 1985, 765 F.2d 1491, rehearing denied 772 F.2d 918, certiorari denied 106 S.Ct. 815, 474 U.S. 1064, 88 L.Ed.2d 789.

Witness' testimony concerning the substance of one defendant's threats toward another presented no hearsay problems, as Government did not offer defendant's statement to prove that the witness and another would in fact end up dead if they did not cooperate in the criminal venture; rather, the Government intended to show that threats were part of the conspiracy and that defendant was involved in the conspiracy. U.S. v. Gironda, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1985, 758 F.2d 1201, certiorari denied 106 S.Ct. 523, 474 U.S. 1004, 88 L.Ed.2d 456.

In prosecution for wire fraud, testimony concerning phone call to victim in which victim was fraudulently induced to disclose his credit card number and piece of paper used by caller which bore victim's phone and credit card number as well as alias of defendant was not hearsay where contents of conversation and piece of paper were not offered for truth of matters asserted therein but to show how fraud was conducted and how defendant was connected to it and where they constituted admissible statements of coconspirators in furtherance of conspiracy. U. S. v. Saavedra, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1982, 684 F.2d 1293.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Once question of admissibility of evidence of conspiracy has been determined, jury is free to consider hearsay and acts of other coconspirators in arriving at its verdict, just as it is permissible for court to consider hearsay in determining sufficiency of evidence. U. S. v. Hartley, C.A.11 (Fla.) 1982, 678 F.2d 961, rehearing denied 688 F.2d 852, certiorari denied 103 S.Ct. 815, 459 U.S. 1170, 74 L.Ed.2d 1014, certiorari denied 103 S.Ct. 834, 459 U.S. 1183, 74 L.Ed.2d 1027.

Conspirator's testimony to coconspirator's statement that he and defendant would be splitting profits arising from marijuana smuggling operation did not constitute hearsay where conspirator testified to defendant's personal participation in meeting and to talk that itself established anticipation if not implied agreement that defendant would profit from venture. U.S. v. Ruppel, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1982, 666 F.2d 261, rehearing denied 671 F.2d 1378, certiorari denied 102 S.Ct. 3487, 458 U.S. 1107, 73 L.Ed.2d 1369, rehearing denied 103 S.Ct. 17, 458 U.S. 1132, 73 L.Ed.2d 1402.

Although evidence that 700 proofs of claim, totaling $1.2 million, were filed in bankruptcy court one and one-half years after subject "business" commenced operation would have been hearsay if introduced, in prosecution for mail fraud and conspiring to conceal property of a bankrupt, to show how much the bankrupt owed his creditors, proof of such claims was not hearsay for purpose of inferring that business was not a typical, good-faith operation, and fact that proper use thereof resulted in raising essentially the same inference that improper use would have raised did not bar admission. U. S. v. Ciampaglia, C.A.1 (Mass.) 1980, 628 F.2d 632, certiorari denied 101 S.Ct. 365, 449 U.S. 956, 66 L.Ed.2d 221, certiorari denied 101 S.Ct. 618, 449 U.S. 1038, 66 L.Ed.2d 501.

End of testimony in a conspiracy trial where hearsay statements have been received subject to connection requires that two independent decisions be made by trial court; first, court must determine whether prosecution has proved, by substantial independent evidence, existence of conspiracy and of defendant's participation therein so that hearsay statements of coconspirators may be admitted against defendant as equivalent to his own admissions, and, second, court must determine whether to submit entire case to jury, applying standard whether reasonable mind might fairly conclude guilt beyond a reasonable doubt. U. S. v. Jackson, C.A.D.C.1980, 627 F.2d 1198, 201 U.S.App.D.C. 212.

If corporate minute book given by alleged "mastermind" of money laundering scheme to one defendant, which book allegedly was introduced to impeach defendant's testimony that the "mastermind" had not identified fellow stockholders, was not used to prove truth of matter asserted it was not hearsay and, hence, it was irrelevant that book was not part of conspiracy to defraud United States by impeding the computation and collection of income taxes and, furthermore, if statement in the book was not hearsay then there was no denial of coconspirator's right to confront witnesses against him. U. S. v. Enstam, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1980, 622 F.2d 857, certiorari denied 101 S.Ct. 1351, 450 U.S. 912, 67 L.Ed.2d 336, certiorari denied 101 S.Ct. 1974, 451 U.S. 907, 68 L.Ed.2d 294.

Letter from alleged coconspirator to defendant was not admissible under the rule authorizing admission of out-of-court statements made by a coconspirator of a party during the course and in the furtherance of the conspiracy where the letter was not written during the course and in furtherance of the conspiracy and where the letter was offered by the defendant. U. S. v. Montgomery, C.A.10 (N.M.) 1978, 582 F.2d 514, certiorari denied 99 S.Ct. 850, 439 U.S. 1075, 59 L.Ed.2d 42.

Witness' testimony that others had told him on various occasions that defendant was member of conspiracy was hearsay as to defendant and was incompetent to link defendant with conspiracy. Harlow v. U. S., C.A.5 (Tex.) 1962, 301 F.2d 361, certiorari denied 83 S.Ct. 25, 371 U.S. 814, 9 L.Ed.2d 56, rehearing denied 83 S.Ct. 204, 371 U.S. 906, 9 L.Ed.2d 167.

Where there was ample evidence of conspiracy between two defendants to defraud victim, conversations of one of the defendants with victim pursuant to conspiracy were not hearsay as to the other defendant. Pereira v. U.S., C.A.5 (Tex.) 1953, 202 F.2d 830, certiorari granted 73 S.Ct. 1134, 345 U.S. 990, 97 L.Ed. 1399, affirmed 74 S.Ct.

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

358, 347 U.S. 1, 98 L.Ed. 435.

In conspiracy prosecution proof that a certain statement was made is not "hearsay" of that fact, but is hearsay of truth of statement. Murray v. U.S., C.C.A.7 (Ill.) 1925, 10 F.2d 409, certiorari denied 46 S.Ct. 486, 271 U.S. 673, 70 L.Ed. 1144.

In prosecution for having conspired to violate Selective Service Act, § 6, temporary, a question as to what a third person told the witness during a conversation regarding the conspiracy was calculated to elicit hearsay testimony. Gruher v. U.S., C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1918, 255 F. 474, 166 C.C.A. 550.

612. Declarations of coconspirators, admissibility of evidence--Generally

Where a conspiracy or privity of design has been established, the acts and declarations of any of the conspirators, done or made during the pendency of the conspiracy and in furtherance thereof, are admissible against the others. Wiborg v. U S, U.S.Pa.1896, 16 S.Ct. 1127, 163 U.S. 632, 41 L.Ed. 289. See, also, Braatelian v. U.S., C.C.A.N.D.1945, 147 F.2d 888; American Tobacco Co. v. U.S., C.C.A.Ky.1944, 147 F.2d 93, rehearing denied 65 S.Ct. 1021, 324 U.S. 891, 89 L.Ed. 1400, affirmed 66 S.Ct. 1125, 328 U.S. 781, 90 L.Ed. 1575; U.S. v. Perlstein, C.C.A.N.J.1942, 126 F.2d 789, certiorari denied 62 S.Ct. 1106, 316 U.S. 678, 86 L.Ed. 1752; Simons v. U.S., C.C.A.Wash.1941, 119 F.2d 539, certiorari denied 62 S.Ct. 78, 314 U.S. 616, 86 L.Ed. 496; Marino v. U.S., C.C.A.Cal.1937, 91 F.2d 691, 113 A.L.R. 975, certiorari denied 58 S.Ct. 410, 302 U.S. 764, 82 L.Ed. 593; Rowan v. U.S., C.C.A.Tex.1922, 281 F. 137, certiorari denied 43 S.Ct. 12, 260 U.S. 721, 67 L.Ed. 481; Reeder v. U.S., C.C.A.Okl.1919, 262 F. 36, certiorari denied 40 S.Ct. 346, 252 U.S. 581, 64 L.Ed. 726; Hallowell v. U.S., C.C.A.Or.1918, 253 F. 865, certiorari denied 39 S.Ct. 390, 249 U.S. 615, 63 L.Ed. 803, affirmed on rehearing 258 F. 237, certiorari denied 40 S.Ct. 180, 251 U.S. 559, 64 L.Ed. 413; U.S. v. Richards, D.C.Neb.1906, 149 F. 443; U.S. v. Food and Grocery Bureau of Southern California, D.C.Cal.1942, 43 F.Supp. 966. Criminal Law 662.10

In criminal proceedings for money laundering and wire fraud, the admission of co-conspirators' guilty plea allocutions against defendants violated the Confrontation Clause, given that the statements were testimonial and the defendants did not have the prior opportunity to cross-examine the co-conspirators. U.S. v. McClain, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 2004, 377 F.3d 219, supplemented 108 Fed.Appx. 670, 2004 WL 1950415. Criminal Law 662.10

Where conspiracy is not charged in the indictment but two or more defendants are joint participators in the commission of substantive offenses, in order for hearsay declaration of joint participator to be admissible as statement of a coconspirator, independent evidence must merely show that combination existed, but it is not necessary to show by such evidence that combination was unlawful, for that element may be shown by hearsay declarations and may be shown after proof of existence of the combination. U. S. v. Jackson, C.A.D.C.1980, 627 F.2d 1198, 201 U.S.App.D.C. 212.

Statements made by agent in course of his employment are vicarious admissions of principal, and, because conspirator is agent in criminal venture, his admissions are likewise received against his coconspirator. U. S. v. Price, C.A.9 (Wash.) 1978, 577 F.2d 1356, certiorari denied 99 S.Ct. 835, 439 U.S. 1068, 59 L.Ed.2d 33.

In order for out of court declaration of coconspirator to be admissible against defendant, it is not necessary that defendant's complicity in conspiracy be proved beyond reasonable doubt; ordinary civil standard of preponderance of evidence is sufficient, since ruling involves admissibility of evidence, not ultimate guilt. U. S. v. Bell, C.A.8 (Minn.) 1978, 573 F.2d 1040.

Coconspirator exception to hearsay rule, rationale of which is commonsense appreciation that person who has authorized another to speak or to act to some joint end will be held responsible for what is later said or done by his agent, whether in his presence or not, is merely rule of evidence founded, to some extent, on concepts of agency law and may be applied in both civil and criminal cases. U. S. v. Trowery, C.A.3 (Pa.) 1976, 542 F.2d 623, certiorari denied 97 S.Ct. 1132, 429 U.S. 1104, 51 L.Ed.2d 555.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Where statement made by coconspirator concerning defendant's knowledge was not an assertion of a past fact, where the coconspirator had personal knowledge of the identity and roles of the other participants in the crime, where the possibility of faulty recollection by the coconspirator was remote, and where circumstances under which the statement was made did not provide reason to believe that the coconspirator misrepresented defendant's involvement in the crime, admission of testimony concerning coconspirator's statements as to defendant's participation in the crime did not violate defendant's confrontation rights. U. S. v. Cruz, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1976, 536 F.2d 1264.

If statements made by one defendant outside presence of other defendant were made in furtherance of an established conspiracy and if they were relevant to substantive counts in prosecution on one count charging a conspiracy to import and to possess heroin with intent to distribute it and on two other counts of federal drug offenses, such statements could be considered by jury for all three counts. U. S. v. Mendoza, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1973, 473 F.2d 697.

Declarations of one conspirator made in furtherance of objects of conspiracy, and during its existence, are admissible against all members of conspiracy. U. S. v. Nall, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1971, 437 F.2d 1177.

Statements of alleged coconspirators were inadmissible to prove defendant's specific intent to adhere to illegal portions of alleged agreement. U. S. v. Spock, C.A.1 (Mass.) 1969, 416 F.2d 165.

Testimony of accomplice, in response to question whether in various conversations with defendant there was any discussion in accomplice's presence about sharing of the proceeds of planned robbery, that accomplice gave defendant "10% of every score" was sufficiently related to charge of conspiracy to rob federally insured bank to be admissible. U. S. v. Carella, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1969, 411 F.2d 729, certiorari denied 90 S.Ct. 131, 396 U.S. 860, 24 L.Ed.2d 112.

Declarations of co-conspirators are competent against defendant because they are part of execution of plan and have been impliedly authorized. U. S. v. Birnbaum, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1964, 337 F.2d 490.

The problem of co-conspiratorial declarations is one of admissibility of evidence under well recognized exception to hearsay rule; it is not substantive question as to qualitative sufficiency of evidence necessary to prove existence of conspiracy. Carbo v. U. S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1963, 314 F.2d 718, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 1625, 377 U.S. 953, 12 L.Ed.2d 498, rehearing denied 84 S.Ct. 1902, 377 U.S. 1010, 12 L.Ed.2d 1058, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 1626, 377 U.S. 953, 12 L.Ed.2d 498, rehearing denied 84 S.Ct. 1903, 377 U.S. 1010, 12 L.Ed.2d 1058, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 1627, 377 U.S. 953, 12 L.Ed.2d 498.

In conspiracy cases, acts and declarations of coconspirator in furtherance of common objects are admissible against all conspirators, whether or not they have knowledge thereof. Continental Baking Co. v. U.S., C.A.6 (Tenn.) 1960, 281 F.2d 137.

Where a conspiracy exists, acts and declarations of any conspirator are admissible as to all conspirators. Marbs v. U.S., C.A.8 (Mo.) 1957, 250 F.2d 514, certiorari denied 78 S.Ct. 703, 356 U.S. 919, 2 L.Ed.2d 715.

Conspirators have identity of interest, and therefore admissions of one member have probative value against another and hence are admissible in evidence as against other. United States v. Sansone, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1956, 231 F.2d 887, certiorari denied 76 S.Ct. 1055, 351 U.S. 987, 100 L.Ed. 1500.

Declarations are competent against accused in prosecution for conspiracy or for any other concerted venture where declarations are made in execution of enterprise to which accused and declarant are both parties, and the enterprise itself comprises making some such declaration as a step in its realization. U.S. v. Dennis, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1950, 183 F.2d 201, certiorari granted 71 S.Ct. 91, 340 U.S. 863, 95 L.Ed. 630, affirmed 71 S.Ct. 857, 341 U.S. 494, 95 L.Ed. 1137, rehearing denied 72 S.Ct. 20, 342 U.S. 842, 96 L.Ed. 636, rehearing denied 78 S.Ct. 409, 355 U.S. 936, 2 L.Ed.2d 419.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In prosecution for conspiracy between 1945 and 1948 to organize Communist Party of the United States as a group to teach and advocate overthrow of government by force or violence, declarations of any of the defendants or of any other persons acting in concert with them during the period between 1945 to 1948 and also prior to the time that the acts charged became a crime were competent and relevant. U.S. v. Dennis, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1950, 183 F.2d 201, certiorari granted 71 S.Ct. 91, 340 U.S. 863, 95 L.Ed. 630, affirmed 71 S.Ct. 857, 341 U.S. 494, 95 L.Ed. 1137, rehearing denied 72 S.Ct. 20, 342 U.S. 842, 96 L.Ed. 636, rehearing denied 78 S.Ct. 409, 355 U.S. 936, 2 L.Ed.2d 419.

In prosecution for conspiracy to organize Communist Party of United States as a group to teach and advocate overthrow of government by force or violence, declarations of woman to whom informer was referred when he wished to join the Party were admissible where woman was a member of the executive of a club in New York, and it was reasonable to infer that she was acquainted with Party doctrines and that what she said was in execution of the Party purposes. U.S. v. Dennis, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1950, 183 F.2d 201, certiorari granted 71 S.Ct. 91, 340 U.S. 863, 95 L.Ed. 630, affirmed 71 S.Ct. 857, 341 U.S. 494, 95 L.Ed. 1137, rehearing denied 72 S.Ct. 20, 342 U.S. 842, 96 L.Ed. 636, rehearing denied 78 S.Ct. 409, 355 U.S. 936, 2 L.Ed.2d 419.

Every act or declaration of each member of conspiracy in furtherance thereof is considered the act and declaration of all conspirators and is evidence against each of them. Barnett v. U.S., C.A.9 (Wash.) 1949, 171 F.2d 721. See, also, Rose v. U.S., C.C.A.Cal.1945, 149 F.2d 755; U.S. v. Harrison, C.C.A.N.J.1941, 121 F.2d 930, certiorari denied 62 S.Ct. 124, 314 U.S. 661, 86 L.Ed. 530; U.S. v. Goldman, C.C.A.N.Y.1941, 118 F.2d 310, certiorari denied 61 S.Ct. 1109-1111, 313 U.S. 588, 85 L.Ed. 1543, affirmed 62 S.Ct. 993, 316 U.S. 129, 86 L.Ed. 1322, rehearing denied 63 S.Ct. 22 (2 cases), 317 U.S. 703, 87 L.Ed. 562; Whealton v. U.S., C.C.A.N.J.1940, 113 F.2d 710; Landay v. U.S., et al., C.C.A.Mich.1939, 108 F.2d 698, certiorari denied 60 S.Ct. 721, 722, 309 U.S. 681, 84 L.Ed. 1024, 1025; Holt v. U.S., C.C.A.Okl.1938, 94 F.2d 90; Clark v. U.S., C.C.A.Ga.1932, 61 F.2d 409; Miller v. U.S., C.C.A.N.Y.1928, 24 F.2d 353, certiorari denied 48 S.Ct. 421, 276 U.S. 638, 72 L.Ed. 745; Harvey v. U.S., C.C.A.N.Y.1928, 23 F.2d 561; Camp v. U.S., C.C.A.Ky.1926, 16 F.2d 370, certiorari denied 47 S.Ct. 766, 274 U.S. 754, 71 L.Ed. 1333; Sullivan v. U.S., C.C.A.Okl.1925, 7 F.2d 355, certiorari denied 46 S.Ct. 348, 270 U.S. 648, 70 L.Ed. 779; Murray v. U.S., C.C.A.Ill.1926, 10 F.2d 409, certiorari denied 46 S.Ct. 486, 271 U.S. 673, 70 L.Ed. 1144.

Everything done by conspirators including declarations of later entrants is competent evidence against all so of far as it may fairly be found to be in execution of concert to which accused is privy. U.S. v. Peoni, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1938, 100 F.2d 401.

When men enter into an agreement for an unlawful end, they become ad hoc agents for one another, and declarations or acts done pursuant to the common purpose, are competent against all. Van Riper v. U.S., C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1926, 13 F.2d 961, certiorari denied 47 S.Ct. 102, 273 U.S. 702, 71 L.Ed. 848.

Admission in a statement by one of the defendants charged with conspiracy of knowledge of a fact connected with the conspiracy, rendered testimony to such fact admissible. Vandell v. U.S., C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1925, 6 F.2d 188.

Declarations of an alleged coconspirator to a witness were inadmissible to prove the existence of the conspiracy as against another party thereto. Hauger v. U. S., C.C.A.4 (W.Va.) 1909, 173 F. 54, 97 C.C.A. 372.

Activities and statements of each conspirator made pursuant to conspiracy are admissible against all

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

co-conspirators. U S v. Cohen, S.D.N.Y.1953, 113 F.Supp. 955.

Declaration of a co-conspirator is admissible against all conspirators even though made only to other members of the co-conspirator's business organization or to other third parties. U.S. v. E.I. Du Pont De Nemours & Co., D.C.Del.1952, 107 F.Supp. 324.

After a conspiracy has been established, and while it is in existence, the statements of any conspirators are, in legal effect, the statements of all. U.S. v. Belisle, W.D.Wash.1951, 107 F.Supp. 283.

613. ---- Absence of conspiracy charge, declarations of coconspirators, admissibility of evidence

Absence of conspiracy count in prosecution for distribution of heroin was without legal significance in determining whether alleged coconspirator's statements were admissible against defendant; Government only had to prove conspiracy in fact between alleged coconspirator and defendant to make words of one, spoken in furtherance of some joint purpose, the words of the other as well. U. S. v. Trowery, C.A.3 (Pa.) 1976, 542 F.2d 623, certiorari denied 97 S.Ct. 1132, 429 U.S. 1104, 51 L.Ed.2d 555.

Under the coconspirator exception to hearsay rule, accounts of extrajudicial statements may be admitted if it is established by evidence other than hearsay that the defendant was involved in a criminal conspiracy with the declarant, whether or not the indictment contains a formal conspiracy count. U. S. v. Craig, C.A.6 (Tenn.) 1975, 522 F.2d 29.

Where indictment charges two or more persons with a substantive offense and evidence establishes a conspiracy between them to commit such offense, acts and declarations of one during existence of conspiracy and in furtherance thereof are admissible against the other, although no conspiracy is charged. Bartlett v. United States, C.C.A.10 (N.M.) 1948, 166 F.2d 920.

614. ---- Order of proof, declarations of coconspirators, admissibility of evidence

Better practice in determining admissibility of hearsay declarations of coconspirators is for trial court to determine before hearsay evidence is admitted that the evidence independent of the hearsay testimony proves the existence of the conspiracy sufficient to justify admission of the hearsay declarations; however, trial court is vested with considerable discretion to admit particular items of evidence subject to connection, and then, if at the close of the government's case or at any other critical point necessary connection has not been proven, trial court must then strike testimony that has not been sufficiently connected and direct jury to disregard it. U. S. v. Jackson, C.A.D.C.1980, 627 F.2d 1198, 201 U.S.App.D.C. 212.

New rule requiring specific determination of existence of conspiracy by court on record in order to render out-of-court statements of alleged coconspirator admissible does not alter traditional discretion of trial judge to allow Government to place statement into evidence on condition that it be later shown by sufficient independent evidence that conspiracy existed, but it is preferable whenever possible that government's independent proof of conspiracy be introduced first, thereby avoiding danger of injecting record with inadmissible hearsay in anticipation of proof of conspiracy which never materializes. U. S. v. Macklin, C.A.8 (Mo.) 1978, 573 F.2d 1046, certiorari denied 99 S.Ct. 160, 439 U.S. 852, 58 L.Ed.2d 157.

In conspiracy case, judge may permit declarations of coconspirator to be admitted "subject to connection" but judge must determine, when all evidence is in, whether prosecution has proved participation in conspiracy by defendant against whom hearsay was offered, by fair preponderance of evidence independent thereof; if there has been such proof, jury is to consider such hearsay with all other evidence in determining guilt beyond reasonable doubt; if there has not, judge must instruct jury to disregard hearsay or if this was so large a proportion of proof as to render cautionary instruction of doubtful utility, declare mistrial on defendant's request. U. S. v. Stanchich, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1977, 550 F.2d 1294.

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Statements made in furtherance of unlawful association are not hearsay and are admissible, provided that concert of action is established by independent evidence; such statements may be conditionally admitted subject to being "connected up" by subsequent independent proof of concert of action. U. S. v. Harris, C.A.8 (Ark.) 1976, 546 F.2d 234.

If out-of-court statements by alleged coconspirators are testified to in course of a conspiracy trial, the court may wait until all the evidence is in to determine if a conspiracy has been sufficiently established by nonhearsay evidence to allow the jury to consider the hearsay testimony as well; and if the judge does allow the jury to consider the out-of-court statements, the Court of Appeals must assume that he made the necessary finding and the Court of Appeals' only task is to decide if he had reasonable grounds for doing so. U. S. v. Green, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1975, 523 F.2d 229, certiorari denied 96 S.Ct. 858, 423 U.S. 1074, 47 L.Ed.2d 84. Criminal Law ¶ 1144.12

Declarations made by a member of a conspiracy cannot be used against other members unless there is other substantial evidence of the existence of the conspiracy; the order of proof is not important; the important consideration is establishing existence of the conspiracy by other substantial evidence. Klein v. U. S., C.A.9 (Ariz.) 1973, 472 F.2d 847.

Trial court in conspiracy prosecution did not err in failing to pass on admissibility of statements of coconspirators before allowing them to be presented to jury, and instruction that certain evidence should not be considered as against defendant unless jury found beyond reasonable doubt that there was conspiracy in which defendant was member, or that statement or act was done or made in furtherance of conspiracy, was unduly generous to defendant. U. S. v. Knight, C.A.9 (Ariz.) 1969, 416 F.2d 1181.

Judge properly admitted testimony as to conversations between alleged co-conspirators with continued admonition that he would strike testimony should conspiracy not be proved with respect to defendants on trial for conspiracy. Enriquez v. U. S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1963, 314 F.2d 703. Criminal Law ¶ 422(1)

Under circumstances in conspiracy prosecution, and in absence of objection, trial court did not abuse discretion in permitting witness to testify to conversation in which member of alleged conspiracy referred to defendant's participation, although defendant had not yet been linked with conspiracy by independent evidence. Landers v. U. S., C.A.5 (Ga.) 1962, 304 F.2d 577.

The admission in evidence of declarations made by one of the alleged conspirators before proof of the conspiracy was not prejudicial, where such proof was subsequently made by evidence other than the declarations. Cohen v. U.S., C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1907, 157 F. 651, 85 C.C.A. 113, certiorari denied 28 S.Ct. 261, 207 U.S. 596, 52 L.Ed. 357.

Proof of the acts and declarations of the alleged conspirators may be introduced, although not properly admissible at the time because community of intent and design has not been established, but if received, the error may be cured by the subsequent introduction of proof of the conspiracy existing at the time the alleged declarations were made. 1899, 22 Op.Atty.Gen. 589.

615. ---- Discretion of court, declarations of coconspirators, admissibility of evidence

Whether there is substantial independent evidence of conspiracy necessary to reception of testimony under coconspirator exception to hearsay rule is question of admissibility of evidence to be decided by trial judge. U. S. v. Nixon, U.S.Dist.Col.1974, 94 S.Ct. 3090, 418 U.S. 683, 41 L.Ed.2d 1039.

When coconspirator rule of evidence is invoked, either in civil or criminal proceedings, its applicability is for the court to decide as a question of competence of evidence. U. S. v. Trowery, C.A.3 (Pa.) 1976, 542 F.2d 623, certiorari denied 97 S.Ct. 1132, 429 U.S. 1104, 51 L.Ed.2d 555.

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

It was within trial court's discretion to require Government to submit all of its evidence of conspiracy before submitting any coconspirator's declarations and to thus interrupt direct examination of one witness in order to call other witnesses so as not to permit any evidence of coconspirator's declarations until the conspiracy was established. U. S. v. Hathaway, C.A.1 (Mass.) 1976, 534 F.2d 386, certiorari denied 97 S.Ct. 64, 429 U.S. 819, 50 L.Ed.2d 79.

In order to be properly admitted under coconspirator exception to hearsay rule, there must be independent evidence linking declarant to defendant, but trial judge has a wide discretion and need only be satisfied, if he accepts independent evidence as credible, that such evidence is sufficient to support a finding of joint undertaking. U. S. v. Rodrigues, C.A.3 (N.J.) 1974, 491 F.2d 663.

It is discretionary with trial court to admit evidence of declarations of alleged conspirators subject to later proof as to existence of conspiracy. Rizzo v. U. S., C.A.8 (Mo.) 1962, 304 F.2d 810, certiorari denied 83 S.Ct. 188, 371 U.S. 890, 9 L.Ed.2d 123.

In passing upon whether a sufficient showing has been made to render competent the acts and declarations of a coconspirator, District Court has much discretion and its rulings are not to be lightly disturbed. U.S. v. Von Clemm, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1943, 136 F.2d 968, certiorari denied 64 S.Ct. 81, 320 U.S. 769, 88 L.Ed. 459.

Whether there is some evidence of existence of alleged criminal conspiracy dehors defendants' extra-judicial statements or declarations and proof aliunde of other alleged conspirators' acts and statements or declarations showing defendant's connection with conspiracy are preliminary fact issues for trial judge to decide in determining whether such acts and statements or declarations shall be received as evidence against defendants. U. S. v. Schneiderman, S.D.Cal.1952, 106 F.Supp. 892.

616. ---- Foundation, declarations of coconspirators, admissibility of evidence

Before government can take advantage of exception to hearsay rule, it must show by preponderance of evidence that conspiracy existed, that defendant against whom hearsay is offered was member of conspiracy and that hearsay statement was made in course and in furtherance of conspiracy. U. S. v. Hamilton, C.A.6 (Ky.) 1982, 689 F.2d 1262, certiorari denied 103 S.Ct. 753, 459 U.S. 1117, 74 L.Ed.2d 971, certiorari denied 103 S.Ct. 754, 459 U.S. 1117, 74 L.Ed.2d 971.

Extrajudicial, hearsay statement of a coconspirator may be admitted against a criminal defendant only if the statement was made by one who conspired with the party against whom the statement is offered, was made during the course of the conspiracy, and was made in furtherance of the conspiracy; those requirements must be established by preponderance of independent evidence. U. S. v. Wilson, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1981, 657 F.2d 755, certiorari denied 102 S.Ct. 1456, 455 U.S. 951, 71 L.Ed.2d 667.

Government's independent evidence that on one occasion alleged coconspirator used car once registered to defendant to make drug delivery, and that on second occasion defendant was in general vicinity of drug transaction and conversed freely with person making sale, did not establish sufficient foundation for admission of hearsay statement by coconspirator that car belonged to coconspirator's source of supply. U. S. v. Zule, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1978, 581 F.2d 1218.

When the threshold requirement of demonstrating a likelihood of an illicit association by any defendant with the conspiracy is fulfilled, hearsay declarations of any of the conspirators are admissible against the others. U. S. v. Schoenhut, C.A.3 (Pa.) 1978, 576 F.2d 1010, certiorari denied 99 S.Ct. 450, 439 U.S. 964, 58 L.Ed.2d 421.

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Out-of-court declaration of coconspirator is admissible against defendant if government demonstrates that conspiracy existed, that defendant and declarant were members of conspiracy, and that declaration was made during course and in furtherance of conspiracy. U. S. v. Bell, C.A.8 (Minn.) 1978, 573 F.2d 1040.

In order to invoke the coconspirator exception to the hearsay rule, it is necessary to demonstrate by substantial evidence, other than the statement in question, a prima facie case of conspiracy. Joyner v. U. S., C.A.4 (Va.) 1977, 547 F.2d 1199.

A fair preponderance of nonhearsay evidence is the quantum of proof which must be established before hearsay declaration of associates in an illicit venture may be admitted against a defendant; such standard is less than proof beyond a reasonable doubt. U. S. v. Glazer, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1976, 532 F.2d 224, certiorari denied 97 S.Ct. 123, 429 U.S. 844, 50 L.Ed.2d 115.

Any act or declaration by one coconspirator committed in furtherance of the conspiracy and during its pendency is admissible against another coconspirator provided that a foundation for admissibility is laid by independent proof of the conspiracy. U. S. v. Prout, C.A.5 (La.) 1976, 526 F.2d 380, rehearing denied 529 F.2d 999, certiorari denied 97 S.Ct. 114, 429 U.S. 840, 50 L.Ed.2d 109.

Evidence, including evidence that defendant met initial instigator of conspiracy to violate federal gambling laws, that such individual put defendant to work, telling him how to approve markers and pointing out regular customers, that defendant was paid by such individual, that defendant oversaw preparation of ledger sheets and that reason defendant was present at premises was to protect another's interest, was sufficient not only to justify admission of hearsay statements by other conspirator implicating him in the conspiracy but also the conviction itself. U. S. v. Calaway, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1975, 524 F.2d 609, certiorari denied 96 S.Ct. 1462, 424 U.S. 967, 47 L.Ed.2d 733.

Otherwise inadmissible hearsay declarations of a coconspirator may be received into evidence when the proper foundation is developed; such foundation consists of showing that the declaration is in furtherance of conspiracy, that it was made during pendency of the conspiracy and that there is independent proof of existence of conspiracy and of connection of declarant and defendant; if the independent evidence adduced in support of existence of the conspiracy makes a prima facie case therefor, the foundation requirements can be satisfied. U. S. v. Ellsworth, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1973, 481 F.2d 864, certiorari denied 94 S.Ct. 544, 414 U.S. 1041, 38 L.Ed.2d 332.

In conspiracy to receive stolen property, statements by one conspirator which were made during questioning at scene of crime were properly admitted where there was ample evidence of existence of conspiracy, witness was shown to be a co-conspirator, and there was no evidence that conspiracy had ended. U. S. v. Baxa, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1965, 340 F.2d 259, certiorari granted 85 S.Ct. 1556, 381 U.S. 353, 14 L.Ed.2d 681.

Declarations, as to defendants other than declarant, constitute hearsay; yet with a proper foundation they will qualify under well recognized exception which permits introduction of declarations of co-conspirator; the necessary foundation consists of three distinct prerequisites: (1) that declaration is in furtherance of conspiracy, (2) that it was made during pendency of conspiracy, and (3) that there is independent proof of existence of conspiracy and of connection of declarant and defendant with it. Carbo v. U. S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1963, 314 F.2d 718, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 1625, 377 U.S. 953, 12 L.Ed.2d 498, rehearing denied 84 S.Ct. 1902, 377 U.S. 1010, 12 L.Ed.2d 1058, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 1626, 377 U.S. 953, 12 L.Ed.2d 498, rehearing denied 84 S.Ct. 1903, 377 U.S. 1010, 12 L.Ed.2d 1058, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 1627, 377 U.S. 953, 12 L.Ed.2d 498.

Before acts and declarations of third persons become binding upon individual under law of conspiracy, there must be shown to be an illegal agreement to commit crime by two or more persons, that particular defendant was knowing and wilful participant, and that act or declaration by third party conspirator was in pursuance to and in order to bring about criminal objective. Yates v. U. S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1955, 225 F.2d 146, certiorari granted 76 S.Ct. 104, 350 U.S. 860, 100 L.Ed. 763, certiorari granted 76 S.Ct. 105, 350 U.S. 860, 100 L.Ed. 763, reversed on other grounds 77 S.Ct. 1064, 354 U.S. 298, 1 L.Ed.2d 1356.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

617. ---- Furtherance of conspiracy, declarations of coconspirators, admissibility of evidence

Co-conspirator's hearsay statements may be admitted against accused for no purpose whatever unless made during and in furtherance of conspiracy. Wong Sun v. U.S., U.S.Cal.1963, 83 S.Ct. 407, 371 U.S. 471, 9 L.Ed.2d 441.

Hearsay statement of co-conspirator to be admissible against others must have been made in furtherance of the conspiracy charged. Krulewitch v. U.S., U.S.N.Y.1949, 69 S.Ct. 716, 336 U.S. 440, 93 L.Ed. 790. See, also, Tofanelli v. U.S., C.C.A.Cal.1928, 28 F.2d 581. Criminal Law ↪ 423(1)

Where defendants were indicted on charges of conspiracy to violate tax laws, witness' testimony that one of defendants asked him to falsify certain reports was admissible as evidence of act performed in furtherance of conspiracy, even though witness could not remember which defendant had made request. U.S. v. Barshov, C.A.11 (Fla.) 1984, 733 F.2d 842, certiorari denied 105 S.Ct. 904, 469 U.S. 1158, 83 L.Ed.2d 919.

Declarations and acts of various members of the conspiracy made during the conspiracy in furtherance of the conspiracy are admissible against the coconspirator and, conversely, acts and declarations by a coconspirator not made in furtherance of the conspiracy during the conspiracy are not admissible against each coconspirator. U. S. v. Davis, C.A.1 (R.I.) 1980, 623 F.2d 188.

Substance of telephone conversation in which caller stated that he was acting as representative of named German company, for which one defendant was in fact a representative, and in which caller sought to obtain approval of language in letter of credit so that bank would loan money to defendants' corporation, was admissible against the defendant agent as a statement of a coconspirator, regardless of the identity of the caller, since it was apparent that call was made in furtherance of the object of conspiracy, obtaining a bank loan. U. S. v. James, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1979, 609 F.2d 36, certiorari denied 100 S.Ct. 1082, 445 U.S. 905, 63 L.Ed.2d 321.

In a conspiracy in which consideration of alternative strategies plays a central role, statements which narrate past events are not necessarily "mere narratives" and thus inadmissible even under the co-conspirator exception to the hearsay rule if they constitute activity which is plainly and importantly in furtherance of the conspiracy. U. S. v. Haldeman, C.A.D.C.1976, 559 F.2d 31, 181 U.S.App.D.C. 254, certiorari denied 97 S.Ct. 2641, 431 U.S. 933, 53 L.Ed.2d 250, rehearing denied 97 S.Ct. 2992, 433 U.S. 916, 53 L.Ed.2d 1103.

Otherwise inadmissible declarations of coconspirators are admissible in evidence when declaration was in furtherance of conspiracy, it was made during pendency of conspiracy, and there is independent proof of existence of conspiracy and of connection of declarant and defendant with it. U. S. v. Peterson, C.A.9 (Nev.) 1977, 549 F.2d 654.

Requirement that, in order to be admissible against a criminal defendant, a statement by a coconspirator must be made "in furtherance of" the conspiracy remains viable in federal courts. U. S. v. Harris, C.A.8 (Ark.) 1976, 546 F.2d 234.

Statements made by conspirator were admissible against coconspirator where statements were made during course of and in furtherance of ongoing conspiracy. U. S. v. Pate, C.A.5 (Ala.) 1976, 543 F.2d 1148, rehearing denied 545 F.2d 1298.

In order for statements by conspirator to be admissible against other conspirators, statements must have been in furtherance of conspiracy charged. U. S. v. Truslow, C.A.4 (W.Va.) 1975, 530 F.2d 257.

Government introduced ample nonhearsay testimony to establish a conspiracy to steal frozen seafood from New

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

York City piers dating at least from 1965 to 1973 and including each of the defendants, and thus evidence of related criminal activity throughout that period and out-of-court statements of coconspirators made in furtherance of that conspiracy were admissible. U. S. v. Green, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1975, 523 F.2d 229, certiorari denied 96 S.Ct. 858, 423 U.S. 1074, 47 L.Ed.2d 84.

Declarations of one conspirator may be used against another if declaration was made during course of and in furtherance of conspiracy charged. U. S. v. Smith, C.A.8 (Iowa) 1975, 520 F.2d 1245.

Incriminating statements of one conspirator can be used against a coconspirator to prove that either conspirator committed an overt act in furtherance of the conspiracy. U. S. v. Rich, C.A.8 (Mo.) 1975, 518 F.2d 980, certiorari denied 96 S.Ct. 3193, 427 U.S. 907, 49 L.Ed.2d 1200.

In prosecution for conspiring to defraud the United States by impeding the Internal Revenue Service in the collection of income taxes, involving a series of real estate transactions, a letter from an attorney for the seller of a parcel purchased and later resold by defendant, which letter stated that defendant was the actual mortgagor of the property even though the property was held in the name of defendant's mother, was admissible over a hearsay objection, even though the attorney testified that an unindicted coconspirator had told him that defendant was the mortgagor, since the coconspirator's statement was made long before the conspiracy ended and was in furtherance of the conspiracy. U. S. v. Diez, C.A.5 (Fla.) 1975, 515 F.2d 892, rehearing denied 521 F.2d 815, certiorari denied 96 S.Ct. 780, 423 U.S. 1052, 46 L.Ed.2d 641.

To be admissible, statements of coconspirators must be made in course and furtherance of the conspiracy and prior to its termination. U. S. v. Snyder, C.A.5 (Ala.) 1974, 505 F.2d 595, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 1433, 420 U.S. 993, 43 L.Ed.2d 676.

To be admitted under coconspirator exception to hearsay rule, statements must be made in furtherance of the "main aim" of the conspiracy; statements made in efforts to prevent detection and punishment are inadmissible. U. S. v. Arias-Diaz, C.A.5 (Fla.) 1974, 497 F.2d 165, rehearing denied 504 F.2d 760, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 1445, 420 U.S. 1003, 43 L.Ed.2d 761, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 1446, 420 U.S. 1003, 43 L.Ed.2d 761.

Out-of-court statement of one conspirator is admissible against his fellow conspirator if made during the course of the conspiracy and in furtherance of any of its objects. U. S. v. Register, C.A.5 (Ga.) 1974, 496 F.2d 1072, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 802, 419 U.S. 1120, 42 L.Ed.2d 819.

Once independent evidence is received establishing conspiracy and defendant's connection with it, out-of-court statements by coconspirators during its furtherance are admissible against him. U. S. v. Jimenez, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1974, 496 F.2d 288, rehearing denied 504 F.2d 760, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 1407, 420 U.S. 979, 43 L.Ed.2d 660.

Where conspiracy to violate prospective witness' civil rights terminated with her death and purpose of testimony of defendant's accomplice, whose testimony as only eyewitness to murder was essential and whose credibility was subject to attack, regarding statements made without defendant's authority by defendant's wife, uncle and friends, who were not available for cross-examination, implicating defendant in witness' murder was to get before jury fact that defendant's associates believed him guilty, accomplice's testimony was not admissible as declarations of coconspirator made in course of conspiracy or as evidence of acts designed to show illegal activity on part of conspirators or as admissions by defendant's agents but was inadmissible hearsay which, being admitted, constituted reversible error. U. S. v. Pacelli, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1974, 491 F.2d 1108, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 43, 419 U.S. 826, 42 L.Ed.2d 49.

Statements of coconspirators made in furtherance and in course of conspiracy are admissible as each of the conspirators is agent of the other conspirators, and therefore, such statements are evidence against all those involved in the conspiracy. U. S. v. Manarite, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1971, 448 F.2d 583, certiorari denied 92 S.Ct. 281,

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

404 U.S. 947, 30 L.Ed.2d 264, certiorari denied 92 S.Ct. 285, 404 U.S. 947, 30 L.Ed.2d 264, certiorari denied 92 S.Ct. 287, 404 U.S. 947, 30 L.Ed.2d 264, certiorari denied 92 S.Ct. 298, 404 U.S. 947, 30 L.Ed.2d 264.

Testimony as to activities and declarations of alleged coconspirators was properly admitted as evidence of acts in furtherance of conspiracy, existence of which had been established, and was not prejudicial as against third coconspirator. U. S. v. Pardo-Bolland, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1965, 348 F.2d 316, certiorari denied 86 S.Ct. 388, 382 U.S. 944, 15 L.Ed.2d 353, certiorari denied 86 S.Ct. 407, 382 U.S. 946, 15 L.Ed.2d 354. Criminal Law ⚡ 423(1)

Incriminating statements by one coconspirator during pendency and in furtherance of conspiracy are admissible as an exception to hearsay rule once a conspiracy has been shown. Dennis v. U. S., C.A.10 (Colo.) 1965, 346 F.2d 10, certiorari granted 86 S.Ct. 291, 382 U.S. 915, 15 L.Ed.2d 231, reversed 86 S.Ct. 1840, 384 U.S. 855, 16 L.Ed.2d 973.

Where extrajudicial statements of third person, who was a coconspirator, were made in furtherance of conspiracy at time when conspiracy was still in being, evidence of those statements was properly received and considered. U. S. v. Magliano, C.A.4 (Md.) 1964, 336 F.2d 817.

Declarations of coconspirator are admissible as substantive evidence of guilt of alleged conspirator when made in furtherance of existing conspiracy. Newman v. U. S., C.A.8 (Ark.) 1964, 331 F.2d 968, certiorari denied 85 S.Ct. 672, 379 U.S. 975, 13 L.Ed.2d 566.

If conspiracy has been proven by independent evidence, declarations of one conspirator made in furtherance of the conspiracy are admissible against each co-conspirator. Atkins v. U. S., C.A.9 (Wash.) 1962, 307 F.2d 937. See, also, U.S. v. Carminati, C.A.N.Y.1957, 247 F.2d 640, certiorari denied 78 S.Ct. 150, 355 U.S. 883, 2 L.Ed.2d 113. Criminal Law ⚡ 427(2)

Statement of alleged coconspirator implicating defendant could not be considered as evidence against defendant unless jury found that there was a conspiracy and that statement was made in furtherance thereof. U.S. v. Dorsey, C.A.6 (Tenn.) 1961, 290 F.2d 893, certiorari denied 82 S.Ct. 44, 368 U.S. 825, 7 L.Ed.2d 29.

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate the Smith Act, § 2385 of this title, making it an offense to advocate forcible overthrow of the government, the ordinary rule admitting against all defendants evidence of the acts and declarations of co-conspirators in furtherance of a common illegal enterprise was applicable. United States v. Flynn, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1954, 216 F.2d 354, certiorari denied 75 S.Ct. 295, 348 U.S. 909, 99 L.Ed. 713, order withheld 75 S.Ct. 285, 99 L.Ed. 1298, rehearing denied 75 S.Ct. 436, 348 U.S. 956, 99 L.Ed. 747.

To be admissible against others than declarant, a declaration must not only be made while conspiracy charged is pending but must also be in furtherance of object of conspiracy and by some one embraced within it. U. S. v. Konovsky, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1953, 202 F.2d 721. See, also, Gerson v. U.S., C.C.A.Okl.1928, 25 F.2d 49. Criminal Law ⚡ 423(1)

Where conspiracy contemplates a series of crimes, acts and declarations of a conspirator made during existence of conspiracy and in furtherance of the general plan of conspiracy, although after commission of the specific crime for which accused is on trial, are admissible. Bartlett v. United States, C.C.A.10 (N.M.) 1948, 166 F.2d 920.

The acts and declarations of confederates, past or future, are never competent against a party except so far as they are steps in furtherance of a purpose common to him and them. Canella v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1946, 157 F.2d 470

The acts and declarations of confederates, past or future, are not competent against a party, except in so far as they are steps in furtherance of a purpose common to him and them. United States v. Lekacos, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1945,

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

151 F.2d 170, certiorari granted 66 S.Ct. 169, 326 U.S. 711, 90 L.Ed. 420, reversed on other grounds 66 S.Ct. 1239, 328 U.S. 750, 90 L.Ed. 1557. See, also, U.S. v. Food and Grocery Bureau of Southern California, D.C.Cal.1942, 43 F.Supp. 966. Criminal Law ¶ 423(1)

Declarations of the various confederates were all admissible while the scheme was in process of realization, provided they were in furtherance of it, and it would not make any difference that declarations were made after indictment was found if the scheme had not yet ended. U.S. v. Cohen, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1944, 145 F.2d 82, certiorari denied 65 S.Ct. 553, 323 U.S. 799, 89 L.Ed. 637, certiorari denied 65 S.Ct. 553, 323 U.S. 799, 89 L.Ed. 638, certiorari denied 65 S.Ct. 554, 323 U.S. 800, 89 L.Ed. 638.

Testimony of divorced wife of one of defendants as to making a loan from bank on a note endorsed by one of alleged victims of defendant's fraudulent scheme was admissible as testimony in regard to an act of a conspirator carrying out object of conspiracy and it was binding on all the conspirators. Harper v. U. S., C.C.A.8 (Mo.) 1944, 143 F.2d 795.

The rule that mere communications between alleged conspirators are not proof of a scheme or conspiracy to use mails to defraud is not applicable where such communications are directed to advancing and effecting the conspiracy. Blue v. U. S., C.C.A.6 (Ohio) 1943, 138 F.2d 351, certiorari denied 64 S.Ct. 1046, 322 U.S. 736, 88 L.Ed. 1570, rehearing denied 64 S.Ct. 1259, 322 U.S. 771, 88 L.Ed. 1596, certiorari denied 64 S.Ct. 1046, 322 U.S. 737, 88 L.Ed. 1570.

The statement by alleged conspirator, to be admissible against others than declarant, must not only be made while conspiracy is pending, but must also be in furtherance of object of conspiracy, and mere narrative declarations are excluded. U.S. v. Goodman, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1942, 129 F.2d 1009.

The fact that a coconspirator tells another something relevant to the conspiracy does not alone make the declaration competent, and to be admissible the declaration must itself be an act in furtherance of the common object. U S v. Nardone, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1939, 106 F.2d 41, certiorari granted 60 S.Ct. 103, 308 U.S. 539, 84 L.Ed. 454, reversed on other grounds 60 S.Ct. 266, 308 U.S. 338, 84 L.Ed. 307.

Statements made by coconspirators in furtherance of conspiracy were admissible against defendant charged with conspiracy to violate internal revenue laws, where defendant's connection with conspiracy was abundantly shown by evidence aliunde. White v. U.S., C.C.A.4 (Va.) 1935, 80 F.2d 515.

In prosecution for conspiracy to counterfeit money, conspirator's statements to wife that defendant's wife made money belt, that defendant knew some one in South America who could handle counterfeit money, that defendant might take conspirator to South America with him to dispose of money, that defendant said it would be best if they carried counterfeit bills under their clothes, and for conspirator to carry money as money around defendant's waist would make him look much larger than normal, and that shortly before sailing conspirator told wife that defendant had agreed to give conspirator money, part of which was to be used to finance trip, inadmissible, being merely narrative of past events, and not in furtherance of object of conspiracy. Mayola v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1934, 71 F.2d 65.

Testimony of defendant in conspiracy prosecution relative to division of profits was admissible, as statement of one performing services in furtherance of conspiracy. Green v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Wash.) 1927, 19 F.2d 850, certiorari denied 48 S.Ct. 117, 275 U.S. 557, 72 L.Ed. 424, 72 L.Ed. 729, rehearing granted 48 S.Ct. 207, 276 U.S. 609, 72 L.Ed. 729, affirmed 48 S.Ct. 564, 277 U.S. 438, 72 L.Ed. 944.

Where two or more persons were associated for the same illegal purpose, any declaration or act of one of the persons in reference to the common object is admissible when they are in furtherance of the common object or constitute a part of the res gestae. Fitter v. U.S., C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1919, 258 F. 567, 169 C.C.A. 507.

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Affidavit made by one of defendants charged with conspiracy, but not in furtherance of conspiracy, was not admissible against coconspirator. Holsman v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1918, 248 F. 193, 160 C.C.A. 271, certiorari denied 39 S.Ct. 258, 249 U.S. 600, 63 L.Ed. 796.

Declarations made by one conspirator while the conspiracy was in progress, and relating to its object, although not in furtherance thereof, are admissible as part of the res gestae against each conspirator. Jones v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Or.) 1910, 179 F. 584, 103 C.C.A. 142.

Statements made in furtherance of objectives of going conspiracy are receivable in evidence against conspirators as exception to hearsay rule. U. S. v. Garrison, E.D.Wis.1958, 168 F.Supp. 622.

618. ---- Time and continuity of conspiracy, declarations of coconspirators, admissibility of evidence

That a conspiracy produces a continuing result does not make the conspiracy a continuing one so as to make admissible acts or declarations of a conspirator against coconspirators, but continuity of action to effect the object of the conspiracy is necessary, since a "conspiracy" is a partnership in crime. Fiswick v. U.S., U.S.N.J.1946, 67 S.Ct. 224, 329 U.S. 211, 91 L.Ed. 196.

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate the National Prohibition Act, former § 1 et seq. of Title 27, testimony given by one of the conspirators of what another conspirator who had died, had told the witness, during the progress of the conspiracy, was competent. Delaney v. U. S., U.S.Wis.1924, 44 S.Ct. 206, 263 U.S. 586, 68 L.Ed. 462. Criminal Law ↪ 423(1)

Statements of coconspirators concerning burning of ransom pickup car were admissible in prosecution for conspiracy to commit extortion and extortion based on a kidnapping because conspiracy continued so long as conspirators were acting together to destroy incriminating evidence. U.S. v. Medina, C.A.1 (Puerto Rico) 1985, 761 F.2d 12.

Admission of one partner tending to establish conspiracy are admissible against other partners so long as admissions were made during existence of alleged conspiracy. Greer v. United States, C.A.10 (Utah) 1955, 227 F.2d 546.

Evidence of acts and declarations of coconspirators made while the conspiracy was active was admissible against a conspirator which joined the conspiracy subsequent to its formation. U.S. v. General Motors Corp., C.C.A.7 (Ind.) 1941, 121 F.2d 376, certiorari denied 62 S.Ct. 105, 314 U.S. 618, 86 L.Ed. 497, motion granted 62 S.Ct. 124, 314 U.S. 579, 86 L.Ed. 469, rehearing denied 62 S.Ct. 178, 314 U.S. 710, 86 L.Ed. 566.

The "pendency" of conspiracy with relation to admissibility of declarations of a coconspirator relates to period during which conspiracy, in fact, existed, and is not restricted to period charged in indictment. U. S. v. Barrow, E.D.Pa.1964, 229 F.Supp. 722, affirmed in part, reversed in part 363 F.2d 62, certiorari denied 87 S.Ct. 703, 385 U.S. 1001, 17 L.Ed.2d 541. Criminal Law ↪ 422(1)

While conspiracy is in action, anything which one of the conspirators does or says in furtherance of conspiracy is admissible against the others. U.S. v. Food and Grocery Bureau of Southern California, S.D.Cal.1942, 43 F.Supp. 966.

619. ---- Independent evidence of conspiracy, declarations of coconspirators, admissibility of evidence

Declarations by one defendant may be admissible against other defendants upon sufficient showing, by independent evidence, of conspiracy among one or more other defendants and declarant and that declarations at issue were in furtherance of that conspiracy. U. S. v. Nixon, U.S.Dist.Col.1974, 94 S.Ct. 3090, 418 U.S. 683, 41

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

L.Ed.2d 1039.

Witnesses' testimony, along with a number of documents, constituted independent evidence sufficient to permit introduction of tape-recorded conversations between coconspirators. U.S. v. Davanzo, C.A.11 (Fla.) 1983, 699 F.2d 1097.

There was substantial evidence, independent of statement to be introduced, that conspiracy existed to which defendant belonged, as required to allow into evidence against defendant statements of alleged coconspirator of defendant during course of and in furtherance of conspiracy. U. S. v. Miller, C.A.11 (Fla.) 1981, 664 F.2d 826.

In order for a declaration of one coconspirator to be admissible against another, conspiracy must be established by independent evidence and evidence must then establish that statements were made during course and in furtherance of conspiracy. U. S. v. McMurray, C.A.10 (Utah) 1980, 656 F.2d 540, on rehearing 680 F.2d 695.

Trial court did not fail to make determination as to admissibility of coconspirator's statements even though it did not specifically say that there was sufficient independent evidence of the conspiracy and that defendant and coconspirator were involved in it. U. S. v. Horton, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1981, 646 F.2d 181, rehearing denied 655 F.2d 1131, certiorari denied 102 S.Ct. 516, 454 U.S. 970, 70 L.Ed.2d 388, certiorari denied 102 S.Ct. 1274, 455 U.S. 919, 71 L.Ed.2d 459.

Before coconspirator's statements can be considered by a court, government must show by preponderance of the evidence, independent of those conversations, that a conspiracy existed, that coconspirator and defendant were members of that conspiracy, and that the statements were made during course of and in furtherance of the conspiracy. U. S. v. Horton, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1981, 646 F.2d 181, rehearing denied 655 F.2d 1131, certiorari denied 102 S.Ct. 516, 454 U.S. 970, 70 L.Ed.2d 388, certiorari denied 102 S.Ct. 1274, 455 U.S. 919, 71 L.Ed.2d 459.

Test for admissibility of out-of-court statements of a coconspirator is whether there is sufficient, substantial evidence apart from the statements which establish prima facie case of a conspiracy and defendant's slight connection to the conspiracy. U. S. v. Batimana, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1980, 623 F.2d 1366, certiorari denied 101 S.Ct. 617, 449 U.S. 1038, 66 L.Ed.2d 500.

When in a criminal case the Government seeks, under the coconspirator rationale, to introduce as an admission the out-of-court statement of declarant other than the defendant, trial judge must make preliminary determination that there is sufficient independent evidence to establish that a conspiracy existed, that conspiracy was still in existence at time the statement was made, that declarations were made in furtherance of conspiracy, and that both declarant and defendant participated in the conspiracy. U. S. v. Lyles, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1979, 593 F.2d 182, certiorari denied 99 S.Ct. 1537, 440 U.S. 972, 59 L.Ed.2d 789, certiorari denied 99 S.Ct. 1545, 440 U.S. 975, 59 L.Ed.2d 794, certiorari denied 100 S.Ct. 94, 444 U.S. 847, 62 L.Ed.2d 61.

The admissibility of statements made by a coconspirator during the course and in furtherance of a conspiracy is dependent upon Government's proving the existence of conspiracy and the involvement with the conspiracy of the party against whom the statement is offered. U. S. v. Del Valle, C.A.5 (Fla.) 1979, 587 F.2d 699, certiorari denied 99 S.Ct. 2822, 442 U.S. 909, 61 L.Ed.2d 274.

Statements by a coconspirator during course of and in furtherance of a conspiracy cannot serve as a sole proof that the defendant against whom they are admitted was a member of the conspiracy; Government must produce independent evidence both that the conspiracy existed and, with respect to any defendant coconspirator against whom the statements are admitted, that he or she was a member of the conspiracy. U. S. v. Fredericks, C.A.5 (Fla.) 1978, 586 F.2d 470, certiorari denied 99 S.Ct. 1507, 440 U.S. 962, 59 L.Ed.2d 776.

Independent evidence in drug prosecution was sufficient to establish conspiracy and thus render admissible extrajudicial statements of coconspirator. U. S. v. Durland, C.A.10 (Colo.) 1978, 575 F.2d 1306.

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

For admissibility of extrajudicial statements made by coconspirators out of presence of defendant, independent evidence of conspiracy must be sufficient to make out prima facie case against defendant, i.e., judge must decide that reasonable jury could convict on basis of the independent evidence. U. S. v. Hansen, C.A.5 (Fla.) 1978, 569 F.2d 406.

Out-of-court declarations of a coconspirator may be introduced against the defendant only if there is substantial independent evidence, apart from the statement, of the conspiracy sufficient to establish a prima facie case that a conspiracy existed and that the member against whom the conversation is introduced had knowledge of and participated in the particular conspiracy alleged. U. S. v. Testa, C.A.9 (Hawaii) 1977, 548 F.2d 847.

To determine whether evidence is competent as against nondeclarant under coconspirator rule, trial judge must determine whether it has been proved, by preponderance of the evidence, that joint undertaking existed at time of statement or action; no lesser burden of proof would be satisfactory since defendant does not have opportunity to cross-examine declarant. U. S. v. Trowery, C.A.3 (Pa.) 1976, 542 F.2d 623, certiorari denied 97 S.Ct. 1132, 429 U.S. 1104, 51 L.Ed.2d 555. Criminal Law ¶ 427(5)

Testimony of coconspirators is admissible in prosecution for conspiracy if there exists substantial, independent evidence of the conspiracy to take question to jury. U.S. v. Kirk, C.A.8 (Mo.) 1976, 534 F.2d 1262, certiorari denied 97 S.Ct. 1174, 430 U.S. 906, 51 L.Ed.2d 581, certiorari denied 97 S.Ct. 2971, 433 U.S. 907, 53 L.Ed.2d 1091, conviction vacated in part on other grounds 723 F.2d 1379, certiorari denied 104 S.Ct. 1717, 466 U.S. 930, 80 L.Ed.2d 189.

Hearsay statements made to a government agent by a coconspirator are properly admissible if the prosecution proves the conspiracy's existence by independent evidence. U. S. v. Urdiales, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1975, 523 F.2d 1245, rehearing denied 528 F.2d 928, certiorari denied 96 S.Ct. 2625, 426 U.S. 920, 49 L.Ed.2d 373.

If independent, nonhearsay evidence establishes both a joint criminal enterprise on part of two or more individuals as well as a party's involvement in such conspiracy, coconspirator exception to hearsay rule may be invoked to admit testimony regarding statements of coconspirators, notwithstanding absence of a formal conspiracy indictment. U. S. v. Snyder, C.A.5 (Ala.) 1974, 505 F.2d 595, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 1433, 420 U.S. 993, 43 L.Ed.2d 676.

Statements of conspirators are admissible against other members of the conspiracy so long as there is other independent evidence showing that, in fact, there was a conspiracy between the defendant and the other conspirators. U. S. v. Brierly, C.A.8 (Iowa) 1974, 501 F.2d 1024, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 631, 419 U.S. 1052, 42 L.Ed.2d 648.

Before out-of-court conversations of a coconspirator may be used as evidence against a defendant, there must be proof from a source apart from the statement that a conspiracy existed and that member against whom conversation is introduced had knowledge of and participated in particular conspiracy alleged. U. S. v. Ledesma, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1974, 499 F.2d 36, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 501, 419 U.S. 1024, 42 L.Ed.2d 298.

Evidence relating to financial dealings of defendants charged with conspiring to defraud the United States in procuring SBA guaranteed loan furnished independent proof of conspiracy for purpose of admitting evidence relating to transactions and declarations of defendants. U. S. v. Smith, C.A.10 (Okla.) 1974, 496 F.2d 185, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 225, 419 U.S. 964, 42 L.Ed.2d 179, rehearing denied 95 S.Ct. 646, 419 U.S. 1060, 42 L.Ed.2d 658.

Admission of declarations of a coconspirator, in prosecution for conspiracy to manufacture and dispense methamphetamine, was not abuse of discretion where there was ample proof of the existence of the conspiracy before the challenged statements were offered. U. S. v. Shockley, C.A.9 (Wash.) 1971, 441 F.2d 1151.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Statements of conspirators are admissible against all members of a conspiracy so long as there is other independent evidence showing that there was, in fact, a conspiracy between the declarant and the others. National Dairy Products Corp. v. U. S., C.A.8 (Mo.) 1965, 350 F.2d 321, vacated 86 S.Ct. 1913, 384 U.S. 883, 16 L.Ed.2d 995, on remand 262 F.Supp. 447.

Statement by one conspirator is permitted to be received as against another if made during pendency of conspiracy and if there is independent evidence of existence of conspiracy and of objecting party's participation in it. Rogers v. U. S., C.A.5 (Fla.) 1964, 334 F.2d 83, certiorari denied 85 S.Ct. 892, 380 U.S. 915, 13 L.Ed.2d 800, rehearing denied 85 S.Ct. 1102, 380 U.S. 967, 14 L.Ed.2d 157.

Amount of proof aliunde as to existence of conspiracy that is required to render such evidence admissible is not as high as amount needed to warrant submission of a conspiracy charge to jury. U. S. v. Ross, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1963, 321 F.2d 61, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 170, 375 U.S. 894, 11 L.Ed.2d 123, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 175, 375 U.S. 894, 11 L.Ed.2d 123.

In applying the hearsay rule exception which permits the introduction of co-conspirator's declarations made in absence of defendant, the preliminary question of existence of conspiracy and connection of co-conspirator and defendant with it is not to be resolved by jury upon independent proof beyond reasonable doubt, nor is the question to be decided by jury on basis of prima facie case rather than proof beyond reasonable doubt; it is for the judge to resolve the question, and in making this determination the test is whether, accepting the independent evidence as credible, the judge is satisfied that a prima facie case (one which would support a finding) has been made; thereafter it is jury's function to determine whether evidence, including declarations, is credible and convincing beyond reasonable doubt. Carbo v. U. S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1963, 314 F.2d 718, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 1625, 377 U.S. 953, 12 L.Ed.2d 498, rehearing denied 84 S.Ct. 1902, 377 U.S. 1010, 12 L.Ed.2d 1058, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 1626, 377 U.S. 953, 12 L.Ed.2d 498, rehearing denied 84 S.Ct. 1903, 377 U.S. 1010, 12 L.Ed.2d 1058, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 1627, 377 U.S. 953, 12 L.Ed.2d 498.

Record disclosed that independent evidence made out such a prima facie case of existence of conspiracy and of connection of conspirators with it as to make admissible out-of-court declarations of conspirators as against co-conspirators who were not present when declarations were made. Carbo v. U. S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1963, 314 F.2d 718, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 1625, 377 U.S. 953, 12 L.Ed.2d 498, rehearing denied 84 S.Ct. 1902, 377 U.S. 1010, 12 L.Ed.2d 1058, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 1626, 377 U.S. 953, 12 L.Ed.2d 498, rehearing denied 84 S.Ct. 1903, 377 U.S. 1010, 12 L.Ed.2d 1058, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 1627, 377 U.S. 953, 12 L.Ed.2d 498.

Extrajudicial statements were admissible against declarants, who were charged with conspiracy to rob and substantive offense of robbery, for all purposes, where admissions of each defendant were corroborated by independent evidence. Atkins v. U. S., C.A.9 (Wash.) 1962, 307 F.2d 937.

To render evidence of acts or declarations of an alleged conspirator admissible against an alleged co-conspirator, existence of the conspiracy must be shown and connection of the latter therewith established by independent evidence, and the conspiracy cannot be established against an alleged conspirator by evidence of acts or declarations of his co-conspirators done or made in his absence. Glover v. U. S., C.A.10 (Colo.) 1962, 306 F.2d 594.

Where conspiracy counts were amply proved and were dismissed only to simplify issues, declarations of coconspirators were admissible. U. S. v. Campisi, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1962, 306 F.2d 308, certiorari denied 83 S.Ct. 287, 371 U.S. 920, 9 L.Ed.2d 229, rehearing denied 83 S.Ct. 500, 371 U.S. 959, 9 L.Ed.2d 507, certiorari denied 83 S.Ct. 293, 371 U.S. 925, 9 L.Ed.2d 233, rehearing denied 83 S.Ct. 502, 371 U.S. 959, 9 L.Ed.2d 507.

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In order that declarations of alleged coconspirators may be admissible against defendant, there must be proof aliunde of alleged declarations of existence of conspiracy, and declarations must have been made pursuant to and in furtherance of conspiracy. Rizzo v. U. S., C.A.8 (Mo.) 1962, 304 F.2d 810, certiorari denied 83 S.Ct. 188, 371 U.S. 890, 9 L.Ed.2d 123.

Independent evidence of existence of conspiracy, and evidence linking defendant to it at time of member's conversation with witness, was sufficient to permit witness' testimony as to conversation in which member referred to defendant as participant. Landers v. U. S., C.A.5 (Ga.) 1962, 304 F.2d 577.

Admissions and statements of a codefendant may be admissible as against other defendant in absence of a conspiracy count in indictment if there is sufficient independent evidence of a concert of action between defendants. Fuentes v. U. S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1960, 283 F.2d 537.

Statements and admissions of a codefendant may be used against a defendant upon a showing by independent evidence that there was a combination between them and it is not necessary to show by independent evidence that combination was criminal or otherwise unlawful. Fuentes v. U. S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1960, 283 F.2d 537.

An act cannot be considered in furtherance of a three-party conspiracy when there is no evidence to connect one of the parties to the other two at the time the act was committed. Continental Baking Co. v. U.S., C.A.6 (Tenn.) 1960, 281 F.2d 137.

Even if declarations of one coconspirator are erroneously received as evidence against another coconspirator, there is no reversible error if there is other competent evidence sufficient to prove the facts sought to be established by such declarations. U.S. v. Clancy, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1960, 276 F.2d 617, certiorari granted 80 S.Ct. 1611, 363 U.S. 836, 4 L.Ed.2d 1723, reversed on other grounds 81 S.Ct. 645, 365 U.S. 312, 5 L.Ed.2d 574.

Where defendant's connection with conspiracy was shown by independent evidence, there was no error in admitting statements of asserted coconspirators. U. S. v. Pellegrino, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1960, 273 F.2d 570.

In prosecution for conspiracy to defraud United States with respect to contracts, evidence linking two of the defendants to conspiracy was sufficient to justify admitting in evidence against them the admissions of other coconspirators. U S v. Lev, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1958, 258 F.2d 9, certiorari granted 79 S.Ct. 231, 358 U.S. 903, 3 L.Ed.2d 226, affirmed 79 S.Ct. 1431, 360 U.S. 470, 36 L.Ed.2d 1531, rehearing denied 80 S.Ct. 41, 361 U.S. 856, 4 L.Ed.2d 95.

Before one can be proven to be a conspirator and bound by admissions of a coconspirator, there must be some evidence produced of a conspiracy, and of his connection with the crime. Ong Way Jong v. U. S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1957, 245 F.2d 392.

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate the narcotics law, declarations of alleged coconspirator were not binding or admissible against the defendant where the conspiracy was not established. Ong Way Jong v. U. S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1957, 245 F.2d 392.

When independent evidence, together with acts and declarations of one conspirator, established the conspiracy, and independent evidence, together with acts and declarations of other conspirator, establish the conspiracy, the declarations of each coconspirator made during pendency of conspiracy and in furtherance of its object are admissible against both. Bartlett v. United States, C.C.A.10 (N.M.) 1948, 166 F.2d 920.

The declarations of one alleged conspirator are not admissible against coconspirator unless existence of conspiracy is established by other evidence, but declarations of each coconspirator are admissible against him and the whole evidence may be considered in determining whether a conspiracy has been established. Bartlett v. United States,

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

C.C.A.10 (N.M.) 1948, 166 F.2d 920.

Testimony of a co-conspirator was admissible against defendant without antecedent proof by the government of the existence of a conspiracy. Colt v. U.S., C.C.A.5 (Fla.) 1947, 160 F.2d 650.

In conspiracy prosecution, where there was ample evidence from which district judge could conclude that defendant and alleged coconspirator were acting in concert, witnesses were properly permitted to testify as to conversations and dealings with alleged coconspirator. U.S. v. Von Clemm, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1943, 136 F.2d 968, certiorari denied 64 S.Ct. 81, 320 U.S. 769, 88 L.Ed. 459.

The conspiracy must be proved prima facie or acts and declarations of coconspirators are inadmissible, and such declarations are made competent only after the conspiracy has been shown to exist. Hauger v. U. S., C.C.A.4 (W.Va.) 1909, 173 F. 54, 97 C.C.A. 372.

Once there is proof aliunde of existence of conspiracy, any act or declaration of a coconspirator made during and in furtherance of it is admissible against all other coconspirators. U. S. v. Barrow, E.D.Pa.1964, 229 F.Supp. 722, affirmed in part, reversed in part on other grounds 363 F.2d 62, certiorari denied 87 S.Ct. 703, 385 U.S. 1001, 17 L.Ed.2d 541. Criminal Law ¶ 427(2)

Conversations between witness and co-conspirator were admissible against defendant also charged with conspiracy, where at time testimony was offered there was clear evidence of a conspiracy between defendant, witness and other co-conspirator. U. S. v. Cisneros, N.D.Cal.1961, 191 F.Supp. 924, affirmed 322 F.2d 948.

Evidence must show existence of alleged conspiracy before evidence of acts, conduct and declarations or statements of defendants' alleged co-conspirators during period covered by indictment may be considered. U. S. v. Schneiderman, S.D.Cal.1952, 106 F.Supp. 892.

620. ---- Independent evidence of participation, declarations of coconspirators, admissibility of evidence

Defendant's acknowledgment of responsibility for honoring down payment to his son for illegal cactus sale in 1987 established knowing participation in conspiracy with son, and, thus, son's out-of-court statements that his father had taken him to cactus and was given $200 of down payment were admissible under hearsay rule; son's statements were also corroborated by recent vehicle tracks to cactus and fact that defendant provided directions to cactus on state land. U.S. v. Miller, C.A.9 (Ariz.) 1992, 981 F.2d 439, certiorari denied 113 S.Ct. 2945, 508 U.S. 966, 124 L.Ed.2d 693.

In prosecution for mail fraud, conspiracy, and interstate travel to facilitate an unlawful activity, nonhearsay proof, independent of coconspirators' statements, established a prima facie case of the existence of a conspiracy and defendant's participation in that conspiracy, and therefore, trial court properly admitted alleged coconspirators' statements. U. S. v. Tilton, C.A.5 (Fla.) 1980, 610 F.2d 302. Criminal Law ¶ 427(5)

Defendant's presence inside a coconspirator's pickup truck, along with the finding of a wrapped package of cocaine partly under the passenger's seat, was not sufficient to constitute the "slight evidence" of defendant's knowledge and participation in narcotics conspiracy; consequently, the coconspirators' statements were improperly admitted against defendant at his trial. U. S. v. Weaver, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1979, 594 F.2d 1272.

In prosecution for conspiracy, mail fraud, and wire fraud, admission of codefendant's secretary's testimony that codefendant had instructed her to make herself available to defendant and that she had sexual intercourse with defendant on one occasion warranted reversal of defendant's conviction, in view of fact that Government's evidence linking defendant to conspiracy and his role in schemes was far from overwhelming. U. S. v. Frick, C.A.5 (La.) 1979, 588 F.2d 531, certiorari denied 99 S.Ct. 2013, 441 U.S. 913, 60 L.Ed.2d 385.

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Hearsay declarations of coconspirators are inadmissible if no substantial independent evidence links defendant to conspiracy; hearsay declarations cannot serve as requisite independent evidence of participation and conspiracy. U. S. v. Peterson, C.A.9 (Nev.) 1977, 549 F.2d 654.

Hearsay testimony of conspirators bearing on defendant's participation in conspiracy was not admissible against defendant until the Government was able to link defendant to the conspiracy by other evidence. U. S. v. Morrow, C.A.5 (Fla.) 1976, 537 F.2d 120, rehearing denied 541 F.2d 282, certiorari denied 97 S.Ct. 1602, 430 U.S. 956, 51 L.Ed.2d 806. Criminal Law ¶ 427(2)

Testimony by purchaser of gun regarding defendant's invitation to the purchaser to buy the gun and the purchaser's testimony concerning sale of a second gun by defendant to the purchaser was sufficient to show defendant's participation in conspiracy to sell gun to nonresident so as to make testimony concerning another's statement to the effect that defendant knew about the sales admissible under the coconspirator exception to the hearsay rule. U. S. v. Cruz, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1976, 536 F.2d 1264.

Evidence as to what one alleged coconspirator had told second concerning what first had been told by a third concerning activities of a fourth was admissible as further proof of fourth alleged coconspirator's membership in conspiracy, where such evidence was not offered to prove truth of report made by third to first, but in any event was not prejudicial where such fourth person's membership in conspiracy had already been established by other competent evidence and where she was acquitted of substantive charges. U.S. v. Vigi, C.A.6 (Mich.) 1975, 515 F.2d 290, certiorari denied 96 S.Ct. 215, 423 U.S. 912, 46 L.Ed.2d 140.

In prosecution for conspiracy to import cocaine, evidence concerning meeting at which government agent told defendant that he had made arrangements with others for shipment of quantity of cocaine but that he had no knowledge whether final arrangements had been made and defendant replied that he did not know the others but that he would contact drug supplier to resolve agent's problem established defendant's participation in charged conspiracy by evidence other than hearsay and provided basis for admission of extrajudicial statements made by codefendants outside presence of defendant under conspiracy exception to hearsay rule. U. S. v. Rodriguez, C.A.5 (Fla.) 1975, 509 F.2d 1342.

Independent evidence necessary to permit reception of testimony of hearsay declarations of coconspirator need not establish alleged coconspirator's participation beyond reasonable doubt; such statements are admissible if trial court finds independent evidence credible and sufficient to support finding of concerted action. U. S. v. Johnson, C.A.1 (Mass.) 1972, 467 F.2d 804, certiorari denied 93 S.Ct. 963, 410 U.S. 909, 35 L.Ed.2d 270.

Independent evidence of membership in conspiracy is needed to ground decision to admit hearsay declaration by coconspirators, but once admitted, declarations are available on all issues. U. S. v. Marquez, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1970, 424 F.2d 236, certiorari denied 91 S.Ct. 56, 400 U.S. 828, 27 L.Ed.2d 58.

Evidence of conspirator that he was dealing with coconspirator in later phase of conspiracy was admissible against coconspirator only if other evidence permitted the inference that he had associated himself with the continuing venture. U. S. v. Borelli, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1964, 336 F.2d 376, certiorari denied 85 S.Ct. 647, 379 U.S. 960, 13 L.Ed.2d 555.

There must be independent evidence establishing a defendant's participation in a conspiracy if declarations of a co-conspirator made pursuant to and in furtherance of conspiracy are to be used against that defendant, but there is no requirement that jury must first find from the independent evidence that a conspiracy existed and that the defendants were members of it before considering the hearsay. U. S. v. Stadter, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1964, 336 F.2d 326, certiorari denied 85 S.Ct. 1028, 380 U.S. 945, 13 L.Ed.2d 964, certiorari denied 85 S.Ct. 1029, 380 U.S. 945, 13 L.Ed.2d 964.

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Hearsay statements which implicated defendant in conspiracy and which were made before its termination were admissible as competent and substantial evidence against defendant, where defendant had been linked to conspiracy by independent evidence. U. S. v. Boyance, C.A.3 (Pa.) 1964, 329 F.2d 372, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 1645, 377 U.S. 965, 12 L.Ed.2d 736.

Each defendant must be connected with alleged conspiracy by evidence independent of statements of coconspirators before statements are admissible against him. Hansen v. U. S., C.A.9 (Wash.) 1963, 326 F.2d 152.

Permitting alleged coconspirator to testify, over objection, to statements made to him by another alleged co-conspirator implicating defendants in conspiratorial scheme was not improper, where there was sufficient independent evidence to establish prima facie the participation of each of defendants in conspiracy. Hansen v. U. S., C.A.9 (Wash.) 1963, 326 F.2d 152.

Test in determining whether statements of conspirators are admissible against alleged coconspirators is not whether coconspirators' connection had by independent evidence been proved beyond reasonable doubt, but whether, accepting independent evidence as credible, judge is satisfied that prima facie case has been made and thereafter it is jury's function to determine whether evidence, including declarations, is credible and convincing beyond reasonable doubt. Hansen v. U. S., C.A.9 (Wash.) 1963, 326 F.2d 152.

It is declarant and those sought to be bound by his statements, and not witness to declarations, who must be shown to be coconspirators to render declarations of one admissible against the others. Hansen v. U. S., C.A.9 (Wash.) 1963, 326 F.2d 152.

While hearsay declarations of conspirator are admissible against his co-conspirators if made pursuant to and in furtherance of conspiracy, there must be independent evidence establishing defendant's participation in conspiracy before such declarations are admissible against him. U. S. v. Bentvena, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1963, 319 F.2d 916, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 345, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 271, rehearing denied 90 S.Ct. 894, 397 U.S. 928, 25 L.Ed.2d 108, rehearing denied 84 S.Ct. 515, 375 U.S. 989, 11 L.Ed.2d 476, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 346, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 271, rehearing denied 84 S.Ct. 1162, 377 U.S. 913, 12 L.Ed.2d 183, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 353, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 272, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 354, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 272, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 355, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 272, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 360, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 272.

Before statements of alleged coconspirator may be received in evidence as exception to hearsay rule, it is necessary that there be some competent proof, aliunde, from which jury can conclude that speaker was member of conspiracy. Dennis v. U.S., C.A.10 (Colo.) 1962, 302 F.2d 5.

Declarations by alleged coconspirators are admissible against alleged conspirator only where there is proof aliunde of his connection with conspiracy. Tripp v. U. S., C.A.10 (Okla.) 1961, 295 F.2d 418.

Statements made by defendant's brother to undercover agent in carrying out conspiracy to violate narcotics laws were admissible against defendant where there was eyewitness testimony of agents as to defendant's participation in similar transaction a month earlier involving defendant and his brother. U. S. v. Campisi, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1961, 292 F.2d 811, certiorari denied 82 S.Ct. 401, 368 U.S. 958, 7 L.Ed.2d 389.

Where proof in the record, in a conspiracy prosecution, was sufficient to show that defendant was a participant in the conspiracy charged, as a coconspirator, it was not error to permit introduction of evidence of the acts and declarations of other coconspirators. U. S. v. Vittoria, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1960, 284 F.2d 451.

In conspiracy prosecution, that evidence of one defendant's declarations were properly admitted did not establish that they might be used against his codefendant, absent a finding that the defendant was a co-conspirator or partner in the common criminal enterprise. U. S. v. Fabric Garment Co., C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1958, 262 F.2d 631, certiorari denied 79 S.Ct. 1117, 359 U.S. 989, 3 L.Ed.2d 978.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Evidence as to declarations of one alleged conspirator is admissible against an alleged coconspirator only if there is other proof connecting coconspirator with the conspiracy. Fowler v. U.S., C.A.5 (Ga.) 1957, 242 F.2d 860.

In conspiracy prosecution, declarations of accused's coconspirators do not become admissible against accused until accused is independently connected with the conspiracy. U S v. Nardone, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1939, 106 F.2d 41, certiorari granted 60 S.Ct. 103, 308 U.S. 539, 84 L.Ed. 454, reversed on other grounds 60 S.Ct. 266, 308 U.S. 338, 84 L.Ed. 307.

Statements of defendant not on trial to officers while under arrest was admissible, where evidence connected him with conspiracy. Green v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Wash.) 1927, 19 F.2d 850, certiorari denied 48 S.Ct. 117, 275 U.S. 557, 72 L.Ed. 424, 72 L.Ed. 729, rehearing granted 48 S.Ct. 207, 276 U.S. 609, 72 L.Ed. 729, affirmed 48 S.Ct. 564, 277 U.S. 438, 72 L.Ed. 944.

The knowledge of one conspirator cannot be charged or admitted against an alleged coconspirator until his participation in the conspiracy is shown. Kelton v. U S, C.C.A.3 (Pa.) 1923, 294 F. 491, certiorari denied 44 S.Ct. 403, 264 U.S. 590, 68 L.Ed. 864.

Before the evidence of an alleged co-conspirator can be admissible, the conspiracy must be shown, and it must also be shown that the defendant against whom the evidence was offered was a party to such conspiracy. Pope v. U S, C.C.A.3 (Pa.) 1923, 289 F. 312, certiorari denied 44 S.Ct. 33, 263 U.S. 703, 68 L.Ed. 515.

When the prosecution had produced evidence that defendant was the boss, and that those who made a sale of narcotics were merely his agents, the acts and declarations of the agents were binding on the defendant. Parisi v. U.S., C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1922, 279 F. 253.

621. ---- Absence of coconspirator, declarations of coconspirators, admissibility of evidence

Relevant declarations or admissions of a conspirator made in absence of co-conspirator, and not in furtherance of conspiracy, may be admissible in trial for conspiracy as against declarant to prove declarant's participation therein. Delli Paoli v. U.S., U.S.N.Y.1957, 77 S.Ct. 294, 352 U.S. 232, 1 L.Ed.2d 278.

Conspirator's declaration made in furtherance of conspiracy may be used against another conspirator not present on the theory that declarant is agent of the other, and the admissions of one are admissible against both under standard exception to hearsay rule applicable to statements of party. Delli Paoli v. U.S., U.S.N.Y.1957, 77 S.Ct. 294, 352 U.S. 232, 1 L.Ed.2d 278.

Relevant declarations or admissions of a conspirator made in the absence of the co-conspirator, and not in furtherance of the conspiracy, may be admissible in a trial for conspiracy as against the declarant to prove the declarant's participation therein, and the trial court must be careful at the time of the admission and by its instruction to make it clear that the evidence is limited as against the declarant only. Lutwak v. U.S., U.S.Ill.1953, 73 S.Ct. 481, 344 U.S. 604, 97 L.Ed. 593, rehearing denied 73 S.Ct. 726, 345 U.S. 919, 97 L.Ed. 1352.

Declarations of one conspirator may be used against the other conspirator not present on the theory that the declarant is the agent of the other, and admissions of one are admissible against both under a standard exception to the hearsay rule applicable to the statements of a party, but such declaration can be used against the co-conspirator only when made in furtherance of the conspiracy, and there can be no furtherance of a conspiracy that has ended, and therefore, the declarations of a conspirator do not bind the co-conspirator if made after the conspiracy had ended. Lutwak v. U.S., U.S.Ill.1953, 73 S.Ct. 481, 344 U.S. 604, 97 L.Ed. 593, rehearing denied 73 S.Ct. 726, 345 U.S. 919, 97 L.Ed. 1352.

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Declarations of one conspirator in furtherance of the object of the conspiracy made to a third party are admissible over the objections of an alleged coconspirator who was not present when they were made only if there is proof from another source that he is connected with the conspiracy. Glasser v. U.S., U.S. Ill. 1942, 62 S.Ct. 457, 315 U.S. 60, 86 L.Ed. 680, rehearing denied 62 S.Ct. 629, 315 U.S. 827, 86 L.Ed. 1222, rehearing denied 62 S.Ct. 637, 315 U.S. 827, 86 L.Ed. 1222.

Declarations of a coconspirator are admissible over the objection of an alleged coconspirator who was not present when they were made only if there is proof aliunde that he is connected with the conspiracy, for, otherwise, hearsay would lift itself by its own bootstraps to the level of competent evidence. U. S. v. Jackson, C.A.D.C. 1980, 627 F.2d 1198, 201 U.S.App.D.C. 212.

Coconspirator declarations are not admissible against a defendant not present when they were made until the prosecution, by independent evidence, establishes the conspiracy's existence, and the absent defendant's participation in it. U. S. v. Nelson, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1974, 498 F.2d 1247.

Declarations of one conspirator made in absence of another conspirator may be used against the other on theory that declarant is agent of absent conspirator, but there must be proof aliunde that declarant is connected with conspiracy, and jury must be instructed as to bearing declarations have on conspirators not present. U. S. v. Rodrigues, C.A.3 (N.J.) 1974, 491 F.2d 663.

In prosecution for conspiracy and other offenses, testimony concerning declarations made by coconspirators when defendant was not present was admissible against defendant where conversations occurred during pendency of conspiracy and concerned furtherance of objects of the conspiracy. U. S. v. Davis, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1973, 487 F.2d 112, rehearing denied 486 F.2d 1403, certiorari denied 94 S.Ct. 1573, 415 U.S. 981, 39 L.Ed.2d 878, rehearing denied 94 S.Ct. 2005, 416 U.S. 975, 40 L.Ed.2d 565.

Defendant's connection with conspiracy cannot be established by the extrajudicial declarations of a coconspirator made out of presence of the defendant and there must be proof aliunde of the existence of the conspiracy, and of the defendant's connection with it, before such statements become admissible as against a defendant not present when they were made. U. S. v. Nall, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1971, 437 F.2d 1177.

Testimony of various conversations by one or more conspirators, not made in presence of another alleged conspirator, and principally telephone calls to various businesses arranging for merchandise made outside of presence of such other alleged conspirator was properly admitted, in prosecution for conspiracy in connection with interstate transportation of goods of value of more than $5,000 obtained by fraud, in view of proof aliunde in record. Cave v. U. S., C.A.8 (Iowa) 1968, 390 F.2d 58, certiorari denied 88 S.Ct. 2059, 392 U.S. 906, 20 L.Ed.2d 1365.

Where jury was entitled to find agreement between alleged coconspirator and defendant charged with conspiracy to import narcotics antedating defendant's New York trip, defendant's overtures in New York could be regarded as on behalf of alleged coconspirator and other narcotics suppliers in Mexico if deal with named supplier fell through even though he was expected at time to be beneficiary, thus providing overt act in pursuance of conspiracy and warranting prosecution in New York. U. S. v. Padilla, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1967, 374 F.2d 996.

The existence of a conspiracy and defendant's participation in it must be established before any evidence of conversation of coconspirators outside defendant's presence is admissible against him. U. S. v. Plata, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1966, 361 F.2d 958, certiorari denied 87 S.Ct. 94, 385 U.S. 841, 17 L.Ed.2d 74.

Declarations of one conspirator may be used against another conspirator not present, on theory that declarant is agent of the other and the admissions of one are admissible against both under a standard exception to hearsay rule. U. S. v. Accardi, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1965, 342 F.2d 697, certiorari denied 86 S.Ct. 426, 382 U.S. 954, 15 L.Ed.2d 359.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Declarations by one alleged conspirator against another made out of the latter's presence and without proof that he had in any manner authorized it are inadmissible. U. S. v. Wortman, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1964, 326 F.2d 717.

Because trial court could properly infer defendants' knowledge of and participation in conspiracies of which they were convicted, out-of-court statements made by other conspirators in carrying out object of conspiracy were properly admitted against defendants, even though they were not present at time acts or declarations of coconspirators were made. Dedmore v. U. S., C.A.9 (Wash.) 1963, 322 F.2d 938.

The declarations of one conspirator in furtherance of objects of conspiracy, made to third party, are admissible against his co-conspirators; however, such declarations are admissible, over objection of co-conspirator who was not present when they were made, only if there is proof independent of declaration that he is connected with conspiracy. Carbo v. U. S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1963, 314 F.2d 718, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 1625, 377 U.S. 953, 12 L.Ed.2d 498, rehearing denied 84 S.Ct. 1902, 377 U.S. 1010, 12 L.Ed.2d 1058, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 1626, 377 U.S. 953, 12 L.Ed.2d 498, rehearing denied 84 S.Ct. 1903, 377 U.S. 1010, 12 L.Ed.2d 1058, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 1627, 377 U.S. 953, 12 L.Ed.2d 498.

Testimony concerning actions and words of an alleged co-conspirator outside the presence of the defendant in prosecution for conspiracy to transport stolen securities was properly received against defendant where there was sufficient proof aliunde of the conspiracy. Thogmartin v. U. S., C.A.8 (Iowa) 1963, 313 F.2d 589.

Declarations of conspirator are admissible over objections of alleged co-conspirator who was not present when they were made, only if there is proof aliunde that he is connected with conspiracy. Beatrice Foods Co. v. U. S., C.A.8 (Neb.) 1963, 312 F.2d 29, certiorari denied 83 S.Ct. 1289, 373 U.S. 904, 10 L.Ed.2d 199.

A person cannot be connected with conspiracy solely by declaration made by alleged coconspirator in his absence. Rizzo v. U. S., C.A.8 (Mo.) 1962, 304 F.2d 810, certiorari denied 83 S.Ct. 188, 371 U.S. 890, 9 L.Ed.2d 123.

Existence of conspiracy cannot be established against an alleged conspirator by evidence of acts or declarations of his alleged coconspirators made or done in his absence, and such declarations are admissible against him only where there is proof aliunde of his connection with the conspiracy. Ferina v. U. S., C.A.8 (Mo.) 1962, 302 F.2d 95, certiorari denied 83 S.Ct. 35, 371 U.S. 819, 9 L.Ed.2d 59.

Existence of conspiracy cannot be established against alleged conspirator by evidence of acts or declarations of his alleged coconspirators in his absence. Tripp v. U. S., C.A.10 (Okla.) 1961, 295 F.2d 418.

Statements of alleged coconspirators in absence of defendants were inadmissible against defendants, where no proof was adduced connecting defendants with conspiracy. Tripp v. U. S., C.A.10 (Okla.) 1961, 295 F.2d 418.

A codefendant's statement to a special government employee, made in absence of other defendants was admissible against defendants without independent proof of a conspiracy, in view of observations of several law enforcement officers and special employee unsupported by reference to such codefendant's declarations establishing concert of action between codefendant and other defendants. Williams v. U. S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1961, 289 F.2d 598.

No charge or proof of conspiracy need be produced in order to justify admission of a confederate statement, made in defendant's absence, but such third-party statement may be admitted if there is adequate independent evidence of concert of action between third party and defendant. Williams v. U. S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1961, 289 F.2d 598.

Extrajudicial declarations of conspirator made in furtherance of conspiracy are admissible against his coconspirators, but extrajudicial declarations made not in furtherance of conspiracy, while admissible against declarant, are not admissible against another who was not present when declaration was made. Ward v. U. S., C.A.4 (N.C.) 1960, 288 F.2d 820.

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Declarations of one conspirator may be used against the other not present, on theory that declarant is agent of the other and the admissions or statements of one are admissible against both. Blumenfield v. U. S., C.A.8 (Minn.) 1960, 284 F.2d 46, certiorari denied 81 S.Ct. 693, 365 U.S. 812, 5 L.Ed.2d 692.

In conspiracy prosecution, no error was committed in admitting evidence of statements said to have been made by a member of the conspiracy at times and places when and where defendants were not present. Padgett v. U. S., C.A.5 (Fla.) 1960, 283 F.2d 244. Criminal Law ¶ 422(6)

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate internal revenue liquor laws and for possession and sale of nontax-paid distilled spirits, evidence was sufficient to establish existence of conspiracy between alleged coconspirator and the rest of the defendants on trial, thereby rendering admissible in evidence the alleged conversations between government witness and alleged coconspirator outside the presence of any defendants on trial. Cash v. U.S., C.A.5 (Ga.) 1960, 279 F.2d 159, certiorari denied 81 S.Ct. 221, 364 U.S. 894, 5 L.Ed.2d 187.

A defendant's connection with a conspiracy may not be established by extrajudicial statement of an alleged coconspirator made out of presence of defendant. Taylor v. U.S., C.A.D.C.1958, 260 F.2d 737, 104 U.S.App.D.C. 219.

Declarations of one conspirator, made in furtherance of objects of conspiracy and during its existence, are admissible against all members of conspiracy; but a defendant's connection with a conspiracy cannot be established by extrajudicial declarations of a co-conspirator made out of presence of defendant, and there must be proof aliunde of existence of conspiracy, and of defendant's connection with it before such declarations become admissible as against defendant not present when they were made. Panci v. U. S., C.A.5 (La.) 1958, 256 F.2d 308.

Coconspirator exception to hearsay rule does not allow introduction of words or deeds of a government agent to an alleged coconspirator out of presence of defendants. U. S. v. Morello, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1957, 250 F.2d 631.

Declarations of one member of conspiracy, or of one of the joint members of some other unlawful undertaking, are admissible against members not present, where the declaration has been made for the purpose of furthering in any way the conspiracy or undertaking. Ebeling v. U.S., C.A.8 (Mo.) 1957, 248 F.2d 429, certiorari denied 78 S.Ct. 334, 355 U.S. 907, 2 L.Ed.2d 261.

Admissions of one alleged conspirator, not made in the presence of the other alleged conspirators, cannot be binding upon conspirators who were not in a position to controvert it. Stanley v. U. S., C.A.6 (Ky.) 1957, 245 F.2d 427, motion denied 249 F.2d 64.

There must be substantial evidence of a conspiracy before acts and declarations of a supposed conspirator become admissible against any other defendant if they are not done or said in his presence. Ong Way Jong v. U. S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1957, 245 F.2d 392.

It was proper, after prima facie showing of conspiracy and concert of action, to admit testimony concerning conversations of witness with co-conspirator outside presence of defendant. Shibley v. U. S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1956, 237 F.2d 327, certiorari denied 77 S.Ct. 94, 352 U.S. 873, 1 L.Ed.2d 77, rehearing denied 77 S.Ct. 212, 352 U.S. 919, 1 L.Ed.2d 124.

Statements of alleged coconspirators made outside the presence of a defendant are not admissible against defendant unless made during the progress of the conspiracy and in furtherance of its objects. Scarborough v. U. S., C.A.5 (Ala.) 1956, 232 F.2d 412.

Even though made out of his presence, statements by defendant's cohorts in furtherance of conspiracy were competent evidence against him in prosecution for conspiracy to illegally transfer narcotic drugs. Lott v. U.S.,

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

C.A.5 (Tex.) 1956, 230 F.2d 915, certiorari denied 76 S.Ct. 848, 351 U.S. 953, 100 L.Ed. 1477, rehearing denied 77 S.Ct. 25, 352 U.S. 860, 1 L.Ed.2d 70.

In prosecution for violation of narcotics law, § 4704 et seq. of Title 26, and for conspiracy to commit the offense, evidence of a witness for the government of conversations between a co-conspirator and the witness out of the presence of a defendant was properly admitted, where at the time it was received, the government had already proved a prima facie case of conspiracy as charged. U. S. v. Iacullo, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1955, 226 F.2d 788, certiorari denied 76 S.Ct. 435, 350 U.S. 966, 100 L.Ed. 839.

The connection of a defendant with a conspiracy can not be established by extrajudicial declarations of a co-conspirator, made out of presence of defendant, and there must be proof aliunde of existence of the conspiracy and of defendant's connection with it, before such statements become admissible against defendant not present when they were made. Montford v. U.S., C.A.5 (Fla.) 1952, 200 F.2d 759.

The acts or declarations of one co-conspirator, made in furtherance of conspiracy and before its termination, are binding upon, and may be proved against, all coconspirators, even though some of various acts and declarations occurred out of presence of certain of coconspirators, and even though individual coconspirator was not member of conspiracy until after acts were committed or declarations made. U.S. v. Bucur, C.A.7 (Ind.) 1952, 194 F.2d 297.

In prosecution of sheriff and liquor dealer for carrying on business of wholesale dealer without paying special taxes, hearsay statements made to and by alleged co-conspirators out of sheriff's presence and to which he was not a party, were properly admitted against sheriff under evidence sufficient to establish a prima facie conspiracy between sheriff and liquor dealer and under instructions during trial that testimony was not to be considered unless alleged conspiracy was established. Briggs v. U.S., C.A.10 (Okla.) 1949, 176 F.2d 317, certiorari denied 70 S.Ct. 102, 338 U.S. 861, 94 L.Ed. 528, rehearing denied 70 S.Ct. 158, 338 U.S. 882, 94 L.Ed. 541, certiorari denied 70 S.Ct. 103, 338 U.S. 861, 94 L.Ed. 528.

Participation of an alleged conspirator can be proved by his own acts done in absence of others, rule being that one defendant's connection with a conspiracy cannot be established by acts or declarations of other defendants in his absence; and a defendant cannot be bound by acts or declarations of other defendants until conspiracy has been established and defendant's participation in the conspiracy has been established. May v. United States, C.A.D.C.1949, 175 F.2d 994, 84 U.S.App.D.C. 233, certiorari denied 70 S.Ct. 58, 338 U.S. 830, 94 L.Ed. 505, order withheld 70 S.Ct. 81, 338 U.S. 854, motion denied 70 S.Ct. 94, motion denied 70 S.Ct. 95, rehearing denied 70 S.Ct. 154, 338 U.S. 882, 94 L.Ed. 542, rehearing denied 70 S.Ct. 155, 338 U.S. 882, 94 L.Ed. 542, order withheld 70 S.Ct. 80.

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate former Emergency Price Control Act, 50 App. former § 901 et seq., by selling whiskey at prices in excess of maximum prices, to engage in business of buying distilled spirits for resale at wholesale without having secured a basic permit, and to carry on a wholesale liquor business without having paid required tax, evidence was sufficient to establish the corpus delicti, so as to render conversations made outside the presence of one of the defendants as to whiskey sales, evidence against him. Samuel v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1948, 169 F.2d 787.

The existence of conspiracy cannot be established against an alleged conspirator by evidence of acts or declarations of his alleged coconspirator done or made in his absence. Bartlett v. United States, C.C.A.10 (N.M.) 1948, 166 F.2d 920.

An admission or statement by one conspirator made in the absence of co-conspirator is not admissible against the latter, unless shown to have been in furtherance of a conspiracy to which both were parties. Colt v. U.S., C.C.A.5 (Fla.) 1947, 160 F.2d 650.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Declarations of a conspirator made in absence of an objecting defendant cannot be admitted against him when independent evidence is lacking to show existence of conspiracy, and defendant's connection with it, but it is not necessary to show by independent evidence that conspiracy was criminal or otherwise unlawful. Braatlien v. U. S., C.C.A.8 (N.D.) 1945, 147 F.2d 888.

Evidence of conversations between conspirators in accused's absence as to statements by one of accused was competent, and not hearsay. Murray v. U.S., C.C.A.7 (Ill.) 1925, 10 F.2d 409, certiorari denied 46 S.Ct. 486, 271 U.S. 673, 70 L.Ed. 1144.

In prosecution against two defendants, where they were charged with stealing, etc., and conspiring to steal, from a mail or express car, interstate shipments of money, the admission of testimony by the express messenger, who it was claimed was a party to the conspiracy, that after the robbery was effected one of the defendants paid him a sum of money as his part, was inadmissible against the other defendant, who was not present at the time. Heard v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Ark.) 1919, 255 F. 829, 167 C.C.A. 157.

A statement tending to show a conspiracy to commit a crime between the person making it and the persons to whom it was made is not admissible against a third person who was not present, and to whom it is not shown to have been communicated, on his trial for the crime, unless his connection with the conspiracy is affirmatively shown. Dolan v. U S, C.C.A.9 (Alaska) 1903, 123 F. 52, 59 C.C.A. 176.

Declarations of one conspirator in furtherance of conspiracy are admissible against a co-conspirator who was not present when declarations were made if there is proof aliunde that the latter is connected with the conspiracy. U. S. v. Boyance, E.D.Pa.1963, 215 F.Supp. 390.

Conversations of conspirators in furtherance of objects of conspiracy are admissible against all conspirators, though all conspirators are not present at conversations. U. S. v. Cisneros, N.D.Cal.1961, 191 F.Supp. 924, affirmed 322 F.2d 948.

622. ---- Prior to existence of conspiracy, declarations of coconspirators, admissibility of evidence

Assertive conduct or declarations made by one conspirator before formation of the conspiracy are not admissible against a coconspirator. U. S. v. Morris, C.A.10 (Colo.) 1980, 623 F.2d 145, certiorari denied 101 S.Ct. 793, 449 U.S. 1065, 66 L.Ed.2d 609.

In conspiracy prosecution, admission of testimony of a conversation between defendant and coconspirator was not error on ground that conversation antedated the conspiracies, where conversation was relevant to show beginning of defendant's involvement in the criminal enterprise and his state of mind at the time, and conversation was relevant to the conspiracies because of reference to a certain telephone number as an explanation of the number's origin and significance. U. S. v. Del Purgatorio, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1969, 411 F.2d 84.

Previous acts and declarations of fellow conspirators are admissible against defendant who may have entered the conspiracy at a later date, at least insofar as they tend to show nature and objective of conspiracy which defendant joined. U. S. v. Santos, C.A.7 (Ind.) 1967, 385 F.2d 43, certiorari denied 88 S.Ct. 1048, 390 U.S. 954, 19 L.Ed.2d 1148.

Where no conspiracy is charged but defendants are charged jointly with committing substantive offense, acts and declarations of one are admissible against the other subject to qualifications that existence of conspiracy must be shown by independent evidence and that acts and declarations of one conspirator either before formation of or after termination of conspiracy are not admissible against coconspirator. Mares v. U.S., C.A.10 (Colo.) 1967, 383 F.2d 805.

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Statement of one conspirator to another during act and course of conspiracy giving full setting of upset in plans, with purpose of getting reassurance or other help, does not cease to be in furtherance of conspiracy because it contains natural and pertinent reference to past fact. U. S. v. Pardo-Bolland, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1965, 348 F.2d 316, certiorari denied 86 S.Ct. 388, 382 U.S. 944, 15 L.Ed.2d 353, certiorari denied 86 S.Ct. 407, 382 U.S. 946, 15 L.Ed.2d 354. See, also, U.S. v. Curry, C.A.N.C.1975, 512 F.2d 1299, certiorari denied 96 S.Ct. 55, 423 U.S. 832, 46 L.Ed.2d 50. Criminal Law ¶ 423(6)

Testimony as to the frequent presence of defendant, charged with conspiracy, in apartment of co-defendant prior to date fixed in indictment as beginning of conspiracy was not irrelevant to issue and while alone not enough to establish conspiracy had sufficient bearing thereon to make it admissible. Williamson v. U. S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1962, 310 F.2d 192.

In prosecution for conspiracy to defraud the United States through violation of former § 203 of this title, prohibiting members of Congress from receiving compensation in matters affecting the government, evidence of incident which occurred prior to alleged inauguration of conspiracy was admissible in view of fact that details of incident were shown by defendants in explanation of a payment shown by the government to have been made after alleged beginning of the conspiracy, which payment itself was an overt act which government contended constituted compensation to the congressman. May v. United States, C.A.D.C.1949, 175 F.2d 994, 84 U.S.App.D.C. 233, certiorari denied 70 S.Ct. 58, 338 U.S. 830, 94 L.Ed. 505, order withheld 70 S.Ct. 81, 338 U.S. 854, motion denied 70 S.Ct. 94, motion denied 70 S.Ct. 95, rehearing denied 70 S.Ct. 154, 338 U.S. 882, 94 L.Ed. 542, rehearing denied 70 S.Ct. 155, 338 U.S. 882, 94 L.Ed. 542, order withheld 70 S.Ct. 80.

The acts or declarations of a conspirator prior to formation of conspiracy or after its termination are not admissible against his coconspirator. Bartlett v. United States, C.C.A.10 (N.M.) 1948, 166 F.2d 920. Criminal Law ¶ 422(3); Criminal Law ¶ 424(1)

The fact that one who joins with another in a criminal venture knows that his confederate is engaged in other criminal undertakings with other persons, even though they be of same general nature, is not enough to make him a party to the conspiracy in its earlier phases, so that declarations of other conspirators, even though made before he has entered, are competent against him. United States v. Lekacos, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1945, 151 F.2d 170, certiorari granted 66 S.Ct. 169, 326 U.S. 711, 90 L.Ed. 420, reversed on other grounds 66 S.Ct. 1239, 328 U.S. 750, 90 L.Ed. 1557.

Evidence of wrongful acts committed by codefendant before dates of alleged conspiracy was relevant as bearing on codefendant's motive or intent touching conspiracy charged against him, but those transactions were not competent evidence as against defendant unless and until it was shown that he had knowledge thereof or was criminally connected therewith, and permitting evidence of those transactions to go to the jury generally was prejudicial to defendant. Wilson v. U.S., C.C.A.6 (Ky.) 1940, 109 F.2d 895.

When once a connection was shown between defendant and conspiracy, evidence of earlier activities of codefendants tending to prove origin and existence of conspiracy was admissible against defendant. U.S. v. Buckner, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1940, 108 F.2d 921, certiorari denied 60 S.Ct. 613, 309 U.S. 669, 84 L.Ed. 1016.

Acts prior to conspiracy were improperly admitted on prosecution for transportation of narcotics. Jay v. U.S., C.C.A.10 (Okla.) 1929, 35 F.2d 553.

Testimony that prohibition agents, charged with conspiracy to accept bribes, attempted to get bribe from witness before conspiracy charged in indictment, was admissible. Harvey v. U.S., C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1928, 23 F.2d 561.

Testimony respecting transactions arising before formation of conspiracy charged was competent to show defendants' course of dealing. Madden v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1927, 20 F.2d 289, certiorari denied 48 S.Ct. 116,

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

275 U.S. 554, 72 L.Ed. 423.

Acts of person committed prior to the formation of a conspiracy are not admissible against his subsequent coconspirator. Morrow v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Mo.) 1926, 11 F.2d 256.

Evidence of act of one alleged conspirator before date of conspiracy alleged was improperly allowed to remain in record, where no subsequent evidence showed conspiracy existed at time of such act. Morrow v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Mo.) 1926, 11 F.2d 256.

Admission of testimony as to transaction occurring two years before the conspiracy charged existed was error. Cooper v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Iowa) 1925, 9 F.2d 216.

In a prosecution for conspiracy to transport intoxicating liquor into a state, evidence that one of the defendants, before the conspiracy was formed, transported such liquor into the state, was admissible as tending to prove the subsequent formation of the conspiracy and the connection of that defendant with it. Grayson v. U.S., C.C.A.6 (Tenn.) 1921, 272 F. 553, certiorari denied 42 S.Ct. 49, 257 U.S. 637, 66 L.Ed. 409.

Where a person enters into a conspiracy, after its formation the acts and declarations of the other conspirators, jointly indicted, before he entered, are admissible in evidence against him. Roberts v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Wash.) 1918, 248 F. 873, 160 C.C.A. 631, certiorari denied 38 S.Ct. 583, 247 U.S. 522, 62 L.Ed. 1247.

623. ---- After termination of conspiracy, declarations of coconspirators, admissibility of evidence Declaration made by one conspirator after termination of the conspiracy, may only be used against the declarant and under appropriate instructions to jury. Delli Paoli v. U.S., U.S.N.Y.1957, 77 S.Ct. 294, 352 U.S. 232, 1 L.Ed.2d 278.

Statements defendant made to coconspirator about machine gun named in indictment had bearing on charge of whether he knowingly conspired to transfer specifically named weapon, and therefore they were not inadmissible other acts evidence, though statements may have been made after close of conspiratorial period. U.S. v. Buckner, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1996, 91 F.3d 34. Criminal Law ↪ 369.2(3.1)

In prosecution for mail fraud, making false statements to federally insured savings and loan associations, and conspiracy, trial court erred in admitting hearsay testimony of coconspirator, since statements by coconspirator were made after conspiracy had ended; however, since coconspirator's statements were shown by other evidence, and since evidence of defendant's guilt was overwhelming, the admission of the testimony was harmless beyond a reasonable doubt. U. S. v. Miller, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1982, 676 F.2d 359, certiorari denied 103 S.Ct. 126, 459 U.S. 856, 74 L.Ed.2d 109, certiorari denied 103 S.Ct. 145, 459 U.S. 866, 74 L.Ed.2d 123.

If conspiracy has terminated, purported statements of coconspirators are inadmissible as hearsay. U. S. v. McMurray, C.A.10 (Utah) 1980, 656 F.2d 540, on rehearing 680 F.2d 695.

Assertive conduct or declarations made by one conspirator after termination of the conspiracy are not admissible against a coconspirator. U. S. v. Morris, C.A.10 (Colo.) 1980, 623 F.2d 145, certiorari denied 101 S.Ct. 793, 449 U.S. 1065, 66 L.Ed.2d 609.

Statements of coconspirators in narcotics conspiracy which were made after delivery and seizure of heroin and one conspirator's arrest were admissible, despite contention that such events ended the conspiracy, as its goal had been accomplished, where integral element of the scheme involved the payment of tribute money which had not yet taken place, and the conversations in question dealt specifically with arrangements for such payment, and where the remaining coconspirators were unaware that conspirator had been arrested. U. S. v. Testa, C.A.9 (Hawai'i) 1977,

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

548 F.2d 847.

Evidence demonstrated that one conspirator's participation in the conspiracy continued even after his arrest and incarceration so that evidence of conversation engaged in by the conspirator following his arrest was properly admitted into evidence in conspiracy trial. U. S. v. Harris, C.A.7 (Ind.) 1976, 542 F.2d 1283, certiorari denied 97 S.Ct. 1558, 430 U.S. 934, 51 L.Ed.2d 779.

Rule that hearsay statements of one defendant in joint trial are generally inadmissible against codefendants applies to statements made by one conspirator after conclusion of conspiracy which tend to implicate another conspirator. U. S. v. Truslow, C.A.4 (W.Va.) 1975, 530 F.2d 257.

Where declarant's role as a coconspirator had ended by reason of his arrest, his later declaration to effect that other defendants had threatened to kill informer should not have been admitted against those other defendants, but the error in admission of such testimony was harmless in light of the overwhelming evidence against those other defendants. U. S. v. Arias-Diaz, C.A.5 (Fla.) 1974, 497 F.2d 165, rehearing denied 504 F.2d 760, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 1445, 420 U.S. 1003, 43 L.Ed.2d 761, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 1446, 420 U.S. 1003, 43 L.Ed.2d 761.

Statements implicating defendant, made by coconspirators after their arrest, were admissible in view of evidence that the overall conspiracy was still active after the coconspirators were arrested. U. S. v. Register, C.A.5 (Ga.) 1974, 496 F.2d 1072, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 802, 419 U.S. 1120, 42 L.Ed.2d 819.

Testimony by prosecution's witness, an accomplice, concerning telephone conversation with a defendant several days after proceeds of conspiracy had been divided was not inadmissible on ground that conversations took place after completion of a conspiracy. U. S. v. Iacovetti, C.A.5 (Fla.) 1972, 466 F.2d 1147, certiorari denied 93 S.Ct. 963, 410 U.S. 908, 35 L.Ed.2d 270, certiorari denied 93 S.Ct. 973, 410 U.S. 908, 35 L.Ed.2d 270.

Alleged coconspirator's declaration that conspiracy existed was admissible against him, over contention that statement was postconspiratorial and thus was a personal confession rather than a coconspirator's verbal act admissible against all defendants, and against all those present who by their silence or other conduct assented to the truth of the declaration. U. S. v. DeCicco, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1970, 435 F.2d 478.

Although declarations of coconspirator made after termination of conspiracy and not in furtherance thereof are admissible only against declarant and not against other alleged conspirators, evidence of acts of coconspirators committed subsequent to the termination of the conspiracy are admissible if relevant to prove the conspiracy and demonstrate its existence and illegal purposes. U.S. v. Levinson, C.A.6 (Mich.) 1968, 405 F.2d 971, certiorari denied 89 S.Ct. 1746, 395 U.S. 906, 23 L.Ed.2d 219, certiorari denied 89 S.Ct. 2097, 395 U.S. 958, 23 L.Ed.2d 744, rehearing denied 90 S.Ct. 37, 396 U.S. 869, 24 L.Ed.2d 124, rehearing denied 90 S.Ct. 36, 396 U.S. 869, 24 L.Ed.2d 124.

Conspirator's declarations made after conspiracy were admissible only as to such conspirator to prove his participation in conspiracy and were not binding on coconspirator. White v. U. S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1968, 394 F.2d 49.

Conspiracy had terminated at time all defendants were in custody and under arrest, and statements later given were admissible only against declarant and under appropriate instructions. Green v. U. S., C.A.10 (Okla.) 1967, 386 F.2d 953.

After a conspiracy has ended acts of a conspirator occurring thereafter are admissible against his former coconspirators only where they are relevant to show the previous existence of the conspiracy or the attainment of its illegal ends, and subsequent declarations, if otherwise relevant, are admissible only against the declarant. U.S. v. Chase, C.A.4 (Va.) 1967, 372 F.2d 453, certiorari denied 87 S.Ct. 1688, 387 U.S. 907, 18 L.Ed.2d 626, certiorari denied 87 S.Ct. 1701, 387 U.S. 913, 18 L.Ed.2d 635.

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Where, at time statements implicating defendant were made by an alleged coconspirator, all of alleged conspirators had been arrested and jailed and automobile and forged checks allegedly involved in conspiracy had been seized by police, conspiracy had come to an end, statements made could not be in furtherance of conspiracy, testimony of federal agent repeating statements was hearsay and was not rendered admissible on basis that statements had been made in furtherance of conspiracy and admission of such testimony over proper objection was prejudicial error. Woodring v. U. S., C.A.10 (Okla.) 1966, 367 F.2d 968.

Admittance of evidence of post-conspiracy interview with acquitted defendant in conspiracy prosecution under instruction that statements could be considered only in acquitted defendant's case was not error, where statements implicated only another defendant who was acquitted. U. S. v. Barrow, C.A.3 (Pa.) 1966, 363 F.2d 62, certiorari denied 87 S.Ct. 703, 385 U.S. 1001, 17 L.Ed.2d 541.

Post conspiracy declarations by codefendants in joint conspiracy trial were admissible against declarant where court had given precise limiting instructions both prior to receipt of statements and in final charge. Marroso v. U. S., C.A.5 (Fla.) 1964, 331 F.2d 601, certiorari denied 85 S.Ct. 185, 379 U.S. 899, 13 L.Ed.2d 174, certiorari denied 85 S.Ct. 193, 379 U.S. 899, 13 L.Ed.2d 174, rehearing denied 85 S.Ct. 437, 379 U.S. 951, 13 L.Ed.2d 549, rehearing denied 85 S.Ct. 436, 379 U.S. 951, 13 L.Ed.2d 549.

In joint trial, post conspiracy declarations by codefendants are admissible against declarant under proper limiting instructions. Marroso v. U. S., C.A.5 (Fla.) 1964, 331 F.2d 601, certiorari denied 85 S.Ct. 185, 379 U.S. 899, 13 L.Ed.2d 174, certiorari denied 85 S.Ct. 193, 379 U.S. 899, 13 L.Ed.2d 174, rehearing denied 85 S.Ct. 437, 379 U.S. 951, 13 L.Ed.2d 549, rehearing denied 85 S.Ct. 436, 379 U.S. 951, 13 L.Ed.2d 549.

Testimony of F.B.I. agent concerning statements made by alleged coconspirator of defendant to agent was inadmissible against defendant, where statements were made after alleged conspiracy had ended and were not made in furtherance of alleged conspiracy or its objects, and admission of that testimony was prejudicial error. Gay v. U. S., C.A.10 (Utah) 1963, 322 F.2d 208.

Statements made by co-conspirators at garage after robbery of veterans' administration hospital and conversations during a subsequent trip back to Oregon were admissible in prosecution of defendant for robbery, and for conspiracy to commit robbery, where defendant did not object, and even had he objected, the statements were not prejudicial to defendant in light of other evidence in the record. Feyrer v. U. S., C.A.9 (Wash.) 1963, 314 F.2d 110

Extrajudicial statements are not admissible in a conspiracy prosecution against a non-declarant if made after chief objective of the conspiracy has ended either in success or failure. Atkins v. U. S., C.A.9 (Wash.) 1962, 307 F.2d 937.

Statements made by one of several co-conspirators after the termination of the conspiracy and in absence of other co-conspirators are admissible only against the person making them. U. S. v. Sykes, C.A.6 (Ky.) 1962, 305 F.2d 172, certiorari granted 83 S.Ct. 1541, 373 U.S. 931, 10 L.Ed.2d 689, reversed on other grounds 84 S.Ct. 881, 376 U.S. 364, 11 L.Ed.2d 777.

Testimony of an agent of the FBI that a codefendant told him in 1958 that there was an agreement that down payment check for purchase of realty would be destroyed after an FHA insured loan was approved, was not admissible against defendant as a statement by an accomplice or a coconspirator made in furtherance of a criminal transaction, where it occurred long after the charged criminal conspiracy to make false statements in an FHA transaction terminated, and it was not admissible as to defendant to prove the conspiracy, nor the substantive offense. U. S. v. Dunn, C.A.6 (Ky.) 1962, 299 F.2d 548.

Written statement given by one of several defendants to Special Agent of Secret Service was admissible only against that defendant and not against other defendants, where statement was made after conspiracy had terminated and was not made in furtherance of conspiracy. Tripp v. U. S., C.A.10 (Okla.) 1961, 295 F.2d 418.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

While the act of one conspirator is admissible against others if it is in furtherance of the criminal undertaking, all such responsibility ends when the conspiracy ends. Trussell v. U.S., C.A.6 (Ky.) 1960, 278 F.2d 478.

A postconspiratorial statement by coconspirator is no part of conspiracy itself and is not admissible against his coconspirators. U.S. v. Lev, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1960, 276 F.2d 605, certiorari denied 80 S.Ct. 1248, 363 U.S. 812, 4 L.Ed.2d 1153.

Where it appears that two or more persons have conspired to commit an offense, anything said or done by one of them during the conspiracy and in furtherance of the conspiracy is admissible in evidence against all, but, after the conspiracy has come to an end, admissions of one conspirator, by way of narrative of past facts, are not admissible in evidence against the others. Cleaver v. U. S., C.A.10 (Colo.) 1956, 238 F.2d 766.

A conspiracy generally is ended, by the arrest of one of the confederates, and therefore his declarations to arresting officers are not admissible against his coconspirators since they do not partake of the singleness of purpose which marks the conspiracy, and are hearsay in the trial of the coconspirators. Cleaver v. U. S., C.A.10 (Colo.) 1956, 238 F.2d 766.

Extrajudicial admission made by conspirator subsequent to termination of conspiracy was not admissible as against other conspirator. Yokely v. United States, C.A.9 (Alaska) 1956, 237 F.2d 455, 16 Alaska 444.

Once the concerted action has ended, a declaration of one of several defendants on trial for conspiracy, is inadmissible, as hearsay, against defendants other than declarant. United States v. Delli Paoli, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1956, 229 F.2d 319, certiorari granted 76 S.Ct. 544, 350 U.S. 992, 100 L.Ed. 858, affirmed 77 S.Ct. 294, 352 U.S. 232, 1 L.Ed.2d 278.

Declaration of one of several conspirators, made after concerted action has ended, is competent evidence, in joint trial of several defendants, only against declarant, and then only if trial court admonishes jury not to consider evidence in determining guilt of defendants other than declarant. United States v. Delli Paoli, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1956, 229 F.2d 319, certiorari granted 76 S.Ct. 544, 350 U.S. 992, 100 L.Ed. 858, affirmed 77 S.Ct. 294, 352 U.S. 232, 1 L.Ed.2d 278.

Generally, admissions or acts of a conspirator after conspiracy has terminated or prior to its formation are not competent evidence against a coconspirator. Christianson v. U. S., C.A.8 (N.D.) 1955, 226 F.2d 646, certiorari denied 76 S.Ct. 543, 350 U.S. 994, 100 L.Ed. 859.

Statements or confessions of one conspirator made after the conspiracy is ended are not admissible evidence against the other conspirators, but this does not render a conspirator incompetent to testify as to activities of various defendants on trial during conspiracy. Smith v. U.S., C.A.5 (Tex.) 1955, 224 F.2d 58, certiorari denied 76 S.Ct. 138, 350 U.S. 885, 100 L.Ed. 780.

Statements made by conspirator to witness after conspiracy had ended was admissible against such conspirator but was not admissible in evidence against his coconspirators. Metcalf v. U.S., C.A.6 (Ky.) 1952, 195 F.2d 213.

Where statements made by conspirators to witness after conspiracy had ended were read, at request of counsel for two other conspirators, upon cross-examination of witness, such statements were thereby made competent as to such conspirators. Metcalf v. U.S., C.A.6 (Ky.) 1952, 195 F.2d 213.

In prosecution for causing to be transported and transporting a forged check drawn on an Oklahoma bank to

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Louisiana and back to Oklahoma and for conspiring to commit offense against United States by transporting of such forged check, evidence with respect to handling and disposition in Oklahoma of whiskey acquired in Louisiana with forged check and evidence of statements made by defendant's alleged co-conspirators in connection with handling of such whiskey was properly admitted to present to jury true picture of broader criminal plan of which specific conspiracy charged was an integral part and to establish the defendant's connection with such conspiracy and substantive offenses even though such acts occurred after objects of specific conspiracy charged had been effected. Byford v. U.S., C.A.10 (Okla.) 1950, 185 F.2d 171.

In prosecution of commissioner, deputy clerk and interpreters for conspiracy to defraud the government by issuance of passports wherein court reserved decision on motion for acquittal on behalf of clerk, court could properly admit statements of clerk made after termination of conspiracy containing references to commissioner under instruction that jury should not consider testimony damaging evidence or evidence at all against commissioner, and then grant motion on behalf of clerk at close of all the evidence. U. S. v. Griffin, C.A.3 (Pa.) 1949, 176 F.2d 727, certiorari denied 70 S.Ct. 478, 338 U.S. 952, 94 L.Ed. 588, rehearing denied 70 S.Ct. 559, 339 U.S. 916, 94 L.Ed. 1341.

In prosecution for conspiracy to evade payment of income taxes, admissions, statements and acts of individual defendants made or performed after termination of conspiracy were not admissible and could not be utilized in support of conspiracy charge. U.S. v. Rosenblum, C.A.7 (Ind.) 1949, 176 F.2d 321, certiorari denied 70 S.Ct. 239, 338 U.S. 893, 94 L.Ed. 548, rehearing denied 70 S.Ct. 344, 338 U.S. 940, 94 L.Ed. 579, certiorari denied 70 S.Ct. 240, 338 U.S. 893, 94 L.Ed. 549, rehearing denied 70 S.Ct. 344, 338 U.S. 940, 94 L.Ed. 580.

The acts and declarations of a conspirator, made after termination of conspiracy, are not admissible against his coconspirators, but such declarations are admissible against the conspirator who makes them. Bartlett v. United States, C.C.A.10 (N.M.) 1948, 166 F.2d 920. See, also, Logan v. U.S., Tex.1892, 12 S.Ct. 617, 144 U.S. 263, 36 L.Ed. 429; Quirk v. U.S., C.C.A.Iowa 1947, 161 F.2d 138; Phelps v. U.S., C.C.A.Minn.1947, 160 F.2d 858, rehearing denied 161 F.2d 940, certiorari denied 68 S.Ct. 1525, 334 U.S. 860; U.S. v. Alfano, C.C.A.Pa.1945, 152 F.2d 395; Anderson v. U.S., C.C.A.Tenn.1941, 124 F.2d 58, reversed on other grounds 63 S.Ct. 599, 318 U.S. 350, 87 L.Ed. 829; Bryan v. U.S., C.C.A.Tex.1927, 17 F.2d 741; Johnson v. U.S., C.C.A.W.Va.1925, 5 F.2d 471, certiorari denied, 46 S.Ct. 101, 269 U.S. 574, 70 L.Ed. 419; Leady v. U.S., C.C.A.N.D.1922, 280 F. 864; Hendrey v. U.S., Tenn.1916, 233 F. 5, 147 C.C.A. 75. Criminal Law ¶ 424(1)

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate Emergency Price Control Act, 50 App. former § 904, by purchasing field corn in excess of ceiling price, testimony of codefendants, concerning conversations they had with accused after conspiracy had terminated to effect that accused informed codefendants that government inspectors were investigating the case and that accused had told codefendants not to tell inspectors about the "corn deal" was properly admitted as an admission against interest by accused. Quirk v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Iowa) 1947, 161 F.2d 138.

In prosecution for violation of former § 338 of this title by fraudulently procuring a commission from a corporation, coconspirator's testimony that another conspirator had told him that half of the commission was actually paid to the "principals" of the person for whom the commission had been procured was admissible, where statement was by way of final settlement with coconspirator in completion of conspiracy. U.S. v. Groves, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1941, 122 F.2d 87, certiorari denied 62 S.Ct. 135, 314 U.S. 670, 86 L.Ed. 536.

Under the substantive law of agency and of conspiracy, rather than of evidence, agent has no authority on behalf of principal and accomplice has no authority on behalf of coconspirators to act, as by making admissions, after agency is terminated or conspiracy is over, and hence such admissions are not admissible as part of the "res gestae" but are "hearsay." Gambino v. U. S., C.C.A.3 (Pa.) 1939, 108 F.2d 140.

In prosecution for possessing with intent to pass and utter counterfeit $10 silver certificates of the United States government, and with conspiracy to possess, pass, and utter the counterfeit money, testimony of government agents as to conversation with one of the conspirators which was in nature of confession of such conspirator, who had previously placed himself in custody of the government, and thereby terminated the conspiracy, was inadmissible. U.S. v. Corso, C.C.A.7 (Ill.) 1938, 100 F.2d 604.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Generally arrest of coconspirators precludes any further concerted action, and puts an end to conspiracy, as affects admissibility of acts or declarations of codefendants. Graham v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Okla.) 1926, 15 F.2d 740, certiorari denied 47 S.Ct. 587, 274 U.S. 743, 71 L.Ed. 1321.

Acts and declarations of conspirators after robbery were admissible. Murray v. U.S., C.C.A.7 (Ill.) 1925, 10 F.2d 409, certiorari denied 46 S.Ct. 486, 271 U.S. 673, 70 L.Ed. 1144.

Evidence as to statements of alleged conspirator shortly after arrest, when all were present in attempted performance of conspiracy, was not inadmissible, on theory that conspiracy had then been frustrated. Fisher v. U.S., C.C.A.1 (R.I.) 1925, 8 F.2d 978, certiorari denied 46 S.Ct. 482, 271 U.S. 666, 70 L.Ed. 1140.

On trial together of two defendants charged with conspiracy, evidence of incriminating statements made by one, after the conspiracy had ended was properly admitted, where the jury was charged that it was not to be considered against his codefendant. Gwinn v. U.S., C.C.A.5 (Tex.) 1923, 294 F. 878.

On a trial for removing and concealing whisky to evade payment of the tax and for conspiracy to do so, the statement of defendant's brother, after the conspiracy had been frustrated and not in defendant's presence, that he was transferring liquor under defendant's direction, was inadmissible. Parilla v. U.S., C.C.A.6 (Ohio) 1922, 280 F. 761.

"Then it is said that error was committed in allowing the attorney for Antoon to testify that, after the latter had told the former as to his transactions with the Samaras, the attorney took Antoon to the United States attorney's office, which led to the indictment in this case. We are told that this is a clear violation of the rule that what is said or done by one of the conspirators after the conspiracy is ended, in the absence of the defendants on trial, is totally inadmissible. The rule is admitted, but its application to the facts is denied. On his direct examination Antoon testified that he first went to his attorney and told his story, and that his attorney took him to the District Judge, to whom he confessed his crime. The attorney was permitted to testify that, after Antoon confessed to him, instead of taking Antoon first to the district attorney, he took him direct to the District Judge. This is simply a part of the history of the transaction, and as such the government was entitled to it. The objection at all events seems to us quite unimportant, and we fail to perceive any relation between this occurrence and the rule that the statement of a conspirator in the absence of his coconspirators, after the conspiracy is ended, is not admissible." Samara v. U.S., C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1920, 263 F. 12.

In a prosecution of two defendants for conspiracy to defraud the United States, testimony of statements or admissions by one defendant made to a representative of the Department of Justice after the conspiracy, if it had existed, had ended in failure, was inadmissible against the other defendant. Feder v. U.S., C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1919, 257 F. 694, 168 C.C.A. 644.

Statements by alleged party to scheme to defraud, in furtherance of which mails were used after scheme was ended, were hearsay as to other parties. McDonald v. U.S., C.C.A.6 (Tenn.) 1917, 241 F. 793, 154 C.C.A. 495.

In a prosecution for conspiring to bring or cause to be brought into United States, Chinese persons not allowed to enter, acts and statements of one coconspirator after Chinese were brought across the international boundary were admissible against others, conspiracy not being there ended. Lew Moy v. U S, C.C.A.8 (N.M.) 1916, 237 F. 50, 150 C.C.A. 252.

Declarations of one co-conspirator, after the conspiracy was at an end, were inadmissible, as well as letters identified by declarant, against another co-conspirator. Erber v. U.S., C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1916, 234 F. 221, 148 C.C.A. 123.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

It was not error to admit declarations made by the several defendants, but not in the presence of each other, after the termination of all acts in furtherance of the object of the conspiracy, where the evidence was expressly offered and received as against the party making the same alone, and the court charged the jury that the declarations could be considered only against the parties who made them, and then only for the purpose of connecting them with the conspiracy if they should find that one had been entered into, and further that "this evidence is not to be considered by the jury in considering the question as to whether or not the defendants are guilty of the crime of conspiracy, but only as tending to prove the relation which the parties making the same may have had to any conspiracy that may have existed prior to that time." Lorenz v. U.S., App.D.C.1904, 24 App.D.C. 337, certiorari denied 25 S.Ct. 796, 196 U.S. 640, 49 L.Ed. 631.

624. ---- Withdrawal from conspiracy, declarations of coconspirators, admissibility of evidence

Had defendant withdrawn from alleged conspiracy to obstruct justice and defraud the United States, declarations of co-conspirators uttered after the date of his withdrawal would have been inadmissible against defendant. U. S. v. Mardian, C.A.D.C.1976, 546 F.2d 973, 178 U.S.App.D.C. 207.

Declarations of coconspirator in the course of his affirmative efforts to salvage what was left in criminal enterprise, after one member of conspiracy resigned from governmental post and several members of conspiracy were indicted for offenses other than those for which instant prosecution was instituted, were admissible even though objectives of conspiracy had become more limited and the hoped repetition of the conspiratorial endeavor was impossible. U. S. v. DeSapio, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1970, 435 F.2d 272, certiorari denied 91 S.Ct. 2170, 402 U.S. 999, 29 L.Ed.2d 166, rehearing denied 91 S.Ct. 2249, 403 U.S. 941, 29 L.Ed.2d 722.

In conspiracy case, where statement of coconspirator to his mistress that a person was taking place of particular defendant because such defendant had withdrawn from conspiracy was nothing more than repetition and amplification of earlier statement which announced such withdrawal and was necessary to explain presence of person being substituted, "agency" to communicate withdrawal was sufficient to make statement admissible against defendant though he had already withdrawn. U. S. v. Geaney, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1969, 417 F.2d 1116, certiorari denied 90 S.Ct. 1276, 397 U.S. 1028, 25 L.Ed.2d 539.

Out-of-court declarations, made when the declarant is no longer a conspirator and offered to prove the truth of their contents, are not admissible against one of the declarant's partners in crime. Granza v. U. S., C.A.5 (Tex.) 1967, 377 F.2d 746, rehearing denied 381 F.2d 190, certiorari denied 88 S.Ct. 291, 389 U.S. 939, 19 L.Ed.2d 292.

A statement by a person, on a chance encounter with principal witness in narcotics conspiracy case, that the person thought the difficulties which the principals had had with a certain person had been resolved, would better have been excluded, both because of lack of evidence that any bond with the person making the remark still existed and because this declaration, made after the witness' severance with one of the principals, appeared to have been narrative only. U. S. v. Borelli, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1964, 336 F.2d 376, certiorari denied 85 S.Ct. 647, 379 U.S. 960, 13 L.Ed.2d 555.

In a conspiracy case the scope of defendant's agreement is often pertinent to admissibility of implicating declarations by coconspirators and to relevance of evidence of their acts; however, many, perhaps most, declarations concerning a defendant who was no longer participating in conspiracy would be barred in any event by requirement that these be in furtherance of conspiracy and not be merely narrative. U. S. v. Borelli, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1964, 336 F.2d 376, certiorari denied 85 S.Ct. 647, 379 U.S. 960, 13 L.Ed.2d 555.

In a conspiracy case the scope of defendant's agreement is often pertinent to admissibility of implicating

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

declarations by coconspirators and to relevance of evidence of their acts; however, many, perhaps most, declarations concerning a defendant who was no longer participating in conspiracy would be barred in any event by requirement that these be in furtherance of conspiracy and not be merely narrative. U. S. v. Borelli, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1964, 336 F.2d 376, certiorari denied 85 S.Ct. 647, 379 U.S. 960, 13 L.Ed.2d 555.

Where utterances were offered as acts rather than as declarations, their admissibility against a defendant would not be destroyed by his previous withdrawal from conspiracy. U. S. v. Ross, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1963, 321 F.2d 61, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 170, 375 U.S. 894, 11 L.Ed.2d 123, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 175, 375 U.S. 894, 11 L.Ed.2d 123.

In prosecution of defendant, who, in Texas, purchased geophysical maps stolen from Pittsburgh office of oil company, for conspiracy to transport in interstate commerce geophysical maps knowing them to have been stolen, although coconspirator had withdrawn from conspiracy, admission of statement to coconspirator that second coconspirator had obtained maps from company and transported them to other states was not error. U. S. v. Lester, C.A.3 (Pa.) 1960, 282 F.2d 750, certiorari denied 81 S.Ct. 385, 364 U.S. 937, 5 L.Ed.2d 368.

In prosecution for conspiracy to defraud government, declarations made by a defendant after he severed his connection with other defendants and after alleged conspiracy came to end were inadmissible as against co-conspirator. Greer v. United States, C.A.10 (Utah) 1955, 227 F.2d 546.

625. ---- Acquittal of coconspirators, declarations of coconspirators, admissibility of evidence

Acquittal of one defendant on conspiracy count did not invalidate use against him of declarations of conspirators in furtherance of conspiracy where trial judge was amply justified in concluding that prosecutor had proved the acquitted defendant's participation in the conspiracy by a fair preponderance of the evidence independent of the hearsay utterances. U. S. v. Jacobs, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1973, 475 F.2d 270, certiorari denied 94 S.Ct. 116, 414 U.S. 821, 38 L.Ed.2d 53, certiorari denied 94 S.Ct. 131, 414 U.S. 821, 38 L.Ed.2d 53.

Statements by alleged coconspirator to defendant were admissible in conspiracy prosecution despite alleged coconspirator's earlier acquittal on conspiracy charge. U. S. v. Bass, C.A.8 (Ark.) 1973, 472 F.2d 207, certiorari denied 93 S.Ct. 2751, 412 U.S. 928, 37 L.Ed.2d 155.

626. ---- Concealment, declarations of coconspirators, admissibility of evidence

In federal conspiracy trials the hearsay exception that allows evidence of out-of-court statement of one conspirator to be admitted against fellow conspirators applies only if the statement was made in the course of and in furtherance of conspiracy, and not during subsequent period when the conspirators were engaged in nothing more than concealment of the criminal enterprise. (Per Mr. Justice Stewart with The Chief Justice and two justices concurring and one justice concurring in result.) Dutton v. Evans, U.S.Ga.1970, 91 S.Ct. 210, 400 U.S. 74, 27 L.Ed.2d 213, on remand 441 F.2d 657.

A conspiracy does not always imply an agreement of the conspirators to collaborate to conceal the conspiracy, as respects admissibility of acts and declarations of the conspirators. Lutwak v. U.S., U.S.Ill.1953, 73 S.Ct. 481, 344 U.S. 604, 97 L.Ed. 593, rehearing denied 73 S.Ct. 726, 345 U.S. 919, 97 L.Ed. 1352.

Coconspirators' statements concerning defendants' attempts to conceal arson-for-profit scheme were admissible, where conspiracy to maliciously destroy property by explosives and commit mail fraud in order to obtain insurance benefits for remodeling purposes continued throughout period of all statements in question. U.S. v. Zabic, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1984, 745 F.2d 464.

Admissions made after a robbery were not inadmissible in prosecution for conspiracy to rob on theory conspiracy had ended, where criminal aim of the conspiracy was not only to commit the robbery but to take profit by illegal means, and fruits of the crime had not been disposed of at time of the admissions, and admissions were made while defendants were in process of violating § 2113(c) of this title proscribing concealment of money knowing it to have been stolen. Atkins v. U. S., C.A.9 (Wash.) 1962, 307 F.2d 937.

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In prosecution for conspiracy to defraud the United States by obtaining entry of an alien by concealment of material facts where evidence established that defendant knew that alien had entered into an unconsummated marriage with a citizen to obtain a visa and had agreed to a divorce after visa was obtained, evidence of defendant's activities in procuring alien's divorce based on false affidavit of service and false testimony was relevant, notwithstanding that conspiracy had previously ended when alien entered under the immigration visa, since divorce went to confirm testimony of alien and her husband as to what they had originally intended and agreed upon with defendant. U.S. v. Rubenstein, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1945, 151 F.2d 915, certiorari denied 66 S.Ct. 168, 326 U.S. 766, 90 L.Ed. 462.

While the declarations of co-conspirators made after the enterprise has ended are not admissible against each other, yet, if they are made in pursuance of the enterprise, and tending to the accomplishment of the object for which the conspiracy was made and overt acts were performed, they are admissible. U.S. v. Lancaster, C.C.S.D.Ga.1891, 44 F. 896.

Although every conspiracy does not necessarily include implicit agreement to prevent detection and punishment, it does not necessarily follow that acts and declarations made after conspiracy ended are not admissible; if act committed by one conspirator after conspiracy has ended is relevant to prove essential fact of conspiracy, evidence of that act is competent. U. S. ex rel. Wilson v. Essex County Court, Law Division, D.C.N.J.1976, 406 F.Supp. 991

627. ---- Defendants against whom admitted, declarations of coconspirators, admissibility of evidence

Declaration made by one conspirator, in furtherance of a conspiracy and prior to its termination, may be used against the other conspirators. Delli Paoli v. U.S., U.S.N.Y.1957, 77 S.Ct. 294, 352 U.S. 232, 1 L.Ed.2d 278. See, also, U.S. v. Sapperstein, C.A.Md.1963, 312 F.2d 694. Criminal Law ↪ 423(1)

Statements made by one conspirator may be used not only against the declarant but also against his coconspirators where made during course and in furtherance of the conspiracy. U. S. v. Morris, C.A.10 (Colo.) 1980, 623 F.2d 145, certiorari denied 101 S.Ct. 793, 449 U.S. 1065, 66 L.Ed.2d 609.

Out-of-court declarations by conspirator made during course of and in furtherance of conspiracy are admissible against other members of conspiracy as well as declarant. U. S. v. Macklin, C.A.8 (Mo.) 1978, 573 F.2d 1046, certiorari denied 99 S.Ct. 160, 439 U.S. 852, 58 L.Ed.2d 157.

Declarations of one conspirator made in furtherance of the conspiracy, and during its existence, are admissible against all members of the conspiracy. U. S. v. Crockett, C.A.5 (Ga.) 1976, 534 F.2d 589.

Acts and declarations of each of conspirators in furtherance of conspiracy are admissible against all of them; hearsay rule is inapplicable. Downing v. U. S., C.A.5 (Tex.) 1965, 348 F.2d 594, certiorari denied 86 S.Ct. 235, 382 U.S. 901, 15 L.Ed.2d 155.

Declarations made by one conspirator in furtherance of conspiracy are admissible against all co-conspirators. U. S. v. Mishkin, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1963, 317 F.2d 634, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 71, 375 U.S. 827, 11 L.Ed.2d 60. See, also, Montford v. U.S., C.A.Fla.1952, 200 F.2d 759. Criminal Law ↪ 423(1)

Every act or declaration of each member of conspiracy in furtherance thereof, while conspiracy is in operation, is considered the act or declaration of each member of that conspiracy. Walker v. U. S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1962, 298 F.2d 217.

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In prosecution for conspiring to defraud United States, any act or admission by any of participants in conspiracy occurring during its existence and in furtherance of its purposes was admissible as to all defendants. Connelly v. U.S., C.A.8 (Mo.) 1957, 249 F.2d 576, certiorari denied 78 S.Ct. 700, 356 U.S. 921, 2 L.Ed.2d 716, rehearing denied 78 S.Ct. 991, 356 U.S. 964, 2 L.Ed.2d 1072, certiorari denied 78 S.Ct. 701, 356 U.S. 921, 2 L.Ed.2d 716.

The rule admitting evidence of acts and declarations of co-conspirators in furtherance of the conspiracy against all defendants applies equally to motive and intent as to other issues. United States v. Flynn, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1954, 216 F.2d 354, certiorari denied 75 S.Ct. 295, 348 U.S. 909, 99 L.Ed. 713, order withheld 75 S.Ct. 285, 99 L.Ed. 1298, rehearing denied 75 S.Ct. 436, 348 U.S. 956, 99 L.Ed. 747.

Evidence relating to acts and declarations of all conspirators in furtherance of conspiracy are admissible against all whether or not each defendant is tried alone or jointly. U. S. v. Silverman, D.C.Conn.1955, 129 F.Supp. 496.

Regardless of whether defendant joined the alleged conspiracy early or late, all acts and statements of co-conspirators in furtherance of the conspiracy would be admissible against him regardless of whether he were tried separately or jointly. U S v. Dioguardi, S.D.N.Y.1956, 20 F.R.D. 10.

628. ---- Government agents, declarations of coconspirators, admissibility of evidence

Even if purported innocent party who consented to having her telephone conversations with coconspirator taped was, in effect, a government agent so that her portion of conversations with coconspirator were not admissible as statements by coconspirator against defendants, where recorded conversations, which were legitimate evidence, would have been rendered unintelligible if all of innocent party's portion of conversation had been excised and where such innocent party was present at trial and subjected to rigorous cross-examination by defendants' portions of conversations attributable to innocent party were admissible against defendants. U. S. v. Ledesma, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1974, 499 F.2d 36, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 501, 419 U.S. 1024, 42 L.Ed.2d 298.

Statement made by participant in counterfeiting transactions, if hearsay as to defendant, was inadmissible under the coconspirator exception to the hearsay rule where the "coconspirator" was actually a government agent whose sole purpose was to effect the arrest of the conspirators; but no reversible error was committed in admitting such statement where the agent who made it testified and was cross-examined at trial. U. S. v. Wilkerson, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1972, 469 F.2d 963, certiorari denied 93 S.Ct. 1515, 410 U.S. 986, 36 L.Ed.2d 184.

Testimony of government informer to effect that defendants, charged with conspiracy, had said and done certain things out of court and out of presence of other defendants was properly admitted even though defendants claimed that witness as a government informer did not have requisite criminal intent and was not a conspirator, as government informer's testimony was not a restatement of his own prior statements offered as tending to prove truth of his assertions. U. S. v. Cerone, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1971, 452 F.2d 274, certiorari denied 92 S.Ct. 1168, 405 U.S. 964, 31 L.Ed.2d 240, certiorari denied 92 S.Ct. 1169, 405 U.S. 964, 31 L.Ed.2d 240.

Testimony of undercover agent about what conspirators said was clearly admissible against the defendants being prosecuted for various substantive violations of federal revenue laws governing distilled spirits and for conspiracy to violate those laws. U. S. v. Williamson, C.A.5 (Miss.) 1971, 450 F.2d 585, certiorari denied 92 S.Ct. 1297, 405 U.S. 1026, 31 L.Ed.2d 486, rehearing denied 92 S.Ct. 1784, 406 U.S. 939, 32 L.Ed.2d 140.

Although government's witness by his own account feigned his participation in conspiracy charged, his testimony concerning statements made in connection with conspiracy was admissible where he was not the declarant but only witness to declarations made by persons shown to coconspirators. Hansen v. U. S., C.A.9 (Wash.) 1963, 326 F.2d

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

152.

In narcotics prosecution, where first Government witness connected defendant with first co-conspirator and second Government witness testified that he dealt with first and second co-conspirators, testimony of second Government witness as to first co-conspirator's declaration was competent as to defendant, including declaration connecting second co-conspirator with the conspiracy, if made in execution of the venture, notwithstanding that such declarations were hearsay. U.S. v. Marzano, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1945, 149 F.2d 923.

In prosecution of corporation and vice president for conspiracy, testimony of revenue agents that one of alleged conspirators had stated to them that the people at corporation's place of business had warned him to beware of the officers was inadmissible as hearsay. U.S. v. Goldsmith, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1937, 91 F.2d 983, certiorari denied 58 S.Ct. 38, 302 U.S. 718, 82 L.Ed. 555.

629. ---- Nondefendants, declarations of coconspirators, admissibility of evidence

Declarations of unindicted coconspirators may be admissible against named defendants upon sufficient showing, by independent evidence, of conspiracy among one or more defendants and declarant, and that declarations at issue were in furtherance of that conspiracy. U. S. v. Nixon, U.S.Dist.Col.1974, 94 S.Ct. 3090, 418 U.S. 683, 41 L.Ed.2d 1039.

Acts and declarations with reference to the common object, by conspirators who are not indicted or on trial are admissible. Clune v. U.S., U.S.Cal.1895, 16 S.Ct. 125, 159 U.S. 590, 40 L.Ed. 269. See, also, Lewis v. U.S., C.C.A.Mich.1926, 11 F.2d 745; Isenhouer v. U.S., C.C.A.Ok1.1919, 256 F. 842; U.S. v. General Motors Corporation, C.C.A.Ind.1941, 121 F.2d 376, certiorari denied 62 S.Ct. 105, 314 U.S. 618, 86 L.Ed. 497, rehearing denied 62 S.Ct. 178, 314 U.S. 707, 86 L.Ed. 566.

It is not necessary that conspirators be tried jointly in order for statements of one conspirator to be admissible against another. U. S. v. Schroeder, C.A.8 (Minn.) 1970, 433 F.2d 846, certiorari denied 91 S.Ct. 590, 400 U.S. 1024, 27 L.Ed.2d 636, certiorari denied 91 S.Ct. 951, 401 U.S. 943, 28 L.Ed.2d 224. Criminal Law ↪ 422(1)

Mere fact that co-conspirator was not formally indicted for conspiracy did not preclude application of rule allowing his statement made in furtherance of the conspiracy prior to its termination into evidence in prosecution against other conspirators. U. S. v. Sapperstein, C.A.4 (Md.) 1963, 312 F.2d 694.

Where proof showed that four defendants in prosecution on various counts had acted as agents of conspirators in course of conspiracy, the acts and declarations of such defendants were admissible in evidence against the conspirators, even though such four defendants were not named as defendants in conspiracy count. U.S. v. Lev, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1960, 276 F.2d 605, certiorari denied 80 S.Ct. 1248, 363 U.S. 812, 4 L.Ed.2d 1153.

In conspiracy prosecution, declarations of one of the parties to alleged conspiracy, otherwise proven, are admissible if they were made in attempt to carry conspiracy into execution, regardless of whether such party is a defendant. Heflin v. U.S., C.C.A.5 (Fla.) 1943, 132 F.2d 907.

Testimony as to statement of defendant not on trial, tending to show that he and another of the defendants charged with conspiracy were acquainted. was admissible. Bilodeau v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1926, 14 F.2d 582, certiorari denied 47 S.Ct. 245, 273 U.S. 737, 71 L.Ed. 866.

Act of defendant not on trial in showing officer workable rectifier in his house was not in nature of confession of conspiracy to violate internal revenue law. Bilodeau v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1926, 14 F.2d 582, certiorari denied 47 S.Ct. 245, 273 U.S. 737, 71 L.Ed. 866.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In determining whether a conspiracy was formed and whether acts were done to effect the same, the acts and conduct of a defendant not on trial may be considered in connection with those of the defendant or defendants on trial. U.S. v. Breese, C.C.W.D.N.C.1909, 173 F. 402.

Statement by co-conspirator to third party concerning some act done in furtherance of a conspiracy is admissible against all conspirators, although the actual making of the statement in no way furthered the conspiracy. U.S. v. E.I. Du Pont De Nemours & Co., D.C.Del.1952, 107 F.Supp. 324.

630. ---- Intoxication, declarations of coconspirators, admissibility of evidence

The admission that accomplices were intoxicated during period when forged checks were issued and passed did not eliminate their testimony nor render it inadmissible. Sabari v. U. S., C.A.9 (Nev.) 1964, 333 F.2d 1019. Criminal Law ⚡ 508(1); Criminal Law ⚡ 508(9)

631. ---- Limited admission, declarations of coconspirators, admissibility of evidence

In conspiracy prosecution, declarations that are admissible as against all of the alleged conspirators and declarations that are admissible only as to the declarant and those present who by their silence or other conduct assent to the truth of the declaration must be carefully and clearly limited by the court at the time of their admission and the jury must be instructed as to such declarations and the limitations put upon them. Lutwak v. U.S., U.S.III.1953, 73 S.Ct. 481, 344 U.S. 604, 97 L.Ed. 593, rehearing denied 73 S.Ct. 726, 345 U.S. 919, 97 L.Ed. 1352.

Testimony of witness pertaining to defendant's statements made to her during course of conspiracy was, although statements pertained to past events, clearly admissible as to defendant making statements, since statements were claimed to have been made by him, and judge carefully instructed jury on proper limitations of use of statements as to other of the coconspirators. U. S. v. Etheridge, C.A.6 (Tenn.) 1970, 424 F.2d 951, certiorari granted 91 S.Ct. 462, 400 U.S. 991, 27 L.Ed.2d 437, certiorari denied 91 S.Ct. 463, 400 U.S. 993, 27 L.Ed.2d 442, certiorari denied 91 S.Ct. 464, 400 U.S. 1000, 27 L.Ed.2d 452, rehearing denied 91 S.Ct. 885, 401 U.S. 926, 27 L.Ed.2d 830, certiorari dismissed 91 S.Ct. 2174, 402 U.S. 547, 29 L.Ed.2d 102, rehearing denied 92 S.Ct. 32, 404 U.S. 875, 30 L.Ed.2d 122.

Conviction for conspiracy arising from operation of numbers racket which crossed state lines would be reversed where trial judge had failed to carefully and clearly limit consideration of evidence of another conspirator's acts and declarations after date when conspiracy ended as to other conspirator. U. S. v. Smith, C.A.4 (Va.) 1968, 390 F.2d 420. Criminal Law ⚡ 1168(2)

Extrajudicial declaration made by conspirator not in furtherance of conspiracy may be admitted in joint trial of conspirators against declarant when restricted by court's instructions to declarant's case. Ward v. U. S., C.A.4 (N.C.) 1960, 288 F.2d 820.

Though declarations of co-conspirator are not admissible to establish that another defendant has become member of conspiracy, such declarations are admissible to establish criminal nature of combination which other direct evidence has shown that a defendant has joined. U. S. v. Avellino, C.A.3 (Pa.) 1954, 216 F.2d 877.

Admitting coconspirator's testimony as to his previous false statements without limitation was not error. Camp v. U.S., C.C.A.6 (Ky.) 1926, 16 F.2d 370, certiorari denied 47 S.Ct. 766, 274 U.S. 754, 71 L.Ed. 1333.

District court did not abuse its discretion in admitting evidence of defendant's statements to a government witness relating to a crime family, in prosecution for conspiracy to interfere with commerce by threats or violence and conspiracy to engage in interstate transportation of stolen property, as evidence was offered to prove that witness believed defendant had the ability to participate in a truck hijacking, which was probative of defendant's involvement in charged conspiracies and was not prejudicial, particularly in light of judge's limiting instruction to jury. U.S. v. Bruno, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 2003, 83 Fed.Appx. 361, 2003 WL 22955859, Unreported, post-conviction relief denied 2005 WL 3311992, reconsideration denied 2005 WL 3262972. Criminal Law ↪ 369.2(1)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

632. Identification, admissibility of evidence

Notwithstanding that, because identification procedure used only one photograph, it was unnecessarily suggestive, prosecution witness' identification of federal fugitive as man who accompanied defendant was reliable and thus admissible in prosecution for conspiracy to harbor and harboring federal fugitive, as witness could not have known that man she later identified as federal fugitive was a fugitive when he came into her restaurant, she closely observed him, she paid attention to him because he was one of the few customers in the restaurant and described his physical features, including his tattoos, she was positive of her identification, and approximately two months had elapsed between first meeting and confrontation. U.S. v. Burke, C.A.11 (Ga.) 1984, 738 F.2d 1225.

Evidence was sufficient to sustain conspiracy conviction of particular defendant despite contention that such defendant was not the person of the same name who participated in the conspiracy, and though government informer was unable to make a positive in-court identification of such defendant, whose appearance had radically changed in the year prior to trial. U. S. v. Morrow, C.A.5 (Fla.) 1976, 537 F.2d 120, rehearing denied 541 F.2d 282, certiorari denied 97 S.Ct. 1602, 430 U.S. 956, 51 L.Ed.2d 806. Conspiracy ↪ 47(1)

Testimony dealing with local sales of stolen semitrailers was proper in prosecution of defendants for conspiracy to transport stolen semitrailers in interstate commerce, since testimony of local sales showed identity of parties in the conspiracy, its funding and its operation. U. S. v. Bastone, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1975, 526 F.2d 971, certiorari denied 96 S.Ct. 2172, 425 U.S. 973, 48 L.Ed.2d 797.

Where in-court identification of defendant by two witnesses who had accompanied defendant to Mexico and who had been arrested when they brought car containing drugs across border rested upon their association with defendant during the trip to Mexico, fact that witnesses had viewed defendant at police station following his arrest when no one else was present except a police officer was not ground for reversal even if procedure constituted an improperly conducted lineup. U. S. v. Montgomery, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1971, 440 F.2d 694, certiorari denied 92 S.Ct. 221, 404 U.S. 884, 30 L.Ed.2d 166.

633. Informers, admissibility of evidence

Government, in conspiracy prosecution, properly relied on testimony of informers even though they served, in part, as links connecting the conspirators, where activities of the informers were entirely in accordance with instructions from defendants. Sigers v. U. S., C.A.5 (Fla.) 1963, 321 F.2d 843.

In prosecution for violation of federal liquor laws and for conspiracy to violate such laws, testimony of witness, who had been employed by the government as a spy or "stool pigeon," was admissible, though, on cross-examination, witness became confused and made conflicting statements about length of his government service and procedure and amounts of his payment. Newman v. U.S., C.A.5 (Ga.) 1955, 220 F.2d 289, certiorari denied 76 S.Ct. 51, 350 U.S. 824, 100 L.Ed. 736, rehearing denied 76 S.Ct. 148, 350 U.S. 897, 100 L.Ed. 789.

In conspiracy prosecution, government could use informers' testimony. U.S. v. Dennis, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1950, 183 F.2d 201, certiorari granted 71 S.Ct. 91, 340 U.S. 863, 95 L.Ed. 630, affirmed 71 S.Ct. 857, 341 U.S. 494, 95 L.Ed. 1137, rehearing denied 72 S.Ct. 20, 342 U.S. 842, 96 L.Ed. 636, rehearing denied 78 S.Ct. 409, 355 U.S. 936, 2 L.Ed.2d 419.

634. Judicial decisions and orders, admissibility of evidence

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In view of Canadian Trade Agreement, 49 Stat. 3960, 3962, 3980; Cuban Trade Agreement of 1934, art. 3, 49 Stat. 3561, in prosecution against whiskey importer and assistant cashier of national bank for conspiracy wilfully to misapply funds of national bank by loaning bank's funds on warehouse receipts for whiskey which was without competitive value because not aged for four years or because it had been adulterated, evidence of two decisions of the United States Customs Court that certain affidavits of age were a sufficient compliance with treasury regulations were properly excluded as without probative value on issue whether whiskey pledged was aged for four years or had been adulterated. U S v. Haim, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1940, 113 F.2d 243, on rehearing 114 F.2d 566.

In prosecution for using, and conspiracy to use, mails to defraud, wherein one of conspirators introduced order to show cause in proceeding to enjoin certain of the conspirators from selling stock by use of any instrument in interstate commerce and by using mails to defraud, prosecution could show the outcome of the service of the show cause order and hence introduce consent decree in such proceeding. U.S. v. Rollnick, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1937, 91 F.2d 911.

635. Legal memoranda, admissibility of evidence

In prosecution of corporate defendant for conspiracy to violate, and violation of, Public Utility Holding Company Act, § 791 of Title 15, admission of legal memorandum prepared by attorney employed at request of vice president of corporate defendant which stated that Mo.R.S.A. § 11786 expressly prohibited campaign contributions by corporations to any political party or candidate for office was not error, where effect of such evidence was properly limited by instructions. Egan v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Mo.) 1943, 137 F.2d 369, certiorari denied 64 S.Ct. 195, 320 U.S. 788, 88 L.Ed. 474.

636. Letters and other correspondence, admissibility of evidence

Letter from president of racing company to bribe offeror, which was received for limited purpose of showing the communication between them, which contained statement based on information given by the bribe offeror was admissible in prosecution of the offerees under the coconspirator's exception. U. S. v. Isaacs, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1974, 493 F.2d 1124, certiorari denied 94 S.Ct. 3183, 417 U.S. 976, 41 L.Ed.2d 1146, rehearing denied 94 S.Ct. 3234, 418 U.S. 955, 41 L.Ed.2d 1178, certiorari denied 94 S.Ct. 3184, 417 U.S. 976, 41 L.Ed.2d 1146.

Admission of letter sent by witness to owner of stolen securities relating one defendant's statements as to burglary in which securities were taken and implicating two codefendants was error, in joint trial of the three defendants for conspiracy to unlawfully transport stolen securities, where there were no instructions limiting consideration of letter to issue of credibility of witness and it would have been practically impossible for jury not to consider the letter as substantive evidence against codefendants. U. S. v. Nall, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1971, 437 F.2d 1177.

Where letter written by alleged unidentified coconspirator was admitted, in prosecution for conspiracy to travel interstate to further unlawful activity, without objection on ground of hearsay, letter could be considered on question of membership in conspiracy. U. S. v. Marquez, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1970, 424 F.2d 236, certiorari denied 91 S.Ct. 56, 400 U.S. 828, 27 L.Ed.2d 58.

Admission of documentary evidence despite denial of motions before trial to take depositions abroad of persons involved in their preparation or execution on ground in one case that person was fugitive from justice, was not violative of defendants' constitutional rights of confrontation and to fair trial, under circumstances, in prosecution for conspiracy to defraud public by distribution of oil company stock at grossly inflated prices. U. S. v. Kelly, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1965, 349 F.2d 720, certiorari denied 86 S.Ct. 1467, 384 U.S. 947, 16 L.Ed.2d 544.

Admission of letter exhibits introduced to prove defendants' ownership of secret Swiss trust and that trust was medium through which defendants collected their 10% kick-back from coconspirator, was proper, under business records hearsay rule exception, in prosecution for conspiracy to defraud public by distribution of oil company stock at grossly inflated prices. U. S. v. Kelly, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1965, 349 F.2d 720, certiorari denied 86 S.Ct. 1467, 384 U.S. 947, 16 L.Ed.2d 544.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Unsigned copy of three-page letter to coconspirator was properly proved authentic by virtue of testimony of coconspirator, and corroboration by other government exhibits, for purpose of its introduction in evidence as business record in prosecution for conspiracy to defraud public by distribution of oil company stock at grossly inflated prices. U. S. v. Kelly, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1965, 349 F.2d 720, certiorari denied 86 S.Ct. 1467, 384 U.S. 947, 16 L.Ed.2d 544.

Admission of unsigned copy of three-page letter to coconspirator, was proper, within business records exception to hearsay rule, despite its unorthodox character as business document, in prosecution for conspiracy to defraud public by distribution of oil company stock at grossly inflated prices. U. S. v. Kelly, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1965, 349 F.2d 720, certiorari denied 86 S.Ct. 1467, 384 U.S. 947, 16 L.Ed.2d 544.

In prosecution of physician for conspiracy to violate § 2550 et seq. of Title 26, a carbon copy of a letter written by a government agent to the physician and a druggist, asking them to send him narcotics by an informer, was admissible under the "best evidence" rule, where physician denied having received the letter, notwithstanding no notice to produce was given, since such notice would have been unavailing and in any event was not required. Barnett v. U.S., C.A.9 (Wash.) 1949, 171 F.2d 721.

In conspiracy prosecution, admission of portion of letter received in evidence only against a particular defendant was not error as against convicted defendants where jury was instructed that it was to be considered only against that particular defendant and he was acquitted. Phelps v. U. S., C.C.A.8 (Minn.) 1947, 160 F.2d 858, rehearing denied 161 F.2d 940, certiorari denied 68 S.Ct. 1525, 334 U.S. 860, 92 L.Ed. 1780.

In conspiracy prosecution, admitting in evidence certain letters, papers and documents as proof of overt acts of defendant without it first having been proved that defendant took part in the conspiracy was not error. McDonald v. U.S., App.D.C.1942, 133 F.2d 23, 77 U.S.App.D.C. 33.

In prosecution for using and for conspiring to use mails to defraud in sale of stock in gold mines, letters from engineer in charge of mine to stockholder who sold mine to mining company did not, except for portions of one letter which were excluded from evidence by agreement of counsel, contain prejudicial conclusions or hearsay opinions as would justify reversal, especially where all matters involved were shown by other precise and convincing testimony. U.S. v. Bob, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1939, 106 F.2d 37, certiorari denied 60 S.Ct. 115, 308 U.S. 589, 84 L.Ed. 493.

In prosecution for using and conspiring to use the mails to defraud gullible individuals by collecting fees for enrolling them as heirs of mythical Baker estate, correspondence between one of conspirators and an enrollee in which enrollee referred to magazine article with respect to conviction of members of competing group of conspirators, and in which conspirator distinguished between his activities and those of competing group, was properly admitted, together with the magazine article. U. S. v. Sprengel, C.C.A.3 (Pa.) 1939, 103 F.2d 876.

Letter of codefendant, in prosecution to use mails to defraud, was properly admitted against accused, in view of instruction not to consider it against accused, unless joint purpose was first found. Davis v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Ark.) 1925, 9 F.2d 826.

Where evidence strongly tended to show unlawful combination to defraud by use of mails, letters signed by accused's coconspirators were properly admitted against all persons involved therein, especially where instructions correctly stated law, respecting accused's responsibility for letters not mailed or signed by him. Nix v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1925, 4 F.2d 652.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

A letter written by one alleged conspirator to a coconspirator, but never received by the latter, was admissible against all conspirators, if it was an act adapted to carry out the conspiracy. Browne v. U. S., C.C.A.6 (Mich.) 1923, 290 F. 870.

If there was sufficient testimony to support a finding that a conspiracy existed, then the act of one conspirator in furtherance of the common purpose was in law the act of all, and letters written by certain of the conspirators were admissible against another conspirator. Burns v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Okla.) 1922, 279 F. 982.

In a prosecution for conspiracy to use the mails to defraud, letters written by defendants to persons charged to have been defrauded, asking further remittances, were admissible in evidence under the charge in the indictment. Hallowell v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Or.) 1918, 253 F. 865, 165 C.C.A. 345, certiorari denied 39 S.Ct. 390, 249 U.S. 615, 63 L.Ed. 803, affirmed on rehearing 258 F. 237, 169 C.C.A. 303, certiorari denied 40 S.Ct. 180, 251 U.S. 559, 64 L.Ed. 413.

In prosecution for conspiracy to use mails in connection with a scheme to defraud, replies to decoy letters sent by post office inspectors, are admissible to show that conspiracy actually existed. Holsman v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1918, 248 F. 193, 160 C.C.A. 271, certiorari denied 39 S.Ct. 258, 249 U.S. 600, 63 L.Ed. 796.

Correspondence of a self-serving nature was not competent. Holsman v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1918, 248 F. 193, 160 C.C.A. 271, certiorari denied 39 S.Ct. 258, 249 U.S. 600, 63 L.Ed. 796.

Under former § 638 of Title 28, it was proper in prosecution for using the mails in connection with scheme to defraud, to prove signature of defendant, to admit documents as to which witnesses testified they had seen defendant append his signature. Bowers v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1917, 244 F. 641, 157 C.C.A. 89.

Defendant's self-serving answer to accusatory letter was not admissible on trial for conspiracy to pass counterfeit coins by reason of the admission of the accusatory letter which he offered in evidence. York v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1916, 241 F. 656, 154 C.C.A. 414.

In a prosecution for using the mails to defraud, permission to an attorney for a corporation involved to read to the jury a letter written by him charging one defendant with crime and falsehoods, as a statement made to that defendant was error. Hart v. U.S., C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1917, 240 F. 911, 153 C.C.A. 597.

In a prosecution for conspiring to defraud the government, where the evidence did not establish the conspiracy, letters written by accused's alleged coconspirator, tending to show his guilt and participation in the conspiracy, were inadmissible, being hearsay. Stager v. U.S., C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1916, 233 F. 510, 147 C.C.A. 396.

In a prosecution for conspiracy to defraud the United States in violation of former § 88 of this title [now this section], a letter written by one defendant after completion of the fraudulent acts charged was inadmissible against his codefendant. Fain v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (S.D.) 1913, 209 F. 525, 126 C.C.A. 347.

The admission of unanswered letters written to a defendant on trial for using the mails to defraud by an associate in the business, containing intimations that the business was conducted by dishonest methods, was prejudicial error. Marshall v. U.S., C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1912, 197 F. 511, 117 C.C.A. 65, certiorari denied 33 S.Ct. 112, 226 U.S. 607, 57 L.Ed. 379.

On the trial of a defendant under former § 88 of this title [now this section] for conspiracy to commit an offense against the United States, a letter passing between others of the alleged conspirators was competent against the defendant as tending to prove the conspiracy, in the absence of specific objection to the part of it referring to defendant. Stirlen v. U.S., C.C.A.7 (Ill.) 1910, 183 F. 302, 105 C.C.A. 514, certiorari denied 31 S.Ct. 721, 220 U.S. 617, 55 L.Ed. 611.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Evidence in a prosecution for conspiracy had a sufficient tendency to show the connection of other defendants with the conspiracy, to render letters written by them, charged in the indictment as overt acts, admissible in evidence against the defendants on trial. Jones v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Or.) 1910, 179 F. 584, 103 C.C.A. 142.

On the trial of defendants for conspiracy to defraud the United States of certain lands, where a special agent for the Land Department testified that he asked one of the defendants for a statement as to the transaction, and in reply received a letter from him stating, "I send herewith the statement of Mr. Williams, covering, as I believe, all the points you suggested," and in closing an affidavit of said Williams to which were attached copies of contracts of different dates between the defendants relating to the acquisition of the lands in question, it was error to permit the prosecution to detach the copy of one of the contracts from the affidavit and to introduce the same, together with the letter in evidence, as a declaration or admission of defendant, and at the same time to exclude the affidavit and copies of the other contracts which formed an integral part of the statement. Perrin v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1909, 169 F. 17, 94 C.C.A. 385. See, also, Benson v. U.S., Mo.1909, 169 F. 31, 94 C.C.A. 399. Criminal Law ¶ 409

On the trial of defendants charged with using the mails in the execution of a scheme to defraud, in which it was an important issue whether a bank conducted by defendants and others was honestly operated or merely used as a means for fraudulently obtaining money from innocent persons, an unauthenticated paper purporting to be a copy of a letter written by one unidentified third person to another, and making charges against the solvency and management of the bank, was not competent evidence merely because there was testimony that it had been shown to one of the defendants, and its admission was prejudicial error. Lemon v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Ark.) 1908, 164 F. 953, 90 C.C.A. 617.

Evidence that a defendant, charged with having entered into a conspiracy with other defendants to make and utter counterfeit coins, was a relative of others of the defendants, that he resided with one of them for six weeks, during which time the counterfeit coins were there made, that he wrote the letter ordering the machine with which they were made, and that, after the arrest of one of the defendants, he wrote offering to assist in procuring bail--was sufficient as connecting defendant with the conspiracy to authorize the admission against him of statements of his coconspirators. Taylor v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Idaho) 1898, 89 F. 954, 32 C.C.A. 449. Criminal Law ¶ 427(5)

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate narcotic laws, admission of letter of introduction given by defendant to narcotic agent and of testimony concerning purchase of opium pursuant to its delivery was not erroneous as indicating a different conspiracy than that charged, notwithstanding failure of indictment to mention person to whom letter was directed, where agent's agreement with defendant included introduction of agent to others engaged in narcotic traffic. U. S. v. Yee Ping Jong, W.D.Pa.1939, 26 F.Supp. 69.

637. Motive and intent, admissibility of evidence

In prosecution for conspiracy to defraud the United States, the district court did not err in admitting testimony concerning witness' dealings with one of the defendants, even though the statements of that defendant were not in furtherance of the conspiracy, where they did tend to connect that defendant with it by explaining his state of mind. Glasser v. U.S., U.S.Ill.1942, 62 S.Ct. 457, 315 U.S. 60, 86 L.Ed. 680, rehearing denied 62 S.Ct. 629, 315 U.S. 827, 86 L.Ed. 1222, rehearing denied 62 S.Ct. 637, 315 U.S. 827, 86 L.Ed. 1222.

Evidence of prior stock rental transaction involving another insurance company was relevant to show intent in broker's prosecution for fraud and conspiracy to defraud state insurance regulators by inflating insurance company's assets and admissible if its probative value outweighed its prejudicial effect. U.S. v. Cavin, C.A.5 (La.) 1994, 39 F.3d 1299. Criminal Law ¶ 371(1)

Guilty plea by former president of savings and loan to multiple criminal charges relating to unlawful real estate transaction between savings and loan and its owner was evidence of president's "intent to cause loss" to savings and loan, but did not establish liability under fidelity bond, as matter of law, where president admitted wrongdoing and poor judgment at plea hearing but never admitted to intending to cause loss to savings and loan and instead testified that he believed transaction would benefit savings and loan. F.D.I.C. v. Oldenburg, C.A.10 (Utah) 1994, 34 F.3d 1529, rehearing denied. Evidence  265(11)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In prosecution for conspiracy to defraud government, evidence that defendant independently extorted $25,000 from government contractor was admissible as to such defendant, as relevant to issue of his intent to commit fraud, where his defense was that acts at issue constituted legitimate business deal as far as he was concerned. U.S. v. Ackal, C.A.5 (La.) 1983, 706 F.2d 523, rehearing denied 711 F.2d 1054.

In prosecution to defraud the United States of taxes, income tax returns of one defendant were admissible to show his intent to defraud, and to impeach his testimony and admission of records was not prejudicial to defendant. U.S. v. Carruth, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1983, 699 F.2d 1017, certiorari denied 104 S.Ct. 698, 464 U.S. 1038, 79 L.Ed.2d 164.

Substantial evidence, including evidence of defendant's knowledge of tax effects of sham bookkeeping entries of corporation and his corresponding deductions on books of fictitious company, established specific intent of defendant to defraud the United States regarding federal income taxes. U. S. v. Shermetaro, C.A.6 (Mich.) 1980, 625 F.2d 104.

In prosecution for conspiracy and violation of section 1952 of this title in attempt to set up interstate prostitution ring, evidence of defendant's earlier attempts to organize prostitution operation was properly admitted to prove intent and plan. U. S. v. Barbieri, C.A.10 (Okla.) 1980, 614 F.2d 715.

In prosecution under indictment charging aiding and abetting the interstate transportation of falsely made and forged securities and conspiracy to commit the substantive offenses, district court properly admitted testimony concerning a check scheme that was carried out prior to the conspiracy where the testimony was admissible as proof of motive, intent and the continuation of a common plan and where the testimony established that one of the codefendants was deeply involved in both operations, thus tending to show knowledge or absence of mistake on the codefendant's part as to the true nature of the counterfeit cashier's checks. U. S. v. Parnell, C.A.10 (Okla.) 1978, 581 F.2d 1374, certiorari denied 99 S.Ct. 852, 439 U.S. 1076, 59 L.Ed.2d 44.

Evidence of a conspirator's actions, even though they may have occurred before beginning of conspiracy alleged in indictment, are nevertheless admissible as proof of motive or intent touching upon conspiracy charge in indictment. U. S. v. Enright, C.A.6 (Mich.) 1978, 579 F.2d 980.

In prosecution for conspiracy to steal and possess part of interstate shipment of freight, theft of freight, and possession of goods stolen from interstate shipment, conversation between one defendant and owner of shop, at which stolen goods were allegedly stored, following police raid was admissible as evidence of defendant's guilty mind concerning goods stored at shop, including stolen goods in question. U. S. v. Trotter, C.A.3 (N.J.) 1976, 529 F.2d 806.

Evidence concerning history and philosophy of students' society and overall radical movement was relevant and admissible, in conspiracy prosecution, to show intent, purpose, aim and motives of the parties to the conspiracy; similarly admissible was transcript containing document which one of them submitted to his draft board in which he characterized himself as a "revolutionary" and as a member of an underground group. U. S. v. Baumgarten, C.A.8 (Mo.) 1975, 517 F.2d 1020, certiorari denied 96 S.Ct. 152, 423 U.S. 878, 46 L.Ed.2d 111.

Evidence that one defendant's girl friend, who was cashier at savings and loan association, embezzled traveler's checks from institution at defendant's bequest and on his assurance that checks would be covered during a subsequent robbery and evidence of agreement among defendants, the girl friend and another to rob institution during daylight hours was properly admitted in prosecution for conspiring to attempt to enter institution, since both the embezzlement and robbery agreement contributed to achieving the object of the charged conspiracy, notwithstanding that such other criminal acts were not alleged in the indictment; in any event, such evidence was properly admitted to prove intent or motive. U. S. v. Clay, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1974, 495 F.2d 700, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 207, 419 U.S. 937, 42 L.Ed.2d 164.

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Testimony of codefendant and alleged coconspirator in scheme to defraud was admissible not only to attest to the acts and declarations of defendant during execution of conspiracy to which he was a privy, but also to prove motive and design and to establish a common scheme relating to the matter on trial, as against defendant's contention that because codefendant was not fully apprised of the scheme his testimony was irrelevant and immaterial. U. S. v. Silvern, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1973, 494 F.2d 355, rehearing granted 484 F.2d 879.

Testimony going to proof of sale of three stolen shotguns by defendant and possession by defendant in his home of four stolen shotguns was admissible in prosecution for conspiring to transport and ship stolen firearms in interstate commerce, aiding and abetting transporting of stolen firearms, and for transporting certain stolen shotgun in interstate commerce on issue of whether defendant and persons unknown were acting in furtherance of existing conspiracy when such acts were committed and whether defendant and certain coconspirator shortly became members of such conspiracy and on issue of intent. U. S. v. Clifton, C.A.5 (Ga.) 1971, 447 F.2d 970.

Gun carried by defendant on airline flight from Indianapolis to St. Louis where his companion was to receive money from extortion victim was relevant and competent as probative element on question of intent involved in making the interstate trip to St. Louis and was properly admitted in prosecution for conspiring to make interstate trip to consummate extortion. U. S. v. Phillips, C.A.8 (Mo.) 1970, 433 F.2d 1364, certiorari denied 91 S.Ct. 900, 401 U.S. 917, 27 L.Ed.2d 819.

Evidence of prior acts establishing that a loan was a fraud on bank, that alleged accomplice cashed worthless checks at bank, that defendant had been advised that alleged accomplice was a "confidence man" and that defendant told alleged accomplice about banking procedures at banks so that alleged accomplice would know how to float nonsufficient fund checks could be properly introduced to show intent, plan and knowledge and was also admissible to refute defendant's testimony that he never knew of other's check kiting operations prior to certain date. U. S. v. Jones, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1970, 425 F.2d 1048, certiorari denied 91 S.Ct. 44, 400 U.S. 823, 27 L.Ed.2d 51.

In prosecution for burglary of bank and conspiracy to commit burglary, statements made by defendant to effect that he had been arrested for previously burglarizing a post office and that he needed money and proposed to find a place to burglarize for purpose of getting the needed funds was properly admitted to show motive. Bruinsma v. U. S., C.A.5 (Tex.) 1968, 402 F.2d 261.

Testimony of an FBI agent that while he was present at defendants' place of business he was approached by a lady who offered her services as a prostitute and that such offer was made in presence of defendant who was charged with conspiracy and substantive offenses of use of interstate facilities to carry on prostitution was admissible to show defendant's knowledge and intent, and existence of continuing course of conduct. U. S. v. Lyon, C.A.7 (Wis.) 1968, 397 F.2d 505, certiorari denied 89 S.Ct. 131, 393 U.S. 846, 21 L.Ed.2d 117.

Evidence which was admissible to establish motive of defendants charged with conspiracy to commit mail fraud was properly admitted even though it showed that defendants may have committed other crimes. Suhl v. U. S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1968, 390 F.2d 547, certiorari denied 88 S.Ct. 2035, 391 U.S. 964, 20 L.Ed.2d 879.

Statement of defendant to secretary, after receiving phone call from codefendant, that he had to go over to Miami to get something that codefendant did not want to bring into the colony was admissible, as exception to hearsay rule, as a statement of defendant's intention and part of res gestae giving meaning to his trip to Miami and back. Rogers v. U. S., C.A.5 (Fla.) 1964, 334 F.2d 83, certiorari denied 85 S.Ct. 892, 380 U.S. 915, 13 L.Ed.2d 800, rehearing denied 85 S.Ct. 1102, 380 U.S. 967, 14 L.Ed.2d 157.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In prosecution for conspiracy and interstate transportation of a forged security, wherein there was evidence that defendants had placed interstate instrument in a certain bank account, evidence that they had placed forged intrastate instruments in same account was admissible to show knowledge and intent, and to demonstrate overt acts committed in pursuance of conspiracy. Gardner v. U. S., C.A.10 (Colo.) 1960, 283 F.2d 580.

In prosecution for conspiracy, mail theft, and uttering and forging a United States Treasury check, evidence that defendant, who did not personally break open the mailbox or forge or cash the check, shared the fruits of the conspiracy was properly admitted to show defendant's motive in joining in the conspiracy and to tie him in with the commission of the crimes, contrary to his story of innocence. U S v. Johnson, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1958, 254 F.2d 175, certiorari dismissed 78 S.Ct. 1378, 357 U.S. 933, 2 L.Ed.2d 1369.

Evidence of acts or transactions not done in furtherance of conspiracy may nevertheless be admitted if they tend to connect the conspirator with the conspiracy by explaining his state of mind. Connelly v. U.S., C.A.8 (Mo.) 1957, 249 F.2d 576, certiorari denied 78 S.Ct. 700, 356 U.S. 921, 2 L.Ed.2d 716, rehearing denied 78 S.Ct. 991, 356 U.S. 964, 2 L.Ed.2d 1072, certiorari denied 78 S.Ct. 701, 356 U.S. 921, 2 L.Ed.2d 716.

In prosecution for conspiring to defraud United States of proper administration of internal revenue laws and regulations, wherein one of defendants was repeatedly asked on cross-examination whether he had received any money, property, gifts or anything of value from one of other defendants, during time of transactions in question and witness was evasive but finally answered that his wife might have received some small gifts and that he also might have, evidence on rebuttal to effect that defendant accepted gifts of clothing from such other defendant was admissible on question of credibility of witness and on question of intent. Connelly v. U.S., C.A.8 (Mo.) 1957, 249 F.2d 576, certiorari denied 78 S.Ct. 700, 356 U.S. 921, 2 L.Ed.2d 716, rehearing denied 78 S.Ct. 991, 356 U.S. 964, 2 L.Ed.2d 1072, certiorari denied 78 S.Ct. 701, 356 U.S. 921, 2 L.Ed.2d 716.

In criminal conspiracy cases, utterances of a defendant reported in court by other witnesses have always been received to determine intent. Yates v. U. S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1955, 225 F.2d 146, certiorari granted 76 S.Ct. 104, 350 U.S. 860, 100 L.Ed. 763, certiorari granted 76 S.Ct. 105, 350 U.S. 860, 100 L.Ed. 763, reversed on other grounds 77 S.Ct. 1064, 354 U.S. 298, 1 L.Ed.2d 1356.

In prosecution for conspiring to teach and advocate overthrow of United States government by force and violence, evidence of acts and declarations made prior to year charged in indictment as base year in which conspiracy began, was not violative of hearsay rule, where such evidence was not admitted as probative of truth of such declarations but rather as to fact of making such declarations. U. S. v. Mesarosh, C.A.3 (Pa.) 1955, 223 F.2d 449, certiorari granted 76 S.Ct. 218, 350 U.S. 922, 100 L.Ed. 807, reversed on other grounds 77 S.Ct. 1, 352 U.S. 1, 1 L.Ed.2d 1.

In prosecution for conspiring to teach and advocate overthrow of the United States government by force and violence, testimony of government witness that one of defendants had instructed a class that revolution could be brought about only by violent overthrow of government, was admissible against such defendant on question of his intent as well as to prove objective fact of Communist Party teachings, and such evidence was not hearsay. U. S. v. Mesarosh, C.A.3 (Pa.) 1955, 223 F.2d 449, certiorari granted 76 S.Ct. 218, 350 U.S. 922, 100 L.Ed. 807, reversed on other grounds 77 S.Ct. 1, 352 U.S. 1, 1 L.Ed.2d 1.

Under criminal statutes involving proof of a specific intent, a person may not be convicted simply on basis of an imputed intent, and he himself must be shown to have had the requisite intent, but it does not follow that proof of such an intent is limited to the particular person's own acts and declarations, whether prosecution be for a substantive crime or for crime of conspiracy. United States v. Flynn, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1954, 216 F.2d 354, certiorari denied 75 S.Ct. 295, 348 U.S. 909, 99 L.Ed. 713, order withheld 75 S.Ct. 285, 99 L.Ed. 1298, rehearing denied 75 S.Ct. 436, 348 U.S. 956, 99 L.Ed. 747.

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate the Smith Act, § 2385 of this title, making it an offense to advocate forcible overthrow of the government, relationships of defendants and of others acting in concert with them, defendants' positions of responsibility in the Communist Party, their activities in carrying forward the objectives of the Communist Party, and the nature of those objectives were all matters properly to be considered on the intent of any particular defendant. United States v. Flynn, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1954, 216 F.2d 354, certiorari denied 75 S.Ct. 295, 348 U.S. 909, 99 L.Ed. 713, order withheld 75 S.Ct. 285, 99 L.Ed. 1298, rehearing denied 75 S.Ct. 436, 348 U.S. 956, 99 L.Ed. 747.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In prosecution of corporation and its president for conspiracy to defraud Government by obstructing proper functions of Internal Revenue Bureau in ascertaining levying, assessing and collecting taxes and penalties, testimony of chief accountant in Internal Revenue Collector's office and another as to defendants' machinations with such accountant regarding another corporation's account with collector and Government's exhibit with reference to such account were properly admitted in evidence to show defendants' criminal intent. Benatar v. U.S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1954, 209 F.2d 734, certiorari denied 74 S.Ct. 786, 347 U.S. 974, 98 L.Ed. 1114.

In prosecution for conspiracy to commit offenses against United States by violating immigration statutes by effectuating illegal entry of three aliens as spouses of veterans of World War II, where case turned almost entirely on question of validity of three Parisian marriages and whether they were valid, in turn, depended on intent of parties at time ceremonies occurred, not only what was said and done prior to time of marriages, but conduct of parties and their statements after they returned to America were relevant and competent for jury to consider in determining whether they reflected an intent to have performed valid marriages or whether they tended to show intent was merely to pretend to be married. U.S. v. Lutwak, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1952, 195 F.2d 748, certiorari granted 73 S.Ct. 13, 344 U.S. 809, 97 L.Ed. 630, affirmed 73 S.Ct. 481, 344 U.S. 604, 97 L.Ed. 593, rehearing denied 73 S.Ct. 726, 345 U.S. 919, 97 L.Ed. 1352.

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate § 794 of this title by furnishing secret information to Russia with requisite intent, testimony of alleged coconspirator, who was not named as defendant in present case, that certain defendant had admitted stealing proximity fuse from his place of employment and giving same to Russia, from which word "stealing" was stricken on objection, was admissible to show intent on defendant's part to aid Russia, and it was not error to refuse to strike all of such testimony. United States v. Rosenberg, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1952, 195 F.2d 583, certiorari denied 73 S.Ct. 20, 344 U.S. 838, 97 L.Ed. 652, rehearing denied 73 S.Ct. 134, 344 U.S. 889, 97 L.Ed. 687, certiorari denied 73 S.Ct. 21, 344 U.S. 838, 97 L.Ed. 652, rehearing denied 73 S.Ct. 180, 344 U.S. 889, 97 L.Ed. 687, rehearing denied 74 S.Ct. 860, 347 U.S. 1021, 98 L.Ed. 1142, motion denied 78 S.Ct. 91, 355 U.S. 860, 2 L.Ed.2d 67. Criminal Law ⚡ 371(1); Criminal Law ⚡ 696(1)

In prosecution of household implement dealer for conspiracy to cause to be made an instrument known to be false for purpose of influencing Federal Housing Administration to insure a loan to borrower to purchase household implements, wherein Government relied upon defendant's signature to a certificate to lender, which allegedly contained false statements, defendant is entitled to show his absence of criminal intent and that, the instrument being of doubtful interpretation, he acted on advice of his attorney, and exclusion of such showing is error. C. I. T. Corp. v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Wash.) 1945, 150 F.2d 85.

In conspiracy prosecution, where issue included motives which actuated witness in his negotiations with defendant, it was relevant to show how acquaintance began, and in so doing it was competent to show that at time of original meeting between witness and defendant one of defendant's companions placed a gun on witness' desk. U.S. v. Compagna, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1944, 146 F.2d 524, certiorari denied 65 S.Ct. 912, 324 U.S. 867, 89 L.Ed. 1422, rehearing denied 65 S.Ct. 1084, 325 U.S. 892, 89 L.Ed. 2004, certiorari denied 65 S.Ct. 913, 324 U.S. 867, 89 L.Ed. 1423.

Evidence outside of fraudulent scheme charged may be admitted which tends to elucidate or clarify false statements for purpose of showing intent. Harper v. U. S., C.C.A.8 (Mo.) 1944, 143 F.2d 795.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Proof of defendant's knowledge of an agreement among alleged conspirators to commit an act prohibited by an Act of Congress in interest of public policy of United States is relevant in conspiracy prosecution for purpose of showing knowledge of existence of the agreement and an intent to participate in carrying it out. Egan v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Mo.) 1943, 137 F.2d 369, certiorari denied 64 S.Ct. 195, 320 U.S. 788, 88 L.Ed. 474.

Where evidence showed that agreement for political contributions by holding company was on foot before date on which Public Utility Holding Company Act, § 79 et seq. of Title 15, became applicable to corporate defendant, and that agreement continued after that date in violation of said sections, it was permissible to prove acts occurring before said sections became applicable to corporate defendant for purpose of showing existence of the conspiracy and the intent of conspirators. Egan v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Mo.) 1943, 137 F.2d 369, certiorari denied 64 S.Ct. 195, 320 U.S. 788, 88 L.Ed. 474.

In prosecution for conspiracy to transport stolen jewelry in interstate commerce, evidence that one with whom defendants traveled by automobile from Chicago to Nashville, some time after robbery and while conspiracy was in full operation, was subsequently convicted of prior armed jewelry robbery had some probative value in rebutting defendants' statements that trip with him was in a peaceful pursuit. Banning v. U.S., C.C.A.6 (Mich.) 1942, 130 F.2d 330, certiorari denied 63 S.Ct. 434, 317 U.S. 695, 87 L.Ed. 556.

Where the object of a conspiracy is criminal, evidence of conduct otherwise lawful but intended to achieve criminal objectives may properly be received to prove the conspiracy. American Medical Ass'n v. U.S., App.D.C.1942, 130 F.2d 233, 76 U.S.App.D.C. 70, certiorari granted 63 S.Ct. 44, 317 U.S. 613, 87 L.Ed. 497, affirmed 63 S.Ct. 326, 317 U.S. 519, 87 L.Ed. 434.

In conspiracy prosecution, where evidence when offered was admissible against codefendant, but no testimony had, at that time, definitely connected defendant with the conspiracy, trial court properly admitted the evidence with instruction that it was not to be considered as against defendant until other evidence was offered tending to show that he had knowingly joined the conspiracy. U.S. v. Ritchie, C.C.A.3 (N.J.) 1942, 128 F.2d 798.

In prosecution for use of mails in furtherance of scheme to defraud owners of public investment trust units, for violation of chapter 2A of Title 15 and for conspiracy to commit such crimes, evidence that company issuing units had failed to forward to trustee for safekeeping money collected from investors, and letters and telegraphic correspondence between company and trustee in relation to such default was admissible on question of fraudulent intent, notwithstanding the first default occurred and much of the correspondence passed before date on which it was alleged that fraudulent scheme was formed, and notwithstanding evidence tended to establish time of embezzlement or of defrauding the trustee. Troutman v. U. S., C.C.A.10 (Colo.) 1938, 100 F.2d 628.

In prosecution for conspiracy to defraud United States by agreement to sell gold to mint by falsely concealing in required affidavit true origin of gold, where government relied upon circumstantial evidence to show that supposed producers named in affidavit were non-existent, defendants were entitled to present all evidence tending to relieve them of implication of willful deception, or to establish their good faith. Hills v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1938, 97 F.2d 710.

On trial of officers for conspiracy to import and transport liquor, where government proved making of false report of the transaction, evidence of true oral reports was not inadmissible, as self-serving, in view of its bearing on question of intent. Parmenter v. U. S., C.C.A.6 (Mich.) 1924, 2 F.2d 945, certiorari denied 45 S.Ct. 514, 268 U.S. 697, 69 L.Ed. 1163.

On trial of defendant on an indictment charging him with defrauding the government, by using in the manufacture of army shoes inner and outer soles not of the quality called for by the contract, evidence that he also knowingly used bad middle soles was competent on the question of intent. Sears v. U.S., C.C.A.1 (Mass.) 1920, 264 F. 257.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In a prosecution for conspiracy to defraud the government of taxes on oleomargarine, a state statute prohibiting the sale of colored oleomargarine was admissible as throwing light on defendants' intent, in connection with evidence that defendants sold to certain retailers inconsiderable quantities of colored oleomargarine, and further evidence tending to show that they subsequently sold to the same purchasers large quantities of uncolored, which the purchasers colored and used to refill the original higher tax stamped package. Jelke v. U.S., C.C.A.7 (Ill.) 1918, 255 F. 264, 166 C.C.A. 434.

A defendant charged with conspiracy to defraud may properly testify to the absence of fraudulent intent and motive on his part. Sparks v. U.S., C.C.A.6 (Tenn.) 1917, 241 F. 777, 154 C.C.A. 479.

Where the intent with which defendants entered upon an unperfected homestead and removed improvements was material, they might show statements of third persons to establish their intent. Buchanan v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Colo.) 1916, 233 F. 257, 147 C.C.A. 263.

Where two of four defendants jointly indicted for conspiracy had pleaded guilty, it was proper to refuse to permit them to testify as to their intent in doing certain acts. Cooper v. U.S., C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1916, 232 F. 81, 146 C.C.A. 273, certiorari denied 36 S.Ct. 725, 241 U.S. 675, 60 L.Ed. 1232.

In a prosecution for a similar conspiracy evidence of acts of the alleged perjurers committed long after they had sworn to and filed their statements, and that subsequent to such filing they had agreed with defendant D. for a money consideration to file a relinquishment of their applications at such a time as he could manage to take it up with script, together with a relinquishment so filed, was inadmissible to show motive. Dwinnell v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1911, 186 F. 754, 108 C.C.A. 624.

Under an indictment for conspiracy to induce persons to swear falsely that they were applying to purchase public lands for their own benefit it was competent for the government to show, by the persons who made such applications to purchase lands, that it was their intention and understanding at the time that the lands should be conveyed by them to defendants, contrary to their sworn statements and testimony. Van Gesner v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Or.) 1907, 153 F. 46, 82 C.C.A. 180.

On the trial of defendants, charged with conspiracy to defraud the United States, evidence is admissible to show the state of mind of one charged as a co-conspirator with respect to the matters to which the alleged conspiracy related, prior to the date when it is alleged to have been formed. U.S. v. Greene, S.D.Ga.1906, 146 F. 784.

Evidence that one of several alleged conspirators had conceived a fraudulent intent before he entered into the conspiracy is not competent to show that his alleged coconspirators, who had no knowledge of the facts, had such an intent before or at the time the conspiracy was charged. Miller v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (N.D.) 1904, 133 F. 337, 66 C.C.A. 399.

In prosecution for bank fraud and conspiracy to defraud United States, evidence of default, loss, and benefits received by defendants was relevant to defendants' intent and knowledge. U.S. v. Gressett, D.Kan.1991, 773 F.Supp. 270.

Borough councilman's testimony that garbage hauler was "still paying off" his municipality along with three others was admissible, in prosecution of the hauler and one councilman for, among other things, obstruction of justice and making a false material declaration to a grand jury, for purpose of showing motive, intent, knowledge and plan or design and for refuting defendants' story that payments were made for raffle tickets; Government was entitled to indicate or suggest to jury that garbage hauler was knowingly engaged in criminal activity and that payment was part of a design or course of conduct with which he was familiar. U. S. v. Long, W.D.Pa.1976, 421 F.Supp. 1355, affirmed 574 F.2d 761, certiorari denied 99 S.Ct. 577, 439 U.S. 985, 58 L.Ed.2d 657.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Where indictment charging conspiracy to receive kickback and agreement to receive improper payment in connection with pension loan fund clearly raised issues of motive and intent, evidence of defendant's involvement in prior similar kickback arrangement was admissible to show course of conduct reasonably contemporaneous with acts charged. U. S. v. Wenger, S.D.N.Y.1970, 320 F.Supp. 1269.

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate Smith Act, § 2385 of this title, by advocating and teaching, and helping to organize as Communist Party persons teaching and advocating, overthrow of government by force, evidence as to government's previous civil action against one of defendants to cancel his citizenship certificate on ground that he was not attached to principles of Constitution, but was member of and supported principles of communist organizations advocating and teaching violent overthrow of government, at time of his naturalization, was admissible on issue of defendants' intent, though Supreme Court did not determine any issues raised by conspiracy indictment in judgment cancelling certificate. U. S. v. Schneiderman, S.D.Cal.1952, 106 F.Supp. 892.

The common design, which is essence of crime of conspiracy to commit offenses against United States, may be shown by evidence of alleged conspirators' steady pursuit of same object, whether acting separately or together or by common or different means, but ever leading to same unlawful result. U. S. v. Schneiderman, S.D.Cal.1952, 106 F.Supp. 892.

638. Opinion evidence, admissibility of evidence

Opinions of Executive Assistant of Commissioner of State Insurance Department interpreting documents which had been filed with department and which concerned life insurance company were admissible as expert testimony in prosecution for violations of Securities Act, section 77a et seq. of Title 15, mail fraud and conspiracy in absence of objection to witness' qualifications as expert in financial aspects of state chartered insurance companies; fact that witness was not in office at time documents were filed was irrelevant. McMahan v. U. S., C.A.7 (Ill.) 1970, 424 F.2d 1216, certiorari denied 91 S.Ct. 51, 400 U.S. 826, 27 L.Ed.2d 55.

In prosecution of defendants who allegedly made fraudulent credit statements and, as part of conspiracy, allegedly obtained false credit reports to substantiate credit information, testimony that there was similarity between credit statements and credit reports was permissible description of voluminous documents rather than impermissible invasion of jury's function. U. S. v. Lewis, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1969, 406 F.2d 486, certiorari denied 89 S.Ct. 1630, 394 U.S. 1013, 23 L.Ed.2d 39.

Testimony of bank auditor, who was not qualified by Government as expert witness, was not inadmissible as being expression of opinion by unqualified expert in prosecution for conspiring with assistant cashier of bank to defraud bank, where Government did not offer auditor as an expert witness, and matters to which he testified were not opinions but conclusions based on particulars drawn from data either observed by him or transmitted to him by those closely supervised, and data was available to defendant for use in cross-examination. U. S. v. Paxton, C.A.3 (N.J.) 1968, 403 F.2d 631, certiorari denied 89 S.Ct. 863, 393 U.S. 1082, 21 L.Ed.2d 775.

In prosecution for conspiring to teach and advocate overthrow of United States government by force and violence, admission of testimony by former Communist instructor in party classes as to meaning of terms in party constitution was not erroneous but was within trial court's discretion as to admission of opinion evidence. U. S. v. Mesarosh, C.A.3 (Pa.) 1955, 223 F.2d 449, certiorari granted 76 S.Ct. 218, 350 U.S. 922, 100 L.Ed. 807, reversed on other grounds 77 S.Ct. 1, 352 U.S. 1, 1 L.Ed.2d 1.

In a prosecution for conspiracy to defraud the United States out of public land, expressions of opinion by entrymen as to the value of the lands were irrelevant, except so far as defendants could be shown to be responsible therefor. Worden v. U. S., C.C.A.6 (Mich.) 1913, 204 F. 1, 122 C.C.A. 315.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

639. Overt acts, admissibility of evidence--Generally

In prosecution for conspiracy to convert union funds in which government attempted to prove conspiracy by proof that another purpose of the conspiracy, destruction of nonunion equipment, was achieved, proof that two nonunion contractors had equipment damaged during relevant time period was relevant especially where testimony clearly demonstrated defendant's involvement in the vandalism. U.S. v. Hickerson, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1984, 732 F.2d 611, certiorari denied 105 S.Ct. 159, 469 U.S. 846, 83 L.Ed.2d 95.

In prosecution for conspiracy in check-kiting scheme, testimony about opening and closing of six savings accounts, which did not constitute criminal acts, was admissible as proof of an overt act in furtherance of a conspiracy. U. S. v. Khamis, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1982, 674 F.2d 390.

Evidence of overt acts which occur after a conspiracy is formed and which are related to the object of the conspiracy is admissible regardless of whether the overt acts are charged in the indictment. U. S. v. Harris, C.A.7 (Ind.) 1976, 542 F.2d 1283, certiorari denied 97 S.Ct. 1558, 430 U.S. 934, 51 L.Ed.2d 779.

Admission of pre-statute of limitations evidence as to overt acts of conspiracy to prove nature and continuity of conspiracy was not erroneous where indictment was not limited to a conspiracy to corrupt defendant's behavior only during period of alleged conspiracy or to corrupt him only by payments at time he was assigned to one particular employer, and where indictment alleged a general conspiracy and no evidence indicated defendant's withdrawal from the conspiracy or a change in operation so as to vitiate any inference of agreement from prior acts. U. S. v. Seuss, C.A.1 (Mass.) 1973, 474 F.2d 385, certiorari denied 93 S.Ct. 2751, 412 U.S. 928, 37 L.Ed.2d 155.

Where there was evidence that defendants were almost without money prior to bank robbery, that afterwards they divided over $300,000 with another party, that during their journeys they and their girl friends gambled for high stakes, and that women were instructed to keep large sums on their persons for purposes of getaway, evidence as to large sum of money found in defendant's wallet and search of his motel room and in purse of other defendant's girl friend was relevant and admissible. U. S. v. Ravich, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1970, 421 F.2d 1196, certiorari denied 91 S.Ct. 69, 400 U.S. 834, 27 L.Ed.2d 66.

Though hearsay declarations of coconspirator are admissible against the others only if made during and in furtherance of the conspiracy, acts relevant to prove conspiracy are admissible even if they occurred after conspiracy had ended. U. S. v. Bennett, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1969, 409 F.2d 888, rehearing denied 415 F.2d 1113, certiorari denied 90 S.Ct. 113, 396 U.S. 852, 24 L.Ed.2d 101, rehearing denied 90 S.Ct. 376, 396 U.S. 949, 24 L.Ed.2d 256, certiorari denied 90 S.Ct. 117, 396 U.S. 852, 24 L.Ed.2d 101, certiorari denied 91 S.Ct. 1670, 402 U.S. 984, 29 L.Ed.2d 149.

That overt acts offered to prove conspiracy are also offered to prove successful accomplishment of purpose of conspiracy is immaterial if the offenses are separate and distinct. U.S. v. Shapiro, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1939, 103 F.2d 775.

Overt acts of parties with other attending circumstances may be considered in determining whether conspiracy exists. Marx v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Minn.) 1936, 86 F.2d 245.

Admission in conspiracy prosecution of evidence with regard to certain overt acts not mentioned in indictment was not erroneous. Lias v. U. S., C.C.A.4 (W.Va.) 1931, 51 F.2d 215, certiorari granted 52 S.Ct. 32, 284 U.S. 604, 76 L.Ed. 518, affirmed 52 S.Ct. 128, 284 U.S. 584, 76 L.Ed. 505.

Overt acts other than those charged in indictment for conspiracy may be shown, but only as corroborative of those charged. U.S. v. Hosier, D.C.La.1931, 50 F.2d 971.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Acts occurring before alleged formation of conspiracy are admissible, if they tend to prove ultimate facts. Vendetti v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Wash.) 1928, 27 F.2d 856, certiorari denied 49 S.Ct. 94, 278 U.S. 650, 73 L.Ed. 561.

Admission of evidence of overt act before requiring prima facie proof of conspiracy was not error. Eddington v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Okla.) 1928, 24 F.2d 50.

Evidence of overt act, committed by one defendant and alleged to have been committed by another, is admissible. Kolbrenner v. U.S., C.C.A.5 (Tex.) 1926, 11 F.2d 754, certiorari denied 46 S.Ct. 489, 271 U.S. 677, 70 L.Ed. 1146

Any act of conspirators occurring during life of conspiracy is admissible for purpose of proving it, and government is not limited to proving overt acts alleged. Kolbrenner v. U.S., C.C.A.5 (Tex.) 1926, 11 F.2d 754, certiorari denied 46 S.Ct. 489, 271 U.S. 677, 70 L.Ed. 1146.

Evidence of an overt act not charged is admissible, if done in furtherance of conspiracy. Morrow v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Mo.) 1926, 11 F.2d 256. See, also, Worthington v. U.S., C.C.A.Ill.1924, 1 F.2d 154, certiorari denied 45 S.Ct. 125, 266 U.S. 626, 69 L.Ed. 475; Houston v. U.S., Wash.1914, 217 F. 852, 133 C.C.A. 562, certiorari denied 35 S.Ct. 284, 238 U.S. 613, 59 L.Ed. 1490. Conspiracy ⚡ 43(12)

Evidence of acts in furtherance of conspiracy by defendants' corporation were admissible, where the indictment charged that defendants conspired with parties to grand jury unknown. Ford v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1926, 10 F.2d 339, certiorari granted 46 S.Ct. 475, 271 U.S. 652, 70 L.Ed. 1133, affirmed 47 S.Ct. 531, 273 U.S. 593, 71 L.Ed. 793.

Evidence of overt act is admissible in connection with other evidence in determining existence of conspiracy charged. Langley v. U.S., C.C.A.6 (Ky.) 1925, 8 F.2d 815, certiorari denied 46 S.Ct. 204, 269 U.S. 588, 70 L.Ed. 427. See, also, U.S. v. Richards, D.C.Neb.1906, 149 F. 443. Conspiracy ⚡ 46

Evidence of any act tending to show conspiracy is relevant in prosecution for conspiracy, though only one act be alleged. Westfall v. U. S., C.C.A.6 (Ohio) 1924, 2 F.2d 973, 3 Ohio Law Abs. 481.

Where overt acts are of the character which are usually, if not necessarily, done pursuant to a previous scheme and plan, proof of the acts has at least a substantial tendency to show a pre-existing conspiracy. Parilla v. U.S., C.C.A.6 (Ohio) 1922, 280 F. 761.

Under an indictment for conspiracy, evidence of overt acts, though committed prior to the period of limitation, may be considered as bearing on the question of conspiracy. Baker v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Okla.) 1921, 276 F. 283.

Overt acts, other than those charged in the indictment for conspiracy, tending to show defendant guilty, are admissible as against objection of irrelevancy. McKnight v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Okla.) 1918, 252 F. 687, 164 C.C.A. 527, certiorari denied 39 S.Ct. 388, 249 U.S. 614, 63 L.Ed. 802.

In a prosecution for conspiring to violate the laws of the United States by giving and receiving rebates, alleged overt acts, which were in themselves lawful, being connected with the object of the conspiracy, may be shown in evidence. U.S. v. Grand Trunk Ry. Co. of Canada, W.D.N.Y.1915, 225 F. 283.

Under an indictment charging defendants as individuals, evidence of acts done in the name of corporations of which defendants were officers were admissible. Houston v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Wash.) 1914, 217 F. 852, 133 C.C.A. 562, certiorari denied 35 S.Ct. 284, 238 U.S. 613, 59 L.Ed. 1490.

An overt act committed by one of the alleged coconspirators within the three years pursuant to a conspiracy between him and the defendant, formed and followed by an overt act more than three years prior to the filing of the indictment without the defendant's consent or agreement within the three years to the continued existence and execution of the conspiracy, was incompetent to establish its existence and his participation therein within the three years. Ware v. U. S., C.C.A.8 (Neb.) 1907, 154 F. 577, 84 C.C.A. 503, 12 Am. Ann. Cas. 233, certiorari denied 28 S.Ct. 255, 207 U.S. 588, 52 L.Ed. 353.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Proof of the formation by the defendant and others, more than three years before the indictment, of such a conspiracy as that charged in the indictment and of an overt act thereunder prior to the three years, is insufficient to sustain the charge of a conspiracy within the three years, but in connection with evidence aliunde of the existence of the conspiracy and of the defendant's conscious participation in it within the three years, it is competent evidence for the consideration of the jury in determining the issue presented by the indictment. Ware v. U. S., C.C.A.8 (Neb.) 1907, 154 F. 577, 84 C.C.A. 503, 12 Am. Ann. Cas. 233, certiorari denied 28 S.Ct. 255, 207 U.S. 588, 52 L.Ed. 353.

Where an indictment charged the defendants with having conspired together "before and on" a certain date while evidence of acts done after that date was inadmissible as direct proof of an act then done in furtherance of the conspiracy, it was competent as proof of acts done before or on said date. Browne v. U.S., C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1905, 145 F. 1, 76 C.C.A. 31, certiorari denied 26 S.Ct. 755, 200 U.S. 618, 50 L.Ed. 623.

An overt act when proved may be considered as evidence of the conspiracy charged. U.S. v. Howell, W.D.Mo.1892, 56 F. 21.

The fact that the overt acts charged and proven were severally criminal is no answer in an indictment for conspiracy, and such overt acts may be proven to show the existence of the conspiracy charged. U. S. v. Rindskopf, W.D.Wis.1874, 27 F.Cas. 813, 6 Biss. 259, 8 Chi. Leg. N. 9, No. 16165. Conspiracy ↪ 37

640. ---- Acts of others, overt acts, admissibility of evidence

Coconspirators' acts, in selling counterfeit checks to undercover agent and talking with other agent about purchase of check-printing machine, were highly relevant to establish existence of conspiracy and its workings, so that district court did not abuse its discretion in admitting evidence of acts in prosecution for conspiracy to commit bank theft. U.S. v. Crocker, C.A.1 (Mass.) 1986, 788 F.2d 802.

Where conspiracy was in embryonic existence between accomplice and defendant's codefendant when accomplice referred federal agent to codefendant to do job that was intended to be fraud on federal government, statement by accomplice to federal agent was admissible against defendant as coconspirator's statement in furtherance of conspiracy, even though defendant joined conspiracy at later time. U.S. v. Harris, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1984, 729 F.2d 441.

Alleged overt act in nature of conversation between coconspirator and government undercover agents was properly retained in indictment since it was immaterial that only one coconspirator participated since such acts, if proven, clearly sufficed to show that the conspiracy was operative and such conversation as well as alleged trip by one conspirator involved attempts by the latter to fulfill the purpose of the conspiracy. U. S. v. Enstam, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1980, 622 F.2d 857, certiorari denied 101 S.Ct. 1351, 450 U.S. 912, 67 L.Ed.2d 336, certiorari denied 101 S.Ct. 1974, 451 U.S. 907, 68 L.Ed.2d 294.

Acts and declarations of one coconspirator are admissible against another if the existence of a conspiracy is in fact first established by independent evidence and if the acts and declarations occurred during and in furtherance of the conspiracy. U. S. v. Andrews, C.A.10 (Colo.) 1978, 585 F.2d 961.

Defendant's arrest prior to accomplishment of planned robbery of hotel did not constitute withdrawal from conspiracy to rob the hotel, absent showing of affirmative action of withdrawal, and, therefore, evidence of coconspirators' conduct subsequent to defendant's arrest was admissible against defendant. U. S. v. Pearson, C.A.5 (Fla.) 1975, 508 F.2d 595, certiorari denied 96 S.Ct. 82, 423 U.S. 845, 46 L.Ed.2d 66.

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Evidence of acts of coconspirators which occur after the entire conspiracy has ended and is complete may be introduced against all of the coconspirators if the evidence tends to prove the existence of the conspiracy. U. S. v. Payseur, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1974, 501 F.2d 966.

Conversations showing defendant's participation in narcotics conspiracy could not be admitted on theory that they constituted "verbal acts" of a coconspirator, where the statements relied on were not those of coconspirator, with respect to personal dealings with defendant but of another coconspirator who had no personal relationship with defendant. U. S. v. Cirillo, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1974, 499 F.2d 872, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 638, 419 U.S. 1056, 42 L.Ed.2d 653.

Testimony by coconspirators concerning numerous flimflams and other criminal activities over a long period of time was admissible to support an attack on credibility of coconspirators developed by defendant on cross-examination. U. S. v. Cochran, C.A.5 (Fla.) 1974, 499 F.2d 380, rehearing denied 502 F.2d 1168, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 810, 419 U.S. 1124, 42 L.Ed.2d 825.

In view of the ample independent proof of conspiracy to which defendant was a party, evidence of telephone calls to bank by person representing himself as defendant was clearly admissible on theory that the calls were made by a coconspirator or on alternative theory that defendant actually made the calls. U. S. v. Zane, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1974, 495 F.2d 683, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 174, 419 U.S. 895, 42 L.Ed.2d 139.

When two or more persons have conspired to commit criminal offense anything said or done by one of them, during the existence of the conspiracy, and in furtherance of the common design, may be admitted as evidence against the others. U. S. v. Vaught, C.A.4 (S.C.) 1973, 485 F.2d 320.

Where evidence was more than sufficient to show that coconspirators participated in overt acts in furtherance of conspiracy, such overt acts were properly admitted against another coconspirator, regardless of lack of proof as to participation by latter, and whether or not latter was present at time acts were committed. U. S. v. Fontenot, C.A.5 (Ga.) 1973, 483 F.2d 315.

In conspiracy prosecution, defendant's alleged overt act in favor of another alleged coconspirator was admissible although alleged coconspirator had been acquitted on conspiracy charge in earlier trial. U. S. v. Bass, C.A.8 (Ark.) 1973, 472 F.2d 207, certiorari denied 93 S.Ct. 2751, 412 U.S. 928, 37 L.Ed.2d 155.

Evidence that simultaneously with offenses, two alleged coconspirators deposited large amounts of cash and bearer bonds in custodial accounts identified only by number provided an ample nexus with the conspiracy for purpose of admitting evidence of activities in relation to account. U. S. v. Kenny, C.A.3 (N.J.) 1972, 462 F.2d 1205, certiorari denied 93 S.Ct. 233, 409 U.S. 914, 34 L.Ed.2d 176, certiorari denied 93 S.Ct. 234, 409 U.S. 914, 34 L.Ed.2d 176.

Unarrested coconspirator still operating in furtherance of conspiracy may say and do things which may be introduced against coconspirator, who has been arrested prior to the saying and doing of such things, if conspiracy is still in operation. U. S. v. Wentz, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1972, 456 F.2d 634.

Rule that acts and declarations of each participant in a conspiracy are admissible against all governed complaints made as to evidence on conduct of two defendants vis-a-vis acts and admissions of coconspirator, and likewise provided nexus for establishing defendants' culpability on all substantive counts, even though one or both defendants did not actually make alleged fraudulent mailings or sales. U. S. v. Henderson, C.A.8 (N.D.) 1971, 446 F.2d 960, certiorari denied 92 S.Ct. 536, 404 U.S. 991, 30 L.Ed.2d 543.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Previous acts and declarations of fellow conspirators became admissible against defendant who may have entered conspiracy at later date, at least insofar as they tended to show nature and objectives of conspiracy he joined. U. S. v. Hickey, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1966, 360 F.2d 127, certiorari denied 87 S.Ct. 284, 385 U.S. 928, 17 L.Ed.2d 210.

Disposal of murder weapon by coconspirator fleeing from police is act in furtherance of conspiracy and probative against both conspirators. U. S. ex rel. Wilson v. Essex County Court, Law Division, D.C.N.J.1976, 406 F.Supp. 991.

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate narcotic laws, prejudicial joinder could not be based upon claim that evidence of third overt act, alleged to have been committed by codefendant alone, would unduly influence jury in determining guilt or innocence of defendant, where third overt act alleged appeared to be an act in furtherance of the conspiracy. U. S. v. Ashlock, W.D.Mo.1974, 387 F.Supp. 19.

Acts by fellow conspirators in carrying out conspiracy are receivable in evidence against defendants charged with the crime of conspiracy. U. S. v. Garrison, E.D.Wis.1958, 168 F.Supp. 622.

641. Pecuniary interest of defendants, admissibility of evidence

In prosecution for conspiracy, evidence that defendant shared in fruits of conspiracy helped to paint the entire picture of the conspiracy and thus was relevant and admissible unless otherwise objectionable. U S v. Johnson, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1958, 254 F.2d 175, certiorari dismissed 78 S.Ct. 1378, 357 U.S. 933, 2 L.Ed.2d 1369.

In conspiracy prosecution, introduction of memorandum showing pecuniary interest of all of defendants was not error, where limited as against defendant who wrote it. Kuhn v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1928, 24 F.2d 910, modified on denial of rehearing 26 F.2d 463, certiorari denied 49 S.Ct. 11, 278 U.S. 605, 73 L.Ed. 533.

642. Photographs, admissibility of evidence

Trial court, in prosecution for interstate transportation of counterfeit payroll checks and conspiracy, did not abuse its discretion in admitting photographs showing one defendant cashing such checks where the purpose and function of the photographic apparatus, as well as the conditions under which the photographs were made, were adequately explained by the government's witnesses, and there was no question of the photographs' relevancy to the issues of sub judice. U. S. v. Moseley, C.A.5 (Fla.) 1971, 450 F.2d 506, certiorari denied 92 S.Ct. 1200, 405 U.S. 975, 31 L.Ed.2d 250.

There was no prejudicial effect in admission, in prosecution for conspiracy to counterfeit, of photographs of items found in room where printing activities were assertedly carried out and in rejection of requirement that equipment and materials themselves be produced in court. U. S. v. Lukasik, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1965, 341 F.2d 325, certiorari denied 85 S.Ct. 1770, 381 U.S. 938, 14 L.Ed.2d 702.

"Rogues gallery" photographs of defendant's alleged co-conspirators, who had previously pleaded guilty to conspiracy, were validly used to enable various witnesses to establish identity of co-conspirators, as bearing upon their relationship to, and association with, defendant; and there being no jury, presence of police numbers on photographs was not prejudicial, especially in light of assurances by trial judge against such harm. U. S. v. Boston, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1964, 330 F.2d 937, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 1940, 377 U.S. 1004, 12 L.Ed.2d 1053.

In prosecution of superintendent of police of a town for conspiring to deprive Negro inhabitants of rights, privileges and immunities secured to them by Constitution and laws of United States, and in prosecution of such superintendent and two police officers for subjecting Negro inhabitants to deprivation of rights, privileges and immunities, under color of law, permitting introduction into evidence of photographs showing destruction of and damage to personalty contained in building in which involved Negro attempted to reside, which destruction and damage allegedly resulted from riots of townspeople, was error prejudicial to defendants because of their inflammatory character. U. S. v. Konovsky, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1953, 202 F.2d 721.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Photographs of scene of seizure of liquor was competent against defendant not directly identified and testimony that defendant urged government witness to refuse to testify on ground of self-incrimination was competent as tending to show conscious guilt. Madden v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1927, 20 F.2d 289, certiorari denied 48 S.Ct. 116, 275 U.S. 554, 72 L.Ed. 423.

643. Photostats, admissibility of evidence

Admission of photostatic copies of letters written to one of defendants by her husband, since deceased, which letters had been put in evidence at previous trial, was not error as violative of U.S.C.A.Const. Amends. 4, 5, or 6, on ground that letters were involuntarily produced by reason of necessity of rebutting erroneous position that Government took at former trial. Ballard v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1943, 138 F.2d 540, certiorari granted 64 S.Ct. 427, 320 U.S. 733, 88 L.Ed. 434, reversed 64 S.Ct. 882, 322 U.S. 78, 88 L.Ed. 1148, on remand 152 F.2d 941.

In prosecution for violating §§ 483 and 1593 of Title 19, and for conspiring to violate such sections, photostatic copies of defendant's bank statements showing $15,000 withdrawal on February 13, 1940, was admissible to corroborate testimony of witness that in early February, 1940, defendant met witness at bank and handed him $15,000 in cash, and the use of the photostatic copies was not excluded by the "best evidence" rule, where contents of statements were not questioned. U.S. v. Kushner, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1943, 135 F.2d 668, certiorari denied 63 S.Ct. 1449, 320 U.S. 212, 87 L.Ed. 1850, rehearing denied 64 S.Ct. 32, 320 U.S. 808, 88 L.Ed. 488.

Photostatic copies of government documents, duly authenticated, were properly admitted. Cooper v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Iowa) 1925, 9 F.2d 216.

644. Tape recordings, admissibility of evidence

In conspiracy trial, trial court properly admitted taped conversations even though investigation into the alleged conspiracy occurred years after the conspiracy ended. U.S. v. Davanzo, C.A.11 (Fla.) 1983, 699 F.2d 1097.

In joint trial of various defendants for conspiracy, inter alia, tape recording of telephone conversations between particular defendant and government informant was properly played before jury in entirety, in view of cautionary instruction given before and after admission that it was being admitted only against particular defendant, in view of admissibility of references to codefendants for impeachment of particular defendant who in his testimony had denied wrongdoing by codefendants, and in view of there being no Bruton confrontation problem being presented. U. S. v. Kenny, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1981, 645 F.2d 1323, certiorari denied 101 S.Ct. 3059, 452 U.S. 920, 69 L.Ed.2d 425, certiorari denied 102 S.Ct. 121, 454 U.S. 828, 70 L.Ed.2d 104. Criminal Law ¶ 673(4)

Admission of certain tape-recorded conversations between defendant and alleged coconspirator was not an abuse of discretion as long as trial court carefully considered objection that portions of recording were inaudible and carefully regulated jury's consideration of same. U. S. v. Enright, C.A.6 (Mich.) 1978, 579 F.2d 980.

In prosecution for bribery and conspiracy to bribe criminal investigators of Immigration and Naturalization Service, trial court did not abuse its discretion in admitting into evidence portions of tape recordings indicating that one defendant had knowledge of narcotics activities, in view of facts that recorded conversations revealed awareness rather than involvement in narcotics activities, that trial judge persistently admonished jury that traffic in narcotics was irrelevant to issues before them, and that conversations were probative of prosecution's contention that cordial relations existed between defendant and criminal investigators. U. S. v. Ong, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1976, 541 F.2d 331, certiorari denied 97 S.Ct. 814, 429 U.S. 1075, 50 L.Ed.2d 793, certiorari denied 97 S.Ct. 1559, 430 U.S. 934, 51 L.Ed.2d 780.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Where one of the members of conspiracy, as a government informer, allowed himself to be equipped with a radio transmitter, tape recording of defendants' conversations with informer as recorded by government agents on receiving end of transmitter was properly admitted in evidence after trial judge out of presence of jury passed on its audibility and there was adequate testimony from which jury could draw its conclusions as to voice identification and accuracy of transcript. U. S. v. Marrapese, C.A.2 (Conn.) 1973, 486 F.2d 918, certiorari denied 94 S.Ct. 1597, 415 U.S. 994, 39 L.Ed.2d 891.

Where court, prior to trial, ordered counsel for both parties to listen to tapes to determine where they disagreed as to words heard on the tapes, where parties agreed that the transcripts accurately reflected the words on the tapes, with certain exceptions as to which it was agreed that the transcripts would contain the version believed accurate by each party, and where government agreed with most of the changes sought by defense counsel, it was not an abuse of discretion to admit the tapes and transcripts into evidence, in prosecution for conspiracy to travel in interstate commerce in furtherance of bribery, and for perjury, nor to allow jury to retain the transcripts during trial and during their deliberations. U. S. v. Carson, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1972, 464 F.2d 424, certiorari denied 93 S.Ct. 268, 409 U.S. 949, 34 L.Ed.2d 219.

Tapes and transcripts of conversations between defendant and persons, who did not testify, were admissible, in prosecution of internal revenue agent for various counts growing out of alleged bribery of fellow agent, as declarations in furtherance of conspiracy where as to each conversation there was showing of joint venture to which defendant was party though formal conspiracy charge had not been brought against several persons involved in such conversations. U. S. v. Weiser, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1969, 428 F.2d 932, certiorari denied 91 S.Ct. 1606, 402 U.S. 949, 29 L.Ed.2d 119.

Failure of trial court to have tape recording of conversation between defendant and conspiracy victim played to jury after tape recording had been admitted into evidence was not prejudicial on theory that tape was exculpatory. U. S. v. Littman, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1970, 421 F.2d 981, certiorari denied 91 S.Ct. 448, 400 U.S. 991, 27 L.Ed.2d 438.

645. Prior convictions, admissibility of evidence

In prosecution for conspiracy to steal funds from and armed larceny of savings and loan association in which defendant was found not guilty of killing to avoid apprehension for larceny, evidence of murder was not so insubstantial that it was introduced purely to prejudice jury against defendant and, therefore, admission of that evidence was not error. U.S. v. Jackson, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1985, 756 F.2d 703.

Evidence regarding a prior bust out attempt was admissible in mail fraud prosecution as evidence detailing the early stages of single, continuing conspiracy. U. S. v. Crockett, C.A.5 (Ga.) 1976, 534 F.2d 589.

There was no error in allowing Government to present evidence of other crimes to show system and intent in prosecution for conspiring to defraud and for defrauding certain persons through the use of mails and interstate telephonic communications. U. S. v. Frick, C.A.5 (La.) 1973, 490 F.2d 666, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 55, 419 U.S. 831, 42 L.Ed.2d 57.

Previous acts of coconspirator may be admissible against a defendant once a prima facie case of conspiracy is proved and previous acts show nature and objectives of the conspiracy. U. S. v. Morton, C.A.8 (Ark.) 1973, 483 F.2d 573.

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate revenue laws dealing with distilled spirits, permitting jury to consider defendant's prior criminal offenses for the purpose of determining his intent and guilty knowledge was not improper, especially in light of defendant's contention that he had no guilty intent or knowledge with respect to whiskey transactions in Alabama. U. S. v. Dryden, C.A.5 (Ala.) 1970, 423 F.2d 1175, certiorari denied 90 S.Ct. 1869, 398 U.S. 950, 26 L.Ed.2d 290.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Testimony of coconspirator admitting pleading guilty to charge similar to one for which defendants were prosecuted, passing counterfeit money, admitting presence of defendants at time of offense and that he had received note from them, was admissible. U. S. v. Gleeson, C.A.10 (Kan.) 1969, 411 F.2d 1091.

Defendant who testified on direct examination that he had no connection with narcotics opened door to proof impeaching such specific testimony so that court could, without error, permit government to ask him what prior conviction was for and to introduce record thereof. U. S. v. Bentvena, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1963, 319 F.2d 916, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 345, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 271, rehearing denied 90 S.Ct. 894, 397 U.S. 928, 25 L.Ed.2d 108, rehearing denied 84 S.Ct. 515, 375 U.S. 989, 11 L.Ed.2d 476, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 346, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 271, rehearing denied 84 S.Ct. 1162, 377 U.S. 913, 12 L.Ed.2d 183, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 353, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 272, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 354, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 272, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 355, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 272, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 360, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 272.

In prosecution for conspiracy in regard to marihuana and for substantive violations of laws in regard to marihuana, permitting government to inquire of defendant as to other alleged offenses was not error where purpose of inquiry was merely to show that the felony offense of which on his direct examination defendant had admitted he had been convicted, was an offense concerning marihuana. Padron v. U.S., C.A.5 (Tex.) 1958, 254 F.2d 574, certiorari denied 79 S.Ct. 22, 358 U.S. 815, 3 L.Ed.2d 57.

In prosecution for conspiracy to transport stolen motor vehicles in interstate commerce, and for knowingly aiding and abetting in sale of such automobiles, evidence of prior conviction of defendant in Juvenile Court in relation to wrongful possession of automobile was admissible even though conviction was remote in time, if trial court, in sound exercise of its discretion, concluded that offense had bearing upon credibility of witness. U.S. v. Bucur, C.A.7 (Ind.) 1952, 194 F.2d 297.

In prosecution for conspiracy, bribery and evading service in armed forces, evidence of defendant's conviction of robbery by assault in 1933 was admissible for purposes of impeachment where defendant took the witness stand in his own behalf. Claunch v. U.S., C.C.A.5 (Tex.) 1946, 155 F.2d 261.

In prosecution for conspiracy to transport in interstate commerce securities of value of $5,000, knowing them to have been stolen, admission of evidence that accused had been convicted for earlier crimes of the same sort was not error, notwithstanding defendant had confessed in writing the commission of the earlier crimes. United States v. Bollenbach, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1944, 147 F.2d 199, certiorari granted 65 S.Ct. 915, 324 U.S. 837, 89 L.Ed. 1401, reversed on other grounds 66 S.Ct. 402, 326 U.S. 607, 90 L.Ed. 350.

In prosecution for violation of federal liquor laws and conspiracy to violate such laws, where an alleged accomplice testified as a government witness, government was warranted in bringing out on direct examination that the witness had been previously convicted of serious crimes as bearing on credibility of the witness. U.S. v. Vanco, C.C.A.7 (Ill.) 1942, 131 F.2d 123.

In prosecution for conspiracy to sell liquors on which taxes were not paid, with intent to defraud the United States, and for unlawful possession, sale and transfer of distilled spirits in unstamped containers, evidence of convictions of liquor violations several years before and of specific unlawful acts was not admissible, though defendant introduced evidence of general reputation for integrity, in absence of proof that prior convictions and unlawful acts were known to the community or impaired defendant's reputation for integrity. Eley v. U. S., C.C.A.6 (Ohio) 1941, 117 F.2d 526.

Permitting prosecuting attorney, by questions asked, to disclose purported prior conviction of defendant, was reversible error, where defendant did not testify. Mercer v. U S, C.C.A.3 (Pa.) 1926, 14 F.2d 281.

The court, as trier of the fact, gives strong heed to admonition that mere suspicious conduct is insufficient to support criminal charges; that association with alleged conspirators or known criminals does not supply the required degree of proof; and that a defendant has a criminal record or that one even admits his sole income during period covered by indictment was derived from various criminal activities, including sale of narcotics, is no evidence of specific charge made against a defendant, but character and prior record of a defendant who testified on his own behalf bear upon and may properly be considered upon issue of his credibility. U. S. v. Beigel, S.D.N.Y.1966, 254 F.Supp. 923, affirmed 370 F.2d 751, certiorari denied 87 S.Ct. 2049, 387 U.S. 930, 18 L.Ed.2d 989, certiorari denied 87 S.Ct. 2053, 387 U.S. 930, 18 L.Ed.2d 989, certiorari denied 87 S.Ct. 2062, 387 U.S. 936, 18 L.Ed.2d 998.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Evidence of defendant's prior convictions on charges for offenses similar to offense with which defendant is charged with conspiring to commit is relevant to show guilty knowledge and intent. U. S. v. Cisneros, N.D.Cal.1961, 191 F.Supp. 924, affirmed 322 F.2d 948.

Where prosecutor called two coconspirators to testify in trial of accused for conspiracy and accused knew of whereabouts of remaining coconspirators and called two of them as witnesses, accused could not complain that he was prejudiced because testimony of coconspirators called by accused was discredited upon cross-examination by their admissions of convictions of prior offenses. U. S. v. Peterson, E.D.Pa.1938, 24 F.Supp. 470.

646. Privileged communications, admissibility of evidence

Tapes of project meetings were admissible under crime-fraud exception to attorney-client privilege, as transcripts of those tapes, along with independent evidence, demonstrated that attorney was retained in order to promote intended or continuing criminal or fraudulent activity; purpose of project was to cover up past criminal wrongdoing, and project involved discussion and planning for future frauds against Internal Revenue Service. U.S. v. Zolin, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1990, 905 F.2d 1344, certiorari denied 111 S.Ct. 1309, 499 U.S. 920, 113 L.Ed.2d 244.

Error in admitting privileged conversation between defendant and attorney regarding propriety of employment of government officer, in criminal prosecution related to that employment, could not be deemed harmless, in that conversation was central to Government's proof that defendant had criminal intent necessary for charge of conspiring to defraud the United States. U.S. v. White, C.A.D.C.1989, 887 F.2d 267, 281 U.S.App.D.C. 39.

Evidence in prosecution for conspiracy to embezzle and misapply bank funds sustained finding that attorney who was present at a meeting between defendant and his counsel was not acting as an attorney or an agent at that meeting, and therefore, defendant's comments at such meeting did not come within the attorney-client privilege. U. S. v. Landof, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1978, 591 F.2d 36.

Where husband and wife are engaged in criminal conspiracy, extrajudicial statements of either made in furtherance of conspiracy may be admitted against other. U. S. v. Price, C.A.9 (Wash.) 1978, 577 F.2d 1356, certiorari denied 99 S.Ct. 835, 439 U.S. 1068, 59 L.Ed.2d 33.

Spousal privilege belongs both to party spouse, who may prevent spouse from testifying, and to nonparty spouse, who may sua sponte refuse to testify. U. S. v. Trotter, C.A.3 (N.J.) 1976, 529 F.2d 806.

Admission of defendant's wife's statement that she had told defendant that he was going to get in trouble "messing" with his brother and "those counterfeits" was prejudicial error as to defendant, even though statement was made in presence of defendant and even if wife was a coconspirator, where statement was made after defendant's arrest. U. S. v. Williams, C.A.5 (Fla.) 1971, 447 F.2d 894.

Admission of testimony by telegraph company employee identifying and explaining company records which had been subpoenaed to show that one defendant had wired money to another defendant over objection that testimony as to confidential messages was prohibited by the Communications Act, section 605 of Title 47, was not error where coconspirators had informed prosecution of the communication prior to trial and a subpoena duces tecum had been issued directing an agent of telegraph company to bring records to court. Woodring v. U. S., C.A.10 (Okla.) 1967, 376 F.2d 619, certiorari denied 88 S.Ct. 153, 389 U.S. 885, 19 L.Ed.2d 182.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Statement of defendant's common-law wife reciting wife's participation in conspiracy with defendant to transport women in interstate commerce for prostitution purposes was admissible in prosecution for the conspiracy, despite references to conversations with defendant, in absence of indication that the conversations were intended to be privileged. Baker v. U. S., C.A.10 (Colo.) 1964, 329 F.2d 786, certiorari denied 85 S.Ct. 101, 379 U.S. 853, 13 L.Ed.2d 56.

In prosecution for using and for conspiring to use mails to defraud in sale of stock in gold mines, testimony on behalf of government by one-time attorney for one of defendants was not privileged where it related to conversations and communications with defendant during the commission and in furtherance of the crime and where a prima facie case had already been established by other testimony. U.S. v. Bob, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1939, 106 F.2d 37, certiorari denied 60 S.Ct. 115, 308 U.S. 589, 84 L.Ed. 493.

Testimony by witness, who was an attorney, about statement made to him by one of defendants was not subject to attorney-client privilege objection where defendant did not come to witness to consult him as an attorney, and witness did not testify to information volunteered on the occasion in question. U. S. v. Barrow, E.D.Pa.1964, 229 F.Supp. 722, affirmed in part, reversed in part 363 F.2d 62, certiorari denied 87 S.Ct. 703, 385 U.S. 1001, 17 L.Ed.2d 541. Witnesses  198(2); Witnesses  199(1)

In prosecution of defendants, who were organizers and operators of five trade schools, for conspiring to defraud Government by fraudulently inflating cost basis of tuition rate and by fraudulently increasing cost to be charged to Veterans' Administration, loss of privilege of confidential communication with respect to certain conversations between defendants and an attorney who had been a director and secretary of three of trade schools, was not dependent upon showing of a conspiracy. U. S. v. Weinberg, M.D.Pa.1955, 129 F.Supp. 514, affirmed 226 F.2d 161, certiorari denied 76 S.Ct. 305, 350 U.S. 933, 100 L.Ed. 815.

In prosecution of defendants who organized and operated five trade schools, for conspiracy to defraud Government by fraudulently inflating cost basis of tuition rates and by fraudulently inflating and increasing cost to be charged to Veterans' Administration, testimony by witness, who had been secretary and director of three of schools and who had been named in indictment as co-conspirator but had not been indicted, offered for purpose of clearing his own reputation was not objectionable on theory it concerned confidential communications between defendants and witness, who was an attorney. U. S. v. Weinberg, M.D.Pa.1955, 129 F.Supp. 514, affirmed 226 F.2d 161, certiorari denied 76 S.Ct. 305, 350 U.S. 933, 100 L.Ed. 815.

In prosecution for conspiracy, stock manipulation, and mail fraud, criminal reference report or other documents of transmittal from Securities and Exchange Commission to Department of Justice were privileged as internal government memoranda and need not be revealed to defendants until trial. U. S. v. Bloom, E.D.Pa.1977, 78 F.R.D. 591.

647. Regulations, admissibility of evidence

In prosecution for conspiracy to make false statements to secure home modernization loans under National Housing Act, § 1701 et seq. of Title 12, admission of regulations of Administrator which did not become effective until after all loans but one had been made was not error, where it was not pointed out in what important respect the regulations differed from prior regulations in effect when other loans were made. U.S. v. Groopman, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1945, 147 F.2d 782, certiorari denied 66 S.Ct. 29, 326 U.S. 745, 90 L.Ed. 445.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Where a general regulation promulgated by the General Land Office respecting homestead entries of public land, for the government of the officers of local land offices, was pertinent to the issue as to the criminal intent of a defendant charged with a criminal offense under the land laws as corroborating his testimony as to his understanding of the requirement of the law, by showing that such understanding was in accordance with that of the Land Department until after the alleged offense, he was entitled to have such regulation placed before the jury as a matter of evidence, and its exclusion was error. Nurnberger v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (N.D.) 1907, 156 F. 721, 84 C.C.A. 377.

648. Relations between parties, admissibility of evidence

Evidence concerning history and philosophy of students' society and overall radical movement was relevant and admissible, in conspiracy prosecution, to show association of defendants with one another prior to date fixed in indictment; similarly admissible was society newsletter containing reference to meeting attended by two alleged conspirators. U. S. v. Baumgarten, C.A.8 (Mo.) 1975, 517 F.2d 1020, certiorari denied 96 S.Ct. 152, 423 U.S. 878, 46 L.Ed.2d 111.

Evidence warranted trial court's findings, with respect to plan of former lawyer for two defendants to tape-record conversations in his office allegedly to prevent persons involved in charged conspiracy to misapply funds of a national bank from changing their stories in effort to implicate him further in the case, that the government neither participated in nor encouraged such tape-recording and did not in any way utilize any information so obtained. U. S. v. Fanning, C.A.5 (Fla.) 1973, 477 F.2d 45, rehearing denied 477 F.2d 596, certiorari denied 94 S.Ct. 365, 414 U.S. 1006, 38 L.Ed.2d 243, rehearing denied 94 S.Ct. 935, 414 U.S. 1172, 39 L.Ed.2d 121.

Where there was ample evidence that one conspirator was a knowing participant in system to extort money from government contractors and in the efforts of its members to secrete proceeds of their joint efforts and there was conflict as to whether participation by the one conspirator in making a concealed investment in a corporation was undertaken on behalf of alleged ringleader of conspiracy or as an investment for legitimate business purpose, evidence of concealed investment was properly admitted. U. S. v. Kenny, C.A.3 (N.J.) 1972, 462 F.2d 1205, certiorari denied 93 S.Ct. 233, 409 U.S. 914, 34 L.Ed.2d 176, certiorari denied 93 S.Ct. 234, 409 U.S. 914, 34 L.Ed.2d 176.

Admission in prosecution for conspiracy to counterfeit currency of evidence of blank reproductions of selective service and voter registration cards together with evidence of a defendant's statement that he had printed them for codefendant, though incidentally proving that the defendant doing the printing had committed independent crime, was proper where introduced to show that he had performed printing job at direction of codefendant and to show close relationship between alleged conspirators. U. S. v. Lukasik, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1965, 341 F.2d 325, certiorari denied 85 S.Ct. 1770, 381 U.S. 938, 14 L.Ed.2d 702.

In prosecution for unlawful sales of government owned wool being made into army jackets, a conspiracy to defraud the government and for making of false statements about disposition of wool serge furnished manufacturer, that the jury acquitted one defendant of conspiracy with the other defendants, did not make such defendant's acts and declarations inadmissible against the codefendant where there was evidence relating to such defendant's relationship to his codefendant which justified the admission of the testimony. U. S. v. Fabric Garment Co., C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1958, 262 F.2d 631, certiorari denied 79 S.Ct. 1117, 359 U.S. 989, 3 L.Ed.2d 978.

Joint actions of defendants, preceding dates set out in indictment, were competent to show their association. Hood v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Okla.) 1927, 23 F.2d 472, certiorari denied 48 S.Ct. 436, 277 U.S. 588, 72 L.Ed. 1002.

In prosecution for conspiracy to transport and sell whisky, admission of testimony of coconspirator as to his relations with defendant prior to time covered in indictment was not error, where limited to its bearing on matters in indictment. Langley v. U.S., C.C.A.6 (Ky.) 1925, 8 F.2d 815, certiorari denied 46 S.Ct. 204, 269 U.S. 588, 70 L.Ed. 427.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

On a trial for conspiracy, evidence tending to show the relations between defendants and the relation of some of them to acts in furtherance of the purpose of the alleged conspiracy was properly admitted. Jacobsen v. U.S., C.C.A.7 (Ill.) 1920, 272 F. 399, certiorari denied 41 S.Ct. 625, 256 U.S. 703, 65 L.Ed. 1179.

In a prosecution for conspiring to violate and violating Harrison Drug Act, § 2550 et seq. of Title 26, evidence of accused's assistance to his coconspirator in prior prosecution for violating state drug acts was admissible to show relations between parties, etc. Wallace v. U.S., C.C.A.7 (Ill.) 1917, 243 F. 300, 156 C.C.A. 80, certiorari denied 38 S.Ct. 11, 245 U.S. 650, 62 L.Ed. 531.

Guilty connection of a conspirator may be established by showing association by the persons accused in and for the purpose of procuring the illegal object. U.S. v. Cole, W.D.Tex.1907, 153 F. 801.

In a prosecution for conspiracy to defraud the United States of certain public land under homestead entries, the fact that defendants advanced money to the entryman to pay his entry fee and to make improvements on the land was not in itself unlawful, and could only be considered in determining whether or not there was a conspiracy or unlawful agreement with the entryman, of which such advancement formed a part. U.S. v. Richards, D.C.Neb.1906, 149 F. 443. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(6)

Previous intimacy between persons charged with conspiracy is competent and important proof on the trial, and proof of close intimacy is especially important, if the duties of the parties respectively were intended to be in opposition, and should the occasion arise might forbid such intimacy, as where the conspiracy charged was to defraud the government in respect to contracts for public work, and the alleged conspirators were respectively contractors for such work and the government engineer officer in charge of the same. U.S. v. Greene, S.D.Ga.1906, 146 F. 803, affirmed 154 F. 401, 85 C.C.A. 251, certiorari denied 28 S.Ct. 261, 207 U.S. 596, 52 L.Ed. 357.

Judge determines admissibility, against defendant on trial, of what another has said or done out of court and must decide whether he is satisfied, by a preponderance of evidence, that agency existed between that other and the defendant before the evidence may be admitted. U. S. v. Cryan, D.C.N.J.1980, 490 F.Supp. 1234, affirmed 636 F.2d 1211.

Evidence of defendants' prior acts of illegal dumping was admissible in prosecution for conspiracy to interfere with commerce by threats or violence and conspiracy to engage in interstate transportation of stolen property, as evidence was offered to show that checks passing between the defendants were due to the charged crimes, which was highly probative of the relationship between the defendants and their connection to the charged crimes. U.S. v. Bruno, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 2003, 83 Fed.Appx. 361, 2003 WL 22955859, Unreported, post-conviction relief denied 2005 WL 3311992, reconsideration denied 2005 WL 3262972. Criminal Law ⚡ 369.2(3.1)

Testimony tending to show such a relation or understanding between alleged conspirators as would be indicative of a purpose to defraud the government by means of contracts for public works to be given out and carried on under charge of the accused would be admissible, even though it related to matters antedating the time of the particular conspiracy charged. 1899, 22 Op.Atty.Gen. 589.

649. Res gestae, admissibility of evidence

Statements of unidentified persons not shown to have any connection with a conspiracy are not admissible in evidence in conspiracy prosecution as being part of res gestae. U. S. v. Konovsky, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1953, 202 F.2d 721.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

650. Secondary evidence, admissibility of evidence

"Report of the Commission on Obscenity and Pornography" was properly excluded in prosecution for conspiracy to transport obscene material in interstate commerce as being irrelevant and as usurping function of the jury. U. S. v. Manarite, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1971, 448 F.2d 583, certiorari denied 92 S.Ct. 281, 404 U.S. 947, 30 L.Ed.2d 264, certiorari denied 92 S.Ct. 285, 404 U.S. 947, 30 L.Ed.2d 264, certiorari denied 92 S.Ct. 287, 404 U.S. 947, 30 L.Ed.2d 264, certiorari denied 92 S.Ct. 298, 404 U.S. 947, 30 L.Ed.2d 264.

Secondary evidence of contents of checks offered as bribe to officers making arrest were competent, where accused retained checks. Madden v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1927, 20 F.2d 289, certiorari denied 48 S.Ct. 116, 275 U.S. 554, 72 L.Ed. 423.

In conspiracy and oil stock mail fraud case, certified copy of lease assignment to defendant was irrelevant and not best evidence. Nelson v. U. S., C.C.A.8 (Ark.) 1926, 16 F.2d 71.

651. Similar acts or transactions, admissibility of evidence

In prosecution for conspiracy to defraud United States and for presentation of six separate false invoices to War Shipping Administration, evidence showing presentation of 11 other false invoices, received in support of conspiracy count, was also admissible as showing consistent pattern of conduct highly relevant to issue of intent with which the six invoices were presented. Nye & Nissen v. U.S., U.S.Cal.1949, 69 S.Ct. 766, 336 U.S. 613, 93 L.Ed. 919.

Testimony that the same course of conduct was going on long before the date in the indictment when it was alleged that the defendants conspired to commit an offense against the United States is admissible. Heike v. U.S., U.S.N.Y.1913, 33 S.Ct. 226, 227 U.S. 131, 57 L.Ed. 450.

On the trial of a defendant for conspiracy to defraud the United States of public lands, evidence that he had previously been engaged in the illegal acquisition of public lands elsewhere by a different method was admissible as bearing upon the questions of intent, purpose, and design. Williamson v. U.S., U.S.Or.1908, 28 S.Ct. 163, 207 U.S. 425, 52 L.Ed. 278. See, also, Jones v. U.S., Or.1910, 179 F. 584, 103 C.C.A. 142.

Admission of lists of possible arson "jobs" was not error, even though the lists evidenced a larger conspiracy beyond scope of conspiracy alleged in the indictment, where the lists were an inextricable part of proof of plan to burn subject store and larger scheme of which it was a part, defendant had referred to subject store as "one of the places * * * on the list" and referred to other "jobs" which unindicted coconspirator and another could do if they helped him with subject "job," court instructed jury to consider the other acts only on question of plan, intent, and knowledge, and only three out of 256 pages of transcript contained references to the other contemplated arsons. U.S. v. Byrd, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1984, 750 F.2d 585.

It was not error to refuse to outline evidence referred to in "related offenses" charge, i.e., that evidence concerning alleged acts related to those charged in indictment was admitted for limited purpose, as trial court felt that analyzing evidence was a more appropriate subject for counsel's argument, jury was told that other offense evidence could not be used until after it determined beyond a reasonable doubt that defendant or defendants had committed acts alleged in the indictment and attempt by the court to review the complicated facts might have caused more confusion than clarification. U. S. v. Enstam, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1980, 622 F.2d 857, certiorari denied 101 S.Ct. 1351, 450 U.S. 912, 67 L.Ed.2d 336, certiorari denied 101 S.Ct. 1974, 451 U.S. 907, 68 L.Ed.2d 294.

Evidence of other crimes is admissible in sound discretion of trial court if probative value of evidence, in relation to issue other than propensity to commit crimes, outweighs its prejudicial effect. U. S. v. Trotter, C.A.3 (N.J.) 1976, 529 F.2d 806.

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Evidence of acts which are similar to acts alleged with respect to charged conspiracy but which have occurred prior to the alleged conspiracy is admissible as bearing on issues of plan, state of mind, intent and lack of innocent purpose. U. S. v. Nunez, C.A.9 (Ariz.) 1973, 483 F.2d 453, certiorari denied 94 S.Ct. 594, 414 U.S. 1076, 38 L.Ed.2d 483.

Admission of similar acts in evidence and sending of exhibits to jury room were proper in prosecution for transporting falsely made bank checks in interstate commerce and for conspiring to do so. U. S. v. Foster, C.A.6 (Ohio) 1969, 407 F.2d 1335, certiorari denied 90 S.Ct. 134, 396 U.S. 862, 24 L.Ed.2d 114.

Fact that gambling suspect, after alleged conspiracy with several other defendants had ended, engaged in identical activities with defendant who acted as government agent was not admissible as shedding light on whether previous conspiracy in fact existed or as proving attainment of any of its illegal objectives, and admission of such evidence was prejudicial error as to former alleged coconspirator defendant. U.S. v. Chase, C.A.4 (Va.) 1967, 372 F.2d 453, certiorari denied 87 S.Ct. 1688, 387 U.S. 907, 18 L.Ed.2d 626, certiorari denied 87 S.Ct. 1701, 387 U.S. 913, 18 L.Ed.2d 635.

Both prior and subsequent acts substantially similar to subject matter forming basis of conspiracy indictment are admissible to prove intent, where acts are not too far removed in time from transactions in issue. U. S. v. Marchisio, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1965, 344 F.2d 653.

In prosecution for mail fraud and conspiracy to defraud a charitable foundation and its contributors, testimony of some of defendants' business dealings with other charitable organizations was properly admitted for purpose of indicating intent, knowledge and absence of any mistake or accident in their method of operating solicitations for charitable organizations. Koolish v. U. S., C.A.8 (Minn.) 1965, 340 F.2d 513, certiorari denied 85 S.Ct. 1805, 381 U.S. 951, 14 L.Ed.2d 724.

In prosecution for violation of narcotics law, § 4704 et seq. of Title 26, and for conspiracy to commit the offense, proof of another complete offense of which defendant was not charged in the indictment was admissible, in view of the similarity of the manner in which such offense was committed and its remarkable conformity to pattern of other transactions involved in the conspiracy charged against the defendant. U. S. v. Iacullo, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1955, 226 F.2d 788, certiorari denied 76 S.Ct. 435, 350 U.S. 966, 100 L.Ed. 839.

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate §§ 2803, 2833, 3253, 3321 of Title 26 by aiding in transportation of tax-unpaid liquor with intent to defraud the United States, testimony that witness 15 years before had illegal liquor transactions with accused was not inadmissible as being too remote since no limit is placed upon power of court to admit evidence of prior similar transactions committed by accused in ordinary course of his business, where a specific intent to defraud is an element of offense. Orloff v. U.S., C.C.A.6 (Mich.) 1946, 153 F.2d 292.

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate §§ 2803, 2833, 3253, 3321 of Title 26 by aiding in transportation of tax-unpaid liquor with intent to defraud the United States, testimony that accused was engaged in illicit liquor business 15 years before period covered by indictment was admissible only upon existence of fraudulent intent. Orloff v. U.S., C.C.A.6 (Mich.) 1946, 153 F.2d 292.

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate §§ 2803, 2833, 3253, 3321 of Title 26, by aiding in transportation by truck of tax-unpaid liquor with intent to defraud the United States, wherein principal defense was that accused's connection with transactions was explained by accused's friendship with codefendant, testimony that accused was engaged in illicit liquor business 15 years before period covered by indictment was relevant on guilty knowledge, and length of time went only to weight of such testimony. Orloff v. U.S., C.C.A.6 (Mich.) 1946, 153 F.2d 292.

Evidence that defendant had been involved in the stealing of other securities on other occasions was competent to show guilty knowledge in prosecution for conspiracy to transport stolen bonds in interstate commerce. U.S. v.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Turley, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1943, 135 F.2d 867, certiorari denied 64 S.Ct. 47, 320 U.S. 745, 88 L.Ed. 442.

In prosecution for conspiracy to transport stolen jewelry in interstate commerce, detailed evidence as to participation of defendants in a subsequent jewel robbery similar to the robbery charged as an overt act in indictment was admissible, notwithstanding it tended to show defendants had committed other offense. Banning v. U.S., C.C.A.6 (Mich.) 1942, 130 F.2d 330, certiorari denied 63 S.Ct. 434, 317 U.S. 695, 87 L.Ed. 556.

In prosecution of garage operator, salesman, and another for conspiracy to receive, dispose of, and transport stolen merchandise in interstate commerce, where testimony as to other in no way involved operator and salesman or pointed to their guilt, proof of independent but similar conspiracy between other and shipping clerk for manufacturer along with proof of principal conspiracy between shipping clerk and operator and salesman was not prejudicial to operator and salesman, though indictment charged a single conspiracy. Andrews v. U.S., C.C.A.4 (W.Va.) 1939, 108 F.2d 511.

In conspiracy prosecutions, evidence of similar acts committed at or about the same time with a fraudulent purpose is admissible as bearing on motive or intent in proving a fraudulent or criminal deed. Lambert v. U. S., C.C.A.5 (La.) 1939, 101 F.2d 960. See, also, Johnson v. U.S., C.C.A.Ky.1936, 82 F.2d 500, certiorari denied 56 S.Ct. 957, 298 U.S. 688, 80 L.Ed. 1407; Sartain v. U.S., C.C.A.Ga.1927, 16 F.2d 704; U.S. v. Ault, D.C.Wash.1920, 263 F. 800; Erber v. U.S., N.Y.1916, 234 F. 221, 148 C.C.A. 123. Criminal Law ¶ 371(1); Criminal Law ¶ 371(12)

In prosecution against members of coal miners' union for conspiring to obstruct mails and to restrain trade, exclusion of evidence of similar acts by others was proper, in absence of any showing that those acts were connected with depredations charged against miners. U.S. v. Anderson, C.C.A.7 (Ill.) 1939, 101 F.2d 325, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 822, 307 U.S. 625, 83 L.Ed. 1502, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 822, 307 U.S. 625, 83 L.Ed. 1503, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 823, 307 U.S. 625, 83 L.Ed. 1503, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 823, 307 U.S. 625, 83 L.Ed. 1504, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 823, 307 U.S. 625, 83 L.Ed. 1504, 86 L.Ed. 1504, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 824, 307 U.S. 625, 83 L.Ed. 1505, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 824, 307 U.S. 625, 83 L.Ed. 1506, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 825, 307 U.S. 625, 83 L.Ed. 1506, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 825, 307 U.S. 625, 83 L.Ed. 1507, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 825, 307 U.S. 625, 83 L.Ed. 1508, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 826, 307 U.S. 625, 83 L.Ed. 1508, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 826, 307 U.S. 625, 83 L.Ed. 1509.

In prosecution for conspiring to defraud and for fraudulently using mails, evidence of similar acts at or about same time, with like alleged fraudulent purpose, is admissible as bearing on motive. Johnson v. U.S., C.C.A.6 (Ky.) 1936, 82 F.2d 500, certiorari denied 56 S.Ct. 957, 298 U.S. 688, 80 L.Ed. 1407.

In prosecution for conspiring to defraud government and fraudulently using mails by predated postmark on bid for construction of post office, evidence that on two other occasions within preceding three months defendants sent late bids for other government contracts under predated postmarks was relevant and admissible. Johnson v. U.S., C.C.A.6 (Ky.) 1936, 82 F.2d 500, certiorari denied 56 S.Ct. 957, 298 U.S. 688, 80 L.Ed. 1407.

In prosecution for conspiracy to personate, and for personating, federal officers, testimony respecting similar offense was admissible to show intent. Heskett v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1932, 58 F.2d 897, certiorari denied 53 S.Ct. 89, 287 U.S. 643, 77 L.Ed. 556.

Evidence as to offense of which accused had been acquitted was admissible to prove conspiracy to commit other offenses. Woodman v. U.S., C.C.A.5 (Tex.) 1929, 30 F.2d 482, certiorari denied 49 S.Ct. 351, 279 U.S. 855, 73 L.Ed. 997.

In a conspiracy case, where evidence tends to prove that defendant and others entered into common scheme to commit crime, such as transportation of liquor, evidence of other like offenses by defendant in carrying on common enterprise is relevant as showing his knowledge or intent, if such connection between different transactions is shown as raises fair inference of common motive in each. Crowley v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1925, 8 F.2d 118.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate National Prohibition Act, former § 1 et seq. of Title 27, at certain time and place, proof that one of accused was concerned in violation at another place six weeks prior thereto was prejudicial, in absence of testimony tending to connect conspiracy alleged with such offense. Terry v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1925, 7 F.2d 28.

In prosecution under former § 88 of this title [now this section] for conspiracy to transport whisky contrary to National Prohibition Act, former § 1 et seq. Title 27, where accused explained various transactions on ground that it was part of work which he had undertaken as special investigator of prohibition situation, evidence of similar transactions not charged in indictment was admissible to show intent of accused. Means v. U.S., C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1925, 6 F.2d 975.

In prosecution for conspiracy to import liquor and to transport same where some of defendants were former officers, evidence as to another defendant's recent bootlegging importations was not prejudicial as to certain other defendants, and properly received against defendant in question as material on issue of intent in procuring officers to seize liquor involved. Parmenter v. U. S., C.C.A.6 (Mich.) 1924, 2 F.2d 945, certiorari denied 45 S.Ct. 514, 268 U.S. 697, 69 L.Ed. 1163.

Where the government's evidence tended to show that defendant purchased intoxicating liquor unlawfully brought from Canada, and ordered certain other liquor, only part of which had been delivered when vessel was seized and confiscated, and that A., learning of the unfilled part of defendant's order, obtained defendant's confirmation thereof, and turned it over to persons whose transportation of liquor in compliance therewith constituted basis of charge of conspiracy, the transactions were so connected that evidence concerning the earlier transactions was relevant on question of defendant's participation in the conspiracy, and hence not inadmissible because also tending to show other crimes. De Witt v. U. S., C.C.A.6 (Ohio) 1923, 291 F. 995, certiorari denied 44 S.Ct. 134, 263 U.S. 714, 68 L.Ed. 521.

In a prosecution under former § 88 of this title [now this section] for conspiracy to deal in and sell morphine sulphate, a derivative of opium, in violation of the registration and tax provisions of § 2550 et seq. of Title 26, evidence was admissible of a violation of the state law, where the evidence of such violation was concealed in the same way and in the same place that evidence of the offense against the federal law was charged to be concealed. Nee v. U S, C.C.A.3 (Pa.) 1920, 267 F. 84.

On a trial for conspiracy to defraud the United States by the use of counterfeiting stamping devices in a factory engaged in the manufacture of shoes for the government, the general rule that on the trial for one offense evidence of another distinct and unrelated offense committed by the defendant is not admissible, unless it is offered for one of the purposes which constitute exceptions to the general rule, applied. MacDonald v. U S, C.C.A.1 (Mass.) 1920, 264 F. 733.

Evidence of a corrupt understanding with a government inspector in connection with a previous contract with the government was not admissible to show that defendant had an evil disposition, and that his character was such that he would be likely to enter into a conspiracy such as that charged. MacDonald v. U S, C.C.A.1 (Mass.) 1920, 264 F. 733.

Where defendant denied all knowledge that the counterfeit stamps had been procured or used, evidence that he placed a government inspector at the factory under a previous contract on the factory pay roll under an assumed name was not admissible, as it did not tend to show his knowledge that the counterfeit stamps were procured and used, and the question was not whether he had guilty knowledge, but whether he had any knowledge at all. MacDonald v. U S, C.C.A.1 (Mass.) 1920, 264 F. 733.

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In a prosecution, under this section, brought against druggists and a physician for conspiracy to violate Harrison Anti-Narcotic Act, § 2550 et seq. of Title 26, where purchases of narcotics by the druggist were alleged as overt acts, purchases in excess of those alleged were provable as additional and similar overt acts. Friedman v. U. S., C.C.A.6 (Tenn.) 1919, 260 F. 388, 170 C.C.A. 254, certiorari denied 40 S.Ct. 15, 250 U.S. 671, 63 L.Ed. 1199.

Defendant, prosecuted for conspiracy to transport liquor into the part of Oklahoma formerly the Indian Territory, was not entitled to show that before the conspiracy he was advised by the district attorney that a certain previous transaction was not criminal, the identity between the transactions in material respects not being shown, so as to make the advice apply to the transaction in issue. Hardy v. U.S., C.C.A.5 (Tex.) 1919, 256 F. 284, 167 C.C.A. 456, certiorari denied 40 S.Ct. 9, 250 U.S. 659, 63 L.Ed. 1194.

In a prosecution for conspiracy to violate a statute, it was within the discretion of the court to admit evidence of acts by defendants prior to the taking effect of the particular statute to show motive and intent, where they were closely connected with and were similar to subsequent acts, and where a similar statute was then in force. Jelke v. U.S., C.C.A.7 (Ill.) 1918, 255 F. 264, 166 C.C.A. 434.

On the trial of an indictment for conspiracy to violate former § 338 of this title, partly by means of suits and threatened suits for alleged disgraceful acts, evidence was admissible for the prosecution that the defendant had, at about the same time, instituted other suits of a like character and for a like purpose, from which the jury might infer the intent with which the suits involved in the prosecution were being brought or threatened. McKelvey v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1917, 241 F. 801, 154 C.C.A. 503.

On trial for conspiracy to pass counterfeit coins, evidence of previous attempt by one of the defendants to pass such a coin was admissible to show guilty knowledge. York v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1916, 241 F. 656, 154 C.C.A. 414.

In a prosecution for conspiracy to violate former § 336 of this title, and defraud by fake betting on pretended horse races, evidence of other fraudulent acts by defendants at or about the same time, terminating in fake horse-race betting, were admissible as bearing upon defendants' motives or intent, though such other acts were offenses in themselves, and were not precisely identical in character with those involved in the case on trial, except as they were means to the same end. Shea v. U. S., C.C.A.6 (Ohio) 1916, 236 F. 97, 149 C.C.A. 307.

Where a defendant charged with conspiracy to ship misbranded bags of coffee denied all knowledge of the misbranding and asserted that it was "put over him" by faithless servants in his office, acting secretly with brokers, evidence was admissible on behalf of the government of other orders that had passed through his office for the misbranding of coffee, as a circumstance to be considered by the jury in determining whether he had knowledge of such nefarious features in the sale of coffee. Mitchell v. U.S., C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1916, 229 F. 357, 143 C.C.A. 477.

On trial for conspiring to arrest a person with intent to hold him in a condition of peonage, evidence of other similar acts was admissible to show accord and combination and the defendants' intent. Huff v. U.S., C.C.A.5 (Ga.) 1916, 228 F. 892, 143 C.C.A. 290, certiorari denied 36 S.Ct. 551, 241 U.S. 667, 60 L.Ed. 1228.

On a trial for conspiracy to induce a partnership to accept rebates on shipments in violation of the Interstate Commerce Act, § 1 et seq. of Title 49, evidence of contemporaneous contracts made by defendants with other large shippers, similar in all respects to that made with the partnership named, and that such shippers also received sums of money indirectly which they understood to come from defendants, and to be in fact rebates, was admissible on the question of intent and motive in the transaction charged in the indictment. Thomas v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Mo.) 1907, 156 F. 897, 84 C.C.A. 477.

Under an indictment charging the defendants with conspiracy to defraud the United States of a large quantity of public lands, the overt act charged being the causing of an illegal entry of a tract described by a person named for their benefit, evidence tending to show that defendants induced the entry of other tracts by different persons at the same time and under similar circumstances was competent, in proof of the conspiracy and the fraudulent motive, and hence, where such indictment was consolidated with others covering such other entries, the dismissal of the latter after the evidence had been taken thereon was not prejudicial to the defendants. Olson v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Minn.) 1904, 133 F. 849, 67 C.C.A. 21.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In prosecution for using mails to defraud and for conspiracy to commit such act, proof of facts disclosed in prior prosecution which resulted in acquittal and which were charged as overt acts in indictments in prosecution is admissible as going to show intent or motive or carrying out of a definite scheme. U. S. v. Gilbert, S.D.Ohio 1939, 31 F.Supp. 195. Criminal Law ⚡ 371(1); Criminal Law ⚡ 371(12); Criminal Law ⚡ 372(6)

Admission, under other acts rule, of evidence that defendant previously had pleaded guilty to charge that he participated in "black money" conspiracy was not abuse of discretion in trial for conspiracy to commit wire fraud arising from "black money" scheme, inasmuch as sheer improbability of defendant's innocent participation in scheme that was virtually identical to one in which he had earlier participated made evidence of prior participation highly probative in assessing defendant's knowledge of charged scheme, even though defendant's role in two schemes was different and amounts involved were different. U.S. v. Ezech, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 2003, 64 Fed.Appx. 275, 2003 WL 1970445, Unreported. Criminal Law ⚡ 370

652. Telegrams, admissibility of evidence

Before telegram may be received in evidence, proof must connect it with its alleged author. Ford v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1926, 10 F.2d 339, certiorari granted 46 S.Ct. 475, 271 U.S. 652, 70 L.Ed. 1133, affirmed 47 S.Ct. 531, 273 U.S. 593, 71 L.Ed. 793.

Where the indictment charged the sending of a telegram as one of the overt acts in furtherance of a conspiracy to transport intoxicating liquor, the telegram, properly identified as having been delivered by one of the defendants to a telegraph company for transmission, was competent evidence, without proof that it was ever received. Alderman v. U.S., C.C.A.5 (Fla.) 1922, 279 F. 259, certiorari denied 42 S.Ct. 586, 259 U.S. 584, 66 L.Ed. 1075.

Telegram sent by defendants' coconspirator to another victim, the day after he lost his money, was not inadmissible, as being act done after the fraudulent scheme was at an end, the general fraudulent scheme, fake horse race betting in sham turf exchanges, not being shown to have then been abandoned, and the telegram being part of the res gestae. Shea v. U. S., C.C.A.6 (Ohio) 1918, 251 F. 440, 163 C.C.A. 458, certiorari denied 39 S.Ct. 132, 248 U.S. 581, 63 L.Ed. 431.

Letters and telegrams sent by an engineer in charge of government work to one of the contractors, charged with conspiring with him to defraud the government prior to the conspiracy charged but at a time when defendants were connected with the work, which informed the defendant addressed of the publication of an affidavit made by an inspector on the work, charging such defendant with an attempt to bribe the affiant, and with stating that he had power to cause affiant's removal by the engineer, and which telegrams and letters urged such defendant to send a statement and an affidavit dictated therein in denial were admissible in evidence for the purpose of showing the attitude of the engineer in the matter, and such joint action as to indicate an improper understanding and relation between the defendants on trial and the engineer officer, where it was proposed to follow it by other evidence showing a continuance of such intimacy and relation to the time of the conspiracy charged. U.S. v. Greene, S.D.Ga.1906, 146 F. 784.

653. Telephone calls, admissibility of evidence

In prosecution to defraud by depriving the United States of faithful services of an army officer, where long-distance telephone call bore directly on defense of extortion, refusal to permit unsworn, unverified long-distance call slip from telephone company records to be put into evidence, in corroboration of witness who had testified to receiving such a call, four hours after case had been submitted to jury, was not reversible error, where proffer of evidence was technically deficient and no excuse for untimeliness of offer appeared. U.S. v. Bayer, U.S.N.Y.1947, 67 S.Ct. 1394, 331 U.S. 532, 91 L.Ed. 1654, rehearing denied 68 S.Ct. 29, 332 U.S. 785, 92 L.Ed. 368.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In prosecution for mail fraud and conspiracy, testimony of accused's coconspirators, induced by divulging to such coconspirators contents of intercepted telephone messages to which they were parties but to which accused were not parties, was admissible, notwithstanding § 605 of Title 47, prohibiting interception of communication by wire. Goldstein v. United States, U.S.N.Y.1942, 62 S.Ct. 1000, 316 U.S. 114, 86 L.Ed. 1312.

Where telephone conversation between government agent and alleged coconspirator, proffered for the truth of the matters asserted, occurred after the time when the object of conspiracy had ostensibly been achieved and there was no evidence that the conspiracy was continuing, despite coconspirator's statement to agent before she left scene of narcotics transaction that she was to telephone if she was not satisfied, evidence of the telephone call should not have been received, and error was not harmless where it was heavily relied on both by the government in summation and by the jury, to whom the tape of the call was replayed pursuant to request. U. S. v. DeVaughn, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1978, 579 F.2d 225.

In light of what defendant had already told informer and was later to tell source of counterfeit securities in informer's presence, there was no reason why secrecy from informer of defendant's talk with security source should have been of concern to defendant, and therefore claim that informer's overhearing of conversation was a forbidden invasion of defendant's right to privacy could not be sustained since facts were not significantly different from those in Hoffa v. United States, 385 U.S. 293, 87 S.Ct. 408, 17 L.Ed.2d 374 (1966); in any event, episode was inconsequential, where informer had given ample leads to FBI quite apart from overheard conversation, and where informer did not testify at trial. U. S. v. Friedland, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1971, 441 F.2d 855, certiorari denied 92 S.Ct. 143, 404 U.S. 867, 30 L.Ed.2d 111, certiorari denied 92 S.Ct. 239, 404 U.S. 914, 30 L.Ed.2d 188.

That FBI agent overheard portion of call made by defendants in telephone booth did not require that all evidence and testimony developed subsequently be excluded, in prosecution for use of interstate telephone facilities for gambling activities and for conspiring to commit such offenses, as tainted product of unlawful seizure where defendants did not establish pertinent facts and overheard conversation did not reveal anything that agents did not already know. U. S. v. Fuller, C.A.4 (S.C.) 1971, 441 F.2d 755, certiorari denied 92 S.Ct. 73, 404 U.S. 830, 30 L.Ed.2d 59, certiorari denied 92 S.Ct. 74, 404 U.S. 830, 30 L.Ed.2d 59.

Evidence of telephone calls charged to third party who was neither a coconspirator in alleged illegal gambling activities nor named in bill of particulars, 300 of which calls were received at either defendant's number in Tulsa or that of a coconspirator in Baton Rouge, was admissible as competent proof of alleged conspiracy, although indictment was confined to transactions to and from Baton Rouge and Tulsa. Nolan v. U. S., C.A.10 (Okla.) 1969, 423 F.2d 1031, certiorari denied 91 S.Ct. 47, 400 U.S. 848, 27 L.Ed.2d 85.

Testimony as to content of several telephone conversations between wife of co-conspirator and defendant's uncle concerning an alleged $10,000 offer to the wife to testify favorably for defendant was inadmissible. U. S. v. Walsh, C.A.6 (Ohio) 1962, 305 F.2d 821, certiorari denied 83 S.Ct. 146, 371 U.S. 876, 9 L.Ed.2d 114. Criminal Law Ⓜ 386

In prosecution for conspiring to defraud United States of proper administration of internal revenue laws and regulations, testimony of telephone conversations between defendants and Chief Counsel of Bureau of Internal Revenue based upon transcript made by Chief Counsel's secretaries in regular course of their official duties was admissible under Federal Business Records Act, § 1733 of Title 28. Connelly v. U.S., C.A.8 (Mo.) 1957, 249 F.2d 576, certiorari denied 78 S.Ct. 700, 356 U.S. 921, 2 L.Ed.2d 716, rehearing denied 78 S.Ct. 991, 356 U.S. 964, 2 L.Ed.2d 1072, certiorari denied 78 S.Ct. 701, 356 U.S. 921, 2 L.Ed.2d 716.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In prosecution for conspiring to commit an offense against United States by transportation of a forged check, where one of defendant's alleged co-conspirators testified to certain long distance telephone communications between him and defendant in which defendant gave him instructions concerning purchase and disposition of whiskey purchased with forged check, three telephone toll tickets showing long distance calls from co-conspirator's telephone at Oklahoma to defendant at Louisiana which were fully and properly identified except for certain code marks were properly admitted. Byford v. U.S., C.A.10 (Okla.) 1950, 185 F.2d 171.

In prosecution upon indictment charging criminal conspiracy, memorandum of telephone conversation between defendant and bank employee who was not available at trial as a witness because serving in armed forces, which memorandum was produced from bank's records and was made as a routine matter in regular course of bank's business was admissible as a "business entry". United States v. Moran, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1945, 151 F.2d 661.

In prosecution for conspiracy to defraud the United States of taxes on distilled spirits, telephone company toll slips showing extensive calls to and from public phones in the accused's restaurant to various of the accused's codefendants were admissible as showing means of communication between the defendants and fact that they were in constant communication with one another. U.S. v. Novick, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1941, 124 F.2d 107, certiorari denied 62 S.Ct. 795, 315 U.S. 813, 86 L.Ed. 1212, rehearing denied 62 S.Ct. 913, 315 U.S. 830, 86 L.Ed. 1224.

In prosecution for conspiring to defraud the United States of taxes on distilled spirits, records of telephone company showing calls between telephone in accused's home and telephones registered in names of codefendants who had pleaded guilty were admissible even though they might be of very slight probative value. U.S. v. Gallo, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1941, 123 F.2d 229.

In prosecution for conspiring to defraud the United States of taxes on distilled spirits, use of records of telephone company showing calls between telephone in accused's home and telephones registered in names of codefendants who pleaded guilty in evidence against the accused was not forbidden by § 605 of Title 47. U.S. v. Gallo, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1941, 123 F.2d 229.

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate the laws relating to distillation and taxation of alcohol, witness' testimony that defendant had personally ordered yeast from witness and had paid for yeast which had been delivered to conspiracy headquarters was not rendered incompetent by his admission on cross-examination that he could not distinguish telephone voices which had ordered yeast. Pernatto v. U.S., C.C.A.3 (N.J.) 1939, 104 F.2d 427.

Testimony of an employee of a telephone company from records produced by him, as to the installation of telephones at certain places, and records of telephone calls between places occupied by, or in use by, members of a conspiracy, was admissible in the sound discretion of the trial court though such evidence would have been inadmissible at common law under the hearsay rule, especially where much of the testimony was corroborated by other testimony. Valli v. U.S., C.C.A.1 (Mass.) 1938, 94 F.2d 687, certiorari granted 58 S.Ct. 760, 303 U.S. 632, 82 L.Ed. 1092, certiorari dismissed 58 S.Ct. 1053, 304 U.S. 586, 82 L.Ed. 1547.

As a general rule, before evidence as to telephone conversation may be admitted into evidence, it is necessary to have other participant's voice identified, and such identification may be made on basis of witness' then existing familiarity with other participant's voice, or on basis of a subsequent conversation with other participant and retroactive recognition of voice used in antecedent conversation; but requirement of direct recognition of voice is not an inexorable or mechanical rule, and circumstantial evidence may be sufficient to identify other participant, and, indeed, substance of communication may itself be enough to make prima facie proof. U S v. Lo Bue, S.D.N.Y.1960, 180 F.Supp. 955.

Where foundation proof for introduction of evidence of telephone conversation consists of aggregate of circumstances establishing that it was extremely remote or highly improbable that anyone other than defendant was person with whom witness conversed, there is sufficient proof of defendant's identity. U S v. Lo Bue,

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

S.D.N.Y.1960, 180 F.Supp. 955.

654. Testimony of coconspirators, admissibility of evidence

Settled rule that declarations of coconspirators may not be admitted unless there is independent evidence showing conspiracy and defendant's participation therein applies only to out-of-court declarations of coconspirator and does not exclude proof of conspiracy by direct testimony of parties to it. Brinlee v. U. S., C.A.8 (N.D.) 1974, 496 F.2d 351, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 142, 419 U.S. 878, 42 L.Ed.2d 118.

Existence of the conspiracy need not be shown by independent evidence before a coconspirator can be called to testify to any relevant matter of which he has personal knowledge. Klein v. U. S., C.A.9 (Ariz.) 1973, 472 F.2d 847

Government witness was properly permitted to testify in conspiracy prosecution that he had entered plea of guilty and that he knew one of the defendants, over objection that co-conspirator is not allowed to testify unless conspiracy has been proven and that conspiracy had not yet been proven. U. S. v. Vanover, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1965, 339 F.2d 987.

Evidence of conspirator that he was dealing with coconspirator in later phase of conspiracy was admissible against co-conspirator only if other evidence permitted the inference that he had associated himself with the continuing venture. U. S. v. Borelli, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1964, 336 F.2d 376, certiorari denied 85 S.Ct. 647, 379 U.S. 960, 13 L.Ed.2d 555. Conspiracy ↪ 45

Testimony of a co-conspirator must be received with caution and should be corroborated by other evidence. Smith v. U.S., C.A.5 (Tex.) 1955, 224 F.2d 58, certiorari denied 76 S.Ct. 138, 350 U.S. 885, 100 L.Ed. 780.

That witness may have been a self-confessed active hired accomplice in offense charged in indictment does not require, as a matter of law, the rejection of his testimony. Anderson v. U.S., C.C.A.6 (Tenn.) 1941, 124 F.2d 58, certiorari granted 62 S.Ct. 941, 316 U.S. 651, 86 L.Ed. 1732, reversed on other grounds 63 S.Ct. 599, 318 U.S. 350, 87 L.Ed. 829.

In prosecution for conspiracy to set up a still, declaration by person engaged in the undertaking that he was working in the interest of particular defendant was not competent taken by itself, but was made competent by such person's help to such defendant, showing their concert of action. U S v. Pecoraro, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1940, 115 F.2d 245, certiorari denied 61 S.Ct. 611, 312 U.S. 685, 85 L.Ed. 1123.

The testimony of a coconspirator is competent. U S v. Sacia, D.C.N.J.1880, 2 F. 754. See, also, U.S. v. Barrett, C.C.S.C.1894, 65 F. 62; U.S. v. Howell, D.C.Mo.1892, 56 F. 21; U.S. v. McKee, C.C.Mo.1876, 3 Dill. 546, 26 Fed.Cas. No. 15,685; U.S. v. Babcock, C.C.Mo.1876, 3 Dill. 581, 24 Fed.Cas. No. 14,487; U.S. v. Goldberg, C.C.Wis.1876, 7 Biss. 175, 25 Fed.Cas. No. 15,223; U.S. v. Smith, C.C.Ohio 1869, 2 Bond 323, 27 Fed.Cas. No. 16,332; U.S. v. Callicott, C.C.N.Y.1868, 7 Int.Rev.Rec. 177, Fed.Cas. No. 14,710.

655. Threats, admissibility of evidence

In prosecution for extortion, conspiracy, impersonation of federal officers, and utilization of interstate travel to promote an extortion scheme, evidence of possible threats made by main prosecution witness against his former wife, the main defense witness, was inadmissible as irrelevant and because its probative value was outweighed by its prejudice. U.S. v. Dorman, C.A.11 (Fla.) 1985, 752 F.2d 595, certiorari denied 106 S.Ct. 106, 474 U.S. 834, 88 L.Ed.2d 86.

In prosecution for conspiracy to defraud United States in the construction of a federally funded sewer project, trial court did not err in admitting testimony regarding threat made by father of corporate defendant's chief operating officer to the effect that whoever the Federal Bureau of Investigation informant was "if he hurts my son he will be looking over his shoulder for the rest of his life," in view of fact that recipient of threat, who was available for cross-examination, testified against corporate defendant but avoided implicating chief executive officer, so that threat evidence was tantamount to impeachment of recipient of threat. U. S. v. DeLillo, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1980, 620 F.2d 939, certiorari denied 101 S.Ct. 107, 449 U.S. 835, 66 L.Ed.2d 41, certiorari denied 101 S.Ct. 108, 449 U.S. 835, 66 L.Ed.2d 41.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Statement by defendant to accomplice to the effect that defendant would break accomplice's legs should he tell anyone else about the working arrangement was admissible in conspiracy to transport stolen semi-trailers in interstate commerce; theory of admissibility was academic because defense did not make timely objections to the testimony and used the subject matter as a basis for impeachment of the witness. U. S. v. Bastone, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1975, 526 F.2d 971, certiorari denied 96 S.Ct. 2172, 425 U.S. 973, 48 L.Ed.2d 797.

In conspiracy prosecution, testimony concerning defendant's statement at a public meeting constituting a threat against any person who should testify against defendant was competent. U.S. v. Compagna, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1944, 146 F.2d 524, certiorari denied 65 S.Ct. 912, 324 U.S. 867, 89 L.Ed. 1422, rehearing denied 65 S.Ct. 1084, 325 U.S. 892, 89 L.Ed. 2004, certiorari denied 65 S.Ct. 913, 324 U.S. 867, 89 L.Ed. 1423.

656. Transcripts of prior trials, admissibility of evidence

Trial judge committed no error when he permitted government to read testimony given at first trial by witness who was unavailable and who had subsequently recanted and permitted defense counsel to take her deposition in Canada as if it were cross-examination and to read it to jury. U. S. v. Bentvena, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1963, 319 F.2d 916, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 345, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 271, rehearing denied 90 S.Ct. 894, 397 U.S. 928, 25 L.Ed.2d 108, rehearing denied 84 S.Ct. 515, 375 U.S. 989, 11 L.Ed.2d 476, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 346, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 271, rehearing denied 84 S.Ct. 1162, 377 U.S. 913, 12 L.Ed.2d 183, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 353, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 272, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 354, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 272, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 355, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 272, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 360, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 272.

Where a defendant was tried with several coconspirators for conspiring to obstruct administration of justice, transcript of testimony from a prior trial for conspiracy to commit an entirely different crime, and of which conspiracy defendant was acquitted, was not admissible in a later conspiracy prosecution, though the two trials related to the same incidents in part. U. S. v. Johnson, M.D.Pa.1947, 76 F.Supp. 542, affirmed 165 F.2d 42, certiorari denied 68 S.Ct. 355, 332 U.S. 852, 92 L.Ed. 421, motion granted 68 S.Ct. 357, rehearing denied 68 S.Ct. 457, 333 U.S. 834, 92 L.Ed. 1118, certiorari denied 68 S.Ct. 355, 332 U.S. 852, 92 L.Ed. 422.

657. Advocating overthrow of Government, admissibility of evidence

Acts and declarations by defendants in prosecution for conspiracy to teach and advocate overthrow of United States government by force and violence, made prior to indictment period, were significant in determining intent of defendants. U. S. v. Mesarosh, C.A.3 (Pa.) 1955, 223 F.2d 449, certiorari granted 76 S.Ct. 218, 350 U.S. 922, 100 L.Ed. 807, reversed on other grounds 77 S.Ct. 1, 352 U.S. 1, 1 L.Ed.2d 1.

In prosecution for conspiring to teach and advocate overthrow of United States government by force and violence, evidence of acts and declarations prior to 1945, which was year charged in indictment as base year for beginning of conspiracy, was admissible against all defendants to show illegal purposes of Communist Party. U. S. v. Mesarosh, C.A.3 (Pa.) 1955, 223 F.2d 449, certiorari granted 76 S.Ct. 218, 350 U.S. 922, 100 L.Ed. 807, reversed on other grounds 77 S.Ct. 1, 352 U.S. 1, 1 L.Ed.2d 1.

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate the Smith Act, § 2385 of this title, making it an offense to advocate forcible overthrow of the government, testimony of government's witness, who had previously been an official in the Communist Party, that he was taken to a cellar by group of Communists including a co-conspirator of defendants for hearing on charge that he was collaborating with American intelligence authorities, that he was threatened with a pistol, rubber hose, and knives, and that he was forced to sign a statement that he was given a fair and impartial hearing, and that thereafter he was expelled from the Communist Party was properly admitted to show the objectives and methods of operation of the Communist Party, though there was no showing that defendants knew of or authorized such actions of the group of Communists. United States v. Flynn, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1954, 216 F.2d 354, certiorari denied 75 S.Ct. 295, 348 U.S. 909, 99 L.Ed. 713, order withheld 75 S.Ct. 285, 99 L.Ed. 1298, rehearing denied 75 S.Ct. 436, 348 U.S. 956, 99 L.Ed. 747.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate the Smith Act, § 2385 of this title, making it an offense to advocate forcible overthrow of the government, trial judge did not abuse his discretion in permitting the government to introduce relevant testimony of government's witness, who had previously been an official in the Communist Party, that he was taken to a cellar by group of Communists including a co-conspirator of defendants for hearing on charge that he was a traitor to the Communist Party, that he was threatened with a pistol, rubber hose, and knives, and that he was forced to sign a statement that he was given a fair and impartial hearing, because probative value of testimony was not so far outweighed by its tendency to inflame that trial judge should have excluded it in exercise of a sound discretion. United States v. Flynn, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1954, 216 F.2d 354, certiorari denied 75 S.Ct. 295, 348 U.S. 909, 99 L.Ed. 713, order withheld 75 S.Ct. 285, 99 L.Ed. 1298, rehearing denied 75 S.Ct. 436, 348 U.S. 956, 99 L.Ed. 747.

Where evidence was produced connecting defendants with Communist Party, evidence establishing criminal nature of conspiracy of such party was admissible against defendants, even though such evidence related to matters which occurred prior to time defendants became members. Frankfeld v. U.S., C.A.4 (Md.) 1952, 198 F.2d 679, certiorari denied 73 S.Ct. 389, 344 U.S. 922, 97 L.Ed. 710, rehearing denied 73 S.Ct. 652, 345 U.S. 913, 97 L.Ed. 1348.

In prosecution for conspiracy to organize Communist Party of United States as a group to teach and advocate overthrow of government by force or violence, permitting prosecution to put in evidence such passages of documents as prosecution thought relevant to support the charge and allowing defense to put in only those other passages which contradicted, modified or otherwise threw any light upon the prosecution's passages was not abuse of discretion, as against defendants' insistence that either the whole document or no part of the document was competent. U.S. v. Dennis, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1950, 183 F.2d 201, certiorari granted 71 S.Ct. 91, 340 U.S. 863, 95 L.Ed. 630, affirmed 71 S.Ct. 857, 341 U.S. 494, 95 L.Ed. 1137, rehearing denied 72 S.Ct. 20, 342 U.S. 842, 96 L.Ed. 636, rehearing denied 78 S.Ct. 409, 355 U.S. 936, 2 L.Ed.2d 419.

In prosecution for conspiracy to organize Communist Party of United States as a group to teach and advocate overthrow of government by force or violence, exclusion of Party publications containing no advocacy of violence was not error where such publications did not disclaim resort to violence and 26 exhibits containing no advocacy or teaching of violence were admitted. U.S. v. Dennis, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1950, 183 F.2d 201, certiorari granted 71 S.Ct. 91, 340 U.S. 863, 95 L.Ed. 630, affirmed 71 S.Ct. 857, 341 U.S. 494, 95 L.Ed. 1137, rehearing denied 72 S.Ct. 20, 342 U.S. 842, 96 L.Ed. 636, rehearing denied 78 S.Ct. 409, 355 U.S. 936, 2 L.Ed.2d 419.

In prosecution for conspiracy to organize Community Party of United States as a group to teach and advocate overthrow of government by force or violence, refusal to allow a particular defendant to testify what he understood to be the meaning of the principles of Marxism-Leninism was not prejudicial to such defendant where such defendant subsequently managed to go into a long disquisition as to what he had told the Party's board were the principles of Marxism-Leninism. U.S. v. Dennis, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1950, 183 F.2d 201, certiorari granted 71 S.Ct. 91, 340 U.S. 863, 95 L.Ed. 630, affirmed 71 S.Ct. 857, 341 U.S. 494, 95 L.Ed. 1137, rehearing denied 72 S.Ct. 20, 342 U.S. 842, 96 L.Ed. 636, rehearing denied 78 S.Ct. 409, 355 U.S. 936, 2 L.Ed.2d 419.

Evidence setting forth the doctrines of Marxism-Leninism was admissible under indictment charging that defendants conspired to organize the Communist Party of the United States as a group to teach and advocate overthrow of government of United States by force and violence. U.S. v. Dennis, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1950, 183 F.2d 201, certiorari granted 71 S.Ct. 91, 340 U.S. 863, 95 L.Ed. 630, affirmed 71 S.Ct. 857, 341 U.S. 494, 95 L.Ed. 1137, rehearing denied 72 S.Ct. 20, 342 U.S. 842, 96 L.Ed. 636, rehearing denied 78 S.Ct. 409, 355 U.S. 936, 2 L.Ed.2d 419.

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

658. Alien enemies and enemy property, admissibility of evidence

Telegrams between Alien Property Custodian and his secretary relating to claim alleged to have been improperly allowed in carrying out conspiracy to defraud United States were admissible in evidence. Miller v. U.S., C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1928, 24 F.2d 353, certiorari denied 48 S.Ct. 421, 276 U.S. 638, 72 L.Ed. 421.

In a prosecution for conspiracy to conceal from the Alien Property Custodian the fact of an indebtedness due from a defendant to the Imperial German government, evidence showing the pro-German sympathies and activities of such defendant in 1914 and 1915, was admissible. Rumely v. U.S., C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1923, 293 F. 532, certiorari denied 44 S.Ct. 38, 263 U.S. 713, 68 L.Ed. 520.

In a prosecution under former § 88 of this title [now this section] for conspiracy to defraud the United States under the Trading with the Enemy Act, temporary, by hiding the interest of an enemy alien in a corporation, evidence of destruction by one accused of a letter press copy book containing records of communications with the enemy alien was relevant to show a course of conduct on the part of such defendant, showing a consciousness of guilt, in the sense of attempting to hide all evidence of communication between the corporation and the enemy alien though it never appeared what those communications were. Hodgskin v. U.S., C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1922, 279 F. 85.

In the same prosecution, acts of accused before the United States entered the war in trying to get goods past the British sea power, by hiding the interest of the enemy alien, were admissible to establish a general plan of the defendants for the purpose of protecting the interests of the enemy alien. Hodgskin v. U.S., C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1922, 279 F. 85.

In such prosecution the fact that a defendant, who was the apparent owner of corporate stock, never filed any claim for the return of the stock after it was seized by the Alien Property Custodian was admissible, as tending to show consciousness of guilt and lack of faith in the truthfulness of his assertion that he was the beneficial owner of the stock. Hodgskin v. U.S., C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1922, 279 F. 85.

659. Banking offenses, admissibility of evidence

In prosecution charging defendant with conspiring to take money belonging to bank from person and presence of bank's president, president's testimony relating how his wife was held hostage by one conspirator while he was forced to accompany another conspirator to bank to obtain money and describing agony president and his wife suffered while they were held hostage, though not describing acts committed by defendant, nevertheless was properly admitted, since testimony was highly instrumental in proving the existence and scope of the conspiracy to which defendant had been linked by the testimony of unindicted coconspirators and was not unfairly prejudicial. U.S. v. Silva, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1984, 748 F.2d 262.

In prosecution for conspiracy to embezzle funds from a federally insured bank, court properly declined to suppress evidence of defendant's flight and inculpatory statements made by him when he was attempting to escape arrest in spite of his argument that crime had already been completed before acts charged against him were committed. U. S. v. Veltre, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1979, 591 F.2d 347.

In prosecution for robbery of money from bank, conspiracy to take money from bank and interstate transportation of stolen money, travelers checks which had been taken in robbery of bank, some of which had been found in possession of defendant at time of arrest and some of which, according to Government's evidence, had been negotiated by a witness who had received them from defendant were admissible to connect defendant to bank robbery even though theft of travelers checks had not been mentioned in the indictment. U. S. v. Davis, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1973, 487 F.2d 112, rehearing denied 486 F.2d 1403, certiorari denied 94 S.Ct. 1573, 415 U.S. 981, 39 L.Ed.2d 878, rehearing denied 94 S.Ct. 2005, 416 U.S. 975, 40 L.Ed.2d 565.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Money received by witness who loaned his cab to defendant was admissible in prosecution for bank robbery and conspiracy to corroborate testimony of witness that defendant paid him for the use of the cab, and it was not necessary for government to exclude all other possibilities of possession and surrender of such money by friend of witness to establish its authentication and admissibility, over objection that there was no proof that the money came from the bank. U. S. v. Howell, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1971, 447 F.2d 1114.

Admission, in prosecution for wilful misapplication of bank funds, wilful making of false entries in bank records, and conspiracy to misapply bank funds, of summaries of bank documents prepared by employee of Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation was proper where documents had been admitted into evidence and identified. U. S. v. Silverthorne, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1970, 430 F.2d 675, certiorari denied 91 S.Ct. 585, 400 U.S. 1022, 27 L.Ed.2d 633.

Evidence concerning a so-called seminar on techniques for successful bank robberies in which defendant and an accomplice were alleged to have participated prior to crime was admissible, even though seminar was alleged to have taken place in jail, where there was other evidence to prove that defendant was no stranger to a jail cell. U. S. v. Sutherland, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1970, 428 F.2d 1152.

Federal district court acted well within its discretionary limits in not requiring production of original bank records in prosecution for conspiring with assistant cashier of national bank to defraud bank contrary to section 656 of this title, and it was proper for district court to admit testimony of bank auditor as to his conclusions concerning original bank records, where records were voluminous and were, for most part, on microfilms. U. S. v. Paxton, C.A.3 (N.J.) 1968, 403 F.2d 631, certiorari denied 89 S.Ct. 863, 393 U.S. 1082, 21 L.Ed.2d 775.

Evidence that alleged conspirator had stated that "it would be easier to rob the bank" was admissible in prosecution for conspiracy to rob banking institution. Rizzo v. U. S., C.A.8 (Mo.) 1962, 304 F.2d 810, certiorari denied 83 S.Ct. 188, 371 U.S. 890, 9 L.Ed.2d 123.

Evidence that alleged coconspirator had stated her belief that purloined currency could not be traced by serial numbers and could be safely used without fear of detection was admissible against both alleged conspirators, where it appeared that they had started realizing fruits within ten days after offense. Rizzo v. U. S., C.A.8 (Mo.) 1962, 304 F.2d 810, certiorari denied 83 S.Ct. 188, 371 U.S. 890, 9 L.Ed.2d 123.

In prosecution for conspiracy to rob bank, for attempt to rob bank, and for putting life of bank teller in jeopardy, one of the defendants was properly permitted to testify, while a witness for the prosecution, that one of the other defendants, who was her husband, told her before the attempted bank robbery about the parts that the various defendants were to play in the bank robbery, and that after he returned she heard him say that "It didn't come off," over objection that the statements were narrative and not made in furtherance of the conspiracy. United States v. Tarricone, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1957, 242 F.2d 555.

In prosecution for bank robbery, placing lives of bank employees in peril and for conspiracy, evidence was sufficient to support jury finding that two robbery suspects were engaged in common enterprise on certain evening, and therefore declarations made by one of them to a third became admissible against the first to show nature of joint undertaking, i.e., that it was conspiracy to rob the bank. U. S. v. Avellino, C.A.3 (Pa.) 1954, 216 F.2d 877.

In prosecution for bank robbery, for placing lives of bank employees in peril and for conspiracy, testimony of alleged accomplice relating defendant's admission as to how they entered bank, tied up charlady, etc., was admissible. U. S. v. Avellino, C.A.3 (Pa.) 1954, 216 F.2d 877.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In prosecution of bank employee for conspiracy to commit grand larceny and embezzlement, daily settlement sheets of bank's head teller were admissible as part of records of bank where proved by persons in bank who had control of them and who worked on them. McNeil v. U.S., App.D.C.1936, 85 F.2d 698, 66 App.D.C. 199.

In prosecution of bank employee for conspiracy to commit grand larceny and embezzlement, regular records of bank appertaining to keeping of accounts in question were admissible, after proper identification, to show method of conducting business of bank, notwithstanding that some of records were prepared by particular witness only in part, and that fictitious entries were made by person other than defendant, where person by whom fictitious entries were made was designated and in every case of an overt act evidence showed knowledge or connection or benefit by defendant in transaction. McNeil v. U.S., App.D.C.1936, 85 F.2d 698, 66 App.D.C. 199.

In prosecution of bank employee for conspiracy to commit grand larceny and embezzlement, introduction of bank's records, in evidence in advance of specific proof of conspiracy was not error, where proof of conspiracy was circumstantial. McNeil v. U.S., App.D.C.1936, 85 F.2d 698, 66 App.D.C. 199.

Testimony of bank cashier was competent to show that drafts payable to one alleged conspirator were sold and delivered to another. Hoxie v. U S, C.C.A.9 (Alaska) 1926, 15 F.2d 762, certiorari denied 47 S.Ct. 459, 273 U.S. 755, 71 L.Ed. 876.

Proof of conversation in which agreement was made was not hearsay, but the best evidence of the agreement, and testimony of bank cashier as to arrangement with correspondent bank was a conclusion, the admission of which did not justify the exclusion of the actual conversation. Sparks v. U.S., C.C.A.6 (Tenn.) 1917, 241 F. 777, 154 C.C.A. 479.

In a prosecution against officers of a national bank and certain alleged aiders and abettors for the willful misappropriation of the bank's funds a question to one of the officers, if he had any arrangement with the vice president of the bank by which the bank was to be defrauded by willfully abstracting its funds and appropriating them to illegitimate purposes, should have been allowed. Prettyman v. U. S., C.C.A.6 (Ohio) 1910, 180 F. 30, 103 C.C.A. 384.

Where, in a prosecution against officers of a national bank and alleged aiders and abettors for misapplying the bank's funds, it was claimed that such application was made partly through overdrafts by defendant K., and that he had conspired with certain officers of the bank to defraud it of its funds, evidence that many other customers of the bank had made overdrafts on it, the details of which were exhibited on certain pages of the bank's individual ledger offered in evidence, was admissible as bearing on defendant's criminal intent. Prettyman v. U. S., C.C.A.6 (Ohio) 1910, 180 F. 30, 103 C.C.A. 384.

Where an indictment against officers of a national bank and others, alleged to have aided and abetted them in the misapplication of the bank's funds, charged conspiracy and intent to willfully misapply the bank's funds in several ways, and, among them, of procuring it to make large loans to a hosiery company by paper indorsed by a woolen company, which, it was claimed, was then largely indebted to the bank, proof that funds of the bank were loaned on paper of the hosiery company which was indorsed by the woolen company was admissible, but not evidence of a mortgage given by the woolen company to the bank, nor as to notes which the woolen company made to the bank to secure its individual obligations, and not as indorser of the hosiery company. Prettyman v. U. S., C.C.A.6 (Ohio) 1910, 180 F. 30, 103 C.C.A. 384.

660. Bankruptcy offenses, admissibility of evidence

Sworn testimony given before state fire marshal by apparent central figure in scheme to transfer and conceal property of a corporation in contemplation of bankruptcy and to conceal corporate property from the receiver, trustee and creditors as well as evidence of conversations between such figure and two others about the defendant was given in furtherance of main criminal objectives of the conspiracy and, as such, was admissible against defendant, who claimed that he merely set fire which allegedly destroyed corporate property but who was shown to have had knowledge of the bankruptcy scheme and that fire was part of plan of bankruptcy fraud. U. S. v. Davis, C.A.1 (R.I.) 1980, 623 F.2d 188.

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Testimony to effect that codefendant reacted violently when questioned over telephone about disappearance of merchandise was relevant and admissible in prosecution for conspiring to violate bankruptcy laws. Jacobs v. U. S., C.A.8 (Iowa) 1968, 395 F.2d 469.

Evidence of transactions and occurrences in furtherance of conspiracy to defraud bankrupt corporation's creditors by fraudulently transferring company's assets was properly admitted in prosecution for violating and conspiring to violate this section. U. S. v. Castellana, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1965, 349 F.2d 264, certiorari denied 86 S.Ct. 934, 383 U.S. 928, 15 L.Ed.2d 847, certiorari denied 86 S.Ct. 935, 383 U.S. 928, 15 L.Ed.2d 847, rehearing denied 86 S.Ct. 1368, 384 U.S. 923, 16 L.Ed.2d 444.

In prosecution for conspiracy with bankrupt to conceal bankruptcy assets, admission of defendant's written statements before corpus delicti had been established was technical defect which was removed by establishment of corpus delicti and such admission was not reversible error. Sultan v. U. S., C.A.5 (Fla.) 1957, 249 F.2d 385.

In prosecution for conspiring to defraud the United States by corruptly administering and procuring the corrupt administration of the Frazier-Lemke Act, §§ 201 to 203 of Title 11, evidence of declarations of an absent conspirator implicating a defendant who objected to the declarations as hearsay because made in his absence was properly admitted, where there was evidence sufficient to warrant jury in finding that the objecting defendant was connected with the conspiracy. Braatelian v. U. S., C.C.A.8 (N.D.) 1945, 147 F.2d 888.

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate Bankruptcy Act, former § 52 of Title 11, by concealing assets from trustee in bankruptcy of bankrupt corporation by transferring assets of such corporation in contemplation of its bankruptcy and with intent to defeat § 1 et seq. of Title 11, and by concealing, mutilating, and falsifying books and records of bankrupt corporation, testimony of president of bankrupt corporation who was an alleged coconspirator that defendant had been a partner in bankrupt's business constituted merely a "narrative declaration" of a past fact and was improperly admitted. U.S. v. Goodman, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1942, 129 F.2d 1009.

Affidavit signed by defendant and check obtained in deposition were admissible in prosecution for conspiracy to conceal bankrupt's assets. Gerson v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Okla.) 1928, 25 F.2d 49.

Failure to produce copy of letter requesting financial statement did not render statement inadmissible in prosecution for conspiracy to conceal bankrupt's assets. Gerson v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Okla.) 1928, 25 F.2d 49.

Bankrupt's financial statement, if given before alleged conspiracy to conceal assets, was not admissible as against bankrupt's codefendants. Gerson v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Okla.) 1928, 25 F.2d 49.

Deposit slips and ledger pages of bank account were admissible to show failure to deposit checks and cash, as charged in indictment for conspiracy to conceal assets. Kolbrenner v. U.S., C.C.A.5 (Tex.) 1926, 11 F.2d 754, certiorari denied 46 S.Ct. 489, 271 U.S. 677, 70 L.Ed. 1146.

Under an indictment for conspiracy to commit an offense by the concealment by one of the defendants, while a bankrupt, of money received for goods sold from his trustee, testimony to his sale of goods shortly before bankruptcy was relevant and competent. Wolff v. U S, C.C.A.1 (Mass.) 1924, 299 F. 90.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Evidence of conditions existing prior to the alleged conspiracy was competent under an indictment of bankrupts for a conspiracy to conceal assets from their trustee, to show whereby it was facilitated and made possible at the time at which it was alleged to have been formed. Goldberg v. U.S., C.C.A.1 (Mass.) 1924, 295 F. 447.

In a prosecution for conspiracy to conceal assets from a trustee in bankruptcy, where the indictment alleged that the goods which the conspirators were to conceal were unknown to the grand jurors, it was proper to exclude evidence that the grand jury had a list of the goods which the bankrupts failed to turn over to their trustee, and which were subsequently discovered by the trustee, since it did not necessarily follow that those goods were the particular goods which the conspirators designed to conceal. Jollit v. U. S., C.C.A.5 (Ala.) 1922, 285 F. 209, certiorari denied 43 S.Ct. 519, 261 U.S. 624, 67 L.Ed. 832.

661. Bribery, admissibility of evidence

Existence of consulting contract was properly admitted in conspiracy prosecution of former state officials, for exchanging state consulting contracts for political fund-raising efforts, as direct evidence of unindicted acts of conspiracy, rather than other bad act evidence. U.S. v. Moeller, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1996, 80 F.3d 1053. Criminal Law ¶ 369.2(3.1)

In prosecution arising from corporation's alleged bribery of city officials, there was no prosecutorial misconduct by reason of the Government raising, during its closing argument, an inference that defendant towing company president bribed someone in the Illinois Commerce Commission to procure a certificate of public necessity and convenience for the corporation, since, inter alia, the indictment described in broad language the objects of the bribery scheme as "public officers and employees" so that proof of bribes to Commerce Commission officials was within the scope of the scheme alleged. U. S. v. McPartlin, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1979, 595 F.2d 1321, certiorari denied 100 S.Ct. 65, 444 U.S. 833, 62 L.Ed.2d 43.

Recordings of personal conversations between a revenue officer of Internal Revenue Service and attorney of taxpayers in attorney's office and in attorney's automobile and of telephone conversation between them were properly admitted in prosecution of revenue officer for conspiring to defraud United States and for conspiring to demand and receive bribe, where recording devices were installed in attorney's office and automobile and recordings were made with attorney's express consent. Harris v. U. S., C.A.1 (Mass.) 1966, 367 F.2d 633, certiorari denied 87 S.Ct. 862, 386 U.S. 915, 17 L.Ed.2d 787.

In prosecution for conspiracy to bribe police officer and also for bribery itself to influence officer in enforcement of gambling laws, trial court did not abuse its discretion by admitting in evidence partially incoherent and inaudible recordings of conversations between the police officer and defendants. Monroe v. U.S., C.A.D.C.1956, 234 F.2d 49, 98 U.S.App.D.C. 228, certiorari denied 77 S.Ct. 94, 352 U.S. 872, 1 L.Ed.2d 76, certiorari denied 77 S.Ct. 94, 352 U.S. 873, 1 L.Ed.2d 76, rehearing denied 77 S.Ct. 219, 352 U.S. 937, 1 L.Ed.2d 170, rehearing denied 78 S.Ct. 114, 355 U.S. 875, 2 L.Ed.2d 79.

In prosecution of individuals and congressman for conspiracy to defraud the United States through violation of former § 203 of this title, prohibiting members of Congress from receiving compensation in matters affecting the government, direct testimony of congressman and individuals as to motives, facts and circumstances of payments, and fact of calls by congressman on the War Department, were admissible to establish whether congressman acted because of complaints he heard or because of money he received. May v. United States, C.A.D.C.1949, 175 F.2d 994, 84 U.S.App.D.C. 233, certiorari denied 70 S.Ct. 58, 338 U.S. 830, 94 L.Ed. 505, order withheld 70 S.Ct. 81, 338 U.S. 854, motion denied 70 S.Ct. 94, motion denied 70 S.Ct. 95, rehearing denied 70 S.Ct. 154, 338 U.S. 882, 94 L.Ed. 542, rehearing denied 70 S.Ct. 155, 338 U.S. 882, 94 L.Ed. 542, order withheld 70 S.Ct. 80.

In prosecution against management engineering consultants and their corporation for conspiracy to defraud United States of faithful services of one of consultants by making use of consultant's position with navy to induce contractors whose plants he inspected to employ services of corporation, reports of investigations which were made by contractor after consultant's adverse report to navy were not admissible on theory that defense "opened the door" by cross-examination of contractor's president concerning investigations and resulting recommendations, where nothing in testimony given on cross-examination required supplementation to make investigations and recommendations clearly understandable. U.S. v. Corrigan, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1948, 168 F.2d 641.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In prosecution for conspiracy to defraud the United States by depriving the United States of honest and conscientious services of an assistant United States Attorney, reports of alcohol tax unit which gave information for attorney to act or not act upon, and which therefore threw light upon question of deprivation of honest and conscientious services of the attorney, were properly admitted although allegedly containing hearsay information, and reference therein to one of defendants as being of Jewish descent was not prejudicial, especially where trial court instructed jury that the reports were not evidence against some of the defendants. U.S. v. Glasser, C.C.A.7 (Ill.) 1940, 116 F.2d 690, certiorari granted 61 S.Ct. 835, 313 U.S. 551, 85 L.Ed. 1515, modified on other grounds 62 S.Ct. 457, 315 U.S. 60, 86 L.Ed. 680, rehearing denied 62 S.Ct. 629, 315 U.S. 827, 86 L.Ed. 1222, rehearing denied 62 S.Ct. 637, 315 U.S. 827, 86 L.Ed. 1222.

In prosecution of prohibition agents for conspiracy to accept bribes, admitting evidence that one defendant, with unknown men, asked witness for bribe, was not reversible error. Harvey v. U.S., C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1928, 23 F.2d 561.

Evidence that witness saw prohibition agents, charged with conspiracy to accept bribes, receive money from men running "speak-easies," was admissible. Harvey v. U.S., C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1928, 23 F.2d 561.

Evidence regarding one defendant's attempt to obtain bribe was improperly limited to that defendant. Harvey v. U.S., C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1928, 23 F.2d 561.

Promise by one conspirator to pay sheriff for permission to transport liquor was admissible against others. Martin v. U.S., C.C.A.5 (Fla.) 1927, 17 F.2d 973, certiorari denied 48 S.Ct. 20, 275 U.S. 527, 72 L.Ed. 408.

Testimony of money exacted from prisoner by warden as alleged loan was admissible in prosecution for conspiracy to receive bribes from prisoners. Sartain v. U.S., C.C.A.5 (Ga.) 1927, 16 F.2d 704.

In a prosecution for conspiracy to defraud the United States and to bribe government inspectors, testimony that in a quantity of shoe soles purchased from a concern was found a large percentage of sole of a better grade than those bought was properly excluded, as too remote, when offered to establish the presumption that a quantity purchased from the same concern a year before, when market conditions were different, also contained such percentage of the higher quality. Sears v. U.S., C.C.A.1 (Mass.) 1920, 264 F. 257.

662. Burglary, admissibility of evidence

Guns seized in search of automobiles of defendants charged with conspiracy to burgle were relevant to prove conspiracy and were properly admitted into evidence even though there was no direct evidence that guns were actually used by defendants. Wangrow v. U. S., C.A.8 (Minn.) 1968, 399 F.2d 106, certiorari denied 89 S.Ct. 292, 393 U.S. 933, 21 L.Ed.2d 270.

663. Counterfeiting, admissibility of evidence

In prosecution for conspiracy to possess counterfeit bill admission of bills which were seized in Philadelphia and which had same serial number as counterfeit money defendant offered state's witnesses was proper, despite contention that there was no evidence that such bills were bills from the conspiracy. U. S. v. Rizzo, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1974, 492 F.2d 443, certiorari denied 94 S.Ct. 3069, 417 U.S. 944, 41 L.Ed.2d 299, certiorari denied 94 S.Ct. 3069, 417 U.S. 944, 41 L.Ed.2d 665.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Admission, in prosecution for conspiracy to make, possess, pass and cause to be made, possessed and passed, certain counterfeit $20 federal reserve notes, of testimony that concerned transactions, which were not included in pretrial memorandum, and proof of which was not necessary to support conviction was not abuse of discretion. U. S. v. Lloyd, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1970, 425 F.2d 711.

Alleged fact that undercover agent threatened one of defendants in order to insure his attendance at meeting of alleged conspirators, did not require exclusion of his testimony in prosecution for conspiracy to transfer or deliver counterfeit government obligations. U.S. v. Lefner, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1970, 422 F.2d 1021.

Evidence established conspiracy between defendant and others to counterfeit federal reserve notes, and hence testimony of witness wherein he related conversations between him and third party and gave a narrative of their activities was properly admitted on ground that the witness and such third party were members of such conspiracy. U. S. v. Plata, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1966, 361 F.2d 958, certiorari denied 87 S.Ct. 94, 385 U.S. 841, 17 L.Ed.2d 74.

Notations such as names of those who surrendered counterfeit bills to authorities or fact that bills were being used in instant prosecution for conspiring to counterfeit bills could not have been misleading or prejudicial, and reception of counterfeit bills accompanied by such notations formed no ground for reversal. U. S. v. Lukasik, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1965, 341 F.2d 325, certiorari denied 85 S.Ct. 1770, 381 U.S. 938, 14 L.Ed.2d 702.

No prejudice appeared from reception in prosecution for alleged conspiracy to counterfeit currency of handbills printed by a defendant. U. S. v. Lukasik, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1965, 341 F.2d 325, certiorari denied 85 S.Ct. 1770, 381 U.S. 938, 14 L.Ed.2d 702.

In prosecution for conspiring to pass counterfeit bills, testimony of witness as to similarity of serial numbers of counterfeit bills received from the defendant was admissible, notwithstanding that the acts of defendant as related by witness were not in furtherance of the conspiracy charged in the indictment where they were but links in the chain of circumstantial evidence tending to prove the defendant's connection and participation in the conspiracy between the persons charged in the indictment. Harris v. U.S., C.A.4 (Md.) 1960, 283 F.2d 923.

Where arrest of defendant by United States Secret Service agents under warrant was lawful, and search of defendant's effects in envelope by secret service agent at county jail shortly after defendant's arrest was incident to a lawful arrest, the search was lawful, and forged card discovered in the search was properly admitted in prosecution for conspiracy to forge checks of the United States and for conspiracy to utter counterfeit and forged writings to defraud the United States. Baskerville v. U.S., C.A.10 (Colo.) 1955, 227 F.2d 454.

If forged card was never in possession of defendant and was not taken from his person at time of search of defendant's effects at county jail, and he had no interest therein, seizure of the card by United States Secret Service agent was a matter with respect to which defendant had no right to complain in prosecution for conspiracy to forge checks of the United States and for conspiracy to utter counterfeit and forged writings to defraud the United States. Baskerville v. U.S., C.A.10 (Colo.) 1955, 227 F.2d 454.

In prosecution for conspiring to pass, utter, publish and sell counterfeit money, independent evidence was sufficient to connect defendant with the conspiracy and court did not abuse his discretion in admitting co-conspirator's statements concerning the conspiracy. U.S. v. Morris, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1955, 225 F.2d 91, certiorari denied 76 S.Ct. 179, 350 U.S. 901, 100 L.Ed. 792, rehearing denied 76 S.Ct. 300, 350 U.S. 943, 100 L.Ed. 823. Criminal Law ⚡ 422(1); Criminal Law ⚡ 427(5)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In prosecution for unlawful uttering, publishing, passing, possessing, buying, receiving, selling, delivering, and transferring counterfeited $10 bills and for conspiracy, court properly admitted in evidence under conspiracy charge counterfeited bills found in automobile of one of the defendants on November 10, 1949, while it was in possession of one of the other defendants, to whom it had been loaned, though count charging conspiracy alleged that conspiracy existed from on or about April 15, 1950 and continued until on or about May 1, 1950, where the government contended that conspiracy was in existence prior to April 1950, and court by instructions properly limited effect of testimony. U. S. v. Crowe, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1951, 188 F.2d 209.

Declarations by co-conspirators in prosecution for conspiracy involving possession and use of counterfeit money purporting to involve defendant in conspiracy before there was any showing that defendant was a party was properly admitted over defendant's objections where trial court instructed jury that it was to consider such statements only against those persons who made the statements or those who were present when statements were made, and that statements were not to be considered against an absent defendant unless and until absent defendant was tied into the conspiracy by independent evidence, and such precautionary instructions were repeated in instructions given to jury. U. S. v. Boyance, E.D.Pa.1963, 215 F.Supp. 390.

Defendant failed to establish that he was prejudiced by introduction of his guilty plea colloquy from state counterfeiting prosecution, in federal prosecution for conspiracy to sell and pass counterfeit United States currency; jury was not told defendant's statements were made in court, and jury, which never found out that defendant had been previously convicted for counterfeiting, acquitted him of federal counterfeiting charges for which this evidence was most probative. U.S. v. Bibbs, C.A.3 (Pa.) 2005, 152 Fed.Appx. 247, 2005 WL 2840088, Unreported. Criminal Law ↪ 1169.12

664. Customs offenses, admissibility of evidence

Court properly admitted articles seized by government, pursuant to search warrant, from home of defendant charged with conspiracy and smuggling in relation to alleged plot to blow up Statute of Liberty, where materials seized were not intended for use on Statute of Liberty but were relevant to the conspiracy. U. S. v. Bowe, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1966, 360 F.2d 1, certiorari denied 87 S.Ct. 401, 385 U.S. 961, 17 L.Ed.2d 306, certiorari denied 87 S.Ct. 779, 385 U.S. 1042, 17 L.Ed.2d 686, rehearing denied 87 S.Ct. 1040, 386 U.S. 969, 18 L.Ed.2d 127.

Testimony of alleged co-conspirator of defendant that after co-conspirator was arrested for attempting to smuggle obscene books ashore from vessel he cooperated with customs officials by placing books in subway locker and delivering locker key to defendant in accordance with instructions of senders in England was properly admitted in prosecution for conspiracy to import obscene matter into the United States. U. S. v. Mishkin, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1963, 317 F.2d 634, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 71, 375 U.S. 827, 11 L.Ed.2d 60.

Testimony of witness as to arrangements made by him in England to bring obscene books to United States and deliver them to defendant was properly admitted in prosecution for conspiracy to import obscene matter, over objection that testimony was hearsay, where persons in England were co-conspirators of defendant. U. S. v. Mishkin, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1963, 317 F.2d 634, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 71, 375 U.S. 827, 11 L.Ed.2d 60.

Slips of paper, which had unpublished telephone number of defendant and his first name on them, and which were found in wallet of alleged coconspirator when he attempted to pick up obscene books from subway locker, were properly admitted in prosecution for conspiracy to import obscene matter into the United States, to prove that one arrested had received locker key from defendant. U. S. v. Mishkin, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1963, 317 F.2d 634, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 71, 375 U.S. 827, 11 L.Ed.2d 60.

Obscene books were properly admitted in evidence in prosecution for conspiracy to import obscene matter into the United States, though defendant conceded that books were obscene. U. S. v. Mishkin, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1963, 317 F.2d 634, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 71, 375 U.S. 827, 11 L.Ed.2d 60.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In prosecution for conspiracy to export platinum without license, evidence that one confederate made written agreement insuring others' interest if United States should enter war was admissible against such confederate and, once the conspiracy was established, was admissible against the others. U.S. v. Rosenberg, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1945, 150 F.2d 788, certiorari denied 66 S.Ct. 90, 326 U.S. 752, 90 L.Ed. 451, certiorari denied 66 S.Ct. 91, 326 U.S. 752, 90 L.Ed. 451.

In prosecution for conspiracy to export platinum without license, evidence of one conspirator's bank account, showing large deposits during period involved, was admissible against such confederate and, once the conspiracy was established, was admissible against others. U.S. v. Rosenberg, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1945, 150 F.2d 788, certiorari denied 66 S.Ct. 90, 326 U.S. 752, 90 L.Ed. 451, certiorari denied 66 S.Ct. 91, 326 U.S. 752, 90 L.Ed. 451.

665. Defrauding United States, admissibility of evidence--Generally

Summary testimony of Internal Revenue Service (IRS) agent who was involved in investigation of case was properly admitted in prosecution for conspiring to defraud the United States, involving alleged attempt to conceal income, to show connection between defendants, Swiss bank accounts, and failure to report signature authority and income, where agent did not comment directly on credibility of any specific witness, but rather gave his view of events. U.S. v. Sturman, C.A.6 (Ohio) 1991, 951 F.2d 1466, rehearing denied, certiorari denied 112 S.Ct. 2964, 504 U.S. 985, 119 L.Ed.2d 586.

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate currency reporting provisions of Bank Secrecy Act and conspiracy to defraud the Government, any prejudicial error caused by momentary admission of business card which was found on defendant's person following his arrest was cured by court's immediate and unequivocal cautionary instructions and did not deprive defendant of fair trial. U.S. v. Valdes-Guerra, C.A.11 (Fla.) 1985, 758 F.2d 1411.

Trial court did not abuse its discretion in prosecution of defendant for conspiracy to defraud or commit an offense against the Small Business Administration by admitting evidence indicating that misrepresentations were made concerning movie and refinery sold by defendant's corporation, as the contested evidence was part of a pattern of deceit which was relevant in establishing defendant's attempted fraud, and as any potential prejudice was diminished by limiting instruction. U. S. v. Swarek, C.A.8 (Ark.) 1981, 656 F.2d 331, certiorari denied 102 S.Ct. 573, 454 U.S. 1034, 70 L.Ed.2d 478.

In joint trial of uncle and nephew on charge of conspiring to defraud the United States by impeding the Internal Revenue Service in the collection of income taxes, nephew's preconspiracy financial statement which purported to list nephew's outstanding obligations, yet made no mention of a loan from uncle, was admissible as evidence casting doubt on whether nephew had made a $3,200 interest payment to uncle for a loan, thus supporting government's charge of a conspiracy to conceal nephew's income. U. S. v. Diez, C.A.5 (Fla.) 1975, 515 F.2d 892, rehearing denied 521 F.2d 815, certiorari denied 96 S.Ct. 780, 423 U.S. 1052, 46 L.Ed.2d 641.

Evidence of defendant's efforts to induce home buyers to conceal facts from federal investigators was admissible against defendant who was charged with conspiracy to defraud the Federal Housing Administration and with submitting false documents to the Federal Housing Administration as proof of guilty knowledge. Tripp v. U. S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1967, 381 F.2d 320.

Alleged coconspirators' actual knowledge of customers' letters was not constructive knowledge to defendants for purpose of establishing defendants' intent to defraud, and letters, which were offered to prove defendants' knowledge of customers' complaints and requests, were not admissible without showing that defendants had actual knowledge of letters. Phillips v. U. S., C.A.9 (Or.) 1965, 356 F.2d 297, certiorari denied 86 S.Ct. 1573, 384 U.S. 952, 16 L.Ed.2d 548.

In prosecution for conspiring to defraud United States by inflating cost basis of tuition rates and increasing cost charged to Veterans Administration for supplies in veterans' training under the Servicemen's Readjustment Act of 1944, § 693 et seq. of Title 38, refusal to admit evidence which concerned alleged receipts given by veteran students, and which was offered to counteract charge of tool deficiency, was not serious error, even though offered under the Federal Shop Book Rule, § 1732 of Title 28, in view of facts that defendants' books were available for examination at trial, and that there had been evidence of tampering with like receipts. U. S. v. Weinberg, C.A.3 (Pa.) 1955, 226 F.2d 161, certiorari denied 76 S.Ct. 305, 350 U.S. 933, 100 L.Ed. 815.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In prosecution for conspiring to defraud United States by inflating cost basis of tuition rate and increasing cost charged to Veterans Administration for supplies in veterans' training under the Servicemen's Readjustment Act of 1944, § 693 et seq. of Title 38, testimony that tools sufficient to furnish veteran students with full sets had not been purchased and that school rent had been overstated was an integral part of fraud charge and, therefore, admissible. U. S. v. Weinberg, C.A.3 (Pa.) 1955, 226 F.2d 161, certiorari denied 76 S.Ct. 305, 350 U.S. 933, 100 L.Ed. 815.

In prosecution of two corporate defendants and five individual defendants on charges of conspiracy to defraud United States by delivering under contracts with Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation rejected egg powder and conspiracy to defraud United States by obtaining payment of certain false claims, testimony as to salaries paid to two of the individual defendants was relevant as indicative of their managerial responsibility and proof of their stake in the enterprise. U.S. v. Samuel Dunkel & Co., C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1950, 184 F.2d 894, certiorari denied 71 S.Ct. 491, 340 U.S. 930, 95 L.Ed. 671.

In prosecution of corporation and its president and employees for conspiracy to defraud United States in sale of eggs, butter, and cheese, where president on both direct and cross-examination denied that he knew of any complaints other than one about eggs, letters complaining about rotten eggs are not inadmissible as concerning a collateral matter, but are admissible to prove president's knowledge and interest and to contradict his testimony. Nye & Nissen v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1948, 168 F.2d 846, certiorari granted 69 S.Ct. 81, 335 U.S. 852, 93 L.Ed. 400, affirmed 69 S.Ct. 766, 336 U.S. 613, 93 L.Ed. 919.

In prosecution for conspiracy to defraud the United States in rationing of rubber tires, exclusion of testimony of deputy director in charge of rationing that he had made a speech that rationing executives, when confronted with peculiar conditions and emergencies, should meet them regardless of regulations, was discretionary. Phelps v. U. S., C.C.A.8 (Minn.) 1947, 160 F.2d 858, rehearing denied 161 F.2d 940, certiorari denied 68 S.Ct. 1525, 334 U.S. 860, 92 L.Ed. 1780.

In prosecution for conspiracy to defraud the United States in rationing of rubber tires, exclusion of various bulletins and communications from regional office and national office of Office of Price Administration dealing with rationing programs, was discretionary because of the remoteness of the bulletins and communications. Phelps v. U. S., C.C.A.8 (Minn.) 1947, 160 F.2d 858, rehearing denied 161 F.2d 940, certiorari denied 68 S.Ct. 1525, 334 U.S. 860, 92 L.Ed. 1780.

In prosecution for conspiracy to defraud government, evidence as to market prices of goods sold by government officer was competent to prove minimum price at which officer could sell. Falter v. U.S., C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1928, 23 F.2d 420, certiorari denied 48 S.Ct. 528, 277 U.S. 590, 72 L.Ed. 1003.

In a prosecution for conspiracy to defraud United States in building hospitals, testimony relative to payments to be made to one of conspirators for obtaining introduction and indorsements of the others to officials of republic of Columbia, with which contracts were sought, was properly admitted. Thompson v. U.S., C.C.A.7 (Ill.) 1926, 10 F.2d 781, certiorari denied 46 S.Ct. 352, 270 U.S. 654, 70 L.Ed. 782.

Under an indictment under former § 88 of this title [now this section] for conspiracy to defraud the United States in respect to its trust duties toward members of certain Indian tribes by inducing the Secretary of the Interior by means of fraud and deceit to believe that certain Indian heirs were competent, and to cause the issuance to them of unrestricted patents for allotments held in trust, and by thereafter procuring conveyances of the lands from the patentees to defendants or others, the procuring of such conveyances after issuance of the patents constituted overt acts within the conspiracy charged, proof of which was competent. Baker v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Okla.) 1921, 276 F. 283.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

On trial for conspiring to defraud United States in connection with sale of zinc, evidence as to sales to others by the conspirators was admissible to show market value. Meyer v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Wash.) 1915, 220 F. 800, 135 C.C.A. 564.

The purchasing and withholding from filing of homestead relinquishments and the institution of contests supported by probable cause, being authorized by law, could not constitute acts to effect the object of a conspiracy to defraud the United States, in violation of former § 88 of this title [now this section], and hence were not admissible in evidence to prove the charge. Fain v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (S.D.) 1913, 209 F. 525, 126 C.C.A. 347.

Evidence of contests of valid entries by defendants, and that some of their statements on immaterial issues in their affidavits of contest were false, were inadmissible, in a prosecution for a conspiracy in violation of former § 88 of this title [now this section] to defraud the United States by inducing false homestead entries and clouding title to land and instituting false contests. Fain v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (S.D.) 1913, 209 F. 525, 126 C.C.A. 347.

In a prosecution for a conspiracy to defraud in violation of former § 88 of this title [now this section], in relation to homestead entries, evidence that an entryman was intoxicated at a certain time, and that a person who made a corroborating affidavit in a contest instituted by defendant was a "professional contesteer" was inadmissible where it did not tend to prove any fraud on the government. Fain v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (S.D.) 1913, 209 F. 525, 126 C.C.A. 347.

In a prosecution for conspiracy to defraud the United States out of public land entered under the Timber and Stone Act, § 311 et seq. of Title 43, by alleged prior agreements, to purchase with entrymen, allegations in their final proofs that the purchases were made for the entrymen alone were admissible as bearing on defendants' good faith. Worden v. U. S., C.C.A.6 (Mich.) 1913, 204 F. 1, 122 C.C.A. 315.

In a prosecution for conspiracy to defraud the United States out of certain public land under the Timber and Stone Act, § 311 et seq. of Title 43, evidence of the making of 27 other entries than those described in the indictment and proof that the land was immediately transferred to defendants or a lumber company operated by them was admissible as bearing on defendant's good faith. Worden v. U. S., C.C.A.6 (Mich.) 1913, 204 F. 1, 122 C.C.A. 315

The prosecution on a trial for conspiracy to defraud the government of its public lands was entitled to show that entrymen understood that the lands entered on should be turned over to the conspirators. Hedderly v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Or.) 1912, 193 F. 561, 114 C.C.A. 227.

Evidence of the fraudulent acquisition of the state lands was material as showing the basis of the conspiracy and the method of procedure adopted to carry it into effect. Mays v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Or.) 1910, 179 F. 610, 103 C.C.A. 168

On the prosecution of defendant for conspiracy to defraud the United States of public lands by fraudulently acquiring state lands of little or no value, procuring their inclusion in a national forest reservation, and obtaining lieu lands of greater value from the government in exchange therefor, evidence of such fraudulent acquiring of state lands within the boundaries of the reservation subsequently established more than three years before the finding of the indictment, and the sale of which by the state had afterward been validated by an act of the Legislature, was admissible as tending to prove the intent and design of the conspiracy. Jones v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Or.) 1910, 179 F. 584, 103 C.C.A. 142.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In the same prosecution, where one of the defendants was at the time of the transactions Commissioner of the General Land Office, evidence that the reservation was established on his recommendation, that news of the fact was given out in advance of the official announcement, and that his resignation was afterward requested by his superiors because of his conduct in relation to forest reservations was competent on the trial of a codefendant. Jones v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Or.) 1910, 179 F. 584, 103 C.C.A. 142.

On the trial of a defendant charged with a like conspiracy testimony that defendant correctly explained the requirements of the homestead law as to residence, etc., to persons who were not mentioned in the indictment or the government's evidence as having any connection with the offense charged was irrelevant, and not admissible as part of the res gestae. Huntington v. U. S., C.C.A.8 (Neb.) 1909, 175 F. 950, 99 C.C.A. 440.

On the trial of defendants charged with conspiracy to defraud the United States by procuring fraudulent homestead entries of public lands, testimony of the entrymen that they did not intend to go upon the land and establish an actual residence was admissible. Richards v. U. S., C.C.A.8 (Neb.) 1909, 175 F. 911, 99 C.C.A. 401.

In prosecution of defendant, division manager of company working on government contracts under cost redeterminable clauses, for conspiracy to defraud United States based on defendant having certain company employees do private work on company's time, time cards of employees were admissible since defendant, in his official position, must have been aware that employees in his charge made out time cards and charged time in manner indicated by established company policy. U. S. v. Woll, E.D.Pa.1957, 157 F.Supp. 704.

In prosecution of defendant, company division manager, for conspiracy to defraud United States in connection with defendant having certain company employees work on his sister's home during company time, admission of the cost redeterminable clauses of two government classified contracts did not deny confrontation by accusers, since it was inconceivable that defendant, in his official position, did not at least have knowledge of the use of cost redetermination clauses in contract and hence contracts were not hearsay as to him. U. S. v. Woll, E.D.Pa.1957, 157 F.Supp. 704.

Evidence that defendant was member of Mormon church was not admissible in trial for conspiracy to defraud government, given defendant's failure to show that his church membership was relevant to his willfulness defense, and that probative value of such evidence was substantially outweighed by potential for unfair prejudice. U.S. v. Anderson, C.A.9 (Or.) 2004, 94 Fed.Appx. 487, 2004 WL 604937, Unreported, certiorari denied 125 S.Ct. 192, 543 U.S. 863, 160 L.Ed.2d 105, rehearing denied, rehearing denied 125 S.Ct. 493, 543 U.S. 984, 160 L.Ed.2d 367, certiorari denied 125 S.Ct. 203, 543 U.S. 863, 160 L.Ed.2d 105. Conspiracy ¶ 45; Criminal Law ¶ 338(7)

666. ---- Alteration of obligations of United States, defrauding United States, admissibility of evidence

That coins found in possession of defendants had been altered was admissible to show intent, purpose or motive, in prosecution for fraudulently altering coins and admission thereof was not an abuse of discretion where jury was carefully instructed to consider testimony wholly on issue of intent. Barnett v. U. S., C.A.5 (Miss.) 1967, 384 F.2d 848.

The fraudulent alteration of war savings certificates and stamps was an offense, whether the stamps were registered or unregistered, and hence, in a prosecution for conspiracy, evidence as to the mode of registering such stamps, objected to on the ground that the indictment did not show that the stamps were registered, was immaterial. Rossi v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Or.) 1922, 278 F. 349.

667. ---- False and fraudulent claims, defrauding United States, admissibility of evidence

In prosecution resulting in convictions for making false claims to federal agency, for illegally converting funds of the agency to defendant's own use, and for conspiracy, defendant, who had operated secretarial services should and who had secured student financing through federal programs, was not entitled to introduce into evidence interdepartmental government memorandum stating that "the [Guaranteed Student Loan] program is not intended to provide gifts of funds to educational institutions for use as they see fit without being held accountable for those funds," contrary to claim that such memorandum showed that other schools acted in same manner as defendant's school did and that defendant could therefore believe that he was acting properly in his use of federal funds. U. S. v. Wehling, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1982, 676 F.2d 1053, rehearing denied 683 F.2d 1373.

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In defendants' trial for conspiracy to defraud the United States by falsifying invoices to make it appear that milk, instead of orangeade, was being sold to school which was participating in federally funded school lunch program, evidence of records of school attendance and milk delivery for three years prior to the period covered by the indictment was properly excluded as irrelevant, confusing, and misleading. U. S. v. Jordan, C.A.5 (Ala.) 1980, 627 F.2d 683.

In prosecution for conspiring to defraud United States by submitting and causing submission of false cost reports for medicare and medicaid payments to nursing home, evidence pertaining to periods later than those in which allegedly fraudulent activities occurred was properly admitted to show relationship between defendant and coconspirator and knowledge and intent with which defendant handled fraudulent aspects of nursing home's transactions. U. S. v. Nemes, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1977, 555 F.2d 51.

In prosecution for conspiracy to willfully make or use a false writing in a matter within the jurisdiction of a department of the United States, trial court properly permitted government to use testimony of an employee of a company for which one of the defendants worked to the effect that one of such defendants stated he had a deal with codefendant, in view of fact such declaration was made for purpose of inducing witness to prepare the fraudulent invoices in furtherance of the conspiracy. Ebeling v. U.S., C.A.8 (Mo.) 1957, 248 F.2d 429, certiorari denied 78 S.Ct. 334, 355 U.S. 907, 2 L.Ed.2d 261.

In prosecution for presenting false claims against government and for conspiracy to commit such offense, extrajudicial statements made by co-defendant to F.B.I. were hearsay and improperly admitted, since they had effect of supporting twice over in writing, all testimony of co-defendant at trial concerning defendant's activities. U. S. v. Toner, C.A.3 (Pa.) 1949, 173 F.2d 140.

In prosecution for conspiracy to defraud the United States, for whom employer was building three vessels, by making false claims as to amount of work done, contracts between employer and the United States under which the vessels were being built and employer's bookkeeping records and vouchers were properly admitted in evidence, particularly where the defendants' rights were adequately protected by the charge. McGunnigal v. U. S., C.C.A.1 (Mass.) 1945, 151 F.2d 162, certiorari denied 66 S.Ct. 267, 326 U.S. 776, 90 L.Ed. 469.

In prosecution for mail fraud against defendants who allegedly told purchasers of central vacuum cleaning system that they were participating in profit-sharing program and concealed fact that it was referral method of selling, witness' statements seeking to impeach or contradict written statements, agreements or contracts signed by such witnesses would not be inadmissible on theory that such testimony violated parol evidence rule, thus pretrial motion to restrain government from offering such testimony would be denied. U. S. v. National Marketing, Inc., D.C.Minn.1969, 306 F.Supp. 1238.

In prosecution against financing corporation, its branch office manager, store owners, and their sales manager for conspiracy to defraud the United States by making false documents to secure insurance under modernization of homes provisions of National Housing Act, § 1701 et seq. of Title 12, testimony that store co-owner and sales manager said that practice of making false certificates was approved by their attorney was admissible on behalf of corporation and branch office manager, who denied having given instructions regarding the certificates. U.S. v. Thomas, E.D.Wash.1943, 52 F.Supp. 571.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

668. Election offenses, admissibility of evidence

An affidavit of one of officers of corporate defendant implicating individual defendant in conspiracy was properly admitted in conspiracy prosecution, where affidavit was read in individual defendant's presence during course of investigation by Securities and Exchange Commission of charge that corporate defendant had made political contributions in violation of Public Utility Holding Company Act, § 79l of Title 15, and a reasonable inference was that individual defendant would, under the circumstances, naturally have contradicted the statement if he did not consent to it. Egan v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Mo.) 1943, 137 F.2d 369, certiorari denied 64 S.Ct. 195, 320 U.S. 788, 88 L.Ed. 474.

In prosecution for conspiracy to injure and oppress voters through depriving them of an honest count and honest certification of ballots cast, evidence relating to alleged agreement between co-conspirators relative to padding of registration list and stuffing ballot box was admissible as tending to demonstrate that conversation between government's witness and accused, as related by witness who testified that accused ordered witness to give Republican candidates certain number of votes, was not improbable. Devoe v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Mo.) 1939, 103 F.2d 584, certiorari denied 60 S.Ct. 84, 308 U.S. 571, 84 L.Ed. 479.

In prosecution for conspiracy to injure and oppress voters of certain precinct through depriving them of an honest count and honest certification of ballots cast, fact that testimony of a conspirator that he was told by accused to give Republican candidates an average of 47 votes would have sustained conviction, did not preclude government from introducing evidence as to other relevant facts. Devoe v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Mo.) 1939, 103 F.2d 584, certiorari denied 60 S.Ct. 84, 308 U.S. 571, 84 L.Ed. 479.

In prosecution for conspiracy to injure and oppress voters through depriving them of an honest count and honest certification of ballots cast, evidence relating to alleged agreement between coconspirators relative to padding of registration list and stuffing ballot box was admissible as tending to show motive which actuated alleged conspirators to engage in the conspiracy, to disclose their common intent and to indicate that existence of conspiracy and participation in it by accused was not improbable. Devoe v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Mo.) 1939, 103 F.2d 584, certiorari denied 60 S.Ct. 84, 308 U.S. 571, 84 L.Ed. 479.

669. Embezzlement, admissibility of evidence

In prosecution for conspiracy to embezzle and misapply bank funds, trial court did not err in permitting prosecution's use of evidence showing that defendant had spent corporate funds for gambling, since such evidence rebutted defendant's defense that he thought the extra transactions in the corporate account were special dealings of coconspirator. U. S. v. Landof, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1978, 591 F.2d 36.

On trial of two defendants, charged with conspiracy to embezzle bonds from a bank, evidence showing deposits by one defendant in another bank of checks of the brokerage firm which sold the bonds, and payment of checks drawn by the depositor to his codefendant, aggregating one-half the amount of such deposits, was competent to establish division of the proceeds of the embezzlement, and as evidence of the conspiracy. U S v. Jenks, E.D.Pa.1920, 264 F. 697.

670. Espionage, admissibility of evidence

In prosecution of foreign espionage agent for conspiring to violate espionage laws, wherein another foreign espionage agent testified that he and defendant attempted to contact an Army master sergeant who had served for a time as motor sergeant at American Embassy in Moscow, testimony by Army sergeant as to contacts with various Russian civilians and members of military service and instruction he received from Soviet agents upon return to United States and his movements thereafter was properly admitted to corroborate testimony of such other agent. U S v. Abel, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1958, 258 F.2d 485, certiorari granted 79 S.Ct. 59, 358 U.S. 813, 3 L.Ed.2d 56, affirmed 80 S.Ct. 683, 362 U.S. 217, 4 L.Ed.2d 668, rehearing denied 80 S.Ct. 1056, 362 U.S. 984, 4 L.Ed.2d 1019.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate and for violation of espionage laws, records made by government agents of writings and marks appearing on mail wrappers and information obtained by exploring through waste paper baskets and rubbish and piecing together torn and discarded writings were admissible. U.S. v. Coplon, S.D.N.Y.1950, 88 F.Supp. 921.

671. Extortion, admissibility of evidence

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate Hobbs and Travel Acts, sections 1951 and 1952 of this title, and extortion from businesses engaged in interstate commerce, protective order precluding defendant's counsel from demonstrating that statement which witness had given to FBI and which allegedly contradicted witness' testimony referred to codefendant was not prejudicial where both defendant and codefendant took stand and testified and codefendant was subjected to cross-examination by defendant. U. S. v. Somers, C.A.3 (N.J.) 1974, 496 F.2d 723, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 56, 419 U.S. 832, 42 L.Ed.2d 58, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 57, 419 U.S. 832, 42 L.Ed.2d 58.

In prosecution for extortion and conspiracy to extort, victim could testify as to other extortionate demands which were relevant in bearing upon intent and in showing defendant's general plan or scheme to dominate the professional boxing field. Carbo v. U. S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1963, 314 F.2d 718, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 1625, 377 U.S. 953, 12 L.Ed.2d 498, rehearing denied 84 S.Ct. 1902, 377 U.S. 1010, 12 L.Ed.2d 1058, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 1626, 377 U.S. 953, 12 L.Ed.2d 498, rehearing denied 84 S.Ct. 1903, 377 U.S. 1010, 12 L.Ed.2d 1058, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 1627, 377 U.S. 953, 12 L.Ed.2d 498.

672. False personation, admissibility of evidence

On a trial for conspiracy to impersonate a United States marshal and thereby obtain things of value, the impersonator's commission as deputy sheriff was admissible. Ferguson v. U S, C.C.A.8 (N.M.) 1923, 293 F. 361.

673. Foreign agents, registration of, admissibility of evidence

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate the Foreign Agents Registration Act, § 612 of Title 22, testimony of Government's expert witness as to nature of publications circulated by defendants was admissible, and court properly left weight of witness' testimony to jury. U.S. v. German-American Vocational League, C.C.A.3 (N.J.) 1946, 153 F.2d 860, certiorari denied 66 S.Ct. 976, 328 U.S. 833, 90 L.Ed. 1608, certiorari denied 66 S.Ct. 976, 328 U.S. 833, 90 L.Ed. 1609, certiorari denied 66 S.Ct. 977, 328 U.S. 833, 90 L.Ed. 1609, certiorari denied 66 S.Ct. 977, 328 U.S. 834, 90 L.Ed. 1609, certiorari denied 66 S.Ct. 977, 328 U.S. 834, 90 L.Ed. 1610, certiorari denied 66 S.Ct. 978, 328 U.S. 834, 90 L.Ed. 1610.

674. Immigration offenses, admissibility of evidence

In absence of any evidence establishing as a part of the conspiracy that conspirators agreed to conceal conspiracy by doing what was necessary and expedient to prevent its disclosure, conspiracy to defraud United States and to commit offenses against United States by illegally obtaining entry of aliens as spouses of veterans ended on the date that the last of the aliens was admitted to the United States, as respects admissibility of acts and declarations of conspirators. Lutwak v. U.S., U.S.Ill.1953, 73 S.Ct. 481, 344 U.S. 604, 97 L.Ed. 593, rehearing denied 73 S.Ct. 726, 345 U.S. 919, 97 L.Ed. 1352.

Judgments of conviction of nine of the 41 aliens found hiding in brush on Texas side of Rio Grande River for offense of unlawfully entering United States were erroneously admitted in prosecution for conspiracy to move within United States an alien present in United States in violation of the law where sole purpose was to prove illegal status of aliens in United States; however, error was harmless beyond a reasonable doubt since issue at trial was not legal or illegal status of the 41 aliens, but defendant's involvement in scheme to move aliens within United States, and, in any case, other evidence of aliens' illegal status was overwhelming. U.S. v. Crispin, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1985, 757 F.2d 611.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Admission of photographs of defendant's brother-in-law, who entered United States illegally, and of passport of unidentified female, which items were seized on illegal search of defendant's automobile, as well as testimony related to key, which was found on brother-in-law and insertion of which in lock of defendant's automobile commenced the illegal search, when considered with resulting inference that defendant's vehicle was to be used to transport the aliens and receipt of testimony that key fit the automobile, was prejudicial error requiring reversal of conviction of conspiracy and of smuggling and unlawfully transporting aliens. U. S. v. Portillo-Reyes, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1975, 529 F.2d 844, certiorari denied 97 S.Ct. 267, 429 U.S. 899, 50 L.Ed.2d 185.

Validity of marriage of alien to American citizen was irrelevant in prosecution for conspiring to defraud United States of its right to have administration of immigration laws conducted honestly. U. S. v. Pantelopoulos, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1964, 336 F.2d 421.

In prosecution of commissioner, deputy clerk and interpreters for conspiracy to defraud the Government by issuance of passports, testimony of commissioner's secretary concerning person who was citizen of the United States and entitled to passport sought by him was admissible to indicate commissioner's course of conduct and state of mind in connection with fraudulent passport scheme. U. S. v. Griffin, C.A.3 (Pa.) 1949, 176 F.2d 727, certiorari denied 70 S.Ct. 478, 338 U.S. 952, 94 L.Ed. 588, rehearing denied 70 S.Ct. 559, 339 U.S. 916, 94 L.Ed. 1341.

In prosecution for conspiracy to defraud the United States by willful concealment of a material fact in obtaining the entry of an alien, evidence of defendant's knowledge that when alien married a citizen the parties proposed a divorce within six months, which was a fact material to the granting of the visa, was relevant. U.S. v. Rubenstein, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1945, 151 F.2d 915, certiorari denied 66 S.Ct. 168, 326 U.S. 766, 90 L.Ed. 462.

Where proof of a collusive divorce became essential in prosecution for conspiracy to defraud the United States by obtaining the entry of an alien by false representations, and proof of such divorce by proof of the record thereof, indicated that defendant was author of false affidavits and of false testimony, evidence that defendant procured such false affidavits and false testimony was relevant. U.S. v. Rubenstein, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1945, 151 F.2d 915, certiorari denied 66 S.Ct. 168, 326 U.S. 766, 90 L.Ed. 462.

In prosecution for conspiring and for bringing alien into United States, admitting evidence that defendant cooperated in unlawfully bringing in another alien was not error, though conspiracy count was later abandoned. Emmanuel v. U.S., C.C.A.5 (Fla.) 1928, 24 F.2d 905, certiorari denied 49 S.Ct. 79, 278 U.S. 643, 73 L.Ed. 557.

Evidence of acts and declarations of party to conspiracy to violate Immigration Law was competent as against another. Giordano v. U.S., C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1925, 9 F.2d 830. Criminal Law ¶ 422(1)

In a prosecution for conspiring to bring into the United States aliens not entitled to enter where there was evidence that defendants were to also bring in opium, evidence that they did so was admissible though there was no charge of unlawfully importing opium. Louie Ding v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Wash.) 1917, 246 F. 80, 158 C.C.A. 306.

Evidence that defendant, pursuant to an understanding with another defendant to smuggle in Chinese, brought in four not entitled to enter was admissible on prosecution for general conspiracy to bring in Chinese not entitled to enter. Dahl v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Wash.) 1916, 234 F. 618, 148 C.C.A. 384.

675. Interstate commerce offenses, admissibility of evidence

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Even though defendant was not charged with the burglary of house, where such burglary was a key overt act in charge of conspiring to transport in interstate commerce items taken from house, handguns and tools identified by one of burglars as being used in the burglary were admissible. U. S. v. Ricketson, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1974, 498 F.2d 367, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 227, 419 U.S. 965, 42 L.Ed.2d 180.

In prosecution for causing and conspiring to cause forged securities to pass in interstate commerce, three guns purchased in Vermont with forged securities stolen in Oregon were admissible as tending to establish the conspiracy charged and as showing the interstate character of the crime. U. S. v. Rathburn, C.A.2 (Vt.) 1969, 414 F.2d 767, certiorari denied 90 S.Ct. 2209, 399 U.S. 912, 26 L.Ed.2d 567.

An admittance card furnished customers for use in defendants' prostitution business was properly received in evidence in conspiracy prosecution based on use of interstate facilities with intent to carry on a prostitution enterprise where proper foundation was raised through testimony as to use of similar cards in defendants' prostitution business, and fact there was no showing that defendants made entries on the cards was an insufficient basis for exclusion thereof. U. S. v. Lyon, C.A.7 (Wis.) 1968, 397 F.2d 505, certiorari denied 89 S.Ct. 131, 393 U.S. 846, 21 L.Ed.2d 117.

Testimony of government witness that he had incurred a gambling debt to defendant and had later received a threatening telephone call from defendant who had told him that to collect the debt he was sending out a man who specialized in "roughing up" people, and testimony of sheriff that witness had reported to him the gambling debt and the threats received was admissible in prosecution for conspiring to violate federal antiracketeering statute, section 1952 of this title, by attempting to collect another gambling debt through use of extortive means for limited purpose of demonstrating a continuing course of conduct on part of defendant to win money in gambling games and then employ threats to collect. Collins v. U. S., C.A.10 (Kan.) 1967, 383 F.2d 296.

Even if alleged conspirator entered conspiracy to steal, take, and carry away with intent to convert goods out of interstate commerce after its inception, he took conspiracy as he found it, and if he only participated in arranging sale of merchandise involved, he still would adopt prior acts and declarations of his fellow conspirators. Nassif v. U. S., C.A.8 (Minn.) 1966, 370 F.2d 147.

In prosecution for (1) knowingly transporting in interstate commerce, for purpose of sale or distribution, obscene, lascivious and filthy film and (2) for conspiring with others to so transport, there was sufficient independent evidence of all elements of conspiracy, and trial judge was not in error in refusing to strike hearsay declarations of defendant's alleged coconspirators. U. S. v. Russo, C.A.2 (Conn.) 1960, 284 F.2d 539.

In prosecution for conspiring to transport in interstate commerce lewd and obscene motion picture film, trial court properly permitted jury to view the film notwithstanding admission by defendant that the film was lewd and obscene. Parr v. U. S., C.A.5 (Tex.) 1958, 255 F.2d 86, certiorari denied 79 S.Ct. 40, 358 U.S. 824, 3 L.Ed.2d 64.

In prosecution for conspiring to transport in interstate commerce lewd and obscene motion picture film, evidence of conduct of defendant and his co-conspirators prior to date laid in indictment was properly admitted to shed light upon and tend to establish the conspiracy. Parr v. U. S., C.A.5 (Tex.) 1958, 255 F.2d 86, certiorari denied 79 S.Ct. 40, 358 U.S. 824, 3 L.Ed.2d 64.

In prosecution for conspiracy to steal cotton sheets moving as part of interstate shipment and for theft of sheets, where evidence amply supported conclusion that the sheets were shipped in interstate commerce and that codefendant was involved in their theft, the sheets were admissible against the codefendant and, on proof of conspiracy, against defendant. U.S. v. Winters, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1946, 158 F.2d 674.

In a prosecution for conspiracy to steal goods from interstate shipments, testimony by a witness that he was acquainted with a method of opening doors of a freight car to permit entrance without breaking the seal, and a description of the method was competent. Fowler v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Wash.) 1921, 273 F. 15.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

On the trial of defendants charged with having conspired to prevent the shipment of certain tobacco in interstate commerce, statements made by one of defendants while the tobacco was being withheld from shipment, at their instance, were admissible against them. Steers v. U.S., C.C.A.6 (Ky.) 1911, 192 F. 1, 112 C.C.A. 423.

676. Kidnapping, admissibility of evidence

District Court's error, if any, in admitting testimony of government witness who had been taken hostage and held for ransom, to show defendant's motivation in participating in a different hostage-taking, and then excluding for lack of relevance testimony of an employer regarding defendant's alleged role in securing release of an employee, was harmless, where government witness's testimony was of minimal value to government, or harm to defendant, because record was already replete with compelling and uncontradicted evidence that defendant was a willing participant in hostage-taking at issue, and there was overwhelming evidence that defendant conspired to commit hostage-taking and committed hostage-taking. U.S. v. Tchibassa, C.A.D.C.2006, 452 F.3d 918. Criminal Law 1170(1)

Testimony respecting kidnapping of government's witness was not incompetent, because last overt act charged in conspiracy indictment had occurred previously on same day. Hood v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Okla.) 1927, 23 F.2d 472, certiorari denied 48 S.Ct. 436, 277 U.S. 588, 72 L.Ed. 1002.

677. Liquor offenses, admissibility of evidence

Fingerprints of codefendant found on brake fluid can in truck seized at illegal distillery were admissible in prosecution for conspiracy to violate internal revenue liquor laws. U. S. v. Jeffords, C.A.5 (Ga.) 1974, 491 F.2d 90.

Where an operation involving production of illicit whiskey was under way, declarations constituting instructions and information necessary to further performance of the work by alleged conspirators were a part of the res gestae, and were admissible. U. S. v. Copeland, C.A.4 (N.C.) 1961, 295 F.2d 635, certiorari denied 82 S.Ct. 398, 368 U.S. 955, 7 L.Ed.2d 388.

A statement of a witness that when he asked a conspirator if he had seen defendant, the reply was that defendant had been seen early in the day at one place, but was no longer there and was probably at a still or out gathering sugar, was admissible where evidence showed defendant involved at such time as a major participant in illicit production of whiskey, as such statement was in furtherance of the conspiracy and was made in the process thereof, and thus did not constitute hearsay. U. S. v. Copeland, C.A.4 (N.C.) 1961, 295 F.2d 635, certiorari denied 82 S.Ct. 398, 368 U.S. 955, 7 L.Ed.2d 388.

In prosecution for bringing intoxicants into a dry state and conspiracy to commit this crime, evidence that defendant's codefendants might have purchased liquor from other sources than defendant was properly excluded. McDonough v. U.S., C.A.10 (Okla.) 1955, 227 F.2d 402.

Admission of evidence concerning discovery of stills or evidence of stills at premises with which accused was not shown to have had direct connection was not error as to the accused, where evidence authorized finding that they were part of activities by which conspiracy joined in by the accused was carried out. U.S. v. Waldau, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1940, 115 F.2d 486.

In prosecution for unlawful possession of stills, making mash, operation of an unbonded distillery and conspiracy, admission of evidence showing that defendant's bank balance, normally at an amount between $500 and $1,000, had in a year increased to more than $8,000, was not error. U.S. v. Jackskion, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1939, 102 F.2d 683, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 1032, 307 U.S. 635, 83 L.Ed. 1517.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

There being evidence that certain defendants including district attorney in liquor conspiracy prosecution shared bribes for protection against liquor prosecutions, evidence of ineffective liquor prosecution was admissible. Metzler v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1933, 64 F.2d 203.

Testimony that liquor had flavor identical with that previously manufactured by defendant was not incompetent as tending to show another offense. Nielson v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Wash.) 1928, 24 F.2d 802.

Testimony that liquor found by officers had flavor identical with liquor previously manufactured by one defendant was admissible. Nielson v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Wash.) 1928, 24 F.2d 802.

Evidence of landing intoxicating liquors before date of overt acts charged in indictment for conspiracy to possess and transport such liquors was admissible. Rubio v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1927, 22 F.2d 766, certiorari denied 48 S.Ct. 213, 276 U.S. 619, 72 L.Ed. 734.

Evidence whether vessel, chartered ostensibly for coastwise trade, could have been operated profitably in legitimate coastwise trade, was admissible in prosecution for conspiracy to violate National Prohibition Act, former § 1 et seq. of Title 27. Baker v. U. S., C.C.A.4 (Va.) 1927, 21 F.2d 903, certiorari denied 48 S.Ct. 301, 276 U.S. 621, 72 L.Ed. 736.

Evidence as to finding bottles on vessel was admissible to prove testimony respecting rum running. Baker v. U. S., C.C.A.4 (Va.) 1927, 21 F.2d 903, certiorari denied 48 S.Ct. 301, 276 U.S. 621, 72 L.Ed. 736.

Testimony that truck drivers coming for liquor informed witness that liquor came from certain vessel was competent, the drivers being defendants' agents and coconspirators. Madden v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1927, 20 F.2d 289, certiorari denied 48 S.Ct. 116, 275 U.S. 554, 72 L.Ed. 423.

That defendant's colessee referred landlord to defendant for rent was admissible under rule as to act or declaration of conspirators, in prosecution for maintaining liquor nuisance. Mitrovich v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Or.) 1926, 15 F.2d 163

Evidence relating to accounts and settlements for liquor in previous transactions between defendant in liquor conspiracy case and another was admissible. Campanelli v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1926, 13 F.2d 750.

On trial for conspiracy to import liquor, admission of testimony that defendant had account in trust company showing large deposit was not error. Campanelli v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1926, 13 F.2d 750.

Evidence of liquor, bottles, and apparatus found on defendant's premises in prior searches was properly received, in prosecution for conspiracy to violate prohibition laws and for unlawful possession. Keith v. U.S., C.C.A.6 (Ky.) 1926, 11 F.2d 933.

Testimony in reference to liquor taken from person of one of defendants was properly admitted against him, in such prosecution. Keith v. U.S., C.C.A.6 (Ky.) 1926, 11 F.2d 933.

Testimony in reference to liquor taken from person of one of defendants was admissible against other defendants, in prosecution for conspiracy to violate National Prohibition Act, former § 1 et seq. of Title 27. Keith v. U.S., C.C.A.6 (Ky.) 1926, 11 F.2d 933.

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate National Prohibition Act, former § 1 et seq. of Title 27, testimony by members of alleged association, but not indicted, was properly admitted as coming from coconspirators. Weinstein

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

v. U.S., C.C.A.1 (Mass.) 1926, 11 F.2d 505, certiorari denied 47 S.Ct. 94, 273 U.S. 699, 71 L.Ed. 847.

Testimony about liquor secured from vessel and delivered to defendant was admissible. Ford v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1926, 10 F.2d 339, certiorari granted 46 S.Ct. 475, 271 U.S. 652, 70 L.Ed. 1133, affirmed 47 S.Ct. 531, 273 U.S. 593, 71 L.Ed. 793.

Admission of mutilated $1 bills on which lists of liquor were written was not error. Ford v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1926, 10 F.2d 339, certiorari granted 46 S.Ct. 475, 271 U.S. 652, 70 L.Ed. 1133, affirmed 47 S.Ct. 531, 273 U.S. 593, 71 L.Ed. 793.

Evidence of co-operation or concert of action of defendants in possession and control of liquor was sufficient proof of corpus delicti to warrant admission of evidence of statements made by defendants. Shook v. U.S., C.C.A.5 (Miss.) 1925, 10 F.2d 151, certiorari denied 46 S.Ct. 482, 271 U.S. 666, 70 L.Ed. 1141.

In prosecution for conspiracy to transport and sell whisky for beverage purposes, certain testimony was admissible to show what and how much liquor was subject of conspiracy. Langley v. U.S., C.C.A.6 (Ky.) 1925, 8 F.2d 815, certiorari denied 46 S.Ct. 204, 269 U.S. 588, 70 L.Ed. 427.

Testimony as to difference in current prices of whisky when sold for lawful or unlawful purposes was admissible in the same prosecution. Langley v. U.S., C.C.A.6 (Ky.) 1925, 8 F.2d 815, certiorari denied 46 S.Ct. 204, 269 U.S. 588, 70 L.Ed. 427.

Where police officer, charged with others with conspiracy to violate National Prohibition Act, former § 1 et seq. of Title 27, testified that he had never been able to gain admittance to flat he was supposed to have had under observation, it was not error to admit, in rebuttal, testimony of another witness that witness had seen officer in flat and that officer had seen witness take a drink. Marron v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1925, 8 F.2d 251.

Evidence as to liquor seized in residence of one charged with conspiracy to violate National Prohibition Act, former § 1 et seq. of Title 27, in conduct of business at another place, was relevant. Marron v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1925, 8 F.2d 251.

In trial for a similar conspiracy, admission of prohibition agent's testimony, that he arrested defendant and seized liquor being transported by him on date seven months before that on which conspiracy was alleged to have begun, was error and prejudicial, such evidence being wholly collateral to issue as to place, time, and circumstances of conspiracy charged. Crowley v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1925, 8 F.2d 118.

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate National Prohibition Act, former § 1 et seq. of Title 27, by purchase of alcohol from United States for industrial purposes under agreement to denature it before removal, and by removal and sale thereof without denaturing it, persons to whom alcohol was shipped, who sold it with knowledge of the conspiracy, became parties thereto, though not parties at its inception, so that evidence as to what occurred at inception of conspiracy was admissible against them. Johnson v. U.S., C.C.A.4 (W.Va.) 1925, 5 F.2d 471, certiorari denied 46 S.Ct. 101, 269 U.S. 574, 70 L.Ed. 419.

In prosecution of city and judicial officials and owners of soft drink establishments for conspiracy to violate National Prohibition Act, former § 1 et seq. of Title 27, evidence of campaign contribution under fictitious names by operators of soft drink places, evidence as to frequency and character of prosecutions in city and punishment imposed, and evidence showing the maintenance of houses of ill fame wherein liquor was sold, was properly admitted. Allen v. U.S., C.C.A.7 (Ind.) 1924, 4 F.2d 688, certiorari denied 45 S.Ct. 352, 267 U.S. 597, 69 L.Ed. 806, certiorari denied 45 S.Ct. 353, 267 U.S. 598, 69 L.Ed. 806, certiorari denied 45 S.Ct. 509, 268 U.S. 689, 69 L.Ed. 1158.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In the same prosecution, admission of testimony of newspaper reporter that he had visited soft drink parlors and homes of vice, where intoxicating liquors were openly sold, was not error, nor violative of substantial rights of parties, under former § 391 of Title 28. Allen v. U.S., C.C.A.7 (Ind.) 1924, 4 F.2d 688, certiorari denied 45 S.Ct. 352, 267 U.S. 597, 69 L.Ed. 806, certiorari denied 45 S.Ct. 353, 267 U.S. 598, 69 L.Ed. 806, certiorari denied 45 S.Ct. 509, 268 U.S. 689, 69 L.Ed. 1158.

In prosecution of many defendants for conspiracy to violate National Prohibition Act (Title 27, Intoxicating Liquors), admission of testimony of newspaper reporter that he had visited soft drink parlors and homes of vice, where intoxicating liquors were openly sold, and testimony as to conversation had at one place with unidentified woman, relative to amount paid by her for protection, was held not error, nor violative of substantial rights of parties; there being evidence sufficient to establish a prima facie case showing such woman to be a conspirator, rendering her admission receivable against other conspirators. Allen v. U.S., C.C.A.7 (Ind.) 1924, 4 F.2d 688, certiorari denied 45 S.Ct. 352, 267 U.S. 597, 69 L.Ed. 806, certiorari denied 45 S.Ct. 353, 267 U.S. 598, 69 L.Ed. 806, certiorari denied 45 S.Ct. 509, 268 U.S. 689, 69 L.Ed. 1158.

Evidence that third person was clandestinely engaged in producing from denatured alcohol and selling pure alcohol fit for beverage purposes, and that defendants each purchased a large amount of such liquor, and caused removal of same with such third person's knowledge and connivance, was competent and substantial evidence of conspiracy to transport liquor unlawfully for beverage purposes, without proof of chemical examination. Betz v. U.S., C.C.A.6 (Ky.) 1924, 2 F.2d 552.

In prosecution for conspiracy to have and possess intoxicating liquors for sale, it was reversible error to admit evidence that defendant accepted a certain sum from witnesses, in order to pay it over to general prohibition agent as protection money, so that liquor shipments of other persons could be transported without hindrance, the conspiracy charged having ceased more than a month before such money was claimed to have been paid. Weil v. U.S., C.C.A.5 (Ga.) 1924, 2 F.2d 145.

In a prosecution for conspiracy to manufacture and sell distilled spirits, in which the government offered evidence to prove that the beverage alleged to have been manufactured and sold by defendants contained wood alcohol, the admission of evidence that a certain person had died supposedly from drinking wood alcohol, was prejudicial error, in the absence of evidence that such person actually died from drinking wood alcohol, or that he died from drinking the spirits made by defendants. Brauer v. U.S., C.C.A.3 (N.J.) 1924, 299 F. 10.

In a prosecution for conspiring to violate National Prohibition Act, former § 1 et seq. of Title 27, evidence that two newspapers with printed labels containing name of one of the defendants were found by the searching officers on the premises where the still was in operation was admissible. Goodfriend v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Idaho) 1923, 294 F. 148.

In the same prosecution, testimony that witness had served abatement papers on a hotel in which one of the defendants roomed, was admissible, in view of testimony showing the effect of the abatement proceedings on the other defendants. Goodfriend v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Idaho) 1923, 294 F. 148.

Where defendants conspired to violate the National Prohibition Act, former § 1 et seq. of Title 27, by transporting liquor from Canada to Cleveland and there selling it, statement of one conspirator to captain of vessel by which it was transported that it was intended for a certain club reasonably pertained to execution of conspiracy and was admissible, however broad may be the rule that such statements to be admissible against other conspirators must be of importance to carrying out of the plan. De Witt v. U. S., C.C.A.6 (Ohio) 1923, 291 F. 995, certiorari denied 44 S.Ct. 134, 263 U.S. 714, 68 L.Ed. 521.

In a prosecution for conspiracy to violate Reed Amendment March 3, 1917, § 5 (superseded), the general rule forbidding proof of other and distinct offenses was not violated by the testimony that some of the defendants had been handling liquors and were operating automobiles and that one of them, during the period covered by the alleged conspiracy, paid protection money to the officer whose bribery was the object of the alleged conspiracy. Wilkes v. U.S., C.C.A.6 (Tenn.) 1923, 291 F. 988, certiorari denied 44 S.Ct. 181, 263 U.S. 719, 68 L.Ed. 523. See, also, Robilio v. U.S., C.C.A.1923, 291 F. 975. Criminal Law ¶ 372(6)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In a prosecution of numerous defendants for a conspiracy to violate the National Prohibition Act, former § 1 et seq. of Title 27, evidence that two of the defendants had attempted to bribe a federal prohibition director in the furtherance of the alleged conspiracy was competent, although the indictment did not charge such bribery as an overt act. Remus v. U. S., C.C.A.6 (Ohio) 1923, 291 F. 501, certiorari denied 44 S.Ct. 180, 263 U.S. 717, 68 L.Ed. 522.

In a prosecution for conspiracy to violate the National Prohibition Act, former § 1 et seq. of Title 27, and for transporting and possessing intoxicating liquors in violation of said former sections, evidence as to the transportation and possession of such liquors which varied from the overt acts alleged in the conspiracy charge was competent on the charges of transportation and possession, when confined by the court's charge thereto. Alderman v. U.S., C.C.A.5 (Fla.) 1922, 279 F. 259, certiorari denied 42 S.Ct. 586, 259 U.S. 584, 66 L.Ed. 1075.

On a charge of conspiracy to illegally procure and transport liquor in violation of National Prohibition Act, former § 16 of Title 27, evidence that in organizing a corporation, in whose name a permit was obtained, defendants used fictitious names, was competent as tending to show a fraudulent purpose. Reid v. U. S., C.C.A.6 (Ohio) 1921, 276 F. 253.

In a prosecution for conspiracy to ship intoxicating liquors into Indian Territory, where the evidence showed that triplicate invoices were made by the wholesale dealer when orders were received by defendants, and that the duplicate invoice was sent to defendant and the triplicate used by the shipping clerk in filling the order, and that defendant during a long course of business made no objection that the shipments did not conform to the orders or the duplicate invoices furnished, it was not error to admit the original and triplicate invoices in evidence, without calling clerks to testify that the invoice conformed to the order and that the liquor called for thereby had been shipped. Ammerman v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Okla.) 1920, 267 F. 136, certiorari denied 41 S.Ct. 147, 254 U.S. 650, 65 L.Ed. 457.

678. Lottery offenses, admissibility of evidence

That alleged coconspirator had been seen talking to defendant on day before that on which such alleged coconspirator allegedly informed government agent that he had turned his numbers work over to defendant did not establish that conspiracy was in existence on that date; and in absence of evidence that conspiracy was then in existence, agent's testimony with regard to alleged conversation was inadmissible against defendant, in prosecution for conspiracy to commit lottery offenses. Taylor v. U.S., C.A.D.C.1958, 260 F.2d 737, 104 U.S.App.D.C. 219.

In prosecution of numerous defendants for violation of lottery laws and conspiracy to violate those laws, where evidence obtained at one of several places raided was inadmissible because it had been obtained as a result of illegal entry into premises, but mass of other evidence legally seized sustained convictions, error in admitting such illegally obtained evidence was not, except as to one defendant who was found guilty of possessing lottery slips seized at such address, prejudicial. Woods v. U.S., C.A.D.C.1956, 240 F.2d 37, 99 U.S.App.D.C. 351, certiorari denied 77 S.Ct. 815, 353 U.S. 941, 1 L.Ed.2d 760, certiorari denied 77 S.Ct. 1385, 354 U.S. 926, 1 L.Ed.2d 1438.

In prosecution for conspiracy to transport lottery tickets in interstate commerce on theory that accused, who was head of a hospital, made agreement for codefendant to conduct contests for benefit of hospital, testimony of codefendant's counsel at time of alleged conspiracy as to conversation with codefendant in which codefendant told him that he did not trust accused in connection with money paid to accused for payment of hospital's bills and asking his counsel to see that money was used to pay bills of hospital was relevant. Deacon v. U. S., C.C.A.1

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

(Mass.) 1941, 124 F.2d 352.

In prosecution for conspiracy to transport lottery tickets in interstate commerce by accused, who was head of a hospital, entering into contract with codefendant to conduct contests for hospital and accused's subsequent participation in the conspiracy with knowledge of its illegality, admission in evidence of a lottery ticket issued by company operated by codefendant and of delivery receipt indicating that package of printed matter had been shipped by a printing company under an alias used by codefendant was proper as tending to prove the illegal nature of codefendant's activities and as link in chain of shipment of lottery tickets and advertisements in interstate commerce. Deacon v. U. S., C.C.A.1 (Mass.) 1941, 124 F.2d 352.

679. Narcotics offenses, admissibility of evidence

Although evidence of other financial transactions was admissible as direct evidence to prove defendant's involvement in conspiracy to conduct financial transaction involving proceeds of narcotics trafficking, it was admissible with respect to count charging conduct of financial transaction involving proceeds of narcotics trafficking on or about particular date only to show defendant's guilty knowledge and intent, and only if limiting instruction was given. U.S. v. Gonzalez, C.A.11 (Fla.) 1992, 975 F.2d 1514.

Evidence of drug transactions between defendant and undercover agent was not inadmissible prior bad act evidence in trial for conspiracy to commit terrorist acts in exchange for payment from Libya, where defendant inquired about possibility of acquiring rocket from agent, and thus evidence of cocaine transaction was part of case in chief and necessary to demonstrate agent's familiarity with defendant, his reason for contacting him, and his credibility in remembering defendant's statements and actions. U.S. v. McAnderson, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1990, 914 F.2d 934, post-conviction relief denied 817 F.Supp. 723, affirmed 23 F.3d 410, certiorari denied 115 S.Ct. 372, 130 L.Ed.2d 323.

In prosecution for unlawful acquisition of food-stamp coupons and conspiracy to acquire food stamps unlawfully, inasmuch as defendant was charged with, among other things, conspiring with codefendant to provide cocaine and other controlled substances to investigating government agents in exchange for food stamps, evidence of certain conversations about narcotics were clearly relevant and there was no error in their admission. U. S. v. Faltico, C.A.8 (Mo.) 1982, 687 F.2d 273, certiorari denied 103 S.Ct. 1783, 460 U.S. 1088, 76 L.Ed.2d 353.

Defendant was not prejudiced by admission of evidence of heroin sale which trial court struck and charged jury to completely disregard, in view of substantial independent evidence in the record to support conclusion that defendant was involved in conspiracy at the time of the sale and that trial judge would have been justified in refusing to strike testimony concerning the sale and in allowing case to go to the jury. U. S. v. Jackson, C.A.D.C.1980, 627 F.2d 1198, 201 U.S.App.D.C. 212.

Heroin sold to undercover officers, heroin seized from home of chief manager of drug smuggling conspiracy and money seized from latter's home and safety deposit boxes was not highly prejudicial as regards codefendant on ground that latter's involvement with conspiracy was tenuous since heroin had been obtained soon after alleged drug smuggling trip, heroin and cash seized from coconspirator's residence were probative on question of whether the conspiracy existed and there was failure to timely object and no request for limiting instruction. U. S. v. Praetorius, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1979, 622 F.2d 1054, certiorari denied 101 S.Ct. 162, 449 U.S. 860, 66 L.Ed.2d 76.

Although evidence that a witness, defendant and others had snorted cocaine in defendant's office was relevant to show that defendant, charged with conspiring to impede Internal Revenue Service in collection of income taxes, had knowledge of the legal source of the money being laundered, cocaine sales, prejudicial effect did not outweigh probative value in view of extensive evidence of cocaine dealing profits and defense was that defendant participated in various acts without knowledge that moneys laundered were illegal cocaine profits. U. S. v. Enstam, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1980, 622 F.2d 857, certiorari denied 101 S.Ct. 1351, 450 U.S. 912, 67 L.Ed.2d 336, certiorari denied 101 S.Ct. 1974, 451 U.S. 907, 68 L.Ed.2d 294.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Evidence concerning former police officer's arrest of narcotics suspects, the appropriation of their cash by the policeman and others, the division of spoils among certain policeman, the taking of part of the contraband for "flaking" or for sale, and the solicitation of bribes to conceal evidence was admissible in defendant's trial for conspiracy to obstruct lawful operations of the Government and conspiracy to violate narcotics laws. U. S. v. Papadakis, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1975, 510 F.2d 287, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 1682, 421 U.S. 950, 44 L.Ed.2d 104.

Eight thermometers which were in paper bag being carried by defendant at time of his arrest six days after return of narcotics conspiracy indictment were properly admitted into evidence on ground that they constituted narcotics paraphernalia notwithstanding fact that they were the wrong type of thermometers which, it was argued, defendant mistakenly purchased since possession of thermometers was relevant to defendant's state of mind, and his intent with respect to conspiracy. U. S. v. Mallah, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1974, 503 F.2d 971, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 1425, 420 U.S. 995, 43 L.Ed.2d 671.

Evidence of attempt to smuggle narcotics into country in ski-poles in effort to raise bail money for jailed conspirator so that he could resume his active role as participant in conspiracy was admissible to show participation in narcotics conspiracy and together with other evidence including background of nonjailed defendant's smuggling of letters from such jailed defendant permitted finding that nonjailed defendant participated in broad narcotics conspiracy alleged. U. S. v. Santana, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1974, 503 F.2d 710, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 632, 419 U.S. 1053, 42 L.Ed.2d 649, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 1352, 420 U.S. 963, 43 L.Ed.2d 439, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 1450, 420 U.S. 1006, 43 L.Ed.2d 764.

In prosecution based on alleged conspiracy to distribute large quantities of heroin, small quantities of cocaine found on two defendants at time of their arrest were admissible both to anticipate defense that heroin was planted on one defendant as frameup by arresting officers and as evidence of guilty knowledge on the part of the defendants who possessed the cocaine. U. S. v. Cirillo, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1974, 499 F.2d 872, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 638, 419 U.S. 1056, 42 L.Ed.2d 653.

Slip of paper, which was found on person of alleged coconspirator at time of his arrest and which bore defendant's nickname and a telephone number almost identical to that of defendant and which was introduced, not to prove truth or falsity of its contents, but to support inference that alleged coconspirator knew defendant and anticipated calling him on telephone was not inadmissible hearsay. U. S. v. Ruiz, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1973, 477 F.2d 918, certiorari denied 94 S.Ct. 361, 414 U.S. 1004, 38 L.Ed.2d 240.

In prosecution for conspiracy to sell narcotics not in original stamped package and without written order, it was not error to admit statements of codefendant made to federal undercover agents during transaction in question outside presence of defendant, since they were made in furtherance of the conspiracy of which defendant was a member. Holsen v. U. S., C.A.5 (Ala.) 1968, 392 F.2d 292, certiorari denied 89 S.Ct. 640, 393 U.S. 1029, 21 L.Ed.2d 573.

Although defendant was not shown to have transported narcotics, where it was uncontradicted that he had facilitated another's sales to narcotics bureau agent by driving seller to his meetings with agent and where conversations between seller and agent created strong inference that defendant was seller's supplier, evidence implicating defendant, independent of agent's recounting of seller's extrajudicial declarations authorized admission against defendant of seller's statements spoken in defendant's absence. U. S. v. Ragland, C.A.2 (Conn.) 1967, 375 F.2d 471, certiorari denied 88 S.Ct. 860, 390 U.S. 925, 19 L.Ed.2d 987.

If remarks of alleged coconspirator to undercover agent were regarded as verbal acts, that is, encouragements to agent to rely on defendant, charged with conspiracy to import narcotics, they were admissible even without other evidence of conspiracy, and, even if they were viewed as hearsay, the permissible inference arising from defendant's expeditious offer and production in Mexico of alleged coconspirator as a supplier after original deal fell through was enough to warrant consideration by jury of statements of alleged coconspirator, although inference might not have sufficed for a conviction if statements were not also thrown on the scale. U. S. v. Padilla, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1967, 374 F.2d 996.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Circumstances that alleged narcotics trafficking conspirator met death in automobile while being pursued by federal narcotics agents and that heroin was then found in the vehicle were admissible against defendants charged with the conspiracy as relevant to explain condition of the heroin and absence of container in which deceased conspirator had originally received the heroin the night of the chase. U. S. v. Cole, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1966, 365 F.2d 57, certiorari denied 87 S.Ct. 741, 385 U.S. 1024, 17 L.Ed.2d 672, rehearing denied 87 S.Ct. 971, 386 U.S. 951, 17 L.Ed.2d 879, certiorari denied 87 S.Ct. 741, 385 U.S. 1027, 17 L.Ed.2d 674, certiorari denied 87 S.Ct. 764, 385 U.S. 1032, 17 L.Ed.2d 679, rehearing denied 87 S.Ct. 979, 386 U.S. 951, 17 L.Ed.2d 879.

Evidence concerning discussion of plan to import heroin from Italy was not improperly admitted on ground that it was attempt to prove separate conspiracy beyond purview of indictment, where indictment charged that conspiracy existed during period beginning before and continuing after discussion and evidence was admissible as act and declaration in furtherance of conspiracy to receive and distribute unlawfully acquired heroin. U. S. v. Accardi, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1965, 342 F.2d 697, certiorari denied 86 S.Ct. 426, 382 U.S. 954, 15 L.Ed.2d 359.

In narcotics conspiracy case, where there was evidence that witness had joined with principals in one phase of the conspiracy which was still being wound up, the witness' remark which could be construed as indicating that there was some thought of reviving the partnership of the principals and a source of supply was admissible. U. S. v. Borelli, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1964, 336 F.2d 376, certiorari denied 85 S.Ct. 647, 379 U.S. 960, 13 L.Ed.2d 555.

A statement by a person, on a chance encounter with principal witness in narcotics conspiracy case, that the person thought the difficulties which the principals had had with a certain person had been resolved, would better have been excluded, both because of lack of evidence that any bond with the person making the remark still existed and because this declaration, made after the witness' severance with one of the principals, appeared to have been narrative only. U. S. v. Borelli, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1964, 336 F.2d 376, certiorari denied 85 S.Ct. 647, 379 U.S. 960, 13 L.Ed.2d 555.

Evidence of prior marijuana dealings between defendants was admissible in prosecution for unlawfully selling and conspiring to sell heroin, even if they tended to show other crimes, where such evidence was relevant on organization and structure of the conspiracy and on individual role played by each conspirator, and on intent of the parties to commit the substantive crime of selling heroin. U. S. v. Stadter, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1964, 336 F.2d 326, certiorari denied 85 S.Ct. 1028, 380 U.S. 945, 13 L.Ed.2d 964, certiorari denied 85 S.Ct. 1029, 380 U.S. 945, 13 L.Ed.2d 964.

Proof that defendants who were charged with unlawful selling of heroin and of conspiring to do so had engaged in a marijuana business prior to sales of heroin alleged in the indictment was properly allowed with instructions limiting its consideration to its tendency to show that the transactions in marijuana were integral parts of broad conspiracy which culminated in sales of heroin charged in the indictment. U. S. v. Stadter, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1964, 336 F.2d 326, certiorari denied 85 S.Ct. 1028, 380 U.S. 945, 13 L.Ed.2d 964, certiorari denied 85 S.Ct. 1029, 380 U.S. 945, 13 L.Ed.2d 964.

Testimony of government witness that he and others met and agreed to raise money for purchase of narcotics was competent in prosecution for conspiracy, where witness placed all four alleged conspirators together with no one else present, though it was contended that witness' statements were general and did not identify speakers in conversations. U.S. v. Duff, C.A.6 (Mich.) 1964, 332 F.2d 702.

Statement by first defendant to government agent outside presence of second defendant that second defendant was source of heroin sold by first defendant was not competent evidence against second defendant in conspiracy prosecution. U. S. v. Cimino, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1963, 321 F.2d 509, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 486, 375 U.S. 967, 11 L.Ed.2d 416, rehearing denied 89 S.Ct. 1992, 395 U.S. 941, 23 L.Ed.2d 458, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 491, 375 U.S. 974, 11 L.Ed.2d 418.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Government agent in prosecution for conspiracy to violate narcotic laws was properly permitted to testify to fact of a defendant's statements at time that that defendant received instructions from complaining defendant. U. S. v. Pullings, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1963, 321 F.2d 287.

Admission of testimony, after proper foundation, of contents of narcotics prosecution exhibits which had been, apparently, inadvertently destroyed after analysis by agents who were unaware that they were to be used in future criminal proceeding, was not prejudicial error, although defendants claimed that they would have been aided by physical examination of exhibits. U. S. v. Pullings, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1963, 321 F.2d 287.

Testimony of government agent concerning admissions and declarations made by a codefendant or other unindicted coconspirators with regard to operations and scheme from which a conspiracy for importing narcotics was formed was properly admitted as to defendants who were members of the conspiracy during period that the testimony covered. Walker v. U. S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1962, 298 F.2d 217.

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate the antinarcotics laws, paraphernalia for the adulteration of heroin seized in defendant's apartment in the search conducted as an incident to his arrest was admissible as relevant to the conspiracy charges. U S v. Allen, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1959, 267 F.2d 491. Criminal Law ¶ 394.4(9)

In prosecution for, among other things, conspiracy to violate the narcotics laws, in view of evidence showing defendants joined in criminal acts with intent willfully to carry out the illegal design shared in common with others, of violating the narcotics laws, defendants were not prejudiced by evidence as to the nature and extent of acts of others who joined in illegal transactions in furtherance of a conspiracy of which certain of defendants were originators and key figures, even though some of such other defendants were acquitted. Leyvas v. U. S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1958, 264 F.2d 272.

In prosecution for conspiracy to traffic in narcotics, once participation of a defendant in conspiracy was established, all sales made by her codefendant, whether to other coconspirators or not, were admissible in evidence against such defendant. U S v. De Fillo, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1958, 257 F.2d 835, certiorari denied 79 S.Ct. 591, 359 U.S. 915, 3 L.Ed.2d 577.

In prosecution for conspiracy to traffic in narcotics, testimony of one who purchased narcotics from a codefendant outside of the presence of other defendant was admissible against such other defendant when it was shown that the sale was in furtherance of the conspiracy, irrespective of whether the purchaser was a member of the conspiracy. U S v. De Fillo, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1958, 257 F.2d 835, certiorari denied 79 S.Ct. 591, 359 U.S. 915, 3 L.Ed.2d 577.

In prosecution for conspiracy to traffic in narcotics, testimony tending to implicate one defendant in narcotics traffic was hearsay and admissible against her only if her participation in the alleged conspiracy was first proved by evidence of her own words and acts. U S v. Russano, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1958, 257 F.2d 712.

In prosecution for knowingly selling or facilitating sale of marijuana, admission into evidence of codefendant's declarations made in defendant's absence was not reversible error, in view of sufficiency of other evidence to show existence of joint enterprise or concert of action. Anthony v. U. S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1958, 256 F.2d 50.

In prosecutions for narcotic violations and conspiracy involving defendants and other persons who had pleaded guilty to charge, there was no error in allowing government to call as a witness one of those who had pleaded guilty, even though witness refused to answer certain questions on grounds of U.S.C.A.Const. Amend. 5. U. S. v. Gernie, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1958, 252 F.2d 664, certiorari denied 78 S.Ct. 1006, 356 U.S. 968, 2 L.Ed.2d 1073, rehearing denied 78 S.Ct. 1383, 357 U.S. 944, 2 L.Ed.2d 1558.

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In prosecution for conspiracy to import heroin in violation of Narcotic Act, §§ 173 and 174 of Title 21, testimony of special narcotic agent that he gave coconspirator funds furnished by narcotics authorities on account of shipment of heroin which another narcotic agent had carried off ship, was admissible, even though defendants had not personally participated in receipt of shipment and did not know that it had been brought ashore from ship nor that payment had been made, where there was evidence that defendants were members of conspiracy previous to arrival of ship and that they thereafter participated in plans for continuation of conspiracy which was in active existence when payment was made. U. S. v. Morello, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1957, 250 F.2d 631.

In prosecution for conspiracy to import heroin in violation of narcotic laws, §§ 173 and 174 of Title 21, wherein background evidence furnished ample ground for inference that material which person named as coconspirator gave special agent of narcotics bureau was heroin and that words and deeds of such person in connection with incident were binding both upon him and on defendants if found by independent evidence to be coconspirators, special agent's testimony that person had told him that he would give him sample of heroin to be contained in future shipment and that he did so was admissible, even though sample was not offered in evidence and there was no evidence showing that sample was in fact a narcotic. U. S. v. Morello, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1957, 250 F.2d 631.

Fact that defendants charged with conspiracy to import heroin in violation of narcotics laws, §§ 173 and 174 of Title 21, may have believed that narcotics agents were their coconspirators did not render letter of narcotic agent sent to an alleged coconspirator admissible, where letter was sent out of presence of defendants. U. S. v. Morello, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1957, 250 F.2d 631.

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate certain narcotics laws, trial court did not err in admitting testimony of statements made by coconspirator before conspiracy was shown by independent evidence, in view of fact trial court admitted such evidence subject to a motion to strike should there be a failure to connect it up, and in view of fact such connection was made and a conspiracy was shown. Parente v. U.S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1957, 249 F.2d 752.

The word "stuff" has a customary meaning peculiar to illegal narcotics trade, and therefore, in prosecution for conspiracy to unlawfully sell narcotics, trial court did not err in permitting a witness to testify as to what a defendant meant when he used the word "stuff". Parente v. U.S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1957, 249 F.2d 752.

In prosecution for conspiracy to deal in heroin and for sale of heroin, evidence that defendant broke from custody of arresting officer and attempted to escape was admissible as proof of consciousness of guilt. U. S. v. Campisi, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1957, 248 F.2d 102, certiorari denied 78 S.Ct. 266, 355 U.S. 892, 2 L.Ed.2d 191.

In prosecution for conspiracy to deal in heroin, testimony of narcotics agent as to conversation in which party, who had delivered heroin to agent, named defendant as source of heroin was admissible as declaration of co-conspirator in furtherance of conspiracy. U. S. v. Campisi, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1957, 248 F.2d 102, certiorari denied 78 S.Ct. 266, 355 U.S. 892, 2 L.Ed.2d 191.

In prosecution for conspiracy to deal in heroin and for sale of heroin, evidence that in room where defendant, clothed only in underwear top, pair of slacks and a pair of shoes, was found under the bed, police officers uncovered a suit of clothes in which there was a small cardboard box containing a syringe, a hypodermic needle, a small silver spoon and a packet of white powder was admissible and it was permissible for jury to infer that those articles were in defendant's possession in absence of any proof to the contrary. U. S. v. Campisi, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1957, 248 F.2d 102, certiorari denied 78 S.Ct. 266, 355 U.S. 892, 2 L.Ed.2d 191. Conspiracy ↪ 45; Controlled Substances ↪ 69

In prosecution resulting in conviction upon an indictment charging several defendants with conspiracy to violate narcotics laws, statement made by one defendant to another that he had supplied another defendant with heroin was admissible against first defendant and properly received as an admission by first defendant of his part in conspiracy. U S v. Carminati, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1957, 247 F.2d 640, certiorari denied 78 S.Ct. 150, 355 U.S. 883, 2 L.Ed.2d 113.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Where admission concerning participation of one defendant in conspiracy to violate narcotics laws had been properly admitted, second defendant's disclosure to third defendant that first defendant was his supplier together with certain envelopes found in first defendant's possession, constituted sufficient independent evidence of first defendant's participation in conspiracy to justify conviction. U S v. Carminati, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1957, 247 F.2d 640, certiorari denied 78 S.Ct. 150, 355 U.S. 883, 2 L.Ed.2d 113.

Where certain designated envelopes shown to be connected with a conspiracy to violate narcotic laws had been introduced in evidence, similar envelopes found in one defendant's possession were admissible, even though standing alone they might not have been sufficient to sustain a conviction. U S v. Carminati, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1957, 247 F.2d 640, certiorari denied 78 S.Ct. 150, 355 U.S. 883, 2 L.Ed.2d 113.

In prosecution for violation of the Harrison Narcotic Act, §§ 4704, 7237 of the Title 26, and the Jones-Miller Act, § 174 of Title 21, and for conspiracy to violate those Acts, woman's testimony that she had purchased narcotics from defendant and that she had worked for him as a "call girl" was admissible to impeach such defendant, who had made a sweeping denial that he had either seen or possessed narcotics; and any possible prejudice was removed when trial judge instructed jury that such witness' testimony had been admitted solely for impeachment purposes. Ferrari v. U. S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1957, 244 F.2d 132, certiorari denied 78 S.Ct. 124, 355 U.S. 873, 2 L.Ed.2d 78, certiorari denied 78 S.Ct. 125, 355 U.S. 873, 2 L.Ed.2d 78.

In prosecution for conspiring to illegally sell and transfer narcotic drugs, detective's testimony, that he had seen defendant's alleged co-conspirators enter apartment where radio transmitter operated and that he was familiar with most of their voices and that he could identify voices of conversers by fact that they spoke in response to questions put to them, wherein their names were mentioned, and by fact that he could easily recognize voice of informer, who was confessed narcotic addict, and that informer, in turn, could identify those persons to whom he spoke, established a sufficient connection, and evidence as to conversations by alleged co-conspirators, overheard by detective through radio receiving set, was properly admissible. Lott v. U.S., C.A.5 (Tex.) 1956, 230 F.2d 915, certiorari denied 76 S.Ct. 848, 351 U.S. 953, 100 L.Ed. 1477, rehearing denied 77 S.Ct. 25, 352 U.S. 860, 1 L.Ed.2d 70.

In prosecution for conspiring to illegally sell and transfer narcotic drugs, detective's testimony that he was satisfied in his own mind that it was defendant's co-conspirators whom he had heard, through radio receiving set, conversing with confessed narcotic addict, was admissible, notwithstanding detective's admission that he would not be able to swear it was they; the qualification affecting merely the probative force of his testimony. Lott v. U.S., C.A.5 (Tex.) 1956, 230 F.2d 915, certiorari denied 76 S.Ct. 848, 351 U.S. 953, 100 L.Ed. 1477, rehearing denied 77 S.Ct. 25, 352 U.S. 860, 1 L.Ed.2d 70.

In prosecution for conspiring to commit and for committing violations of §§ 173 and 174 of Title 21 and § 2591(a) of Title 26, where dates given by witnesses as those on which defendant made sales were within few weeks of one or another of the indictment dates, such dates were substantially similar to the indictment date and did not prevent defendants from preparing an alibidense. U. S. v. Tramaglino, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1952, 197 F.2d 928, certiorari denied 73 S.Ct. 105, 344 U.S. 864, 97 L.Ed. 670.

In prosecution, for conspiring to commit, and for the commission of violations of §§ 173 and 174 of Title 21 and § 2591(a) of Title 26, where defense counsel who was counsel neither for alleged co-conspirator nor for appellant, elicited from alleged co-conspirator the statement, on cross-examination, that appellant had sold him marihuana at a date outside period named in indictment, admission of such evidence was error, but was not prejudicial where other evidences of appellant's guilt were so strong that it was unbelievable that a rational jury would have acquitted

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

if the error had not occurred. U. S. v. Tramaglino, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1952, 197 F.2d 928, certiorari denied 73 S.Ct. 105, 344 U.S. 864, 97 L.Ed. 670.

In prosecution for conspiracy to commit certain offenses against the United States relating to the purchase, sale, receipt, and transportation of narcotics, court properly admitted testimony of coconspirator as to his relations with defendants after he was arrested and made contacts with defendants under direction and surveillance of narcotics agents. U.S. v. Cohen, C.A.3 (N.J.) 1952, 197 F.2d 26.

In prosecution for selling and conspiring to sell narcotics, evidence of defendant's co-conspirators' conversations in defendant's absence was admissible under conspiracy count. Barnett v. U.S., C.A.9 (Wash.) 1949, 171 F.2d 721.

Testimony that defendant had some conversation with man who agreed to obtain narcotics for informer to buy, while he was making arrangements which resulted in sale and delivery of narcotics, warranted inference as to a conspiracy to make the sale and rendered admissible on conspiracy count testimony as to what the man said to informer at time sale was being negotiated. U. S. v. Perillo, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1947, 164 F.2d 645.

In prosecution of physician under § 2550 et seq. of Title 26, wherein witness, who was a narcotic addict, had testified that he had traveled about 360 miles each week end, besides carrying on his usual business, to secure from the physician narcotic prescriptions issued for "incurable chronic angina and chronic amoebic dysentery," trial court did not err in permitting a physician to testify that the use of morphine was not justified in such case, notwithstanding that facts on which question was hypothesized had been testified to by witnesses, and that hypothesis of question did not cover fact that witness was in fact an addict. Heller v. U.S., C.C.A.4 (S.C.) 1939, 104 F.2d 446.

In a prosecution for conspiring to violate the Harrison Anti-Narcotic Act, § 2550 of Title 26, et seq. acts and declarations of alleged coconspirators were competent to establish a conspiracy. Smith v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Mo.) 1922, 284 F. 673, certiorari denied 43 S.Ct. 362, 261 U.S. 617, 67 L.Ed. 829.

In a prosecution for conspiracy to deal illegally in narcotic drugs, evidence that a person to whom one defendant gave a check received drugs of such kind from a Canadian custom house as agent for a firm which was a dealer in drugs was admissible. Nee v. U S, C.C.A.3 (Pa.) 1920, 267 F. 84.

In a prosecution for conspiracy to deal illegally in narcotic drugs, a check made by one of defendants, payable to one of the same name as a proved agent of an importer of such drugs, supplemented by evidence of identity of the indorsement on the check with a proved signature of such agent, was admissible, under the rule that in conspiracy cases the court has a wide discretion on the admission of evidence. Nee v. U S, C.C.A.3 (Pa.) 1920, 267 F. 84.

In a prosecution of druggists under former § 88 of this title [now this section] for a conspiracy to violate the Harrison Act, § 2554 of Title 26, evidence of the quantities of narcotic drugs purchased and sold, and of the quantities of non-narcotic drugs sold, by other druggists, was admissible to show the true nature and purposes of the defendants' business. Friedman v. U. S., C.C.A.6 (Tenn.) 1919, 260 F. 388, 170 C.C.A. 254, certiorari denied 40 S.Ct. 15, 250 U.S. 671, 63 L.Ed. 1199.

Under an indictment for conspiracy for the sale of narcotic drugs in connection with a physician in violation of Harrison Act, §§ 2554, 2563, and 2564 of Title 26, evidence of sales made by defendants in the same manner after such physician had withdrawn and another had taken his place were admissible, as tending to show a continuing conspiracy and guilty knowledge and intent. Workin v. U.S., C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1919, 260 F. 137, 171 C.C.A. 173, certiorari denied 40 S.Ct. 9, 250 U.S. 659, 63 L.Ed. 1194, error dismissed 41 S.Ct. 147, 254 U.S. 615, 65 L.Ed. 440.

680. Obstruction of justice, admissibility of evidence

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In prosecution for conspiring to endeavor to obstruct or impede due administration of justice by obtaining mistrial of another prosecution against alleged coconspirator, cross-examination testimony of defendant that he had read in paper that alleged coconspirator had served in penitentiary was admissible to show that defendant knew that if coconspirator was convicted he would stand before court for sentence as a second offender. U.S. v. Minkoff, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1943, 137 F.2d 402.

681. Perjury and subornation, admissibility of evidence

Evidence as to how the entrymen of timber and stone lands understood their arrangement with one of the defendants charged with a conspiracy to suborn perjury, and of their purpose in applying for the land, was admissible where no formal contracts were executed between the alleged conspirators and the proposed entrymen, the alleged understandings being of an ambiguous nature, and proof of the conspiracy depending upon a variety of circumstances tending to show motive or intent. Williamson v. U.S., U.S.Or.1908, 28 S.Ct. 163, 207 U.S. 425, 52 L.Ed. 278.

When person testifies falsely under grant of immunity, government may use that testimony as evidence of conspiracy to commit perjury; exception to statutory prohibition of use of immunized testimony in criminal prosecutions for perjury, giving false statement, or "otherwise failing to comply with" immunity order encompasses conspiracy to commit perjury as such conspiracy is simply agreement not to comply with order, frustrating purpose of grant of immunity. U.S. v. Duran, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1994, 41 F.3d 540. Criminal Law ¶ 42

In view of instructions requiring independent evidence of existence of joint venture and of defendant's participation in it, witness' statement, in prosecution for perjury and conspiracy, relating what witness' partner had told witness concerning what partner had heard by telephone from third man was admissible where partner and third man had that sort of common purpose which makes certain declarations of one admissible against another, though third man was nondefendant who died before trial and partner was not named as coconspirator. U. S. v. Marchisio, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1965, 344 F.2d 653.

Where an indictment for conspiracy to commit an offense against the United States by subornation of perjury charged that defendants procured and instigated a number of persons to make application for the purchase of public lands in a certain township under the Timber and Stone Act, § 311 et seq. of Title 43, and to falsely swear in their applications and proofs that they were not seeking to purchase such lands on speculation, but for their own exclusive benefit and use, and that they had not made any contract or agreement by which the title would inure to the benefit of another, whereas, in truth and fact, such persons were applying to purchase the lands on speculation and under prior agreements to convey the title to defendants, under such indictment the motive of the parties to the transactions was a material fact to be proved, and evidence that defendants had induced other persons to file on or purchase state lands in the same vicinity, which were subsequently conveyed to defendants, was properly admitted, where the jury were instructed to consider it only as bearing on such question of motive. Van Gesner v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Or.) 1907, 153 F. 46, 82 C.C.A. 180.

Under an indictment for conspiracy to commit an offense against the United States by subornation of perjury in procuring persons to make application for the purchase of lands under the Timber and Stone Act, § 311 et seq. of Title 43, under agreements to convey the same to defendants, and to falsely swear, among other things, that such lands were chiefly valuable for timber, it was not error to permit the government to prove that the lands were not valuable for the timber upon them, but were chiefly valuable for grazing purposes, although such evidence tended to show that the lands were not subject to entry under the act. Van Gesner v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Or.) 1907, 153 F. 46, 82 C.C.A. 180.

Perjury charges, even if severed from indictment, were admissible since alleged perjury was material and relevant to charge of conspiracy to avoid detection. U. S. v. Hubbard, D.C.D.C.1979, 474 F.Supp. 64.

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

682. Postal offenses, admissibility of evidence--Generally

On the trial of an indictment charging a conspiracy to obstruct the passage of the mails, telegrams showing upon their face more or less direct reference to the stopping of the mail trains might be introduced in evidence, if they were identified and brought home to the defendants. Clune v. U.S., U.S.Cal.1895, 16 S.Ct. 125, 159 U.S. 590, 40 L.Ed. 269.

Government witness' testimony that codefendant described defendant as a "fence" was admissible against codefendant in prosecution for forgery of postal money orders and conspiracy. Hawkins v. U. S., C.A.5 (Tex.) 1969, 417 F.2d 1271, certiorari denied 90 S.Ct. 917, 397 U.S. 914, 25 L.Ed.2d 95.

Where Alabama police officer knew before vehicle was stopped that defendant was in rear seat handling a shotgun while he and woman occupant were drinking beer and where, after the vehicle was stopped, the officer observed that defendant and driver were drunk, neither arrest of all three occupants of drinking offenses, to which they pleaded guilty, nor officer's discovery of stolen postal money order forms in automobile by looking in window or actual search were pretextual, and money orders were admissible against defendant in prosecution for conspiracy to pass, utter, and publish forged and altered money orders and for stealing post office department's property and aiding and abetting thereof. Swinney v. U. S., C.A.5 (Miss.) 1968, 391 F.2d 190.

In prosecution against members of coal miners' union for conspiring to obstruct movement of mails and to restrain trade in course of controversy with mine owners, article published in union newspaper setting forth union's program was properly admitted. U.S. v. Anderson, C.C.A.7 (Ill.) 1939, 101 F.2d 325, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 822, 307 U.S. 625, 83 L.Ed. 1502, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 822, 307 U.S. 625, 83 L.Ed. 1503, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 823, 307 U.S. 625, 83 L.Ed. 1503, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 823, 307 U.S. 625, 83 L.Ed. 1504, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 823, 307 U.S. 625, 83 L.Ed. 1504, 86 L.Ed. 1504, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 824, 307 U.S. 625, 83 L.Ed. 1505, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 824, 307 U.S. 625, 83 L.Ed. 1506, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 825, 307 U.S. 625, 83 L.Ed. 1506, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 825, 307 U.S. 625, 83 L.Ed. 1507, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 825, 307 U.S. 625, 83 L.Ed. 1508, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 826, 307 U.S. 625, 83 L.Ed. 1508, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 826, 307 U.S. 625, 83 L.Ed. 1509.

Where indictments against part of the defendants, charged with a conspiracy to commit an offense against the United States by a violation of the postal laws, were dismissed, the failure to prove either the necessary intent or action in respect of the use of the mail as to some of the defendants did not eliminate from the conspiracy or fraudulent scheme those who did not happen to go the statutory length of using or causing to be used the postal establishment of the United States in the execution of what all the defendants intended to accomplish, to wit, the defrauding of a portion of the public, and evidence showing their participation in devising the scheme was nevertheless proper. Lefkowitz v. U.S., C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1921, 273 F. 664, certiorari denied 42 S.Ct. 49, 257 U.S. 637, 66 L.Ed. 409.

Where accused was indicted for conspiracy to rob the post office at L., evidence was incompetent to show a general conspiracy, in which accused participated, to rob banks and everything that was "robbable." Rabens v. U.S., C.C.A.4 (S.C.) 1906, 146 F. 978, 77 C.C.A. 224.

On the trial of one indicted for conspiring to defraud the United States by mailing old newspapers for the purpose of fraudulently increasing the weight of mail matter (transported over a railway post route during a period fixed by the postal authorities for weighing such mail matter, as a basis for ascertaining the additional compensation to be paid the railway company), evidence that the newspapers, the fraudulent mailing of which within the district constituted the overt act charged in the indictment, were rewrapped and remailed over the postal route in question, from a place without the district, by an alleged co-conspirator, was not competent as proof of such overt act, but might be considered as showing the nature, extent, plan, and operations of the conspiracy, if one existed. U.S. v. Newton, S.D.Iowa 1892, 52 F. 275. Conspiracy ↪ 45

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

683. ---- Mail fraud, postal offenses, admissibility of evidence

Later edition of American Dental Association's (ADA) publication which classified dental procedures for billing was admissible in defendant's prosecution for mail fraud and conspiracy to commit mail fraud by overbilling for dental procedures, where edition contained identical code numbers and descriptions of all procedures as edition in existence at time dentist allegedly prepared fraudulent bills. U.S. v. Hinkle, C.A.10 (Okla.) 1994, 37 F.3d 576. Criminal Law ⚡ 434

In prosecution for conspiracy to commit mail fraud, jury could rely on evidence that two defendants participated in attempt to block state investigation by bribing state official to conclude that those defendants were engaged in conspiracy to operate farmers' cooperative in fraudulent and illegal manner, even though no evidence was introduced that bribe was actually offered to any state official. U. S. v. Shelton, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1982, 669 F.2d 446, certiorari denied 102 S.Ct. 1989, 456 U.S. 934, 72 L.Ed.2d 454.

It was within discretion of trial court to allow a "sucker" exhibit to be introduced as evidence in prosecution for conspiring to defraud and for defrauding certain persons through the use of mails and interstate communications. U. S. v. Frick, C.A.5 (La.) 1973, 490 F.2d 666, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 55, 419 U.S. 831, 42 L.Ed.2d 57.

In prosecution for mail fraud and conspiracy, it was prejudicial error to admit, over objection, records showing calls made between one defendant's home in Illinois and company headquarters in Washington, D.C., the records being admitted by the court under sponsorship of employee of subsidiary of large corporation who had no knowledge as to preparation of the records. U. S. v. Blake, C.A.5 (Ala.) 1973, 488 F.2d 101.

Recipients' testimony that letter gave them the impression that it was a notice of mandatory registration requirements from some United States agency was admissible in prosecution for mail fraud and for conspiracy to commit mail fraud, notwithstanding contention that such testimony invaded province of jury and deprived accused of due process. U. S. v. Wilson, C.A.5 (Ala.) 1973, 487 F.2d 510, certiorari denied 94 S.Ct. 1997, 416 U.S. 972, 40 L.Ed.2d 561.

Admission of evidence of fraudulent automobile sales transactions between defendant and another person which were similar to transactions between defendant and coconspirator, for purpose of showing knowledge and intent as to latter transactions, was not abuse of discretion. U. S. v. Marine, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1969, 413 F.2d 214, certiorari denied 90 S.Ct. 550, 396 U.S. 1001, 24 L.Ed.2d 493. Criminal Law ⚡ 370; Criminal Law ⚡ 371(3)

In prosecution for mail fraud and conspiracy in faking automobile collisions for purpose of defrauding insurance companies, testimony of two witnesses who had pleaded guilty to mail fraud charge was not inadmissible notwithstanding such witnesses were subjected to great pressure and there was doubt as to witnesses' veracity. Barnard v. U. S., C.A.9 (Or.) 1965, 342 F.2d 309, certiorari denied 86 S.Ct. 403, 382 U.S. 948, 15 L.Ed.2d 356, rehearing denied 86 S.Ct. 567, 382 U.S. 1002, 15 L.Ed.2d 491, rehearing denied 86 S.Ct. 567, 382 U.S. 1002, 15 L.Ed.2d 492, certiorari denied 86 S.Ct. 404, 382 U.S. 948, 15 L.Ed.2d 356, rehearing denied 86 S.Ct. 568, 382 U.S. 1002, 15 L.Ed.2d 492.

In prosecution for use of mails to defraud, and for conspiracy, testimony that one defendant had applied for insurance but that company did not issue policy to her was relevant to supplement testimony of her application, which was an overt act charged, and her false statement to insurer's agent concerning her earnings from an employer. U. S. v. Tenenbaum, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1964, 327 F.2d 210, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 1165, 377 U.S. 905, 12 L.Ed.2d 177.

In prosecution for mail fraud and for conspiracy to defraud, testimony by persons to whom representations were made, as to the representations made by defendants' salesmen, was admissible. Harris v. U. S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1958, 261 F.2d 792, certiorari denied 79 S.Ct. 1446, 360 U.S. 933, 3 L.Ed.2d 1546, rehearing denied 80 S.Ct. 117, 361

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

U.S. 871, 4 L.Ed.2d 111.

In prosecution for use of mails in attempt to defraud in sale of accident and sickness insurance policies and for conspiracy to commit the same offense, court did not err in admitting government's evidence as to loss ratios developed on policies sold by defendants. U. S. v. Sylvanus, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1951, 192 F.2d 96, certiorari denied 72 S.Ct. 555, 342 U.S. 943, 96 L.Ed. 701.

In prosecution for use of the mails in attempt to defraud in sale of accident and sickness insurance policies and for conspiracy to commit the same offense, wherein court admitted evidence of the government as to loss ratios developed on policies sold by defendants, refusal to admit in evidence a booklet offered by defendants to show loss ratios developed on policies of third persons was not error, since such evidence was immaterial. U. S. v. Sylvanus, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1951, 192 F.2d 96, certiorari denied 72 S.Ct. 555, 342 U.S. 943, 96 L.Ed. 701.

In prosecution of several defendants for using mails to defraud and for conspiracy to commit the substantive crime, evidence of a concert between three of defendants in selling of interests in supposedly oil-producing lands was properly admitted, although all transactions proved were not shown to have been parts of that concert. U.S. v. Cohen, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1944, 145 F.2d 82, certiorari denied 65 S.Ct. 553, 323 U.S. 799, 89 L.Ed. 637, certiorari denied 65 S.Ct. 553, 323 U.S. 799, 89 L.Ed. 638, certiorari denied 65 S.Ct. 554, 323 U.S. 800, 89 L.Ed. 638.

In prosecution for conspiracy to use mails to defraud and for using mails in a scheme to defraud involving sale of corporate assets, the books of corporations were admissible against defendants who had made representations regarding financial condition of the corporations. U.S. v. Feinberg, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1944, 140 F.2d 592, certiorari denied 64 S.Ct. 943, 322 U.S. 726, 88 L.Ed. 1562.

In prosecution for conspiracy to use mails to defraud, and for using mails in scheme to defraud involving sale of corporate assets, books of companies were competent against a defendant who had been in complete control of the companies for a long time. U.S. v. Feinberg, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1944, 140 F.2d 592, certiorari denied 64 S.Ct. 943, 322 U.S. 726, 88 L.Ed. 1562.

In prosecution for conspiracy to use mails to defraud and for using mails in a scheme to defraud, by obtaining control of business of corporation by means of false statements and disregard of interest of minority shareholders, statements issued by corporation to its shareholders and reports of accountants for corporation to board of directors were admissible against all who were directors at the time. U.S. v. Feinberg, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1944, 140 F.2d 592, certiorari denied 64 S.Ct. 943, 322 U.S. 726, 88 L.Ed. 1562.

In prosecution for using mails to defraud and for conspiracy, where no motion to strike out books and records of a corporation was made after they had been admitted, with leave to defendants to move to strike out the records, summaries of the records prepared by a post office inspector were admissible. U.S. v. Bramson, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1943, 139 F.2d 598, certiorari denied 64 S.Ct. 636, 321 U.S. 783, 88 L.Ed. 1075.

In prosecution for using mails to defraud and for conspiracy, testimony by government relating to transactions in connection with stock of oil company was relevant as showing that one of defendants had caused some trust certificates to be canceled, reissued in name of his family and then redeemed, thereby depriving certificate holders of a bona fide chance of having their certificates selected for redemption by lot, and diverting the income of the trusts to himself or his family. U.S. v. Bramson, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1943, 139 F.2d 598, certiorari denied 64 S.Ct. 636, 321 U.S. 783, 88 L.Ed. 1075.

In prosecution for mail fraud in sale of oil leases and stock, where fraudulently obtained check was deposited with bank which mailed check to trust company, air mail stamp shown to have been affixed in regular course of business to letters received by air mail was admissible as part of proof of ordinary business practice, as a record made in ordinary course of business, and under former § 695 of Title 28, prescribing what writings are admissible. U.S. v.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Leathers, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1943, 135 F.2d 507.

In prosecution for using and conspiring to use the mails to defraud, the testimony of a witness who had received his information after the termination of the conspiracy in the form of a mere narrative relation thereof was improperly admitted, but the admission thereof was not prejudicial to defendant where the testimony was merely corroborative and the case against defendant without that testimony was unusually strong. U.S. v. Groves, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1941, 122 F.2d 87, certiorari denied 62 S.Ct. 135, 314 U.S. 670, 86 L.Ed. 536.

Where it was shown in prosecution for violation of former § 338 of this title that shortly after indictment was returned defendant had removed papers from a Montreal bank vault and had sought to have them destroyed, testimony that codefendant had said to his wife that the papers were just evidence of what the government wanted and that it was very awkward that defendant could not burn them was inadmissible against defendant as "hearsay" constituting a narrative statement made after the termination of the conspiracy charged. U.S. v. Groves, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1941, 122 F.2d 87, certiorari denied 62 S.Ct. 135, 314 U.S. 670, 86 L.Ed. 536.

In prosecution for use of mails in execution of scheme to defraud by sale of fractional parts of practically worthless oil leases, evidence was sufficient to connect transaction involving sale by one defendant of a lease and an attempt to obtain refund from him with the general plan to defraud so as to render evidence of the attempt to obtain refund admissible against all of the co-conspirators and therefore the admission of the evidence but limited to such defendant was not error. Simons v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Wash.) 1941, 119 F.2d 539, certiorari denied 62 S.Ct. 78, 314 U.S. 616, 86 L.Ed. 496.

In prosecution for using mail in execution of scheme to defraud investors in units of oil leases, for violation of this section, and for conspiracy to violate it, where indictment alleged that defendants organized three corporations for the purpose of carrying out their fraudulent scheme, evidence of stock manipulations of the corporations was admissible on question of defendants' guilt or innocence where it appeared that the records of the corporations were manipulated by defendants in an effort to conceal the true relationship of the coconspirators. Simons v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Wash.) 1941, 119 F.2d 539, certiorari denied 62 S.Ct. 78, 314 U.S. 616, 86 L.Ed. 496.

In prosecution for conspiracy to use mails to defraud and use of mails to defraud, evidence that defendant refused to accept grand jury's invitation to appear before it was relevant to issue of defendant's credibility. U.S. v. Mortimer, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1941, 118 F.2d 266, certiorari denied 62 S.Ct. 58, 314 U.S. 616, 86 L.Ed. 496.

In prosecution for using mails to defraud and for conspiracy, committed by fraudulent sales of cemetery lots through a corporation, court did not err in excluding testimony by one defendant's employee who was in charge of construction work, concerning statement made by such employee in conversation with one who subsequently purchased the entire cemetery, as to estimated cost of final development of undeveloped lots. U. S. v. Beck, C.C.A.7 (Ill.) 1941, 118 F.2d 178, certiorari denied 61 S.Ct. 1121, 313 U.S. 587, 85 L.Ed. 1542.

In prosecution for using mails to defraud and for conspiracy, committed by fraudulent sales of cemetery lots through a corporation, minute books of former owner of the cemetery lots were admissible to show value of the lots. U. S. v. Beck, C.C.A.7 (Ill.) 1941, 118 F.2d 178, certiorari denied 61 S.Ct. 1121, 313 U.S. 587, 85 L.Ed. 1542.

In prosecution for using mails to defraud and for conspiracy, committed by fraudulent sale of cemetery lots through a corporation, letters from the corporation to purchaser of lots were admissible to show guilty knowledge of salesman's methods in making sales. U. S. v. Beck, C.C.A.7 (Ill.) 1941, 118 F.2d 178, certiorari denied 61 S.Ct. 1121, 313 U.S. 587, 85 L.Ed. 1542.

In prosecution for conspiracy to use mails in furtherance of a scheme to defraud where it was part of government's theory that a defendant had paid codefendant money for services in connection with sale of oil royalty certificates before codefendant left position of state assistant attorney general, on June 1, 1934, and where government's counsel directed defendant to examine schedule and state when for first time he paid codefendant any money, and defendant answered, "On the 2d of July 1934", testimony that defendant had told witness in April, 1934 that another had demanded $1,500 for payment to the codefendant or the codefendant would send out letters derogatory to the certificates, and that defendant then paid codefendant $500, was erroneously admitted in rebuttal, since proper foundation for impeachment had not been laid and the testimony was not rebuttal. Whealton v. U.S., C.C.A.3 (N.J.) 1940, 113 F.2d 710.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In prosecution for conspiracy to use mails in furtherance of a scheme to defraud by inducing purchase of participating oil royalty certificates by false representations, admitting a statement signed by a defendant after funds of corporation had been allegedly misapplied, and stating, "I do not condone any of the offenses nor by the same token do I excuse what may appear to be compounding a felony", was error even though the statement was received in evidence as to the writer alone, where the statement contained no facts relevant to the establishment of crime charged and merely implied a legal conclusion of the writer without reciting facts whereon the conclusion was based. In such prosecution, admitting as to writer alone, a statement, made after funds of corporation had been allegedly misapplied, that it was his duty to go to criminal authorities and report facts so that officers and directors of corporation could be prosecuted, was error, since the statement represented no more than the writer's opinion and was not competent as evidence. Whealton v. U.S., C.C.A.3 (N.J.) 1940, 113 F.2d 710.

In prosecution for conspiracy to use mails in furtherance of a scheme to defraud by inducing purchase of participating oil royalty certificates by false representations, statement signed by a defendant that, if any moneys were paid to certain individuals improperly, a named individual was entirely ignorant of such payments, was inadmissible even against writer. Whealton v. U.S., C.C.A.3 (N.J.) 1940, 113 F.2d 710.

In prosecution for using and conspiring to use the mails to defraud gullible individuals by collecting fees for enrolling them as heirs of mythical Baker estate, evidence that competing group of conspirators had attempted to bribe a register of wills was improperly admitted in absence of testimony connecting accused therewith. U. S. v. Sprengel, C.C.A.3 (Pa.) 1939, 103 F.2d 876.

In prosecution for using and conspiring to use the mails to defraud gullible individuals by collecting fees for enrolling them as heirs of mythical Baker estate, bulletins published by the "Baker Heirs' Genealogical Association" were improperly introduced, in absence of testimony that accused were responsible for sending the bulletins through the mails or aided in their preparation or publication. U. S. v. Sprengel, C.C.A.3 (Pa.) 1939, 103 F.2d 876.

In prosecution for using and conspiring to use the mails to defraud gullible individuals by collecting fees for enrolling them as heirs of mythical Baker estate, postal inspector's testimony that in many cases investigated by post office department fraud orders were secured against persons operating Baker heirs groups was improperly admitted in absence of showing that accused were connected with activities wherein fraud orders were granted. U. S. v. Sprengel, C.C.A.3 (Pa.) 1939, 103 F.2d 876.

In prosecution for using and conspiring to use the mails to defraud gullible individuals by collecting fees for enrolling them as heirs of mythical Baker estate, where conspirators kept in close and often competitive contact with other exploiting groups, evidence as to activities of groups not directly connected with conspirators was properly admitted to test "good-faith" defense, as long as connection with or knowledge of activities of such groups was brought home to conspirators. U. S. v. Sprengel, C.C.A.3 (Pa.) 1939, 103 F.2d 876.

In prosecution for use of mails to defraud insurance companies by filing false claims and for conspiracy, admission of evidence on cross-examination of defendant physician about default judgment obtained against him by patient in action predicated on negligence was discretionary especially since evidence could not have affected result in view of answer. U S v. Weiss, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1939, 103 F.2d 348, certiorari granted 59 S.Ct. 1043, 307 U.S. 621, 83

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

L.Ed. 1500, reversed on other grounds 60 S.Ct. 269, 308 U.S. 321, 84 L.Ed. 298.

In prosecution for using mails in furtherance of scheme to defraud by means of confidence game and for conspiring to commit such offense, record kept in usual course of business by bank often used to enable those defrauded to convert securities into cash, showing that on a certain date a cashier's check for $4,000 payable to a defendant had been purchased in another defendant's name was admissible. U.S. v. Graham, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1939, 102 F.2d 436, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 1041, 307 U.S. 643, 83 L.Ed. 1524, rehearing denied 60 S.Ct. 68, 308 U.S. 632, 84 L.Ed. 526.

In prosecution for using mails in furtherance of scheme to defraud by means of confidence game and for conspiring to commit such offense, witness' testimony that he was a convicted swindler who had taken victims to Reno, Nev., knowing that he would have to pay a defendant 15 per cent. of proceeds of fraud and that he had prior arrangements with such defendant, witness' further testimony that the percentage was the usual one paid by confidence men for aid furnished by defendant in accordance with a general custom was admissible to show the greater probability that the specific arrangements testified to with the defendant were actually made. U.S. v. Graham, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1939, 102 F.2d 436, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 1041, 307 U.S. 643, 83 L.Ed. 1524, rehearing denied 60 S.Ct. 68, 308 U.S. 632, 84 L.Ed. 526.

In prosecution of corporation officers for using the mails to defraud and for conspiracy, based on sale of mortgage participation certificates by company of which defendants were officers, document showing a lower appraisal of mortgaged property than was used by defendants in evaluating safety of the certificates, on which one defendant had made a notation, was admissible despite such defendant's testimony that he made the notation after making his own appraisal. U.S. v. Dilliard, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1938, 101 F.2d 829, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 484, 306 U.S. 635, 83 L.Ed. 1036.

In prosecution of corporation officers for posting letters in pursuance of scheme to defraud and for conspiracy, evidence of one defendant's fraud in increasing cash items in financial statements was competent against such defendant upon the substantive counts independently of the conspiracy, and notwithstanding such defendant's acquittal on the substantive counts. U.S. v. Dilliard, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1938, 101 F.2d 829, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 484, 306 U.S. 635, 83 L.Ed. 1036.

In prosecution for using, and conspiracy to use, mails to defraud, income tax return of one of conspirators was properly admissible as against him, being properly limited to such defendant. U.S. v. Rollnick, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1937, 91 F.2d 911.

In prosecution for using, and conspiracy to use, mails to defraud by selling watered stock, balance sheet showing operating losses sustained by corporation and its subsidiaries was admissible against all conspirators and not solely against conspirator who mailed it to stockholders, notwithstanding evidence indicating that conspiracy had been broken up by attack upon some members resulting in difficulty of carrying out conspiracy successfully, where it could be inferred conspirators intended to carry on with conspiracy. U.S. v. Rollnick, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1937, 91 F.2d 911.

In prosecution for conspiracy and using mails to defraud, that books of corporations offered in evidence were not admissible against all defendants was not ground for exclusion of books. Wilkes v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1935, 80 F.2d 285.

In a prosecution for conspiracy to use the mails to defraud by sending letters threatening to murder the addressee unless he deposited a sum of money as directed, evidence that a defendant, when arrested, had in his possession weapons which might be used to carry out the threats, was admissible. Fasulo v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1925, 7 F.2d 961, certiorari granted 46 S.Ct. 203, 269 U.S. 551, 70 L.Ed. 407, reversed 47 S.Ct. 200, 272 U.S. 620, 71 L.Ed. 443.

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In prosecution under former § 88 of this title [now this section], for conspiracy to defraud by misuse of mails, contrary to former § 338 of this title, if accused was in conspiracy alleged, acts of other conspirators in carrying out purpose of conspiracy could have been shown. Morris v. U. S., C.C.A.8 (Ark.) 1925, 7 F.2d 785, certiorari denied 46 S.Ct. 205, 270 U.S. 640, 70 L.Ed. 775.

On trial of numerous defendants for conspiracy to use the mails to defraud, tentative admission of evidence of overt acts by some of the defendants in advance of proof connecting them with the conspiracy was within the discretion of the court. Smith v. U. S., C.C.A.8 (Neb.) 1920, 267 F. 665, rehearing denied 269 F. 365, certiorari denied 41 S.Ct. 450, 256 U.S. 691, 65 L.Ed. 1174.

On a trial for fraudulent use of mails and conspiracy, receipts or bills of lading were admissible in connection with testimony that goods of which parties were to be defrauded were packed and taken to a carrier in response to orders from defendants. U S v. Fischer, E.D.Pa.1917, 245 F. 477, affirmed 250 F. 793, 163 C.C.A. 125.

In a trial for conspiring to use the mails in carrying out a scheme to defraud, all mail connected with the scheme, shown to have passed through the post office to any person, whether named in the indictment or not, was evidence upon the question of the existence of the scheme. US v. Marrin, E.D.Pa.1908, 159 F. 767, affirmed 167 F. 951, 93 C.C.A. 351, certiorari denied 32 S.Ct. 523, 223 U.S. 719, 56 L.Ed. 629.

684. Securities offenses, admissibility of evidence

Defendant in securities fraud conspiracy prosecution was not prejudiced by trial court's exclusion of defendant's customer account cards which were offered to establish that defendant had not intentionally submitted false documents to the SEC where defense counsel could not identify a single entry in cards that supported such a defense. U. S. v. Koss, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1974, 506 F.2d 1103, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 1402, 420 U.S. 977, 43 L.Ed.2d 657, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 1565, 421 U.S. 911, 43 L.Ed.2d 776.

Evidence with respect to transfers involving property used to obtain control of corporation was admissible as background in prosecution for conspiracy to defraud government and Securities and Exchange Commission and for violation of securities laws, and was not rendered inadmissible by removal of allegations of stockholder and creditor fraud from jury's consideration. U. S. v. Colasurdo, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1971, 453 F.2d 585, certiorari denied 92 S.Ct. 1766, 406 U.S. 917, 32 L.Ed.2d 116.

Admission, in prosecution for fraud in sale of securities, mail fraud, conspiracy, and making of false statements, of evidence of defendants' actions in 1964 and 1965 was not error where there was considerable evidence tending to prove that defendants were cooperating together in scheme to defraud investors throughout such period and where two substantive offenses were alleged to have occurred in 1965. U. S. v. Livengood, C.A.9 (Wash.) 1970, 427 F.2d 420.

Admission in evidence, in prosecution for conspiracy and for interstate transportation of stolen securities, of letters and documents sent by person from whom the securities were stolen to stock transfer agents reporting the theft was error where such letters and documents were not made by transfer agents and were not their business records, so that such documents would constitute only self-serving declarations of the writer and would not be proof of facts stated therein. U.S. v. Sherfey, C.A.6 (Mich.) 1967, 384 F.2d 786.

Admission in evidence in fraud and conspiracy prosecution of documents received by numerous investors which did not bear defendant's signature was harmless error, if it was error at all, where there was much additional documentary evidence of similar type introduced against defendant dealing with his own participation in activities of three companies with which he was associated, which documents were enclosed in letters actually signed by the defendant. Muir v. U. S., C.A.5 (Fla.) 1967, 373 F.2d 712.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Evidence involving parts of codefendants' post-conspiracy testimony before SEC and attorney general and codefendant's letter to defendant, which charged defendant with giving out false information about oil company and in no uncertain terms told him to stop, constituted inadmissible and prejudicial hearsay as against defendant, in prosecution for conspiracy to defraud public by distribution of oil company stock at grossly inflated prices. U. S. v. Kelly, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1965, 349 F.2d 720, certiorari denied 86 S.Ct. 1467, 384 U.S. 947, 16 L.Ed.2d 544.

Evidence relating to financial transactions between corporations was relevant to show the mechanics for attaining major purpose of conspiracy to sell unregistered securities. U.S. v. Dardi, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1964, 330 F.2d 316, certiorari denied 85 S.Ct. 117, 379 U.S. 869, 13 L.Ed.2d 73, certiorari denied 85 S.Ct. 50, 379 U.S. 845, 13 L.Ed.2d 50, rehearing denied 85 S.Ct. 640, 379 U.S. 986, 13 L.Ed.2d 579, certiorari denied 85 S.Ct. 51, 379 U.S. 845, 13 L.Ed.2d 50.

Testimony of unfortunate buyers of stock was relevant in prosecution for conspiracy and for illegal sale of unregistered stock. U.S. v. Dardi, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1964, 330 F.2d 316, certiorari denied 85 S.Ct. 117, 379 U.S. 869, 13 L.Ed.2d 73, certiorari denied 85 S.Ct. 50, 379 U.S. 845, 13 L.Ed.2d 50, rehearing denied 85 S.Ct. 640, 379 U.S. 986, 13 L.Ed.2d 579, certiorari denied 85 S.Ct. 51, 379 U.S. 845, 13 L.Ed.2d 50.

In prosecution for mail fraud, securities fraud and conspiracy, evidence of losses sustained by investors was relevant and material in establishing quality of securities sold and financial condition of corporation which issued securities. Farrell v. U. S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1963, 321 F.2d 409, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 631, 375 U.S. 992, 11 L.Ed.2d 478.

In prosecution for mail fraud, securities fraud and conspiracy, fact that summary of "sell orders" contained other information did not render it inadmissible as summary. Farrell v. U. S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1963, 321 F.2d 409, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 631, 375 U.S. 992, 11 L.Ed.2d 478.

In prosecution for violation of Securities Act, § 77a et seq. of Title 15, mail fraud and conspiracy in sale of debentures of corporation from 1951 to 1955, based on false representations concerning current condition of the corporation, evidence of corporation's financial condition in 1956 and 1957, after it was in hands of trustee in bankruptcy and was operating without burden of payments for debt service, was irrelevant. U. S. v. Tellier, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1958, 255 F.2d 441, certiorari denied 79 S.Ct. 33, 358 U.S. 821, 3 L.Ed.2d 62.

In prosecution for violating and for conspiring to violate Securities Act of 1933, § 77q of Title 15, admission of 814 mutual agreement notes, 248 promissory notes payable in 90 days, and 50 promissory notes payable in 60 days for purpose of showing scope and extent of scheme whereby defendants allegedly obtained money for their own use by false representations was proper. Llanos v. U. S., C.A.9 (Hawai'i) 1953, 206 F.2d 852, certiorari denied 74 S.Ct. 310, 346 U.S. 923, 98 L.Ed. 417.

In prosecution for using mails to defraud, for using mails for sale of securities not registered with Securities and Exchange Commission, and for conspiracy to commit such crimes, defendant's letters to another accused, written seven or eight years before transaction involved, were admissible to disclose relations between defendant and the other accused where defendant contended that the other was not his confederate. U.S. v. Bronson, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1944, 145 F.2d 939.

In prosecution for violations of Securities Act of 1933, § 15q(a)(1) of Title 15, and Mail Fraud Act, former § 338 of this title, and conspiracy to carry out substantive offenses, testimony of witness that one of defendants had given her a mortgage on oil tank to secure payment of $7,500.00 note which tank defendant thereafter sold for $300.00 giving purchaser a forged release of mortgage, and that purchaser thereafter sold tank for $625.00, was properly admitted. Harper v. U. S., C.C.A.8 (Mo.) 1944, 143 F.2d 795.

Where sale of an interest in a water bleeder was not charged as an offense in prosecution for violations of Securities Act of 1933, § 77q(a)(1) of Title 15, and Mail Fraud Act, former § 338 of Title 18, and conspiracy to carry out substantive offenses, documents pertaining to the water bleeder and transactions connected with that instrumentality were properly excluded. Harper v. U. S., C.C.A.8 (Mo.) 1944, 143 F.2d 795.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In prosecution for conspiracy to use mails to defraud and for using mails in a scheme to defraud by obtaining control of corporate business by means of false statements and disregard of interest of minority stockholders, it was proper to show what the defendants did with the company after they got possession of it. U.S. v. Feinberg, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1944, 140 F.2d 592, certiorari denied 64 S.Ct. 943, 322 U.S. 726, 88 L.Ed. 1562.

In prosecution for using mails in furtherance of scheme to defraud in sale of mining stock and for conspiracy to defraud, admitting in evidence numerous letters and documents en masse with the comment that any instrument shown to be incompetent would be stricken on motion and admonishing jury at defendants' request not to consider letters not identified and that case must be proved by sworn testimony or proved directly by competent letters, was not error. Estep v. U.S., C.C.A.10 (Utah) 1943, 140 F.2d 40.

In prosecution for conspiracy and for use of mails in execution of scheme to defraud by sale of fractional parts of practically worthless oil leases, admission of testimony that two defendants sent witness to investors to instruct them that certain bonds were gilt edged and that the defendants had told witness that somebody had informed the investors that the investment was not good and that it was witness' job to keep the investors pacified was not error where conversation between witness and defendants took place at time when the conspiracy charged was in its formation and tended to prove close relationship existing between defendants and jury could infer that the acts testified to were in furtherance of general scheme to defraud. Simons v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Wash.) 1941, 119 F.2d 539, certiorari denied 62 S.Ct. 78, 314 U.S. 616, 86 L.Ed. 496.

Where indictment for conspiracy, for violation of former § 338 of this title and § 77q of Title 15 charged that after selling investors as many as possible of oil lease units, defendants would further "reload" the investors by selling them shares of stock of certain companies representing to investors that a defendant had acquired the stock as his personal property, evidence of the sale of the stock was admissible notwithstanding all of the defendants did not actively participate in sale and the stock belonged to only one defendant. Simons v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Wash.) 1941, 119 F.2d 539, certiorari denied 62 S.Ct. 78, 314 U.S. 616, 86 L.Ed. 496.

In prosecution for use of mails in execution of scheme to defraud by sale of fractional parts of practically worthless oil leases, and for conspiracy, where indictment alleged that it was part of scheme to defraud that when defendants should find investors with more money than they could be induced to invest in the leases, defendants would endeavor to sell investors other securities of little or no value and borrow money from the investors on notes which defendants did not intend to pay, testimony regarding one defendant's sale of certain bonds to an investor and subsequent exchange of such defendant's personal note for the bonds was admissible where transaction occurred at time when such defendant was attempting by various methods to raise money for carrying out of general fraudulent scheme. Simons v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Wash.) 1941, 119 F.2d 539, certiorari denied 62 S.Ct. 78, 314 U.S. 616, 86 L.Ed. 496.

In prosecution of officers of mortgage corporation for using mails to defraud and for conspiracy, testimony of numerous victims who had lost money by investing in company's participation certificates, to show how long advertising material containing misrepresentations was distributed, and what representations were made to induce them to buy, was admissible when restricted to matters which could be connected with the defendants. U.S. v. Dilliard, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1938, 101 F.2d 829, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 484, 306 U.S. 635, 83 L.Ed. 1036.

In prosecution of officers and directors of mortgage guaranty company for conspiracy to use mails to defraud in sale of mortgage participation certificates, introduction of evidence that defendants repurchased two-thirds of certificates which had been issued to investor representing interest in mortgage on which foreclosure had been commenced, to shatter reputation of defendant by showing attempt to buy off investigation, was reversible error in view of other evidence. U.S. v. McNamara, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1937, 91 F.2d 986.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In prosecution of officers and directors of mortgage guaranty company for use of mails to defraud in sale of mortgage participation certificates, admission of testimony that at time of purchases of mortgage participation certificates, purchasers did not know that insurance commissioner had prohibited company from issuing further guaranties, was reversible error, where insurance commissioner had no authority under McKinney's N.Y. Insurance Law, § 173, to prohibit company from issuing further guaranties. U.S. v. McNamara, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1937, 91 F.2d 986.

In conspiracy and oil stock mail fraud case, testimony that defendant believed he had title was properly excluded. Nelson v. U. S., C.C.A.8 (Ark.) 1926, 16 F.2d 71.

Evidence of defendant's sale of particular bonds was competent in prosecution for conspiracy to deal in securities stolen from mails. Murdick v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Minn.) 1926, 15 F.2d 965, certiorari denied 47 S.Ct. 765, 274 U.S. 752, 71 L.Ed. 1332.

Statements and acts of members of brokerage firm and clerk in furtherance of its scheme to defraud customers were admissible against participants in the scheme. Silkworth v. U.S., C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1926, 10 F.2d 711, certiorari denied 46 S.Ct. 475, 271 U.S. 664, 70 L.Ed. 1139.

Where indictment charged in setting forth scheme to defraud by use of mails that stock of corporation sold pursuant to scheme would be and was of little or no value, and charged continued conspiracy from June 27, 1921, to October 12, 1922, testimony of trustee in bankruptcy, who took over assets of corporation in October, 1922, as to what assets then were, was not too remote, it being during continuance of the conspiracy as charged. Tank v. U.S., C.C.A.7 (Wis.) 1925, 8 F.2d 697.

In prosecution for obtaining money by false pretenses and conspiracy, under scheme to buy stock for investors on payment of 20 per cent. of value, confirmation of stock purchases, written for by defendant on demand of auditors, which were false and forged by one of defendants, were properly admitted as to both defendants, where defendant writing for confirmations knew of falsity, as defendant forging them thereby showed willingness to aid in carrying in fraudulent transaction. Kriebel v. U.S., C.C.A.7 (Ill.) 1925, 8 F.2d 692, certiorari denied 46 S.Ct. 119, 269 U.S. 582, 70 L.Ed. 424, certiorari denied 46 S.Ct. 120, 269 U.S. 583, 70 L.Ed. 424.

In prosecution for conspiracy having as its object an attempt to quash Securities and Exchange Commission investigation in return for cash contribution to political organization and an attempt to avoid disclosing facts relating to the contribution, portion of bill of particulars referring to disbursements made from the contribution to specified individuals constituted an attempt to introduce collateral and prejudicial evidence of "Watergate break-in" and would be struck subject to offer of proof at time of trial. U. S. v. Mitchell, S.D.N.Y.1973, 372 F.Supp. 1239, appeal dismissed 485 F.2d 1290. Indictment And Information  121.2(3)

685. Shipping offenses, admissibility of evidence

In a prosecution under former § 88 of this title [now this section], for conspiracy to sink a German vessel in navigable waters of the United States, etc., evidence as to the condition of the ship, and that the valves were open, etc., was admissible, the injury to the equipment of ship contributing to the sinking. Wierse v. U.S., C.C.A.4 (S.C.) 1918, 252 F. 435, 164 C.C.A. 359, certiorari denied 39 S.Ct. 10, 248 U.S. 568, 63 L.Ed. 425.

Where one of defendants, all of whom were charged with conspiring to defraud United States by obtaining false clearance for vessels intended to provision and coal German warships on high seas, reimbursed owner of chartered vessel, who paid fine of master for making false statements in manifest, that transaction was admissible on question of defendant's knowledge of statements and their falsity. Hamburg-American Steam Packet Co. v. U.S., C.C.A.2

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

(N.Y.) 1918, 250 F. 747, 163 C.C.A. 79, certiorari denied 38 S.Ct. 333, 246 U.S. 662, 62 L.Ed. 927.

686. Smuggling, admissibility of evidence

In prosecution of defendant for conspiring to smuggle amphetamine tablets into the United States, evidence that a certain individual was dealing in amphetamine tablets in the United States, that these tablets were made by the same press as those found in defendant's possession, and that numerous telephone calls were made between the telephone listed to such individual and a telephone which had been listed by defendant under an assumed name, was admissible as tending to prove defendant's connection with importation of the tablets into the United States. Brulay v. U. S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1967, 383 F.2d 345, certiorari denied 88 S.Ct. 469, 389 U.S. 986, 19 L.Ed.2d 478.

In prosecutions for conspiracy to smuggle psittacine birds into United States, for smuggling such birds into United States, and for receiving, concealing and transporting such birds, testimony of one conspirator relating to events occurring prior to termination of conspiracy was admissible as to all conspirators where such statements related to communications made during and in course of conspiracy. Murray v. U.S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1957, 250 F.2d 489, certiorari denied 78 S.Ct. 1375, 357 U.S. 932, 2 L.Ed.2d 1373.

In prosecution for conspiracy to smuggle cattle into the United States contrary to law and conspiring to receive, conceal and transport the cattle, evidence with reference to the seizure by the custom officers of the cattle was not inadmissible though it indicated the commission of a federal crime not mentioned in indictment where the seizures were merely explanatory of how the cattle came into the possession of the custom officers. Babb v. U.S., C.A.5 (Tex.) 1954, 210 F.2d 473.

In prosecution for illegally conspiring to smuggle and introduce cattle into the United States, admitting testimony of witness who declined to haul the cattle because he did not think it was quite right, which was prejudicial only to the trucking contractors who were acquitted. was not prejudicial to the defendants who were the head of the conspiracy and the principal actors in its execution. Babb v. U.S., C.A.5 (Tex.) 1954, 210 F.2d 473.

In prosecution for smuggling and concealing alcohol and for conspiracy to do so, testimony of sailor that wireless operator on rum-running vessel showed sailor a list of owners of the vessel, which included name of an accused, was admissible where evidence indicated that the declaration of the wireless operator was probably a part of his duty inasmuch as he was employed to keep in touch with owners ashore and advise them of any troubles that might arise, notwithstanding fact that ordinarily only the master would be authorized to disclose such information. U S v. Nardone, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1939, 106 F.2d 41, certiorari granted 60 S.Ct. 103, 308 U.S. 539, 84 L.Ed. 454, reversed on other grounds 60 S.Ct. 266, 308 U.S. 338, 84 L.Ed. 307.

In prosecution for smuggling and concealing alcohol and for conspiracy to do so, evidence of landing of certain alcohol from vessel which was interrupted by treasury agents while it was in progress and which developed into a shooting affray was admissible as being in execution of the conspiracy, as against contention that the evidence was likely to divert jury's mind from the crime to one of its distracting incidents. U S v. Nardone, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1939, 106 F.2d 41, certiorari granted 60 S.Ct. 103, 308 U.S. 539, 84 L.Ed. 454, reversed on other grounds 60 S.Ct. 266, 308 U.S. 338, 84 L.Ed. 307.

In prosecution for smuggling and concealing alcohol and for conspiracy to do so, admission of testimony of sailor that wireless operator on rum-running vessel showed sailor a list of owners of the vessel which included name of an accused, even if erroneous, was harmless, where the accused was amply connected with the conspiracy without the sailor's testimony. U S v. Nardone, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1939, 106 F.2d 41, certiorari granted 60 S.Ct. 103, 308 U.S. 539, 84 L.Ed. 454, reversed on other grounds 60 S.Ct. 266, 308 U.S. 338, 84 L.Ed. 307.

On an indictment for conspiracy to defraud the United States by smuggling goods, an affidavit indorsed by the master on the manifest, a month after it was filed, was not admissible as a part thereof. U.S. v. Graff,

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

C.C.N.Y.1878, 26 F.Cas. 1, No. 15244. Customs Duties ↪ 134

687. Stolen property, admissibility of evidence--Generally

Government agents did not "create" exigent circumstances by using stolen tickets that were stamped "void," and thus, warrantless entry of defendant's house for purposes of arresting defendant on charge of conspiring to deal in stolen goods in interstate commerce, was not rendered invalid; Government's decision to mark tickets "void" was reasonable in light of concern that something might go wrong with operation and tickets might be disseminated to public. U.S. v. Zabare, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1989, 871 F.2d 282, certiorari denied 110 S.Ct. 161, 493 U.S. 856, 107 L.Ed.2d 119.

Testimony of witness from various business establishments, which had supplied items such as air conditioners, stereo phonographs, vacuum cleaners and colored television sets to drugstore pursuant to telephone requests by defendants, as to retail value of such items, was properly received in prosecution for conspiracy in connection with interstate transportation of goods of value of more than $5,000 obtained by fraud. Cave v. U. S., C.A.8 (Iowa) 1968, 390 F.2d 58, certiorari denied 88 S.Ct. 2059, 392 U.S. 906, 20 L.Ed.2d 1365.

Money orders which were allegedly stolen and which allegedly bore fictitious signatures were admissible in prosecution under this section and section 2314 of this title relating to conspiracy and to interstate transportation of stolen goods upon being identified by officer of company which distributed the money orders. Woodring v. U. S., C.A.10 (Okla.) 1967, 376 F.2d 619, certiorari denied 88 S.Ct. 153, 389 U.S. 885, 19 L.Ed.2d 182.

In prosecution for possessing goods with knowledge that they had been stolen while a part of an interstate shipment of freight, and for conspiring to commit such offense, admission of evidence of statements made by thieves to each other in planning theft and disposal of goods was not error as to defendant, though such evidence was not admissible as against defendant, where evidence was admitted solely as against co-defendant who was the go-between. U.S. v. Smolin, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1950, 182 F.2d 782.

In prosecution for possessing goods with knowledge that they had been stolen while a part of an interstate shipment of freight, and for conspiring to commit such offense, evidence showing that the goods had been stolen was admissible. U.S. v. Smolin, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1950, 182 F.2d 782.

In prosecution for causing stolen goods to be transported in interstate commerce and of a conspiracy to cause such transportation testimony as to theft of the goods was properly admitted against defendant who had not participated in the original theft since it was necessary to show that the goods were stolen in order to connect such defendant with the substantive offense as well as with the conspiracy. U.S. v. Tannuzzo, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1949, 174 F.2d 177, certiorari denied 70 S.Ct. 38, 338 U.S. 815, 94 L.Ed. 493, rehearing denied 70 S.Ct. 233, 338 U.S. 896, 94 L.Ed. 551.

In prosecution charging transportation in interstate commerce of stolen goods and conspiracy to transport stolen goods in interstate commerce, where value of property transported was measured by its fair market value and was not governed by maximum price regulation, trial court did not err in admitting evidence of sales of the property for purpose of establishing its value. Reynolds v. U.S., C.C.A.5 (Ala.) 1945, 152 F.2d 586, certiorari denied 66 S.Ct. 959, 327 U.S. 803, 90 L.Ed. 1028.

In prosecution for conspiracy to transport stolen property in interstate commerce, evidence concerning the finding of pistols, ammunition, a black jack and mask in automobile and apartment of one of the defendants at the time of his arrest was admissible. Banning v. U.S., C.C.A.6 (Mich.) 1942, 130 F.2d 330, certiorari denied 63 S.Ct. 434, 317 U.S. 695, 87 L.Ed. 556.

In prosecution for conspiracy to transport stolen jewelry in interstate commerce, where it was proved that jewelry had been stolen and transported in interstate commerce, evidence of defendants' association with other persons engaged in committing such offenses was admissible as tending to show the conspiracy and the means, preparation and disposition to commit the offense charged, particularly where defendants denied participation in the offense. Banning v. U.S., C.C.A.6 (Mich.) 1942, 130 F.2d 330, certiorari denied 63 S.Ct. 434, 317 U.S. 695, 87 L.Ed. 556.

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

That testimony of codefendant, who pleaded guilty to charge of conspiracy to transport stolen jewelry in interstate commerce, that he and codefendants participated in another jewel robbery was uncorroborated, did not render such testimony inadmissible in the prosecution for conspiracy. Banning v. U.S., C.C.A.6 (Mich.) 1942, 130 F.2d 330, certiorari denied 63 S.Ct. 434, 317 U.S. 695, 87 L.Ed. 556.

In prosecution for conspiracy to transport stolen jewelry in interstate commerce, evidence that one with whom defendants traveled by automobile from Chicago to Nashville, some time after robbery and while conspiracy was in full operation, was subsequently convicted of prior armed jewelry robbery had some probative value in rebutting defendants' statements that trip with him was in a peaceful pursuit. Banning v. U.S., C.C.A.6 (Mich.) 1942, 130 F.2d 330, certiorari denied 63 S.Ct. 434, 317 U.S. 695, 87 L.Ed. 556.

Where defendants testified in their own behalf in prosecution for conspiracy to transport stolen jewelry in interstate commerce, rebuttal evidence that one of defendants while conspiracy was in full operation had tried to bribe police officer to falsify record so as to indicate that he had been arrested in Calumet Park, Illinois, more than a year prior thereto in connection with a jewel robbery in Omaha, Nebraska, was admissible as showing plan to avoid detection and punishment. Banning v. U.S., C.C.A.6 (Mich.) 1942, 130 F.2d 330, certiorari denied 63 S.Ct. 434, 317 U.S. 695, 87 L.Ed. 556.

In prosecution of garage operator, salesman, and another for conspiracy to receive, dispose of, and transport stolen merchandise in interstate commerce, where evidence of the guilt of operator and salesman was overwhelming, evidence that after garage operator dropped out as a go-between for shipping clerk of manufacturer and salesman, clerk dealt directly with salesman was not prejudicial either to operator or salesman though indictment charged but a single conspiracy. Andrews v. U.S., C.C.A.4 (W.Va.) 1939, 108 F.2d 511.

688. --- Motor vehicles, stolen property, admissibility of evidence

Evidence that police officers were disarmed by defendant and that one defendant thereafter departed in stolen police car was admissible in defendants' trial for two violations of the Dyer Act, section 2312 of this title, and conspiracy to violate the Dyer Act as it formed necessary link in chain of events between defendants' first interstate transportation of stolen automobile and interstate transportation of second stolen automobile which defendants took after leaving the police car. U. S. v. Miller, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1974, 508 F.2d 444.

Government witness' testimony to effect that defendant, who was charged with conspiring to transport in interstate commerce a stolen automobile, had stated that he had arranged for delivery of stolen automobiles in specified places and had explained stolen automobile licensing system used upon automobile described in indictment was admissible as relevant to offense charged, although it incidentally disclosed evidence of other crimes, and was also admissible to show intent. Evenson v. U. S., C.A.8 (Mo.) 1963, 316 F.2d 94.

Conspiracy may be proved not only by evidence as to what conspirators expressly planned, but also by what they did in concert with each other in violating law, and evidence that, prior to theft of automobile accused in company with another had obtained false registration in state other than that in which automobile was stolen was admissible in prosecution for conspiracy to violate Motor Vehicle Theft Act, § 2312 of this title, in transportation of stolen automobile in interstate commerce. Koury v. U.S., C.A.6 (Mich.) 1954, 217 F.2d 387.

Evidence that accused, under assumed name, claimed letter containing payment for stolen automobile sold in another state was admissible, in prosecution for conspiracy to violate Motor Vehicle Theft Act, § 2312 of this title, in transportation of stolen automobile in interstate commerce, over objection that conspiracy ended when automobile was sold. Koury v. U.S., C.A.6 (Mich.) 1954, 217 F.2d 387.

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In prosecution for conspiracy to transport stolen motor vehicles in interstate commerce, and for knowingly aiding and abetting in sale of such automobiles, testimony of coconspirator as to declarations made by second coconspirator in telephone conversation with defendant were supported by sufficient circumstantial evidence to justify submission to jury of issue of defendant's identification as recipient of declarations, and were admissible as declarations of coconspirator. U.S. v. Bucur, C.A.7 (Ind.) 1952, 194 F.2d 297.

In prosecution of garage operator, salesman, and another for conspiracy to receive, dispose of, and transport stolen merchandise in interstate commerce, where evidence justified inference that operator and salesman were parties to conspiracy charged, acts and conduct of each in furtherance of the conspiracy could be considered against both of them. Andrews v. U.S., C.C.A.4 (W.Va.) 1939, 108 F.2d 511.

In prosecution for conspiracy to conceal and to receive automobile transported in interstate commerce, testimony as to the relations between defendant, who had purchased the car and one who had been active in inducing sale thereof to such defendant, was admissible. Baugh v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Idaho) 1928, 27 F.2d 257, certiorari denied 49 S.Ct. 34, 278 U.S. 639, 73 L.Ed. 554.

Testimony as to other stolen cars than those named in indictment for conspiracy to violate National Motor Vehicle Theft Act, former § 408 of this title, was material on issue of existence of conspiracy, intent, and general course of dealing. Linde v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (S.D.) 1926, 13 F.2d 59.

689. Tax offenses, admissibility of evidence--Generally

Examination of record in prosecution for conspiracy, obtaining property by false pretenses, and forgery showed that information obtained by Internal Revenue agents, who were conducting valid civil tax audits of the principals, prior to those persons being advised of the rights of criminal suspects was obtained properly with respect to the defendants who were persons well versed in finance, taxation and the law. U. S. v. Stamp, C.A.D.C.1971, 458 F.2d 759, 147 U.S.App.D.C. 340, certiorari denied 92 S.Ct. 2424, 406 U.S. 975, 32 L.Ed.2d 675, rehearing denied 93 S.Ct. 188, 409 U.S. 900, 34 L.Ed.2d 160, certiorari denied 93 S.Ct. 104, 409 U.S. 842, 34 L.Ed.2d 81.

In prosecution for engaging in business of accepting wagers as copartners and attempting to evade part of excise on wagers, defendants' privilege against self-incrimination was not violated by admission of testimony that only one defendant filed excise tax returns but such evidence was relevant and material. U.S. v. Shaffer, C.A.7 (Ind.) 1961, 291 F.2d 689, certiorari denied 82 S.Ct. 192, 368 U.S. 915, 7 L.Ed.2d 130, rehearing denied 82 S.Ct. 392, 368 U.S. 962, 7 L.Ed.2d 393, certiorari denied 82 S.Ct. 193, 368 U.S. 914, 7 L.Ed.2d 130.

In prosecution for engaging in business of accepting wagers as copartners and conspiring to attempt to evade large part of excise tax due on wagers, reception of evidence concerning previous partnership relationship of a defendant in club operation and special returns and applications for registry-wagering filed by him was not erroneous where evidence was limited to such defendant and such evidence was admissible to show his knowledge of requirement of § 4412 of Title 26. U.S. v. Shaffer, C.A.7 (Ind.) 1961, 291 F.2d 689, certiorari denied 82 S.Ct. 192, 368 U.S. 915, 7 L.Ed.2d 130, rehearing denied 82 S.Ct. 392, 368 U.S. 962, 7 L.Ed.2d 393, certiorari denied 82 S.Ct. 193, 368 U.S. 914, 7 L.Ed.2d 130.

In prosecution for conspiring to defraud United States of proper administration of internal revenue laws and regulations, document taken from account books of co-conspirator showing disbursement of certain funds and earmarking of remaining funds for purpose of carrying out conspiracy, was admissible against defendants. Connelly v. U.S., C.A.8 (Mo.) 1957, 249 F.2d 576, certiorari denied 78 S.Ct. 700, 356 U.S. 921, 2 L.Ed.2d 716, rehearing denied 78 S.Ct. 991, 356 U.S. 964, 2 L.Ed.2d 1072, certiorari denied 78 S.Ct. 701, 356 U.S. 921, 2

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

L.Ed.2d 716.

In prosecution of employee of the Bureau of Internal Revenue for conspiracy to defraud the United States through a tax fixing ring, testimony, which tended to support allegation that a continuing agreement to conceal was part of the single integrated conspiracy entered into by the employee and his coconspirators, was properly admitted. U.S. v. Grunewald, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1956, 233 F.2d 556, certiorari granted 77 S.Ct. 91, 352 U.S. 866, 1 L.Ed.2d 74, reversed 77 S.Ct. 963, 353 U.S. 391, 1 L.Ed.2d 931.

In prosecution of internal revenue agents for conspiracy to defraud the United States, court did not err in admitting testimony of the bribing of first revenue agent, because indictment did not specifically charge that second agent conspired to corrupt first revenue agent, since second revenue agent, as a member of single, comprehensive conspiracy, was responsible for the acts of his co-conspirators. U.S. v. Witt, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1954, 215 F.2d 580, certiorari denied 75 S.Ct. 207, 348 U.S. 887, 99 L.Ed. 697.

In prosecution of internal revenue agents for conspiracy to defraud the United States, evidence concerning an incident in which internal revenue agents and accountant allegedly fixed government claim based on defective income tax return was properly admissible to show the way the conspiracy came into being and its modus operandi when it operated, though such incident occurred before the earliest date named in the indictment as to the existence of the conspiracy. U.S. v. Witt, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1954, 215 F.2d 580, certiorari denied 75 S.Ct. 207, 348 U.S. 887, 99 L.Ed. 697.

In prosecution of internal revenue agents for conspiracy to defraud the United States, evidence concerning incident when revenue agents and others allegedly fixed government claim based on defective income tax return was admissible to show the nature of the conspiracy in existence when revenue agents joined it, though incident occurred without their knowledge and before time when they became conspirators. U.S. v. Witt, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1954, 215 F.2d 580, certiorari denied 75 S.Ct. 207, 348 U.S. 887, 99 L.Ed. 697.

690. ---- Income tax, tax offenses, admissibility of evidence

Defendant's and co-defendant's testimony, as to their good faith belief that they were pursuing the proper procedure to attempt to change federal income tax laws by instructing taxpayers that anyone could claim to be a "nonresident alien" to escape income tax liability, was not relevant to the issue of defendant's wilfulness, in prosecution for conspiracy to defraud the United States by assisting in the preparation of false tax returns, and aiding and assisting in the preparation of false federal tax returns, where defendant admitted that he knew that his view of the tax laws had been repeatedly rejected. U.S. v. Ambort, C.A.10 (Utah) 2005, 405 F.3d 1109. Conspiracy ↻ 45; Internal Revenue ↻ 5294

Defendant's income tax returns were admissible on charge of conspiracy to defraud the United States in the collection of income taxes. U.S. v. Ayers, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1991, 924 F.2d 1468, rehearing denied.

In prosecution of manager of cooperative and independent auditor of cooperative for conspiring to defraud United States by impairing or impeding Internal Revenue Service in collection of corporate income taxes from cooperative and for willfully subscribing to false and fraudulent cooperative income tax returns, manager's personal income tax returns were admissible where his personal finances were so intertwined with those of cooperative that entries on his returns became relevant on issue of defendants' intent to impair or impede Internal Revenue Service collection of taxes from cooperative. U. S. v. White, C.A.8 (Ark.) 1982, 671 F.2d 1126.

In prosecution for conspiracy to impair collection of income taxes, trial judge did not err by not admitting certain evidence offered by defendant, since evidence that defendant engaged in certain legal trades was irrelevant as to whether he knew that trades in question were illegal. U. S. v. Winograd, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1981, 656 F.2d 279, certiorari denied 102 S.Ct. 1612, 455 U.S. 989, 71 L.Ed.2d 848.

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Duplicate copy of a blank piece of corporate stationery that had been given to undercover agents, which stationery bore letterhead of corporation that had been created for purpose of "laundering" proceeds of drug sales, was properly admitted in conspiracy prosecution over objection that question was raised as to authenticity of duplicate since duplicate was properly identified as a copy of the original and question as to authenticity was spurious, in that defendant attacked its admission not because the copy was inauthentic, but rather because there was no explanation for disappearance of the original and because the copy did not show the original's colorings. U. S. v. Enstam, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1980, 622 F.2d 857, certiorari denied 101 S.Ct. 1351, 450 U.S. 912, 67 L.Ed.2d 336, certiorari denied 101 S.Ct. 1974, 451 U.S. 907, 68 L.Ed.2d 294.

In prosecution against corporation and others for conspiracy to evade income tax, statements of corporation's president as coconspirator that certain checks were paid to fictitious individuals were properly admitted against corporation, and codefendant could not complain of such admission where such statements were not used against him, and court admonished jury that statements applied only to corporation. U.S. v. Knox Coal Co., C.A.3 (Pa.) 1965, 347 F.2d 33, certiorari denied 86 S.Ct. 239, 382 U.S. 904, 15 L.Ed.2d 157.

In prosecution for conspiring to willfully attempt to evade federal taxes due from corporation for fiscal year ended March 31, 1953, by omitting income obtained by defrauding municipality in respect to cigarette tax, and for commission of certain overt acts to effect object of conspiracy, proof of use of counterfeit cigarette tax stamp die was admissible, notwithstanding fact that discovery of counterfeit was not made until after end of tax year in question. Giardano v. U.S., C.A.8 (Mo.) 1958, 251 F.2d 109, certiorari denied 78 S.Ct. 1136, 356 U.S. 973, 2 L.Ed.2d 1147, rehearing denied 78 S.Ct. 1382, 357 U.S. 944, 2 L.Ed.2d 1558.

In prosecution for conspiracy to willfully attempt to evade payment of income taxes, evidence of occurrences prior to six-year period of limitations was properly admitted in proof of existence of criminal conspiracy within period of limitations. Maxfield v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Nev.) 1945, 152 F.2d 593, certiorari denied 66 S.Ct. 821, 327 U.S. 794, 90 L.Ed. 1021.

In prosecution for conspiracies and attempts to defraud income tax, fact that accused's wife was kept off stand did not, as contended, make it unfair to admit her checks and deposit slips. U.S. v. Wexler, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1935, 79 F.2d 526, certiorari denied 56 S.Ct. 384, 297 U.S. 703, 80 L.Ed. 991.

In prosecution for conspiracies and attempts to defraud income tax, where government contended that accused derived large profits from sales of illicit beer from brewery which accused took over after deaths of two of former owners, and accused testified that he was merely acting for two others who were real successors of former owners, evidence as to deaths of such alleged successors as well as deaths of former owners was relevant and admissible. U.S. v. Wexler, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1935, 79 F.2d 526, certiorari denied 56 S.Ct. 384, 297 U.S. 703, 80 L.Ed. 991.

Testimony as to contents of defendant's books and records and photostatic copies of pages thereof was admissible as best evidence lawfully obtainable. Lisansky v. U.S., C.C.A.4 (Md.) 1929, 31 F.2d 846, certiorari denied 49 S.Ct. 514, 279 U.S. 873, 73 L.Ed. 1008.

Testimony as to defendant's income tax returns for 1924 was admissible in trial for conspiracy to defraud government by making false returns for 1923. Lisansky v. U.S., C.C.A.4 (Md.) 1929, 31 F.2d 846, certiorari denied 49 S.Ct. 514, 279 U.S. 873, 73 L.Ed. 1008.

691. ---- Distilled spirits, tax offenses, admissibility of evidence

Where testimony related activities which were not in and of themselves proof of charged conspiracy to violate statutory provisions relating to manufacture, sale, possession, transportation, and distribution of untax-paid whiskey, but evidence of such activities was material and relevant to showing of general plan and method of entire criminal enterprise, testimony was admissible. Roberson v. U.S., C.A.6 (Tenn.) 1960, 282 F.2d 648, certiorari denied 81 S.Ct. 167, 364 U.S. 879, 5 L.Ed.2d 102.

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate statutory provisions relating to manufacture, sale, possession, transportation, and distribution of untax-paid whiskey, wherein address book containing notation "GA Boy 5-3004" was shown to be relevant, and one of defendants was shown to have telephone number 5-3004 and to be known as "Georgia Boy", book was admissible. Roberson v. U.S., C.A.6 (Tenn.) 1960, 282 F.2d 648, certiorari denied 81 S.Ct. 167, 364 U.S. 879, 5 L.Ed.2d 102.

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate federal statutes by dealing in untaxed liquor, authenticated copy of witness' original list of automobile license numbers belonging to vehicles observed to be around a garage was properly admitted as a record of past recollection, where witness testified that he correctly recorded the numbers on original list and that he could no longer refresh his memory by the list. Papalia v. U.S., C.A.5 (Fla.) 1957, 243 F.2d 437.

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate federal statutes by dealing in untaxed liquor, there was no error in admitting authenticated copy of original list of automobile license numbers observed by witness to be coming to and from garage, where it had been established that the original list was unavailable. Papalia v. U.S., C.A.5 (Fla.) 1957, 243 F.2d 437.

Evidence that defendant in March of 1951 visited a store dealing in oil burners and that he inquired whether a certain oil burner would operate a still was admissible to show defendant's interest in setting up still in a prosecution for conspiracy to operate illegal still which was discovered on July 16, 1951, even though there was no evidence that defendant bought oil burner, or that oil burner about which he inquired, or one like it, was found near the still. Tenore v. U. S., C.A.1 (N.H.) 1953, 207 F.2d 565.

In prosecution for conspiracy to operate illegal still which was discovered on July 16, 1951, evidence that defendant had purchased hand operated pump on July 2, 1951 and that a carton in which a pump of the same kind was packaged was found on the premises where alcohol from still was stored, was admissible even though no pump was found. Tenore v. U. S., C.A.1 (N.H.) 1953, 207 F.2d 565.

In prosecution for conspiring to operate distillery, to manufacture distilled spirits without giving bond, and to transport distilled spirits in nontax-paid containers, invoices, which were found in coat of one defendant on farm on which still was located and which contained items which could be used in connection with operation of still, and paper, which was found in vest belonging to such defendant and which contained name of person indicated as co-defendant, were admissible as part of items discovered on premises containing still. United States v. Giallo, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1953, 206 F.2d 207, certiorari granted 74 S.Ct. 129, 346 U.S. 871, 98 L.Ed. 380, affirmed 74 S.Ct. 319, 346 U.S. 929, 98 L.Ed. 421.

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate §§ 2803, 2833, 3253, 3321 of Title 26 by aiding in transportation by truck of tax-unpaid liquor with intent to defraud the United States, refusal to admit written statement made by truck driver at time accused desired to introduce such statement in evidence was not reversible error where court indicated that accused's counsel could renew the application but counsel failed to take advantage of opportunity. Orloff v. U.S., C.C.A.6 (Mich.) 1946, 153 F.2d 292.

Evidence establishing the existence of a conspiracy between two or more persons with reference to a still and its illicit operation was sufficient proof of the existence of the corpus delicti to service as a predicate for the receipt in evidence of the admissions by defendant. U.S. v. Di Orio, C.C.A.3 (N.J.) 1945, 150 F.2d 938, certiorari denied 66 S.Ct. 175, 326 U.S. 771, 90 L.Ed. 465.

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate revenue laws concerning distilled spirits, based on circumstantial evidence, evidence of seizure of truck carrying liquor, which defendant had driven several times before, was admissible though driver escaped at time of seizure and was not identified. Hall v. U.S., C.C.A.5 (Ga.) 1945, 150 F.2d 281, certiorari denied 66 S.Ct. 53, 326 U.S. 741, 90 L.Ed. 442.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Evidence that automobile supposedly driven by defendant interfered with chase of a liquor truck, occupied by man who frequently hauled liquors from distilleries which defendant allegedly conspired to maintain, was not inadmissible because not clearly connected with the distilleries or conspiracy charged. Hall v. U.S., C.C.A.5 (Ga.) 1945, 150 F.2d 280, certiorari denied 66 S.Ct. 140, 326 U.S. 760, 90 L.Ed. 457.

In prosecution for possessing and operating an illegal still and for conspiracy to commit the same offense, where there was evidence that the still was being used to make liquor out of prune juice, admitting in evidence a paper, found in the pocket of one of defendants at the time of his arrest, which bore the telephone number of a prune pitter, was not error. United States v. Heitner, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1945, 149 F.2d 105, certiorari denied 66 S.Ct. 33, 326 U.S. 727, 90 L.Ed. 432, rehearing denied 66 S.Ct. 164, 326 U.S. 809, 90 L.Ed. 494.

An officer who stepped through the door of defendant's barn, which was approachable from an open parking lot used by the public, and counted empty liquor cans and packages of distiller's materials, but seized nothing, did not make an "unlawful search and seizure" though he had no warrant, and he could testify as to what he saw. Burt v. U.S., C.C.A.5 (Ala.) 1943, 139 F.2d 73, certiorari denied 64 S.Ct. 936, 321 U.S. 799, 88 L.Ed. 1087.

Where one defendant was tried separately in prosecution for conspiracy to violate internal revenue laws relating to intoxicating liquors and for removing and concealing tax-unpaid liquors, evidence that one of the other defendants had been acquitted of the conspiracy charge was properly rejected in the separate trial, and court properly refused requested charges which assumed such other defendant's acquittal. Burt v. U.S., C.C.A.5 (Ala.) 1943, 139 F.2d 73, certiorari denied 64 S.Ct. 936, 321 U.S. 799, 88 L.Ed. 1087.

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate internal revenue laws relating to liquors, acts and sayings of alleged coconspirators were admissible under proper instructions as to their use. Burt v. U.S., C.C.A.5 (Ala.) 1943, 139 F.2d 73, certiorari denied 64 S.Ct. 936, 321 U.S. 799, 88 L.Ed. 1087.

In prosecution for conspiring to defraud government of taxes on distilled spirits, where still had been seized and some of conspirators arrested, merchant's testimony that a conspirator had paid for sugar after still had been seized and had admonished merchant to say nothing if he came to court was admissible generally, since conspiracy had not ended. U.S. v. Goldstein, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1943, 135 F.2d 359.

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate internal revenue laws relating to stills and intoxicating liquors, evidence of defendant's previous connection with business could be considered even though, because of passage of time or of previous prosecution, it could not be used as basis of prosecution of a substantive crime, since it afforded a background against which to consider the evidence of later acts as bearing on defendant's asserted severance of all connection with the conspirators. U.S. v. Valenti, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1943, 134 F.2d 362, certiorari denied 63 S.Ct. 1317, 319 U.S. 761, 87 L.Ed. 1712, rehearing denied 64 S.Ct. 29, 320 U.S. 809, 88 L.Ed. 489.

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate the internal revenue laws relating to stills and intoxicating liquors, where internal revenue agent, a witness for government, was being cross-examined by codefendant's counsel regarding raid involving appealing defendant's son and brother, and upon persistent urging to state all of the conversation witness had on that occasion, witness testified that he stated he would give $1,000 to have their father where they were, and that he did not get any fun out of arresting 19-year-old boys, there was no error prejudicial to appealing defendant. U.S. v. Valenti, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1943, 134 F.2d 362, certiorari denied 63 S.Ct. 1317, 319 U.S. 761, 87 L.Ed. 1712, rehearing denied 64 S.Ct. 29, 320 U.S. 809, 88 L.Ed. 489.

Where indictment charged removals of alcohol on which no tax had been paid, and charged conspiracy to commit the substantive offenses, testimony regarding act of defendants involving the removals of alcohol not charged in the indictment was admissible. U. S. v. Tuffanelli, C.C.A.7 (Ill.) 1942, 131 F.2d 890, certiorari denied 63 S.Ct. 769,

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

318 U.S. 772, 87 L.Ed. 1142.

In prosecution for engaging in illegal liquor operations and for conspiring to violate §§ 2803, 2810, 2833, and 2834 of Title 26, it was not error to admit in evidence as against two defendants statement made to officers by codefendant, as to whom a mistrial and severance was granted, on ground that statement was made when those defendants were not present, where codefendant was one of the principal actors in the illegal undertaking and his statement was relevant to what was going on. Miller v. U.S., C.C.A.5 (Fla.) 1942, 126 F.2d 771, certiorari denied 62 S.Ct. 1289, 316 U.S. 695, 86 L.Ed. 1765, certiorari denied 62 S.Ct. 1290, 316 U.S. 695, 86 L.Ed. 1765.

In prosecution for violating and conspiring to violate, internal revenue laws relating to stills, testimony that a witness rented house where he intended to install a still, which was not connected with any of the charges in the indictment, was inadmissible. U.S. v. Maggio, C.C.A.3 (N.J.) 1942, 126 F.2d 155, certiorari denied 62 S.Ct. 1275, 316 U.S. 686, 86 L.Ed. 1758.

In prosecution for violating and conspiring to violate internal revenue laws relating to stills, wherein proof established that an accused lived at a certain address and was acquainted with others allegedly involved in the still enterprise, evidence that two of the others allegedly involved made telephone call to the accused's address on certain date was admissible, as against contention that there was no showing made that accused was on the receiving end of the conversation. U.S. v. Maggio, C.C.A.3 (N.J.) 1942, 126 F.2d 155, certiorari denied 62 S.Ct. 1275, 316 U.S. 686, 86 L.Ed. 1758.

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate internal revenue laws, testimony of government agents that accused who were not apprehended until after raid which disclosed equipment for operation of still, were seen together after the raid was admissible where government witness at the time accused were seen together after the raid first identified them as being the same men whom witness previously had seen at the premises where the raid was conducted. U. S. v. Hannon, C.C.A.3 (Pa.) 1939, 105 F.2d 390, certiorari denied 60 S.Ct. 124, 308 U.S. 594, 84 L.Ed. 497, certiorari denied 60 S.Ct. 125, 308 U.S. 594, 84 L.Ed. 497, certiorari denied 60 S.Ct. 125, 308 U.S. 594, 84 L.Ed. 498.

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate internal revenue laws, a slip of paper containing list of telephone numbers, found five days after the raid in portion of raided premises where still was found, the building having been padlocked in the interim, was admissible as "res gestae." U. S. v. Hannon, C.C.A.3 (Pa.) 1939, 105 F.2d 390, certiorari denied 60 S.Ct. 124, 308 U.S. 594, 84 L.Ed. 497, certiorari denied 60 S.Ct. 125, 308 U.S. 594, 84 L.Ed. 497, certiorari denied 60 S.Ct. 125, 308 U.S. 594, 84 L.Ed. 498.

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate internal revenue laws wherein an accused answered in the negative a question relating to whether an accused at time of his arrest stated "Who squawked?" admission of evidence of arresting officers that such accused made the statement was not prejudicial to other accused since the remark implicated only the accused who made it. U. S. v. Hannon, C.C.A.3 (Pa.) 1939, 105 F.2d 390, certiorari denied 60 S.Ct. 124, 308 U.S. 594, 84 L.Ed. 497, certiorari denied 60 S.Ct. 125, 308 U.S. 594, 84 L.Ed. 497, certiorari denied 60 S.Ct. 125, 308 U.S. 594, 84 L.Ed. 498.

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate internal revenue laws, wherein testimony of government agents that accused who were not apprehended until after raid which disclosed equipment for operation of still, were seen together on a certain occasion after the raid was admissible, admission of testimony that such accused were likewise seen together on other occasions following the raid was not prejudicial. U. S. v. Hannon, C.C.A.3 (Pa.) 1939, 105 F.2d 390, certiorari denied 60 S.Ct. 124, 308 U.S. 594, 84 L.Ed. 497, certiorari denied 60 S.Ct. 125, 308 U.S. 594, 84 L.Ed. 497, certiorari denied 60 S.Ct. 125, 308 U.S. 594, 84 L.Ed. 498.

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate internal revenue laws, and for doing acts in pursuance thereof, evidence that before an accused, who was justice of the peace, was appointed to that office, his neighborhood was overrun with lawlessness and that the accused decreased law violations in his district and was consequently unpopular with his neighbors whom he prosecuted was inadmissible. Walker v. U.S., C.C.A.4 (W.Va.) 1939, 104 F.2d 465.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate internal revenue laws and for doing acts in pursuance of conspiracy, evidence of acts of violence and maltreatment committed by an accused who was a justice of the peace in the arrest and confinement of persons charged with violations of law was inadmissible as irrelevant. Walker v. U.S., C.C.A.4 (W.Va.) 1939, 104 F.2d 465.

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate internal revenue laws, and for doing acts in pursuance thereof, evidence relating to use of intoxicating liquors by an accused was admissible in so far as tending to show that accused or other conspirators were obtaining illicit liquor from liquor dealers who were violating the law with knowledge of accused and were using such liquor. Walker v. U.S., C.C.A.4 (W.Va.) 1939, 104 F.2d 465.

In trial for conspiracy to evade liquor taxes, testimony of former government inspector as to calculation of such production of beer at brewery operated by defendant from materials reported to government showing discrepancy too great to be accounted for by any margin of error was relevant. Miller v. U. S., C.C.A.3 (Pa.) 1939, 104 F.2d 97.

692. Travel and transportation, admissibility of evidence

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate the Mann Act, § 2422 of this title, testimony that in presence of witness and in her hearing in codefendant's apartment, a "person to person" call was made by codefendant to defendant and that as a result of conversation, arrangements were made for witness to travel to another point and there serve as a prostitute in defendant's hotel and that she made trip and did so serve was admissible. U. S. v. Frank, C.A.3 (Pa.) 1961, 290 F.2d 195, certiorari denied 82 S.Ct. 38, 368 U.S. 821, 7 L.Ed.2d 26.

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate White Slave Traffic Act, § 2422 of this title, testimony that after the transportation involved in prosecution, coconspirator told witness to be careful what she said and that it would be better for them to take the blame than the defendant, was not inadmissible on ground that the conspiracy ended with the transportation, since conspiracy continued for purposes of concealment and statements made were part of attempt to carry out concealment. U.S. v. Krulewitch, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1948, 167 F.2d 943, certiorari granted 69 S.Ct. 43, 335 U.S. 811, 93 L.Ed. 367, reversed 69 S.Ct. 716, 336 U.S. 440, 93 L.Ed. 790.

In prosecution for transporting in interstate commerce girls for immoral purposes, and for conspiring to commit such offense, testimony that during investigation of case the girls, an investigator, an assistant state prosecutor and father of one of girls located and identified cabin in which the girls stated that they and defendants had once tarried illicitly was hearsay and incompetent. Ellis v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Mo.) 1943, 138 F.2d 612.

In prosecution for transporting in interstate commerce girl for immoral purposes and for conspiring to commit such offense, evidence disclosing defendant's relations with such girl and other girls, even though they were intrastate transactions, was properly received on element of intent. Ellis v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Mo.) 1943, 138 F.2d 612.

693. Wire communication offenses, admissibility of evidence

In prosecution for conspiring to violate the wire and travel fraud statutes, and substantive violations thereof, arising from corporation's alleged bribery of city officials to secure a sludge-hauling contract, evidence of defendant businessman's political associations was properly introduced via the testimony of that defendant's brother, as the door to such testimony was opened by defendant himself, who portrayed political associations, which he sufficiently indicated he did not have, as a unique requirement for accomplishing that with which he was charged. U. S. v. McPartlin, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1979, 595 F.2d 1321, certiorari denied 100 S.Ct. 65, 444 U.S. 833, 62 L.Ed.2d 43.

In prosecution of four defendants for conspiring to wilfully and maliciously injure and destroy means of communication controlled or operated by United States, evidence that facilities included in the defendants' plans were destroyed by dynamite near Jackson, Miss., two days after two defendants had been arrested in Chicago was relevant as additional proof of the conspiracy inasmuch as two defendants were still at large at that time. Abbate v. U.S., C.A.5 (Miss.) 1957, 247 F.2d 410, certiorari granted 78 S.Ct. 330, 355 U.S. 902, 2 L.Ed.2d 258, affirmed 79 S.Ct. 666, 359 U.S. 187, 3 L.Ed.2d 729.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In prosecution of four defendants for conspiring to wilfully or maliciously injure or destroy means of communication operated or controlled by the United States, statements made by two defendants after they undertook to withdraw from conspiracy and after they had already committed overt acts were admissible against those two defendants, and their subsequent withdrawal could be considered only in the fixing of their punishment. Abbate v. U.S., C.A.5 (Miss.) 1957, 247 F.2d 410, certiorari granted 78 S.Ct. 330, 355 U.S. 902, 2 L.Ed.2d 258, affirmed 79 S.Ct. 666, 359 U.S. 187, 3 L.Ed.2d 729.

In prosecution of four defendants for conspiring to wilfully or maliciously injure or destroy means of communication operated or controlled by the United States, statements made by two of defendants after their withdrawal from conspiracy were not admissible in evidence against remaining two defendants, and such error was not cured by trial court's mild admonition that statements could be considered only against those defendants who had made them. Abbate v. U.S., C.A.5 (Miss.) 1957, 247 F.2d 410, certiorari granted 78 S.Ct. 330, 355 U.S. 902, 2 L.Ed.2d 258, affirmed 79 S.Ct. 666, 359 U.S. 187, 3 L.Ed.2d 729.

Probative value of evidence that defendant, who was charged with conspiracy to commit wire fraud in connection with "black money" scheme, had previously pleaded guilty to charge involving participation in virtually identical scheme was not substantially outweighed by potential for unfair prejudice, particularly in light of limiting instructions given by district court. U.S. v. Ezech, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 2003, 64 Fed.Appx. 275, 2003 WL 1970445, Unreported. Criminal Law ¶ 369.2(3.1)

XI. SUFFICIENCY OF EVIDENCE

<Subdivision Index>

Advocating overthrow of Government 723
Agricultural offenses 724
Alien enemies and enemy property 725
Alteration of obligations of United States, defrauding United States 736
Arson 726
Banking offenses 727
Bankruptcy offenses 728
Bribery 729
Condemnation 730
Copyright offenses 731
Counterfeiting 732
Currency offenses 733
Customs offenses 734
Defrauding United States 735-739
 Defrauding United States - Generally 735
 Defrauding United States - Alteration of obligations of United States 736
 Defrauding United States - False and fraudulent claims 737
 Defrauding United States - Loans 738
 Defrauding United States - Tax avoidance 739
Distilled spirits, tax offenses 780

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Election offenses 740

Embezzlement 741

Escape 742

Espionage 743

False and fraudulent claims, defrauding United States 737

False personation 744

Firearms 745

Foreign agent registration 746

Forgery 747

Gold offenses 748

Grand jury offenses 749

Hijacking 750

Immigration offenses 751

Income tax, tax offenses 779

Informers 722

Insurance fraud, postal offenses 768

Interstate commerce offenses 752

Jury offenses 753

Kickbacks 754

Kidnapping 755

Labor offenses 756

Larceny 757

Liquor offenses 758

Loans 759

Loans, defrauding United States 738

Lottery offenses 760

Mail fraud, postal offenses 767

Miscellaneous offenses 785

Money laundering 761

Motor vehicles, stolen property 777

Murder 762

Narcotics offenses 763

Obstruction of justice 764

Occupational tax, tax offenses 781

Perjury 765

Postal offenses 766-768

Postal offenses - Generally 766

Postal offenses - Insurance fraud 768

Postal offenses - Mail fraud 767

Price control offenses 769

Racketeering 770

Rationing offenses 771

Securities offenses 772

Sedition 773

Shipping offenses 774

Smuggling 775

Stolen property 776, 777

Stolen property - Generally 776

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Stolen property - Motor vehicles 777
Tampering with vessels 782
Tax avoidance, defrauding United States 739
Tax offenses 778-781
 Tax offenses - Generally 778
 Tax offenses - Distilled spirits 780
 Tax offenses - Income tax 779
 Tax offenses - Occupational tax 781
Testimony of coconspirators 721
Travel and transportation 783
Wire communication offenses 784

721. Testimony of coconspirators, sufficiency of evidence

Testimony of an accomplice is sufficient to sustain conspiracy conviction unless it is incredible or insubstantial on its face. U. S. v. Watson, C.A.8 (Ark.) 1982, 677 F.2d 689.

722. Informers, sufficiency of evidence

Evidence was sufficient to sustain conspiracy conviction, even though an informer acted as a conduit between certain defendants. Sigers v. U. S., C.A.5 (Fla.) 1963, 321 F.2d 843. Conspiracy ↪ 47(1)

723. Advocating overthrow of Government, sufficiency of evidence

In prosecution for conspiring to advocate and teach violent overthrow of government, evidence of membership or holding of office in Communist Party was insufficient to establish conspiracy to advocate forcible action and was too meager to justify putting defendants to a new trial upon reversal of their conviction. Yates v. U. S., U.S.Cal.1957, 77 S.Ct. 1064, 354 U.S. 298, 1 L.Ed.2d 1356. Conspiracy ↪ 47(3.1); Criminal Law ↪ 1189

Where there was some evidence that the defendants subscribed to and approved teaching of revolutionary doctrine of "Marxism-Leninism" around which much of the case for the prosecution for violation of Smith Act, § 2385 of this title, had been built, but it had not been indicated that such defendants had gone beyond that and had subscribed to a program of teaching such action toward violent overthrow of the government, evidence was insufficient to sustain conviction of conspiracy to violate such section. U. S. v. Kuzma, C.A.3 (Pa.) 1957, 249 F.2d 619. Conspiracy ↪ 47(3.1)

In prosecution for conspiring to teach and advocate overthrow of United States government by force and violence, evidence was sufficient to support jury finding that purpose and intent of Communist Party conspirators was actually forcible overthrow of government, rather than academic discussion of devitalized Communist principles. U. S. v. Mesarosh, C.A.3 (Pa.) 1955, 223 F.2d 449, certiorari granted 76 S.Ct. 218, 350 U.S. 922, 100 L.Ed. 807, reversed on other grounds 77 S.Ct. 1, 352 U.S. 1, 1 L.Ed.2d 1. Conspiracy ↪ 47(3.1)

In prosecution for conspiring to teach and advocate overthrow of United States government by force and violence, evidence was sufficient that each of defendants possessed illegal intent necessary for conviction. U. S. v. Mesarosh, C.A.3 (Pa.) 1955, 223 F.2d 449, certiorari granted 76 S.Ct. 218, 350 U.S. 922, 100 L.Ed. 807, reversed on other grounds 77 S.Ct. 1, 352 U.S. 1, 1 L.Ed.2d 1. Conspiracy ↪ 47(3.1)

In prosecution of alleged Communist for conspiracy from April 1, 1945, to June 20, 1951, to violate the Smith Act, § 2385 of this title, making it an offense to advocate forcible overthrow of the government, evidence sustained trial judge's finding that there was present a "clear and present danger" within meaning of rule that one has no constitutional right of free speech to advocate that which constitutes a "clear and present danger" to the government. United States v. Flynn, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1954, 216 F.2d 354, certiorari denied 75 S.Ct. 295, 348 U.S. 909, 99 L.Ed. 713, order withheld 75 S.Ct. 285, 99 L.Ed. 1298, rehearing denied 75 S.Ct. 436, 348 U.S. 956, 99 L.Ed. 747. Constitutional Law ⚡ 90.1(2)

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Evidence sustained convictions for conspiracy to advocate the overthrow of the United States government by force and to advocate insubordination in the armed forces. Dunne v. U. S., C.C.A.8 (Minn.) 1943, 138 F.2d 137, certiorari denied 64 S.Ct. 205, 320 U.S. 790, 88 L.Ed. 476, rehearing denied 64 S.Ct. 260, 320 U.S. 814, 88 L.Ed. 492, rehearing denied 64 S.Ct. 426, 320 U.S. 815, 88 L.Ed. 493. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(3.1)

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate Smith Act, § 2385 of this title, by advocating and teaching, and helping to organize as Communist Party persons teaching and advocating, overthrow of Government by force, evidence of Communist Party's nature, character, aims and objectives and activities of persons connected with such party was sufficient to take to jury question of existence of conspiracy charged. U. S. v. Schneiderman, S.D.Cal.1952, 106 F.Supp. 906. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.1(2.1)

724. Agricultural offenses, sufficiency of evidence

Evidence sustained convictions for conspiracy to defraud United States by defeating operation of Agricultural Adjustment Act, § 1281 et seq. of Title 7, and to cause fraudulent income tax returns to be filed. Gajewski v. U.S., C.A.8 (N.D.) 1963, 321 F.2d 261, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 486, 375 U.S. 968, 11 L.Ed.2d 416. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(6)

In prosecution of a cooperative marketing association made up of rice growers, and of corporations which engaged commercially in milling and sale of rice, for conspiring to sell rice to an agency of federal Government under Rice Price Support Program, which rice allegedly was not eligible for purchase thereunder, evidence did not justify conviction. U. S. v. Rice Growers Ass'n of Cal., N.D.Cal.1953, 110 F.Supp. 667. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(6)

725. Alien enemies and enemy property, sufficiency of evidence

Evidence supported conviction of conspiracy to defraud the United States, based on attempted transfer of bank account and securities of nationals of Belgium or France in violation of Ex.Ord. No. 8389, set out in note under § 95a of Title 12, "freezing" property of such nationals. United States v. Moran, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1945, 151 F.2d 661. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(6)

Evidence of conspiracy to defraud United States by allowance of claims respecting property seized by Alien Property Custodian without proper investigation was sufficient to go to jury. Miller v. U.S., C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1928, 24 F.2d 353, certiorari denied 48 S.Ct. 421, 276 U.S. 638, 72 L.Ed. 421. Conspiracy ⚡ 48

In a prosecution for conspiracy to defraud the United States and to commit an offense against the same, by failing to transmit to the Alien Property Custodian a list of stockholders and of stock in which enemy aliens had an interest, evidence warranted a finding that an enemy alien was a beneficial owner of stock standing in the name of defendant citizen, and that the latter was guilty under former § 88 of this title [now this section]. Hodgskin v. U.S., C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1922, 279 F. 85. Conspiracy ⚡ 47

726. Arson, sufficiency of evidence

Evidence supported convictions for conspiracy to damage by means of fire and explosive a building used by organization receiving federal financial assistance, attempt to damage or destroy such building, and use of destructive device during crime of violence, arising from defendant's participation in plan that culminated in coconspirator throwing Molotov cocktail on victim's back porch; one coconspirator testified that defendant became leader of group and that nobody questioned what he told them to do, another testified that defendant came up with idea to set fire to victim's porch, defendant paid that coconspirator for unsuccessful attempt to do so, defendant paid for gasoline used in second attempt on victim's house, and defendant watched coconspirator when he threw Molotov cocktail. U.S. v. Davis, C.A.4 (Va.) 1996, 98 F.3d 141, certiorari denied 117 S.Ct. 1274, 520 U.S. 1129, 137 L.Ed.2d 351, appeal from denial of post-conviction relief dismissed 13 Fed.Appx. 68, 2001 WL 640451, habeas corpus dismissed 2001 WL 1301342. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(3.1); Explosives ⚡ 5; Malicious Mischief ⚡ 9

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Evidence was sufficient to convict defendant of conspiracy to commit arson and mail fraud and aiding and abetting mail fraud; defendant was experiencing severe financial difficulties, obtained loan to pay off mortgage on home and reinstate property insurance, within nine months home was destroyed by two fires in one day, and defendant submitted insurance claims for property she had never purchased. U.S. v. Markum, C.A.10 (Okla.) 1993, 4 F.3d 891. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(3.1); Conspiracy ⚡ 47(5); Postal Service ⚡ 49(11)

There was sufficient evidence that defendant was both aware of and participant in conspiracy to burn home and share in insurance proceeds to support her conviction of that conspiracy, where defendant told investigators home was unoccupied while she and her spouse were on vacation, but telephone calls were made from her hotel room to home on night of blaze, truck was seen being loaded in front of home two weeks before vacation, home was found to contain no family mementos following blaze, defendant displayed no great concern in reaction to fire immediately upon return, and defendant was involved in transparent insurance fraud which was aim of charged conspiracy. U.S. v. Shively, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1991, 927 F.2d 804, certiorari denied 111 S.Ct. 2806, 501 U.S. 1209, 115 L.Ed.2d 979. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(3.1)

Evidence established business owner's conspiracy with manager and codefendant to commit arson; business had been in financial decline; owner's rent was increased a few months prior to fire; owner purchased insurance for first time three months before fire, was having affair with manager, had a sale at store prior to fire, and asked manager to return some goods that she held on consignment; and manager and codefendant were stopped 12 days before fire with gasoline and matches in trunk of car. U.S. v. Candoli, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1989, 870 F.2d 496. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(3.1)

Evidence that first defendant helped to instigate arson by introducing second defendant to undercover agent posing as arsonist, and by suggesting possibility that second defendant would be interested in burning his restaurant, that both defendants were "cooperating" in enterprise, hiring undercover agent on same terms and that both defendants met with undercover agent to discuss specifics of how arsons would be carried out, including how keys to their businesses would be turned over to undercover agent and when arsons would take place, was sufficient to show that defendants engaged in informed and interested cooperation, and indeed had "stake in the venture," for purpose of conspiracy conviction. U.S. v. Gabriel, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1987, 810 F.2d 627. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(3.1)

727. Banking offenses, sufficiency of evidence

Evidence was sufficient to establish that bank customer willfully entered into an agreement with bank officer to violate the bank fraud and money laundering statutes and that he and officer committed overt acts in furtherance of that conspiracy; evidence showing that customer obtained a $1.5 million increase in his line of credit with the intention of that it be used by officer for an investment in which customer had declined to participate, that loan transaction was structured in such a way that officer received no direct payments from customer, and that financial statement that customer and officer prepared did not list the loan established a pattern of concealment of the loan from customer to officer. U.S. v. Weidner, C.A.10 (Kan.) 2006, 437 F.3d 1023. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(4)

Evidence was insufficient to prove that defendant willfully joined or participated in a conspiracy, as required to support conviction for conspiracy to commit bank robbery; although defendant was found to be an occupant of the same vehicle in which bank robbery suspects were found, and jury could have inferred that defendant was present in an apartment where some of the cash and other evidence of the robbery were found, there was no showing of communication between defendant and conspirators prior to the date of the robbery, no witness saw defendant at the bank robbery or entering or leaving the apartment, and no evidence connected to the robbery was discovered on defendant's person. U.S. v. Summers, C.A.10 (N.M.) 2005, 414 F.3d 1287. Conspiracy ↻ 47(11)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Evidence was sufficient to support defendant's conviction for conspiracy to rob a credit union; defendant worked in building in which credit union was located, government presented videotaped encounter between coconspirator and defendant about the time coconspirator sought to introduce the inside guy to other conspirators, two sketches, with defendant's handwriting which were said by coconspirator to have been supplied by the inside guy, showing where the money was located, uniforms, patches, and union flyers, which were given to coconspirator by the inside guy and which could easily have been procured by defendant, and a statement by one of the conspirators that the inside guy had defendant's name. U.S. v. Savarese, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 2005, 404 F.3d 651. Conspiracy ↻ 47(11)

Evidence of defendants' presentation of obviously fraudulent cashier's check to bank employees, and their false statements about check to influence bank to negotiate it, was sufficient to prove "materiality," for purposes of bank fraud charges, even though bank was not actually influenced or actually deceived. U.S. v. Rashid, C.A.8 (Mo.) 2004, 383 F.3d 769, certiorari denied 125 S.Ct. 941, 543 U.S. 1080, 160 L.Ed.2d 823, vacated 126 S.Ct. 300, 163 L.Ed.2d 36, on remand 437 F.3d 715. Banks And Banking ↻ 509.25

Conviction of bank officer and owner of consulting company for conspiring to defraud bank was supported by evidence that purported agreement between officer, owner and purported joint venturer, by which money transferred to officer would constitute proceeds of loan from joint venturer to officer, was fabrication designed to cover up kickbacks that officer was receiving from owner. U.S. v. Cihak, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1998, 137 F.3d 252, rehearing denied, certiorari denied 119 S.Ct. 118, 525 U.S. 847, 142 L.Ed.2d 95, certiorari denied 119 S.Ct. 203, 525 U.S. 888, 142 L.Ed.2d 167. Conspiracy ↻ 47(4)

Extensive paper trail tying defendant to phony businesses at which fictitious credit card purchases were made using stolen credit cards was sufficient to support defendant's conviction, on aiding and abetting theory, as participant in scheme to defraud banks through use of unauthorized access devices. U.S. v. Ismoila, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1996, 100 F.3d 380, rehearing denied, certiorari denied 117 S.Ct. 1712, 520 U.S. 1219, 137 L.Ed.2d 836, certiorari denied 117 S.Ct. 1858, 520 U.S. 1247, 137 L.Ed.2d 1060. False Pretenses ↻ 49(1)

Finding that defendant committed overt acts to ensure the collection of stolen funds from federally insured bank was supported by evidence that defendant made threatening telephone call to undercover agent in which defendant explicitly asked agent to withdraw funds from "the bank." U.S. v. Wallace, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1996, 85 F.3d 1063. Conspiracy ↻ 47(4)

Evidence supported conviction of defendants, who were directors of savings and loan institution, of conspiracy to obtain profits from institution; jury could find that defendants had conspired to cause institution to make "kickback" payments to one defendant, ostensibly for "officer fees," with payments passing through corporation wholly owned by second defendant. U.S. v. Baker, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1995, 61 F.3d 317. Conspiracy ↻ 47(4)

Evidence that defendant conducted automated teller machine (ATM) transaction that resulted in "bill trap" that would have eventually brought service personnel to ATM, that codefendant provided defendant with cards she used in causing bill trap and that codefendant had hidden guns in bush near ATM was sufficient to support conspiracy convictions. U.S. v. Harper, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1994, 33 F.3d 1143, certiorari denied 115 S.Ct. 917, 513 U.S. 1118, 130 L.Ed.2d 798. Conspiracy ↻ 47(3.1)

Evidence supported finding that defendants convicted of conspiracy to commit bank fraud and money laundering agreed to defraud banks in connection with scheme to abrogate general banking prohibition against third-party processing of telemarketing charges; defendants knew that banks would not allow third-party processing because of its potential for increased risks, and defendants encouraged recruitment of new merchants, did not reveal their own activities to banks, and encouraged other alleged participants not to reveal their activities to their banks. U.S. v. Brown, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1994, 31 F.3d 484, rehearing and suggestion for rehearing en banc denied. Conspiracy ↪ 47(4)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

There was ample evidence that defendants conspired together to defraud various banks in one large conspiracy; government demonstrated connection between the two defendants, connection between one or both defendants and each of various targets, and defendants' mutual interest in and benefit from the activity in all of the various bank accounts. U.S. v. Carr, C.A.6 (Ohio) 1993, 5 F.3d 986. Conspiracy ↪ 47(4)

Evidence was sufficient to support bank officer's conviction for conspiracy to make false entries in bank records with the intent to deceive examiners; effecting transactions requiring series of loan upgrades in which expanding debt and underlying collateral were shifted among a group of individuals with a shared interest in gaining access to bank funds required preparation of numerous documents which contained both false entries and factual omissions which disguised nature of loans and actual borrowers from examiners. U.S. v. Chaney, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1992, 964 F.2d 437, rehearing denied. Conspiracy ↪ 47(3.1)

Evidence supported conviction for conspiracy to defraud federally insured banks and savings and loan associations by fraudulently obtaining car loans, even though defendant denied knowledge of illicit purpose of conspiracy, where defendant made applications for loans over phone, answered phone inquiries from banks about vehicle descriptions and vehicle identification numbers, provided at least one false bill of sale in connection with loan, joined imposter loan applicants when they picked up loan checks from banks, and defendant cashed loan checks. U.S. v. Kane, C.A.7 (Ind.) 1991, 944 F.2d 1406. Conspiracy ↪ 47(4)

Alleged coconspirator's testimony, along with corroborating circumstantial evidence, was sufficient to link defendant to conspiracy to commit bank access device fraud and bank fraud; coconspirator's testimony was corroborated by surveillance photographs of coconspirator using stolen credit cards while defendant stood nearby, defendant was present when one card was used to purchase airplane tickets, and, at time of arrest, defendant was driving car that had been rented with stolen credit card and was carrying large quantity of cash and items used to make false identification cards. U.S. v. Marshall, C.A.8 (Neb.) 1990, 922 F.2d 479. Conspiracy ↪ 47(4)

Evidence supported conclusion that managing partner for lending partnership conspired to defraud United States by presenting promissory notes for borrower to sign and president of lending bank to pay from bank funds; partner knew that borrower was overdrawn at the bank. U.S. v. Hoffman, C.A.6 (Ky.) 1990, 918 F.2d 44, rehearing denied. Conspiracy ↪ 47(6)

Evidence that bank president and bank employees willfully disregarded federal legal requirements to submit currency transaction reports and structured many currency transactions to conceal reportable nature supported conviction for conspiracy stemming from bank's failure to report currency transactions. U.S. v. Penagaricano-Soler, C.A.1 (Puerto Rico) 1990, 911 F.2d 833. Conspiracy ↪ 47(3.1)

Evidence was sufficient to sustain defendant's conviction for conspiracy to defraud United States, in connection with bank's payment of defendant's checks exceeding defendant's deposits; even though defendant and bank's bookkeeping supervisor may not have had explicit agreement, facts that supervisor held some of defendant's checks for period of four years and discussed matter with defendant were sufficient to show at least tacit agreement or mutual understanding between parties. U.S. v. Hughes, C.A.6 (Ky.) 1989, 891 F.2d 597, rehearing denied. Conspiracy ↪ 47(6)

Evidence supported conclusion that defendants conspired to defraud bank; loan applicants testified they contacted defendant consultant to arrange meeting with defendant bank officer, that applicants paid commissions out of loan proceeds to both defendants, and that both defendants knew information in loan application was false. U.S. v.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Castro, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1989, 887 F.2d 988. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(4)

Evidence that sole motive for referrals of clients to investment firm by defendant, an assistant vice-president of a bank, was to evade currency reporting requirements was sufficient to support defendant's conviction of conspiracy to defraud the United States by impeding investigation of large currency transactions and to circumvent currency reporting requirements. U.S. v. Sanchez, C.A.11 (Fla.) 1986, 790 F.2d 1561. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(6)

Evidence supported conviction for conspiracy to commit an offense against the United States, arising out of misapplication of bank funds insured by Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation; evidence showed that defendant was under severe financial pressure during period of conspiracy, that defendant started making clandestine telephone calls to bank official on daily basis and received fraudulent loans after defendant's confrontation with bank president concerning delinquent loan, that defendant forged loan application made out in name of business associate, that defendant's handwriting was identified on loan application in fictitious name, and that his fingerprint was found on another "fictitious borrower" application. U.S. v. Centracchio, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1985, 774 F.2d 856. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(3.1)

Testimony of witness revealing that bank customer asked witness to sign promissory notes for customer because customer's credit was overextended and bank examiners were coming and evidence demonstrating that bank customer transferred at least $40,000 in loan proceeds to defendant, the vice-president and head cashier of bank, and that bank customer assisted defendant in commodity trading activity for which both needed funds, adequately supported conclusion that bank customer participated in conspiracy with defendant in violation of this section. U.S. v. Mohr, C.A.8 (Iowa) 1984, 728 F.2d 1132, certiorari denied 105 S.Ct. 148, 469 U.S. 843, 83 L.Ed.2d 87. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(6); Conspiracy ⚡ 47(11)

Direct evidence in testimony of coconspirator that latter had told defendant about bankruptcy fraud scheme and circumstantial evidence showing that arson was knowingly committed in furtherance of the bankruptcy fraud conspiracy warranted conviction of conspiring to transfer and conceal property of a corporation in contemplation of its bankruptcy and to conceal corporate property from its receiver, trustee and creditors, with defendant claiming that he only conspired to set fire to the building and did not know of the alleged bankruptcy fraud. U. S. v. Davis, C.A.1 (R.I.) 1980, 623 F.2d 188. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(4)

In prosecution for conspiracy to embezzle funds from a federally insured bank, evidence that defendant and bank teller discussed embezzlement on evening before crime was committed and worked out details of crime was sufficient evidence of defendant's participation in conspiracy to support jury verdict. U. S. v. Veltre, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1979, 591 F.2d 347. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(11)

Conviction of conspiracy and willful misapplication of bank funds was supported by evidence, including evidence that individuals whom warehouse president sent to bank to contact manager to obtain sham loans were not questioned by the latter respecting their ability to pay although they had no previous dealings with him, that vice-president directed prospective borrowers to bank, that manager processed loans without borrower's authorization or knowledge and that president told borrowers that he had taken care of the "guy" at the bank. U. S. v. Gallagher, C.A.3 (N.J.) 1978, 576 F.2d 1028. Banks And Banking ⚡ 62; Conspiracy ⚡ 47(3.1)

Conviction of bank mortgage officer of conspiring to violate various statutory duties to the bank and the public was supported by evidence, including evidence of ongoing conspiracy involving managers of mortgage broker, which had warehousing agreement with bank, concerning funding through such agreement of a corporation organized by them to acquire development property, evidence that officer had substantial dealings with the group and was given equal membership in the corporation, that requested funds were made available through warehousing line and that officer knew of activities of conspirators and advised them how to obtain funds. U. S. v. Schoenhut, C.A.3 (Pa.) 1978, 576 F.2d 1010, certiorari denied 99 S.Ct. 450, 439 U.S. 964, 58 L.Ed.2d 421. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(3.1)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Evidence that defendant not only knew that cashiers' checks were from a national bank, but that they were stolen and that payee's name had been forged was sufficient to sustain conviction of participating in conspiracy to dispose of cashiers' checks stolen from a national bank. U. S. v. Mauro, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1974, 501 F.2d 45, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 235, 419 U.S. 969, 42 L.Ed.2d 186. Conspiracy ↪ 47(11)

Where the proof clearly showed the existence of both an illegal agreement to rob bank and overt acts by members of that conspiracy in furtherance of the plan, only "slight evidence" was required to connect defendant with the conspiracy; and such was provided by two taxicab drivers' identifications, and by defendant's travel to Florida and his presence in motel room during conspiratorial conclave, his trip with codefendant to another's residence shortly after the robbery, and defendant's latent fingerprint on money wrapper. U. S. v. Edwards, C.A.5 (Fla.) 1974, 488 F.2d 1154. Conspiracy ↪ 47(11)

Fact that defendant visited cabin at time cabin was occupied by codefendants, whose guilt was sufficiently established, was insufficient to support conviction of defendant for conspiring to commit offenses against the United States in respect to crimes against federally insured banks. Brooks v. U. S., C.A.5 (Miss.) 1969, 416 F.2d 1044, rehearing denied 424 F.2d 554, certiorari denied 91 S.Ct. 81, 400 U.S. 840, 27 L.Ed.2d 75. Conspiracy ↪ 47(3.1)

Evidence that defendant discussed robbery of bank with co-defendants, that defendant was seated in co-defendant's automobile with motor running while co-defendant entered bank and presented to teller note demanding money and containing bomb threat and evidence that co-defendant who presented note did not know contents of note was sufficient to support conviction of conspiracy to violate bank robbery statutes and of aiding and abetting. Thomas v. U. S., C.A.5 (Fla.) 1967, 398 F.2d 531. Conspiracy ↪ 47(11)

Evidence sustained conviction for conspiring to rob a bank insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation. Johns v. U. S., C.A.5 (Ga.) 1963, 323 F.2d 421. Conspiracy ↪ 47(11)

Evidence on question of conspiracy to rob any armored truck carrying bank money was insufficient to sustain conviction for conspiracy to steal bank property. Lubin v. U. S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1963, 313 F.2d 419. Conspiracy ↪ 47(11)

Evidence sustained conviction for sending cables between New York and Rio de Janeiro in furtherance of scheme to defraud banks and of conspiring to send such fraudulent cables in violation of this section. U. S. v. Whiting, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1962, 308 F.2d 537, certiorari denied 83 S.Ct. 722, 372 U.S. 909, 9 L.Ed.2d 718, certiorari denied 83 S.Ct. 734, 372 U.S. 919, 9 L.Ed.2d 718. Conspiracy ↪ 47(4); Telecommunications ↪ 1018(4)

Evidence was sufficient to sustain conviction of defendants for violations of the federal bank robbery laws, and conspiracy to commit bank robbery. Atkins v. U. S., C.A.9 (Wash.) 1962, 307 F.2d 937. Conspiracy ↪ 47(11); Robbery ↪ 24.15(1)

Evidence sustained conviction for conspiracy to purloin or steal money from trust company. Rizzo v. U. S., C.A.8 (Mo.) 1962, 304 F.2d 810, certiorari denied 83 S.Ct. 188, 371 U.S. 890, 9 L.Ed.2d 123. Conspiracy ↪ 47(11)

Evidence aliunde of alleged coconspirator's declarations made in defendant's absence was sufficient to connect defendant with conspiracy. Rizzo v. U. S., C.A.8 (Mo.) 1962, 304 F.2d 810, certiorari denied 83 S.Ct. 188, 371 U.S. 890, 9 L.Ed.2d 123. Conspiracy ↪ 47(1)

Evidence sustained convictions for robbing national bank, putting in jeopardy lives of persons by use of dangerous weapon while committing robbery, and conspiring to commit robbery. U. S. v. Vita, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1961, 294 F.2d 524, certiorari denied 82 S.Ct. 837, 369 U.S. 823, 7 L.Ed.2d 788, certiorari denied 82 S.Ct. 1032, 369 U.S. 866, 8 L.Ed.2d 85. Conspiracy ↪ 47(11); Robbery ↪ 24.15(2)

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Evidence was sufficient to sustain conviction of conspiracy with others to unlawfully burglarize bank for purpose of stealing money therefrom, for purpose of carrying away money, and for purpose of receiving such money knowing it to have been stolen. Way v. U. S., C.A.10 (Colo.) 1960, 285 F.2d 253. Conspiracy ↻ 47(11)

Evidence showing that defendant took part in forming conspiracy to burglarize bank, that he knew of conspiracy's existence, and that with such knowledge, he and others did acts or things in furtherance of it, was sufficient to warrant conviction on charge of conspiring to commit robbery and burglary, even though he was not present at burglary and robbery and did not participate in it. Way v. U. S., C.A.10 (Colo.) 1960, 285 F.2d 253. Conspiracy ↻ 47(11)

Evidence sustained conviction for bank robbery, conspiracy, and aiding and abetting. U.S. v. Pravato, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1960, 282 F.2d 587, certiorari denied 81 S.Ct. 705, 365 U.S. 824, 5 L.Ed.2d 702, certiorari denied 81 S.Ct. 811, 365 U.S. 849, 5 L.Ed.2d 813. Conspiracy ↻ 47(11); Robbery ↻ 24.10

Evidence sustained conviction for conspiracy to rob bank. United States v. Tarricone, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1957, 242 F.2d 555. Conspiracy ↻ 47(11)

Record on appeal from federal court judgment for conspiracy sustained conviction. Wacker v. U. S., C.A.4 (N.C.) 1956, 231 F.2d 659. Conspiracy ↻ 47(11); Robbery ↻ 24.15(1)

In prosecution for misapplication of bank funds, making false entries in bank records, conspiracy to commit offenses against United States, and violation of mail fraud statute, § 1341 of this title, evidence was sufficient to establish corporate existence of corporate defendant. U. S. v. Scoblick, C.A.3 (Pa.) 1955, 225 F.2d 779. Corporations ↻ 32(11)

In prosecution for bank robbery, placing lives of bank employees in peril and for conspiracy, testimony concerning circumstances of bank robbery was such that jury could infer robbers were acting in accordance with prearranged plans and sustained finding of existence of conspiracy to rob. U. S. v. Avellino, C.A.3 (Pa.) 1954, 216 F.2d 877. See, also, U.S. v. Avellino, C.A.Pa.1954, 216 F.2d 875. Conspiracy ↻ 47(11)

In prosecution for bank robbery, for placing lives of bank employees in peril and for conspiracy, testimony of 12 year old boy and 13 year old girl, which identified defendant as robber and which was corroborated by testimony of alleged accomplice, was sufficient to sustain verdict of guilt. U. S. v. Avellino, C.A.3 (Pa.) 1954, 216 F.2d 875. Robbery ↻ 24.40

A charge under former § 88 of this title [now this section], of conspiracy between officers of a national bank to embezzle, abstract, or willfully misapply its funds in violation of § 592 of Title 12, was supported by evidence that, acting together with a common understanding, defendants largely overdraw their respective accounts with the bank, to such an extent that they were wholly unable to meet the same, as they must have known, and that, to cover up such overdrafts, by a common understanding they placed worthless notes in the bank with the intent and result of injuring and defrauding the bank. U.S. v. Breese, C.C.W.D.N.C.1909, 173 F. 402. Conspiracy ↻ 47(11)

Evidence that defendant knowingly signed false construction certificates, failed to advise board properly, omitted from regulators as to practice of bank of paying principal and interest in non-complying loans through new unrelated loans, and failed to properly report loans as losses, was sufficient to support convictions for bank fraud, misapplying bank funds, making false entries in banking records, and participating in conspiracies to perpetuate those offenses. U.S. v. Munoz Franco, D.Puerto Rico 2005, 356 F.Supp.2d 20. Banks And Banking ↻ 509.25; Conspiracy ↻ 47(4)

Evidence was sufficient to find defendant, an officer and employee of a bank, guilty beyond a reasonable doubt of willfully and knowingly making false statement "In our years of experience with these people they have met all their obligations with us completely as agreed" to Small Business Administration for purpose of influencing action of the Administration on loan application. U. S. v. Ticknor, D.C.S.D.1973, 359 F.Supp. 978. Fraud ☞ 69(5)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In prosecution against bank president and holder of corporate accounts in bank for conspiracy to misapply bank funds and to make false entries, evidence of continuing grossly excessive overdrafts accompanied by concealment of overdraft status when examiners entered the bank was sufficient to take conspiracy count to jury. U. S. v. Mayr, S.D.Fla.1972, 350 F.Supp. 1291, affirmed 487 F.2d 67, certiorari denied 94 S.Ct. 2615, 417 U.S. 914, 41 L.Ed.2d 218. Conspiracy ☞ 48.1(2.1)

Proof of mere association with actual offenders and proof of mere presence at scene of a crime, as opposed to proof of some additional act of participation, is not sufficient to support even a verdict of aiding and abetting, not to mention a conspiracy conviction. U. S. v. Johnson, W.D.Mo.1971, 334 F.Supp. 982, affirmed 462 F.2d 608, certiorari denied 93 S.Ct. 299, 409 U.S. 952, 34 L.Ed.2d 224. Criminal Law ☞ 59(3); Criminal Law ☞ 59(5)

In prosecution for conspiracy to commit offense against United States, for aiding and abetting attempted armed robbery of national bank, and for being an accessory after the fact to principal offender in the robbery, evidence was sufficient to show that defendant was guilty of the crimes as charged. U. S. v. Anthony, M.D.Pa.1956, 145 F.Supp. 323. Conspiracy ☞ 47(11); Robbery ☞ 24.15(2)

Evidence was sufficient to sustain verdict of guilty of misapplication of bank funds and conspiracy to misapply bank funds. U. S. v. Nystrom, W.D.Pa.1953, 116 F.Supp. 771, affirmed 237 F.2d 218. Banks And Banking ☞ 257(3); Conspiracy ☞ 47(11)

There was sufficient evidence that defendant was knowing member of bank fraud scheme to support convictions for conspiring to commit bank fraud, bank fraud, and possession of a forged security; evidence showed that co-defendant provided undercover FBI agent with various financial documents in a false identity, defendant appeared at conspiratorial meeting and told agent that she had recently obtained line of credit with similar documents, and defendant had in her possession a counterfeit check when she was arrested. U.S. v. Mingo, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 2003, 76 Fed.Appx. 379, 2003 WL 22221358, Unreported. Banks And Banking ☞ 509.25; Conspiracy ☞ 47(4); Forgery ☞ 44(5)

Convictions for bank robbery, conspiring to commit bank robbery, and possessing firearm during crime of violence were supported by bank teller's testimony that woman and man approached her station, demanding that money be placed in bag, and that demand made her fear for her life since woman had hand tucked under her arm as if she were carrying gun, teller's identification of defendant as female robber, neighbors' testimony that defendant and her son bragged about robbing bank while dumping money and pistol out of bag similar to that used by robbers, neighbor's testimony that defendant had previously asked for pistol bullets for weeks, explaining that she wanted to rob bank, evidence that stolen bills were found in son's socks after defendant and son were arrested, and recovery of pistol from vehicle in which defendant and son were traveling. U.S. v. Johnson, C.A.7 (Ill.) 2003, 76 Fed.Appx. 737, 2003 WL 22017513, Unreported. Conspiracy ☞ 47(11); Robbery ☞ 24.10; Robbery ☞ 24.40; Weapons ☞ 17(4)

728. Bankruptcy offenses, sufficiency of evidence

Direct testimony of unindicted coconspirator of illegal agreement to conceal assets from bankruptcy trustee, together with circumstantial evidence that defendants removed items from debtor's warehouse on pretense of preparing merchandise for auction and filed false proofs of claims on computer lease with debtor, even though computer had previously been repossessed, was sufficient to support convictions for conspiracy to conceal assets in bankruptcy. U.S. v. Murray, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1985, 751 F.2d 1528, certiorari denied 106 S.Ct. 381, 474 U.S. 979, 88 L.Ed.2d 335. Conspiracy ☞ 47(3.1)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In prosecution for offenses against bankruptcy laws and conspiracy, evidence justified jury in finding that bankrupt corporation, president of that corporation, and corporation employee had deliberately aborted sale of bankrupt's stock under arrangement whereby its obligations would have been assumed by purchaser and had then helped themselves to bankrupt's property by going into business under name of theretofore, inactive corporation and using bankrupt's property in operation of that corporation. U. S. v. Dioguardi, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1970, 428 F.2d 1033, certiorari denied 91 S.Ct. 50, 400 U.S. 825, 27 L.Ed.2d 54, certiorari denied 91 S.Ct. 51, 400 U.S. 825, 27 L.Ed.2d 54. Bankruptcy ↪ 3863

Evidence sustained convictions for violating and conspiring to violate § 152 of this title. U. S. v. Castellana, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1965, 349 F.2d 264, certiorari denied 86 S.Ct. 934, 383 U.S. 928, 15 L.Ed.2d 847, certiorari denied 86 S.Ct. 935, 383 U.S. 928, 15 L.Ed.2d 847, rehearing denied 86 S.Ct. 1368, 384 U.S. 923, 16 L.Ed.2d 444. Conspiracy ↪ 47(3.1)

Evidence sustained convictions for making false oaths in bankruptcy proceedings and conspiracy to swear falsely in such proceedings. Mosheim v. U. S., C.A.5 (Tex.) 1960, 285 F.2d 949, certiorari denied 81 S.Ct. 903, 365 U.S. 868, 5 L.Ed.2d 859. Bankruptcy ↪ 3863; Conspiracy ↪ 47(13)

In prosecution for conspiracy to transfer assets of one corporation to another in contemplation of bankruptcy with intent to defeat title 11, evidence including testimony of defendant's coconspirators warranted conclusion that defendant knowingly and fraudulently transferred property of the old corporation to new corporation and to the favored creditors in violation of Title 11. U.S. v. Switzer, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1958, 252 F.2d 139, certiorari denied 78 S.Ct. 1363, 357 U.S. 922, 2 L.Ed.2d 1366, rehearing denied 79 S.Ct. 16, 358 U.S. 859, 3 L.Ed.2d 93. Bankruptcy ↪ 3863

Evidence sustained conviction of conspiracy with bankrupt to conceal assets from bankruptcy receiver. Sultan v. U. S., C.A.5 (Fla.) 1957, 249 F.2d 385. Conspiracy ↪ 47(3.1)

In prosecution for conspiracy to commit an offense against the United States relating to bankruptcy proceedings, even if indictment could be viewed after verdict as sufficient to charge conspiracy, proof was insufficient for failure to show the existence of some conspiratorial scheme during bankruptcy to conceal part of estate from receiver. U. S. v. Deutsch, C.A.3 (Pa.) 1957, 243 F.2d 435. Conspiracy ↪ 47(3.1)

Evidence was sufficient to sustain conviction of two defendants for conspiracy to violate and for violation of the National Bankruptcy Act, § 1 et seq. of Title 11, but evidence was insufficient to sustain conviction of another defendant for violation of the Bankruptcy Act, § 1 et seq. of Title 11. Barnes v. U.S., C.A.5 (Ga.) 1951, 192 F.2d 466, certiorari denied 72 S.Ct. 1035, 343 U.S. 942, 96 L.Ed. 1347. Bankruptcy ↪ 3863; Conspiracy ↪ 47(3.1)

Evidence that defendant and another, acting in concert, persuaded financially distressed farmers to file petitions under the Frazier-Lemke Act, §§ 201 to 203 of Title 11, and assisted and advised them in preparing petitions and schedules from which they omitted property that should have been schedule, advised and induced many of them to prefer local creditors, procured appraisals of their property for less than its fair market value, and collected for their services, was sufficient to support conviction of conspiracy to defraud the United States by procuring the corrupt administration of said sections. Joyce v. U. S., C.C.A.8 (N.D.) 1946, 153 F.2d 364, certiorari denied 66 S.Ct. 1349, 328 U.S. 860, 90 L.Ed. 1631. Conspiracy ↪ 47(6)

Evidence sustained conviction for conspiring to defraud the United States by corruptly administering and procuring the corrupt administration of the Frazier-Lemke Act, §§ 201-203 of Title 11. Braatlien v. U. S., C.C.A.8 (N.D.) 1945, 147 F.2d 888. Conspiracy ↪ 47(6)

The trial court's finding, on denying accused's motion for leave to withdraw plea of guilty to indictment charging conspiracy to defraud United States by corruptly procuring farmers to institute proceedings for relief under

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Frazier-Lemke Act, § 203 of Title 11, that accused was not confused as to charge against him, was not supported by evidence. Bergen v. U. S., C.C.A.8 (N.D.) 1944, 145 F.2d 181. Criminal Law ⤴ 274(6)

In trial for conspiracy to obtain money for acting or forbearing to act in bankruptcy proceeding, evidence was sufficient to take to jury question whether defendants acted in good faith solely for best interests of bankrupt's creditors or fraudulently planned to compel attorney for assignee for creditors' benefit, under threat of bankruptcy proceeding, to let defendants control situation, create secret fund and divide it in violation of statute, so that there was ample proof of conspiracy and adequate evidence of defendants' connection with the scheme. U S v. Goldman, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1941, 118 F.2d 310, certiorari denied 61 S.Ct. 1109, 313 U.S. 588, 85 L.Ed. 1543, rehearing denied 63 S.Ct. 22, 317 U.S. 703, 87 L.Ed. 562, certiorari denied 61 S.Ct. 1110, 313 U.S. 588, 85 L.Ed. 1543, certiorari denied 61 S.Ct. 1111, 313 U.S. 588, 85 L.Ed. 1543, certiorari granted 62 S.Ct. 119, 314 U.S. 704, 86 L.Ed. 563, affirmed 62 S.Ct. 993, 316 U.S. 129, 86 L.Ed. 1322. Conspiracy ⤴ 48.1(2.1)

Evidence was insufficient to sustain conviction for conspiracy to conceal from trustee merchandise purchased by bankrupt and proceeds thereof. Gerson v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Okla.) 1928, 25 F.2d 49. Conspiracy ⤴ 47(3.1)

Bank's purchase of merchandise alleged to have been fraudulently concealed was not shown by affidavit of correctness of claims filed in bankruptcy proceeding. Gerson v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Okla.) 1928, 25 F.2d 49. Conspiracy ⤴ 47(3.1)

Evidence was insufficient to support conviction of defendants for conspiring with president of bankrupt corporation to withhold property from trustee. Bartkus v. U.S., C.C.A.7 (Ill.) 1927, 21 F.2d 425. Conspiracy ⤴ 47

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate Bankruptcy Act, former § 52 of Title 11, by concealing property of bankrupt corporation, evidence was sufficient to connect one of accused with conspiracy. Kaplan v. U.S., C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1925, 7 F.2d 594, certiorari denied 46 S.Ct. 107, 269 U.S. 582, 70 L.Ed. 423.

Evidence sustained conviction for conspiracy to commit an offense against the United States by concealing assets of an estate in bankruptcy. Frieden v. U.S., C.C.A.4 (Va.) 1925, 5 F.2d 556. See, also, U.S. v. Aronoff, C.C.A.N.Y.1943, 138 F.2d 911, 55 AmBankr.Rep.N.S. 87, certiorari denied 64 S.Ct. 522, 321 U.S. 765, 88 L.Ed. 1062; Chaplan v. U.S., C.C.A.S.C.1928, 28 F.2d 567; Jollit v. U.S., C.C.A.Ala.1923, 285 F. 209, certiorari denied 43 S.Ct. 519, 261 U.S. 624, 67 L.Ed. 832; Samara v. U.S., C.C.A.N.Y.1920, 263 F. 12; Rabinowitz v. U.S., N.Y.1915, 222 F. 846, 138 C.C.A. 272.

In prosecution for conspiracy, under this section to conceal from trustee in bankruptcy goods belonging to bankrupt estate, evidence was sufficient for submission of case to jury. Israel v. U. S., C.C.A.6 (Ohio) 1925, 3 F.2d 743, 3 Ohio Law Abs. 416. Bankruptcy ⤴ 3862; Conspiracy ⤴ 48.1(2.1)

Where a bankrupt testified to every fact necessary to convict him and his attorney of conspiracy to conceal assets, his expressed opinion that what was done did not constitute concealment and conspiracy did not prevent a conviction of the attorney. Miller v. U.S., C.C.A.4 (S.C.) 1921, 277 F. 721. Criminal Law ⤴ 493

In a prosecution for conspiracy, evidence sustained a count of indictment alleging the receiving of property of a bankrupt after petition filed. U S v. Knoell, E.D.Pa.1916, 230 F. 509, affirmed 239 F. 16, 152 C.C.A. 66, error dismissed 38 S.Ct. 316, 246 U.S. 648, 62 L.Ed. 920.

In a trial for conspiring to conceal assets in bankruptcy, evidence was insufficient to show that a particular defendant committed any unlawful act in the district. Roukous v. U.S., C.C.A.1 (R.I.) 1912, 195 F. 353, 115 C.C.A. 255, certiorari denied 32 S.Ct. 840, 225 U.S. 710, 56 L.Ed. 1267. Conspiracy ⤴ 47(3.1)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

A charge of conspiracy for the concealment of property by a bankrupt, in violation of former § 52 of Title 11, was supported by evidence that the property was sold under a chattel mortgage given by the bankrupt prior to the bankruptcy, where it was shown that such mortgage and sale were merely colorable, and that the property, in fact, remained that of the bankrupt. Cohen v. U.S., C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1907, 157 F. 651, 85 C.C.A. 113, certiorari denied 28 S.Ct. 261, 207 U.S. 596, 52 L.Ed. 357. Conspiracy ↻ 47

729. Bribery, sufficiency of evidence

Evidence sustained conviction of subcontractor for inducing federal employee to accept compensation for services to be rendered in connection with federal contract, and for conspiracy. Opper v. U. S., U.S. Ohio 1954, 75 S.Ct. 158, 348 U.S. 84, 99 L.Ed. 101. Bribery ↻ 11; Conspiracy ↻ 47(13)

Evidence that defendant, a drug supplier, fronted large amounts of narcotics to undercover agents through one of his dealers without requiring immediate payment was insufficient to support finding that defendant was aware, prior to telephone call with one of agents, of conspiracy dealer was involved in to bribe a public official to aid in illegal green-card operation to pay for drugs, as required to support conviction for involvement in conspiracy, where there was no evidence that defendant knew part of the money he received came from aliens who were obtaining fraudulent green cards. U.S. v. Ceballos, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 2003, 340 F.3d 115. Conspiracy ↻ 47(6)

Agreement to violate the law and intent to be influenced or rewarded, required to support conspiracy and bribery convictions of former state government officials, who exchanged agency consulting contracts for political fund-raising, was established by evidence that consultants met with and solicited contributions from regulated businesses while officials were present and during government time, and that officials handled money raised by consultants' efforts. U.S. v. Moeller, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1996, 80 F.3d 1053. Bribery ↻ 11; Conspiracy ↻ 47(13)

Convictions of conspiracy to commit bribery, aiding and abetting bribery and interstate travel to commit bribery were supported by evidence from which juror could conclude that proposal of two Federal Bureau of Investigation agents posing as wealthy Arabs involved payment of bribe to congressman and that defendant intentionally participated in scheme to achieve that end. U.S. v. Weisz, C.A.D.C.1983, 718 F.2d 413, 231 U.S.App.D.C. 1, certiorari denied 104 S.Ct. 1285, 465 U.S. 1027, 79 L.Ed.2d 688, certiorari denied 104 S.Ct. 1305, 465 U.S. 1034, 79 L.Ed.2d 704. Bribery ↻ 11; Commerce ↻ 82.10; Conspiracy ↻ 47(13)

In prosecution for conspiracy to bribe criminal investigators of Immigration and Naturalization Service, evidence was sufficient to allow jury to conclude beyond reasonable doubt that defendants knew of the existence of other members of a joint bribery plan and that each was aware that his arrangement with investigators had been made in concert with arrangements made for other gambling house operators. U. S. v. Ong, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1976, 541 F.2d 331, certiorari denied 97 S.Ct. 814, 429 U.S. 1075, 50 L.Ed.2d 793, certiorari denied 97 S.Ct. 1559, 430 U.S. 934, 51 L.Ed.2d 780. Conspiracy ↻ 47(13)

Evidence that one defendant's blank invoices were made available to second defendant who received bribe, and that checks used to pay the bribe were made out to defendant and cashed by him was sufficient to sustain defendants' convictions for conspiracy. U. S. v. Hathaway, C.A.1 (Mass.) 1976, 534 F.2d 386, certiorari denied 97 S.Ct. 64, 429 U.S. 819, 50 L.Ed.2d 79. Conspiracy ↻ 47(13)

Evidence that defendant committed bribery on three separate occasions and submitted false statements in order to obtain FHA mortgage insurance on 18 occasions, that her position was near the center of the conspiracy, and that she played an active role in bringing one of the conspirators into bribery phase of the conspiracy was sufficient to sustain defendant's conviction for conspiracy despite contention that the single act doctrine was applicable to her. U. S. v. Bernstein, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1976, 533 F.2d 775, certiorari denied 97 S.Ct. 523, 429 U.S. 998, 50 L.Ed.2d 608. Conspiracy ↻ 47(13)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Evidence was sufficient to sustain conviction on charges against some of defendants of conspiring to bribe and bribery of Internal Revenue officer and to sustain conviction of other defendant of conspiring to defraud the United States in its governmental functions. Gorin v. U.S., C.A.1 (Mass.) 1963, 313 F.2d 641, certiorari denied 83 S.Ct. 1870, 374 U.S. 829, 10 L.Ed.2d 1052. Bribery ↻ 11; Conspiracy ↻ 47(3.1)

Evidence failed to sustain conviction of one employee of government agency for conspiring to receive bribes and kick-backs from certain sellers of goods to agency. Harlow v. U. S., C.A.5 (Tex.) 1962, 301 F.2d 361, certiorari denied 83 S.Ct. 25, 371 U.S. 814, 9 L.Ed.2d 56, rehearing denied 83 S.Ct. 204, 371 U.S. 906, 9 L.Ed.2d 167. Conspiracy ↻ 47(13)

In prosecution for conspiring to violate § 212 of this title prohibiting bribery of customs officials and §§ 173, 174 of Title 21 concerning narcotics laws, evidence of introduction of customs official to one of other conspirators before conspiracy began was insufficient alone to support conviction of such officer. United States v. Stromberg, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1959, 268 F.2d 256, certiorari denied 80 S.Ct. 119, 361 U.S. 863, 4 L.Ed.2d 102, certiorari denied 80 S.Ct. 123, 361 U.S. 863, 4 L.Ed.2d 102, certiorari denied 80 S.Ct. 124, 361 U.S. 863, 4 L.Ed.2d 102, certiorari denied 80 S.Ct. 130, 361 U.S. 868, 4 L.Ed.2d 108. Conspiracy ↻ 47(12); Conspiracy ↻ 47(13)

In prosecution for conspiring to violate § 212 of this title prohibiting bribery of customs officials and §§ 173, 174 of Title 21 concerning narcotics laws, wherein only evidence of participation of certain customs official was his delivery of two suitcases, later found to contain heroin, to two other conspirators, evidence as to customs officer's single transaction with conspiracy was insufficient to support inference that he knew or accepted conspiratorial aims or that his participation went beyond single transaction and was insufficient to sustain his conviction. United States v. Stromberg, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1959, 268 F.2d 256, certiorari denied 80 S.Ct. 119, 361 U.S. 863, 4 L.Ed.2d 102, certiorari denied 80 S.Ct. 123, 361 U.S. 863, 4 L.Ed.2d 102, certiorari denied 80 S.Ct. 124, 361 U.S. 863, 4 L.Ed.2d 102, certiorari denied 80 S.Ct. 130, 361 U.S. 868, 4 L.Ed.2d 108. Conspiracy ↻ 47(12); Conspiracy ↻ 47(13)

In prosecution for conspiring to violate § 212 of this title prohibiting bribery of customs officials and §§ 173, 174 of Title 21 concerning narcotics laws, independent evidence connecting two customs officers with conspiracy was insufficient to sustain conviction of such officials. United States v. Stromberg, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1959, 268 F.2d 256, certiorari denied 80 S.Ct. 119, 361 U.S. 863, 4 L.Ed.2d 102, certiorari denied 80 S.Ct. 123, 361 U.S. 863, 4 L.Ed.2d 102, certiorari denied 80 S.Ct. 124, 361 U.S. 863, 4 L.Ed.2d 102, certiorari denied 80 S.Ct. 130, 361 U.S. 868, 4 L.Ed.2d 108. Conspiracy ↻ 47(12)

Evidence sustained conviction for offering a bribe to a United States internal revenue agent, giving such bribe to such agent, and for conspiring to offer and give such bribe. Marbs v. U.S., C.A.8 (Mo.) 1957, 250 F.2d 514, certiorari denied 78 S.Ct. 703, 356 U.S. 919, 2 L.Ed.2d 715. Bribery ↻ 11; Conspiracy ↻ 47(13)

In prosecution of buyer employed by prime government contractor operating under cost-reimbursable contract, and others, for conspiracy to violate statute precluding the payment of gratuities by subcontractors to officers or agents of persons operating under such contracts, evidence showing requisite criminal intent supported finding that buyer and at least one co-conspirator entered into illegal plan and that overt acts were committed to carry it into effect. Hanis v. U. S., C.A.8 (Mo.) 1957, 246 F.2d 781. Conspiracy ↻ 47(6)

Conviction for bribery of a government employee and conspiracy to violate laws of United States was sustained by evidence. Wolin v. U.S., C.A.4 (Va.) 1954, 211 F.2d 770, certiorari denied 75 S.Ct. 30, 348 U.S. 819, 99 L.Ed. 645. Bribery ↻ 11; Conspiracy ↻ 47(13)

In prosecution under indictment charging defendants with a general conspiracy to defraud United States of honest and impartial services of defendants as revenue officers through bribe taking, extortion and solicitation, evidence of participation was enough to hold defendant who was head of Fraud Unit and a codefendant as co-conspirators in four bribery transactions and to sanction admissions as to guilt by a co-conspirator of defendant who was head of Fraud Unit. United States v. Ganey, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1951, 187 F.2d 541. Conspiracy ↻ 47(6); Criminal Law ↻ 427(5)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In prosecution of congressman and individuals for conspiracy to defraud the United States through violation of former § 203 of this title, prohibiting members of Congress from receiving compensation in matters affecting the government, evidence that press and radio articles which came to attention of jurors had prejudicial results was insufficient to justify impeaching integrity of the jury. May v. United States, C.A.D.C.1949, 175 F.2d 994, 84 U.S.App.D.C. 233, certiorari denied 70 S.Ct. 58, 338 U.S. 830, 94 L.Ed. 505, order withheld 70 S.Ct. 81, 338 U.S. 854, motion denied 70 S.Ct. 94, motion denied 70 S.Ct. 95, rehearing denied 70 S.Ct. 154, 338 U.S. 882, 94 L.Ed. 542, rehearing denied 70 S.Ct. 155, 338 U.S. 882, 94 L.Ed. 542, order withheld 70 S.Ct. 80. Criminal Law ↻ 956(13)

Evidence supported conviction of congressman and three individuals under indictment charging conspiracy to defraud the United States through violation of former § 203 of this title, prohibiting members of Congress from receiving compensation in matters affecting the government charging receipt by congressman of compensation for services in relation to matters before the War Department, and charging individuals were aiders and abettors. May v. United States, C.A.D.C.1949, 175 F.2d 994, 84 U.S.App.D.C. 233, certiorari denied 70 S.Ct. 58, 338 U.S. 830, 94 L.Ed. 505, order withheld 70 S.Ct. 81, 338 U.S. 854, motion denied 70 S.Ct. 94, motion denied 70 S.Ct. 95, rehearing denied 70 S.Ct. 154, 338 U.S. 882, 94 L.Ed. 542, rehearing denied 70 S.Ct. 155, 338 U.S. 882, 94 L.Ed. 542, order withheld 70 S.Ct. 80. Conspiracy ↻ 47(6); United States ↻ 52

Evidence warranted conviction of management engineering consultants and their corporation for conspiracy to defraud United States of faithful and impartial services of one of consultants as civilian employee of navy and as naval officer by making use of consultant's position with navy to induce contractors whose plants he inspected to employ services of corporation. U.S. v. Corrigan, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1948, 168 F.2d 641. Conspiracy ↻ 47(6)

Evidence warranted conviction for conspiracy, bribery of person acting for and in behalf of the United States in an official function, and evading service in armed forces. Claunch v. U.S., C.C.A.5 (Tex.) 1946, 155 F.2d 261. Armed Services ↻ 40(7); Bribery ↻ 11; Conspiracy ↻ 47(13)

In prosecution for conspiracy of draft board appeal agent and another to ask a bribe with intent to influence agent's action in matter of inductee's application for a recommendation from draft board for an extension of furlough, evidence that before conspiracy was former Army had granted an extension of furlough did not establish that there was no matter pending before agent so as to eliminate an essential element of the offense, in view of other evidence that Army acted upon recommendation when made after discovering mistake in granting furlough without recommendation. Cohen v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1944, 144 F.2d 984, certiorari denied 65 S.Ct. 440, 323 U.S. 797, 89 L.Ed. 636, order withheld 65 S.Ct. 441, rehearing denied 65 S.Ct. 586, 324 U.S. 885, 89 L.Ed. 1435. Conspiracy ↻ 47(13)

Evidence sustained conviction for accepting bribe in furtherance of, and conspiracy to obstruct, justice. Tyson v. U.S., C.C.A.5 (Tex.) 1931, 54 F.2d 26, certiorari denied 52 S.Ct. 407, 285 U.S. 551, 76 L.Ed. 941. Bribery ↻ 11

In prosecution for conspiracy to commit offense against the United States under former § 207 of this title in asking for and receiving a bribe for not reporting liquor found on search under warrant, evidence was sufficient for submission of question of conspiracy to jury. Downs v. U.S., C.C.A.3 (N.J.) 1925, 3 F.2d 855, certiorari denied 45 S.Ct. 509, 268 U.S. 689, 69 L.Ed. 1158.

Evidence insufficient to connect one of the defendants with the conspiracy charged to bribe an officer of the United States to permit the illegal transportation of liquor into Indian country, but to sustain a conviction of the other defendants. Hardy v. U.S., C.C.A.5 (Tex.) 1920, 269 F. 134, certiorari denied 41 S.Ct. 449, 256 U.S. 689, 65

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

L.Ed. 1173. Conspiracy ⚡ 47

Evidence insufficient to sustain a conviction of one of two defendants jointly indicted for conspiracy to bribe a post office clerk, but sufficient to sustain the conviction of his codefendant. Kirkwood v. U S, C.C.A.8 (Mo.) 1919, 256 F. 825, 168 C.C.A. 171. Bribery ⚡ 11; Conspiracy ⚡ 47

There was sufficient evidence to support defendant's convictions for bribery of public official and conspiracy to bribe public official, in light of evidence that undercover officers posing as drug dealers told defendant that they would help her obtain permanent resident alien status for fee, officers introduced her to putative immigration official, and official asked, in her presence, whether money had been paid before he agreed to stamp her passport. U.S. v. Guevara, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 2004, 96 Fed.Appx. 745, 2004 WL 692624, Unreported. Bribery ⚡ 11; Conspiracy ⚡ 47(13)

730. Condemnation, sufficiency of evidence

Evidence sustained finding that appraiser and officer of corporate owner of condemned property conspired in the making of the appraisals but evidence was insufficient to sustain finding that state officer who appointed the appraiser was a party to the conspiracy. Reiss v. U. S., C.A.1 (Mass.) 1963, 324 F.2d 680, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 667, 376 U.S. 911, 11 L.Ed.2d 609. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(6)

Evidence that defendants and others conspired to divert to personal use of one or more defendants money, which was paid by Commonwealth of Massachusetts for realty condemned for federal aid highway, in derogation of purposes of federal aid highway program, sustained convictions of defendants for violating this section dealing with conspiracy to defraud United States. Harney v. U. S., C.A.1 (Mass.) 1962, 306 F.2d 523, certiorari denied 83 S.Ct. 254, 371 U.S. 911, 9 L.Ed.2d 171. Conspiracy ⚡ 43(10)

731. Copyright offenses, sufficiency of evidence

Evidence was sufficient to support jury's necessary finding that defendants knew sound-recording tapes were not simulations but were real performances of famous artists, in prosecution for conspiracy to violate copyrights of sound recordings and for specific infringement of copyrighted sound recordings. U. S. v. Sherman, C.A.10 (Okla.) 1978, 576 F.2d 292, 200 U.S.P.Q. 561, certiorari denied 99 S.Ct. 284, 439 U.S. 913, 58 L.Ed.2d 259. Copyrights And Intellectual Property ⚡ 70

732. Counterfeiting, sufficiency of evidence

There was sufficient evidence that defendant knowingly agreed to join his roommate and undercover agents' contact and to assist them in their production of counterfeit identification documents to support defendant's conspiracy conviction; contact took agents to defendant's residence to obtain counterfeit documents, defendant appeared at contact's apartment approximately two hours later, when delivery of counterfeit cards was expected, agents never spotted roommate, and, moreover, letter in kitchen area of defendant's apartment was addressed to defendant and requested that he send social security documents to specified location. U.S. v. Marquez, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1995, 48 F.3d 243. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(3.1)

Evidence admitted in counterfeiting conspiracy prosecution was sufficient to establish beyond reasonable doubt that defendant knowingly conspired to make, possess and deliver counterfeit obligations with intent to defraud United States, notwithstanding fact that defendant was not present when bills were made, where defendant and other coconspirators caused approximately $800,000 in counterfeit obligations to be printed, and defendant not only suggested that obligations be printed, but provided paper, arranged distribution network, aided and abetted collection of the elicited proceeds, and personally recovered undistributed counterfeit bills. U.S. v. Rodriguez

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Alvarado, C.A.1 (Puerto Rico) 1993, 985 F.2d 15. Conspiracy ↻ 47(3.1)

Defendant's conviction for conspiracy to traffic in counterfeit labels and goods and criminal infringement of copyright was supported by evidence, notwithstanding claim that he lacked knowledge and intent necessary to join conspiracy; intent could be inferred from facts that defendant had control over some of the counterfeit tapes and key to warehouse leased to his brother which was used in counterfeiting operation, showed warehouse worker how to use tape duplicating machines, and helped transport counterfeit tapes to self-storage unit. U.S. v. Hernandez, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1991, 952 F.2d 1110, 21 U.S.P.Q.2d 1502, certiorari denied 113 S.Ct. 334, 506 U.S. 920, 121 L.Ed.2d 252. Conspiracy ↻ 47(3.1); Copyrights And Intellectual Property ↻ 70

Evidence was sufficient to support finding that defendant knowingly joined conspiracy to sell counterfeit alien registration and social security cards based on his involvement in repeated recorded telephone conversations with confidential informant concerning details of delivery of false documents, his references to prior contacts with codefendant concerning transaction and evidence indicating that defendant had informed a coparticipant of nature of and arranged for delivery of documents to be exchanged for cash. U.S. v. Carrasco, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1989, 887 F.2d 794. Conspiracy ↻ 47(3.1)

Finding that defendant had conspired with government agent, prior to his becoming government agent, to deliver counterfeit bills was sufficiently supported by officer's testimony as to conversation between defendant and agent, in which defendant indicated that he did not have any "more" counterfeit money for agent. U.S. v. Vasquez, C.A.11 (Fla.) 1989, 874 F.2d 1515, certiorari denied 110 S.Ct. 845, 493 U.S. 1046, 107 L.Ed.2d 840. Conspiracy ↻ 47(3.1)

Evidence that first defendant purchased merchandise from various stores with counterfeit $100 bills, that second and third defendants were found carrying merchandise which had been purchased with counterfeit conspiracy, that first and second defendants had counterfeit notes in their possession, and that defendants denied knowing each other when initially detained was sufficient to support defendants' convictions of conspiracy to pass, utter, possess and conceal counterfeit notes. U.S. v. Guida, C.A.11 (Fla.) 1986, 792 F.2d 1087. Conspiracy ↻ 47(3.1)

In prosecution for conspiracy to counterfeit, evidence concerning cooperation between defendant and another in their joint endeavor was sufficient to sustain finding of an agreement to seek to achieve the criminal object of counterfeiting, despite defendant's contention that there was no conspiracy to counterfeit but rather only one "to learn how to counterfeit." U. S. v. Molovinsky, C.A.4 (Md.) 1982, 688 F.2d 243, certiorari denied 103 S.Ct. 1228, 459 U.S. 1221, 75 L.Ed.2d 462. Conspiracy ↻ 47(3.1)

Testimony of one witness that first, second and third defendants were discussing counterfeit money and that first and second defendants told third that they had passed a lot of counterfeit money and testimony of another witness, the third defendant, that he didn't know whether counterfeit money which he got from first defendant belonged to first defendant or second and that second didn't have but two or three "notes" at his house was insufficient to convict second defendant of selling, possessing or uttering counterfeit money, or conspiracy. U. S. v. Bostic, C.A.6 (Tenn.) 1973, 480 F.2d 965. Conspiracy ↻ 47(3.1); Counterfeiting ↻ 18

Evidence including testimony as to defendant's continuous association with codefendants, his overheard statement "As long as we don't get busted" and his presence in counterfeit printing plant after government had obtained evidence from trash bags taken therefrom was sufficient to sustain defendant's conviction for conspiracy to produce counterfeit notes. U. S. v. Mustone, C.A.1 (Mass.) 1972, 469 F.2d 970. Conspiracy ↻ 47(3.1)

Evidence on issue of whether defendants had knowledge of interlocking alliances employed in carrying out counterfeit money distribution scheme during spring and summer months, with roles of various participants being tied together by one individual as a connecting link, was sufficient to support conviction under conspiracy count charging violation of federal laws relating to counterfeit money. U. S. v. Kilpatrick, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1972, 458 F.2d

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

864. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(3.1)

Testimony of coconspirator, who had previously pled guilty, that one defendant charged with interstate transportation of counterfeit payroll checks and conspiracy had given him a quantity of the checks to be cashed, had driven him to various places to cash the checks and had taken the proceeds was sufficient to support such defendant's conviction. U. S. v. Moseley, C.A.5 (Fla.) 1971, 450 F.2d 506, certiorari denied 92 S.Ct. 1200, 405 U.S. 975, 31 L.Ed.2d 250. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(11); Receiving Stolen Goods ⚡ 8(3)

Evidence that defendants were active participants in meetings and telephone conversations relating to sale of counterfeit currency, and that envelope containing counterfeit currency was transferred by defendants to undercover agent, and that both defendants participated in discussion and handled counterfeit currency sustained conviction for conspiracy to transfer or deliver counterfeit government obligations. U.S. v. Lefner, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1970, 422 F.2d 1021. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(3.1)

Where defendants were charged with three counts involving counterfeit government obligations and evidence sustained conviction on count charging them with transferring and delivering such obligations and sentence imposed upon guilty verdict on that count was to run concurrent with guilty verdict on count charging them with possession and concealment of counterfeit government obligations, court need not consider sufficiency of evidence to convict on concealment count. Loraine v. U. S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1968, 396 F.2d 335, certiorari denied 89 S.Ct. 292, 393 U.S. 933, 21 L.Ed.2d 270. Criminal Law ⚡ 1134(3)

Evidence consisting of indicted and unindicted co-conspirators' testimony which was not entirely without corroboration was sufficient to support convictions for conspiracy to transport counterfeit traveler's checks in interstate commerce and conspiracy to counterfeit United States savings bonds and to pass, utter, and sell such counterfeited bonds. U. S. v. Nitti, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1967, 374 F.2d 750, certiorari denied 87 S.Ct. 2141, 388 U.S. 920, 18 L.Ed.2d 1366. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(3.1)

Evidence that defendant and codefendant had given their former prisonmate counterfeit money to pass in exchange for good money which would be shared upon passer's return was sufficient to sustain defendant's convictions for conspiracy to pass and sell counterfeit federal reserve notes and of selling, transferring and delivering federal reserve notes, knowing them to be counterfeit. U. S. v. Panczko, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1966, 367 F.2d 737, certiorari denied 87 S.Ct. 716, 385 U.S. 1009, 17 L.Ed.2d 546, rehearing denied 87 S.Ct. 771, 385 U.S. 1043, 17 L.Ed.2d 688. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(3.1); Counterfeiting ⚡ 18

Evidence sustained conviction for transporting counterfeit debentures from Miami to Nassau with knowledge that they were counterfeited and conspiring to transport such documents. Rogers v. U. S., C.A.5 (Fla.) 1964, 334 F.2d 83, certiorari denied 85 S.Ct. 892, 380 U.S. 915, 13 L.Ed.2d 800, rehearing denied 85 S.Ct. 1102, 380 U.S. 967, 14 L.Ed.2d 157. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(3.1); Receiving Stolen Goods ⚡ 8(3)

Evidence was sufficient to sustain conviction for conspiracy to possess counterfeit money with intent to defraud, even though two of the persons involved in the conspiracy had agreed to deceive a third person involved in the conspiracy. U. S. v. Gersh, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1964, 328 F.2d 460, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 1919, 377 U.S. 992, 12 L.Ed.2d 1045. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(3.1)

Evidence sustained conviction for conspiracy to make counterfeit obligations, for publishing counterfeit money, and for aiding and abetting making of counterfeit money. U. S. v. Alger, C.A.7 (Ind.) 1963, 325 F.2d 502, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 1124, 376 U.S. 963, 11 L.Ed.2d 981. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(3.1); Counterfeiting ⚡ 18

Evidence was sufficient to sustain conviction for conspiring to pass, utter, publish, sell and transfer counterfeit bills. Harris v. U.S., C.A.4 (Md.) 1960, 283 F.2d 923. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(3.1)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In prosecution on indictment charging conspiracy to pass, and substantive offenses respecting, counterfeit obligations of the United States, evidence was sufficient to show that the bills were counterfeit and that the defendant had guilty knowledge that they were. McMillon v. U.S., C.A.5 (Tex.) 1959, 272 F.2d 170, certiorari denied 80 S.Ct. 805, 362 U.S. 940, 4 L.Ed.2d 769. Conspiracy ↻ 47(3.1); Counterfeiting ↻ 18

Evidence sustained conviction of all four defendants under conspiracy count and conviction of three of four defendants under substantive counts pertaining to counterfeiting. U. S. v. Sferas, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1954, 210 F.2d 69, certiorari denied 74 S.Ct. 630, 347 U.S. 935, 98 L.Ed. 1086. Conspiracy ↻ 47(3.1); Counterfeiting ↻ 18

Evidence was sufficient to sustain conviction for sale of counterfeit notes and conspiracy to commit such offense. U.S. v. Detente, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1952, 199 F.2d 286. Conspiracy ↻ 47(3.1); Counterfeiting ↻ 18

Evidence that defendant sold counterfeit bills and showed buyers how to discolor bills to make them less susceptible to discovery and demonstrated quality by using money to make bets and that he promised future supply, established that defendant was participant and coconspirator in scheme to foist bogus money upon the public. Bartoli v. U.S., C.A.4 (W.Va.) 1951, 192 F.2d 130. Conspiracy ↻ 47(3.1)

In prosecution for counterfeiting, possession of counterfeit currency, and for conspiracy to violate former §§ 262 and 265 of this title, evidence sustained conviction. U.S. v. Karavias, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1948, 170 F.2d 968. Conspiracy ↻ 47(3.1); Counterfeiting ↻ 18

In prosecution for counterfeiting, possession of counterfeit currency and conspiracy to violate former §§ 262, 265 of this title, evidence warranted inference that the crimes were committed at Chicago, in the Northern District of Illinois, as alleged in the indictment. U.S. v. Karavias, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1948, 170 F.2d 968. Criminal Law ↻ 564(1)

Evidence sustained conviction for possessing, selling and transferring certain federal reserve notes in violation of former §§ 264, 265 and 268 of this title against counterfeiting and for conspiring with others to commit an offense by unlawfully possessing, transferring, and using, with intent to defraud, falsely made, forged, and counterfeit obligations of the United States. U. S. v. Sorcey, C.C.A.7 (Wis.) 1945, 151 F.2d 899, certiorari denied 66 S.Ct. 821, 327 U.S. 794, 90 L.Ed. 1021. Conspiracy ↻ 47(11); Counterfeiting ↻ 18

Evidence justified conviction for "conspiracy" of defendants to have in their possession and under their control counterfeit coins and to attempt to pass, utter and sell such coins as true and genuine. Reavis v. U.S., C.C.A.10 (Okla.) 1939, 106 F.2d 982. Conspiracy ↻ 47(3.1)

Evidence sustained conviction of conspiracy to possess, pass, and utter counterfeit $10 silver certificates of United States government. U.S. v. Corso, C.C.A.7 (Ill.) 1938, 100 F.2d 604. Conspiracy ↻ 47(3.1)

Evidence was sufficient to sustain conviction on count indictment charging conspiracy to keep in possession and conceal and to pass and utter counterfeit notes. Maugeri v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1935, 80 F.2d 199. Conspiracy ↻ 47(3.1)

Evidence sustained conviction of engaging in conspiracies to possess and sell counterfeited obligations of United States, where it showed that defendant was driver of automobile wherein negotiations for sale of counterfeit notes were within his hearing conducted between government agent and convicted codefendant, wherein money was paid for purchase of notes, and by which, with defendant still driving, counterfeit bills were later delivered to purchaser. Simon v. U.S., C.C.A.6 (Mich.) 1935, 78 F.2d 454. Conspiracy ↻ 47(3.1); Counterfeiting ↻ 18

Evidence in prosecution for conspiracy and for substantive offense of selling counterfeit war savings stamps sustained conviction. Zottarelli v. U. S., C.C.A.6 (Ohio) 1927, 20 F.2d 795, 5 Ohio Law Abs. 584, certiorari denied 48 S.Ct. 159, 275 U.S. 571, 72 L.Ed. 432. Conspiracy ↻ 47(3.1); Counterfeiting ↻ 18

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Defendants' confessions that plates for counterfeiting were thrown into river were sufficient proof of corpus delicti, when corroborated and corroboration was sufficient. Litkofsky v. U.S., C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1925, 9 F.2d 877. Criminal Law ⚡ 535(2)

Evidence justified finding of possession of counterfeit plates and use and showed conspiracy to violate former § 264 of this title against counterfeiting. Litkofsky v. U.S., C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1925, 9 F.2d 877. Conspiracy ⚡ 47; Counterfeiting ⚡ 18

Evidence sustained conviction for conspiracy involving possession and passing of counterfeit federal reserve notes. U. S. v. Boyance, E.D.Pa.1963, 215 F.Supp. 390. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(3.1)

Evidence sustained conviction for conspiring with juvenile and others to transfer to juvenile counterfeited twenty dollar notes with intent that they be passed as true and genuine, with possessing counterfeit twenty dollar note with intent to defraud and with transferring to juvenile counterfeited twenty dollar note with intent that it be passed as true and genuine. U. S. v. Ross, E.D.Pa.1962, 203 F.Supp. 100. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(3.1); Counterfeiting ⚡ 18

733. Currency offenses, sufficiency of evidence

Evidence was sufficient to sustain convictions of conspiracy to structure currency transactions, structuring currency transactions, money laundering and distribution of crack cocaine for scheme in which money obtained through illegal drug activity was wired across country under different aliases and in split transactions so as to avoid currency transaction reporting requirements. U.S. v. Walcott, C.A.8 (Minn.) 1995, 61 F.3d 635, rehearing and suggestion for rehearing en banc denied, certiorari denied 116 S.Ct. 953, 516 U.S. 1132, 133 L.Ed.2d 877. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(3.1); Controlled Substances ⚡ 76; United States ⚡ 34

Defendant's conviction for conspiracy to obstruct currency transaction reporting (CTR) requirements was supported by coconspirator's testimony that he received $42,000 from defendant, who ran drug distribution conspiracy, to purchase property, that coconspirator titled property in his name and set up fictitious lease to defendant, that defendant's initial payment of $13,000 caused issuance of report upon deposit, that, thereafter, defendant gave coconspirator payments of $10,000 or less, that coconspirator funneled payments through his nephew's produce center, which, as grocery enterprise, was exempt from CTR requirements, and that coconspirator handled subsequent transactions for defendant in similar manner. U.S. v. Winfield, C.A.4 (Va.) 1993, 997 F.2d 1076. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(6)

734. Customs offenses, sufficiency of evidence

Evidence that defendant talked to another about the purchase and sale of a particular weapon, that defendant was present and overheard many of the conversations between the purchaser and another which led to the sale of guns, that defendant was aware that the purchaser was not a resident of United States, and that defendant personally sold the purchaser one weapon was sufficient to sustain defendant's conviction for conspiracy to illegally export firearms. U. S. v. Cruz, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1976, 536 F.2d 1264. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(3.1)

In prosecution for conspiracy to export platinum without license in violation of Proc. No. 2413, evidence made a jury case as to all defendants. U.S. v. Rosenberg, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1945, 150 F.2d 788, certiorari denied 66 S.Ct. 90, 326 U.S. 752, 90 L.Ed. 451, certiorari denied 66 S.Ct. 91, 326 U.S. 752, 90 L.Ed. 451. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.1(2.1)

Evidence supported conviction of president of a domestic corporation, who was also the New York representative of a German corporation, of exporting platinum group metals without licenses in violation of Presidential Proclamation and of conspiracies to export such metals, based on a shipment of such metals to a consignor in Colombia under licenses issued in name of company other than one of which defendant was president. U.S. v.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Kertess, C.C.A. 2 1944, 139 F.2d 923, certiorari denied 64 S.Ct. 847, 321 U.S. 795, 88 L.Ed. 1084. War And National Emergency ⚡ 514; Conspiracy ⚡ 47(3.1)

Evidence supported conviction of president of domestic corporation, who was also New York representative of a German corporation, of exporting platinum group metals without license in violation of Presidential Proclamation and of conspiracy to export such metals, based on delivery of rhodium to one who thereafter sailed to Germany with the metals in her possession, as against contention that defendant was at most a mere seller of rhodium, with knowledge of an intended unlawful act by buyer. U.S. v. Kertess, C.C.A. 2 1944, 139 F.2d 923, certiorari denied 64 S.Ct. 847, 321 U.S. 795, 88 L.Ed. 1084. War And National Emergency ⚡ 514; Conspiracy ⚡ 47(3.1)

Even if affidavit made at request of federal income revenue agent by defendant who was president of domestic corporation and also the New York representative of a German corporation prior to time defendant had been charged with any crime constituted an admission requiring corroboration to warrant of conviction of exporting platinum group metals without license in violation of a Presidential Proclamation or of conspiracy to export such metals, evidence amply corroborated defendant's affidavit. U.S. v. Kertess, C.C.A. 2 1944, 139 F.2d 923, certiorari denied 64 S.Ct. 847, 321 U.S. 795, 88 L.Ed. 1084. Criminal Law ⚡ 409(6.1)

Evidence supported conviction of individual defendant and corporate defendant which was organized by individual defendant of conspiring to bring to United States diamonds that were cut in Holland or Belgium under false declaration that they were cut in Germany and to cause diamonds to be paid for without securing requisite license therefor. U.S. v. Von Clemm, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1943, 136 F.2d 968, certiorari denied 64 S.Ct. 81, 320 U.S. 769, 88 L.Ed. 459. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(3.1)

Conviction for conspiracy to export arms was not sustained as to one employed on ship as cabin boy. Kuhn v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1928, 26 F.2d 463, certiorari denied 49 S.Ct. 11, 278 U.S. 605, 73 L.Ed. 533. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(3.1)

Evidence was sufficient for conspiracy to steal arms furnished for the army and to export arms to Mexico without license. Holmes v. U.S., C.C.A.5 (Tex.) 1920, 267 F. 529, certiorari denied 41 S.Ct. 13, 254 U.S. 640, 65 L.Ed. 452.

Evidence was insufficient to support conviction in a prosecution against an examiner at the appraiser's stores for conspiring to defraud the government. Stager v. U.S., C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1916, 233 F. 510, 147 C.C.A. 396. Conspiracy ⚡ 47

735. Defrauding United States, sufficiency of evidence--Generally

Evidence was sufficient to sustain conviction for conspiring to defraud by depriving the government of the faithful services of an army officer. U.S. v. Bayer, U.S.N.Y.1947, 67 S.Ct. 1394, 331 U.S. 532, 91 L.Ed. 1654, rehearing denied 68 S.Ct. 29, 332 U.S. 785, 92 L.Ed. 368. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(6)

Evidence was sufficient to sustain convictions of an assistant United States Attorney and of an attorney in private practice for conspiring to defraud the United States of and concerning its governmental function to be honestly, faithfully, and dutifully represented in the federal courts in certain matters free from corruption, improper influence, dishonesty, or fraud. Glasser v. U.S., U.S.Ill.1942, 62 S.Ct. 457, 315 U.S. 60, 86 L.Ed. 680, rehearing denied 62 S.Ct. 629, 315 U.S. 827, 86 L.Ed. 1222, rehearing denied 62 S.Ct. 637, 315 U.S. 827, 86 L.Ed. 1222. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(6)

There was sufficient evidence of defendant's knowledge of bid-rigging agreements to support his conviction for conspiracy to violate Sherman Antitrust Act and to commit fraud; letter prepared for defendant's signature same day as agreement on one contract, raising bid on contract, invited inference that defendant knew bid was being raised pursuant to illegal agreement, there was testimony that defendant was present and taking part in discussion at meeting in which agreement on contract was discussed and amended and that defendant wrote down the agreement, testimony that defendant was prominent conspirator's contact in United States and testimony implying that defendant knew bidding process had been subverted, and there was evidence that defendant was present at numerous meetings at which bids were rigged or agreements were discussed. U.S. v. Anderson, C.A.11 (Ala.) 2003, 326 F.3d 1319, rehearing and rehearing en banc denied 71 Fed.Appx. 824, 2003 WL 21432589, certiorari denied 124 S.Ct. 178, 540 U.S. 825, 157 L.Ed.2d 46. Conspiracy ↪ 47(3.1); Monopolies ↪ 31(2.4)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Evidence was sufficient to support conviction for conspiracy to defraud the United States; testimony and other evidence showed that defendant and coconspirators discussed all business transactions, that they discussed acquiring bank, that they considered coconspirators' conflict of interest in owning another company doing business with the bank, which was against banking regulations, that defendant agreed to acquire other company to avoid the conflict of interest, that defendant did not use any of his own money to purchase the company, that coconspirators received secret payments from company after defendant's purchase, and that neither defendant nor coconspirators revealed company's relationship to coconspirators when they sought approval to purchase the bank from the Office of the Comptroller of the Currency (OCC). U.S. v. Wintermute, C.A.8 (Mo.) 2006, 443 F.3d 993.

Evidence was sufficient to support finding that stolen government items found in defendant's home were being used by defendant, as well as by his wife, a co-conspirator, as required to sustain conviction for conspiracy to defraud the United States; evidence demonstrated that defendant took several affirmative steps to secure a stolen laptop computer for his son, and that defendant obtained the computer through the agreement and cooperation of his wife. U.S. v. Mellen, C.A.D.C.2004, 393 F.3d 175, 364 U.S.App.D.C. 152. Conspiracy ↪ 47(6)

Evidence was sufficient to submit to jury charges that mine owner conspired to make false statements, and willfully made or aided and abetted making of false statements on forms certifying that miners had received training required by Federal Mine Safety and Health Act of 1977; although owner did not sign forms, she directly benefitted from savings realized from falsifying information, gave forms containing false certifications to employee to fill out further information about miners, and had access to all relevant information. U.S. v. Turner, C.A.4 (Va.) 1996, 102 F.3d 1350. Fraud ↪ 69(6)

Convictions for conspiracy to defraud the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) were sustained by evidence that defendant and coconspirator, knowing their marketing scheme contravened the law, repeatedly instructed persons to whom they sent unauthorized literature touting medicinal powers of their products to conceal use and possession of this information to prevent FDA's discovery of their unlawful activities, and that defendant helped to organize and became distributor in new company selling same products after FDA began investigating old company's distribution of those products, which showed defendant's agreement to obstruct FDA's lawful function of regulating marketing and distribution of medical devices and drugs; showing of actual contact between defendant and FDA or its agents was not required. U.S. v. Ballistrea, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1996, 101 F.3d 827, certiorari denied 117 S.Ct. 1327, 520 U.S. 1150, 137 L.Ed.2d 488. Conspiracy ↪ 47(6)

Evidence of defendant's position in the Department of Housing and Urban Development and evidence of memorandum written by someone who had spoken to someone who had spoken to one of defendant's alleged conspirators stating that the conspirator's friend in the Department had indicated that problems with project for which funds were sought could be favorably handled was insufficient to show that defendant conspired to defraud the United States by facilitating decisions favorable to the project. U.S. v. Dean, C.A.D.C.1995, 55 F.3d 640, 312 U.S.App.D.C. 75, rehearing in banc denied, certiorari denied 116 S.Ct. 1288, 516 U.S. 1184, 134 L.Ed.2d 232. Conspiracy ↪ 47(6)

Defendant's conviction for conspiracy to defraud the government based on improper use of her position at the Department of Housing and Urban Development to facilitate waiver of rent regulations for friend's client was supported by friend's testimony that part of his job was to act as advocate on behalf of the client with the defendant,

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

evidence that defendant was in a position to make decisions regarding waiver of rent regulations for rehabilitation projects, that friend met with defendant regarding the project, that Department reversed initial position and approved the waivers, and that defendant authorized the use of the Secretary's name in connection with the issuance of the memorandum granting the petition. U.S. v. Dean, C.A.D.C.1995, 55 F.3d 640, 312 U.S.App.D.C. 75, rehearing in banc denied, certiorari denied 116 S.Ct. 1288, 516 U.S. 1184, 134 L.Ed.2d 232. Conspiracy ↪ 47(6)

Defendant's conviction for conspiracy based on his role in scheme in which fraudulent loan applications were submitted to federally insured bank was supported by testimony of defendant, customers, bank employees, and others which indicated that defendant, two fellow employees at dealership, and bank loan officer were involved in ongoing series of offenses including bribing bank official and making false statements for purpose of influencing federally insured bank and that offenses were committed routinely in order to obtain loans so that dealership's customers could purchase automobiles with funds obtained from bank. U.S. v. Spears, C.A.6 (Ky.) 1995, 49 F.3d 1136. Conspiracy ↪ 47(4)

Conviction of defendant, who was attorney involved in transaction, in which savings bank purchased interest in real estate venture from investors who then used portion of purchase price as down payment on purchase of "real estate owned" (REO) from bank, for conspiracy to defraud United States was not supported by sufficient evidence as there was insufficient evidence that transaction was illegal "cash for trash" scheme; only evidence of value of property owned by real estate venture indicated value of at least $4 million, bank paid $753,000 for 45% interest in venture, and investors' 20% down payment on bank's REO complied with federal regulations requiring that bank provide no more than 80% of financing of purchase price for REO. U.S. v. Beuttenmuller, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1994, 29 F.3d 973. Conspiracy ↪ 47(6)

Evidence was sufficient to support jury's determination that defendant conspired to "defraud United States" in violation of statute by passing law enforcement information to coconspirator who avoided detection of illegal book making activity; as law enforcement officer at time of conspiracy, defendant was in unique position of trust and therefore was able to obtain sensitive information regarding criminal investigations, defendant knew that coconspirator was bookmaker who would likely use information to avoid detection, and defendant's act of informing coconspirator about investigation could properly be characterized as a leak of sensitive information thus demonstrating intent to dishonestly obstruct lawful government function. U.S. v. Murphy, C.A.8 (Mo.) 1992, 957 F.2d 550. Conspiracy ↪ 47(6)

There was sufficient evidence of existence of conspiracy and of defendant's participation in that conspiracy to support his conviction of conspiring to defraud the United States, where evidence included defendant's admission that he had opened two Swiss bank accounts under assumed names, his signature authority over 20 additional accounts under names of various fictitious persons, his directorship of corporation used to channel money from other businesses, and his failure to report his significant authority over Swiss accounts as required by law. U.S. v. Sturman, C.A.6 (Ohio) 1991, 951 F.2d 1466, rehearing denied, certiorari denied 112 S.Ct. 2964, 504 U.S. 985, 119 L.Ed.2d 586, post-conviction relief denied. Conspiracy ↪ 47(6)

Evidence was sufficient to support conviction of real estate developer on charges of conspiracy, misapplication of savings and loans funds and mail fraud, where testimony removed all doubt of his knowing participation in fraud and it could be inferred that developer had intended to defraud and that he had motive to defraud. U.S. v. Grandinetti, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1989, 891 F.2d 1302, certiorari denied 110 S.Ct. 1534, 494 U.S. 1060, 108 L.Ed.2d 773. Conspiracy ↪ 47(3.1); Postal Service ↪ 49(11)

Evidence was sufficient to sustain defendant's convictions of conspiring to make false statements to Federal Aviation Administration and three substantive counts of making false statements to FAA in connection with defendant's submission of temporary airman's certificate for applicant; witness testified that defendant, who was FAA inspector, prepared applicant's temporary airman's certificate at applicant's home in witness' presence and that defendant and applicant discussed what aircraft registration number they would use as check flight aircraft in falsified form, defendant admitted in affidavit, voluntarily signed, that he did not give applicant check flights as indicated on certificates submitted to FAA, and there was compelling evidence that test flights in question could not have been given aboard aircraft identified in certificates. U.S. v. Hollifield, C.A.11 (Fla.) 1989, 870 F.2d 574. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(6); Fraud ⚡ 69(5)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Evidence established defendant's agreement with others to aid and abet procurement of false birth certificates by aliens, established overt acts carried out by defendant and others in furtherance of illegal purpose, established defendant's knowing procurement or attempt to procure false evidence of citizenship, and, therefore, supported conviction for conspiracy to aid and abet knowing procurement or attempted procurement of false evidence of citizenship. U.S. v. Martinez, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1986, 806 F.2d 945, certiorari denied 107 S.Ct. 2197, 481 U.S. 1056, 95 L.Ed.2d 852. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(6)

Evidence, which established that defendants' company had fraudulently overstated its expenses misrepresenting how profitable its government contract had become, that the sale of the defendants' company was a sham carried out solely to evade federal income taxes on the contract profits and that the defendants' company falsely certified on each bid document that it was small and thus eligible to bid on contracts set aside for small businesses, was sufficient to support the defendants' convictions on charges arising from a conspiracy to defraud various federal agencies. U.S. v. Barnette, C.A.11 (Fla.) 1986, 800 F.2d 1558, rehearing denied 807 F.2d 999, certiorari denied 107 S.Ct. 1578, 480 U.S. 935, 94 L.Ed.2d 769. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(6)

Evidence of hospital controller's knowledge of and participation in scheme of hospital administrator to defraud government was sufficient to sustain conviction of conspiracy to defraud government in connection with federally insured multimillion dollar mortgage loan obtained by hospital for remodeling and expansion. U.S. v. Alemany Rivera, C.A.1 (Puerto Rico) 1985, 781 F.2d 229, certiorari denied 106 S.Ct. 1469, 475 U.S. 1086, 89 L.Ed.2d 725. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(6)

Evidence was sufficient to sustain conviction for conspiracy to defraud the United States and for knowingly making and using false documents to obtain use of United States currency while fraudulently shifting risk of loss to United States arising out of signing by defendant, a president and majority shareholder of bank and majority shareholder of a finance company, of loan guarantee applications, conditional commitments, loan agreements and lenders' agreements which set forth requirement that funds be used for machinery and equipment, inventory and working capital of a company and in reality substantial amount of funds were used to pay off another's preexisting debts. U.S. v. Moore, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1985, 764 F.2d 476. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(6); Fraud ⚡ 69(5)

Although there was no direct evidence of agreement between defendants to violate the law by willfully and knowingly using proceeds from rents and other funds derived from federally insured housing project, while mortgage was in default, for purposes other than to meet actual and necessary expenses arising in connection with project, circumstantial evidence sustained conspiracy convictions. U.S. v. Norris, C.A.4 (Va.) 1984, 749 F.2d 1116, certiorari denied 105 S.Ct. 2139, 471 U.S. 1065, 85 L.Ed.2d 496. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(3.1)

In view of fact that credit customer's application for home improvement loan falsely represented that he was owner of property to be improved and also misstated his existing debts and obligations, and other evidence of record, evidence was sufficient to support convictions for conspiracy to misapply monies belonging to Credit Union of America and of knowingly making false statements on application for home improvement loan. U. S. v. Boothman, C.A.10 (Kan.) 1981, 654 F.2d 700. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(6); Fraud ⚡ 69(5)

Although there was no specific evidence in record of explicit agreement that friend would convey defendant's offer to change his report in exchange for city voting machine repair business, substantial circumstantial evidence supported jury's conclusion that defendant, who allegedly set out to breach his promise to United States that he would impartially investigate causes of widespread malfunctioning of voting machines in city general election, and his friend did enter into agreement with intent to defraud the United States. U. S. v. Shoup, C.A.3 (Pa.) 1979, 608 F.2d 950. Conspiracy ↻ 47(6)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Evidence, including evidence that congressman asked postal official to advise former mail hauler what competitive bid to make on contract, that official gave hauler such advice and that congressman schemed with the official and another to have the hauler reoffer his trucks to post office through companies which would only appear to be independent of hauler, supported conviction of conspiracy to defraud the United States. U. S. v. Brasco, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1975, 516 F.2d 816, certiorari denied 96 S.Ct. 116, 423 U.S. 860, 46 L.Ed.2d 88. Conspiracy ↻ 47(6)

In prosecution for conspiracy to defraud United States, evidence that defendant divided stolen Treasury checks for purposes of negotiating them, together with other incriminating circumstances, was sufficient to support jury's finding of conscious agreement to conspire. U. S. v. Goodson, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1974, 502 F.2d 1303. Conspiracy ↻ 47(6)

Evidence that defendants, charged with conspiring to defraud the United States of lawful revenue by making destructive devices, i.e., molotov cocktails, without having paid the making tax or having filed required written application, had caused other forbidden destructive devices to be made, without registering or paying the required taxes, and use of them to burn down or blow up other buildings of defendants' competitors or enemies would be evidence of a common scheme or plan and would be relevant and competent to show an absence of mistake or accident. U. S. v. Parker, C.A.10 (Okla.) 1972, 469 F.2d 884. Criminal Law ↻ 372(6)

Evidence was sufficient to sustain conviction on three counts charging conspiracy to defraud the United States, travel in interstate commerce to carry on the unlawful activity of arson, mail fraud, aiding and abetting in commission of offense against United States and two substantive counts. Hall v. U. S., C.A.5 (Ga.) 1969, 413 F.2d 45. Conspiracy ↻ 47(6)

In prosecution for violation of this section, evidence relating to a reckless disregard of interests of licensee of Small Business Administration, an agency of the United States was sufficient to warrant finding of an intent to injure or defraud. U. S. v. Luxenberg, C.A.6 (Ohio) 1967, 374 F.2d 241. Fraud ↻ 69(5)

Evidence in prosecution for conspiracy to violate the Federal Housing Administration Law was sufficient to sustain verdict of guilty. Jacobs v. U. S., C.A.5 (Fla.) 1965, 341 F.2d 890. Conspiracy ↻ 47(3.1)

Evidence was sufficient to sustain conviction of conspiring to defraud United States and to commit offenses against United States by causing material false statements and representations to be made in connection with an application to Interstate Commerce Commission to transfer a portion of certificate of further convenience and necessity of a carrier and to accomplish and effectuate control and management in a common interest of two carriers without obtaining approval of the Commission. U. S. v. Polin, C.A.3 (N.J.) 1963, 323 F.2d 549. Conspiracy ↻ 47(6)

Evidence was sufficient to support finding of fraudulent conduct by defendants in disposition of transit company's surplus property during conversion from streetcars to buses and that fraudulent conduct was result of single, overall scheme to defraud so that all defendants could be tried en masse with acts of one being admitted against others. Isaacs v. U. S., C.A.8 (Minn.) 1962, 301 F.2d 706, certiorari denied 83 S.Ct. 32, 371 U.S. 818, 9 L.Ed.2d 58, certiorari denied 83 S.Ct. 33, 371 U.S. 818, 9 L.Ed.2d 58. Criminal Law ↻ 622.7(1)

In prosecution for conspiracy to defraud the United States with reference to negotiating of contracts for purchase and delivery of fuel oil to air base, evidence was sufficient to justify submission of conspiracy count to jury. Wagner v. U.S., C.A.5 (Fla.) 1959, 263 F.2d 877. Conspiracy ↻ 48.1(3)

In prosecution for unlawful sales of government owned wool being made into army jackets, a conspiracy to defraud the government and for making of false statements about disposition of wool serge furnished manufacturer,

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

evidence was sufficient to sustain conviction as to certain defendants. U. S. v. Fabric Garment Co., C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1958, 262 F.2d 631, certiorari denied 79 S.Ct. 1117, 359 U.S. 989, 3 L.Ed.2d 978. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(6); Embezzlement ⚡ 44(1); Fraud ⚡ 69(5)

In prosecution for unlawful sales of government owned wool being made into army jackets, a conspiracy to defraud the government and for making of false statements about disposition of wool serge furnished manufacturer, evidence was insufficient to sustain conviction, as against the titular president of the manufacturer where there was no direct evidence that he knowingly assisted in the sale of the government wool to another or participated in the proceeds. U. S. v. Fabric Garment Co., C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1958, 262 F.2d 631, certiorari denied 79 S.Ct. 1117, 359 U.S. 989, 3 L.Ed.2d 978. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(6); Embezzlement ⚡ 44(1); Fraud ⚡ 69(5)

In prosecution for unlawful sales of government owned wool being made into army jackets, a conspiracy to defraud the government and for making of false statements about disposition of wool serge furnished manufacturer, where, under the contract, duty to return unused wool remained in force unless "otherwise directed" by the Contracting Officer, evidence was insufficient to sustain burden on defendant to come forward with evidence that the contracting officer had "otherwise directed" but at most the evidence created a factual issue for the jury. U. S. v. Fabric Garment Co., C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1958, 262 F.2d 631, certiorari denied 79 S.Ct. 1117, 359 U.S. 989, 3 L.Ed.2d 978. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(6); Embezzlement ⚡ 44(1); Fraud ⚡ 69(5)

Evidence sustained conviction for conspiring to defraud the United States by impairing, obstructing, and defeating lawful right and function of government in sale and disposal of certain salvage rope by Army Corps of Engineers. Lazarov v. U.S., C.A.6 (Tenn.) 1955, 225 F.2d 319, certiorari denied 76 S.Ct. 140, 350 U.S. 886, 100 L.Ed. 781, rehearing denied 76 S.Ct. 341, 350 U.S. 955, 100 L.Ed. 831. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(6)

Evidence was insufficient to warrant jury in finding beyond a reasonable doubt that defendant knew or had reason to believe that property, which was the subject matter of sale, belonged to the United States and was therefore insufficient to sustain conviction for conspiracy to defraud the United States. Sapir v. United States, C.A.10 (N.M.) 1954, 216 F.2d 722, affirmed in part, vacated in part on other grounds 75 S.Ct. 422, 348 U.S. 373, 99 L.Ed. 426. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(6)

In prosecution of United States Marshal, deputy United States Marshal, and friend of Marshal for alleged conspiracy to defraud the United States, on ground that they conspired to obtain money from one convicted of a federal offense by granting him special privileges with respect to his imprisonment, evidence was sufficient to warrant jury in finding existence of a single over-all plan in which all participated, justifying conviction. Carrigan v. U. S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1952, 197 F.2d 817, certiorari denied 73 S.Ct. 106, 344 U.S. 866, 97 L.Ed. 672. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(6)

Proof showing a conspiracy to defraud Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation authorized conviction under charge of conspiracy to defraud United States, since such corporation was an agency of the United States and fraud upon such an agency was fraud upon the United States. U.S. v. Samuel Dunkel & Co., C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1950, 184 F.2d 894, certiorari denied 71 S.Ct. 491, 340 U.S. 930, 95 L.Ed. 671. Conspiracy ⚡ 43(12)

Evidence disclosing that defendant, a nonveteran, was the real purchaser of surplus war materials from the War Assets Administration, that he asked another defendant to file a mail order request for purchase of the property purporting to be for a veteran and that when such was done, all defendants participated in misrepresentations and concealments charged, supported conviction of conspiracy to acquire and for fraudulent acquisition of surplus war materials from the Administration. DeBon v. U.S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1949, 175 F.2d 439. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(6); Fraud ⚡ 69(5)

Evidence authorized conviction of covering up and concealing by trick, scheme and device a material fact within jurisdiction of War Shipping Administration, concerning a shipment of meat, and of conspiracy. Chevillard v.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1946, 155 F.2d 929. Conspiracy ↻ 47(6); Fraud ↻ 69(5)

Evidence supported conviction of corporate defendant, its president, and three supervisory employees on charge of conspiring to defraud the federal government in its prosecution of the war by defective production of bombs and grenades, by misrepresentations of munitions to government inspectors, by employment of schemes to avoid compliance with specifications, and by presentment of false claims to federal government. U.S. v. Antonelli Fireworks Co., C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1946, 155 F.2d 631, certiorari denied 67 S.Ct. 49, 329 U.S. 742, 91 L.Ed. 640, rehearing denied 67 S.Ct. 182, 329 U.S. 826, 91 L.Ed. 701. Conspiracy ↻ 47(6)

Evidence was sufficient to take case to jury on question of existence of conspiracy between general sales manager for corporation engaged in fabricating canvas items and administrative officer in employ of Army Air Forces to defraud the United States by using such officer's controlling influence in the letting of government contracts so as to enable bidders who would deal through such sales manager to obtain contracts at exorbitant prices, regardless of the merits of other bids. Winebrenner v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Mo.) 1945, 147 F.2d 322, certiorari denied 65 S.Ct. 1197, 325 U.S. 863, 89 L.Ed. 1983. Conspiracy ↻ 48.1(3)

Evidence was sufficient to take to jury question whether mayor of city participated in conspiracy to defraud United States by using Works Progress Administration laborers to raze brick structures, purchased by assistant city engineer, and remove and clean bricks, and selling them to city with mayor's approval as ex officio member of Board of Public Works. U.S. v. Holt, C.C.A.7 (Ind.) 1939, 108 F.2d 365, certiorari denied 60 S.Ct. 616, 309 U.S. 672, 84 L.Ed. 1018, rehearing denied 60 S.Ct. 806, 309 U.S. 698, 84 L.Ed. 1037. Conspiracy ↻ 48.1(3)

Conviction for conspiracy to defraud government by false representations that corporation was entitled to receive surplus goods under contract was sustained by evidence. Falter v. U.S., C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1928, 23 F.2d 420, certiorari denied 48 S.Ct. 528, 277 U.S. 590, 72 L.Ed. 1003. Conspiracy ↻ 47

Evidence was insufficient to show fraudulent conspiracy to create isolated tracts by procuring other classes of entries. U.S. v. Bighorn Sheep Co., D.C.Wyo.1925, 9 F.2d 192. Public Lands ↻ 120(16)

Evidence was sufficient to sustain conviction for conspiracy to defraud United States, by substituting inferior materials in army service hats. Gilson v. U.S., C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1919, 258 F. 588, 169 C.C.A. 528, certiorari denied 40 S.Ct. 119, 251 U.S. 555, 64 L.Ed. 412. Conspiracy ↻ 47

Evidence was sufficient to support defendants' convictions for conspiring to defraud United States by obstructing government's administration and enforcement of Special Administrative Measures (SAMs) limiting prisoner's communication and prohibiting him from communicating with news media; as prisoner's attorney, defendant signed affirmations saying she and her staff would comply with SAMs, during videotaped visits with prisoner, two defendants surreptitiously read to prisoner letters from third parties, including third defendant, and defendants received and passed on prisoner's dictated letters and conveyed his messages to news media. U.S. v. Sattar, S.D.N.Y.2005, 395 F.Supp.2d 79. Conspiracy ↻ 47(6)

Evidence supported corporation's conviction for conspiracy to defraud government and Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms by providing false and fraudulent documents to Bureau to obtain assault rifles for purpose of resale; videotape provided evidence sufficient to support inference that corporation's agent and employees were aware of ban on rifles, understood how seller obtained rifles, and agreed to participate in plan to purchase and resell rifles. U.S. v. McCabe, C.D.Ill.1992, 792 F.Supp. 616. Conspiracy ↻ 47(6)

Conviction for conspiracy to defraud United States was supported by evidence that second bribe was paid to defendant in limitations period, that defendant discussed fraudulent examination of coconspirator's tax returns with coconspirator during limitations period, and that tax returns were examined during limitations period; jury was instructed that defendant could not be convicted unless act in furtherance of conspiracy occurred within limitations

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

period. U.S. v. Kale, E.D.Pa.1987, 661 F.Supp. 724. Conspiracy ↻ 47(6)

Conviction of criminal conspiracy to defraud the United States requires finding only that defendants entered into the unlawful agreement and that some overt act, not necessarily in itself harmful to the Government, was committed in furtherance of the conspiracy but such conviction does not require proof that conspiracy was ever effectuated or that Government suffered any actual damages. U. S. v. Kates, E.D.Pa.1976, 419 F.Supp. 846. Conspiracy ↻ 24.10

Evidence sustained conviction of conspiracy among a financing corporation, its branch office manager, store owners, and their sales manager to defraud the United States by making false documents for purpose of influencing action of Federal Housing Administration to secure insurance under modernization of homes provisions of National Housing Act, § 1701 et seq. of Title 12. U.S. v. Thomas, E.D.Wash.1943, 52 F.Supp. 571. Conspiracy ↻ 47(6)

Where a corporate defendant and others were charged with conspiring to defraud the United States of money appropriated in connection with the National Industrial Recovery Act, Act of June 16, 1933, c. 90, 48 Stat. 195, by favoring a particular building material and closing specifications with respect to it so that other materials of equal efficiency were excluded, but the government had no proof of any agreed design to defraud the government, particular material admittedly had advantages for use in construction work, and indictment had been dismissed as to other defendants, the government did not make a submissible case as against corporate defendant. U.S. v. Haskins, W.D.Mo.1941, 40 F.Supp. 219. Indictment And Information ↻ 144.1(1)

Existence of single conspiracy to defraud government through commingling of funds in warehouse bank was supported by evidence that all defendants had reason to believe that their own benefits derived from operation were probably dependent upon success of entire venture. U.S. v. Anderson, C.A.9 (Or.) 2004, 94 Fed.Appx. 487, 2004 WL 604937, Unreported, certiorari denied 125 S.Ct. 192, 543 U.S. 863, 160 L.Ed.2d 105, rehearing denied, rehearing denied 125 S.Ct. 493, 543 U.S. 984, 160 L.Ed.2d 367, certiorari denied 125 S.Ct. 203, 543 U.S. 863, 160 L.Ed.2d 105. Conspiracy ↻ 47(6)

736. ---- Alteration of obligations of United States, defrauding United States, sufficiency of evidence

Assuming arguendo, in prosecution for conspiring (a) to defraud the United States government by stealing, forging and negotiating United States treasury checks and (b) to steal state welfare checks from the United States mails, that the evidence was insufficient to establish the two substantive crimes charged as the object of the conspiracy, the evidence was nevertheless amply sufficient to establish both the conspiracy alleged and the numerous overt acts in furtherance of that unlawful agreement. U. S. v. Williams, C.A.5 (Ga.) 1973, 474 F.2d 1047. Conspiracy ↻ 47(3.1); Conspiracy ↻ 47(6)

In a prosecution for conspiracy falsely to make and alter United States War Savings Certificates and United States War Savings Certificate Stamps and to publish, utter, and sell the altered obligations, evidence that defendant had in his possession altered stamps, and that he had pleaded guilty to an indictment charging him with possessing altered stamps with the intention to pass and sell them, was insufficient to sustain conviction of conspiracy to sell or alter such stamps. Peterson v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Or.) 1921, 274 F. 929. Conspiracy ↻ 47(3.1)

737. ---- False and fraudulent claims, defrauding United States, sufficiency of evidence

In prosecution against corporation and its president for conspiracy to defraud United States and for presentation of false invoices to War Shipping Administration, evidence that president was promoter of a long and persistent scheme to defraud, that making of false invoices was a part of such project, that makers of false invoices were president's subordinates, that his family was chief owner of business, that he was manager of business, that his chief subordinates were his brothers-in-law, and that he had charge of office where invoices were made out, warranted conviction of president on charge of presentation of false invoices as an aider and abettor, whether or not the substantive offense of presenting false invoices was done pursuant to the conspiracy. Nye & Nissen v. U.S., U.S.Cal.1949, 69 S.Ct. 766, 336 U.S. 613, 93 L.Ed. 919. United States ⚡ 123

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Jury's finding that alleged conspirator who referred at least ten aliens to individual who assisted them in obtaining fraudulent Social Security cards possessed requisite knowledge of and participated in conspiracy to commit identification and Social Security fraud was sufficiently supported by evidence, including evidence that he personally handed aliens' passports and money to this individual, and that six of fraudulent Social Security cards were mailed to his business address. U.S. v. Ndiaye, C.A.11 (Ga.) 2006, 434 F.3d 1270, rehearing and rehearing en banc denied 2006 WL 644011, petition for certiorari filed 2006 WL 1583504. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(6)

Determination that defendant, who was bank president, knew of purpose of conspiracy to defraud Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD), and that he willingly and knowingly played key role as participant in it, as required for conviction for conspiring to defraud United States, was supported by evidence that defendant misrepresented that bank had provided coconspirators private financing required to obtain money from HUD, and that private financing had paid for equipment. U.S. v. Gjerde, C.A.8 (Minn.) 1997, 110 F.3d 595, rehearing and suggestion for rehearing en banc denied, certiorari denied 118 S.Ct. 367, 522 U.S. 949, 139 L.Ed.2d 285. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(6)

Evidence that defendant's corporation was paid for new oxygen concentrators provided to Medicare patients even though corporation's records showed that it had never purchased or delivered new machines, that claims for those machines were personally delivered to codefendant, who was working as Medicare claims processor and who was also employed by corporation to work on Medicare claims, and that codefendant processed claims without control number, and instructed subordinates to pay claims that had been determined to be nonpayable was sufficient to support conviction for conspiracy to defraud United States. U.S. v. Humphrey, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1994, 34 F.3d 551. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(6)

Evidence that defendant who was employed by health maintenance organization as chief financial officer and executive vice-president entered into scheme in which defendant and coconspirator conspired to obtain for coconspirator's benefit certain Medicare funds, contrary to Government's understanding that coconspirator would have no access or benefit of those funds, was sufficient to support convictions for conspiracy, wire fraud, concealment of material facts and theft involving program receiving federal funds. U.S. v. Fernandez, C.A.11 (Fla.) 1990, 905 F.2d 350. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(5); Fraud ⚡ 69(5); Larceny ⚡ 55; Telecommunications ⚡ 1018(4)

Evidence that defendant admitted that he agreed with principal to falsify milk and orangeade sales invoices and to lie to the county superintendent to hide the fact that some orangeade was being provided in place of milk in school lunch program and that he knew that the federal government reimbursement of the school lunch program was involved was sufficient to sustain defendant's conviction for conspiracy to defraud the United States. U. S. v. Jordan, C.A.5 (Ala.) 1980, 627 F.2d 683. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(6)

Testimony that salesman of correspondence school classes solicited enrollment in the courses, that he approached various prospective enrollees with the president of the school, and that he aided and abetted the principal in presenting the Veterans Administration with fraudulent claims was sufficient to sustain his conviction for conspiracy to defraud the Government. U. S. v. Young, C.A.10 (Utah) 1978, 575 F.2d 828. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(6)

Evidence was sufficient to establish a conspiracy to defraud the United States in respect to submission of a false cost overrun claim on a foreign aid project, notwithstanding contention that fraud, if any, was on foreign government in that claim was paid entirely by that government due to exhaustion of loan funds from United States, where interest of the United States in the manner in which project was being conducted was not only limited to accounting for United States funds invested in project, but extended to seeing that entire project was administered honestly and efficiently and without corruption and waste. U. S. v. Hay, C.A.10 (Colo.) 1975, 527 F.2d 990, certiorari denied 96 S.Ct. 1666, 425 U.S. 935, 48 L.Ed.2d 176. Conspiracy ↻ 47(6)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Evidence in prosecution of various defendants for conspiracy to defraud Department of Housing and Urban Development by rigging estimates and inflating billings in order to destroy competitive bidding on moving contracts for redevelopment authority for costs of moving displaced businesses was insufficient to show that attorney for some of displaced businesses participated in conspiracy or had "unity of purpose" or "common design" with other alleged conspirators or necessary specific intent to defraud Government. U. S. v. Kates, C.A.3 (Pa.) 1975, 508 F.2d 308. Conspiracy ↻ 47(6)

Evidence supported conviction of defendant, former vice-president and treasurer of savings and loan association, for conspiracy to misapply and misapplication of $244,250 of association's funds in check kiting scheme under which personal checks of customer of association were exchanged for checks drawn on association. U. S. v. Kaczmarek, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1974, 490 F.2d 1031. Building And Loan Associations ↻ 23(8); Conspiracy ↻ 47(11)

In prosecution for unlawfully and knowingly making false statements as to material facts to government agency, and for conspiracy, evidence was insufficient to sustain conviction of physician defendant for conspiracy though it was sufficient to sustain conviction of nonphysician defendant, for falsely certifying that physician had supervised rendition of physical therapy services, and for conspiracy. U.S. v. Peterson, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1974, 488 F.2d 645, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 49, 419 U.S. 828, 42 L.Ed.2d 53. Conspiracy ↻ 47(6)

Evidence sustained conviction for conspiracy to violate § 287 of this title by presenting claims to education and training allowances to the Veterans Administration knowing them to be false and fraudulent. U. S. v. Chicago Professional Schools, Inc., C.A.7 (Ill.) 1961, 290 F.2d 285. Conspiracy ↻ 47(6)

Evidence was insufficient to sustain conviction of a corporation, and its president, of conspiracy to present a false and fraudulent statement to the federal government in connection with a claim arising out of termination of government contracts for the convenience of the government. Maxwell v. U.S., C.A.6 (Mich.) 1960, 277 F.2d 481. Conspiracy ↻ 47(6)

Evidence sustained convictions for conspiracy, and for willfully making or using false writings or documents in a matter within the jurisdiction of a department of the United States. Ebeling v. U.S., C.A.8 (Mo.) 1957, 248 F.2d 429, certiorari denied 78 S.Ct. 334, 355 U.S. 907, 2 L.Ed.2d 261. Conspiracy ↻ 47(6); Fraud ↻ 69(5)

In prosecution of two corporate defendants and five individual defendants on charges of conspiracy to defraud United States by delivering under contracts with Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation rejected egg powder and conspiracy to defraud United States by obtaining payment of certain false claims, evidence against one of the individual defendants was sufficient to support his conviction on both charges. U.S. v. Samuel Dunkel & Co., C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1950, 184 F.2d 894, certiorari denied 71 S.Ct. 491, 340 U.S. 930, 95 L.Ed. 671. Conspiracy ↻ 47(6)

Evidence sustained verdict finding that defendant had presented false claims against government for stevedoring work and had conspired to commit such offense. U. S. v. Toner, C.A.3 (Pa.) 1949, 173 F.2d 140. United States ↻ 123; Conspiracy ↻ 47(6)

In prosecution for conspiracy to defraud the United States, for whom employer was building three vessels, by making false claims as to amount of work done, evidence sustained finding that there was one general conspiracy as alleged, and not several separate ones. McGunnigal v. U. S., C.C.A.1 (Mass.) 1945, 151 F.2d 162, certiorari denied 66 S.Ct. 267, 326 U.S. 776, 90 L.Ed. 469. Conspiracy ↻ 47(6)

In prosecution for conspiracy to defraud the United States, for whom employer was building three vessels, by

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

making false claims as to amount of work done, evidence sustained finding that defendants knew that fictitious labor charges would be reflected in higher costs to the United States and that United States would ultimately be the victim of their fraud. McGunnigal v. U. S., C.C.A.1 (Mass.) 1945, 151 F.2d 162, certiorari denied 66 S.Ct. 267, 326 U.S. 776, 90 L.Ed. 469. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(6)

In prosecution for conspiring to commit an offense against the United States and for presenting false claims concerning the source of gold and time of its production in connection with sale of gold to the mint at San Francisco, evidence sustained conviction. Fuller v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1940, 110 F.2d 815, certiorari denied 61 S.Ct. 29, 311 U.S. 669, 85 L.Ed. 430. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(6); United States ⚡ 34

Evidence was sufficient for jury on question whether corporate officer conspired to defraud the United States by delivering underweight bags of cement to government project and obtaining payment of false and fraudulent claims. Mininsohn v. U.S., C.C.A.3 (N.J.) 1939, 101 F.2d 477. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.1(3)

Evidence reviewed in the charge to the jury on trial of consolidated indictments and counts severally charging conspiracy to defraud the United States between contractors for public work and the government engineer officer in charge of the same, the presentation of fraudulent claims against, the embezzlement from, the United States. U.S. v. Greene, S.D.Ga.1906, 146 F. 803, affirmed 154 F. 401, 85 C.C.A. 251, certiorari denied 28 S.Ct. 261, 207 U.S. 596, 52 L.Ed. 357. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(3.1)

Finding that defendant willfully participated in conspiracy to commit mail fraud and to sell prescription drugs without a license was supported by evidence that defendant falsified shipping labels and pedigree sheets to hide source of drugs, which he knowingly received from person who had no distribution license, and that defendant made false sworn statements as part of his application for distribution license. U.S. v. Fortgang, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 2003, 77 Fed.Appx. 37, 2003 WL 22134572, Unreported. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(5); Conspiracy ⚡ 47(12)

738. ---- Loans, defrauding United States, sufficiency of evidence

Defendant's conviction for conspiracy based on his role in scheme in which fraudulent loan applications were submitted to federally insured bank was supported by testimony of defendant, customers, bank employees, and others which indicated that defendant, two fellow employees at dealership, and bank loan officer were involved in ongoing series of offenses including bribing bank official and making false statements for purpose of influencing federally insured bank and that offenses were committed routinely in order to obtain loans so that dealership's customers could purchase automobiles with funds obtained from bank. U.S. v. Spears, C.A.6 (Ky.) 1995, 49 F.3d 1136. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(4)

Evidence supported convictions of real estate agent and mortgage loan officer for conspiring to commit offense against United States and making false, fictitious, or fraudulent statements to agency of United States in connection with applications to obtain Federal Housing Administration (FHA) loans. U.S. v. Chichy, C.A.6 (Ohio) 1993, 1 F.3d 1501, certiorari denied 114 S.Ct. 620, 510 U.S. 1019, 126 L.Ed.2d 584. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(3.1); Conspiracy ⚡ 47(6)

Evidence demonstrated a close working relationship between defendant and major shareholder of corporation, and that defendant was more than a knowledgeable bystander to shareholder's activities in falsely representing to the Small Business Administration that the sum of the paid-in capital and paid-in surplus of corporation exceeded $500,000 in order to obtain a larger amount of financial assistance from the Administration, and therefore supported defendant's conviction of conspiracy to defraud or commit an offense against the Administration. U. S. v. Swarek, C.A.8 (Ark.) 1981, 656 F.2d 331, certiorari denied 102 S.Ct. 573, 454 U.S. 1034, 70 L.Ed.2d 478. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(6)

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate section 1001 of this title by knowingly making or causing to be made false,

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

fictitious and fraudulent representations in an application to Small Business Administration for the guaranty of a bank loan, evidence was sufficient to support finding that defendant, who was president of lending bank, and borrower's owner conspired to misrepresent purposes for which loan proceeds were to be used, to divert proceeds from purposes for which loan was made and to conceal that fact from the Small Business Administration. U. S. v. Kramer, C.A.10 (Colo.) 1975, 521 F.2d 1073, certiorari denied 96 S.Ct. 1104, 424 U.S. 909, 47 L.Ed.2d 313. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(6)

Evidence was sufficient to support conviction for conspiring to defraud the United States of its rights to have the official business of the SBA conducted honestly and impartially, to have personnel of the agency free to conduct business without exertion upon them of undue pressure and of the right to the unbiased performance of supervisory loan specialist free from bias and fraud resulting from his personal and pecuniary interest in business sought to be financed with aid of SBA guaranteed loan. U. S. v. Smith, C.A.10 (Okla.) 1974, 496 F.2d 185, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 225, 419 U.S. 964, 42 L.Ed.2d 179, rehearing denied 95 S.Ct. 646, 419 U.S. 1060, 42 L.Ed.2d 658. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(6)

Evidence was sufficient to present questions for jury as to whether a defendant falsely represented earnings of applicant for an FHA mortgage, and as to whether such representation was made as part of a conspiracy to violate § 1010 of this title proscribing making of false statements in an FHA transaction. U. S. v. Dunn, C.A.6 (Ky.) 1962, 299 F.2d 548. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.1(3); Fraud ⚡ 69(6)

Proof of an agreement between a realty agent and purported purchaser of realty, that down payment check for $3,500 would be destroyed after an FHA insured loan was approved, and that purchaser would pay only whatever amount he could obtain through an FHA insured loan, would be sufficient to allow conviction of agent for conspiracy and substantive violation of § 1010 of this title proscribing making of false statements in an FHA transaction. U. S. v. Dunn, C.A.6 (Ky.) 1962, 299 F.2d 548. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(6); Fraud ⚡ 69(5)

In prosecution of building contractor's salesman, evidence sustained convictions of conspiracy and of willful false representations to Federal Housing Administration of borrower's credit. U.S. v. Rosenfeld, C.A.7 (Ind.) 1956, 235 F.2d 544, certiorari denied 77 S.Ct. 226, 352 U.S. 928, 1 L.Ed.2d 163. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(6); Fraud ⚡ 69(5)

In prosecution for conspiracy involving fraudulent procurement of home loan guaranties by Veterans' Administration, evidence was sufficient to sustain conviction. McClanahan v. U.S., C.A.5 (Tex.) 1956, 230 F.2d 919, certiorari denied 77 S.Ct. 33, 352 U.S. 824, 1 L.Ed.2d 47. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(6)

Evidence sustained conviction of real estate dealer for conspiracy to make and use a false certificate for purpose of inducing Veterans' Administration to guarantee a mortgage home loan to a veteran, and for causing false certificate to be made and used by lender, knowing that it contained fictitious statements and entries, in a matter within jurisdiction of Veterans' Administration for purpose of inducing the Veterans' Administration to guarantee loan to veteran. U. S. v. Aderman, C.A.7 (Wis.) 1951, 191 F.2d 980, certiorari denied 72 S.Ct. 366, 342 U.S. 927, 96 L.Ed. 691, rehearing denied 72 S.Ct. 552, 342 U.S. 950, 96 L.Ed. 706. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(6); Fraud ⚡ 69(5)

Evidence supported convictions under indictment charging violations of this section and § 1010 of this title, making it unlawful knowingly to make or cause to be made false statements to obtain loans intending that they be offered to the Federal Housing Administration for insurance, or for purpose of influencing action of that agency, and also charging a conspiracy to violate said section. Ross v. U. S., C.A.6 (Ohio) 1950, 180 F.2d 160. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(6); Fraud ⚡ 69(5)

In prosecution for conspiracy to defraud the United States by inducing the Veterans Administration through fraudulent representations to guarantee a home loan to veteran, evidence was sufficient for the jury and to sustain conviction. Heald v. U. S., C.A.10 (Colo.) 1949, 175 F.2d 878, certiorari denied 70 S.Ct. 101, 338 U.S. 859, 94 L.Ed. 526, certiorari denied 70 S.Ct. 102, 338 U.S. 859, 94 L.Ed. 526. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(6); Conspiracy ⚡

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

48.1(3)

Proof that defendants knew that one who was acting as a broker for them in securing a loan in fraud of National Housing Act, § 1701 et seq. of Title 12, was at the time acting as a broker for a number of other persons who were also obtaining loans in fraud of said sections, and who were making false representations similar to those which defendants made, was not enough to make defendants confederates with the other applicants. United States v. Lekacos, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1945, 151 F.2d 170, certiorari granted 66 S.Ct. 169, 326 U.S. 711, 90 L.Ed. 420, reversed on other grounds 66 S.Ct. 1239, 328 U.S. 750, 90 L.Ed. 1557. Conspiracy ↻ 40.1

Evidence authorized conviction of money lender of conspiracy to cause to be made or passed statements, known to be false, for purpose of influencing Federal Housing Administration to insure certain loans. C. I. T. Corp. v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Wash.) 1945, 150 F.2d 85. Conspiracy ↻ 47(6)

Evidence authorized conviction of field manager of household implement and supply dealer of conspiracy with money lender to cause to be made or passed statements which he knew to be false for purpose of influencing action of Federal Housing Administration on applications for F.H.A. insurance on loans for installation of furnaces and hot water heaters. C. I. T. Corp. v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Wash.) 1945, 150 F.2d 85. Conspiracy ↻ 47(6)

Evidence sustained conviction of violation of National Housing Act, § 1731(a) of Title 12, in obtaining loan on a misrepresentation, of concealing a material fact in presenting claim to government and of conspiracy. U.S. v. Uram, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1945, 148 F.2d 187. Conspiracy ↻ 47(3.1); False Pretenses ↻ 49(1); United States ↻ 123

Evidence was sufficient to sustain conviction for conspiracy to make false statements to secure loans for modernization of old houses under National Housing Act, §§ 1703(a, b, g), 1731(a) of Title 12. U.S. v. Groopman, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1945, 147 F.2d 782, certiorari denied 66 S.Ct. 29, 326 U.S. 745, 90 L.Ed. 445. Conspiracy ↻ 47(4)

Where applications for home modernization loans under National Housing Act, § 1701 et seq. of Title 12, were made by employees of a defendant for premises which had been deeded to borrowers by one of defendant's companies and which, after application had been made, were deeded back to another company of the defendant, evidence was sufficient to connect defendant with conspiracy to violate said sections. U.S. v. Groopman, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1945, 147 F.2d 782, certiorari denied 66 S.Ct. 29, 326 U.S. 745, 90 L.Ed. 445. Conspiracy ↻ 47(3.1)

739. ---- Tax avoidance, defrauding United States, sufficiency of evidence

Evidence of the existence of, and defendant's knowing participation in, a conspiracy was sufficient to support conviction for conspiracy to defraud the Internal Revenue service (IRS) in the function of assessing and collecting taxes, though individuals working in tax consultation business each considered themselves to be independent contractors, as testimony at trial suggested that defendant controlled the business, brought in the funds, allocated how money would be spent, and decided how the business would work, which involved having clients claim personal expenses as business deductions. U.S. v. Fletcher, C.A.8 (Ark.) 2003, 322 F.3d 508. Conspiracy ↻ 47(9)

Evidence was sufficient to support defendant's conviction for conspiracy to defraud United States, where defendant failed to file income tax return and reported no legal income during six-year period when he spent more than $300,000, he made concerted efforts to conceal his expenditures by making purchases in other persons' names and structuring currency transactions to avoid filing currency transaction reports. U.S. v. Jackson, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1994, 33 F.3d 866, rehearing denied, certiorari denied 115 S.Ct. 1316, 514 U.S. 1005, 131 L.Ed.2d 197, rehearing denied 115 S.Ct. 1992, 514 U.S. 1123, 131 L.Ed.2d 878. Conspiracy ↻ 47(9)

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Defendant's conviction for conspiracy to defraud the United States in the collection of income taxes was supported by evidence of numerous cash transactions involving defendant and person who allegedly evaded income taxes, evidence that they formed a Bahamian corporation, and evidence of currency transactions in which they engaged. U.S. v. Ayers, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1991, 924 F.2d 1468, rehearing denied. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(9)

Defendant's convictions for conspiracy to defraud the Government by promoting fraudulent tax shelters and aiding and assisting in the preparation of false tax returns were supported by evidence that he spoke at seminars to generate clients for company offering tax shelters and attended seminars at which licensees of the company were informed of the tax schemes and that he otherwise participated in the creation of the tax scheme, despite his claim that he was merely an attorney providing tax advice. U.S. v. Bryan, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1990, 896 F.2d 68, rehearing denied, certiorari denied 111 S.Ct. 133, 498 U.S. 847, 112 L.Ed.2d 101, certiorari denied 111 S.Ct. 76, 498 U.S. 824, 112 L.Ed.2d 49. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(9); Internal Revenue ⚡ 5303

Evidence indicating that defendants and their associates consistently promoted the same tax avoidance plans using the same pyramidal sales system, whatever the name of the particular church, with the new affiliations being viewed and marketed merely as a safer and superior means for participants to avoid taxation and earned income, was sufficient, as against a claim of multiple conspiracies, to establish existence of a single overall conspiracy to defraud the United States by selling ministries in purported tax-exempt churches. U.S. v. Heinemann, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1986, 801 F.2d 86, certiorari denied 107 S.Ct. 1308, 479 U.S. 1094, 94 L.Ed.2d 163. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(6)

Finding that defendant, whom jury found guilty of conspiracy and substantive offense, was conspiring on certain date could not be sustained by testimony of several witnesses that they saw defendant prior to such date at race track with codefendant, as to whom court affirmed conviction for aiding in preparation of false-internal revenue form and conspiracy to defraud United States with respect to information required of race tracks concerning gambling winnings. U. S. v. Cantone, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1970, 426 F.2d 902, certiorari denied 91 S.Ct. 55, 400 U.S. 827, 27 L.Ed.2d 57. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(9)

Evidence was insufficient to establish that defendants entered into agreement with customers of defendants' employer for purpose of helping customers defraud Internal Revenue Service (IRS) by concealing taxable income, as element of offense of conspiracy to defraud United States; although defendants knew employer operated a rebate program that could be used by customers to evade taxes, rebate program also had other purposes, and there was no direct evidence that defendants discussed tax implications of rebate program with each other or with customers who were alleged co-conspirators. U.S. v. Pappathanasi, D.Mass.2005, 383 F.Supp.2d 289. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(9)

Evidence, that defendant actively participated in creation of sham trusts and advised at least one client of coconspirator with respect to land patents that were used in scheme to defraud government of tax dollars, was sufficient to show knowing participation in conspiracy to defraud government. U.S. v. DeMott, C.A.9 (Idaho) 2003, 57 Fed.Appx. 743, 2003 WL 193580, Unreported, certiorari denied 123 S.Ct. 2286, 539 U.S. 920, 156 L.Ed.2d 139, post-conviction relief denied 2005 WL 3263901. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(5)

740. Election offenses, sufficiency of evidence

Savings and loan officers' convictions for conspiracy to commit offense against United States were supported by evidence that officers knew that corporations could not make political contributions and that they devised scheme to disguise corporate contributions as individual contributions, with resulting interference with proper functioning of Federal Election Commission (FEC), Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation (FSLIC), and Federal Home Loan Bank Board (FHLBB). U.S. v. Hopkins, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1990, 916 F.2d 207. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(3.1)

Evidence that defendant played a central role in soliciting woman's vote in party primary election, that employee of county welfare office responsible for issuing vouchers during pendency of campaign discussed distribution of welfare vouchers with defendant, and that defendant, on several occasions, referred to welfare recipients who were

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

"all right" because they were voting the right way and should be "helped" by issuing vouchers to them, was sufficient to support finding that defendant had knowingly participated in a conspiracy to buy votes in party primary election through the use of welfare vouchers. U.S. v. Saenz, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1984, 747 F.2d 930, rehearing denied 752 F.2d 646, certiorari denied 105 S.Ct. 3531, 473 U.S. 906, 87 L.Ed.2d 655. Conspiracy ↻ 47(3.1)

Evidence of supper meetings at defendant's lake house at which vote-buying plans were made was sufficient evidence of existence of a conspiracy and knowledge was established by fact that part-time employee managed vote-buying plan from defendant's office with latter's tacit approval and defendant's participation was shown by his personally recruiting two workers and telling them it was okay to pay off voters. U. S. v. Carmichael, C.A.4 (S.C.) 1982, 685 F.2d 903, certiorari denied 103 S.Ct. 1187, 459 U.S. 1202, 75 L.Ed.2d 434. Conspiracy ↻ 47(3.1)

Evidence supported conviction of individual defendant who was officer of corporate defendant of conspiracy to violate Public Utility Holding Company Act, § 791 of Title 15, prohibiting political contributions by any registered public utility holding company. Egan v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Mo.) 1943, 137 F.2d 369, certiorari denied 64 S.Ct. 195, 320 U.S. 788, 88 L.Ed. 474. Conspiracy ↻ 47(3.1)

Evidence supported conviction of corporate defendant of conspiring to violate the Public Utility Holding Company Act, § 791 of Title 15, prohibiting political contributions by any registered public utility holding company and of substantive offenses in violation of said section, where it appeared that corporate defendant's officers in making political contributions were engaged in business of corporate defendant, employing corporate powers actually authorized for benefit of corporate defendants, while acting, although illegally, within scope of their employment. Egan v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Mo.) 1943, 137 F.2d 369, certiorari denied 64 S.Ct. 195, 320 U.S. 788, 88 L.Ed. 474. Conspiracy ↻ 47(3.1); Elections ↻ 329

Evidence was insufficient to support conviction for conspiracy to intimidate voters of right to vote and to have their votes for candidates for federal offices counted as actually cast by them. Kart v. U. S., C.C.A.3 (Pa.) 1936, 104 F.2d 19. Conspiracy ↻ 47(3.1)

Evidence relating to false certification of tally books and poll books in certain precinct, conferences prior to election between defendant, who was a Democratic ward boss, and workers representing both Democratic and Republican parties, and to removal of certain Republican judges of election after threats by defendant that they would be beaten up if not removed, was sufficient to justify conviction for conspiring to injure specified citizens in exercise of elective franchise. Ryan v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Mo.) 1938, 99 F.2d 864, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 484, 306 U.S. 635, 83 L.Ed. 1037, rehearing denied 59 S.Ct. 586, 306 U.S. 668, 83 L.Ed. 1063. Conspiracy ↻ 47(3.1)

Evidence was sufficient to take to jury question of defendants' guilt under charge of conspiracy to defraud United States by buying surplus army goods under false pretenses. U.S. v. Byers, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1934, 73 F.2d 419. Conspiracy ↻ 48.1(2.1)

741. Embezzlement, sufficiency of evidence

Defendant's conviction for conspiracy to embezzle tribal funds was supported by coconspirator's testimony that defendant who was in position of authority in tribe was in charge of embezzlement scheme and decided when and how coconspirator would cash checks drawn from tribe's account and how proceeds would be divided. U.S. v. Stoner, C.A.10 (Okla.) 1996, 98 F.3d 527, adhered to in part on rehearing 139 F.3d 1343, certiorari denied 119 S.Ct. 403, 525 U.S. 961, 142 L.Ed.2d 327. Conspiracy ↻ 47(11)

Evidence supported conviction of defendant attorney for conspiracy to embezzle funds belonging to labor union pension plan; there was testimony that defendant had been present at meetings during which there had been discussion of taking certificates of deposit, made available by pension plan for purpose of pledge to secure loan from Louisiana Imports and Exports Trust Authority, and using them to secure loans for other business ventures of codefendants, and defendant was well enough acquainted with business affairs of codefendants to know their need for money. U.S. v. Williams, C.A.5 (Miss.) 1994, 12 F.3d 452, rehearing denied. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(11)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Substantial evidence supported jury finding of overall conspiracy to embezzle union funds and that each of defendants knowingly joined such conspiracy and participated in furthering its objectives. Hayes v. U. S., C.A.8 (Mo.) 1964, 329 F.2d 209, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 1883, 377 U.S. 980, 12 L.Ed.2d 748. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(11)

In prosecution for conspiracy to embezzle union funds, evidence that contractor built buildings on land of which he was part owner, that cost of construction was borne by union, that union paid rent for the buildings to contractor, who subsequently sold them for his own benefit, and that unidentified conspirator signed checks by which union funds were transferred to contractor for use in the construction, sustained verdict finding contractor guilty as a conspirator. U.S. v. Speed, D.C.D.C.1948, 78 F.Supp. 366. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(11)

Evidence was sufficient to support convictions of embezzlement and conspiracy to embezzle, based on defendant's acts as vice president of public housing association which had received grant from Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) to help members manage and purchase their own properties; defendant was named as being responsible for using disbursement vouchers, signed by association's president, to make requests for release of funds through HUD line of credit control systems, and there was evidence that defendant and association's president agreed to use, had intent to use, and used grant money to cover personal expenses. U.S. v. Clarke, C.A.9 (Hawai'i) 2003, 81 Fed.Appx. 983, 2003 WL 22854679, Unreported. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(11); Embezzlement ⚡ 44(1)

Convictions for embezzlement and conspiracy to embezzle money from insurance company were supported by sufficient evidence, even though credibility of government witness, who had generated fraudulent checks payable to defendant, was damaged by his lies, where such witness presented coherent story of defendant's participation in scheme through cashing checks, and government also presented testimony of another participant, phone records, and evidence that defendant lied when asked what he did with money after cashing check. U.S. v. Drag, C.A.7 (Ill.) 2003, 61 Fed.Appx. 246, 2003 WL 366630, Unreported. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(11); Embezzlement ⚡ 44(1)

742. Escape, sufficiency of evidence

Evidence was sufficient to sustain conviction for conspiracy to escape from confinement in county jail while awaiting trial on federal charges, although defendant contended that one could not commit conspiracy with government agent who did not intend to enter into agreement; several witnesses testified that conspiracy began when defendant provided $10,000 to have fellow prisoner released to assist defendant, government witness testified about his efforts to help defendant escape and testified that several individuals provided him with instructions about escape attempts through use of coded messages, false names, and midnight deliveries, and there was evidence that defendant planned escape with nongovernment agent. U.S. v. Valverde, C.A.8 (Ark.) 1988, 846 F.2d 513. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(3.1)

Evidence that defendant held director of corrections department by collar while final plan to rush door was formulated, that defendant stood in the front line of the inmates at the door holding the director as a shield, that defendant took turns with another inmate beating the director in order to compel him to order the door opened and participated in the general harangue against the director which followed the abortive escape attempt was sufficient to sustain defendant's conviction for participation in conspiracy to escape from jail. U. S. v. Bridgeman, C.A.D.C.1975, 523 F.2d 1099, 173 U.S.App.D.C. 150, certiorari denied 96 S.Ct. 1743, 425 U.S. 961, 48 L.Ed.2d 206, certiorari denied 96 S.Ct. 1744, 425 U.S. 961, 48 L.Ed.2d 206. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(3.1)

Issue of defendants' guilt under this section governing crime of conspiracy and section 3 of this title governing crime of being an accessory after the fact were resolved by proof that they intended to aid an individual to escape from authorities, and fact that defendants may not have known the jurisdictional or federal nature of individual's pursuers and his crime was irrelevant to issue. U. S. v. Hobson, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1975, 519 F.2d 765, certiorari denied 96 S.Ct. 283, 423 U.S. 931, 46 L.Ed.2d 261. Conspiracy ↻ 34; Compounding Offenses ↻ 3.5

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

743. Espionage, sufficiency of evidence

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate espionage laws, evidence sustained finding that immigration agents who effected defendant's arrest based on information furnished by agents of the F.B.I., who received permission to question defendant prior to his arrest, did not use an administrative arrest warrant they had obtained, merely as a tool for the F.B.I. in building a criminal prosecution against defendant, but that the immigration service in arresting defendant under the warrant was exercising its powers in the lawful discharge of its own responsibilities, and therefore articles seized as a consequence of use of the warrant were not subject to suppression. Abel v. U.S., U.S.N.Y.1960, 80 S.Ct. 683, 362 U.S. 217, 4 L.Ed.2d 668, rehearing denied 80 S.Ct. 1056, 362 U.S. 984, 4 L.Ed.2d 1019. Criminal Law ↻ 394.6(4)

Evidence was sufficient to sustain conviction for conspiring to violate espionage laws. U S v. Abel, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1958, 258 F.2d 485, certiorari granted 79 S.Ct. 59, 358 U.S. 813, 3 L.Ed.2d 56, affirmed 80 S.Ct. 683, 362 U.S. 217, 4 L.Ed.2d 668, rehearing denied 80 S.Ct. 1056, 362 U.S. 984, 4 L.Ed.2d 1019. Conspiracy ↻ 47(3.1)

Evidence sustained convictions for conspiracy to violate § 794 of this title. United States v. Rosenberg, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1952, 195 F.2d 583, certiorari denied 73 S.Ct. 20, 344 U.S. 838, 97 L.Ed. 652, rehearing denied 73 S.Ct. 134, 344 U.S. 889, 97 L.Ed. 687, certiorari denied 73 S.Ct. 21, 344 U.S. 838, 97 L.Ed. 652, rehearing denied 73 S.Ct. 180, 344 U.S. 889, 97 L.Ed. 687, rehearing denied 74 S.Ct. 860, 347 U.S. 1021, 98 L.Ed. 1142, motion denied 78 S.Ct. 91, 355 U.S. 860, 2 L.Ed.2d 67. Conspiracy ↻ 47(3.1)

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate § 794 of this title, wherein one of alleged coconspirators contended that there were multiple conspiracies and that he was not proved to be member of conspiracy to ship information to Russia, evidence established that there was but single conspiracy with common end consisting of transmission to Soviet Union of any and all information relating to national defense, and that particular defendant had consented to become member of such conspiracy. United States v. Rosenberg, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1952, 195 F.2d 583, certiorari denied 73 S.Ct. 20, 344 U.S. 838, 97 L.Ed. 652, rehearing denied 73 S.Ct. 134, 344 U.S. 889, 97 L.Ed. 687, certiorari denied 73 S.Ct. 21, 344 U.S. 838, 97 L.Ed. 652, rehearing denied 73 S.Ct. 180, 344 U.S. 889, 97 L.Ed. 687, rehearing denied 74 S.Ct. 860, 347 U.S. 1021, 98 L.Ed. 1142, motion denied 78 S.Ct. 91, 355 U.S. 860, 2 L.Ed.2d 67. Conspiracy ↻ 47(3.1)

In prosecution for conspiring to defraud the United States and attempting to deliver defense information to citizen of a foreign nation evidence of defendant's guilt was sufficient for the jury. United States v. Coplton, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1950, 185 F.2d 629, certiorari denied 72 S.Ct. 362, 342 U.S. 920, 96 L.Ed. 688. Conspiracy ↻ 48.1(3); War And National Emergency ↻ 48

744. False personation, sufficiency of evidence

Evidence that persons representing developer who was seeking funds from Department of Housing and Urban Redevelopment met with defendant, who was in a position of authority at the Department, and asked her to look into the status of the project, that she forwarded information to Federal Housing Commissioner, and that funding was thereafter provided to county housing authority in the amount necessary to meet the developer's request was insufficient to show conspiracy by the defendant to defraud the United States by causing the award of funds. U.S. v. Dean, C.A.D.C.1995, 55 F.3d 640, 312 U.S.App.D.C. 75, rehearing in banc denied, certiorari denied 116 S.Ct. 1288, 516 U.S. 1184, 134 L.Ed.2d 232. Conspiracy ↻ 47(6)

In prosecution for aiding, abetting, counseling, commanding, inducing and procuring another to falsely assume and pretend to another to be an agent of internal revenue bureau and to demand money of such other person in such pretended character, and for conspiring to commit such substantive offense, proof of formal agreement was not necessary and it was sufficient to show that minds of accused and alleged principal met in understanding way so as to bring about intelligent and deliberate agreement to do acts charged, although such agreement was not manifested by formal words. Colosacco v. U.S., C.A.10 (Colo.) 1952, 196 F.2d 165. Conspiracy ↻ 24(1)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Evidence justified conviction for aiding, abetting, counseling, commanding, inducing and procuring another to falsely assume and pretend to another to be an agent of internal revenue bureau and to demand money of such other person in such pretended character, and for conspiring to commit such substantive offense. Colosacco v. U.S., C.A.10 (Colo.) 1952, 196 F.2d 165. Conspiracy ↻ 47(4); False Pretenses ↻ 49(1)

Evidence sustained conviction of conspiracy to personate federal immigrant inspectors. Heskett v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1932, 58 F.2d 897, certiorari denied 53 S.Ct. 89, 287 U.S. 643, 77 L.Ed. 556. Conspiracy ↻ 47(4)

Evidence of conspiracy to have substitute receive sentence and serve term for convicted offender was sufficient as to one defendant but insufficient as to others. Donovan v. U S, C.C.A.3 (Pa.) 1931, 54 F.2d 193.

745. Firearms, sufficiency of evidence

Evidence of the existence of an agreement to make a false statement was sufficient to support conviction for conspiracy to make a false statement to acquire a firearm; defendant made repeated visits to a pawn shop, told the owner that he was underage and told an employee that he and his father were gun collectors, and filled out the purchase form which his father signed. U.S. v. Montgomery, C.A.8 (Ark.) 2006, 444 F.3d 1023. Conspiracy ↻ 47(3.1)

Finding of agreement element of conspiracy to transfer firearm illegally was supported by evidence that defendant approached undercover police officer and told him about friend who could supply guns, defendant arranged first meeting between officer and seller, persisted in bringing officer to first meeting despite officer's reluctance, asked seller whether seller had brought sawed-off shotgun, remained present throughout first meeting, approached officer about second meeting, arranged second meeting at which shotgun was transferred, and continued to telephone seller after transfer, notwithstanding evidence that he did not attend second meeting and contention that he merely found willing seller for willing buyer. U.S. v. Benevides, C.A.1 (R.I.) 1993, 985 F.2d 629. Conspiracy ↻ 47(3.1)

Evidence that defendant was the person with the money, that defendant was the person who did most of the talking and looking, that defendant, after being told he could not purchase guns in Virginia because he was a New Jersey resident, went with two other persons to two more gun stores before successfully purchasing three handguns, that defendant had final say as to which guns were to be purchased, that defendant received change when sale was closed, and that defendant was person who had possession of guns at house after their purchase, established that defendant was the principal in the scheme and, thus, supported conviction for conspiring to deceive a licensed firearms dealer. U.S. v. Reyes, C.A.4 (Va.) 1985, 759 F.2d 351, certiorari denied 106 S.Ct. 164, 474 U.S. 857, 88 L.Ed.2d 136. Conspiracy ↻ 47(3.1)

Although there was evidence that defendant was not told that weapons and explosives were being paid for in marijuana and cocaine because he would not participate if he found that drugs were involved, evidence that he personally delivered some 300 pounds of dynamite and was prepared to personally deliver another 1,000 pounds and that he was paid five times as much as the dynamite would have been worth in a legal sale was sufficient to sustain his conviction for firearms conspiracy. U.S. v. Mulherin, C.A.11 (Ga.) 1983, 710 F.2d 731, certiorari denied 104 S.Ct. 402, 464 U.S. 964, 78 L.Ed.2d 343, certiorari denied 104 S.Ct. 1305, 465 U.S. 1034, 79 L.Ed.2d 703. Conspiracy ↻ 47(3.1)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Testimony of accomplice, even though uncorroborated, that defendant supplied weapons for sale and set the price at which accomplice sold each weapon was sufficient to support finding of conspiracy to deal in firearms without a license. U. S. v. Taylor, C.A.8 (Mo.) 1979, 599 F.2d 832. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(3.1)

Where government's evidence, direct and circumstantial, as to existence of conspiracy was ample, even slight evidence connecting particular defendant to conspiracy could be substantial and therefore sufficient proof of such defendant's involvement in the scheme, and evidence was sufficient to show involvement in conspiracy covering, inter alia, possession of unregistered firearms. U. S. v. Baumgarten, C.A.8 (Mo.) 1975, 517 F.2d 1020, certiorari denied 96 S.Ct. 152, 423 U.S. 878, 46 L.Ed.2d 111. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(2)

Fact that West German semi-automatic pistols were imported as part of exclusive importer's large order, rather than pursuant to police department's individual purchase order, was irrelevant to charge of willfully and knowingly conspiring with police officers to unlawfully import firearms in that all that was needed was unlawful agreement to import and an overt act to implement agreement. U.S. v. Goodman, M.D.Pa.1986, 639 F.Supp. 802, affirmed 800 F.2d 1140, certiorari denied 107 S.Ct. 887, 479 U.S. 1035, 93 L.Ed.2d 840. Conspiracy ⚡ 28(3)

746. Foreign agent registration, sufficiency of evidence

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate Foreign Agents Registration Act, § 612 of Title 22, evidence was sufficient to sustain determination that corporate defendant was agent for foreign principal within requirement for registration. U.S. v. German-American Vocational League, C.C.A.3 (N.J.) 1946, 153 F.2d 860, certiorari denied 66 S.Ct. 976, 328 U.S. 833, 90 L.Ed. 1608, certiorari denied 66 S.Ct. 976, 328 U.S. 833, 90 L.Ed. 1609, certiorari denied 66 S.Ct. 977, 328 U.S. 833, 90 L.Ed. 1609, certiorari denied 66 S.Ct. 977, 328 U.S. 834, 90 L.Ed. 1609, certiorari denied 66 S.Ct. 977, 328 U.S. 834, 90 L.Ed. 1610, certiorari denied 66 S.Ct. 978, 328 U.S. 834, 90 L.Ed. 1610. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(3.1)

Evidence was sufficient to sustain conviction for conspiracy to violate the Foreign Agents Registration Act, § 612 of Title 22. U.S. v. German-American Vocational League, C.C.A.3 (N.J.) 1946, 153 F.2d 860, certiorari denied 66 S.Ct. 976, 328 U.S. 833, 90 L.Ed. 1608, certiorari denied 66 S.Ct. 976, 328 U.S. 833, 90 L.Ed. 1609, certiorari denied 66 S.Ct. 977, 328 U.S. 833, 90 L.Ed. 1609, certiorari denied 66 S.Ct. 977, 328 U.S. 834, 90 L.Ed. 1609, certiorari denied 66 S.Ct. 977, 328 U.S. 834, 90 L.Ed. 1610, certiorari denied 66 S.Ct. 978, 328 U.S. 834, 90 L.Ed. 1610. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(3.1)

Evidence sustained conviction of conspiracy to violate § 601 of Title 22 which makes it a crime not to register with the Secretary of State if one is acting as an agent of a foreign government. United States v. Heine, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1945, 151 F.2d 813, certiorari denied 66 S.Ct. 975, 328 U.S. 833, 90 L.Ed. 1068. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(3.1)

Evidence sustained conviction of conspiring to disclose to German agents information, affecting national defense, and defendant's connection with conspiracies to violate § 601 of title 22, forbidding acting as foreign governmental agent without notice to Secretary of State. U.S. v. Ebeling, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1944, 146 F.2d 254. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(3.1)

Where conspiracies to violate § 601 of Title 22, forbidding acting as foreign governmental agent without notice to Secretary of State, and to violate § 32 of Title 50, forbidding disclosing information affecting national defense to foreign government, were conceded as proved, it was only necessary for prosecution to show that defendant participated therein. U.S. v. Ebeling, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1944, 146 F.2d 254. Conspiracy ⚡ 44.2

747. Forgery, sufficiency of evidence

Contrary to claim of particular defendant that evidence showed multiple discrete conspiracies and that his trial should have been severed from those involved in different agreement, evidence established quite clearly a conspiracy extending over a three-year period to forge and pass savings bonds, money orders and other obligations. U. S. v. Calabro, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1972, 467 F.2d 973, certiorari denied 93 S.Ct. 1357, 410 U.S. 926, 35 L.Ed.2d 587, certiorari denied 93 S.Ct. 1358, 410 U.S. 926, 35 L.Ed.2d 587, rehearing denied 93 S.Ct. 1891, 411 U.S. 941, 36 L.Ed.2d 404, certiorari denied 93 S.Ct. 1386, 410 U.S. 926, 35 L.Ed.2d 587, certiorari denied 93 S.Ct. 1403, 410 U.S. 926, 35 L.Ed.2d 587. Criminal Law ⚡ 622.7(4)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Evidence sustained finding that defendants whose automobile was overtaken by police and who were told to drive to police headquarters were not under arrest at time that one of defendants dropped forged board of elections card and forged driver's license, in prosecution for forging and uttering United States savings bond and conspiring to do so wherein defendants contended that there had been no probable cause for their arrest and that arrest had occurred prior to dropping forged documents. U. S. v. Smith, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1969, 405 F.2d 1203. Criminal Law ⚡ 394.6(4)

Evidence was sufficient to support finding that defendant who had sold to coindictee at least one of two money orders later forged and had sold to other coindictees four blank checks later forged and who had provided coindictees with check protector was member of conspiracy to violate section 2314 of this title, prohibiting unlawful and fraudulent interstate transportation of securities known to be forged. U. S. v. Chamley, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1967, 376 F.2d 57, certiorari denied 88 S.Ct. 221, 389 U.S. 898, 19 L.Ed.2d 220. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(3.1)

Evidence was sufficient to sustain conviction for unlawful interstate transportation of forged checks and for conspiracy to unlawfully transport such. Downing v. U. S., C.A.5 (Tex.) 1965, 348 F.2d 594, certiorari denied 86 S.Ct. 235, 382 U.S. 901, 15 L.Ed.2d 155. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(3.1); Receiving Stolen Goods ⚡ 8(3)

Evidence sustained conviction of conspiracy to transport in interstate commerce falsely made and forged checks. Sabari v. U. S., C.A.9 (Nev.) 1964, 333 F.2d 1019. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(3.1)

Evidence sustained conviction for forging and uttering and for aiding and abetting and for conspiracy in connection with cashing of United States savings bonds. U. S. v. Mullins, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1960, 325 F.2d 145. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(3.1); Forgery ⚡ 44(.5); Forgery ⚡ 44(3)

Evidence that defendants conspired to forge assignments on registered Liberty bonds and to utter and possess them was sufficient to go to jury. Meadows v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1926, 11 F.2d 718, certiorari denied 47 S.Ct. 97, 273 U.S. 702, 71 L.Ed. 848. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.1(2.1)

The unsupported testimony of an accomplice who contradicted himself and was discredited by his own testimony presented no substantial evidence that defendants conspired with him to violate former § 88 of this title [now this section] by forging a document which should admit the prosecuting witness into the United States Military Academy without taking a mental examination, and motion to direct an acquittal should have been granted. McGinniss v. U.S., C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1919, 256 F. 621, 167 C.C.A. 651. Conspiracy ⚡ 48

748. Gold offenses, sufficiency of evidence

Evidence sustained conviction for conspiracy to violate the Gold Reserve Act, § 440 et seq. of Title 39, and Regulations and to defraud the United States. United States v. Wiesner, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1954, 216 F.2d 739. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(3.1)

Evidence was sufficient to sustain conviction for conspiring to possess and export quantities of fine gold. United States v. Parnes, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1954, 210 F.2d 141. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(3.1)

Record was not sufficient to sustain conviction of conspiracy to acquire gold without a license. U.S. v. Bates,

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

C.C.A.7 (Ill.) 1945, 148 F.2d 907. Conspiracy ↻ 47(3.1)

Where corporation's license to deal in gold had been revoked, but associates of corporation induced third party to obtain license and bought gold in reliance thereon, associates were guilty of conspiracy to defraud the United States. U.S. v. 71.41 Ounces Gold Filled Scrap, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1938, 94 F.2d 17. Conspiracy ↻ 33(2.1)

Evidence was insufficient to sustain conviction for conspiracy in buying stolen gold ores and amalgam and receiving payment from United States Mint. Tofanelli v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1928, 28 F.2d 581. Conspiracy ↻ 47(6)

749. Grand jury offenses, sufficiency of evidence

Convictions for conspiring to obstruct justice by agreeing that one defendant would provide false testimony to grand jury investigating other was supported by sufficient evidence; defendant's testimony before grand jury was contradicted by himself in conversations with agents of Internal Revenue Service (IRS), by statements of IRS agents, by wife of codefendant and by codefendant, and jury could have inferred there was agreement to conceal taxable income from investigation. U.S. v. Lahey, C.A.7 (Ind.) 1995, 55 F.3d 1289, rehearing denied. Conspiracy ↻ 47(13)

Evidence sustained finding that defendant participated in conspiracy to obtain secret grand jury testimony and provide testimony to persons under indictment. U. S. v. Friedman, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1971, 445 F.2d 1076, certiorari denied 92 S.Ct. 326, 404 U.S. 958, 30 L.Ed.2d 275. Conspiracy ↻ 47(13)

In prosecution for conspiracy to cause the giving of false testimony before grand jury, evidence was sufficient to show that defendant was a party to the conspiracy. U S v. Brothman, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1951, 191 F.2d 70. Conspiracy ↻ 47(13)

750. Hijacking, sufficiency of evidence

Alleged conspirator's presence at site where truck hijacking was discussed together with his act of leading other conspirators from one place to such location and relaying instructions to them through another conspirator was sufficient to permit conclusion of participation in conspiracy and to permit introduction of coconspirators' hearsay statements against him. U. S. v. Calarco, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1970, 424 F.2d 657, certiorari denied 91 S.Ct. 46, 400 U.S. 824, 27 L.Ed.2d 53, rehearing denied 91 S.Ct. 1522, 402 U.S. 934, 28 L.Ed.2d 870. Criminal Law ↻ 427(5)

751. Immigration offenses, sufficiency of evidence

Defendant's conviction for conspiracy to create and supply false documents for use in making immigration applications was supported by evidence that defendant had coconspirators sign affidavits falsely stating that illegal alien had worked for them on certain farms, that defendant had coconspirators sign blank affidavits, that defendant's wife showed coconspirators pictures of alien applicants so that, if necessary, coconspirators would recognize aliens later, that defendant coached illegal aliens on how to falsely answer questions in Immigration and Naturalization Service (INS) interview, that defendant charged illegal aliens from $300 to $800 to "fix" their immigration status, and that various immigration forms which defendant and his wife prepared for illegal aliens contained false information. U.S. v. Sanchez, C.A.8 (Iowa) 1992, 963 F.2d 152. Conspiracy ↻ 47(3.1)

In prosecution for conspiracy to commit immigration fraud, evidence that defendant recently successfully completed citizenship examination requirements was sufficient to permit jury to conclude that defendant had requisite knowledge of English language to comprehend nature and scope of the fraud conspiracy. U.S. v. Bezold, C.A.9 (Hawai'i) 1985, 760 F.2d 999, certiorari denied 106 S.Ct. 811, 474 U.S. 1063, 88 L.Ed.2d 786, denial of post-conviction relief affirmed 952 F.2d 407, certiorari denied 112 S.Ct. 1990, 504 U.S. 928, 118 L.Ed.2d 587.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Conspiracy ⚡ 47(6)

In prosecution for transporting illegal aliens to this country and for conspiracy, there was overwhelming evidence that defendant in question shared in object of conspiracy, and proof of his agreement to commit substantive offense was supplied by testimony that he and another defendant jointly controlled movements of both boat and its passengers, and from such evidence jury could reasonably have inferred that the two defendants agreed to transport illegal aliens to the United States. U.S. v. Reme, C.A.11 (Fla.) 1984, 738 F.2d 1156, certiorari denied 105 S.Ct. 2334, 471 U.S. 1104, 85 L.Ed.2d 850. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(3.1)

Evidence, in prosecution for conspiracy to defraud the Immigration and Naturalization Service and to influence prospective grand jury witness who was to testify concerning marriage scheme, was sufficient to demonstrate defendant's involvement in a conspiracy. U. S. v. Bithoney, C.A.1 (Mass.) 1980, 631 F.2d 1, certiorari denied 101 S.Ct. 869, 449 U.S. 1083, 66 L.Ed.2d 808. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(6)

Evidence sustained conviction of conspiracy and substantive offense arising out of attempt to smuggle five aliens into United States pursuant to alleged arrangement whereby aliens were transported in automobile driven by defendant to border and then entered United States on foot and hid along roadside until defendant picked them up. U. S. v. Patterson, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1972, 460 F.2d 1282. Aliens ⚡ 59; Conspiracy ⚡ 47(3.1)

Evidence sustained conviction for conspiracy to defraud United States of its right to have administration of immigration laws conducted honestly. U. S. v. Pantelopoulos, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1964, 336 F.2d 421. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(6)

Government's evidence in prosecution under false statements and conspiracy provisions was insufficient to sustain its burden of proving that marriages of defendant-aliens were void at time of their representations concerning marital status to immigration authorities. U. S. v. Diogo, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1963, 320 F.2d 898. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(6); Fraud ⚡ 69(3)

Evidence that citizen of Greece, who entered United States on temporary visa for purpose of marrying honorably discharged soldier, married her first cousin instead and that such marriage was annulled, was sufficient to support finding of guilty of conspiracy with such man to defraud the United States in the administration of its immigration laws. U. S. v. Georga, C.A.3 (Pa.) 1954, 210 F.2d 45. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(6)

In prosecution for conspiracy to commit offenses against United States by violating immigration laws and to defraud United States of its governmental functions and its right to administer its immigration laws, by effectuating illegal entry of three aliens into the United States as spouses of veterans of World War II, evidence justified jury in finding that concerted scheme was hatched in summer by two of defendants whereby they would obtain, by means of marriages with three veterans, entry of three relatives into United States, that plan was communicated to and joined by the girls and aliens, that it culminated in entries claimed to be illegal and that there was one over-all common design and purpose. U.S. v. Lutwak, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1952, 195 F.2d 748, certiorari granted 73 S.Ct. 13, 344 U.S. 809, 97 L.Ed. 630, affirmed 73 S.Ct. 481, 344 U.S. 604, 97 L.Ed. 593, rehearing denied 73 S.Ct. 726, 345 U.S. 919, 97 L.Ed. 1352. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(6)

Evidence supported conviction of United States commissioner for conspiracy to defraud the Government by issuance of passports to persons not entitled thereto. U. S. v. Griffin, C.A.3 (Pa.) 1949, 176 F.2d 727, certiorari denied 70 S.Ct. 478, 338 U.S. 952, 94 L.Ed. 588, rehearing denied 70 S.Ct. 559, 339 U.S. 916, 94 L.Ed. 1341. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(6)

Evidence sustained conviction of conspiracy to defraud the United States by obtaining the entry of an alien by false representations, by willful concealment of material facts, and by false statements in documents required by the immigration laws. U.S. v. Rubenstein, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1945, 151 F.2d 915, certiorari denied 66 S.Ct. 168, 326

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

U.S. 766, 90 L.Ed. 462. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(6)

Evidence in a prosecution for conspiracy to bring in Chinese persons, contrary to the Chinese Exclusion Act, former § 263 et seq. of Title 8, showing it was the intention of defendants to bring the Chinese to a point outside the territorial jurisdictions of the United States, where they were to be met by another vessel, which would attempt to land them, and that when the latter vessel failed to meet them the defendants came ashore, warranted the jury in finding that the defendant voluntarily came ashore notwithstanding their claim they were driven into the jurisdiction against their will by stress of weather. Wing v. U.S., C.C.A.5 (Fla.) 1922, 280 F. 112. See, also, Louie Ding v. U.S., Wash.1917, 246 F. 80, 158 C.C.A. 306. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(3.1)

752. Interstate commerce offenses, sufficiency of evidence

Regardless of whether interstate commerce element of "chop shop" statute was characterized as mens rea element or as jurisdictional in nature, government failed to establish that defendant engaged in conspiracy to operate "chop shop," absent evidence of connection between alleged "chop shop" and interstate commerce or evidence that defendant or any conspirator believed that vehicle parts were to enter interstate commerce. U.S. v. Pinckney, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1996, 85 F.3d 4. Conspiracy ⚡ 28(3)

There was insufficient evidence that defendant conspired with unidentified companion to transport stolen backhoe interstate to support defendant's conspiracy conviction, despite evidence that companion traveled interstate with defendant, was present when defendant introduced him to defendant's former roommate, helped unload backhoe at storage facility, and was present when defendant used false driver's license to rent storage space under alias. U.S. v. Mackay, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1994, 33 F.3d 489. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(11)

Evidence was sufficient to support finding of only one conspiracy, and that defendant shared purposes of all alleged coconspirators at every level of the conspiracy; therefore, there was no "spill-over" of evidence as to other conspiracies in conviction of defendant of one count of conspiracy. U.S. v. Baccollo, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1983, 725 F.2d 170. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(3.1)

Evidence in defendant's prosecution for conspiring to steal goods moving in interstate commerce and for stealing goods moving in interstate commerce, including evidence defendant paid $100 each to three of the people who helped transfer and unload stolen goods, was sufficient to support conviction. U.S. v. Bradshaw, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1983, 719 F.2d 907. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(11); Larceny ⚡ 55

In prosecution for using interstate wire facilities in carrying out scheme to defraud certain hotel casinos and for conspiracy involving same scheme, there was ample evidence establishing conspiracy involving three defendants and government witness, and government witness' testimony which concerned meetings involving fourth defendant and which was about facts within witness' own knowledge, if believed by jury, was sufficient to show forth defendant's knowing participation in that conspiracy. U. S. v. Scallion, C.A.5 (La.) 1976, 533 F.2d 903, certiorari denied 97 S.Ct. 824, 429 U.S. 1079, 50 L.Ed.2d 799, rehearing denied 97 S.Ct. 1342, 430 U.S. 923, 51 L.Ed.2d 602, on rehearing 548 F.2d 1168, certiorari denied 98 S.Ct. 2843, 436 U.S. 943, 56 L.Ed.2d 784. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(5)

In prosecution for conspiring to steal goods in excess of $100 from a truck moving in interstate commerce, the evidence produced at trial, including the fact that defendant was employed at ramp which was a transshipment point for goods in interstate commerce, was more than sufficient to establish defendant's knowledge of the interstate nature of the shipment. U. S. v. Houle, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1973, 490 F.2d 167, certiorari denied 94 S.Ct. 3174, 417 U.S. 970, 41 L.Ed.2d 1141. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(11)

Evidence, submitted to court on written stipulation, was sufficient to sustain conviction for violation of section 1955 of this title relating to gambling business, aiding and abetting, and conspiracy. U. S. v. Niezek, C.A.5 (Tex.)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

1974, 489 F.2d 703, rehearing denied 491 F.2d 1407, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 133, 419 U.S. 873, 42 L.Ed.2d 112 . Conspiracy ↻ 47(7); Gaming ↻ 98(1)

Evidence in criminal prosecution in which defendant was charged with receiving, concealing and selling stolen cattle moving in interstate commerce and with conspiracy relating to such offense and in which codefendant was charged with such conspiracy offense was sufficient to establish intent to steal cattle at time of transportation and delivery and that cattle were moving in interstate commerce at time they were stolen. U. S. v. Wetzel, C.A.8 (Neb.) 1973, 488 F.2d 153. Conspiracy ↻ 47(11); Receiving Stolen Goods ↻ 8(3)

In prosecution for conspiring to travel in interstate commerce with intent to carry on unlawful activity involving extortion, testimony was sufficiently clear to enable jury to find intention on part of conspirators to travel or cause travel in interstate commerce in furtherance of agreement, and fact that this intention failed because of one conspirator's cooperation with the FBI was immaterial. U. S. v. Fellbaum, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1969, 408 F.2d 220, certiorari denied 90 S.Ct. 125, 396 U.S. 858, 24 L.Ed.2d 109, certiorari denied 90 S.Ct. 55, 396 U.S. 818, 24 L.Ed.2d 69. Conspiracy ↻ 31; Conspiracy ↻ 47(3.1)

Evidence showed that defendant conspired with others to transport slot machines between indicated points, as an active participant in an illegal operation, and that he had actively participated in venture in which one machine was shipped and it was he who had actually caused the machine to be shipped in interstate commerce. U. S. v. McCormick, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1962, 309 F.2d 367, certiorari denied 83 S.Ct. 724, 372 U.S. 911, 9 L.Ed.2d 719. Conspiracy ↻ 47(7)

Evidence sustained convictions for conspiracy to blow up a track used in interstate commerce, and for blowing up such track. Horton v. U. S., C.A.6 (Tenn.) 1958, 256 F.2d 138. Conspiracy ↻ 47(3.1); Explosives ↻ 5

Evidence was sufficient to sustain conviction for conspiring to transport in interstate commerce lewd and obscene motion picture film. Parr v. U. S., C.A.5 (Tex.) 1958, 255 F.2d 86, certiorari denied 79 S.Ct. 40, 358 U.S. 824, 3 L.Ed.2d 64. Conspiracy ↻ 47(3.1)

Evidence sustained conviction of conspiracy by four members of union involved in labor dispute to violate Federal Train Wreck Act, § 1992 of this title, by burning railroad bridge in order to stop train operations. Stanley v. U. S., C.A.6 (Ky.) 1957, 245 F.2d 427, motion denied 249 F.2d 64. Conspiracy ↻ 47(3.1)

In prosecution for conspiracy to steal, carry away, and conceal goods while moving in foreign commerce, evidence of two defendants' guilt was insufficient for the jury in view of their lack of knowledge that the goods were stolen while moving in foreign commerce. U.S. v. Sherman, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1948, 171 F.2d 619, certiorari denied 69 S.Ct. 1484, 337 U.S. 931, 93 L.Ed. 1738. Conspiracy ↻ 48.1(2.1)

Evidence sustained conviction of single conspiracy between dining car employees to unlawfully take money from dining cars on trains moving in interstate commerce as against contention that evidence proved six distinct conspiracies each embracing one of waiters together with steward and chef. United States v. O'Connell, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1948, 165 F.2d 697, certiorari denied 68 S.Ct. 744, 333 U.S. 864, 92 L.Ed. 1143. Conspiracy ↻ 47(11)

Evidence was sufficient to sustain conviction for violation of § 301 et seq. of Title 49 by employment of unlicensed carriers in interstate commerce. Martin v. U. S., C.C.A.10 (Colo.) 1938, 100 F.2d 490, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 590, 306 U.S. 649, 83 L.Ed. 104, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 590, 306 U.S. 649, 83 L.Ed. 1047, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 590, 306 U.S. 649, 83 L.Ed. 1048, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 591, 306 U.S. 649, 83 L.Ed. 1048, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 642, 306 U.S. 651, 83 L.Ed. 1050. Automobiles ↻ 355(2)

Evidence was sufficient for conspiracy to steal from interstate shipment. Halbert v. U.S., C.C.A.6 (Tenn.) 1923, 290 F. 765.

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In a prosecution for conspiracy to commit a crime against the United States, to wit, the transportation in interstate commerce in passenger trains or cars of nitro-glycerin and dynamite in violation of former §§ 88 [now this section] and 382 of this title, and for transporting, aiding, and abetting in such transportation of nitro-glycerin and dynamite, evidence was sufficient to sustain a conviction of certain of the defendants and insufficient to sustain a conviction of certain others. Ryan v. U.S., C.C.A.7 (Ind.) 1914, 216 F. 13, 132 C.C.A. 257. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(3.1)

Evidence was sufficient to support convictions for knowing transmission of minors' names in interstate commerce with intent to entice, encourage, and solicit them to engage in sexual activity and conspiracy to commit the same; testimony of co-conspirator and minor victims demonstrated that defendant and co-conspirator arranged for sexual liaisons with minor victims on numerous occasions, defendant's drivers and his secretary corroborated that testimony, and defendant's own statements in more than 100 intercepted telephone conversations further substantiated the testimony. U.S. v. Giordano, D.Conn.2003, 324 F.Supp.2d 349, affirmed 442 F.3d 30, for additional opinion, see 2006 WL 522236. Commerce ⚡ 82.6; Conspiracy ⚡ 47(8); Infants ⚡ 20

Evidence of the various defendants' relationship to gambling enterprise in Pennsylvania to which customers were brought from New Jersey sustained conviction for conspiracy to violate § 1952 of this title prohibiting interstate travel to facilitate gambling activity. U. S. v. Barrow, E.D.Pa.1964, 229 F.Supp. 722, affirmed in part, reversed in part on other grounds 363 F.2d 62, certiorari denied 87 S.Ct. 703, 385 U.S. 1001, 17 L.Ed.2d 541. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(7)

753. Jury offenses, sufficiency of evidence

In prosecution for conspiracy to influence jurors and for aiding and abetting another in influencing a particular juror, evidence was sufficient for jury. U.S. v. Ritchie, C.C.A.3 (N.J.) 1942, 128 F.2d 798. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.1(2.1); Criminal Law ⚡ 45.35

754. Kickbacks, sufficiency of evidence

Evidence supported district court's conclusions that profits received by employee as part of scheme with cocoa dealer to speculate on cocoa futures market and share profits were kickbacks, that employer paid increased prices for cocoa as result of employee's scheme, that employer suffered actual loss amounting to value of profits received by employee, and that employee should make restitution to employer in that amount for conspiracy to commit mail fraud and devising scheme to commit mail fraud. U.S. v. Sleight, C.A.3 (N.J.) 1987, 808 F.2d 1012. Sentencing And Punishment ⚡ 2188(1)

Evidence, taking view most favorable to government, was sufficient to support conviction of conspiracy in soliciting and receiving kickback from architects on county hospital project under Hill-Burton Act, section 291 et seq. of Title 42, in return for causing architects to be employed on such project. U. S. v. Thompson, C.A.6 (Tenn.) 1966, 366 F.2d 167, certiorari denied 87 S.Ct. 512, 385 U.S. 973, 17 L.Ed.2d 436. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(6)

Evidence, in prosecution for conspiracy in which airline employee defendants allegedly abused their employment positions with airline for personal profit by affording preferential contract or bargaining status to business controlled by trucking firm defendant, including evidence that airline employees received monetary payments from trucking firm in return for preferential treatment for trucking firm in contract relationship with airline, was sufficient to establish that defendants were guilty to conspiracy beyond reasonable doubt. U. S. v. Pinto, E.D.Pa.1982, 548 F.Supp. 236. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(3.1)

Evidence established that president of area management broker of Department of Housing and Urban Development conspired with known local contractors to defraud HUD by administering a program of soliciting and receiving illegal kickbacks from those contractors in return for using his position to unlawfully influence the legitimate function and purpose of competitive bidding system intended to provide for the proper rehabilitation of HUD-owned property. U. S. v. Griffin, S.D.Ind.1975, 401 F.Supp. 1222, affirmed 541 F.2d 284. Conspiracy ↻ 47(6)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

755. Kidnapping, sufficiency of evidence

Evidence that a number of telephone calls were made from a room registered to the name of one of the conspirators to a telephone number registered in the name of defendant on the two days prior to the kidnapping, that, after the kidnapping, defendant took the victim directly to one of the conspirator's apartment and told that conspirator and another to "watch these two for me and don't let them out of your sight," and that, after the victim escaped from defendant's automobile, defendant called a telephone number registered to one of the other conspirators was sufficient to show an agreement between defendant and his alleged coconspirators to kidnap the victim. U. S. v. Bankston, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1979, 603 F.2d 528. Conspiracy ↻ 47(8)

Evidence sustained convictions for conspiracy to kidnap. U.S. v. Bazzell, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1951, 187 F.2d 878, certiorari denied 72 S.Ct. 73, 342 U.S. 849, 96 L.Ed. 641, rehearing denied 72 S.Ct. 171, 342 U.S. 889, 96 L.Ed. 667. Conspiracy ↻ 47(8)

756. Labor offenses, sufficiency of evidence

There was sufficient evidence from which jury could find that conspiratorial agreement existed between union local officer and trades council official to embezzle money from local union to reimburse funds that had been granted by international union for safety program that had never been implemented; there was evidence that local official told trades council official that reimbursement of international union was necessary, that trades council official had interest in not paying back money that he had received personally, and that both parties agreed to obtain funds from local union. U.S. v. Long, C.A.8 (Mo.) 1991, 952 F.2d 1520, rehearing denied, certiorari denied 113 S.Ct. 298, 506 U.S. 905, 121 L.Ed.2d 222. Conspiracy ↻ 47(11)

Evidence that labor union officer was being investigated by Internal Revenue Service, that information dealing with such investigation was taken from files or Intelligence Division of Service and turned over to such union officer's assistant, who went to Washington on officer's behalf in respect to such investigation, and evidence that papers turned over to assistant by Internal Revenue Service employee were found in union officer's desk made case for jury in prosecution for conspiracy. U. S. v. Gosser, C.A.6 (Ohio) 1964, 339 F.2d 102, certiorari denied 86 S.Ct. 44, 382 U.S. 819, 15 L.Ed.2d 65, rehearing denied 86 S.Ct. 309, 382 U.S. 933, 15 L.Ed.2d 345, certiorari denied 86 S.Ct. 44, 382 U.S. 819, 15 L.Ed.2d 66, rehearing denied 86 S.Ct. 285, 382 U.S. 922, 15 L.Ed.2d 237. Conspiracy ↻ 48.2(2)

Evidence sustained convictions for conspiracy to commit offenses in violation of sections of the Labor-Management Reporting and Disclosure Act of 1959, §§ 401 et seq. of Title 29, pertaining to rights of members of labor organizations, and of related substantive offenses. U. S. v. Bertucci, C.A.3 (Pa.) 1964, 333 F.2d 292, certiorari denied 85 S.Ct. 75, 379 U.S. 839, 13 L.Ed.2d 45. Conspiracy ↻ 47(3.1); Labor And Employment ↻ 3283

In prosecution for conspiring to fraudulently effectuate, on behalf of union, compliance with former subsection (h) of § 159 of Title 29 by means of filing false non-Communist affidavits, evidence as to connection of each defendant with conspiracy was sufficient for the jury in certain cases and insufficient in other cases. Dennis v. U.S., C.A.10 (Colo.) 1962, 302 F.2d 5. Conspiracy ↻ 48.1(3)

Evidence, in prosecution of union officials for taking unlawful payments of money from employers of union members, sustained convictions of two officials on conspiracy count and substantive counts, and sustained conviction of third officials on conspiracy count. U. S. v. Gibas, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1962, 300 F.2d 836, certiorari denied 83 S.Ct. 32, 371 U.S. 817, 9 L.Ed.2d 58. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(3.1); Labor And Employment ⚡ 3283

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In absence of any deprivation of contractual rights resulting from removal of employees from temporary positions as journeymen, there was no basis on which to premise any conspiracy between employer and union to exclude plaintiffs from becoming journeymen or to deprive them of retirement and fringe benefits due them while performing journeymen duties temporarily. Arnold v. United Ass'n of Journeymen and Apprentices of Plumbing and Pipe Fitting Industry of U. S. and Canada, Local Union No. 449, AFL-CIO, W.D.Pa. 1975, 388 F.Supp. 1105, affirmed 529 F.2d 511. Conspiracy ⚡ 8

757. Larceny, sufficiency of evidence

Evidence was sufficient to support finding that refinery owner participated with codefendant in converting funds belonging to or pledged to Small Business Administration (SBA); owner was certified public accountant (CPA), owned substantial minority interest in company, was substantially involved in day-to-day operations of refinery, and did not quit his job when sales proceeds were deposited into refinery's operating account even though he knew that the funds had to be paid to SBA. U.S. v. Leal, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1994, 30 F.3d 577, certiorari denied 115 S.Ct. 1172, 513 U.S. 1182, 130 L.Ed.2d 1126. Larceny ⚡ 55

There was sufficient evidence to sustain conviction of defendant for conspiracy to steal and transport in interstate commerce government property in view of testimony as to his repeated activities from which inference could be drawn that he had knowledge of conspiracy of his fellow employees and that he willingly participated therein. U. S. v. Harris, C.A.4 (S.C.) 1969, 409 F.2d 77, certiorari denied 90 S.Ct. 443, 396 U.S. 965, 24 L.Ed.2d 430, certiorari denied 90 S.Ct. 447, 396 U.S. 965, 24 L.Ed.2d 430. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(11)

In prosecution for conspiracy to commit larceny, evidence showing no mutual understanding or plan between defendants, but merely separate and distinct conspiracies other than that charged, was insufficient to support conviction. Tinsley v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (S.D.) 1930, 43 F.2d 890. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(11)

758. Liquor offenses, sufficiency of evidence

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate internal revenue liquor laws, evidence that defendant was present when one codefendant bought a truck which was later seized because it contained non-taxpaid liquor, and that on one occasion defendant was observed by investigator peering into a truck, after defendant had driven another truck to location behind which a stash of illegal whiskey was located, was insufficient as a matter of law for submission of the case against defendant to the jury. U. S. v. Jeffords, C.A.5 (Ga.) 1974, 491 F.2d 90. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.1(4)

In light of testimony of FBI agent who had posed as prospective purchaser of "hot" gin from defendant and of four conspirators who testified for government and of defendant himself, trial court properly determined that testimony and identify of informer who led agent to meeting with defendant was not essential to fair determination of trial on charges of conspiracy to receive and have possession of chattels, moving as part of interstate shipment, known to have been stolen and substantive offense of receiving and having possession of stolen chattels. U. S. v. Jackson, C.A.6 (Ohio) 1970, 422 F.2d 975. Criminal Law ⚡ 627.10(2.1)

In prosecution of city police officials, liquor dealers and others for conspiring to violate laws of United States by importing intoxicating liquors into dry state of Oklahoma, evidence was insufficient to establish that operator of liquor stores in Missouri, from whom large quantities of liquor were purchased, knew of conspiracy and consented to be party or knowingly did any act to accomplish its purpose. Jones v. U. S., C.A.10 (Okla.) 1958, 251 F.2d 288, certiorari denied 78 S.Ct. 703, 356 U.S. 919, 2 L.Ed.2d 715. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(10)

In prosecution of police officials, liquor dealers and others for conspiring to violate laws of United States by importation of intoxicating liquors into dry state of Oklahoma, evidence was insufficient to establish that failure to pay statutory tax for carrying on business of wholesale or resale liquor dealers had anything to do with conspiracy. Jones v. U. S., C.A.10 (Okla.) 1958, 251 F.2d 288, certiorari denied 78 S.Ct. 703, 356 U.S. 919, 2 L.Ed.2d 715. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(10)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Evidence was sufficient to sustain conviction of one of defendants for transporting stolen whiskey in interstate commerce and conviction of both defendants for conspiring to steal, conceal and have possession of such whiskey. Tripp v. U.S., C.A.8 (Mo.) 1955, 221 F.2d 692. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(11); Receiving Stolen Goods ⚡ 8(3)

Testimony of an accomplice, corroborated in part by that of policemen and other witnesses, was sufficient to sustain conviction for possessing and operating an illegal still, and for conspiracy to commit the same offense. United States v. Heitner, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1945, 149 F.2d 105, certiorari denied 66 S.Ct. 33, 326 U.S. 727, 90 L.Ed. 432, rehearing denied 66 S.Ct. 164, 326 U.S. 809, 90 L.Ed. 494. Criminal Law ⚡ 508(9)

Evidence that defendant furnished materials to make liquor, delivered at the still, and took the whole output of the still at a price, deducting the value of the materials, sustained conspiracy conviction, although it was not shown that defendant participated otherwise in distilling operations. Neely v. U. S., C.C.A.5 (Ala.) 1944, 145 F.2d 828. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(9)

Evidence including showing that accused arranged to take orders for sugar by telephone under code words, that he delivered sugar furtively at night and generally at a coal yard where sugar was transferred to bootleggers' automobiles, and that accused aided bootleggers to conceal their purchases by failing to make record of sugar sales required by governmental regulations, sustained finding that accused had made himself a party to conspiracy to operate unregistered stills. U S v. Loew, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1944, 145 F.2d 332, certiorari denied 65 S.Ct. 587, 324 U.S. 840, 89 L.Ed. 1403. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(10)

A grocer who sold large quantities of sugar to bootleggers who operated unregistered stills, and who actively participated in their conspiracy, was properly convicted of conspiracy to operate unregistered stills as against contention that the evidence if sufficient to prove the grocer a party to the conspiracy, proved him guilty of the substantive crimes and not of conspiracy to commit them. U S v. Loew, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1944, 145 F.2d 332, certiorari denied 65 S.Ct. 587, 324 U.S. 840, 89 L.Ed. 1403. Conspiracy ⚡ 37

Evidence that accused did not keep proper records of sales of liquor, that he knew that purchaser was in whisky business in Oklahoma, and that he was buying whisky at accused's store, was insufficient to establish "conspiracy" between accused and purchaser for purpose of violating former § 223 of Title 27 by importing liquor into Oklahoma. Bacon v. U.S., C.C.A.10 (Okla.) 1942, 127 F.2d 985. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(9)

Evidence sustained conviction of transporting and importing intoxicating liquor contained more than 4 per cent. of alcohol into Oklahoma in violation of former § 223 of Title 27. Bacon v. U.S., C.C.A.10 (Okla.) 1942, 127 F.2d 985. Intoxicating Liquors ⚡ 236(20)

Evidence was sufficient to connect six defendants with the illegal importation of alcohol into the United States and with a scheme to import alcohol without the payment of duty thereon, and hence was sufficient to sustain convictions for conspiring to import alcohol unlawfully into the United States and for unlawfully importing alcohol into the United States. U.S. v. Gerke, C.C.A.3 (N.J.) 1942, 125 F.2d 243, certiorari denied 62 S.Ct. 1033, 316 U.S. 667, 86 L.Ed. 1742. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(10)

A finding that two defendants for profit sold a vessel to persons who they knew intended to and later did use it in an illegal enterprise, was insufficient to support their conviction for conspiring to import alcohol unlawfully into the United States, where there was no evidence that those defendants participated in the conspiracy or knew of its existence. U.S. v. Gerke, C.C.A.3 (N.J.) 1942, 125 F.2d 243, certiorari denied 62 S.Ct. 1033, 316 U.S. 667, 86

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

L.Ed. 1742. Conspiracy ↻ 47(10)

Evidence that defendant transported liquor from Missouri into Arkansas, that liquor was received and sold in Arkansas by defendant's sister-in-law, and that partnership existed between defendant and sister-in-law justified finding that there was agreement between defendant and sister-in-law to transport liquor from Missouri into Arkansas when manufacture and sale in Arkansas was prohibited and to warrant conviction for conspiracy to violate Act of Congress prohibiting transportation of liquor into a dry state. Barker v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Ark.) 1936, 86 F.2d 284. Conspiracy ↻ 47(10)

In prosecution for conspiracy to import, possess, and sell liquor, evidence was sufficient to take case to jury. McDaniel v. U.S., C.C.A.5 (Fla.) 1928, 24 F.2d 303. Conspiracy ↻ 48.1(4)

Evidence was sufficient to convict for conspiracy to violate National Prohibition Act, former § 1 et seq. of Title 27. McDonnell v. U.S., C.C.A.1 (Mass.) 1927, 19 F.2d 801, certiorari denied 48 S.Ct. 114, 275 U.S. 551, 72 L.Ed. 421. See, also, McLaughlin v. U.S., C.C.A.Pa.1928, 26 F.2d 1; Dow v. U.S., C.C.A.Wash.1927, 21 F.2d 816; Dickerson v. U.S., C.C.A.Iowa 1927, 18 F.2d 887; Milner v. U.S., C.C.A.Pa.1926, 13 F.2d 739; Jezewski v. U.S., C.C.A.Mich.1926, 13 F.2d 599; Albury v. U.S., C.C.A.Fla. 1926, 12 F.2d 595; Hilt v. U.S., C.C.A.Fla.1926, 12 F.2d 504; Keith v. U.S., C.C.A.Ky.1926, 11 F.2d 933; Lewis v. U.S., C.C.A.Mich.1926, 11 F.2d 745; Simpson v. U.S., C.C.A.W.Va.1926, 11 F.2d 591, certiorari denied 46 S.Ct. 488, 271 U.S. 674, 70 L.Ed. 1145; Pielow v. U.S., C.C.A.Wash.1925, 8 F.2d 492; Bockol v. U.S., C.C.A.Del.1925, 6 F.2d 795; Lewis v. U.S., C.C.A.Wash.1925, 6 F.2d 222; Hacker v. U.S., C.C.A.Nev.1925, 5 F.2d 132; Becher v. U.S., C.C.A.N.Y.1924, 5 F.2d 45, certiorari denied 45 S.Ct. 462, 267 U.S. 602, 69 L.Ed. 808; Williams v. U.S., C.C.A.Tenn.1925, 3 F.2d 933; Turinetti v. U.S., C.C.A.Neb.1924, 2 F.2d 15; Huth v. U.S., C.C.A.Ky.1924, 295 F. 35; Powers v. U.S., C.C.A.Tex.1923, 294 F. 512; Einziger v. U.S., C.C.A.N.J.1921, 276 F. 905; Alderman v. U.S., C.C.A.Fla.1922, 279 F. 259, certiorari denied 42 S.Ct. 586, 259 U.S. 584, 66 L.Ed. 1075.

Evidence was sufficient as to only part of defendants. Perry v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Okla.) 1927, 18 F.2d 477. See, also, Lucking v. U.S., C.C.A.Ind.1926, 14 F.2d 881. Intoxicating Liquors ↻ 236(19)

Evidence of particular defendant's connection with conspiracy to violate National Prohibition Act, former § 1 et seq. of Title 27, was insufficient to go to jury. Lewis v. U. S., C.C.A.6 (Mich.) 1926, 11 F.2d 745. Conspiracy ↻ 48

Evidence was insufficient to go to jury in prosecution for conspiring to violate National Prohibition Act, former § 1 et seq. of Title 27, and for unlawfully possessing and transporting intoxicating liquor. Coleman v. U.S., C.C.A.6 (Ky.) 1926, 11 F.2d 601. Conspiracy ↻ 48

The conviction of two out of three defendants, charged in separate counts with conspiracy, with unlawful possession of whisky, with unlawful transportation, and with maintaining a common nuisance, was not supported by any substantial evidence as to either count. Green v. U. S., C.C.A.6 (Ohio) 1925, 8 F.2d 140, 4 Ohio Law Abs. 254.

Evidence on trial for conspiracy was sufficient to raise issue whether accused were interested in manufacture and transportation, in violation of National Prohibition Act, former § 1 et seq. of Title 27, of beer found on premises leased by them and in truck load of beer seized by revenue agents. Kasuba v. U. S., C.C.A.7 (Wis.) 1924, 3 F.2d 270.

Former § 50 of Title 27, making possession of liquor prima facie evidence of unlawful purpose, had no application in a trial for conspiracy under former § 88 of this title [now this section]. Linden v. U.S., C.C.A.3 (N.J.) 1924, 2 F.2d 817. Conspiracy ↻ 47

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In a prosecution for conspiracy to manufacture and sell distilled spirits and for maintenance of a nuisance, evidence that certain of defendants, who were detectives, were present from time to time in the garage in which it was claimed that the defendants manufactured the liquor, with nothing to show that they did anything in the conspiracy or in its furtherance, was insufficient to warrant the conviction of such defendants. Brauer v. U.S., C.C.A.3 (N.J.) 1924, 299 F. 10. Conspiracy ↻ 47

Evidence that defendant, charged with conspiracy to steal whisky owned by the government, with others, went with trucks in the night to the warehouse where the whisky was stored, and on being admitted by the watchman paid him a sum on account and started to go to the rooms in which the whisky was stored, carrying gloves, steel cutters to cut the bolts of the locks, and bolts and locks to replace those removed, was sufficient to warrant submission of the case to the jury. Kerner v. U.S., C.C.A.3 (N.J.) 1923, 290 F. 802. Conspiracy ↻ 48

In prosecution under former § 88 of this title [now this section] for conspiracy to commit an offense against the United States by having possession of and transporting intoxicating liquor, in violation of National Prohibition Act, former § 12 of Title 27, circumstantial evidence was sufficient to carry the case to the jury. Murry v. U. S., C.C.A.8 (Ark.) 1922, 282 F. 617. Conspiracy ↻ 48.1(4)

Evidence that defendants lived at the place where it was alleged the conspiracy to transport intoxicating liquors into the state was formed, and that such place was the headquarters for their illicit liquor business, is sufficient to support an inference that the conspiracy was formed at that place. Grayson v. U.S., C.C.A.6 (Tenn.) 1921, 272 F. 553, certiorari denied 42 S.Ct. 49, 257 U.S. 637, 66 L.Ed. 409. Criminal Law ↻ 564(3)

In a prosecution for conspiracy to purchase intoxicating liquors for transportation in interstate commerce, which alleged as one overt act joint purchase by two defendants, evidence that one of the named defendants gave the order for the liquor, and that the other paid therefor partly with money of each defendant, sufficiently shows a joint purchase, since it connects both defendants with the act, and in any event the act of either in pursuance of the conspiracy would have been the act of both. Tacon v. U.S., C.C.A.5 (La.) 1921, 270 F. 88. Conspiracy ↻ 47(10)

A conviction for conspiracy to transport liquor into a prohibition state, was sustained by evidence tending to show that defendant, who was a wholesale dealer in Missouri, had made an arrangement with a customer in Omaha, pursuant to which on three occasions he delivered to an agent of such customer an automobile load of whisky, knowing that it was to be transported to Omaha in a prohibition state. Block v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Neb.) 1920, 267 F. 524. Conspiracy ↻ 47(10)

Evidence was sufficient to sustain conviction for conspiracy to ship whisky from one state into another without the packages being labeled to show the consignee, contents, and quantity, in violation of former § 390 of this title. Richards v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Wash.) 1920, 264 F. 654. Conspiracy ↻ 47(10)

Evidence established that one of defendants charged with conspiracy to illegally purchase at wholesale intoxicating liquors for resale at defendant club did not have to nor did he enter into any agreement or conspiracy with any other member of his family concerning how liquor was to be purchased for defendant club, but that he told other members of family what was going to be done. U. S. v. Mirror Lake Golf and Country Club, Inc., W.D.Mo.1964, 232 F.Supp. 167. Conspiracy ↻ 47(9)

That one defendant discussed with another person possibility that certain other parties might get together on their own with respect to buying liquor for resale in club did not establish beyond reasonable doubt that such defendant was guilty of conspiring to illegally purchase liquor for resale. U. S. v. Mirror Lake Golf and Country Club, Inc., W.D.Mo.1964, 232 F.Supp. 167. Conspiracy ↻ 47(9)

Evidence failed to sustained conviction for conspiracy to illegally purchase distilled spirits at wholesale for resale. U. S. v. Mirror Lake Golf and Country Club, Inc., W.D.Mo.1964, 232 F.Supp. 167. Conspiracy ↻ 47(9)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Defendants' guilt of conspiracy to violate §§ 2803, 2831, 2833, 2834 of Title 26, transporting distilled spirits without containers having stamps, carrying on a business of distiller, delivering distilled spirits, making and fermenting mash, and depositing and concealing nontax distilled spirits, was properly submitted to the jury. U. S. v. Haynes, W.D.Pa.1948, 81 F.Supp. 63, affirmed 173 F.2d 223. See, also, Orloff v. U.S., C.C.A.Mich.1946, 153 F.2d 292; Hall v. U.S., C.C.A.Ga.1945, 150 F.2d 281, certiorari denied 66 S.Ct. 53, 326 U.S. 741, 90 L.Ed. 442; U.S. v. Maggio, C.C.A.N.J.1942, 126 F.2d 155, certiorari denied 62 S.Ct. 1275, 316 U.S. 686, 86 L.Ed. 1758. Conspiracy ↻ 48.2(2); Internal Revenue ↻ 5315

759. Loans, sufficiency of evidence

Evidence supported defendants' convictions for conspiracy to defraud, mail fraud and money laundering in connection with fraudulent loan program; defendants did not challenge fact that they were involved in promotion and operation of loan program, and jury could reasonably conclude that acts of mail fraud and money laundering were both in furtherance of conspiracy and reasonably foreseeable. U.S. v. Massey, C.A.10 (Okla.) 1995, 48 F.3d 1560, certiorari denied 115 S.Ct. 2628, 515 U.S. 1167, 132 L.Ed.2d 868, denial of post-conviction relief affirmed 97 F.3d 1465. Conspiracy ↻ 47(4); Postal Service ↻ 49(11); United States ↻ 34

Although he had not signed appraisal for particular parcel of real estate, appraiser's conviction for conspiring to overvalue land to obtain fraudulent real estate loan was supported by evidence that appraiser's employer had ownership in parcel, appraiser had undisclosed profits interest and received one third of profit made on resale of property, and party who prepared appraisal met with appraiser and employer, was told by employer what dollar figure was needed in appraisal, and was supplied by appraiser and employer with backup documents to accompany appraisal report. U.S. v. Faulkner, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1994, 17 F.3d 745, rehearing and rehearing en banc denied 21 F.3d 1110, certiorari denied 115 S.Ct. 193, 513 U.S. 870, 130 L.Ed.2d 125, rehearing dismissed 115 S.Ct. 786, 513 U.S. 1105, 130 L.Ed.2d 679, certiorari denied 115 S.Ct. 663, 513 U.S. 1056, 130 L.Ed.2d 598. Conspiracy ↻ 47(4)

760. Lottery offenses, sufficiency of evidence

Evidence sustained conviction of operators of numbers game for conspiracy to evade and defeat payment of federal taxes imposed on lottery operations. Ingram v. U.S., U.S.Ga.1959, 79 S.Ct. 1314, 360 U.S. 672, 3 L.Ed.2d 1503, rehearing denied 80 S.Ct. 42, 361 U.S. 856, 4 L.Ed.2d 96. Conspiracy ↻ 47(7)

Evidence, which failed to establish knowledge on part of employees of operators of numbers game that such operators were liable for federal taxes by reason of the gambling operations, was insufficient to sustain conviction of employees for conspiracy to evade and defeat payment of federal taxes imposed on lottery operations. Ingram v. U.S., U.S.Ga.1959, 79 S.Ct. 1314, 360 U.S. 672, 3 L.Ed.2d 1503, rehearing denied 80 S.Ct. 42, 361 U.S. 856, 4 L.Ed.2d 96. Conspiracy ↻ 47(7)

Evidence was sufficient to sustain conviction for conspiring to commit an offense against the United States by bringing lottery tickets into the United States from Puerto Rico. U.S. v. De Jesus, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1961, 289 F.2d 37, certiorari denied 81 S.Ct. 1924, 366 U.S. 963, 6 L.Ed.2d 1254. Conspiracy ↻ 47(7)

Evidence, as to all defendants but one, was sufficient to support convictions on all counts, in prosecution for operating and conspiracy to operate lottery, and for possession of lottery tickets, and maintenance of gambling premises. Aikens v. U.S., C.A.D.C.1956, 232 F.2d 66, 98 U.S.App.D.C. 66. Conspiracy ↻ 47(7); Gaming ↻ 98(5); Lotteries ↻ 29

Evidence that search of previously occupied apartment of defendant uncovered numbers slips and notebook, and that defendant was seen entering apartment in company of other defendant, in absence of evidence of possession of lottery tickets by defendant, was insufficient to support conviction of defendant for operation of or conspiracy to operate lottery, or for maintaining gambling premises. Aikens v. U.S., C.A.D.C.1956, 232 F.2d 66, 98 U.S.App.D.C. 66. Gaming ⚡ 98(5); Lotteries ⚡ 29

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

If accused knew that codefendant, with whom he contracted to conduct contests for benefit of hospital of which accused was the head, was engaged in interstate lottery business and that lottery tickets would be shipped in interstate commerce by someone in codefendant's organization, this was sufficient to sustain conviction of conspiracy to transport lottery tickets in interstate commerce, even if accused did not know and never met employee of codefendant who actually made the shipments of tickets, and even if accused did not personally profit directly from scheme. Deacon v. U. S., C.C.A.1 (Mass.) 1941, 124 F.2d 352. Conspiracy ⚡ 28(3)

In prosecution against head of a hospital for conspiracy to transport lottery tickets in interstate commerce for benefit of hospital, evidence relating to accused's agreement with codefendant to conduct contests for hospital's benefit and as to his conduct and knowledge after entering into agreement was sufficient to make case for jury. Deacon v. U. S., C.C.A.1 (Mass.) 1941, 124 F.2d 352. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.1(2.1)

In prosecution for conspiracy to transport lottery tickets in interstate commerce for benefit of hospital of which defendant was the head, evidence authorized finding that defendant had full knowledge from beginning that persons with whom he had agreed and whose ends he was advancing were conducting a lottery, not only in state where hospital was located but also in other states, and that, therefore, he must have known that lottery tickets would be shipped in interstate commerce, and that he was not mere innocent dupe. Deacon v. U. S., C.C.A.1 (Mass.) 1941, 124 F.2d 352. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(7)

761. Money laundering, sufficiency of evidence

Conviction for conspiracy to launder money was supported by evidence that defendants joined in scheme to falsify financial documents in order to allow drug dealers to purchase automobiles. U.S. v. Long, C.A.8 (Minn.) 1992, 977 F.2d 1264, rehearing denied. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(3.1)

Evidence was sufficient to support finding that defendant participated in money laundering conspiracy, where evidence included videotape of person making delivery of money (proceeds from illegal activities) to hotel room which jury apparently believed was defendant, jury heard conversation between conspirator and person alleged to be defendant and phone recordings connecting another conspirator to defendant. U.S. v. Dimeck, D.Kan.1993, 815 F.Supp. 1425, reversed 24 F.3d 1239. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(3.1)

762. Murder, sufficiency of evidence

Sufficient evidence supported finding that murder of state trooper was reasonably foreseeable consequence of drug conspiracy and that defendants' roles in conspiracy were more than "minor," and thus defendants were properly convicted under Pinkerton rule of conspirator liability for murder of trooper who was killed by pipe bomb explosion after stopping coconspirator's vehicle, where weapons and violence were frequently used in order to further interests of extensive drug conspiracy, and defendants were either principal leaders in drug operation or played important roles in implementation of conspiracy's unlawful goals. U.S. v. Mothersill, C.A.11 (Fla.) 1996, 87 F.3d 1214, certiorari denied 117 S.Ct. 531, 519 U.S. 1017, 136 L.Ed.2d 416, certiorari denied 117 S.Ct. 1109, 520 U.S. 1105, 137 L.Ed.2d 311, certiorari denied 117 S.Ct. 1328, 520 U.S. 1151, 137 L.Ed.2d 489. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(8)

Murder-for-hire conspiracy conviction was supported by evidence that defendant knew that associate had been hired to kill victim, supported decision to kill victim, and that defendant assisted person who dealt directly with killer to locate victim's home, where murder was to be committed, despite contention that government witness changed testimony to conform to facts given witness by government. U.S. v. Razo-Leora, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1992, 961 F.2d 1140, rehearing denied. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(8)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Evidence sustained defendants' convictions for conspiracy to deal in unlawful firearms as well as the conviction of one of the defendants for various substantive violations of section 921 et seq. of this title and section 5861 of Title 26. U.S. v. Sorrells, C.A.11 (Fla.) 1983, 714 F.2d 1522. Conspiracy ↻ 47(3.1); Internal Revenue ↻ 5295

Where government proved that defendant was involved in plan to murder government informant, whether or not defendant knew of all details regarding motive for shooting was irrelevant for purposes of determining sufficiency of evidence to sustain conviction of substantive offenses of obstruction of justice and interstate travel in aid of racketeering. U.S. v. Fernandez-Roque, C.A.5 (La.) 1983, 703 F.2d 808. Commerce ↻ 82.10; Obstructing Justice ↻ 5

There was sufficient evidence for jury to find that defendant knew of scheme to kill trooper to prevent him from testifying in criminal trial of defendant's boyfriend, and that defendant willingly joined that plan by having money delivered to agent posing as hit man, and thus, evidence supported convictions of conspiracy, attempting to kill officer with intent to prevent his testimony in criminal prosecution, and unlawfully using facility in interstate commerce with intent to commit crime of violence. U.S. v. Saffold, D.Kan.1996, 915 F.Supp. 260. Commerce ↻ 82.6; Conspiracy ↻ 47(3.1); Homicide ↻ 1207; Homicide ↻ 1169

763. Narcotics offenses, sufficiency of evidence

Absent an agreement between defendant, a drug supplier, and dealer who was involved in illegal green-card operation to pay for drugs, which operation defendant was aware of, that defendant had an expectation that planned drug deliveries to dealer would be paid for through the green-card business, the fact that defendant was prepared to deliver drugs to dealer without full payment was insufficient to demonstrate that defendant was involved in the green-card operation, as required for conviction for conspiracy to bribe a public official in connection with operation. U.S. v. Ceballos, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 2003, 340 F.3d 115. Conspiracy ↻ 47(6)

Evidence did not support conspiracy conviction of passenger in vehicle caught transporting illegal drugs; mere knowledge that drugs were present in vehicle, without additional evidence to support reasonable inference of knowing agreement to distribute them, was insufficient to sustain conviction for conspiracy to distribute. U.S. v. Jones, C.A.10 (Wyo.) 1995, 44 F.3d 860. Conspiracy ↻ 47(12)

There was sufficient evidence to support inference that three defendants worked together to distribute narcotics, and that conspiracy among them existed, to support their conspiracy convictions; there was evidence that undercover officer was in direct contact with all three defendants, one defendant told officer that she got her heroin from second defendant and that second defendant's heroin was "the same" as third defendant's, and third defendant knew about four-ounce heroin transaction that officer was negotiating with other two defendants. U.S. v. Gaines, C.A.8 (Minn.) 1992, 969 F.2d 692, rehearing denied. Conspiracy ↻ 47(12)

Evidence that defendant believed something illegal was being hauled in at least two cars that he was either driving or riding in and that he knew there were drugs in one of the cars was insufficient to support conspiracy conviction, absent evidence of any specific agreement to do anything with any of the other three alleged coconspirators. U.S. v. Bell, C.A.4 (N.C.) 1992, 954 F.2d 232, denial of post-conviction relief affirmed 986 F.2d 1415, certiorari denied 114 S.Ct. 112, 510 U.S. 835, 126 L.Ed.2d 77. Conspiracy ↻ 47(12)

Finding that defendant and codefendant were members of single conspiracy to import over one kilogram of heroin into United States was supported by evidence that both defendant and codefendant were recruited by same woman and both were responsible to individual controlling shipments of heroin to United States, that defendant and codefendant discussed plans to transport heroin into United States during flight out of country to pick up heroin, that defendant and codefendant went together to meet individual controlling shipments of heroin into United States, and that defendant, along with another coconspirator, went to meet codefendant at airport when codefendant arrived in United States with 1.5 kilograms of heroin concealed in his suitcase. U.S. v. Moore, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1991,

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

949 F.2d 68, certiorari denied 112 S.Ct. 1678, 503 U.S. 988, 118 L.Ed.2d 396, post-conviction relief denied. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(12)

There was sufficient evidence that defendant knew of and joined cocaine importation conspiracy and that he actually participated in importation of cocaine to support his convictions of importing cocaine and conspiring to import cocaine, where coconspirators and government agents identified defendant as passenger on flight from Panama that dropped 250 kilogram package of cocaine in waters off the coast of Puerto Rico, Customs inspector testified that defendant, or someone using defendant's name, registered with ground control authorities as pilot of small plane that landed in San Juan around time that cocaine was air-dropped, another agent testified that stamps in defendant's passport indicated he was in Panama before flight, and coconspirators testified that defendant was in vehicle used to transport cocaine bundle to marina for packaging, and was at marina while packaging was taking place. U.S. v. Morrison, C.A.7 (Wis.) 1991, 946 F.2d 484, rehearing denied, on remand 782 F.Supp. 80, certiorari denied 113 S.Ct. 826, 506 U.S. 1039, 121 L.Ed.2d 696, dismissal of habeas corpus affirmed 76 F.3d 378. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(12); Controlled Substances ⚡ 86

Conviction for conspiracy to distribute heroin was supported by codefendant's testimony that she had gone to defendant's apartment to obtain heroin on several occasions, that she had observed defendant grind heroin in coffee grinder to prepare it for sale, and that defendant had admitted to her that he regularly supplied heroin. U.S. v. Guerra-Marez, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1991, 928 F.2d 665, rehearing denied, certiorari denied 112 S.Ct. 322, 502 U.S. 917, 116 L.Ed.2d 263, certiorari denied 112 S.Ct. 443, 502 U.S. 969, 116 L.Ed.2d 461. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(12)

Evidence, including proof that defendant was observed carrying a large box, which gave off a distinct odor of marijuana, into a house at direction of a member of drug conspiracy, he was later seen with another member leaning against a vehicle in front of same house with shotgun between them, and defendant entered another residence and placed shotgun against wall at time when other conspirators and government team were discussing drug transaction, was sufficient evidence of defendant's involvement in the conspiracy, thereby supporting his conspiracy conviction. U.S. v. Alvarez, C.A.11 (Fla.) 1984, 735 F.2d 461. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(12)

Evidence that defendant was principal bookkeeper for firm which laundered money from illegal drug transactions and that when cash was brought to firm he counted it, broke it down by denomination and credited it to account of appropriate customer and made deposits into an account kept at foreign exchange house, supported conviction of conspiracy to defraud the United States and to commit currency and other offenses against the Government. U.S. v. Orozco-Prada, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1984, 732 F.2d 1076, certiorari denied 105 S.Ct. 154, 469 U.S. 845, 83 L.Ed.2d 92, certiorari denied 105 S.Ct. 155, 469 U.S. 845, 83 L.Ed.2d 92. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(6)

Defendant's mere presence at apartment where drugs were kept, even coupled with knowledge that crime was being committed there, was not sufficient to establish guilt; evidence tending to show knowing participation in the conspiracy was also needed. U.S. v. Soto, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1983, 716 F.2d 989. Conspiracy ⚡ 40.1; Conspiracy ⚡ 47(12)

Defendant's testimony that her purchase of narcotics was motivated by a plan conceived by one individual and not by individual who was chief organizer of drug smuggling conspiracy did not entitle her to acquittal since fact was established that in Thailand she had purchased large quantities of heroin which were smuggled back to United States and her participation was established by the evidence and her motives were relevant to conspiracy conviction, since it was established that she did the illegal acts alleged for financial gain, agreeing with the other defendants as to the illegal scheme. U. S. v. Praetorius, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1979, 622 F.2d 1054, certiorari denied 101 S.Ct. 162, 449 U.S. 860, 66 L.Ed.2d 76. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(12)

Evidence that defendant was a distributor of marijuana and in four-year period dealt in quantities of up to 800 pounds of the substance and located a storage place for one massive shipment and sold portions of that shipment to others and kept the ring's records was sufficient to support conviction of conspiring to possess and distribute marijuana and also established that such defendant was not victim of spillover prejudice. U. S. v. McGrath, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1979, 613 F.2d 361, certiorari denied 100 S.Ct. 2946, 446 U.S. 967, 64 L.Ed.2d 827. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(12)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Evidence in prosecution for conspiracy and substantive offenses relating to manufacture and distribution of methamphetamine in the Philadelphia area during 1975 was sufficient, based on testimony by informant and state drug control agent, to support finding that single conspiracy charged in indictment existed, and that defendants, albeit at different times, were members of that conspiracy. U. S. v. Boyd, C.A.3 (Pa.) 1978, 595 F.2d 120. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(12)

Testimony by witness that he went to a particular place to pick up a package of narcotics from two defendants and that the two defendants argued over whether the package should be given to the witness, that one defendant later accused the witness of switching packages, that defendants were present when others charged with participation in the conspiracy discussed drug trafficking, and that one defendant at one point told others in the conspiracy not to worry because they would get the drugs was sufficient to sustain both defendants' convictions for conspiracy. U. S. v. Harris, C.A.7 (Ind.) 1976, 542 F.2d 1283, certiorari denied 97 S.Ct. 1558, 430 U.S. 934, 51 L.Ed.2d 779. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(12)

While the trial judge was justified in submitting case to the jury on the theory of a single conspiracy, there was insufficient evidence that two of the appellants "entered, participated in, or furthered the conspiracy"; as to the one, proof of whose involvement in the conspiracy was totally absent, a judgment of acquittal would be directed in the interests of justice; as to the other, a review of the record mandated a remand for a new trial. U. S. v. Steinberg, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1975, 525 F.2d 1126, certiorari denied 96 S.Ct. 2167, 425 U.S. 971, 48 L.Ed.2d 794. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.1(1); Criminal Law ⚡ 1189

Conspiracy conviction was supported by evidence that Drug Enforcement Administration agents met defendant at her apartment, that she stated that cocaine deal would be delayed because her man was doing another deal, that deal was discussed at defendant's apartment, with defendant and codefendant, that codefendant distributed cocaine to agents in form of sample, and that codefendant directed agents back to defendant's apartment, where actual distribution took place. U. S. v. Isaacs, C.A.5 (Fla.) 1975, 516 F.2d 409, certiorari denied 96 S.Ct. 295, 423 U.S. 936, 46 L.Ed.2d 269. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(12)

Evidence which did not, inter alia, show that defendant had any stake in importing drugs from Canada or that defendant had any connection with acquisition, concealment, importation, use and sale of drugs, was insufficient to sustain conviction of conspiracy and importation of methamphetamines, notwithstanding defendant's presence in automobile at time drugs were found, his close association with driver of automobile who plead guilty to importing drugs and a false exculpatory statement made by defendant shortly after arrest. U. S. v. Johnson, C.A.2 (Vt.) 1975, 513 F.2d 819. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(12); Controlled Substances ⚡ 86

Evidence concerning defendant's conversations and direct dealings with codefendant, who allegedly purchased cocaine from defendant in Jamaica and imported it into the United States, and defendant's contacts with government agent leading to defendant's entry into the territorial United States to collect balance of purchase price constituted sufficient basis for jury to conclude that defendant knew of and was involved in the importation and sustained conviction of conspiracy to import cocaine and importation of cocaine. U. S. v. Miller, C.A.5 (Fla.) 1975, 513 F.2d 791. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(12); Controlled Substances ⚡ 86

Evidence that defendant, a police officer, knew that a federal investigator was working on a case and was seeking information about certain persons recently arrested and certain persons whom defendant had previously arrested for possession of heroin and cocaine, and evidence that defendant had concealed the fact that he and fellow police officers were holding narcotics which they had seized and were offering them for sale was adequate to prove specific intent of defendant to conspire to defraud the United States by obstructing and hindering federal law enforcement agencies in the investigation and prosecution of violations of federal narcotics laws. U. S. v. Papadakis, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1975, 510 F.2d 287, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 1682, 421 U.S. 950, 44 L.Ed.2d 104. Conspiracy ↻ 47(6)

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Evidence that defendant had knowledge of conspiracy to import cocaine and agreed to contact drug supplier for government agents who had previously made arrangements to purchase cocaine from coconspirators, in order to ameliorate negotiations between agents and coconspirators was sufficient to sustain determination that there was one continuous conspiracy beginning with government agent's contact with coconspirators and continuing through subsequent meeting between government agents and defendant and that defendant was a participant in that conspiracy. U. S. v. Rodriguez, C.A.5 (Fla.) 1975, 509 F.2d 1342. Conspiracy ↻ 47(12)

That codefendant may have possessed heroin and had opportunity to join defendant's conspiracy was not sufficient proof that codefendant did agree to participate in a scheme to import and distribute large quantities of drugs, absent showing of an agreement to advance any common interest. U. S. v. Quintana, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1975, 508 F.2d 867. Conspiracy ↻ 47(12)

Evidence of street sales of narcotics involving certain conspirators, together with testimony of unindicted coconspirators, was sufficient to sustain convictions for conspiracy to possess with intent to distribute, and for conspiracy to distribute, heroin. U. S. v. Smith, C.A.5 (La.) 1974, 504 F.2d 560. Conspiracy ↻ 47(12)

With respect to defendant who claimed he was merely the bookmaker for the other members of narcotics conspiracy and that he merely associated with criminals, there was sufficient evidence, independent of hearsay statements by coconspirators, to tie him to the narcotics conspiracy. U. S. v. Mallah, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1974, 503 F.2d 971, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 1425, 420 U.S. 995, 43 L.Ed.2d 671. Conspiracy ↻ 47(12)

From defendant's act in supplying materials to cut cocaine, coupled with contacts defendant had with coconspirators immediately after they entered the United States with the drugs, and his advice that area was "hot," jury could reasonably conclude beyond a reasonable doubt that defendant knowingly became a participant in conspiracy to distribute cocaine, and no more was required. U. S. v. Yaniz-Cremata, C.A.5 (Fla.) 1974, 503 F.2d 963. Conspiracy ↻ 47(12)

Evidence, including evidence of particular defendant's travel and attendance at meetings with narcotics seller and narcotics buyer and his taking delivery of heroin which he smuggled into United States permitted finding that he participated in broad, ongoing, single, large, narcotics conspiracy. U. S. v. Santana, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1974, 503 F.2d 710, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 632, 419 U.S. 1053, 42 L.Ed.2d 649, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 1352, 420 U.S. 963, 43 L.Ed.2d 439, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 1450, 420 U.S. 1006, 43 L.Ed.2d 764. Conspiracy ↻ 47(12)

Where defendant met on at least two occasions with all three members of core group in narcotics conspiracy, took delivery of a kilogram of heroin and, when he and his partner were unable to make payment, redelivered the heroin and was later informed that the core group had resold it elsewhere at a loss, jury was entitled to infer that as a major retailer defendant knew that he was participating in a larger ongoing conspiracy, contrary to contention that the evidence, in variance from the indictment, showed two independent conspiracies in connection with separate transactions. U. S. v. Cirillo, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1974, 499 F.2d 872, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 638, 419 U.S. 1056, 42 L.Ed.2d 653. Conspiracy ↻ 43(12)

Where evidence was adequate to sustain conviction of conspiracy to distribute controlled substance, such conviction carried with it implied finding, contrary to one defendant's testimony, that such defendant knew or had reason to know of existence of the charged conspiracy and its object; that defendant may not have known precise identities of the other principals was not relevant to his being charged as a member of the conspiracy. U. S. v. Ellsworth, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1973, 481 F.2d 864, certiorari denied 94 S.Ct. 544, 414 U.S. 1041, 38 L.Ed.2d 332. Conspiracy ↻ 40.1

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Evidence that alleged coconspirator waited until defendant appeared and signalled to him before he took undercover officer into apartment and made heroin sale, together with evidence of a similar series of events that occurred two weeks later in connection with a second heroin sale, was sufficient to preponderate in favor of a finding of conspiracy by jury. U. S. v. Ruiz, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1973, 477 F.2d 918, certiorari denied 94 S.Ct. 361, 414 U.S. 1004, 38 L.Ed.2d 240. Conspiracy ↪ 47(12)

Where only activity of defendant by which Government sought to link him with conspiracy to violate narcotics laws related to use of an airplane to fly marijuana from Mexico to the United States, and a pilot testified that defendant asked him if he would be interested in making some money by flying marijuana across the border, but no mention was made by pilot that defendant referred to any other persons as being involved, no names were mentioned, and no times or arrangements for any further meetings were made, conviction could not be sustained. U. S. v. Steele, C.A.10 (Utah) 1972, 469 F.2d 165. Conspiracy ↪ 47(12)

Evidence showing that three particular defendants were active participants in one continuing scheme to sell and distribute heroin in particular city and each dealt with central conspirators on numerous occasions regarding eventual resale of narcotics was sufficient to sustain their convictions for conspiracy regardless of whether they knew the full extent of conspiracy and all of its activities and actors. U. S. v. Thomas, C.A.10 (Okla.) 1972, 468 F.2d 422, certiorari denied 93 S.Ct. 1389, 410 U.S. 935, 35 L.Ed.2d 599. Conspiracy ↪ 47(12)

Evidence established adequate connection with conspiracy to sell LSD tablets on part of all participants for purpose of making their acts and declarations in furtherance of conspiracy admissible in prosecution for conspiracy to sell the tablets. U. S. v. Carrion, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1972, 459 F.2d 1033. Criminal Law ↪ 427(5)

Fact that coconspirators named as codefendants in indictment were acquitted of conspiracy to import cocaine did not require acquittal of defendant where defendant was also charged to have conspired with another person, named but not charged as a codefendant, and with unknown persons as well and evidence was sufficient to support conviction based on defendant's dealings with the named but not indicted coconspirator. U. S. v. Cabrera, C.A.5 (Fla.) 1971, 447 F.2d 956. Conspiracy ↪ 47(12)

Evidence that phone call to defendant mentioned not only automobile trouble but another person's name and "the stuff," that two calls, 15 minutes apart, were required to get defendant to come to motel, and that defendant came armed and, hailed by police after caller had entered defendant's automobile with the pills, defendant fled, firing shot behind him and tried to clear an impassable ditch in the automobile supported conviction for smuggling benzedrine and dexedrine tablets into the United States and conspiracy to commit that offense. U. S. v. Sullivan, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1971, 443 F.2d 813, certiorari denied 92 S.Ct. 163, 404 U.S. 861, 30 L.Ed.2d 105. Conspiracy ↪ 47(12); Controlled Substances ↪ 86; Customs Duties ↪ 134

Telephone conversation and statements of defendant provided a sufficient showing of his participation in conspiracy to unlawfully import marijuana. U. S. v. Bates, C.A.9 (Nev.) 1970, 429 F.2d 557, certiorari denied 91 S.Ct. 61, 400 U.S. 831, 27 L.Ed.2d 61, certiorari denied 91 S.Ct. 175, 400 U.S. 916, 27 L.Ed.2d 155, rehearing denied 91 S.Ct. 452, 400 U.S. 1002, 27 L.Ed.2d 449.

Evidence that four alleged conspirators met and agreed to raise money for purchase of narcotics and evidence of subsequent activities of conspirators related to purchase and transportation of narcotics and to arrest of one conspirator made case for jury on conspiracy count. U.S. v. Duff, C.A.6 (Mich.) 1964, 332 F.2d 702. Conspiracy ↪ 48.1(4)

Evidence in incompetent statement and testimony that defendant several times drove past agent who was surveilling apartment where narcotics were sold and that defendant went into home of codefendant were insufficient to make case for jury on conspiracy count. U.S. v. Duff, C.A.6 (Mich.) 1964, 332 F.2d 702. Conspiracy ↪ 48.1(4)

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Evidence in prosecution for conspiracy to violate narcotic laws was sufficient to prove single, unified, general and continuing conspiracy, of which defendant knew and in which she participated. U. S. v. Pullings, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1963, 321 F.2d 287. Conspiracy ↻ 47(12)

Where, aside from evidence relating to an alleged unlawful sale of narcotics, there was sufficient additional evidence of an unlawful conspiracy to sustain defendant's conviction for conspiracy, such conviction could not be set aside on theory that only evidence in support of conspiracy was the same evidence which resulted in his acquittal on charge of unlawful sale. U.S. v. Marcone, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1960, 275 F.2d 205, certiorari denied 80 S.Ct. 879, 362 U.S. 963, 4 L.Ed.2d 877. Conspiracy ↻ 47(12)

In prosecution for conspiring to violate § 212 of this title prohibiting bribery of customs officials and §§ 173, 174 of Title 21 concerning narcotics laws wherein there was a gap in testimony of witnesses for government concerning activities of defendants covering a period of about a year, evidence was sufficient to go to the jury as to existence of a single continuing conspiracy. United States v. Stromberg, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1959, 268 F.2d 256, certiorari denied 80 S.Ct. 119, 361 U.S. 863, 4 L.Ed.2d 102, certiorari denied 80 S.Ct. 123, 361 U.S. 863, 4 L.Ed.2d 102, certiorari denied 80 S.Ct. 124, 361 U.S. 863, 4 L.Ed.2d 102, certiorari denied 80 S.Ct. 130, 361 U.S. 868, 4 L.Ed.2d 108. Conspiracy ↻ 48.1(2.1)

Evidence was sufficient to sustain conviction for conspiring to acquire marihuana without paying transfer tax, to transfer marihuana without written order required by §§ 4741 and 4742 of Title 26, and to receive, conceal, sell and facilitate transportation, concealment and sale of unlawfully imported marihuana. Schnautz v. U.S., C.A.5 (Tex.) 1959, 263 F.2d 525, certiorari denied 79 S.Ct. 1294, 360 U.S. 910, 3 L.Ed.2d 1260. Conspiracy ↻ 47(12); Internal Revenue ↻ 5295

Where defendant was charged with unlawful concealment, transportation and sale of two ounces of heroin and with conspiracy to conceal, sell, dispense and distribute heroin, it was not necessary for government to prove that arrangement between alleged coconspirators involved the two ounces of heroin to warrant conviction for conspiracy, but where it was not shown that conspiracy involved such heroin, proof that defendant engaged in conspiracy would not warrant conviction of defendant on substantive counts. Evans v. U. S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1958, 257 F.2d 121, certiorari denied 79 S.Ct. 98, 358 U.S. 866, 3 L.Ed.2d 99, rehearing denied 79 S.Ct. 221, 358 U.S. 901, 3 L.Ed.2d 150. Conspiracy ↻ 43(12); Controlled Substances ↻ 82

In prosecution for substantive violations of narcotic laws and for conspiracy to violate them, evidence, exclusive of improperly-admitted hearsay testimony of alleged coconspirators, was insufficient to sustain convictions. Panci v. U. S., C.A.5 (La.) 1958, 256 F.2d 308. Conspiracy ↻ 47(12); Internal Revenue ↻ 5295

Where there was undisputed evidence that co-defendant had been in defendant's employ, that co-defendant had been in possession and had made illegal sales of heroin, that special employee of narcotics bureau had introduced defendant to purchasers, and that when they told defendant that they wanted to buy some heroin he turned them over to his employer by whom the illegal delivery was made, jury was warranted in finding that defendant aided and abetted co-defendant in illegal transaction, that defendant and codefendant were acting in concert in the illegal undertaking, and that possession of heroin by co-defendant was possession by defendant as well. U. S. v. Maroy, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1957, 248 F.2d 663, certiorari denied 78 S.Ct. 412, 355 U.S. 931, 2 L.Ed.2d 414. Internal Revenue ↻ 5295

In prosecution for aiding and abetting in unlawful purchase or concealment of drugs, question whether evidence was sufficient to establish guilt beyond a reasonable doubt, or whether it was equally consistent with innocence or guilt, were matters for determination of jury. U. S. v. Maroy, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1957, 248 F.2d 663, certiorari denied 78 S.Ct. 412, 355 U.S. 931, 2 L.Ed.2d 414. Internal Revenue ↻ 5319

In prosecution for conspiracy to deal in heroin and for sale of heroin, evidence disclosed narcotics ring operating on large scale with a highly organized system of avoiding detection and was sufficient to support submission of both the substantive and conspiracy counts to jury. U. S. v. Campisi, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1957, 248 F.2d 102, certiorari denied 78 S.Ct. 266, 355 U.S. 892, 2 L.Ed.2d 191. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.3; Internal Revenue ⚡ 5319

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In prosecution for unlawfully carrying heroin from Chicago to St. Louis, for concealing the heroin, and for conspiracy to violate narcotic laws, evidence was sufficient to establish chain of possession of heroin from time it was taken from one of the defendants by government agent until time of trial. Alexander v. U. S., C.A.8 (Mo.) 1957, 241 F.2d 351, certiorari denied 77 S.Ct. 1405, 354 U.S. 940, 1 L.Ed.2d 1539, rehearing denied 78 S.Ct. 78, 355 U.S. 852, 2 L.Ed.2d 61. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(12); Controlled Substances ⚡ 79; Internal Revenue ⚡ 5295

In prosecution for conspiring to bring narcotic drugs into the United States and for the substantive offenses of importation and transportation, evidence was sufficient to submit the issue of conspiracy to the jury. Sandez v. U. S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1956, 239 F.2d 239, rehearing denied 245 F.2d 712. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.1(4)

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate narcotic laws, evidence showing defendant made a single delivery of heroin to other defendants while telling them that he would show them how to mix and cut the heroin so he did not have to return together with his statements that could be interpreted that deliveries of heroin would continue in future, even though defendant only made a single delivery of heroin, there was substantial proof to sustain his conviction for conspiracy. Poliafico v. U. S., C.A.6 (Ohio) 1956, 237 F.2d 97, certiorari denied 77 S.Ct. 590, 352 U.S. 1025, 1 L.Ed.2d 597, rehearing denied 77 S.Ct. 718, 353 U.S. 931, 1 L.Ed.2d 725. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(12)

Evidence sustained convictions for conspiring to illegally sell and transfer unstamped narcotic drugs and for purchasing heroin not in or from original stamped package and for receiving and concealing morphine imported contrary to law. Reed v. U. S., C.A.5 (Tex.) 1956, 230 F.2d 918. Internal Revenue ⚡ 5295

Evidence was sufficient to sustain the convictions for acquiring marijuana without paying transfer tax, transferring marijuana to federal narcotics agent not in pursuance of written order on form furnished by Secretary of the Treasury, and conspiring to commit offense of making such transfer. Gilmore v. U.S., C.A.5 (Tex.) 1955, 228 F.2d 121. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(12); Internal Revenue ⚡ 5295

In prosecution for conspiracy to commit certain offenses against the United States relating to the purchase, sale, receipt, and transportation of narcotics, evidence sustained conviction of defendant concerning whom there was no proof that she engaged directly in the buying or selling of narcotics. U.S. v. Cohen, C.A.3 (N.J.) 1952, 197 F.2d 26 . Conspiracy ⚡ 47(12)

In prosecution for unlawfully selling, dispensing and distributing heroin not in or from the original stamped package, and for fraudulent concealing and facilitating the concealment of heroin which had been imported into the United States contrary to law, and for conspiracy to commit such offenses and doing acts to effect object of conspiracy, evidence sustained conviction of defendants. Du Verney v. U. S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1950, 181 F.2d 853. Criminal Law ⚡ 569; Internal Revenue ⚡ 5295; Controlled Substances ⚡ 86; Conspiracy ⚡ 47(12)

Evidence that defendant was the active instrumentality whereby one a series of illegal opium sales was brought about, and that she acted as the go-between for others in consummating the sale of a quantity of opium involved, supported conviction of conspiring to violate the Harrison Anti-Narcotic Act, §§ 173, 174 of Title 21 and §§ 2553, 2554 of Title 26. U.S. v. Brandenburgh, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1945, 146 F.2d 878. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(12)

Evidence sustained convictions for conspiracy to violate § 2553 of Title 26 and § 174 of Title 21 as against contention that there was a fatal variance, and that proof showed, instead of one large general conspiracy, several smaller conspiracies. Chadwick v. U. S., C.C.A.5 (Tex.) 1941, 117 F.2d 902, certiorari denied 61 S.Ct. 1109, 313 U.S. 585, 85 L.Ed. 1541. Conspiracy ⚡ 43(12); Conspiracy ⚡ 47(12); Internal Revenue ⚡ 5259; Internal Revenue ⚡ 5295; Internal Revenue ⚡ 5285

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Evidence showing only drug addict's use of fictitious prescriptions issued by physician to purchase drugs for addict's own comfort as an addict was insufficient to support conviction of physician for conspiring to sell drugs in violation of Harrison Anti-Narcotic Act, § 2550 et seq. of Title 26, since addict could not be a party to the conspiracy and physician could not conspire with himself. Nigro v. U. S., C.C.A.8 (Mo.) 1941, 117 F.2d 624. Conspiracy ↪ 47(12)

In prosecution for conspiracy to import, sell and possess narcotics, evidence that object of alleged conspiracy was to smuggle narcotics into port of New York and to distribute them to addicts both in New York City and in Texas and Louisiana, thus requiring co-operation of smugglers, middlemen and two groups of retailers, one in New York and one in Texas and Louisiana who supplied the addicts, would warrant finding that all the accused were embarked upon a venture, in all parts of which each was a participant and an abettor, even though evidence did not disclose any cooperation or communication between smugglers and retailers or between the two groups of retailers. U S v. Bruno, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1939, 105 F.2d 921, certiorari granted 60 S.Ct. 112, 308 U.S. 536, 84 L.Ed. 451, reversed on other grounds 60 S.Ct. 198, 308 U.S. 287, 84 L.Ed. 257. Conspiracy ↪ 47(12)

In prosecution for conspiring to commit offenses of purchasing unstamped heroin and of possessing and facilitating transportation of heroin which defendants knew had been unlawfully transported, evidence showed preconcerted scheme between defendants to administer heroin to race horses and to accomplish this purpose by committing offenses alleged. Patterson v. U.S., C.C.A.6 (Mich.) 1935, 82 F.2d 937, certiorari denied 56 S.Ct. 677, 298 U.S. 657, 80 L.Ed. 1383. Conspiracy ↪ 47(12)

Evidence not showing defendants were registered or had paid special tax was insufficient to sustain conviction for conspiracy to sell or for selling morphine without registering and paying tax. Butler v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Okla.) 1927, 20 F.2d 570. Conspiracy ↪ 47(10)

Evidence sustained conviction of two defendants, but not of third, for conspiracy to ship smoking opium in interstate commerce, and for importing, concealing, and assisting in transportation thereof. Chin Wah v. U.S., C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1926, 13 F.2d 530. Conspiracy ↪ 47

Evidence was sufficient to show a sale in a prosecution for conspiracy to violate the Harrison Anti-Narcotic Act, § 2550 et seq. of Title 26, though the government agents, in arranging for defendants' exposure and capture, had determined to take the money back from defendants and use it as evidence against them. Smith v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Mo.) 1922, 284 F. 673, certiorari denied 43 S.Ct. 362, 261 U.S. 617, 67 L.Ed. 829. Conspiracy ↪ 47

In a prosecution for conspiracy to violate the federal laws by the unlawful sale of opium, where the only overt acts proved were that the defendants, who purchased opium under license duly issued by the collector of internal revenue, attempted to, but did not, sell it, and later left it in the hallway adjoining their place of business, and reported to the police that it had been stolen, naming the suspect, these acts were insufficient to sustain a conviction. Wiener v. U S, C.C.A.3 (Pa.) 1922, 282 F. 799.

Evidence was sufficient to support finding of conspiracy to violate narcotics laws, where coconspirator and unnamed conspirator agreed to conduct transaction by transporting, or causing to be transported, large amount of cash (proceeds from illegal activities) from Detroit to California, and revealed a common design to conceal source, nature, or ownership of money being transported. U.S. v. Dimeck, D.Kan.1993, 815 F.Supp. 1425, reversed 24 F.3d 1239. Conspiracy ↪ 47(12)

There was sufficient evidence beyond buyer-seller relationship to support defendant's drug conspiracy conviction, in view of evidence showing that defendant located willing drug dealers, and participated in, invested in, and profited directly from street gang's narcotics activities. U.S. v. Boyd, N.D.Ill.1992, 792 F.Supp. 1083. Conspiracy ↪ 47(12)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Evidence that physician and drug addicts agreed that physician would write fake narcotic prescriptions for addicts and that addicts would present the fake prescriptions to druggists, obtain sales of drugs and so procure drugs to satisfy their addiction, supported conviction of physician for conspiring to violate Harrison Anti-Narcotic Act, § 2550 et seq. of Title 26, regardless whether druggist knew that prescription was fake. U. S. v. Hipsch, W.D.Mo.1940, 34 F.Supp. 270. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(12)

Evidence supported conviction for conspiracy to distribute and possess cocaine for distribution, despite defendant's challenges to the credibility of the government's witnesses; defendant did not argue that it was physically impossible for the witnesses to observe that which they claimed they had observed, or that the laws of nature made it impossible for the occurrences to have taken place, but rather, he pointed to evidence undermining the witnesses' credibility, which was not a basis for reversal on appeal. U.S. v. Almonacid, C.A.7 (Ill.) 2003, 70 Fed.Appx. 390, 2003 WL 21699003, Unreported. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(12)

764. Obstruction of justice, sufficiency of evidence

Sufficient evidence was presented in conspiracy prosecution from which rational trier of fact could conclude that defendant had agreed with others to impede police in their efforts to execute federal search warrants; defendant participated in roadblock, made statements that roadblocks would remain in place, and acted to prevent investigator from entering Indian reservation on which warrants were to be executed. U.S. v. Montour, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1991, 944 F.2d 1019. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(13)

Evidence sustained defendants' convictions for conspiracy to obstruct justice. U.S. v. Lester, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1984, 749 F.2d 1288. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(13)

In prosecution for conspiracy to obstruct justice in regard to criminal investigation into certain banking practices, evidence that defendant bank attorney conspired with others to keep Federal Bureau of Investigation and grand jury from learning who controlled bank account under investigation was sufficient to sustain conviction. U.S. v. Perkins, C.A.11 (Fla.) 1984, 748 F.2d 1519. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(13)

Evidence in prosecution for conspiracy to obstruct communication of information by informant to federal agent was sufficient to prove a single conspiracy, as alleged in the indictment, despite contention that government proved a series of small independent conspiracies to kill informant, and that defendant was unfairly prejudiced by admission of evidence of independent conspiracies in which he was not a participant. U.S. v. Nelson, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1984, 733 F.2d 364, certiorari denied 105 S.Ct. 341, 469 U.S. 937, 83 L.Ed.2d 276. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(8)

In prosecution for conspiracy of local union officials and others to obstruct, impede and interfere with Labor Department investigation of affairs of local, jury was justified in finding that defendants and other had conspired to impede, interfere with and obstruct contemplated Department investigation by giving false written and oral representations to effect that various individuals had received substantial payments for picket line services. U. S. v. Sullivan, C.A.8 (Mo.) 1980, 618 F.2d 1290. Labor And Employment ⚡ 3283

Although defendant denied before grand jury that he had used his influence to intercede on behalf of friend's grandson concerning criminal charge against him, evidence that friend withdrew $1,400 from bank and met with defendant at his place of business, that defendant admitted to grandson's attorney that he had put in "good word" with district attorney, and that grandson received probationary sentence, was sufficient to provide reasonable basis for trial court's finding that there was conspiracy to subvert orderly processes of justice. U. S. v. Doulin, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1976, 538 F.2d 466, certiorari denied 97 S.Ct. 256, 429 U.S. 895, 50 L.Ed.2d 178. Criminal Law ⚡ 427(5)

Once jury determined that two defendants were guilty of obstructing justice, evidence that defendants had held a meeting at which they discussed testimony which they would give to grand jury sustained defendants' convictions for conspiracy. U. S. v. Turcotte, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1975, 515 F.2d 145, certiorari denied 96 S.Ct. 564, 423 U.S. 1032, 46 L.Ed.2d 406. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(13)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Evidence was sufficient to support defendant's conviction for conspiracy to obstruct justice notwithstanding that he joined the conspiracy after it had already achieved its first alleged objective, the prevention of a witness' appearance before grand jury. U. S. v. Marionneaux, C.A.5 (La.) 1975, 514 F.2d 1244. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(13)

Where evidence admitted to show defendant's participation in conspiracy to affect communication of information to a federal investigator was sufficient to demonstrate a conspiracy to obstruct justice, defendant's conviction for conspiracy would be upheld, even though it was not proven that defendant and his coconspirators influenced another person not to give information to federal investigators. U. S. v. Papadakis, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1975, 510 F.2d 287, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 1682, 421 U.S. 950, 44 L.Ed.2d 104. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(13)

Contrary to defendant's contention, in prosecution for conspiracy to obstruct justice, that he had been party to only a smaller, separate conspiracy, different from that charged, evidence was sufficient to establish that defendant acted with full knowledge of general purpose of single, larger conspiracy to obstruct justice. U. S. v. Brasseaux, C.A.5 (La.) 1975, 509 F.2d 157, rehearing denied 511 F.2d 1192. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(13)

Evidence sustained conviction for conspiracy to obstruct justice in connection with grand jury and senate committee proceedings. Hucks v. U. S., C.A.D.C.1962, 301 F.2d 548, 112 U.S.App.D.C. 224, certiorari denied 83 S.Ct. 58, 371 U.S. 835, 9 L.Ed.2d 70, rehearing denied 83 S.Ct. 257, 371 U.S. 917, 9 L.Ed.2d 176. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(13); Perjury ⚡ 33(1)

Evidence sustained conviction for conspiracy, and for violation of § 1503 of this title penalizing the obstruction of justice. Sizemore v. U. S., C.A.6 (Ky.) 1958, 260 F.2d 349. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(13); Obstructing Justice ⚡ 16

Evidence sustained convictions of conspiracy to defraud the United States in exercise of its governmental function of administering Emergency Rent Control Program justly and free from corruption and improper influence. United States v. Schiller, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1951, 187 F.2d 572. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(6)

Evidence was sufficient to sustain conviction for conspiracy to endeavor to obstruct and impede due administration of justice in criminal prosecution by improper influence of jurors. Burton v. U. S., C.A.5 (La.) 1949, 175 F.2d 960, rehearing denied 176 F.2d 865, certiorari denied 70 S.Ct. 347, 338 U.S. 909, 94 L.Ed. 560, rehearing denied 70 S.Ct. 565, 339 U.S. 916, 94 L.Ed. 1341. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(13)

In prosecution for conspiring to endeavor to obstruct or impede due administration of justice by having an operation performed on a defendant and thereby obtaining a mistrial as to him, evidence was sufficient for jury. U.S. v. Minkoff, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1943, 137 F.2d 402. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.1(2.1)

In prosecution for conspiring corruptly to obstruct justice, evidence sustained conviction. U.S. v. Polakoff, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1941, 121 F.2d 333, certiorari denied 62 S.Ct. 107, 314 U.S. 626, 86 L.Ed. 503. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(13)

Evidence sustained conviction of Circuit Judge for participating in conspiracy to obstruct the administration of justice and to defraud the United States by entering into an agreement with an acquaintance whereby acquaintance should seek out litigants and parties, known or unknown, who were interested in suits then or thereafter pending, and in effect represent to each of them that judge would accept money in return for corrupt judicial action by him favorable to the interests of those who paid. U.S. v. Manton, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1939, 107 F.2d 834, certiorari denied 60 S.Ct. 590, 309 U.S. 664, 84 L.Ed. 1012. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(13)

Evidence justified jury's conclusion that a criminal conspiracy existed to influence and obstruct the administration of justice and defraud the United States of its right to the conscientious action of a Circuit Judge free from corruption, and that judge's codefendant knowingly became a party to the conspiracy and participated in the execution of its purposes in so far as they related to a particular case. U.S. v. Manton, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1939, 107 F.2d 834, certiorari denied 60 S.Ct. 590, 309 U.S. 664, 84 L.Ed. 1012. Conspiracy ↻ 47(13)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Evidence, in prosecution for conspiracy to obstruct due administration of justice by procuring dismissal of another prosecution was sufficient for jury. Craig v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1936, 81 F.2d 816, certiorari dismissed 56 S.Ct. 670, 298 U.S. 637, 80 L.Ed. 1371, certiorari dismissed 56 S.Ct. 671, 298 U.S. 637, 80 L.Ed. 1371, rehearing denied 83 F.2d 450, certiorari denied 56 S.Ct. 959, 298 U.S. 690, 80 L.Ed. 1408, rehearing denied 57 S.Ct. 6, 299 U.S. 620, 81 L.Ed. 457. Conspiracy ↻ 48.1(2.1)

Record disclosing that petitioner at time of trial on charge of conspiracy to obstruct due administration of justice was aware of accusations by prosecution's witness before grand jury relating to another offense and that petitioner knew of witness' psychiatric history would not support prisoner's claim that prosecution suppressed evidence by which petitioner might have attacked witness' credibility. U. S. v. Keogh, S.D.N.Y.1967, 271 F.Supp. 1002, affirmed in part 391 F.2d 138, on remand 289 F.Supp. 265. Criminal Law ↻ 1618(9)

765. Perjury, sufficiency of evidence

In prosecution for perjury, making false statements to government agencies and conspiracy, weight of evidence demonstrated falsity of statements that there was no arrangement or agreement to reimburse mortgage brokerage company for losses sustained on purchase of delinquent mortgages. U. S. v. Marchisio, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1965, 344 F.2d 653. Conspiracy ↻ 47(13); Fraud ↻ 69(5); Perjury ↻ 33(8)

In prosecution for conspiracy to commit perjury and obstruct justice by giving false and evasive testimony concerning a gathering which defendants attended, evidence was insufficient to sustain convictions, for lack of sufficient evidence to support a finding that defendants had agreed to lie about the gathering, or that they had had reason to anticipate that any of them would be called to testify under oath about the gathering. U.S. v. Bufalino, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1960, 285 F.2d 408. Conspiracy ↻ 47(13)

In prosecution for conspiracy to impede and obstruct justice by perjury and for conspiracy to defraud United States, evidence against appealing defendant was sufficient for jury. Outlaw v. U.S., C.C.A.5 (Tex.) 1936, 81 F.2d 805, certiorari denied 56 S.Ct. 747, 298 U.S. 665, 80 L.Ed. 1389. Conspiracy ↻ 48.1(2.1)

Evidence considered, in a prosecution for conspiracy to defraud the United States of public lands by means of fraudulent homestead entries and to commit an offense against the laws of the United States by suborning entrymen to commit perjury, and was sufficient to justify the submission of the case to the jury. Richards v. U. S., C.C.A.8 (Neb.) 1909, 175 F. 911, 99 C.C.A. 401. Conspiracy ↻ 48.1(3)

766. Postal offenses, sufficiency of evidence--Generally

Defendants' convictions of conspiracy to possess stolen mail and to use unauthorized access devices was supported by coconspirator's testimony that members of conspiracy prepared false identifications, obtained and possessed stolen credit cards, and used credit cards and false identifications to obtain money and other things of value. U.S. v. McKnight, C.A.8 (Mo.) 1994, 17 F.3d 1139, rehearing and rehearing en banc denied, rehearing denied, certiorari denied 115 S.Ct. 275, 513 U.S. 907, 130 L.Ed.2d 192. Criminal Law ↻ 508(9)

Evidence supported conviction for conspiracy to rob mail custodian; defendant knew of plans of other individuals to rob mail carrier, drove individual to robbery, followed individual in stolen mail truck, transported individual and stolen mail away from scene, and helped to cash checks taken from stolen mail. U.S. v. Pinkney, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1994, 15 F.3d 825. Conspiracy ↻ 40.1

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Codefendant's testimony that he, defendant and another agreed that the latter would enter post office and that codefendant would wait outside was sufficient evidence of agreement to support conviction of conspiring to break and enter post office with intent to commit larceny as the testimony was not incredible or insubstantial on its face and agreement to burglarize was easily inferable from felonious activities earlier on the evening of the offense. U. S. v. Watson, C.A.8 (Ark.) 1982, 677 F.2d 689. Conspiracy ↻ 47(11)

Conspiracy to commit an offense against United States by retaining and converting stolen postal money orders was established by evidence that defendant and his pals came to a mutual understanding to accomplish the unlawful acts, and no formal agreement was required. U. S. v. Robinson, C.A.7 (Wis.) 1972, 470 F.2d 121. Conspiracy ↻ 47(11)

Evidence on question of whether appellants intended to participate in conspiracy to transmit obscene matters through mail, in operation of correspondence club appealing to homosexual males, was sufficient to sustain their convictions for conspiracy to use mails for transmission of obscene materials, even though there was no evidence that they sent or received obscene material. U. S. v. Zuideveld, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1963, 316 F.2d 873, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 671, 376 U.S. 916, 11 L.Ed.2d 612. Conspiracy ↻ 47(3.1)

Evidence was insufficient to sustain charge of conspiracy to mail threatening letters for purpose of extortion. U.S. v. Moloney, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1952, 200 F.2d 344. Conspiracy ↻ 47(3.1)

Evidence sustained conviction for conspiring to obstruct movement of mails and to restrain trade in course of attempt to halt railroad transportation in coal mining areas. U.S. v. Anderson, C.C.A.7 (Ill.) 1939, 101 F.2d 325, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 822, 307 U.S. 625, 83 L.Ed. 1502, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 822, 307 U.S. 625, 83 L.Ed. 1503, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 823, 307 U.S. 625, 83 L.Ed. 1503, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 823, 307 U.S. 625, 83 L.Ed. 1504, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 823, 307 U.S. 625, 83 L.Ed. 1504, 86 L.Ed. 1504, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 824, 307 U.S. 625, 83 L.Ed. 1505, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 824, 307 U.S. 625, 83 L.Ed. 1506, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 825, 307 U.S. 625, 83 L.Ed. 1506, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 825, 307 U.S. 625, 83 L.Ed. 1507, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 825, 307 U.S. 625, 83 L.Ed. 1508, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 826, 307 U.S. 625, 83 L.Ed. 1508, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 826, 307 U.S. 625, 83 L.Ed. 1509. Conspiracy ↻ 47(3.1); Monopolies ↻ 31(2.4)

Evidence was sufficient to sustain conviction for conspiracy to rob mail carrier. Bellande v. U.S., C.C.A.5 (La.) 1928, 25 F.2d 1, certiorari denied 48 S.Ct. 602, 277 U.S. 607, 72 L.Ed. 1012. Conspiracy ↻ 47(11)

In a prosecution for conspiracy to submit false evidence to the Post Office Department in support of an application to admit certain publications to second-class rates, evidence was insufficient to show that defendants knowingly submitted false testimony with knowledge that the facts inquired about were regarded by the Post Office Department as material. Myrick v. U.S., C.C.A.1 (Mass.) 1915, 219 F. 1, 134 C.C.A. 619.

Evidence that defendant handled mail as postal worker and agreed with acquaintance to sell three checks that had been mailed but had not reached parties to whom checks were addressed was sufficient to support convictions for conspiracy to sell and willful possession of stolen mail matter. U.S. v. Bevans, E.D.Pa.1990, 728 F.Supp. 340, affirmed 914 F.2d 244. Conspiracy ↻ 47(11)

Despite some evidence of defendant's drinking and use of drugs at time of some of acts material to offenses, government sustained burden of proving beyond reasonable doubt each essential element of offenses of cutting open mail pouches and a mail sack with intent to steal mail, of conspiracy to commit such offenses and of conspiracy to seal property used by postal service and to steal mail from an authorized depository. U. S. v. Harding, D.C.Conn.1964, 237 F.Supp. 317. Conspiracy ↻ 47(11); Postal Service ↻ 49(8.1)

767. ---- Mail fraud, postal offenses, sufficiency of evidence

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Evidence was sufficient to support finding of an agreement to engage in criminal activity, as required to sustain defendant's conviction for conspiring to commit mail fraud stemming from defendant's conduct in the operation of a property management business; office staff testified that defendant instructed staff not to record complimentary uses of rental properties in the computer, thereby concealing the activity from the owners, and defendant forwarded complaints from owners to co-conspirator, who would then return the call and offer an excuse for the missing rental activity. U.S. v. Montgomery, C.A.9 (Or.) 2004, 384 F.3d 1050. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(5)

Defense counsel's failure to investigate and present a voice identification analysis of two tape-recorded conversations did not prejudice defendant, and thus could not amount to ineffective assistance in violation of the Sixth Amendment; even assuming defendant was not the speaker in the tape-recorded conversations, the evidence was still sufficient to establish defendant's guilt on charges of conspiracy to commit mail fraud and making false statements in connection with health care matters, mail fraud, and making false statements in connection with the payment of health care benefits. U.S. v. Birkin, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 2004, 366 F.3d 95. Criminal Law ⚡ 641.13(6)

Evidence was sufficient to support defendant's conviction for conspiracy to commit mail and wire fraud arising out of defendant's involvement in an illegal kickback scheme between defendant, who was a chiropractor, and a personal injury attorney; evidence demonstrated that attorney gained over $70,000 in kickback payments made to third parties for his personal benefit, that defendant knowingly signed checks payable to third-party recipients, in order to conceal the scheme, equal in total amount to 20 percent of the fees he collected in connection with client referrals from attorney, and testimony of clients indicated that they were unaware of the kickback scheme, demonstrating misuse of fiduciary relationship. U.S. v. Hausmann, C.A.7 (Wis.) 2003, 345 F.3d 952, rehearing and suggestion for rehearing en banc denied, certiorari denied 124 S.Ct. 2412, 541 U.S. 1072, 158 L.Ed.2d 981. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(5)

Evidence that administrator for solid waste disposal authority, knowing that company for which his wife worked was not recycling company but a mere hauler of waste produced by manufacturers, had conspired with company's principals, in return for kickbacks routed through his wife, to give company a discounted dumping rate available only to recyclers for waste that it dumped at landfill, was sufficient to support mail fraud and conspiracy to commit mail fraud convictions, notwithstanding conspirators' contention that company, in providing manufacturers from which it collected waste with pans to separate the putrescible from non-putrescible waste, had engaged in source separation, an initial step in recycling process; although "source separation" might be preliminary step in recycling process in some cases, reasonable jury could find that company was not, for that reason alone, a recycler. U.S. v. Williamson, C.A.11 (Ala.) 2003, 339 F.3d 1295, rehearing and rehearing en banc denied 85 Fed.Appx. 194, 2003 WL 22417208, certiorari denied 124 S.Ct. 1427, 540 U.S. 1184, 158 L.Ed.2d 88, certiorari denied 124 S.Ct. 1440, 540 U.S. 1184, 158 L.Ed.2d 89. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(5); Postal Service ⚡ 49(11)

Defendant's conviction for conspiracy to commit mail fraud was supported by evidence that defendant was employee of correspondence school distributor, that employees of distributor used federal mails to engage in scheme to defraud students whom they signed up for student loans, and that defendant paid students to enroll in program, paid students to sign student loan checks, told students who signed loan checks that they would not incur debt, forged student drivers' license numbers, misstated students' past government loan history and criminal records, and gained financially from his own acts and those of coconspirators. U.S. v. Royal, C.A.1 (Mass.) 1996, 100 F.3d 1019, on remand 7 F.Supp.2d 96. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(5)

Sufficient evidence that defendant accepted valuable consideration from automobile dealers for awarding dealership franchises and other preferential treatment supported conviction for conspiring to defraud automobile distributor, at which defendant was top field sales manager before retiring; coconspirator testified as to many gifts of money and other items that he shared with defendant, passed along to defendant, or heard about defendant receiving. U.S. v. Josleyn, C.A.1 (N.H.) 1996, 99 F.3d 1182, certiorari denied 117 S.Ct. 959, 519 U.S. 1116, 136 L.Ed.2d 845. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(4)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Defendant's conviction for conspiracy to commit mail fraud for purpose of avoiding state fuel retail tax was not supported in absence of any evidence that defendant had any knowledge of or participated in retailers' evasion of retail fuel taxes despite evidence that defendant aided fuel suppliers to evade federal excise taxes and delivered fuel to retailers at discounted price. U.S. v. Schramm, C.A.3 (Pa.) 1996, 75 F.3d 156. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(5)

Evidence in prosecution for conspiring to defraud, committing mail fraud, and aiding and abetting interstate transportation of property taken by fraud established that computer manufacturer was deprived of value when customer switched labels on thermoconductor modules (TCMs) and, for $17,000 each, obtained upgraded TCMs with actual sales price ranging from $50,000 to $140,000. U.S. v. Nelson, C.A.8 (Minn.) 1993, 988 F.2d 798, rehearing denied, certiorari denied 114 S.Ct. 302, 510 U.S. 914, 126 L.Ed.2d 250. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(4); Postal Service ⚡ 49(11); Receiving Stolen Goods ⚡ 8(3)

Evidence was sufficient to sustain conviction for participating in mail, wire and travel fraud, arising out of schemes to defraud would-be independent distributors of home energy conservation devices; in training sessions with distributors, defendant misrepresented successes of other distributors and possibility of profiting from selling products, defendant misrepresented to potential distributor that he had enjoyed great success selling products, and defendant knew distributors were charged retail, rather than wholesale prices for products and had reason to doubt coconspirator's integrity. U.S. v. Wiley, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1988, 846 F.2d 150. Commerce ⚡ 82.10; Postal Service ⚡ 49(11); Telecommunications ⚡ 1018(4)

In prosecution for conspiracy to defraud the United States and mail fraud, evidence as to submission of contract bids by defendants together with other evidence including evidence that one defendant mailed envelope by certified mail to his brother, other defendant, and that same envelope, containing amended bid and bearing certified mail number was thereafter delivered to procurement office permitted finding of use and reuse of envelope in the mails for illegal purpose could be found to establish guilt of conspiracy beyond reasonable doubt. U.S. v. Fowler, C.A.5 (La.) 1984, 735 F.2d 823, error coram nobis granted 891 F.2d 1165. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(5)

Evidence that defendant conspired with others to defraud and to unlawfully obtain property and that he unlawfully and willfully caused liquor license application to be sent and delivered by United States Postal Service was sufficient to sustain his conspiracy and substantive mail fraud convictions. U.S. v. Haimowitz, C.A.11 (Fla.) 1984, 725 F.2d 1561, certiorari denied 105 S.Ct. 563, 469 U.S. 1072, 83 L.Ed.2d 504. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(3.1); Postal Service ⚡ 49(11)

In prosecution wherein appealing defendants were convicted of mail fraud and conspiracy to commit mail fraud, evidence permitted finding, beyond reasonable doubt, that defendant vice-president in charge of lands division of independent oil company had known that coindictee oil broker obtained geological maps and information by fraud and that such vice-president, such independent oil company and its landsman in Houston had all joined scheme as alleged in indictment. U.S. v. Patrick Petroleum Corp. of Michigan, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1982, 703 F.2d 94. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(5)

Evidence was sufficient to support conviction of officer and sales manager of Puerto Rican company for conspiracy to commit arson, mail and wire fraud, for allegedly having conspired to insure company, planned successful destruction of company's warehouse by arson, and made separate interstate communications with insurance company as part of scheme. U. S. v. Benmuhar, C.A.1 (Puerto Rico) 1981, 658 F.2d 14, certiorari denied 102 S.Ct. 2927, 457 U.S. 1117, 73 L.Ed.2d 1328, rehearing denied 103 S.Ct. 16, 458 U.S. 1132, 73 L.Ed.2d 1402. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(3.1); Postal Service ⚡ 49(11); Telecommunications ⚡ 1018(4)

Evidence which showed that one particular defendant was deeply involved in most of fraudulent transactions and that he and another defendant continually engaged in reassuring victims as to legitimacy of their operation and that the latter defendant was courier of nonexistent letters of credit and took possession of at least part of advance funds which eventually found their way into joint bank account in Bahamas belonging to both such defendants permitted jury to find guilt of conspiracy. U. S. v. Kaplan, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1977, 554 F.2d 958, certiorari denied 98 S.Ct. 483, 434 U.S. 956, 54 L.Ed.2d 315, rehearing denied 98 S.Ct. 755, 434 U.S. 1026, 54 L.Ed.2d 774. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(4)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Evidence supported conviction of defendants of conspiracy, and of interstate or foreign transportation of stolen money in scheme through which they appropriated over one million dollars of client's funds while representing that they were investing funds for client in Canadian real estate. U. S. v. Frank, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1974, 494 F.2d 145, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 48, 419 U.S. 828, 42 L.Ed.2d 52. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(5); Conspiracy ⚡ 47(11); Postal Service ⚡ 49(11); Receiving Stolen Goods ⚡ 8(3)

In prosecution for mail fraud and conspiracy in operation of alleged nonprofit organization called the United States Merchant Marine, adoption of the title, use of nautical titles for officers, placement of ensign on letterhead and Washington, D.C., address as "Headquarters" permitted jury to find existence of scheme to fraudulently induce registration of boats and motors on payment of fees. U. S. v. Blake, C.A.5 (Ala.) 1973, 488 F.2d 101. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(5); Postal Service ⚡ 49(11)

Evidence was sufficient to support conviction of defendant, who along with codefendant set up an office, established phony line of credit, and obtained and resold series of shipments of frozen food while only paying for first order in series of purchases, of conspiracy, mail fraud, fraud by wire and interstate transportation of goods taken by fraud. U. S. v. Payne, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1973, 474 F.2d 603. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(5); Postal Service ⚡ 49(11); Receiving Stolen Goods ⚡ 8(3); Telecommunications ⚡ 1018(4)

Evidence sustained conviction of conspiracy to misapply funds of federally insured savings and loan association, to conceal material facts from and falsifying statements to the Government, to make false entries in books and reports with intent to deceive the Federal Savings & Loan Insurance Corporation and others, to make false statements for purpose of influencing the FSLIC and to devise scheme to defraud the attempted execution of which involved the use of the United States mails, and of substantive charges of mail fraud concerning the same scheme. U. S. v. Grizaffi, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1972, 471 F.2d 69, certiorari denied 93 S.Ct. 2141, 411 U.S. 964, 36 L.Ed.2d 684, certiorari denied 93 S.Ct. 2142, 411 U.S. 964, 36 L.Ed.2d 684. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(4); Conspiracy ⚡ 47(5); Conspiracy ⚡ 47(6); Postal Service ⚡ 49(11)

Evidence was sufficient from which jury could find that defendant, charged with mail fraud, was directly involved in the mailing of letter containing dividend checks by corporation to codefendant, that the mailing was done in furtherance of the scheme of conspiracy and that defendant was a coconspirator. U. S. v. Sparrow, C.A.10 (Utah) 1972, 470 F.2d 885, certiorari denied 93 S.Ct. 1913, 411 U.S. 936, 36 L.Ed.2d 397. Postal Service ⚡ 50

Evidence that defendant made purchases by use of credit card belonging to another party and that credit card sales drafts thereafter entered mails was insufficient to establish use of mails so as to sustain conviction on charge of conspiracy to commit mail fraud. U. S. v. Lynn, C.A.10 (Wyo.) 1972, 461 F.2d 759.

Ample factual basis existed to conclude that defendant convicted of conspiracy was a knowing participant in alleged scheme to defraud and that she should have reasonably foreseen the use of the mails and other interstate facilities. U. S. v. Marino, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1970, 421 F.2d 640. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(5)

Evidence in prosecution on multicounts of using mails to defraud and one count of conspiracy was sufficient to sustain convictions of defendants who sold centrally installed vacuum cleaners by means of scheme whereby customers were to earn commissions by referring sellers to other potential customers. Glazerman v. U. S., C.A.10 (Okla.) 1970, 421 F.2d 547, certiorari denied 90 S.Ct. 1817, 398 U.S. 928, 26 L.Ed.2d 90. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(5); Postal Service ⚡ 49(11)

Evidence that defendant never went to subdivision site and that no promises were fraudulently made or debt

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

fraudulently incurred in any part of subdivision promotion in which defendant personally participated did not support conviction for mail fraud and conspiracy to commit mail fraud. Windsor v. U. S., C.A.9 (Idaho) 1967, 384 F.2d 535. Conspiracy ↻ 47(5); Postal Service ↻ 49(11)

Evidence of arrangement between owner of clothing store and another by which linens damaged by fire were represented to be of greater value than actual value, together with other evidence, supported conviction on charge that owner conspired to commit mail fraud offense set forth in substantive count. Mishan v. U. S., C.A.5 (Fla.) 1965, 345 F.2d 790. Conspiracy ↻ 47(5)

Evidence sustained conviction for conspiracy to perpetrate mail fraud in that defendants used mails in furtherance of scheme to defraud investors out of money or property by means of fraudulent representations. Atkinson v. U. S., C.A.8 (Mo.) 1965, 344 F.2d 97, certiorari denied 86 S.Ct. 141, 382 U.S. 867, 15 L.Ed.2d 106. Conspiracy ↻ 47(5); Postal Service ↻ 49(11)

Evidence was sufficient to warrant submission of case for violations of § 1341 of this title and conspiracy to violate § 1341 of this title as to one defendant but not sufficient as to another. Adjmi v. U. S., C.A.5 (Fla.) 1965, 343 F.2d 164. Conspiracy ↻ 48.1(3); Postal Service ↻ 50

Substantial evidence supported jury finding that there was an overall conspiracy to defraud and obtain money and property from Foundation and its contributors, that each defendant cooperated with others and each knowingly joined in conspiracy, and that mails were used to defraud in furtherance of the overall objective, and it was immaterial whether there were minor conspiracies or schemes inside overall conspiracy and that some of defendants participated only in some of such smaller schemes. Koolish v. U. S., C.A.8 (Minn.) 1965, 340 F.2d 513, certiorari denied 85 S.Ct. 1805, 381 U.S. 951, 14 L.Ed.2d 724. Conspiracy ↻ 47(5); Postal Service ↻ 49(11)

Evidence sustained conviction for mail fraud and conspiracy in connection with mail-order merchandising club. U. S. v. Press, C.A.2 (Vt.) 1964, 336 F.2d 1003, certiorari denied 85 S.Ct. 658, 379 U.S. 965, 13 L.Ed.2d 559, certiorari denied 85 S.Ct. 670, 379 U.S. 973, 13 L.Ed.2d 563, rehearing denied 85 S.Ct. 887, 380 U.S. 927, 13 L.Ed.2d 815. Conspiracy ↻ 47(5); Postal Service ↻ 49(11)

Evidence that salesman and school founder, who was also manager, joined in selling and misrepresenting jet engine courses, using mails for untrue advertising, sustained conviction for conspiracy. Babson v. U. S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1964, 330 F.2d 662, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 1920, 377 U.S. 993, 12 L.Ed.2d 1045. Conspiracy ↻ 47(5)

Evidence sustained mail fraud and conspiracy convictions of defendants, who advertised by mail and sold knitting machines which could not be successfully operated by many buyers. U. S. v. Baren, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1962, 305 F.2d 527. Conspiracy ↻ 47(5); Postal Service ↻ 49(11)

Evidence was sufficient to sustain convictions for using the mails in furtherance of a scheme to defraud, using instrumentality of communication in interstate commerce to sell or attempt to sell fraudulent securities, and conspiracy. Owens v. U.S., C.A.5 (Fla.) 1955, 221 F.2d 351. Conspiracy ↻ 47(5); Postal Service ↻ 49(11); Securities Regulation ↻ 199

Evidence in support of charge of conspiracy to use mails in furtherance of a scheme to defraud by false representations that defendants had within their control designation of contractors on certain government housing projects and war works was sufficient for jury. Curley v. U.S., App.D.C.1947, 160 F.2d 229, 81 U.S.App.D.C. 389, certiorari denied 67 S.Ct. 1511, 331 U.S. 837, 91 L.Ed. 1850, rehearing denied 67 S.Ct. 1729, 331 U.S. 869, 91 L.Ed. 1872, certiorari denied 67 S.Ct. 1512, 331 U.S. 837, 91 L.Ed. 1850, rehearing denied 67 S.Ct. 1750, 331 U.S. 870, 91 L.Ed. 1873. Conspiracy ↻ 48.1(3)

Evidence sustained conviction for conspiring to devise a scheme to defraud and to use the mails in the execution of the scheme, and for having mailed three letters to effect the object of the conspiracy. Vickers v. U. S., C.C.A.8 (Ark.) 1946, 157 F.2d 285. Conspiracy ☞ 47(5)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

The use of mails in furtherance of scheme to defraud in connection with sale of allegedly potential oil land was established where defendants selling land ordered warranty deeds from another defendant in Texas by mail, and latter executed and mailed deeds to county clerk in Texas with instructions to forward the deeds after recordation to an investor or to another defendant in California. Mansfield v. U.S., C.C.A.5 (Tex.) 1946, 155 F.2d 952, certiorari denied 67 S.Ct. 364, 329 U.S. 792, 91 L.Ed. 678. Postal Service ☞ 35(8)

Evidence warranted conviction for conspiracy to violate § 77q(1) of Title 15 and former § 338 of this title by using mails in furtherance of scheme to defraud in connection with sale of allegedly potential oil lands. Mansfield v. U.S., C.C.A.5 (Tex.) 1946, 155 F.2d 952, certiorari denied 67 S.Ct. 364, 329 U.S. 792, 91 L.Ed. 678. Conspiracy ☞ 47(5)

Evidence supported conviction of violating former §§ 88 [now this section] and 338 of this title, based on use of mails in connection with the development, promotion and sale of burial lots in cemetery. Deaver v. U.S., App.D.C.1946, 155 F.2d 740, 81 U.S.App.D.C. 148, certiorari denied 67 S.Ct. 121, 329 U.S. 766, 91 L.Ed. 659. See, also, Blue v. U.S., C.C.A.Ohio 1943, 138 F.2d 351, certiorari denied 64 S.Ct. 1046 (3 cases), 322 U.S. 736, 88 L.Ed. 1570, rehearing denied 64 S.Ct. 1259 (3 cases), 322 U.S. 771, 88 L.Ed. 1596. Conspiracy ☞ 47(5); Postal Service ☞ 49(11)

Evidence sustained convictions for conspiracy to violate the Mail Fraud Act, former § 338 of the title, and the fraud provisions of the Securities Act of 1933, § 77q(a)(1) of Title 15, by promotion of a membership club with ultimate object of obtaining money and property from club members. U. S. v. Monjar, C.C.A.3 (Del.) 1944, 147 F.2d 916, certiorari denied 65 S.Ct. 1191, 325 U.S. 859, 89 L.Ed. 1979, certiorari denied 65 S.Ct. 1192, 325 U.S. 859, 89 L.Ed. 1979, certiorari denied 65 S.Ct. 1192, 325 U.S. 859, 89 L.Ed. 1980, certiorari denied 65 S.Ct. 1193, 325 U.S. 859, 89 L.Ed. 1980, certiorari denied 65 S.Ct. 1194, 325 U.S. 859, 89 L.Ed. 1981. Conspiracy ☞ 47(5)

Where fraudulent scheme contemplated the signing of franchise-holder agreements during an indefinite period of time with various persons answering newspaper advertisements, in prosecution for using mails in furtherance of fraudulent scheme and for conspiracy, evidence indicating performance of acts required by agreements did not negative existence of criminal intent. Marshall v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1944, 146 F.2d 618. Conspiracy ☞ 47(5); Postal Service ☞ 49(11); Postal Service ☞ 49(9)

Evidence sustained conviction for conspiracy to use mails in furtherance of fraudulent scheme which contemplated signing of franchise-holder agreements for electrical directories for hotel lobbies. Marshall v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1944, 146 F.2d 618. Conspiracy ☞ 47(5)

In prosecution of several defendants for using mails to defraud and for conspiracy to commit the substantive crime where it appeared that there was a general scheme and two local schemes in which the confederates were not the same, defendants could not complain that evidence was so complicated that jury would be confused and lose track of real issues, especially where complaining defendants were the most important confederates. U.S. v. Cohen, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1944, 145 F.2d 82, certiorari denied 65 S.Ct. 553, 323 U.S. 799, 89 L.Ed. 637, certiorari denied 65 S.Ct. 553, 323 U.S. 799, 89 L.Ed. 638, certiorari denied 65 S.Ct. 554, 323 U.S. 800, 89 L.Ed. 638. Criminal Law ☞ 1169.1(2.1)

In prosecution of several defendants for using mails to defraud and for conspiracy to commit the substantive crime, proof that one of defendants had settled in a small village in Arkansas before mailing of the "count letter," even if established, would not conclusively prove that such defendant had abandoned the scheme before that date. U.S. v. Cohen, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1944, 145 F.2d 82, certiorari denied 65 S.Ct. 553, 323 U.S. 799, 89 L.Ed. 637, certiorari denied 65 S.Ct. 553, 323 U.S. 799, 89 L.Ed. 638, certiorari denied 65 S.Ct. 554, 323 U.S. 800, 89 L.Ed. 638.

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Conspiracy ⚡ 47(5); Postal Service ⚡ 49(11)

In prosecution for conspiracy to use mails to defraud and for using mails in scheme to defraud, where there was evidence that sale of corporate assets had been made to obtain control of business of another corporation by means of false statements and in disregard of interests of minority shareholders, evidence was sufficient for jury. U.S. v. Feinberg, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1944, 140 F.2d 592, certiorari denied 64 S.Ct. 943, 322 U.S. 726, 88 L.Ed. 1562. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.1(3); Postal Service ⚡ 50

Where prosecution of one of individual defendants who was employed by other individual defendant as salesman for conspiracy in use of mails to defraud would have been barred if such defendant had completely severed his connection with conspiracy on or before February 20, 1936, which was three years before date of indictment, evidence authorized jury to infer that such defendant had not withdrawn from conspiracy by February 20, 1936. U.S. v. Bramson, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1943, 139 F.2d 598, certiorari denied 64 S.Ct. 636, 321 U.S. 783, 88 L.Ed. 1075. Criminal Law ⚡ 565

Evidence supported conviction of individual defendant who was employed as a salesman by other individual defendant of using mails to defraud and of conspiracy in use of the mails to defraud based on sale of trust certificates. U.S. v. Bramson, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1943, 139 F.2d 598, certiorari denied 64 S.Ct. 636, 321 U.S. 783, 88 L.Ed. 1075. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(5); Postal Service ⚡ 49(11)

In prosecution for using mails in furtherance of a scheme to defraud by sale of cemetery lots to public for purposes of investment and for criminal conspiracy to commit that offense, evidence warranted verdict that scheme was fraudulent and that defendants were parties to a scheme to defraud. Blue v. U. S., C.C.A.6 (Ohio) 1943, 138 F.2d 351, certiorari denied 64 S.Ct. 1046, 322 U.S. 736, 88 L.Ed. 1570, rehearing denied 64 S.Ct. 1259, 322 U.S. 771, 88 L.Ed. 1596, certiorari denied 64 S.Ct. 1046, 322 U.S. 737, 88 L.Ed. 1570. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(5); Postal Service ⚡ 49(11)

In prosecution for using mails in furtherance of a scheme to defraud by sale of cemetery lots to the public for purposes of investment and for criminal conspiracy to commit that offense, evidence was sufficient to sustain verdict that there was use of mails in furtherance of scheme to defraud. Blue v. U. S., C.C.A.6 (Ohio) 1943, 138 F.2d 351, certiorari denied 64 S.Ct. 1046, 322 U.S. 736, 88 L.Ed. 1570, rehearing denied 64 S.Ct. 1259, 322 U.S. 771, 88 L.Ed. 1596, certiorari denied 64 S.Ct. 1046, 322 U.S. 737, 88 L.Ed. 1570. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(5); Postal Service ⚡ 49(11)

In prosecution for using mails in furtherance of a scheme to defraud by sale of cemetery lots to the public for purposes of investment and for criminal conspiracy to commit that offense, evidence justified inferences of jury that defendants who were convicted of conspiracy knowingly entered upon a scheme to defraud. Blue v. U. S., C.C.A.6 (Ohio) 1943, 138 F.2d 351, certiorari denied 64 S.Ct. 1046, 322 U.S. 736, 88 L.Ed. 1570, rehearing denied 64 S.Ct. 1259, 322 U.S. 771, 88 L.Ed. 1596, certiorari denied 64 S.Ct. 1046, 322 U.S. 737, 88 L.Ed. 1570. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(5)

Evidence of a scheme or conspiracy to defraud does not show a "conspiracy to use the mails unlawfully" even though one of the conspirators without the concurrence of the other may use the mail. Ryan v. U. S., C.C.A.5 (Ala.) 1942, 129 F.2d 783. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(5)

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate the mail fraud statute, former § 338 of this title, mere proof that, after money had been obtained, each of the two defendants while widely separated had apparently spontaneously written a letter attempting to excuse nondelivery to addressee of what was due, was insufficient to sustain conviction. Ryan v. U. S., C.C.A.5 (Ala.) 1942, 129 F.2d 783. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(5)

In prosecution for using mails to defraud and for conspiracy to use mails to defraud, committed by selling cemetery

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

lots in exchange for securities by misrepresentations that higher price would certainly be obtained by resale of the lots, evidence sustained convictions of originators of the scheme and of salesmen. U. S. v. Beck, C.C.A.7 (Ill.) 1941, 118 F.2d 178, certiorari denied 61 S.Ct. 1121, 313 U.S. 587, 85 L.Ed. 1542. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(5); Postal Service ⚡ 49(11)

In prosecution for conspiracy to use mails in furtherance of a scheme to defraud by inducing purchase of participating oil royalty certificates by means of false representations, evidence was sufficient for jury. Whealton v. U.S., C.C.A.3 (N.J.) 1940, 113 F.2d 710. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.1(3)

In prosecution for a scheme to defraud and the use of the United States mails in furtherance thereof and for conspiring to use the mails in furtherance of a scheme to defraud, evidence that accused, who was either president or vice president and general manager of the four corporations involved, cooperated with others and used mails to induce persons by misleading and false statements relative to the financial standing and integrity of the corporations to invest in the corporations, which were constantly losing money, was sufficient for jury, and sustained conviction. U.S. v. Hartenfeld, C.C.A.7 (Ind.) 1940, 113 F.2d 359, certiorari denied 61 S.Ct. 30, 311 U.S. 647, 85 L.Ed. 413. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(5); Conspiracy ⚡ 48.1(3); Postal Service ⚡ 49(11); Postal Service ⚡ 50

A letter written by defendant and other evidence, showing that defendant knew of and assisted in conspiracy, sustained conviction for conspiracy in mail fraud. U.S. v. Buckner, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1940, 108 F.2d 921, certiorari denied 60 S.Ct. 613, 309 U.S. 669, 84 L.Ed. 1016. Postal Service ⚡ 49(11)

In prosecutions for participating in scheme to defraud, use of mails in furtherance thereof, and conspiracy, involving sale, though corporation organized by two accused, of commercial paper secured by duplicate warehouse receipts for same commodity and receipts misstating quantity of merchandise, evidence, failing to show possible gain or attempted concealment of action by attorney who performed intermittent legal services for corporation and became its manager and receiver for brief periods, did not support attorney's conviction. U.S. v. Wise, C.C.A.7 (Ind.) 1939, 108 F.2d 379. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(5); Postal Service ⚡ 49(11)

In prosecutions for participating in scheme to defraud, use of mails in furtherance thereof, and conspiracy, evidence supported convictions of two accused who organized corporation to sell commercial paper secured by duplicate warehouse receipts for same commodity and warehouse receipts misstating quantity of merchandise. U.S. v. Wise, C.C.A.7 (Ind.) 1939, 108 F.2d 379. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(5); Postal Service ⚡ 49(11); Postal Service ⚡ 49(5)

Where conspiracy to use mails in furtherance of scheme to defraud by means of a confidence game was a continuing one, in the absence of affirmative proof that any willful participant therein did withdraw, his continued connection with the business was to be taken for granted. U.S. v. Graham, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1939, 102 F.2d 436, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 1041, 307 U.S. 643, 83 L.Ed. 1524, rehearing denied 60 S.Ct. 68, 308 U.S. 632, 84 L.Ed. 526. Conspiracy ⚡ 44.2

In prosecution for using mails in furtherance of scheme to defraud by means of confidence game and for conspiring to commit such offense, weight of evidence sustained determination that there was one conspiracy rather than a series of independent frauds and conspiracies. U.S. v. Graham, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1939, 102 F.2d 436, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 1041, 307 U.S. 643, 83 L.Ed. 1524, rehearing denied 60 S.Ct. 68, 308 U.S. 632, 84 L.Ed. 526. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(5)

Evidence of false statements made by mortgage company concerning safety and value of mortgage participation certificates, of padding of financial statements, and of operations which weakened the security behind such certificates, authorized conviction of company's president and vice presidents of posting letters in pursuance of a scheme to defraud, and of conspiracy to use mails to defraud. U.S. v. Dilliard, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1938, 101 F.2d 829, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 484, 306 U.S. 635, 83 L.Ed. 1036. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(5); Postal Service ⚡ 49(11)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Evidence sustained conviction of conspiracy to use the mails to defraud in connection with purchase, sale and handling of cotton. Whitley v. U.S., C.C.A.5 (Tex.) 1938, 100 F.2d 504. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(5)

In prosecution against construction company's president and employees for conspiring to defraud government in fraudulently using mails by sending later bid for construction of post office under predated postmark, positive evidence that president, present when other bids were opened, conveyed information thus acquired to employees was unnecessary, evidence of every detail relating to means employed not being required. Johnson v. U.S., C.C.A.6 (Ky.) 1936, 82 F.2d 500, certiorari denied 56 S.Ct. 957, 298 U.S. 688, 80 L.Ed. 1407. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(6)

Evidence sustained conviction of construction company's president and employees for conspiring to defraud government in using mails to defraud government and low bidder by waiting until bids for construction of post office were opened, and then sending lowest bid under predated postmark. Johnson v. U.S., C.C.A.6 (Ky.) 1936, 82 F.2d 500, certiorari denied 56 S.Ct. 957, 298 U.S. 688, 80 L.Ed. 1407. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(6); Postal Service ⚡ 49(11)

In prosecution under indictment charging single conspiracy to use mails in furtherance of scheme to defraud which involved obtaining of merchandise on credit, evidence sustained verdict of guilty as against contention that evidence established several unconnected conspiracies other than conspiracy charged. Lefco v. U S, C.C.A.3 (Pa.) 1934, 74 F.2d 66. Postal Service ⚡ 49(11)

Evidence, in prosecution for mailing letters pursuant to joint scheme to defraud and for conspiracy, was sufficient as to each defendant as to some counts. Van Riper v. U.S., C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1926, 13 F.2d 961, certiorari denied 47 S.Ct. 102, 273 U.S. 702, 71 L.Ed. 848. See, also, Ader v. U.S., C.C.A.III.1922, 284 F. 13, certiorari denied 43 S.Ct. 247, 260 U.S. 746, 67 L.Ed. 493. Conspiracy ⚡ 47; Postal Service ⚡ 49(11)

Evidence in support of indictment for conspiracy to use mails to defraud did not show overt act within three years. McWhorter v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Neb.) 1924, 299 F. 780. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(5)

In the prosecution of the manager, officers, and salesmen of a concern, for conspiring to use the mails in executing a scheme to defraud, in violation of former § 88 of this title [now this section], in which it was claimed that the defendants induced persons by means of fraud to enter into contracts appointing the concern their agent in the purchase of Indian lands, evidence insufficient for submission of case to jury. Van Tress v. U.S., C.C.A.6 (Ohio) 1923, 292 F. 513, 2 Ohio Law Abs. 370. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.1(3); Postal Service ⚡ 50

In the prosecution of the manager, officers, and salesmen, of a concern for conspiring to use the mails to defraud, in violation of former § 88 of this title [now this section] in which it was claimed that the defendants induced persons by means of fraud to enter into contracts appointing the concern their agent in the purchase of Indian lands, evidence as to several instances of misrepresentations by salesmen as to the land values was insufficient to sustain conviction; the charge being conspiracy, and the salesmen being guilty, notwithstanding such misrepresentations, only if they participated in the conspiracy. Van Tress v. U.S., C.C.A.6 (Ohio) 1923, 292 F. 513, 2 Ohio Law Abs. 370. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(5); Postal Service ⚡ 49(11)

Evidence was sufficient to warrant the inference that defendant, a lawyer and business man, who was a party to a conspiracy to defraud by obtaining money on false representations that it was to be used in buying and selling live stock and would produce large profits, knew before the end, if not at the inception, of the scheme, that the mails would be used and were being used by other parties to the conspiracy and that he acquiesced therein. Burns v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Okla.) 1922, 279 F. 982. Conspiracy ⚡ 44.2

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Evidence was insufficient to show that defendant devised a scheme to defraud by use of the mails, contrary to former §§ 88 [now this section] and 338 of this title in negotiating an exchange of property between complaining witness and another, or that he entered into any conspiracy to use mails in connection with scheme to defraud. Stubbs v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1918, 249 F. 571, 161 C.C.A. 497. Postal Service ↻ 49(11)

Evidence that conspiracy to defraud was to be executed and that use of the mails was indispensable sufficiently showed intent to use the mails, but evidence was insufficient to show that warnings given agents against making false representations charged were made in good faith and with intent that they should be acted upon. Preeman v. U.S., C.C.A.7 (Ill.) 1917, 244 F. 1, 156 C.C.A. 429, certiorari denied 38 S.Ct. 12, 245 U.S. 654, 62 L.Ed. 533. Postal Service ↻ 49(11)

While the mail was used quite extensively by the defendants and in execution of fraud, the record showed that the main reliance of the defendants was upon the "quick tongue and fertility in falsehood" of one of them, and the necessary intent not proven by direct evidence, could not be inferred beyond a reasonable doubt, so that a conviction of conspiracy to violate former § 338 of this title could not be sustained. Schwartzberg v. U.S., C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1917, 241 F. 348.

Indictment under this section for conspiracy to commit an offense against the United States by using the mails to defraud, was sustained by evidence of the conspiracy and that defendants procured another to deposit certain letters in the mail. Rose v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Mo.) 1915, 227 F. 357, 142 C.C.A. 53, certiorari denied 36 S.Ct. 219, 239 U.S. 647, 60 L.Ed. 484. Conspiracy ↻ 43(12)

Where defendants were indicted and tried for conspiracy to defraud by using the mails, in violation of former § 338 of this title, and the overt act charged was that the defendants deposited and caused to be deposited a certain letter in the post office, evidence that the defendant procured another person to mail said letter, though he may not have acted with knowledge so as to be guilty himself, supports the indictment. Rose v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Mo.) 1915, 227 F. 357, 142 C.C.A. 53, certiorari denied 36 S.Ct. 219, 239 U.S. 647, 60 L.Ed. 484.

Where one was tried for conspiring to use the mails to carry out a scheme to defraud, it was sufficient for the government to show that written or printed matter about the scheme charged was mailed to one of the three persons named in the indictment as the persons defendant planned to defraud, and that copies of the same printed matter were sent through the mails to a mailing list throughout the United States. US v. Marrin, E.D.Pa.1908, 159 F. 767, affirmed 167 F. 951, 93 C.C.A. 351, certiorari denied 32 S.Ct. 523, 223 U.S. 719, 56 L.Ed. 629.

Evidence did not support loss figure of over half a million dollars urged by the government at sentencing of defendant for mail fraud convictions, which were based on misrepresentations to workers' compensation insurers based on character of work performed; no actual loss resulted from misrepresentations, no claims were made under the policy, and it was impossible to meaningfully calculate intended loss, as defendant would have paid higher premiums than he should have if he had properly characterized his work. U.S. v. Pimental, D.Mass.2005, 367 F.Supp.2d 143. Sentencing And Punishment ↻ 736

Antique firearms dealer's agreement with collector's agent to make misleading statements to induce sale of firearms to collector was sufficient to prove dealer's intent to participate in scheme to defraud collector, and thus was sufficient to support dealer's conviction for conspiracy to commit mail and wire fraud, in light of dealer's sworn deposition testimony that he knew that agent was taking advantage of his agency relationship with collector to sell him firearms at unconscionable markups, and dealer concocted or paid third party to concoct false letters making specific claims that he had buyers who had made concrete offers for guns, and letters in which he offered to purchase guns that he already owned with specific purpose of defrauding collector into paying excessive prices for guns. U.S. v. Zomber, E.D.Pa.2005, 358 F.Supp.2d 442. Conspiracy ↻ 47(5)

Evidence did not establish beyond a reasonable doubt that defendants had failed to disclose an attempt to conceal

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

deliberately true status of ship loans on books of bank so as to be guilty in mail and securities fraud prosecution of conspiring between themselves and with others to defraud bank and its shareholders through a merger and to further defraud shareholders of newly merged bank through a recapitalization program. U. S. v. Jones, D.C.N.J.1974, 380 F.Supp. 343. Conspiracy ↪ 47(4)

Evidence was sufficient to find defendant guilty of mail fraud and conspiracy to commit mail fraud; government was not required, in order to establish intent to defraud, to prove that victim lost money or that defendant wanted victim to lose money. U.S. v. Easton, C.A.8 (S.D.) 2002, 54 Fed.Appx. 242, 2002 WL 31814951, Unreported. Conspiracy ↪ 47(5); Postal Service ↪ 35(5); Postal Service ↪ 49(11)

768. ---- Insurance fraud, postal offenses, sufficiency of evidence

Evidence was sufficient to support finding that defendant knew and participated in conspiracy to defraud life insurance companies and investors by trading in fraudulent viaticals, as required to sustain conviction for conspiracy to commit mail fraud; five witnesses testified that they had sold or brokered sales of anywhere from five to 72 fraudulent policies to defendant's viatical settlement company, government expert testified that she found 214 policies she could identify as fraudulent, second government analyst testified that, in over 60 percent of the policies, the viator's HIV diagnosis date preceded date the insurance policy was issued, indicating high likelihood that policy was fraudulently obtained, a viator testified that he spoke with defendant about obtaining fraudulent policies for AIDS-infected sister in order to sell them, and, finally, after learning about federal investigation into fraudulent viatical schemes, defendant ordered his employees to destroy the policy application in each viator's file. U.S. v. Jamieson, C.A.6 (Ohio) 2005, 427 F.3d 394, rehearing and rehearing en banc denied, certiorari denied 2006 WL 1523238. Conspiracy ↪ 47(5)

Evidence that defendant entered into scheme to collect health insurance proceeds by participating in series of staged accidents and that they received checks from insurers through the mail was sufficient to support convictions for conspiracy and mail fraud. U.S. v. Duncan, C.A.5 (La.) 1990, 919 F.2d 981, rehearing denied, certiorari denied 111 S.Ct. 2036, 500 U.S. 926, 114 L.Ed.2d 121. Conspiracy ↪ 47(3.1); Postal Service ↪ 49(11)

In prosecution for conspiracy related to underlying substantive offense of mail fraud, evidence that defendants, president and vice-president of small company, entered into agreement to defraud insurance company through the mails was sufficient to sustain conviction. U.S. v. Peters, C.A.1 (Mass.) 1984, 732 F.2d 1004.

Evidence that defendant devised scheme to enter into partnership with another person, to take out a "key man" policy on other person, to cause the "key man's" death and collect the proceeds, that defendant's father applied for the insurance policies, and that the "key man" was murdered sustained finding that defendant's father, as well as an unknown murderer, were coconspirators in the scheme and thus sustained defendant's conviction for conspiracy. U. S. v. Calvert, C.A.8 (Mo.) 1975, 523 F.2d 895, certiorari denied 96 S.Ct. 1106, 424 U.S. 911, 47 L.Ed.2d 314. Conspiracy ↪ 47(8)

Evidence supported findings that defendants charged with conspiracy to violate section 1341 of this title and substantive violations thereof were responsible for fraudulent activities conducted in the name of corporation against Canadian insurer, various agents, and those insured, that, although defendants knew Ontario Insurance Commissioner had restricted insurer from issuing risks outside of Canada after specific date, they sold the insurer's policies in the United States after such date, and that, although defendants knew that insurer was in extreme difficulty with the Commissioner, they continued to write or authorize writing of insurer's policies without revealing such difficulties to the agents with whom they dealt. U. S. v. Wolfson, C.A.3 (Del.) 1972, 454 F.2d 60, certiorari denied 92 S.Ct. 1792, 406 U.S. 924, 32 L.Ed.2d 124. Conspiracy ↪ 47(5); Postal Service ↪ 49(11)

Evidence in prosecution for mail fraud and conspiracy to violate mail fraud provisions established that all defendants were active participants in the scheme to defraud insurance companies of proceeds under life insurance policies by false and fraudulent representations. Bannister v. U. S., C.A.5 (Fla.) 1967, 379 F.2d 750, certiorari denied 88 S.Ct. 861, 390 U.S. 927, 19 L.Ed.2d 988. Postal Service ☞ 49(11)

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In prosecution for mail fraud and conspiracy in staging automobile accidents for purpose of defrauding insurance companies, evidence as regards attorney involved was insufficient to permit reasonable minds to find that it excluded every hypothesis but that of guilt. Barnard v. U. S., C.A.9 (Or.) 1965, 342 F.2d 309, certiorari denied 86 S.Ct. 403, 382 U.S. 948, 15 L.Ed.2d 356, rehearing denied 86 S.Ct. 567, 382 U.S. 1002, 15 L.Ed.2d 491, rehearing denied 86 S.Ct. 567, 382 U.S. 1002, 15 L.Ed.2d 492, certiorari denied 86 S.Ct. 404, 382 U.S. 948, 15 L.Ed.2d 356, rehearing denied 86 S.Ct. 568, 382 U.S. 1002, 15 L.Ed.2d 492. Conspiracy ☞ 47(5); Postal Service ☞ 49(11)

Evidence established a succession of separate conspiracies, each one about an automobile collision in which particular group of conspirators was to engage to defraud insurance companies, but failed to establish a conspiracy for a succession of fraudulent collisions, and hence none of convictions under count charging an overall conspiracy could stand. Barnard v. U. S., C.A.9 (Or.) 1965, 342 F.2d 309, certiorari denied 86 S.Ct. 403, 382 U.S. 948, 15 L.Ed.2d 356, rehearing denied 86 S.Ct. 567, 382 U.S. 1002, 15 L.Ed.2d 491, rehearing denied 86 S.Ct. 567, 382 U.S. 1002, 15 L.Ed.2d 492, certiorari denied 86 S.Ct. 404, 382 U.S. 948, 15 L.Ed.2d 356, rehearing denied 86 S.Ct. 568, 382 U.S. 1002, 15 L.Ed.2d 492. Conspiracy ☞ 47(4)

Evidence including showing of relationship between attorney and persons directly involved in planned automobile collisions for purpose of defrauding insurance companies and advances by attorney of moneys to persons who were no longer clients was sufficient for jury on issue whether attorney was a party to faking of the accidents. Barnard v. U. S., C.A.9 (Or.) 1965, 342 F.2d 309, certiorari denied 86 S.Ct. 403, 382 U.S. 948, 15 L.Ed.2d 356, rehearing denied 86 S.Ct. 567, 382 U.S. 1002, 15 L.Ed.2d 491, rehearing denied 86 S.Ct. 567, 382 U.S. 1002, 15 L.Ed.2d 492, certiorari denied 86 S.Ct. 404, 382 U.S. 948, 15 L.Ed.2d 356, rehearing denied 86 S.Ct. 568, 382 U.S. 1002, 15 L.Ed.2d 492. Conspiracy ☞ 48.1(3)

Evidence from which jury could reasonably conclude that each defendant knew what was being done by others in carrying out scheme, that one defendant aided another in falsifying insurance application and that a third participated by backing up falsehoods told by others was sufficient to support indictment for conspiracy. U. S. v. Tenenbaum, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1964, 327 F.2d 210, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 1165, 377 U.S. 905, 12 L.Ed.2d 177. Indictment And Information ☞ 10.2(10)

Evidence sustained convictions for use of mails in attempt to defraud in the sale of accident and sickness policies, and for conspiracy to commit the same offense. U. S. v. Sylvanus, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1951, 192 F.2d 96, certiorari denied 72 S.Ct. 555, 342 U.S. 943, 96 L.Ed. 701. Conspiracy ☞ 47(5); Postal Service ☞ 49(11)

In prosecution for use of mails to defraud insurance companies by filing false claims and for conspiracy, evidence supported conviction of defendant physician as against contention that physician was not shown to have been connected with general conspiracy to defraud insurance companies, but only with the specific plan of fraudulently obtaining disability payments for one defendant from single company, and that physician had dropped out of conspiracy after giving disability certificate in one instance. U S v. Weiss, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1939, 103 F.2d 348, certiorari granted 59 S.Ct. 1043, 307 U.S. 621, 83 L.Ed. 1500, reversed on other grounds 60 S.Ct. 269, 308 U.S. 321, 84 L.Ed. 298. Conspiracy ☞ 47(5)

Evidence was sufficient to support defendant's convictions for conspiracy to commit mail fraud and wire fraud in furtherance of scheme to defraud workers' compensation carriers; defendant signed draft of workers' compensation insurance application containing gross inaccuracies as to company's number of employees and annual payroll and falsely stating that company had no employee exchange agreements, defendant provided false information to carrier's loss control consultant and to insurance auditor, and he took auditor to see a property in an effort to corroborate false information in insurance application. U.S. v. Colwell, C.A.11 (Ga.) 2005, 140 Fed.Appx. 64,

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

2005 WL 1604626, Unreported. Workers' Compensation ⚡ 2080

769. Price control offenses, sufficiency of evidence

Evidence sustained convictions of wholesale meat dealers for violations of Emergency Price Control Act, 50 App. former § 901 et seq., and conspiracy to violate said sections. Stillman v. U.S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1949, 177 F.2d 607. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(3.1); War And National Emergency ⚡ 170

Evidence supported conviction of corporate defendant for conspiracy to violate Emergency Price Control Act of 1942, 50 App. former § 901 et seq., and regulations thereunder in sales of intoxicating liquor, based on acts of defendant's president. Old Monastery Co. v. U.S., C.C.A.4 (S.C.) 1945, 147 F.2d 905, certiorari denied 66 S.Ct. 44, 326 U.S. 734, 90 L.Ed. 437. War And National Emergency ⚡ 170

770. Racketeering, sufficiency of evidence

Admission of expert testimony matching defendant's DNA to that found at different crime scenes was not abuse of discretion in prosecution for conspiracy to commit robbery and operating a racketeering enterprise, though expert failed to note one faint allele dot in a sample of sweat taken from a baseball cap found in a getaway vehicle, which sample expert matched to defendant; flaws in expert's methodology went to weight and credibility, rather than admissibility. U.S. v. Shea, C.A.1 (N.H.) 2000, 211 F.3d 658, certiorari denied 121 S.Ct. 1101, 531 U.S. 1154, 148 L.Ed.2d 973, rehearing denied 121 S.Ct. 1647, 532 U.S. 990, 149 L.Ed.2d 504, certiorari denied 121 S.Ct. 1102, 531 U.S. 1154, 148 L.Ed.2d 973, habeas corpus denied 2002 WL 31409820, certificate of appealability denied 137 Fed.Appx. 373, 2005 WL 1594548, certiorari denied 126 S.Ct. 506, 163 L.Ed.2d 383, certiorari denied 126 S.Ct. 1386, 164 L.Ed.2d 91. Criminal Law ⚡ 475.2(3)

Evidence of defendant's involvement in plan to murder government informant was sufficient to sustain conviction as coconspirator and principal in obstruction of a criminal investigation and for use of interstate transportation in aid of racketeering activities. U.S. v. Fernandez-Roque, C.A.5 (La.) 1983, 703 F.2d 808. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(3.1); Conspiracy ⚡ 47(13)

Evidence in prosecution for, inter alia, conspiracy to accept payments from employers, conducting union affairs through pattern of racketeering, and accepting payments, was sufficient to establish one conspiracy consisting of continuous course of conduct in which number of fur manufacturers, acting through middleman, engaged in corruption of defendants as key members of fur trade union, rather than number of separate conspiracies. U. S. v. Stofsky, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1975, 527 F.2d 237, stay denied 96 S.Ct. 1490, 425 U.S. 902, 47 L.Ed.2d 751, certiorari denied 97 S.Ct. 65, 429 U.S. 819, 50 L.Ed.2d 80, certiorari denied 97 S.Ct. 66, 429 U.S. 819, 50 L.Ed.2d 80. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(3.1)

Evidence in prosecution for conspiracy and related substantive instances of illicit interstate gambling sustained conviction on substantive counts, although each defendant contended that he was not present at times and places set forth in various substantive counts, there being evidence sufficient to establish conspiracy so as to impute defendants' separate wrongdoings to one another. U. S. v. McGowan, C.A.4 (Va.) 1970, 423 F.2d 413. Gaming ⚡ 98(1)

Examination of minutes of grand jury returning indictment charging defendant with conspiracy to violate sections 1084 and 1952 of this title, and various substantive offenses, showed that, contrary to contention of defendant, there was evidence concerning the specific telephone calls on which counts 2 through 16 were predicated. U. S. v. Covello, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1969, 410 F.2d 536, certiorari denied 90 S.Ct. 150, 396 U.S. 879, 24 L.Ed.2d 136, rehearing denied 90 S.Ct. 897, 397 U.S. 929, 25 L.Ed.2d 110. Indictment And Information ⚡ 10.2(10)

That some of the parties who took part in hijacking of cameras and film were also involved in silver hijackings was insufficient to support a finding of one overall continuous conspiracy, and fact that objects in both hijackings were similar was insufficient to constitute an overall common conspiracy. U. S. v. Varelli, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1969, 407 F.2d 735. Conspiracy ↻ 47(11)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Evidence to effect that defendant was manager and promoter of gambling casino and was fully aware of scope of illegal enterprise, including its interstate aspects arising from employees' travel from New Jersey to Pennsylvania, sustained conviction for conspiracy to violate section 1952 of this title. U. S. v. Barrow, C.A.3 (Pa.) 1966, 363 F.2d 62, certiorari denied 87 S.Ct. 703, 385 U.S. 1001, 17 L.Ed.2d 541. Conspiracy ↻ 47(7)

771. Rationing offenses, sufficiency of evidence

Evidence sustained conviction of corporate butcher, corporate wholesaler, and the two stockholders who were corporations' sole owners, of buying false ration cheques, of fraudulently obtaining subsidies from the Defense Supplies Corporation, and of conspiracy to commit both such offenses. U.S. v. Center Veal & Beef Co., C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1947, 162 F.2d 766. Conspiracy ↻ 47(6); War And National Emergency ↻ 316

Evidence sustained convictions for conspiracy to defraud the United States of the proper administration of its regulations relating to the rationing of rubber tires as promulgated by the Office of Price Administration under 50 App. former §§ 721, and 1152. Phelps v. U. S., C.C.A.8 (Minn.) 1947, 160 F.2d 858, rehearing denied 161 F.2d 940, certiorari denied 68 S.Ct. 1525, 334 U.S. 860, 92 L.Ed. 1780. See, also, Rose v. U.S., C.C.A.Cal.1945, 149 F.2d 755. Conspiracy ↻ 47(6)

Evidence failed to sustain conviction of conspiracy to acquire, use, permit the use of, transfer, possess, and control counterfeited gasoline mileage ration coupons, and to obtain rationed gasoline without presenting prescribed ration coupons therefor. Laurent v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1945, 149 F.2d 598. Conspiracy ↻ 47(3.1)

Conviction of conspiracy to commit an offense against and to defraud the United States in connection with a acquisition and possession of genuine and counterfeit ration coupons would be confirmed where circumstantial evidence left no doubt as to accused's connection with the conspiracy, existence of which was established beyond peradventure. Kushner v. U. S., C.C.A.4 (N.C.) 1945, 146 F.2d 853. Conspiracy ↻ 47(3.1)

Evidence was sufficient to sustain conviction for conspiracy to counterfeit and forge gasoline ration coupons and possess them in violation of gasoline rationing regulations. U. S. v. Todaro, C.C.A.2 (Conn.) 1944, 145 F.2d 977. Conspiracy ↻ 47(3.1)

Where evidence showed that accused bought gasoline ration books with knowledge that they had been stolen, but without purpose of securing to thieves fruits of their theft and not in furtherance of the scheme to steal and sell them, accused could not be convicted of conspiracy to steal the books and receive them with intent to convert them knowing them to have been stolen. U S v. Zeuli, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1943, 137 F.2d 845. Conspiracy ↻ 33(2.1)

Evidence was insufficient to sustain verdict finding defendant seller guilty of conspiracy to violate sugar rationing order. U. S. v. Boyer, E.D.Pa.1949, 84 F.Supp. 905. Conspiracy ↻ 47(3.1)

772. Securities offenses, sufficiency of evidence

Rational jury could have found beyond reasonable doubt that defendant willingly and knowingly participated in co-defendant's fraudulent schemes, in defendant's trial on numerous federal conspiracy charges, where defendant substantially assisted co-defendant in day-to-day operations, defendant's representations at meetings with investors played into charitable instincts of investors and reinforced credibility of co-defendant's statements, defendant falsely represented to some investors that she was certified public accountant, and she knew that funding she and co-defendant received was not being spent on investment projects, but for personal gain. U.S. v. Dowlin, C.A.10 (Wyo.) 2005, 408 F.3d 647. Conspiracy ↻ 47(4)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Evidence was sufficient to show that defendants knowingly participated in conspiracy to defraud investors by filing quitclaim deed that conveyed mining claims with knowledge that no mining was in progress, that claims had little value, or by purging investor records. U.S. v. Boone, C.A.9 (Idaho) 1991, 951 F.2d 1526. Conspiracy ↻ 47(4)

Evidence of defendants' manipulation of accounting practices, evidence of false statements filed with the Securities Exchange Commission, and evidence of unreported transactions involving labor union officials was sufficient to sustain defendants' convictions for conspiracy to defraud the United States and the Commission. U. S. v. Stirling, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1978, 571 F.2d 708, certiorari denied 99 S.Ct. 93, 439 U.S. 824, 58 L.Ed.2d 116. Conspiracy ↻ 47(6)

Evidence sustained conviction of conspiracy and multiple counts of violating the registration and antifraud provisions of the Securities Act of 1933, section 77a et seq. of Title 15, and Securities Exchange Act of 1934, section 78a et seq. of Title 15. U. S. v. Manning, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1974, 509 F.2d 1230, certiorari denied 96 S.Ct. 37, 423 U.S. 824, 46 L.Ed.2d 40. Conspiracy ↻ 47(3.1); Securities Regulation ↻ 199

Evidence was sufficient to support defendants' convictions for conspiracy, mail fraud, fraud in the purchase and sale of securities, fraud in the offer of sale of securities, failure to deposit proceeds of an "all or none" offering promptly in an escrow account, and submission of false documents to the Securities and Exchange Commission. U. S. v. Koss, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1974, 506 F.2d 1103, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 1402, 420 U.S. 977, 43 L.Ed.2d 657, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 1565, 421 U.S. 911, 43 L.Ed.2d 776. Conspiracy ↻ 47(5); Postal Service ↻ 49(11); Securities Regulation ↻ 199

Evidence with respect to activities of defendants in connection with preparing the prospectuses relating to financial condition of company whose common stock and interest-bearing investment certificates were sold to general public was sufficient to sustain convictions of all defendants on various counts of securities fraud, mail fraud, and conspiracy. U. S. v. Bruce, C.A.5 (Ga.) 1973, 488 F.2d 1224, rehearing denied 491 F.2d 1407, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 41, 419 U.S. 825, 42 L.Ed.2d 48. Conspiracy ↻ 47(5); Postal Service ↻ 49(11); Securities Regulation ↻ 199

Evidence, in prosecutions for conspiracy to transport stolen securities in interstate commerce, was sufficient to prove that defendants who met with core conspirators to discuss sales of stolen securities, made sales to core conspirators and knew they were dealing with a conspiracy and whose receipts for such sales represented a percentage of the proceeds realized upon resale of securities by core conspirators were members of overall, single conspiracy. U. S. v. Salerno, C.A.3 (N.J.) 1973, 485 F.2d 260, certiorari denied 94 S.Ct. 1596, 415 U.S. 994, 39 L.Ed.2d 891, rehearing denied 94 S.Ct. 2415, 416 U.S. 1000, 40 L.Ed.2d 778. Conspiracy ↻ 47(11)

Evidence sustained conviction for participation in agreement to raise by manipulation price of corporate stock on stock exchange and established that there was single conspiracy rather than three conspiracies. U. S. v. Projansky, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1972, 465 F.2d 123, certiorari denied 93 S.Ct. 432, 409 U.S. 1006, 34 L.Ed.2d 299, certiorari denied 93 S.Ct. 433, 409 U.S. 1006, 34 L.Ed.2d 299, certiorari denied 93 S.Ct. 443, 409 U.S. 1006, 34 L.Ed.2d 299, certiorari denied 93 S.Ct. 444, 409 U.S. 1006, 34 L.Ed.2d 299. Conspiracy ↻ 47(3.1)

Where attorney and president of stockbroker corporation agreed to and entered into transaction with lender whereby the stockbroker corporation pledged customers' stock as collateral for loan, there was sufficient showing of criminal intent which would sustain conviction on the substantive offense and there was sufficient showing of criminal intent to support attorney's conviction for conspiracy to violate antihypothecation statute, section 78h of Title 15. U. S. v. Schwartz, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1972, 464 F.2d 499, certiorari denied 93 S.Ct. 443, 409 U.S. 1009, 34 L.Ed.2d 302. Conspiracy ↻ 47(11); Securities Regulation ↻ 199

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Government met its burden of proving defendant guilty of interstate transportation, with unlawful and fraudulent intent, of tools and implements of forging, altering or counterfeiting securities, interstate transportation of falsely made and forged securities, and conspiracy beyond a reasonable doubt, notwithstanding certain imperfections in testimony of defendant's codefendants. U. S. v. Twilligear, C.A.10 (Wyo.) 1972, 460 F.2d 79. Conspiracy ↻ 47(3.1); Receiving Stolen Goods ↻ 8(3)

Regardless of the sufficiency of "direct" evidence to sustain the conviction, there was sufficient circumstantial evidence to sustain defendant's conviction on one conspiracy count and on a number of substantive counts of violation of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, section 78a et seq. of Title 15, and sections 1341, 1343 of this title. U. S. v. D'Honau, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1972, 459 F.2d 73, certiorari denied 93 S.Ct. 149, 409 U.S. 861, 34 L.Ed.2d 108. Conspiracy ↻ 47(5); Postal Service ↻ 49(11); Securities Regulation ↻ 199; Telecommunications ↻ 1018(4)

Direct evidence of acts of concealment of continuing conspiracy in which concealment was not only essential to success of scheme but was very heart and object of it was sufficient to sustain conviction for conspiracy to defraud government and SEC. U. S. v. Colasurdo, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1971, 453 F.2d 585, certiorari denied 92 S.Ct. 1766, 406 U.S. 917, 32 L.Ed.2d 116. Conspiracy ↻ 47(6)

Testimony in prosecution for conspiracy to defraud United States and Securities and Exchange Commission and to have the securities laws administered impartially and according to their terms was sufficient to permit a rational conclusion that there was a working relationship between defendant and employee of Securities and Exchange Commission. U. S. v. Peltz, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1970, 433 F.2d 48, certiorari denied 91 S.Ct. 974, 401 U.S. 955, 28 L.Ed.2d 238. Conspiracy ↻ 47(6)

Evidence was sufficient for jury to find that defendant charged with conspiracy to violate antifraud provisions of Securities Act of 1933, section 77a et seq. of Title 15, and with substantive violations of Securities Act of 1933, section 77a et seq. of Title 15, knew that mails would be used in connection with distribution of codefendant's stock. U. S. v. Kaufman, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1970, 429 F.2d 240, certiorari denied 91 S.Ct. 185, 400 U.S. 925, 27 L.Ed.2d 184, certiorari denied 91 S.Ct. 190, 400 U.S. 925, 27 L.Ed.2d 184. Conspiracy ↻ 48.1(3)

Evidence was sufficient to show scheme by defendant to defraud with respect to oil and gas leases, though some of the flamboyant statements attributed to defendant were not expressly proved false in prosecution for mail fraud, securities fraud, use of mails to sell unregistered securities, delivery of unregistered securities through mails, and conspiracy to effect mail and securities fraud. Buie v. U. S., C.A.5 (Tex.) 1969, 420 F.2d 1207, certiorari denied 90 S.Ct. 1830, 398 U.S. 932, 26 L.Ed.2d 97. Conspiracy ↻ 47(5); Postal Service ↻ 49(11); Securities Regulation ↻ 199; Securities Regulation ↻ 199

Evidence in prosecution for conspiracy to violate federal security laws by selling unregistered securities in interstate commerce, by using fraudulent practices in their sale and with use of mails for sales of unregistered stock was sufficient to support finding that two of the defendants had, with respect to conspiracy, knowledge that a third defendant controlled all corporations, an essential element of conspiracy offense. U. S. v. McGuire, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1967, 381 F.2d 306, certiorari denied 88 S.Ct. 800, 389 U.S. 1053, 19 L.Ed.2d 848, certiorari denied 88 S.Ct. 801, 389 U.S. 1053, 19 L.Ed.2d 848. Conspiracy ↻ 47(4)

Evidence warranted convictions of defendants, who owned and controlled oil company, on three substantive registration counts, in prosecution involving conspiracy to defraud public by distribution of oil company stock to public at grossly inflated prices. U. S. v. Kelly, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1965, 349 F.2d 720, certiorari denied 86 S.Ct. 1467, 384 U.S. 947, 16 L.Ed.2d 544. Licenses ↻ 42(4); Securities Regulation ↻ 199

Evidence warranted jury finding that defendant, who owned and controlled oil company, and codefendant, company attorney, together with others, were guilty of single, over-all conspiracy, as alleged in indictment, to sell company's stock to public without disclosure of true condition of company, as required by registration provisions of Securities Act, § 77e of Title 15, and by means of fraud, as prohibited by Securities Act, § 77q of Title 15, and mail [§ 1341 of this title] and wire fraud statutes. U. S. v. Kelly, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1965, 349 F.2d 720, certiorari denied 86 S.Ct. 1467, 384 U.S. 947, 16 L.Ed.2d 544. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(4)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Evidence was sufficient to support finding that defendant and another, and perhaps others, conspired in fraudulent scheme to undertake pressure campaign or "boiler room" operation to induce individual investors to buy oil company stock at inflated prices and hold it, in view of jury question on credibility of witness as admitted liar, whether or not there was evidence sufficient to connect defendant with single, over-all conspiracy to defraud public in connection with distribution of oil company stock. U. S. v. Kelly, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1965, 349 F.2d 720, certiorari denied 86 S.Ct. 1467, 384 U.S. 947, 16 L.Ed.2d 544. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(4)

Evidence sustained conviction for transporting stolen securities in interstate commerce and conspiring to do the same. U. S. v. Hall, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1965, 348 F.2d 837, certiorari denied 86 S.Ct. 408, 382 U.S. 947, 15 L.Ed.2d 355. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(11); Receiving Stolen Goods ⚡ 8(3)

Evidence sustained convictions for aiding and abetting the interstate transportation of stolen securities and for conspiracy to do so. U. S. v. Brown, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1964, 335 F.2d 170. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(11); Receiving Stolen Goods ⚡ 8(3)

Evidence warranted conviction for conspiring to illegally sell unregistered stock. U.S. v. Dardi, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1964, 330 F.2d 316, certiorari denied 85 S.Ct. 117, 379 U.S. 869, 13 L.Ed.2d 73, certiorari denied 85 S.Ct. 50, 379 U.S. 845, 13 L.Ed.2d 50, rehearing denied 85 S.Ct. 640, 379 U.S. 986, 13 L.Ed.2d 579, certiorari denied 85 S.Ct. 51, 379 U.S. 845, 13 L.Ed.2d 50. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(4)

There was ample direct and circumstantial evidence which, together was reasonable inferences to be drawn therefrom, fully established defendants' guilt on counts of indictment charging offenses under Securities Act of 1933, § 77a et seq. of Title 15, and on counts charging conspiracy to violate Securities Act and Mail Fraud Statute, § 1341 of this title, in connection with sale of corporate securities. Dedmore v. U. S., C.A.9 (Wash.) 1963, 322 F.2d 938. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(5); Licenses ⚡ 42(4); Securities Regulation ⚡ 199

Evidence of defendant's participation as officer in affairs of companies which sold securities sustained his conviction for mail fraud, securities fraud and conspiracy. Farrell v. U. S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1963, 321 F.2d 409, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 631, 375 U.S. 992, 11 L.Ed.2d 478. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(5); Postal Service ⚡ 49(11); Securities Regulation ⚡ 199

Evidence sustained conviction for violating anti-fraud provisions of Securities Act, § 77q of Title 15, mail fraud statute, § 1341 of this title, and this section. Peel v. U. S., C.A.5 (Fla.) 1963, 316 F.2d 907, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 174, 375 U.S. 896, 11 L.Ed.2d 125. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(4); Postal Service ⚡ 49(11); Securities Regulation ⚡ 199

Evidence sustained conviction of conspiracy to transport stolen securities in interstate commerce. Thogmartin v. U. S., C.A.8 (Iowa) 1963, 313 F.2d 589. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(11)

Evidence in derivative action by minority stockholders against majority stockholders established conspiracy to use corporate assets to finance purchase of stock of corporation by majority stockholders. Maggiore v. Bradford, C.A.6 (Tenn.) 1962, 310 F.2d 519, certiorari denied 83 S.Ct. 881, 372 U.S. 934, 9 L.Ed.2d 766. Conspiracy ⚡ 19

Evidence supported convictions for conspiracy to use mails in scheme to defraud and for unlawfully causing transportation in interstate commerce of forged or falsely altered securities. U. S. v. Doran, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1962, 299

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

F.2d 511, certiorari denied 82 S.Ct. 1563, 370 U.S. 925, 8 L.Ed.2d 504, certiorari denied 82 S.Ct. 1565, 370 U.S. 925, 8 L.Ed.2d 505, rehearing denied 83 S.Ct. 17, 371 U.S. 854, 9 L.Ed.2d 92. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(5); Receiving Stolen Goods ⚡ 8(3)

Evidence sustained conviction for conspiracy to use mails to defraud and to use mails in a scheme to defraud in the sale of securities in interstate commerce. Davenport v. U.S., C.A.9 (Or.) 1958, 260 F.2d 591, certiorari denied 79 S.Ct. 585, 359 U.S. 909, 3 L.Ed.2d 573. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(5)

Evidence sustained conviction of violation of Securities Act, § 77a et seq. of title 15, mail fraud, and conspiracy in sale of debentures of corporation. U. S. v. Tellier, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1958, 255 F.2d 441, certiorari denied 79 S.Ct. 33, 358 U.S. 821, 3 L.Ed.2d 62. Securities Regulation ⚡ 199; Licenses ⚡ 42(4); Conspiracy ⚡ 47(5)

Evidence sustained conviction for unlawful transportation in interstate commerce of forged, fictitious and falsely made securities, and for conspiracy to transport in interstate commerce such securities in form of completed checks. Moore v. U. S., C.A.5 (Tex.) 1958, 250 F.2d 658, certiorari denied 78 S.Ct. 998, 356 U.S. 956, 2 L.Ed.2d 1071, certiorari denied 80 S.Ct. 1251, 363 U.S. 813, 4 L.Ed.2d 1155, rehearing denied 80 S.Ct. 1622, 363 U.S. 858, 4 L.Ed.2d 1739. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(3.1); Receiving Stolen Goods ⚡ 8(3)

Evidence sustained conviction for conspiring to cause to be transported in interstate commerce and for transporting and causing to be transported in interstate commerce falsely made, forged, altered, and counterfeited securities. Fowler v. U.S., C.A.5 (Ga.) 1957, 242 F.2d 860. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(3.1); Receiving Stolen Goods ⚡ 8(3)

Evidence sustained conviction for transporting in foreign commerce stolen securities and for conspiring to do so. United States v. Aron, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1957, 239 F.2d 857. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(11); Receiving Stolen Goods ⚡ 8(3)

Evidence supported conviction of both defendants for violating Securities Act of 1933, § 77q(a)(1) of Title 15, and Mail Fraud Act, former § 338 of this title, and conspiring to carry out the substantive offenses. Harper v. U. S., C.C.A.8 (Mo.) 1944, 143 F.2d 795. See, also, U.S. v. Bronson, C.C.A.N.Y.1944, 145 F.2d 939; Holmes v. U.S., C.C.A.Neb.1943, 134 F.2d 125, certiorari denied 63 S.Ct. 1434, 319 U.S. 776, 87 L.Ed. 1722; Kopald-Quinn & Co. v. U.S., C.C.A.Ga.1939, 101 F.2d 628, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 835, 307 U.S. 628, 83 L.Ed. 1511. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(5); Securities Regulation ⚡ 199; Postal Service ⚡ 49(11)

Evidence was sufficient to support conviction of two defendants for using the mails in furtherance of a scheme to defraud in sale of mining stock and for a conspiracy to devise a scheme to defraud. Estep v. U.S., C.C.A.10 (Utah) 1943, 140 F.2d 40. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(5); Postal Service ⚡ 49(11)

In prosecution for using mails in furtherance of scheme to defraud in sale of mining stock and for conspiracy to defraud, where it was as reasonable to conclude that one of the defendants was victimized by the other defendants as that he was a conscious participator in the fraudulent scheme or conspiracy, verdict of guilty as to such defendant was not supported by that degree of proof essential to a finding of guilty, knowledge and criminal intent, and conviction could not stand. Estep v. U.S., C.C.A.10 (Utah) 1943, 140 F.2d 40. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(4); Postal Service ⚡ 49(11)

Evidence including defendant's cooperation in disposing of stolen notes sustained conviction for transporting or causing to be transported in interstate commerce, securities known to have been stolen and in the value of $5,000 or more and for conspiracy to so do. U.S. v. Turley, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1943, 135 F.2d 867, certiorari denied 64 S.Ct. 47, 320 U.S. 745, 88 L.Ed. 442. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(11); Receiving Stolen Goods ⚡ 8(3)

Evidence sustained conviction of use of mails to defraud in the sale of oil leases and stock, and of conspiracy so to do. U.S. v. Leathers, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1943, 135 F.2d 507. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(5); Postal Service ⚡ 49(11)

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In prosecution for conspiracy to use and for using the mails for the distribution of prospectuses for the sale of stock in a scheme to defraud, evidence was sufficient to go to the jury on the question of the guilt of a public accountant who prepared financial statements for prospectuses. U.S. v. White, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1941, 124 F.2d 181. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.1(3); Postal Service ⚡ 50

A letter which was signed by attorney against whom indictment for conspiracy and for using mails to defraud in sale of mining stock was dismissed, and which was written in furtherance of attempt to compromise mining company's indebtedness, and which was not connected in any way with codefendants, did not warrant conviction of codefendants. Ilseng v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1941, 120 F.2d 823, certiorari denied 62 S.Ct. 125, 314 U.S. 665, 86 L.Ed. 532, certiorari denied 62 S.Ct. 126, 314 U.S. 665, 86 L.Ed. 532. Postal Service ⚡ 49(9)

Evidence was sufficient to sustain conviction for using the mails in furtherance of a scheme to defraud through the sale of stock and for a conspiracy to use the mails for that purpose. Pietch v. U.S., C.C.A.10 (Okla.) 1940, 110 F.2d 817, certiorari denied 60 S.Ct. 1100, 310 U.S. 648, 84 L.Ed. 1414. See, also, U.S. v. Fradkin, C.C.A.N.Y.1935, 81 F.2d 56, rehearing denied 81 F.2d 609, certiorari denied 56 S.Ct. 598, 297 U.S. 720, 80 L.Ed. 1005. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(5); Postal Service ⚡ 49(11)

In prosecution for using and for conspiring to use mails to defraud in sale of stock in gold mines, evidence implicating defendant who was an officer in the company promoting the stock-selling fraud and who admittedly sent letters to stockholders which he knew contained false and misleading statements sustained conviction. U.S. v. Bob, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1939, 106 F.2d 37, certiorari denied 60 S.Ct. 115, 308 U.S. 589, 84 L.Ed. 493. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(5); Postal Service ⚡ 49(11)

Evidence was sufficient to sustain conviction for entering into a conspiracy to form a scheme to defraud owners of public investment trust units and to use the mails in furtherance thereof and to engage in business of selling securities in violation of § 77a et seq. of Title 15. Troutman v. U. S., C.C.A.10 (Colo.) 1938, 100 F.2d 628. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(5)

In action for violation of former § 338 of this title in a fraudulent stock-selling scheme and for conspiring so to do, evidence of defendant's participation in the scheme sustained conviction. U.S. v. Berman, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1938, 98 F.2d 733. See, also, Gernert v. U.S., Or.1917, 240 F. 403, 153 C.C.A. 329. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(4); Postal Service ⚡ 49(11)

In prosecution of officers and directors of mortgage guaranty company for conspiracy to use mails to defraud in sale of mortgage participation certificates, evidence of defendants' issuance of condensed financial statements in which bona fide year-end financing transactions with leading bank were reflected in different ways was insufficient to establish fraud, where methods used in dealing with accounting problem involved made no change in net worth or financial responsibility of company. U.S. v. McNamara, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1937, 91 F.2d 986. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(5)

Evidence sustained conviction of conspiracy to use the mails to defraud by selling watered stock. U.S. v. Rollnick, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1937, 91 F.2d 911. Conspiracy ⚡ 47

Evidence sustained conviction for conspiracy to use mails to defraud by selling watered stock of person who did not actively participate in actual sale after introducing two of the conspirators but who shared in money fraudulently obtained. U.S. v. Rollnick, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1937, 91 F.2d 911. Postal Service ⚡ 49(11)

Evidence that defendants devised scheme and entered into conspiracy to sell worthless stock of purported gold mining corporation which they organized, through corporation organized by one of defendants for ostensible purpose of engaging in brokerage business, and that they mailed letters and circulars containing false representations in furtherance of scheme, sustained conviction for conspiracy and use of mails to defraud in sale of stock. Levine v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Wash.) 1935, 79 F.2d 364. Conspiracy ↻ 47(5); Postal Service ↻ 49(11)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In prosecution for conspiracy and use of mails to defraud in sale of stock, all misrepresentations alleged in indictment need not be proved, although some of them must be proved beyond reasonable doubt. Levine v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Wash.) 1935, 79 F.2d 364. Conspiracy ↻ 43(12); Postal Service ↻ 48(8)

Evidence was insufficient to sustain conviction of particular defendant for conspiracy and for use of mails to defraud, by manipulations and sales of corporate stock. Ridenour v. U S, C.C.A.3 (Pa.) 1926, 14 F.2d 888. Conspiracy ↻ 47; Postal Service ↻ 49(11)

In prosecution for fraudulent scheme to sell mortgage company stock by use of mails, evidence was sufficient to sustain conviction as to some of defendants and insufficient as to others. Scheib v. U.S., C.C.A.7 (Ind.) 1926, 14 F.2d 75, certiorari denied 47 S.Ct. 95, 273 U.S. 700, 71 L.Ed. 847, certiorari denied 47 S.Ct. 95, 273 U.S. 701, 71 L.Ed. 847, certiorari denied 47 S.Ct. 95, 273 U.S. 701, 71 L.Ed. 848, certiorari denied 47 S.Ct. 113, 273 U.S. 718, 71 L.Ed. 856. Conspiracy ↻ 47(5); Postal Service ↻ 49(11)

Evidence sustained count for conspiracy to obtain money under false pretenses though direct proof of conversation between defendants, or knowledge by defendant charged as conspirator, of source of money used to buy stock, was not shown. Kriebel v. U.S., C.C.A.7 (Ill.) 1925, 8 F.2d 692, certiorari denied 46 S.Ct. 119, 269 U.S. 582, 70 L.Ed. 424, certiorari denied 46 S.Ct. 120, 269 U.S. 583, 70 L.Ed. 424.

A conviction of conspiracy to defraud by pretending to deal in what is commonly called "green articles" and "spurious treasury notes," to be accomplished by the use of the mails in violation of former § 338 of this title, was sustained by the evidence. Lehman v. U.S., C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1903, 127 F. 41, 61 C.C.A. 577. Conspiracy ↻ 47

Evidence that defendant did not come into contact with corporation until September of 1971, evidence that he was not a member of the board nor member of its management, evidence that his sole responsibility was to act as corporation's outside securities counsel, and evidence that his actions in no way contributed to ouster of one chairman of the board and installation of another demonstrated that he did not participate in alleged conspiracy, which allegedly began in January of 1971, to keep the new chairman of the board, who had been president of the corporation, in control of the corporation by violating federal securities laws and mail fraud laws. U. S. v. Koenig, S.D.N.Y.1974, 388 F.Supp. 670. Conspiracy ↻ 47(3.1); Conspiracy ↻ 47(5)

In prosecution for transporting securities or money obtained by fraud and for conspiracy to commit such offense, the evidence was sufficient to support the jury's verdict of guilty. U. S. v. Rosenberg, E.D.Pa.1958, 157 F.Supp. 654, affirmed 257 F.2d 760, certiorari granted 79 S.Ct. 233, 358 U.S. 904, 3 L.Ed.2d 227, affirmed 79 S.Ct. 1231, 360 U.S. 367, 3 L.Ed.2d 1304. Conspiracy ↻ 47(11); Receiving Stolen Goods ↻ 8(3)

773. Sedition, sufficiency of evidence

Evidence warranted finding in a trial for seditious conspiracy under former § 6 of this title that the defendant was a participant with another in organizing and forwarding the unlawful enterprise to seize by force certain property of the United States. Phipps v. U.S., C.C.A.4 (Va.) 1918, 251 F. 879, 164 C.C.A. 95. Conspiracy ↻ 47(3.1)

774. Shipping offenses, sufficiency of evidence

In a prosecution under former § 88 of this title for a conspiracy to sink a German merchant vessel in the navigable waters of the United States, etc., evidence was sufficient to carry the case to the jury. Wierse v. U.S., C.C.A.4 (S.C.) 1918, 252 F. 435, 164 C.C.A. 359, certiorari denied 39 S.Ct. 10, 248 U.S. 568, 63 L.Ed. 425. Conspiracy ↻ 48.1(2.1)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Evidence was sufficient to show a conspiracy to sink a German merchant ship interned in the waters of the United States. Wierse v. U.S., C.C.A.4 (S.C.) 1918, 252 F. 435, 164 C.C.A. 359, certiorari denied 39 S.Ct. 10, 248 U.S. 568, 63 L.Ed. 425. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.1(2.1)

Evidence corroborated confessions in a prosecution for conspiring to aid Germany by destroying ships bearing munitions to the Allies. Daeche v. U.S., C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1918, 250 F. 566, 162 C.C.A. 582. Criminal Law ⚡ 534(1)

Government presented sufficient evidence for reasonable jury to conclude that defendants knew their specific conduct, i.e., shipping goods from the United States to Iran via the United Arab Emirates, was illegal, and that, by virtue of that knowledge of illegality, defendants' cooperative efforts to bring about those shipments constituted an agreement to commit an offense against the United States, as required for conviction for conspiracy and under statute prescribing criminal sanctions for persons who "willfully" violate any license, order, or regulation issued under the International Emergency Economic Powers Act (IEEPA), and the Iranian Transaction Regulations (ITR) promulgated thereunder, which prohibited direct and indirect export of goods, technology, or services to Iran. U.S. v. Quinn, D.D.C.2005, 403 F.Supp.2d 57. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(3.1)

Evidence was insufficient to support conviction of captain of steamship of foreign registry of conspiring to violate former § 502 of this title, which made it unlawful for any person to tamper with motive power or instrumentalities of navigation of the vessel with intent to injure or endanger the safety of the vessel or of persons on board, where it appeared that captain was citizen of a nation which was at war, and did not plan the acts which were done, but acted under orders of a superior officer in the military service. U.S. v. Saglietto, E.D.Va.1941, 41 F.Supp. 21. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(3.1)

775. Smuggling, sufficiency of evidence

Evidence supported conviction for conspiring to illegally import baby yellow-naped Amazon parrots from Mexico to United States; babies were always delivered during hatching season of yellow-napes in wild, from which it could be inferred that knowledgeable purchaser should have been suspicious, testimony indicated that defendant was experienced bird breeder and dealer who would have known that babies were sick with disease that was not found in domestically bred birds and that many yellow-napes sold in United States are smuggled, and defendant continued to purchase babies after she had actual knowledge that coconspirator had been charged with smuggling baby yellow-napes. U.S. v. Freeman, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1996, 77 F.3d 812, rehearing and suggestion for rehearing en banc denied 84 F.3d 435. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(3.1)

Evidence of existence of conspiracy to smuggle illegal aliens, although it did not implicate defendant personally, together with defendant's uncorroborated confession was sufficient to sustain his conviction of conspiring to smuggle aliens. U. S. v. Vega-Limon, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1977, 548 F.2d 1390. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(3.1)

Evidence that the "brains" of the smuggling operations were two brothers, that they were assisted by two others, and that the operational core continued to be active during the entire four-year period covered by the indictment was sufficient to show the existence of a single conspiracy even though the Government's proof differed with respect to each of three separate time segments within the period covered by the indictment. U. S. v. Arnedo-Sarmiento, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1976, 545 F.2d 785, certiorari denied 97 S.Ct. 1330, 430 U.S. 917, 51 L.Ed.2d 595, certiorari denied 97 S.Ct. 1331, 430 U.S. 917, 51 L.Ed.2d 595. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(3.1)

In view of testimony from which jury could have found that defendant and an accomplice arranged to hide aliens in automobile trunk compartment and then enlisted their female companions as unwitting accessories to drive automobile across the border, evidence was sufficient to sustain conviction of defendant on two counts of smuggling aliens into the United States and a conspiracy count. U. S. v. Lewis, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1972, 460 F.2d 257. Aliens ⚡ 59; Conspiracy ⚡ 47(3.1)

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Evidence, including evidence concerning surveillance of automobile allegedly used to transport amphetamine sulfate tablets and barbiturate capsules into the United States and evidence as to ownership of automobile, was sufficient to show defendant's participation in conspiracy to smuggle goods into the United States, concealment and transportation of amphetamine sulfate tablets and barbiturate capsules and possession of stimulant or depressant drugs. Pederson v. U. S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1968, 392 F.2d 41. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(12); Customs Duties ⚡ 134; Controlled Substances ⚡ 86

Evidence sustained convictions for smuggling, and for conspiracy to smuggle psittacine birds into the United States. Duke v. U.S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1958, 255 F.2d 721, certiorari denied 78 S.Ct. 1361, 357 U.S. 920, 2 L.Ed.2d 1365. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(3.1); Customs Duties ⚡ 134

Evidence was sufficient to sustain conviction for conspiracy to smuggle, import, conceal, and transport a snowmobile from Canada to United States. U.S. v. McKee, C.A.2 (Vt.) 1955, 220 F.2d 266. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(11)

Evidence was sufficient to warrant finding that cablegrams constituted overt acts committed in district of prosecution for conspiracy to defraud United States by smuggling liquor into country. Horwitz v. U S, C.C.A.1 (Mass.) 1925, 5 F.2d 129.

776. Stolen property, sufficiency of evidence--Generally

Evidence was sufficient to support finding that defendant knew that items in his home were stolen by his wife from the government, as required to sustain convictions for conspiracy to defraud the United States and receipt of stolen government property; evidence demonstrated that defendant was in charge of the couple's finances, that he understood the way government purchasing worked, that he knew the nature of his wife's work, and that he took several affirmative steps to secure a stolen laptop computer for his son through his wife. U.S. v. Mellen, C.A.D.C.2004, 393 F.3d 175, 364 U.S.App.D.C. 152. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(6); Receiving Stolen Goods ⚡ 8(4)

Evidence that alleged conspirators believed electronic equipment to have been stolen and that conspirators conspired to receive such property was sufficient to support conviction of defendants for conspiring to receive stolen property notwithstanding fact that defendants could not have been convicted of substantive offense of receiving stolen property as electronic equipment had not been stolen, but rather had been borrowed by Government with carrier's permission for use in sting operation. U.S. v. Petit, C.A.11 (Fla.) 1988, 841 F.2d 1546, certiorari denied 108 S.Ct. 2906, 487 U.S. 1237, 101 L.Ed.2d 938. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(11)

Conspiracy between defendant and another individual to receive and possess rifles stolen from foreign and interstate shipment was established by sufficient evidence, including evidence that defendant sold rifles to individual who sold rifles to government agents and that defendant set up and was present at meeting at which rifles were sold to government agents. U.S. v. Indelicato, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1986, 800 F.2d 1482. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(11)

Defendant's absence from location at which stolen goods from out of state were being appraised for exchange, and lack of direct proof of her specific knowledge about interstate nature of the transaction would not prevent reasonable trier of fact from concluding from the other proof in the case, which included evidence that defendant dealt with known out-of-state resident frequently regarding stolen property during the period in question, that defendant was part of charged conspiracy involving transportation in interstate commerce, and receipt and disposition of stolen property under 18 U.S.C.A. § 371. U.S. v. Lawson, C.A.6 (Ohio) 1985, 780 F.2d 535. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(11)

Evidence, including testimony that defendant helped plan how stolen toys were to be shipped across state lines and delivered in Nevada, plus testimony indicating that defendant's agreement to purchase the stolen toys induced other participants in the conspiracy to transport the toys from California to Nevada, was sufficient to support convictions of conspiracy to transport stolen goods in interstate commerce and of aiding and abetting the interstate transportation of stolen goods. U.S. v. McKoy, C.A.9 (Nev.) 1985, 771 F.2d 1207. Conspiracy ⤴ 47(11); Receiving Stolen Goods ⤴ 8(3)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Defendant's presence in hotel room, shrug of his shoulders, "uh-huh, uh-hah, aw-haw, yep" conversation, frisk of government agent, search of hotel room, and flight after hearing large bang on hotel room door was insufficient to sustain findings necessary for conspiracy conviction that defendant intended to join and actually participated in conspiracy to transport in interstate commerce two paintings valued at $5,000 or more, knowing paintings to have been stolen. U.S. v. Sarro, C.A.11 (Fla.) 1984, 742 F.2d 1286, rehearing denied 751 F.2d 394. Conspiracy ⤴ 47(11)

Evidence in defendant's prosecution for conspiracy to transport stolen goods in interstate commerce, including evidence that defendant opened up suitcase containing jewelry and saw jewelry stuffed into sock, and testimony that defendant had stated that he thought jewelry "might be hot," was sufficient to support conviction. U.S. v. Covelli, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1984, 738 F.2d 847, certiorari denied 105 S.Ct. 211, 469 U.S. 867, 83 L.Ed.2d 141. Conspiracy ⤴ 47(11)

Evidence was insufficient to sustain conviction of conspiracy to transport stolen motor vehicles in interstate commerce with an unknown person, thus warranting reversal of conspiracy conviction since the only individuals other than defendant charged with conspiracy were acquitted, where only evidence to support involvement of unknown persons with defendant in conspiracy was that defendant had told witness that he had friends working at truck line or forklift business who would steal forklifts and bring them to him. U. S. v. Patterson, C.A.9 (Nev.) 1982, 678 F.2d 774, certiorari denied 103 S.Ct. 219, 459 U.S. 911, 74 L.Ed.2d 174. Conspiracy ⤴ 47(11)

In prosecution for conspiracy to knowingly transport stolen property and for knowingly storing stolen property, district court properly determined that government had proved by preponderance of independent evidence that defendant participated in the conspiracy and that out-of-court declaration by alleged coconspirator had been made in course and in furtherance of the conspiracy. U. S. v. Baykowski, C.A.8 (Mo.) 1980, 615 F.2d 767. Criminal Law ⤴ 423(1); Criminal Law ⤴ 427(5)

Evidence, in prosecution for conspiracy to transport in interstate commerce jewelry having a value in excess of $5,000, knowing the jewelry to be stolen, for aiding and abetting others in the conspiracy, and for aiding and abetting another in the unlawful interstate transportation of goods known to be stolen was sufficient to support conviction of defendant who, according to several witnesses, admitted that he knew that the jewelry was stolen. U. S. v. Cheung, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1974, 504 F.2d 362. Conspiracy ⤴ 47(11); Receiving Stolen Goods ⤴ 8(3)

Evidence including evidence that particular defendant exercised actual if not constructive possession over engines less than three weeks after they were stolen and that such defendant was directly involved in selling engines for a little over half their retail value and took undisputed part in surreptitious negotiations sustained conviction for receiving, concealing, etc., stolen engines knowing them to have been stolen in violation of section 2315 of this title, and for conspiracy. U. S. v. Smith, C.A.5 (Fla.) 1974, 502 F.2d 1250. Conspiracy ⤴ 47(11); Receiving Stolen Goods ⤴ 8(3)

Evidence that defendant had discussed stealing boat with coconspirators, provided truck that was to be used to transport stolen boat and trailer from Texas to Utah, provided rental truck when his own truck broke down in Wyoming, took delivery of stolen boat and trailer in Utah and traded them and truck to another for other items was sufficient to prove defendant's knowing participation in conspiracy to transport stolen goods in interstate commerce. U. S. v. Celcer, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1974, 500 F.2d 345, rehearing denied 505 F.2d 734, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 1563, 421 U.S. 911, 43 L.Ed.2d 776. Conspiracy ⤴ 47(11)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Telephone call from home of defendant to a coconspirator early in the day rifles were stolen, defendant's presence during conversation between alleged coconspirators concerning the guns and defendant's acknowledgment of the significance of that conversation provided sufficient proof for jury to link such defendant with the conspiracy to violate the National Firearms Act, section 5861 of Title 26. U. S. v. Marrapese, C.A.2 (Conn.) 1973, 486 F.2d 918, certiorari denied 94 S.Ct. 1597, 415 U.S. 994, 39 L.Ed.2d 891. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(9)

Notwithstanding defendant's contention that the property in question, United States Treasury bearer bonds, were properly withheld from the trustee in bankruptcy of two corporations through which defendant had conducted business enterprises, substantial evidence was offered by the prosecution upon which the jury could find beyond a reasonable doubt that defendant committed the offenses charged, namely, interstate transportation of property, the bearer bonds, obtained by fraud, wire fraud, and conspiracy. U. S. v. Engle, C.A.6 (Ohio) 1972, 458 F.2d 1021, certiorari denied 93 S.Ct. 154, 409 U.S. 863, 34 L.Ed.2d 111. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(11); Receiving Stolen Goods ⚡ 8(3); Telecommunications ⚡ 1018(4)

Evidence was sufficient to support conviction for conspiracy to violate section 2314 of this title by causing falsely made and forged securities (money orders) to move in interstate commerce in violation of this section and to support denial of motion for acquittal of defendant who according to witness traveled with others from Arkansas to Mississippi for purpose of cashing money orders after some blank money orders had been stolen in Arkansas and who according to another witness was man using assumed name who cashed one of stolen money orders. U. S. v. Johnson, C.A.5 (Miss.) 1972, 455 F.2d 311. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(4)

Evidence including testimony that defendant paid witness and his driver each $250 for their efforts connected with transportation and delivery of carpeting contained in semitrailer which had been stolen from rail yard sustained conviction for theft of goods from interstate shipment and for conspiracy, though defendant contended he had been hired to unload the carpeting. U. S. v. Ashton, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1971, 453 F.2d 375. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(11); Larceny ⚡ 55

Where record of prosecution for possession of goods stolen from interstate commerce and for conspiracy clearly showed that defendant was well aware that television sets which he agreed to buy and helped to store had been stolen and that defendant showed total disregard for source of sets, his contention that evidence did not show that he was aware of violation of federal law, i.e., that he did not know merchandise had been stolen from interstate shipment, was without merit. U. S. v. McGann, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1970, 431 F.2d 1104, certiorari denied 91 S.Ct. 904, 401 U.S. 919, 27 L.Ed.2d 821. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(11); Receiving Stolen Goods ⚡ 8(4)

Defendant's knowledge that he was receiving money stolen from banking institution was sufficient to establish conspiracy to commit offense or to defraud United States, though defendant allegedly did not know that bank robbed was federally insured. Nelson v. U. S., C.A.5 (Tex.) 1969, 415 F.2d 483, certiorari denied 90 S.Ct. 751, 396 U.S. 1060, 24 L.Ed.2d 754. Conspiracy ⚡ 28(3)

Evidence, in prosecution for transporting and conspiring to transport in interstate commerce stolen goods of a value of more than $5,000, was sufficient to sustain a finding beyond a reasonable doubt both that the conspiracy contemplated interstate transportation of goods worth over $5,000, and that the actual transportation involved goods worth more than $5,000. U. S. v. Marino, C.A.2 (Conn.) 1968, 396 F.2d 780. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(11); Receiving Stolen Goods ⚡ 8(3)

Evidence warranted conviction of defendant indicted with two others for interstate transportation of stolen merchandise, and conspiracy to so transport such merchandise. U.S. v. DiFronzo, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1965, 345 F.2d 383, certiorari denied 86 S.Ct. 67, 382 U.S. 829, 15 L.Ed.2d 74, leave to file for rehearing denied 86 S.Ct. 1856, 384 U.S. 982, 16 L.Ed.2d 693. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(11); Receiving Stolen Goods ⚡ 8(3)

Convictions for conspiracy to possess whiskey stolen from interstate commerce, knowing such whiskey to have been stolen from interstate commerce, and for knowingly possessing stolen whiskey were sustained by evidence. U. S. v. Allegretti, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1964, 340 F.2d 254, certiorari denied 85 S.Ct. 1531, 381 U.S. 911, 14 L.Ed.2d 433, rehearing denied 85 S.Ct. 1800, 381 U.S. 956, 14 L.Ed.2d 728, certiorari denied 85 S.Ct. 1532, 381 U.S. 911, 14 L.Ed.2d 433, certiorari denied 88 S.Ct. 830, 390 U.S. 908, 19 L.Ed.2d 876. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(11); Receiving Stolen Goods ⚡ 8(3)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Evidence that there was a meeting at codefendant's home the evening after jewelry was stolen and that defendant purchased a watch was insufficient to establish defendant's guilt of conspiring to receive or sell jewelry stolen in interstate commerce. U. S. v. Ford, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1963, 324 F.2d 950. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(11)

Evidence was insufficient to sustain conviction for receiving and possessing goods stolen from interstate commerce, or for conspiring to sell goods stolen from interstate commerce. Embree v. U. S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1963, 320 F.2d 666. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(11); Receiving Stolen Goods ⚡ 8(3)

Evidence sustained defendants' conviction for transporting stolen goods in interstate commerce and for conspiracy to transport stolen goods in interstate commerce. U. S. v. Cardillo, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1963, 316 F.2d 606, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 123, 375 U.S. 857, 11 L.Ed.2d 84, rehearing denied 84 S.Ct. 203, 375 U.S. 917, 11 L.Ed.2d 158, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 60, 375 U.S. 822, 11 L.Ed.2d 55, rehearing denied 84 S.Ct. 263, 375 U.S. 926, 11 L.Ed.2d 169. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(11); Receiving Stolen Goods ⚡ 8(3)

Evidence sustained conviction of conspiring with others to steal, unlawfully transport and convert goods to their own use. U. S. v. Lipsky, C.A.3 (N.J.) 1962, 309 F.2d 521, certiorari denied 83 S.Ct. 510, 371 U.S. 953, 9 L.Ed.2d 501. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(11)

Evidence sustained convictions of violating § 659 of this title condemning buying, receiving or possessing stolen interstate freight shipments and conspiracy to do so. U. S. v. Miller, C.A.6 (Ky.) 1961, 290 F.2d 215. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(11); Receiving Stolen Goods ⚡ 8(3)

Evidence sustained conviction for receipt, possession, transportation and exportation of firearms stolen from federal government and for conspiring to do so. U. S. v. Carlucci, C.A.3 (Pa.) 1961, 288 F.2d 691, certiorari denied 81 S.Ct. 1920, 366 U.S. 961, 6 L.Ed.2d 1253. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(11); Receiving Stolen Goods ⚡ 8(3)

Evidence, in prosecution for receiving, possessing, transporting, and exporting firearms stolen from federal government and for conspiring to do so, sustained implied finding that driver of truck transporting firearms to airport had knowledge of and participated in conspiracy. U. S. v. Carlucci, C.A.3 (Pa.) 1961, 288 F.2d 691, certiorari denied 81 S.Ct. 1920, 366 U.S. 961, 6 L.Ed.2d 1253. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(11)

In prosecution of defendant, who, in Texas, purchased maps stolen from Pittsburgh office of oil company, for conspiracy to transport in interstate commerce geophysical maps knowing them to have been stolen, defendant's knowledge that maps were stolen was proved by sufficient evidence. U. S. v. Lester, C.A.3 (Pa.) 1960, 282 F.2d 750, certiorari denied 81 S.Ct. 385, 364 U.S. 937, 5 L.Ed.2d 368. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(11)

Evidence was sufficient to sustain convictions of two defendants for conspiring to embezzle or steal interstate freight and of one of them for the substantive offense. U.S. v. Page, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1960, 277 F.2d 3, certiorari denied 81 S.Ct. 83, 364 U.S. 843, 5 L.Ed.2d 67. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(11); Larceny ⚡ 55

In prosecution for conspiracy to commit an offense against the United States by transporting in interstate commerce geophysical maps of the value of $5,000 or more, knowing them to have been stolen, evidence was sufficient to establish an intent to transport the maps in interstate commerce. U. S. v. Seagraves, C.A.3 (Pa.) 1959, 265 F.2d 876. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(11)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Evidence sustained conviction for conspiracy to take possession of merchandise stolen while moving in interstate commerce. U. S. v. Patrisso, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1958, 262 F.2d 194. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(11)

In prosecution for transportation of stolen aluminum across state line and for conspiracy to engage in such transportation, testimony of persons concerned in movement of the aluminum was sufficient to establish identification thereof. United States v. Kessler, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1958, 253 F.2d 290. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(11); Receiving Stolen Goods ⚡ 8(3)

In prosecution for transportation of stolen aluminum across state line and for conspiracy to engage in such transportation, absence of any documents of title in obtaining aluminum from a warehouse, sale thereof at considerably less than market value and defendant's statement to F.B.I. agent that he knew nothing about the aluminum was sufficient evidence to establish knowledge that aluminum was stolen. United States v. Kessler, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1958, 253 F.2d 290. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(11); Receiving Stolen Goods ⚡ 8(4)

Evidence sustained conviction of conspiracy to steal merchandise from a truck moving in interstate commerce and for possessing stolen merchandise with knowledge that it had been stolen. U S v. De Vivo, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1957, 246 F.2d 773, certiorari denied 78 S.Ct. 126, 355 U.S. 874, 2 L.Ed.2d 79. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(11); Receiving Stolen Goods ⚡ 8(3)

Conviction for receiving, concealing and retaining with intent to convert property stolen from United States and having value in excess of $100, and conviction for conspiring (a) to enter building on lands reserved for exclusive use of United States with larcenous intent, (b) to steal, purloin and knowingly convert United States property of value in excess of $100, and (c) to conceal and retain with intent to convert property stolen from United States and having value in excess of $100, were sustained by evidence. Shibley v. U. S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1956, 237 F.2d 327, certiorari denied 77 S.Ct. 94, 352 U.S. 873, 1 L.Ed.2d 77, rehearing denied 77 S.Ct. 212, 352 U.S. 919, 1 L.Ed.2d 124. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(11); Receiving Stolen Goods ⚡ 8(3)

Evidence supported conviction for conspiring to possess stolen sheet steel moving as part of interstate shipment. Singer v. U.S., C.A.6 (Mich.) 1953, 208 F.2d 477. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(11)

Evidence sustained conviction for conspiracy to steal property of United States, and to unlawfully receive, conceal and retain, with intent to convert, such stolen property knowing that it was stolen. Williams v. U.S., C.A.5 (Fla.) 1953, 208 F.2d 447, certiorari denied 74 S.Ct. 531, 347 U.S. 928, 98 L.Ed. 1081. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(11)

In prosecution for possessing goods with knowledge that they had been stolen while a part of an interstate shipment of freight, and for conspiring to commit such offense, evidence of defendant was insufficient to sustain burden on defendant of proving that other goods were substituted for those stolen during the time that the stolen goods were in the possession of the thieves from whom defendant allegedly acquired them. U.S. v. Smolin, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1950, 182 F.2d 782. Receiving Stolen Goods ⚡ 8(3)

In prosecution for possessing goods with knowledge that they had been stolen while a part of an interstate shipment of freight, and for conspiring to commit such offense, evidence that cartons and bails in which the stolen goods were packed had on them the names and addresses of consignors in North Carolina and consignees in New York was sufficient to permit jury to find that defendant knew that the goods were stolen while in interstate commerce. U.S. v. Smolin, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1950, 182 F.2d 782. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.1(2.1)

Evidence sustained conviction of a defendant of causing certain stolen fur coats to be transported in interstate commerce and of conspiracy to cause such transportation. U.S. v. Tannuzzo, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1949, 174 F.2d 177, certiorari denied 70 S.Ct. 38, 338 U.S. 815, 94 L.Ed. 493, rehearing denied 70 S.Ct. 233, 338 U.S. 896, 94 L.Ed. 551. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(11); Receiving Stolen Goods ⚡ 8(3)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Evidence that sellers had labeled bales of goods with names of consignees and their addresses in Africa and had put them on a truck of a party who contracted to carry them to the dock where they were to be delivered to a steamship company and that truck had come near enough to the dock for the driver to go after his receipt, when the truck was seized and driven away and the goods stolen, sustained conviction of two defendants for stealing goods while moving in "foreign commerce" and conspiracy to steal, carry away, and conceal goods, as against contention that because the bales had not come into possession of the carrier they had not entered foreign commerce. U.S. v. Sherman, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1948, 171 F.2d 619, certiorari denied 69 S.Ct. 1484, 337 U.S. 931, 93 L.Ed. 1738. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(11); Larceny ⚡ 55

Evidence that when another came to get receipts showing proper delivery of soap, dock boss told defendant that he had received the money for the soap and that thereupon the defendant made out a forged receipt was sufficient to prove conspiracy to steal goods from a shipment in interstate commerce and to prove at least that the defendant was an accessory after the fact to the embezzlement of property of the United States. U.S. v. McCarthy, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1948, 170 F.2d 267. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(11); Embezzlement ⚡ 44(1)

Evidence, which failed to show unlawful agreement to transport or cause to be transported in interstate commerce stolen money of a value of $5,000 or more or any overt act in connection with alleged conspiracy, was insufficient to support conviction of conspiracy to transport or cause to be transported in interstate commerce such stolen money in violation of former § 418a of this title. Crain v. U.S., C.C.A.5 (Fla.) 1945, 148 F.2d 615. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(11)

In prosecution for possessing whisky knowing that it had been stolen from an interstate shipment, and for conspiring to receive stolen whisky, evidence of circumstances under which defendants assisted in moving stolen whisky from yard into nearby house in the nighttime without benefit of lights established that defendants knew whisky had been stolen. Thompson v. U.S., C.C.A.5 (Tex.) 1944, 145 F.2d 826, certiorari denied 65 S.Ct. 866, 324 U.S. 861, 89 L.Ed. 1418. Conspiracy ⚡ 43(10); Receiving Stolen Goods ⚡ 8(4)

Evidence sustained conviction of receiving stolen goods and of conspiracy to commit offense of stealing and receiving stolen goods. Janow v. U.S., C.C.A.5 (Fla.) 1944, 141 F.2d 1017. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(11); Receiving Stolen Goods ⚡ 8(3)

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate former § 409 of this title, evidence warranted finding that cigarettes found in possession of defendants were those stolen from railroad warehouse while still part of interstate shipment. Murphy v. U.S., C.C.A.6 (Tenn.) 1943, 133 F.2d 622.

The fact that stolen goods exceeding the value of $5,000 were in fact transported in interstate commerce pursuant to agreement was evidence that transportation of goods of such value was contemplated by the conspiracy, so that charge of conspiracy to transport goods of such value was sustained though it was allegedly not shown to have been agreed that goods of that value would be dealt with. Andrews v. U.S., C.C.A.4 (W.Va.) 1939, 108 F.2d 511. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(11)

Conviction for conspiracy to receive, dispose of, and transport stolen merchandise in interstate commerce could not be sustained in absence of evidence that value of merchandise transported equaled $5,000 or more or that agreement was made to transport goods of that value, notwithstanding that dealings allegedly showed a conspiracy which was not limited as to amount of stolen goods to be transported. Andrews v. U.S., C.C.A.4 (W.Va.) 1939, 108 F.2d 511. Conspiracy ⚡ 43(12)

In prosecution for conspiracy to receive, dispose of, and transport stolen merchandise in interstate commerce, evidence that garage operator and salesman purchased stolen cloth at one-third of its value, or less, paying for it in cash, that cloth was taken from plant after business hours and frequently at night, and that transportation was in interstate commerce established charge of conspiracy against garage operator and salesman. Andrews v. U.S.,

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

C.C.A.4 (W.Va.) 1939, 108 F.2d 511. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(11)

Evidence was insufficient to show that a defendant was guilty of conspiracy to cause certain stolen furs to be transported in interstate commerce. Andrews v. U.S., C.C.A.4 (W.Va.) 1939, 108 F.2d 511.

In an indictment for a conspiracy to steal, and stealing, property, an allegation that it was "the property of and in the possession of the United States of America," is supported by evidence that the property was in the possession of the collector of customs of the United States, having been seized by him as smuggled merchandise. U.S. v. Gardner, C.C.N.D.N.Y.1890, 42 F. 829. Conspiracy ⚡ 43(12)

Evidence was sufficient to convict defendant of participating in conspiracy relating to interstate transportation and receipt of truckloads of stolen meat products; defendant, as manager of store to which the stolen meat products were delivered, was instrumental in arranging delivery of products and then arranging method of payment to his coconspirators. U.S. v. DeGeratto, N.D.Ind.1990, 727 F.Supp. 1254. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(11)

A defendant could not have been convicted under former § 101 of this title, making it a crime to receive property of United States theretofore stolen from it, where there was no evidence that the United States was the owner of the property stolen, nor could he have been convicted of conspiring to violate such section, in the absence of such evidence. U. S. v. Crawford, E.D.Pa.1943, 52 F.Supp. 843. Conspiracy ⚡ 43(12); Receiving Stolen Goods ⚡ 7(6)

777. ---- Motor vehicles, stolen property, sufficiency of evidence

Evidence was sufficient to convict defendant of conspiring to sell stolen motor vehicles; through testimony of three admitted coconspirators, government established existence of agreement between at least five persons to engage in illegal activity and defendant's active role in conspiracy, and government investigators traced salvage vehicles, whose vehicle identification numbers (VINs) had been retagged onto stolen vehicles, to body shop at which defendant worked. U.S. v. Reeves, C.A.8 (Ark.) 1996, 83 F.3d 203. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(11)

When question on appeal is sufficiency of evidence to support conviction, Court of Appeals must uphold verdict if, after viewing evidence in light most favorable to prosecution, any rational trier of fact could have found essential elements of crime beyond reasonable doubt. U.S. v. Brown, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1995, 71 F.3d 1352. Criminal Law ⚡ 1144.13(3); Criminal Law ⚡ 1159.2(7)

Evidence was sufficient to sustain defendant's conviction of substantive counts of illegal activities involving stolen vehicles, notwithstanding fact that majority of those vehicles were recovered from defendant's brother's possession, given evidence showing that both defendant and his brother had been engaged in criminal activity, and they cooperated with one another in carrying out their activities, working together on continuing basis, such that all illegal activities charged were within scope of charged conspiracy. U.S. v. Patterson, C.A.5 (Miss.) 1992, 962 F.2d 409. Automobiles ⚡ 355(11); Receiving Stolen Goods ⚡ 8(3)

Evidence that defendant provided the fraudulent paper work for a vehicle which he knew was stolen was sufficient to support defendant's conviction for conspiracy to transport stolen motor vehicle in interstate commerce; by supplying fraudulent certificates of title and registration papers, defendant not only implicitly agreed to participate in the unlawful act but also exhibited the intent to commit the underlying offense. U.S. v. Kapp, C.A.3 (Pa.) 1986, 781 F.2d 1008, certiorari denied 106 S.Ct. 1220, 475 U.S. 1024, 89 L.Ed.2d 330, certiorari denied 107 S.Ct. 87, 479 U.S. 821, 93 L.Ed.2d 40. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(11)

Evidence of defendant's knowing and willing participation in conspiracy, existence of which was clearly established through testimony of several of its members, who testified in great detail concerning various stages of criminal enterprise, including stealing cars, changing vehicle identification numbers, acquiring false paperwork,

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

interstate transportation, and ultimate resale, was sufficient to uphold defendant's conspiracy conviction. U. S. v. Anderson, C.A.5 (Ga.) 1978, 574 F.2d 1347. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(11)

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate the Dyer Act, section 2313 of this title, involving 24 named defendants, of whom 19 were convicted, and 13 named but unindicted coconspirators, evidence as to, inter alia, a central organization masterminded by certain defendants was sufficient to prove a single conspiracy so that defendants were not denied the right not to be tried en masse for a conglomeration of distinct and separate offenses committed by others. U. S. v. Mayes, C.A.6 (Ky.) 1975, 512 F.2d 637, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 2629, 422 U.S. 1008, 45 L.Ed.2d 670, certiorari denied 96 S.Ct. 69, 423 U.S. 840, 46 L.Ed.2d 59. Criminal Law ⚡ 622.7(4); Criminal Law ⚡ 622.7(13)

Evidence which included, inter alia, testimony of coordinator of automobile theft operation that each of defendants was involved in interstate transportation of stolen cars and in use of fraudulent title papers was sufficient to establish single conspiracy notwithstanding absence or withdrawal of some of the defendants from some acts of the theft ring. U. S. v. Goble, C.A.6 (Ky.) 1975, 512 F.2d 458, certiorari denied 96 S.Ct. 220, 423 U.S. 914, 46 L.Ed.2d 143, certiorari denied 96 S.Ct. 221, 423 U.S. 914, 46 L.Ed.2d 143. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(11)

Evidence of alleged interstate automobile theft and sale, involving same parties, was relevant to show intent and pattern in prosecution for interstate theft and conspiracy. U. S. v. Nasse, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1970, 432 F.2d 1293, certiorari denied 91 S.Ct. 927, 401 U.S. 938, 28 L.Ed.2d 217, certiorari denied 91 S.Ct. 928, 401 U.S. 938, 28 L.Ed.2d 217, certiorari denied 91 S.Ct. 1657, 402 U.S. 983, 29 L.Ed.2d 148. Criminal Law ⚡ 371(1); Criminal Law ⚡ 371(2); Criminal Law ⚡ 372(5); Criminal Law ⚡ 372(6)

Testimony of coconspirator and witness as to stolen automobile registration scheme devised in part by defendant and delivery of stolen automobile by defendant was sufficient to sustain jury's findings of guilt on count charging defendant with conspiring to receive, transport, sell and dispose of stolen vehicles. Sanders v. U. S., C.A.5 (Fla.) 1969, 416 F.2d 194, certiorari denied 90 S.Ct. 978, 397 U.S. 952, 25 L.Ed.2d 135. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(11)

Evidence was sufficient to sustain conviction for conspiracy to accept and to agree to accept motor vehicles stolen in various place of United States for purposes of transporting vehicles into Arkansas for sale in violation of statute. Meyer v. U. S., C.A.8 (Ark.) 1968, 396 F.2d 279, certiorari denied 89 S.Ct. 621, 393 U.S. 1017, 21 L.Ed.2d 561. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(11)

Evidence sustained convictions of defendants for conspiring to transport, receive, conceal, store, barter, sell, and dispose of in interstate commerce stolen motor vehicles, knowing them to have been stolen. U. S. v. Vanover, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1965, 339 F.2d 987. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(11)

Evidence sustained conviction for conspiracy to receive and conceal stolen automobiles moving in interstate commerce. McManaman v. U. S., C.A.10 (Kan.) 1964, 327 F.2d 21, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 1351, 377 U.S. 945, 12 L.Ed.2d 307. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(11)

Evidence was sufficient to sustain defendant's conviction of conspiracy, with others, to transport stolen automobile in interstate commerce, to sell and dispose of vehicle, to conceal vehicle and to aid and abet in the transportation, sale, concealment and disposition of vehicle. U. S. v. Amedeo, C.A.3 (N.J.) 1960, 277 F.2d 375. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(11)

Evidence sustained conviction for conspiracy to violate and violating Dyer Act, § 2312 of this title, by transporting stolen automobiles in interstate commerce. Williamson v. U.S., C.A.5 (Ga.) 1959, 272 F.2d 495, certiorari denied 80 S.Ct. 672, 362 U.S. 920, 4 L.Ed.2d 740. See, also, U.S. v. Wapnick, C.A.N.Y.1963, 315 F.2d 96, certiorari denied 83 S.Ct. 1868, 1871, 374 U.S. 829, 10 L.Ed.2d 1052, rehearing denied 84 S.Ct. 30, 375 U.S. 871, 872, 11 L.Ed.2d 100, 102; U.S. v. Mercks, C.A.N.C.1962, 304 F.2d 771; Pilgrim v. U.S., C.A.Ga.1959, 266 F.2d 486;

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

U.S. v. Migliorino, C.A.Pa.1956, 238 F.2d 7; U.S. v. Mura, C.A.N.Y.1951, 191 F.2d 886; Waldeck v. U.S., C.C.A.Ind.1924, 2 F.2d 243, certiorari denied 45 S.Ct. 232, 267 U.S. 595, 69 L.Ed. 805; Nyquist v. U.S., C.C.A.Mich.1924, 2 F.2d 504, certiorari denied 45 S.Ct. 508, 267 U.S. 606, 69 L.Ed. 810. Automobiles ⤷ 355(12); Conspiracy ⤷ 47(11)

In prosecution for conspiring to transport stolen motor vehicles in interstate commerce knowing them to have been stolen and to dispose of them, evidence justified finding that defendant and another entered into an unlawful conspiracy and that one or both of the parties subsequently committed overt acts in furtherance of objectives of the conspiracy. Castle v. U. S., C.A.8 (Minn.) 1956, 238 F.2d 131. Conspiracy ⤷ 47(11)

In prosecution for having conspired to transport stolen motor vehicles in interstate and foreign commerce and to cause them to be so transported, knowing them to have been stolen, evidence established but a single enterprise in which one defendant was one of the original parties and that codefendant joined the conspiracy with knowledge of its illegal purpose and activities. United States v. D'Ercole, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1955, 225 F.2d 611. Conspiracy ⤷ 47(11)

Circumstantial evidence warranted conviction for conspiring to transport stolen automobile in foreign commerce with knowledge of its stolen character. Beeler v. U.S., C.A.5 (Tex.) 1953, 205 F.2d 454, certiorari denied 74 S.Ct. 130, 346 U.S. 877, 98 L.Ed. 385. Conspiracy ⤷ 47(11)

In prosecution for conspiracy to transport motor vehicles in interstate commerce, knowing the same to have been stolen, and for receiving, concealing and disposing of such vehicles in interstate commerce knowing that the vehicles had been previously stolen, evidence warranted the inference that defendant not only had knowledge of conspiracy but that he cooperated in a manner to become essential part of it. Van Huss v. United States, C.A.10 (N.M.) 1952, 197 F.2d 120. Conspiracy ⤷ 47(11)

Evidence justified submission of case to jury on counts charging conspiracy to transport stolen motor vehicles in interstate commerce and on all but one of counts charging substantive offenses of such transportation with respect to nine automobiles. Metcalf v. U.S., C.A.6 (Ky.) 1952, 195 F.2d 213. Conspiracy ⤷ 48.1(2.1); Receiving Stolen Goods ⤷ 9(1)

In prosecution for conspiracy to transport stolen motor vehicles in interstate commerce, and with knowingly aiding and abetting in sale of such vehicles wherein there was evidence of concerted scheme in which defendant and two others each played essential co-ordinated roles, evidence warranted submission to jury of question of existence of conspiracy. U.S. v. Bucur, C.A.7 (Ind.) 1952, 194 F.2d 297. Conspiracy ⤷ 48.1(2.1)

In prosecution for conspiracy to traffic in stolen automobiles moving in interstate commerce, the charge would have been established by showing the formation of the conspiracy to commit the substantive offense and the commission of one or more overt acts in furtherance of such conspiracy. Doherty v. United States, C.A.10 (Utah) 1951, 193 F.2d 487. Conspiracy ⤷ 47(11)

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate National Motor Vehicle Theft Act and National Stolen Property Act, former §§ 408 and 415 of this title, evidence was insufficient to sustain conviction. U.S. v. Gardner, C.A.7 (Ind.) 1948, 171 F.2d 753.

Evidence that defendant was aware of divorce decree awarding wife automobile, that, after having failed in attempt to purchase automobile from wife, defendant stated that he intended to get it if he had to steal it, that one unsuccessful effort to obtain it had been made, and that defendant and others later took automobile into another state, justified conviction of transportation of automobile in interstate commerce knowing it had been stolen, of receiving and concealing automobile, and of entering into a conspiracy to transport automobile in interstate commerce. Jeffers v. U.S., C.C.A.5 (Fla.) 1945, 151 F.2d 587. Automobiles ⤷ 355(12); Conspiracy ⤷

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

47(11); Receiving Stolen Goods ↪ 8(4)

Evidence was sufficient for conspiracy to transport motor vehicles with knowledge that they had been stolen. Chapman v. U.S., C.C.A.5 (Tex.) 1925, 10 F.2d 124, certiorari denied 46 S.Ct. 482, 271 U.S. 667, 70 L.Ed. 1141. Conspiracy ↪ 47

Conviction for conspiracy to transport and to possess stolen motor vehicles in interstate commerce was supported by sufficient evidence, including evidence establishing that defendant personally delivered several stolen cars to shipping yard and that cars were then sent to port for shipping to West Africa. U.S. v. Boakye, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 2003, 59 Fed.Appx. 370, 2003 WL 562239, Unreported. Conspiracy ↪ 47(11)

778. Tax offenses, sufficiency of evidence--Generally

Convictions for conspiracy to violate internal revenue laws were sustained by evidence. Lawn v. U.S., U.S.N.Y.1958, 78 S.Ct. 311, 355 U.S. 339, 2 L.Ed.2d 321, rehearing denied 78 S.Ct. 529, 355 U.S. 967, 2 L.Ed.2d 532, rehearing denied 78 S.Ct. 529, 355 U.S. 967, 2 L.Ed.2d 542. Conspiracy ↪ 47(9)

To convict a defendant of a Klein conspiracy to defraud the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) in the function of assessing and collecting taxes, the government must show the existence of an agreement to defraud the IRS and an overt act by one of the conspirators in furtherance of the agreement's objectives. U.S. v. Fletcher, C.A.8 (Ark.) 2003, 322 F.3d 508. Conspiracy ↪ 33(7)

Convictions for conspiracy to defraud United States were supported by evidence that defendants were associate members of organization created and designed to put Internal Revenue Service (IRS) out of business by having its members falsify documents and refuse to pay taxes, and that, as associate members, defendants were responsible for recruiting new members and assisting them in avoiding paying taxes. U.S. v. Clark, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1998, 139 F.3d 485, certiorari denied 119 S.Ct. 227, 525 U.S. 899, 142 L.Ed.2d 187, rehearing denied 119 S.Ct. 858, 525 U.S. 1095, 142 L.Ed.2d 711. Conspiracy ↪ 47(9)

Conviction of owner of fuel retail outlet for conspiracy to evade federal fuel excise taxes was supported by evidence that owner was fully aware that fuel distributor was dummy corporation that had been set up by codefendant for purpose of tax evasion scheme, and that owner participated in scheme by having supplier make invoices to convenience store in name of distributor, making payments to distributor's suppliers and creditors for fuel delivered, and writing checks in distributor's name. U.S. v. Tanios, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1996, 82 F.3d 98, rehearing denied. Conspiracy ↪ 47(9)

Evidence established nightclub doorman's knowing participation in tax fraud conspiracy that arose out of nightclub owner's acceptance of credit card payment for prostitution; doorman instituted process of accepting credit cards, was present when procedure was initially explained, accepted payments in cash or credit cards from waitresses and doormen, placed those payments in club's office, rather than cash register, once received portion of proceeds, knew of undercover agent's checks which were made payable to cash and which were given to owner, and asked agent to explain to owner money laundering process to aid in evasion of taxes. U.S. v. Marren, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1989, 890 F.2d 924. Conspiracy ↪ 47(9)

Defendant's conviction for conspiracy to defraud the United States was sustained by evidence that he devised tax shelter scheme and knew that various entities taking part in the scheme did not have enough cash to pay advance minimum royalties which gave rise to claimed deductions, that defendant employed a "check cycle" arrangement to generate deductions which lacked economic substance, and that defendant agreed with another to undertake the objectives of the scheme. U.S. v. Crooks, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1986, 804 F.2d 1441, modified on denial of rehearing 826 F.2d 4. Conspiracy ↪ 47(6)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Conviction of conspiracy to file false tax returns and/or obstruct justice was supported by sufficient evidence, including evidence that several of defendant's subordinates engaged in continuing and agreed-upon course of conduct amounting to conspiracy to file false returns and obstruct justice and proof that defendant exerted close scrutiny over his personal affairs and was aware of information contained in his tax returns. U.S. v. Sun Myung Moon, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1983, 718 F.2d 1210, certiorari denied 104 S.Ct. 2344, 466 U.S. 971, 80 L.Ed.2d 818. Conspiracy ↻ 47(9); Conspiracy ↻ 47(13)

In prosecution for conspiracy to use mails in furtherance of a scheme to defraud and conspiracy to defraud the United States by obstructing the Internal Revenue Service, evidence sustained finding of one overall conspiracy as alleged in indictment, rather than a number of minor conspiracies. U. S. v. Fitzgerald, C.A.7 (Ind.) 1978, 579 F.2d 1014, certiorari denied 99 S.Ct. 610, 439 U.S. 1002, 58 L.Ed.2d 677, certiorari denied 99 S.Ct. 611, 439 U.S. 1002, 58 L.Ed.2d 677. Conspiracy ↻ 47(5); Conspiracy ↻ 47(6)

Where government's evidence, direct and circumstantial, as to existence of conspiracy was ample, even slight evidence connecting particular defendant to conspiracy could be substantial and therefore sufficient proof of such defendant's involvement in the scheme, and evidence was sufficient to show involvement in conspiracy covering, inter alia, making of destructive devices without paying tax required. U. S. v. Baumgarten, C.A.8 (Mo.) 1975, 517 F.2d 1020, certiorari denied 96 S.Ct. 152, 423 U.S. 878, 46 L.Ed.2d 111. Conspiracy ↻ 47(2)

Evidence, viewed in light most favorable to prosecution, was sufficient to withstand defendants' motion for their acquittal on five-count indictment charging them with conspiracy, attempted evasion of federal estate taxes, and making false statements to internal revenue agents. U.S. v. DeNiro, C.A.6 (Ohio) 1968, 392 F.2d 753, certiorari denied 89 S.Ct. 89, 393 U.S. 826, 21 L.Ed.2d 97. Conspiracy ↻ 48.1(2.1); Fraud ↻ 69(5); Internal Revenue ↻ 5311.1

Evidence that labor union officer was being investigated by Internal Revenue Service, that information dealing with such investigation was taken from files of Intelligence Division of Service and turned over to such union officer's assistant, who went to Washington on officer's behalf in respect to such investigation, and evidence that papers turned over to assistant by Internal Revenue Service employee were found in union officer's desk made case for jury in prosecution for conspiracy. U. S. v. Gosser, C.A.6 (Ohio) 1964, 339 F.2d 102, certiorari denied 86 S.Ct. 44, 382 U.S. 819, 15 L.Ed.2d 65, rehearing denied 86 S.Ct. 309, 382 U.S. 933, 15 L.Ed.2d 345, certiorari denied 86 S.Ct. 44, 382 U.S. 819, 15 L.Ed.2d 66, rehearing denied 86 S.Ct. 285, 382 U.S. 922, 15 L.Ed.2d 237. Conspiracy ↻ 48.2(2)

Evidence sustained conviction for conspiracy to violate various sections of Internal Revenue Laws. McDuffie v. U. S., C.A.5 (Ga.) 1962, 303 F.2d 830. Conspiracy ↻ 47(9)

In prosecution for violations of § 7201 of Title 26 and for conspiracy, evidence was sufficient to sustain trial judge's finding on defendants' motion to dismiss at conclusion of government's case that nothing in record suggested any use of illegal clues. U.S. v. Giglio, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1956, 232 F.2d 589, certiorari granted 77 S.Ct. 91, 352 U.S. 865, 1 L.Ed.2d 74, affirmed 78 S.Ct. 311, 355 U.S. 339, 2 L.Ed.2d 321, rehearing denied 78 S.Ct. 529, 355 U.S. 967, 2 L.Ed.2d 532, rehearing denied 78 S.Ct. 529, 355 U.S. 967, 2 L.Ed.2d 542. Conspiracy ↻ 48.1(2.1); Internal Revenue ↻ 5311.1

Evidence was sufficient to sustain convictions for violations of § 7201 of Title 26 and for conspiracy. U.S. v. Giglio, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1956, 232 F.2d 589, certiorari granted 77 S.Ct. 91, 352 U.S. 865, 1 L.Ed.2d 74, affirmed 78 S.Ct. 311, 355 U.S. 339, 2 L.Ed.2d 321, rehearing denied 78 S.Ct. 529, 355 U.S. 967, 2 L.Ed.2d 532, rehearing denied 78 S.Ct. 529, 355 U.S. 967, 2 L.Ed.2d 542. Internal Revenue ↻ 5295

Evidence, although circumstantial, was sufficient to sustain conviction for conspiracy to violate and for violation of internal revenue laws. Stiles v. U. S., C.A.6 (Ky.) 1954, 216 F.2d 612. Conspiracy ↻ 47(9); Internal Revenue

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

☞ 5295

Evidence was sufficient to support conviction of corporation and its president for conspiracy to defraud United States by obstructing proper functions of Internal Revenue Bureau in ascertaining, levying, assessing and collecting taxes and penalties. Benatar v. U.S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1954, 209 F.2d 734, certiorari denied 74 S.Ct. 786, 347 U.S. 974, 98 L.Ed. 1114. Conspiracy ☞ 47(9)

In prosecution of corporation and its president for conspiracy to defraud Government by obstructing proper functions of Internal Revenue Bureau in ascertaining, levying, assessing and collecting taxes and penalties, evidence was sufficient to establish defendants' conspiracy to pay withholding and employment taxes, without payment or addition of accrued penalties and interest, through defendant president's signature of tax abatement claim based on back dated request for extension of time to pay such taxes. Benatar v. U.S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1954, 209 F.2d 734, certiorari denied 74 S.Ct. 786, 347 U.S. 974, 98 L.Ed. 1114. Conspiracy ☞ 47(9)

Evidence sustained conviction of defendants on one count of conspiracy to defraud the United States and on eighteen counts for violations of §§ 145(b) and 2707(c) of Title 26. Kobey v. U.S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1953, 208 F.2d 583. Conspiracy ☞ 47(9); Internal Revenue ☞ 5299

Evidence sustained conviction of conspiracy to violate the internal revenue laws, as against contention that the government, although it had charged a general conspiracy, had proved at best several separate ones. Thomas v. U.S., C.C.A.5 (Ala.) 1948, 168 F.2d 707. Conspiracy ☞ 47(9)

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate internal revenue laws, evidence was sufficient to connect defendant with conspiracy. White v. U.S., C.C.A.4 (Va.) 1935, 80 F.2d 515. Conspiracy ☞ 47(9)

Evidence sustained conviction of conspiracy to violate internal revenue laws. Borgia v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1935, 78 F.2d 550, certiorari denied 56 S.Ct. 135, 296 U.S. 615, 80 L.Ed. 436. Conspiracy ☞ 47(9)

Evidence of multiple conspiracies between defendants' employer and individual customers of employer to defraud United States by concealing customer's taxable income with aid of rebate program operated by employer was insufficient to establish single conspiracy between defendants and multiple customers, as charged in indictment against defendants, absent evidence of interdependence among customers. U.S. v. Pappathanasi, D.Mass.2005, 383 F.Supp.2d 289. Conspiracy ☞ 43(12)

In prosecution for conspiracy to file fraudulent tax returns and other offenses, evidence supported finding that "tax parks" whereby limited partnership would purport to "sell" various securities at their current market rate to cooperating brokerage house which, pursuant to prearranged agreement, would hold securities for period of time and sell it back to partnership for the same price plus small administrative fee--were sham transactions intended to defraud Government by allowing partnership to realize loss on securities for income tax purposes while in reality continuing to own them, not bona fide sales or transfers. U.S. v. Regan, S.D.N.Y.1989, 726 F.Supp. 447, affirmed in part, vacated in part on other grounds 937 F.2d 823, amended on other grounds 946 F.2d 188, certiorari denied 112 S.Ct. 2273, 504 U.S. 940, 119 L.Ed.2d 200. Internal Revenue ☞ 5303

779. ---- Income tax, tax offenses, sufficiency of evidence

Defendant's guilty plea to offense of conspiracy to defraud the United States by impeding the assessment and collection of income tax was not rendered invalid by fact that Internal Revenue Service (IRS) calculated defendant's actual tax liability using prior version of applicable tax code provision, where conspiracy offense was based on the avoidance of the tax liability that defendant and his coconspirators believed or feared would apply, not on the tax liability that was ultimately assessed. U.S. v. Tucker, C.A.8 (Ark.) 2005, 419 F.3d 719, rehearing and rehearing en banc denied, certiorari denied 126 S.Ct. 1583, 164 L.Ed.2d 301. Criminal Law ☞ 273.1(4)

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Defendants' convictions for conspiracy to defraud United States by obstructing collection of income taxes was supported by evidence that defendants participated in scheme in which taxpayers were told to make bankruptcy filings causing Internal Revenue Service (IRS) to release its levy when automatic stay arose, that taxpayers were asked to sign backdated promissory note which established "sham" debt that was large enough so that taxpayers' income would be largely absorbed, and that this indebtedness was shown on bankruptcy forms. U.S. v. Huebner, C.A.9 (Nev.) 1994, 48 F.3d 376, certiorari denied 116 S.Ct. 71, 516 U.S. 816, 133 L.Ed.2d 31. Conspiracy 47(9)

Evidence supported defendant's conviction for conspiring to defraud United States by interfering with functions of Internal Revenue Service (IRS) in collection of income tax, notwithstanding defendant's contention that he was unaware of illegal nature of bingo game allegedly sponsored by church and believed that operation was tax-exempt because of such sponsorship; defendant was paid in cash and paid other employees he hired in cash, and IRS agent's testimony indicated that defendant, rather than functioning as mere employee, may in fact have been responsible for filing tax forms on behalf of employees he hired and providing them with W-2 forms. U.S. v. Cyprian, C.A.7 (Ind.) 1994, 23 F.3d 1189, certiorari denied 115 S.Ct. 211, 513 U.S. 879, 130 L.Ed.2d 139. Conspiracy 47(9)

Substantial evidence supported convictions for conspiracy to defraud government and for aiding and assisting tax fraud; defendant participated in tax preparation organization that would prepare returns claiming sufficient deductions to entitle taxpayer to refund of approximately 75% of tax that had been withheld, even though most of deductions were fraudulent without any supporting documentation. U.S. v. Moore, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1993, 997 F.2d 55, rehearing denied. Conspiracy 47(9); Internal Revenue 5304

Evidence was sufficient to support defendants' convictions for conspiracy to aid and assist in preparation of false tax returns; there was evidence that defendants worked together in forming companies involved in installing energy management systems used in tax shelter program, they travelled together promoting the program and worked together on day to day operations of each company, both were apparently present at meeting in which discussions occurred regarding agreement to take an electrically powered energy management system unit, without consent of investor, convert it to solar power and sell it to solar power investor, a sale which would aid and assist in false preparation of tax returns because it was preformed with expectation that investors would rely on erroneous belief of ownership in filing returns, and there was evidence of numerous overt acts taken in furtherance of agreement. U.S. v. Coveney, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1993, 995 F.2d 578, rehearing denied. Conspiracy 47(9)

Evidence supported conviction for tax fraud, even though defendant claimed he was innocent employee performing only accounting responsibilities who had not knowingly committed fraud; defendant had accompanied chief financial officer and chief executive officer of corporation on several projects in which transactions designed to violate securities law were entered into and in the course of his functions he would know or should have known about these and other transactions. U.S. v. Dale, C.A.D.C.1993, 991 F.2d 819, 301 U.S.App.D.C. 110, rehearing denied, certiorari denied 114 S.Ct. 286, 510 U.S. 906, 126 L.Ed.2d 236, certiorari denied 114 S.Ct. 650, 510 U.S. 1030, 126 L.Ed.2d 607. Internal Revenue 5300

Sufficient evidence supported convictions for conspiracy to defraud United States by impeding functions of Internal Revenue Service (IRS), by laundering codefendant's drug money, thereby conspiring to prevent IRS from collecting income taxes on it; evidence showed that codefendant sent one conspirator money orders which were ultimately deposited in codefendant's business account set up in name of band financed by codefendant, and that codefendant was actual owner of nightclub, but that one conspirator voluntarily participated in scheme and other coconspirator conducted business as nominal owner in attempt to hide codefendant's use of drug proceeds to run club. U.S. v. Hernandez, C.A.11 (Fla.) 1991, 921 F.2d 1569, certiorari denied 111 S.Ct. 2271, 500 U.S. 958, 114 L.Ed.2d 722. Conspiracy 47(6); Conspiracy 47(9)

Determination that defendant conspired to impede IRS in ascertaining third party's taxable income was supported by sufficient evidence showing that defendant allowed third party to put property he owned in her name, filed false tax return claiming third party's income as her own and used third party's money to purchase car in her name. U.S. v. Beverly, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1990, 913 F.2d 337, certiorari denied 111 S.Ct. 766, 498 U.S. 1052, 112 L.Ed.2d 786, certiorari granted 111 S.Ct. 951, 498 U.S. 1082, 112 L.Ed.2d 1039, affirmed 112 S.Ct. 466, 502 U.S. 46, 116 L.Ed.2d 371, rehearing denied 112 S.Ct. 1253, 502 U.S. 1125, 117 L.Ed.2d 484, dismissal of habeas corpus affirmed 972 F.2d 351, post-conviction relief denied, habeas corpus granted in part. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(9)

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Evidence of inaccurate and false tax returns, indications of tax evasion, and continuous concealment in deceitful way provided sufficient basis for conviction for conspiracy to impede the Internal Revenue Service in the ascertainment, computation and collection of federal income taxes, in prosecution arising out of defendant's failure to include bribe money on federal income tax returns. U.S. v. Vogt, C.A.4 (N.C.) 1990, 910 F.2d 1184, rehearing denied, certiorari denied 111 S.Ct. 955, 498 U.S. 1083, 112 L.Ed.2d 1043, dismissal of habeas corpus affirmed 17 F.3d 1435, certiorari denied 114 S.Ct. 1648, 511 U.S. 1071, 128 L.Ed.2d 367. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(9)

One defendant's uncorroborated testimony that he had saved up to $75,000 in cash in box in closet from sale of bowling alley did not preclude Government from establishing defendants' guilt of conspiracy to defraud Government in tax evasion based on bank deposits method of proof; defendant ran expanding furniture business and had history of purchasing expensive items such as boats and cars, and building home additions, with cash, and divorce property settlement and prenuptial agreement between defendants prior to marriage did not disclose cash on hand. U.S. v. Ludwig, C.A.7 (Wis.) 1990, 897 F.2d 875. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(6)

Conviction for conspiring to defraud United States was supported by evidence that defendant's wife and mother-in-law gave him ten bearer bonds rather than including them in his deceased father-in-law's estate, and defendant hid bonds, turned them over to coconspirator for liquidation in manner intended to conceal their connection with himself and with estate. U.S. v. Hooks, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1988, 848 F.2d 785. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(6)

Evidence that defendant, as organizer and director, participated in undertaking with numerous "volunteers" for purpose of preparing and filing fraudulent tax returns, and that defendant instructed "volunteers" on methodology for defeating requirement that statutorily assessed tax on income be paid, was sufficient to sustain conviction for conspiracy to aid and assist in preparation of false tax returns and refund claims. U.S. v. Martin, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1986, 790 F.2d 1215, certiorari denied 107 S.Ct. 231, 479 U.S. 868, 93 L.Ed.2d 157. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(9)

Evidence supported conspiracy convictions of codefendants for willfully acting with defendant and with each other to assist defendant in avoiding his tax liability, as there was proof that, as to first codefendant, he coached a witness about dates important to back dated title to automobile and encouraged another acquaintance to lie about defendant's ownership of pleasure boat, while as to second codefendant, there was proof that he made false claims of ownership of automobile to both Internal Revenue Service agent and grand jury and that he followed defendant's instructions and related to grand jury lies that defendant counseled him to tell. U.S. v. Lamp, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1986, 779 F.2d 1088, certiorari denied 106 S.Ct. 2255, 476 U.S. 1144, 90 L.Ed.2d 700, certiorari denied 106 S.Ct. 3283, 477 U.S. 908, 91 L.Ed.2d 572. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(9)

Evidence was sufficient to sustain conviction for conspiring to defraud the Internal Revenue Service by laundering funds from sale of narcotics based on testimony that defendant advocated that coconspirators pay income taxes only on funds labeled as "consulting fees," a small portion of their drug smuggling proceeds, and testimony that scheme was created to make it as confusing as possible for IRS to unravel scheme. U.S. v. Moran, C.A.9 (Wash.) 1985, 759 F.2d 777, certiorari denied 106 S.Ct. 885, 474 U.S. 1102, 88 L.Ed.2d 920. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(9)

Evidence was sufficient to support defendant's convictions for conspiring to defraud United States in ascertainment, computation, and collection of income and employment taxes as well as other tax violations. U.S. v. Carrodegua, C.A.11 (Fla.) 1984, 747 F.2d 1390, certiorari denied 106 S.Ct. 60, 474 U.S. 816, 88 L.Ed.2d 49. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(9)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Evidence in prosecution for conspiracy to violate and violation of tax laws of United States, including evidence that defendants inflated purchase price of films and income therefrom in order to maximize depreciation costs and investment credit of limited partnerships of which they were general partners, was sufficient to support conviction. U.S. v. Barshov, C.A.11 (Fla.) 1984, 733 F.2d 842, certiorari denied 105 S.Ct. 904, 469 U.S. 1158, 83 L.Ed.2d 919. Conspiracy ↻ 47(9); Internal Revenue ↻ 5303

In prosecution for conspiracy to defraud United States by impairing, obstructing, and defeating Internal Revenue Service, substantial evidence supported finding that defendant knowingly participated in conspiracy with dual, complementary objectives of laundering money to disguise source of illegal income from marijuana importation and, through money laundering scheme, to impair identification of revenue and collection of tax due and owing federal government on such revenue. U.S. v. Browning, C.A.11 (Fla.) 1984, 723 F.2d 1544. Conspiracy ↻ 47(9)

Evidence was sufficient to support conviction of traders who arranged transactions in Mexican peso futures contracts for conspiracy to defraud by impairing collection of income taxes, aiding preparation of fraudulent income tax returns and entering into fixed and uncompetitive commodity futures contracts where trades involved in "tax straddle" were prearranged trades. U. S. v. Winograd, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1981, 656 F.2d 279, certiorari denied 102 S.Ct. 1612, 455 U.S. 989, 71 L.Ed.2d 848. Conspiracy ↻ 47(4)

Although defendants, indicted for conspiring to defraud the United States by impeding Internal Revenue Service in computation and collection of income taxes, argued that object of complicated money "laundering" scheme whereby proceeds of cocaine sales were taken from United States to a corporation in Grand Cayman Islands and then returned in form of fictitious loans to American corporations, was only to disguise the source of income, evidence revealed that at least one of the objects, if not the only object, was to impede assessment of taxes, especially in view of evidence of different ways of evading taxes and reporting proceeds in the wrong tax year. U. S. v. Enstam, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1980, 622 F.2d 857, certiorari denied 101 S.Ct. 1351, 450 U.S. 912, 67 L.Ed.2d 336, certiorari denied 101 S.Ct. 1974, 451 U.S. 907, 68 L.Ed.2d 294. Conspiracy ↻ 47(9)

Evidence sustained conviction for conspiracy to take fraudulent deductions on corporate income tax returns. U.S. v. Haskell, C.A.2 (Conn.) 1964, 327 F.2d 281, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 1351, 377 U.S. 945, 12 L.Ed.2d 307. Conspiracy ↻ 47(6)

In prosecution for conspiracy to evade income taxes by a corporation of which defendants were majority stockholders, evidence justified a finding that there was one continuing general conspiracy to defraud the government of taxes due from the defendant and the corporation. U.S. v. Keenan, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1959, 267 F.2d 118, certiorari denied 80 S.Ct. 121, 361 U.S. 863, 4 L.Ed.2d 104, rehearing denied 80 S.Ct. 254, 361 U.S. 921, 4 L.Ed.2d 189. Conspiracy ↻ 47(9)

Evidence sustained conviction for conspiracy to obstruct Treasury Department in collection of income taxes. U.S. v. Klein, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1957, 247 F.2d 908, certiorari denied 78 S.Ct. 365, 355 U.S. 924, 2 L.Ed.2d 354. Conspiracy ↻ 47(9)

In prosecution for conspiracy to defraud the United States by impeding, impairing, obstructing and defeating the lawful functions of Treasury Department in collection of income taxes, evidence supported broad allegations made in support of the conspiracy count. U.S. v. Klein, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1957, 247 F.2d 908, certiorari denied 78 S.Ct. 365, 355 U.S. 924, 2 L.Ed.2d 354. Conspiracy ↻ 47(9)

Where, in prosecution for conspiring to attempt willfully to evade and defeat income taxes due United States by third parties, evidence tended to disclose conspiracy between defendant and unindicted accountant for the taxpayers, acquittal of codefendant Internal Revenue agent was not inconsistent with defendant's conviction. U.S. v. Gordon, C.A.3 (Pa.) 1957, 242 F.2d 122, certiorari denied 77 S.Ct. 1378, 354 U.S. 921, 1 L.Ed.2d 1436. Conspiracy ↻ 24(8)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Evidence was sufficient to sustain conviction for conspiring to attempt willfully to evade and defeat income taxes due the United States by third parties. U.S. v. Gordon, C.A.3 (Pa.) 1957, 242 F.2d 122, certiorari denied 77 S.Ct. 1378, 354 U.S. 921, 1 L.Ed.2d 1436. Conspiracy ↻ 47(9)

Evidence that, through carelessness, corporate records were lost at a time when they were being requested by revenue agents, supported inference that the information contained therein would be harmful to defendants charged with attempting to evade and conspiring to evade income and excess profits taxes in connection with corporation controlled by defendants, which inference, together with other evidence justified submission of case to jury. Yoffe v. U.S., C.C.A.1 (Mass.) 1946, 153 F.2d 570. Conspiracy ↻ 48.1(2.1); Criminal Law ↻ 318; Internal Revenue ↻ 5313

In prosecution for willfully attempting to evade payment of income taxes and for conspiracy to do so, evidence showed that difference between amounts reported as income and much larger amount actually received was taxable income. Maxfield v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Nev.) 1945, 152 F.2d 593, certiorari denied 66 S.Ct. 821, 327 U.S. 794, 90 L.Ed. 1021. Conspiracy ↻ 47(9); Internal Revenue ↻ 5302

Evidence sustained conviction of conspiracy to willfully attempt to evade payment of income taxes. Maxfield v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Nev.) 1945, 152 F.2d 593, certiorari denied 66 S.Ct. 821, 327 U.S. 794, 90 L.Ed. 1021. Conspiracy ↻ 47(9)

In prosecution of partners for conspiracy to evade income taxes, evidence that a double set of books was kept, that partners based their individual returns on set showing the least income, that one partner, who was single, owned half the business and that other two partners, who were married, owned one-fourth each, but that returns were made as though each owned a third so that personal exemptions for married partners covered income on which single partner would otherwise have had to pay taxes, authorized conviction. Shinyu Noro v. U.S., C.C.A.5 (Fla.) 1945, 148 F.2d 696, certiorari denied 66 S.Ct. 25, 326 U.S. 720, 90 L.Ed. 426. Conspiracy ↻ 47(9)

Evidence that accused derived large revenue from sales of illicit beer and filed false return sustained conviction for conspiracies and attempts to defraud income tax. U.S. v. Wexler, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1935, 79 F.2d 526, certiorari denied 56 S.Ct. 384, 297 U.S. 703, 80 L.Ed. 991. Internal Revenue ↻ 5303

Evidence proved that defendant corporate officers filed or caused false income and excess profits tax returns to be filed. Cooper v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Iowa) 1925, 9 F.2d 216. Conspiracy ↻ 47(9)

Evidence proved overt act of subscribing and swearing to false tax returns. Cooper v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Iowa) 1925, 9 F.2d 216.

Facts warranted inference that defendants had knowledge of contents of false tax returns. Cooper v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Iowa) 1925, 9 F.2d 216. Conspiracy ↻ 47(9)

Fact that taxpayer overpaid his taxes and ultimately received refund did not bar his conviction for conspiracy to defraud Internal Revenue Service (IRS), where taxpayer, to avoid declaring income of partnership, caused $150,000 to be paid to company controlled by co-conspirator for non-existent services, and company then treated money as loan and re-paid it directly to taxpayer free of income tax. U.S. v. Adler, S.D.N.Y.2003, 274 F.Supp.2d 583. Conspiracy ↻ 33(7)

In prosecution for conspiracy to defraud United States by impeding, impairing, obstructing and defeating collection of income taxes, evidence was sufficient to take to jury question whether defendants' conduct in designating and reporting certain payments among and by members of liquor importation syndicate constituted a concealment of nature and source of income designed to impede collection of revenue. U.S. v. Klein, S.D.N.Y.1955, 139 F.Supp. 135. Conspiracy ↻ 48.1(3)

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Evidence in prosecution for conspiracy to defraud the United States, including numerous rent checks made out to, and endorsed by, defendant, tax returns signed by defendant that did not report the income that had been deposited into his personal accounts, and a loan application signed by defendant that reported the monthly income generated by the corporations in which defendant was a partner to be substantially higher than the amounts reported on the tax returns that he signed for the corporations, was sufficient to sustain conviction. U.S. v. Rhodis, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 2003, 58 Fed.Appx. 855, 2003 WL 151254, Unreported. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(6)

780. ---- Distilled spirits, tax offenses, sufficiency of evidence

In prosecution for conspiring to deal unlawfully in alcohol, evidence associating defendant with other defendants engaged surreptitiously in illegal selling of unstamped alcohol was sufficient to support conviction of defendant. Delli Paoli v. U.S., U.S.N.Y.1957, 77 S.Ct. 294, 352 U.S. 232, 1 L.Ed.2d 278. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(10)

Evidence supported conviction of defendant, who had assisted in dismantling overload springs about a month before vehicle was used to carry nontax-paid whiskey and who carried substitute Tennessee plates for that vehicle, which bore Ohio plates, in his own vehicle and paid garage charges for the whiskey carrying vehicle at service station, for conspiring to possess and transport nontax-paid whiskey. U. S. v. Webb, C.A.6 (Ky.) 1966, 359 F.2d 558, certiorari denied 87 S.Ct. 55, 385 U.S. 824, 17 L.Ed.2d 61. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(9)

Evidence sustained conviction of defendants of conspiracy to operate a business selling nontax-paid whiskey. U. S. v. Anderson, C.A.6 (Tenn.) 1965, 352 F.2d 500, certiorari denied 86 S.Ct. 1576, 384 U.S. 955, 16 L.Ed.2d 550. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(9)

Evidence did not sustain finding that landlord of building, allegedly used for carrying on business of unlawful distiller of spirits, knew of conspiracy. U. S. v. Nardiello, C.A.3 (N.J.) 1962, 303 F.2d 876. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(9)

Evidence was sufficient to sustain convictions for conspiracy to violate the alcohol tax laws of the United States, and for substantive violations of such laws. U. S. v. Verra, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1962, 301 F.2d 381. See, also, U.S. v. Baker, C.A.Va.1960, 284 F.2d 341; Ritter v. U.S., C.A.Okl.1956, 230 F.2d 324. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(9); Internal Revenue ⚡ 5307

Evidence was insufficient to sustain conviction for conspiring to violate Internal Revenue Laws dealing with distilled spirits. U. S. v. Barnes, C.A.6 (Tenn.) 1962, 299 F.2d 844. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(9)

Evidence was ample to show that one defendant was owner of speakeasy selling alcohol on which taxes had not been paid and that other defendant was his chief lieutenant and that they were engaged in single conspiracy to violate §§ 5121, 5205, 5604, 5691 of Title 26 [I.R.C.1954] dealing with taxes on distilled spirits. U. S. v. Brown, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1962, 297 F.2d 828. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(9)

Evidence in prosecution for conspiracy to violate liquor tax laws sustained convictions of two defendants, but did not sustain convictions of three other defendants. Knight v. U. S., C.A.5 (Ga.) 1962, 297 F.2d 675, certiorari denied 82 S.Ct. 1565, 370 U.S. 923, 8 L.Ed.2d 503. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(9)

Evidence in prosecution for conspiracy to violate internal revenue laws relating to distilled spirits would support finding that defendant was properly identified as person involved. U. S. v. Cherry, C.A.4 (N.C.) 1961, 295 F.2d 842. Criminal Law ⚡ 566

Evidence sustained conviction for conspiracy to violate the internal revenue code relating to whiskey. Tenpenny v. U.S., C.A.6 (Tenn.) 1960, 285 F.2d 213. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(9)

Evidence was sufficient to sustain convictions for conspiring to defraud United States and to commit certain

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

offenses against laws of United States by violating certain sections of Internal Revenue Code pertaining to illicit, unlawful and fraudulent manufacture, possession, transportation, distribution, removal and concealment of nontax-paid distilled spirits and in making false, fictitious and fraudulent reports. Ellijay Feed & Supply Co. v. U.S., C.A.5 (Ga.) 1960, 277 F.2d 791. Conspiracy ↻ 47(9)

In prosecution for conspiring to violate Title 26 in connection with operation of unlicensed still wherein there was evidence that one of defendants, who was a partner in a produce business dealing primarily in fresh fruits and vegetables and only occasionally in buying sugar, arranged for purchase from wholesale company of large quantities of sugar which was paid for in cash and handled separately from partnership account and picked up in an unmarked truck and delivered to site of still, evidence was sufficient for jury to have found that such defendant was a participant in the conspiracy. United States v. Piampiano, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1959, 271 F.2d 273. Conspiracy ↻ 47(10)

Evidence sustained conviction for conspiracy to carry on business of retail liquor dealers without payment of special tax as required by law. Davis v. U. S., C.A.6 (Ky.) 1958, 253 F.2d 24. Conspiracy ↻ 47(10)

Evidence including showing that defendant had agreed with other more active conspirators, that if they would make liquor and haul it he would sell substantial quantities of it, was sufficient to make him a conspirator charged with unlawful engaging in business of distilling spirituous liquors, unlawfully possessing, transporting, consuming and selling distilled nontax-paid spirits and carrying on business of wholesale liquor dealers in spirituous liquors without paying required tax. Dean v. U.S., C.A.5 (Ga.) 1958, 251 F.2d 339. Conspiracy ↻ 47(9)

In prosecution of police officers, liquor dealers and others for conspiring to violate laws of United States by importing intoxicating liquors into dry state of Oklahoma, evidence was sufficient to establish existence of a conspiracy to violate federal laws. Jones v. U. S., C.A.10 (Okla.) 1958, 251 F.2d 288, certiorari denied 78 S.Ct. 703, 356 U.S. 919, 2 L.Ed.2d 715. Conspiracy ↻ 47(10)

In prosecutions for conspiring to commit various offenses defined in federal liquor laws, evidence was sufficient to withstand defendants' motions for judgments of acquittal. Quirk v. U. S., C.A.1 (Mass.) 1957, 250 F.2d 909, certiorari denied 78 S.Ct. 669, 356 U.S. 913, 2 L.Ed.2d 585. Conspiracy ↻ 48.1(4)

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate internal revenue laws by conducting illicit liquor business, wherein defendants contended that five separate and distinct conspiracies were shown by evidence and that there was a fatal variance between the indictment and proof, evidence would sustain finding that there had been a single conspiracy, continuous in operation, and singular in character, and would sustain conviction for offense charged. Dowling v. U. S., C.A.5 (Ga.) 1957, 249 F.2d 746. Conspiracy ↻ 47(9)

Where woman, pursuant to agreement with defendant, took telephone orders for whiskey at her residence and transmitted orders to defendant, who had paid required federal tax as retail liquor dealer, at his home, and if defendant determined that orders should be filled he sent whiskey to addresses of customers and collected from customers, business of retail liquor dealer was not carried on at woman's residence, and therefore defendant was not guilty of conspiracy to engage in business as retail liquor dealer without paying tax. Carlson v. U.S., C.A.10 (Okla.) 1957, 249 F.2d 85. Conspiracy ↻ 33(7)

Convictions for conspiracy to violate, and for violations of internal revenue laws pertaining to nontaxpaid, distilled spirits, were sustained by evidence. Dryden v. U.S., C.A.5 (Ga.) 1957, 241 F.2d 328. Conspiracy ↻ 47(9); Internal Revenue ↻ 5307

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate Internal Revenue Code sections proscribing activities connected with distilling of non-taxpaid whiskey, evidence sustained conviction of defendant, a county sheriff, who claimed to have entered into illegal activities merely to enable him to arrest persons behind them. Henderson v. U.S., C.A.5

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

(Fla.) 1956, 237 F.2d 169. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(9)

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate the Internal Revenue Laws, evidence sustained conviction as to state enforcement officer furnishing protection, as to the defendant who backed it with money, as to defendant still operator and general factotum, as to the police officer who collected toll in exchange for warning the conspirators of the presence and activities of enforcement officers, and as to the defendant who claimed not to be a member of the conspiracy but to be a mere seller of whiskey without knowledge thereof and not a supplier or aider and abettor thereof. Duke v. U.S., C.A.5 (Ga.) 1956, 233 F.2d 897. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(9)

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate the Internal Revenue Laws, evidence was insufficient to sustain conviction as to sheriff who engaged in ensnaring persons to commit crimes and as against whom the evidence did not establish that he knew of or was aiding and abetting the conspiracy charged. Duke v. U.S., C.A.5 (Ga.) 1956, 233 F.2d 897. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(9)

Evidence sustained convictions for conspiracy to sell liquor wholesale and retail at residence of third party without a wholesale or retail liquor dealer's tax stamp. Calderon v. United States, C.A.10 (N.M.) 1952, 196 F.2d 554. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(9)

Evidence was insufficient to sustain conviction in middle district of Georgia for conspiring unlawfully to possess, transport and sell untaxed whisky in Georgia. Johns v. U.S., C.A.5 (Ga.) 1952, 195 F.2d 77. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(9)

Evidence sustained conviction of a conspiracy to carry on the business of a wholesale liquor dealer without paying the special taxes required by § 3253 of Title 26. Young v. U. S., C.C.A.10 (Kan.) 1948, 168 F.2d 242. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(9)

Evidence of plan under which distiller's manager for Florida would assign whiskey to distributor in excess of normal allocation in order that salesman might withdraw excess for delivery to preferred retailers sustained conviction of conspiracy to carry on business of wholesale liquor dealer without payment of tax under § 3253 of Title 26, and related offenses. Johnson v. U.S., C.C.A.5 (Fla.) 1948, 167 F.2d 339. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(9); Internal Revenue ⚡ 5307

Evidence authorized conviction of the conspiracy to conceal commodities to defraud the government of the tax thereon. Pinkerton v. U. S., C.C.A.5 (Ala.) 1945, 151 F.2d 499, certiorari granted 66 S.Ct. 702, 327 U.S. 772, 90 L.Ed. 1002, affirmed 66 S.Ct. 1180, 328 U.S. 640, 90 L.Ed. 1489, rehearing denied 67 S.Ct. 26, 329 U.S. 818, 91 L.Ed. 697. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(9)

Where another had confessed to placing liquor in house without accused's knowledge, evidence that accused was owner of house in a vacant part of which liquor was found, in absence of evidence that liquor was accused's, that he placed it in house, or that it was placed there at his direction or with his knowledge, was insufficient to sustain conviction of a conspiracy to transport, possess, and sell or possess the liquor. Dennert v. U.S., C.C.A.6 (Ky.) 1945, 147 F.2d 286. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(10)

In prosecution for concealing and for conspiracy to conceal distilled spirits and wine with intent to defraud Government of floor stock tax thereon, evidence sustained conviction. Auerbach v. U.S., C.C.A.6 (Tenn.) 1943, 136 F.2d 882. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(9); Internal Revenue ⚡ 5307

Evidence sustained conviction for conspiring to defraud the government of taxes on distilled spirits. U.S. v. Goldstein, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1943, 135 F.2d 359. See, also, U.S. v. Novick, C.C.A.N.Y.1941, 124 F.2d 107, certiorari denied 62 S.Ct. 795, 315 U.S. 813, 86 L.Ed. 1212, rehearing denied 62 S.Ct. 913, 315 U.S. 830, 86 L.Ed. 1224; U.S. v. Gallo, C.C.A.N.Y.1941, 123 F.2d 229. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(9)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Evidence disclosing existence of conspiracy to violate internal revenue laws relating to stills and intoxicating liquors, that defendant's telephone number was unpublished, that he received telephone call from another whose number was also unpublished, that defendant was related by family ties to many of the guilty conspirators, that automobiles and trucks belonging to the conspirators were often parked at his home or garage, and that defendant's automobile was frequently observed parked with automobile belonging to a conspirator, sustained defendant's conviction for a conspiracy to violate the internal revenue laws. U.S. v. Valenti, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1943, 134 F.2d 362, certiorari denied 63 S.Ct. 1317, 319 U.S. 761, 87 L.Ed. 1712, rehearing denied 64 S.Ct. 29, 320 U.S. 809, 88 L.Ed. 489. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(10)

Evidence that accused rented premises adjoining his own to third party who allegedly operated still on the premises, permitted third party to connect electric light wiring to accused's meter, and acted as intermediary for sale of certain land to the third party, was insufficient to sustain conviction for conspiracy to violate internal revenue laws relating to intoxicating liquor. Moss v. U.S., C.C.A.6 (Mich.) 1943, 132 F.2d 875. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(9)

Evidence was insufficient to sustain conviction of one defendant on charges of illegal possession and operation of a distillery. U. S. v. Tuffanelli, C.C.A.7 (Ill.) 1942, 131 F.2d 890, certiorari denied 63 S.Ct. 769, 318 U.S. 772, 87 L.Ed. 1142. Intoxicating Liquors ⚡ 236(6.5); Intoxicating Liquors ⚡ 236(19)

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate federal liquor laws, it was not necessary to establish that the acts of the defendants were pursuant to mutual agreement, but it was enough if the proof showed that two or more persons, in voluntary co-operation, participated in an enterprise which necessarily involved the commission of an indefinite number of substantive offenses. U. S. v. Tuffanelli, C.C.A.7 (Ill.) 1942, 131 F.2d 890, certiorari denied 63 S.Ct. 769, 318 U.S. 772, 87 L.Ed. 1142. Conspiracy ⚡ 24(1); Conspiracy ⚡ 24(3)

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate federal liquor laws, it was not necessary to prove that all the defendants in the indictment had conspired together and it was sufficient to prove that complaining defendant and one other defendant had conspired together to commit substantive crimes alleged. U. S. v. Tuffanelli, C.C.A.7 (Ill.) 1942, 131 F.2d 890, certiorari denied 63 S.Ct. 769, 318 U.S. 772, 87 L.Ed. 1142. Conspiracy ⚡ 43(12)

In prosecution for engaging in conspiracy to violate internal revenue laws relating to intoxicating liquor, if agreement by accused to act in concert with some one to commit substantive crimes charged had been proved, accused's rental of premises where liquor was found would satisfy need for proof of "overt acts" in furtherance of the agreement, but without evidence from which partnership in crime could at least be fairly inferred, accused's acts were required to be treated as hers alone. U S v. Silva, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1942, 131 F.2d 247. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(10)

Evidence did not sustain conviction of illicit operation of still and conspiracy to violate internal revenue laws. Jehl v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1942, 127 F.2d 585. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(9); Internal Revenue ⚡ 5309

In prosecution for engaging in illegal liquor operations and for conspiring to violate §§ 2803, 2810, 2833, and 2834 of Title 26, defendant who was found operating illicit distillery could not contend, as ground for reversal of conviction as to him, that officer was illegally on premises without a search warrant and that evidence offered against him was obtained as the result of an unlawful search, where barn in which officer found defendant was inclosed by a high wire fence, and officer did not go into inclosure until he had smelled mash, had heard men talking, and had actually seen still in operation. Miller v. U.S., C.C.A.5 (Fla.) 1942, 126 F.2d 771, certiorari denied 62 S.Ct. 1289, 316 U.S. 695, 86 L.Ed. 1765, certiorari denied 62 S.Ct. 1290, 316 U.S. 695, 86 L.Ed. 1765. Criminal Law ⚡ 394.4(11)

In prosecution for engaging in illegal liquor operations in violation of §§ 2803, 2810, 2833, and 2834 of Title 26 and for conspiring to violate said sections, evidence regarding the connection of two defendants with the offenses, though wholly circumstantial, was sufficient to sustain the verdict against them. Miller v. U.S., C.C.A.5 (Fla.)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

1942, 126 F.2d 771, certiorari denied 62 S.Ct. 1289, 316 U.S. 695, 86 L.Ed. 1765, certiorari denied 62 S.Ct. 1290, 316 U.S. 695, 86 L.Ed. 1765. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(9); Internal Revenue ⚡ 5307

Evidence did not sustain conviction of secretary of an importing company under counts in indictment charging illegal possession and operation of a distillery, possession and concealment of alcohol on which no tax had been paid, and conspiracy to commit offenses charged. U.S. v. Gallo, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1941, 123 F.2d 229.

Substantial evidence that defendant had engaged in sale of illicit liquors in large quantities permitted jury to infer understanding and concert of action between defendant and distributors or retail sellers of liquors, as basis for conviction of conspiracy to defraud the United States of taxes. Eley v. U. S., C.C.A.6 (Ohio) 1941, 117 F.2d 526. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(9)

As affecting sufficiency of evidence of conspiracy to defraud the United States of taxes on liquors, it is unimportant whether defendant knew all of his fellow conspirators or extent of the conspiracy, and it is sufficient if evidence shows circumstances from which natural inference arises that overt acts were in furtherance of common design, intent and purpose. Eley v. U. S., C.C.A.6 (Ohio) 1941, 117 F.2d 526. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(9)

Where government proved conspiracy to carry on business of distillers with intent to defraud the government of taxes, a conspirator convicted of such conspiracy, under evidence which included proof of overt acts by other conspirators in concealing alcohol to defraud government of tax thereon, could not merely on such evidence be convicted of substantive crime of concealing alcohol to defraud the government of tax thereon, since to permit conviction under such evidence would permit government to convict a conspirator of every substantive offense committed by other conspirators even though conspirator had no part in it, which would result in conviction of a conspirator more than once for same conspiracy and thus place him twice in "jeopardy" for same offense. U.S. v. Sall, C.C.A.3 (N.J.) 1940, 116 F.2d 745. Double Jeopardy ⚡ 151(4)

Evidence that accused was a member of conspiracy to manufacture illicit alcohol, and that in course of conspiracy other conspirators committed crime of concealing alcohol with intent to defraud the government of tax thereon, was sufficient to sustain conviction on conspiracy count, since the gist of such count was the agreement or combination to effect unlawful object of conspiracy, and not the commission of the overt acts which followed. U.S. v. Sall, C.C.A.3 (N.J.) 1940, 116 F.2d 745. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(10)

Guilt of conspiracy to set up a still did not turn upon defendant's motive of merely getting profits from sales of denatured alcohol to distillers. U S v. Pecoraro, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1940, 115 F.2d 245, certiorari denied 61 S.Ct. 611, 312 U.S. 685, 85 L.Ed. 1123. Conspiracy ⚡ 33(7)

Evidence did not authorize conviction of conspiracy to set up a still, in view of failure to identify defendant as person selling products to distillers for purposes of distilling alcohol. U S v. Pecoraro, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1940, 115 F.2d 245, certiorari denied 61 S.Ct. 611, 312 U.S. 685, 85 L.Ed. 1123. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(10)

Evidence connecting accused with transportation of sugar to places of storage near illegally operated still made prima facie case for jury on issue of their participation in conspiracy to commit the substantive crimes of possessing an unregistered still, making and fermenting mash in an illicit distillery, distilling without giving a bond, and possessing distilled spirits in containers without revenue stamps. U.S. v. Pandolfi, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1940, 110 F.2d 736, certiorari denied 60 S.Ct. 1103, 310 U.S. 651, 84 L.Ed. 1416. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.1(4)

Evidence that defendant sold denatured alcohol to operators of still, and did not report sales and thus took an active hand in distillers' business, authorized conviction of conspiracy to set up a still. U.S. v. Pandolfi, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1940, 110 F.2d 736, certiorari denied 60 S.Ct. 1103, 310 U.S. 651, 84 L.Ed. 1416.

Evidence authorized conviction of conspiracy to set up a still, in view of evidence that defendant was allowed to take away all alcohol made at the still. U.S. v. Pandolfi, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1940, 110 F.2d 736, certiorari denied 60 S.Ct. 1103, 310 U.S. 651, 84 L.Ed. 1416.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In prosecution of municipal officers and others for conspiracy and for dealing in non-tax paid whiskey, evidence sustained convictions. Hall v. U.S., C.C.A.10 (Okla.) 1940, 109 F.2d 976. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(9); Internal Revenue ⚡ 5307

Evidence that an accused who was a justice of the peace, and another accused who was a constable, willfully failed to prevent illicit sale of liquor on which tax was not paid and received tribute for not interfering with such sales, and that a third accused was taken into conspiracy so that he might raid roadhouses, impersonating a federal agent, and justify imposition of fines and costs without interfering with other tribute which the justice of the peace and constable received for not enforcing the law did not authorize a conviction for conspiracy to carry on business of retail liquor dealer without payment of tax. Walker v. U.S., C.C.A.4 (W.Va.) 1939, 104 F.2d 465. Conspiracy ⚡ 43(12)

Evidence tending to show that accused, who were charged with conspiring to commit offenses against the United States and doing acts in pursuance of the conspiracy, seized liquor on which tax had not been paid and made use of the liquor for personal benefit of accused would justify jury in finding that conduct of accused amounted to removal or concealment of illicit liquor with intent to defraud the United States of tax. Walker v. U.S., C.C.A.4 (W.Va.) 1939, 104 F.2d 465. Conspiracy ⚡ 43(12)

Evidence was insufficient to sustain conviction of conspiracy to carry on business of distiller with intent to defraud the United States of taxes. Walker v. U.S., C.C.A.4 (W.Va.) 1939, 104 F.2d 465. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(10)

Evidence was insufficient to justify conviction of county sheriff and former sheriff and deputy sheriff for conspiracy to violate laws of the United States relating to manufacture, possession or sale of intoxicating liquor. Wilder v. U.S., C.C.A.10 (Okla.) 1938, 100 F.2d 177. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(9)

In prosecution for conspiracy to import alcohol without paying duties, evidence establishing conspiracy of others and that one accused helped unload alcohol and stored it on his property supported conviction of such accused. Marino v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1937, 91 F.2d 691, certiorari denied 58 S.Ct. 410, 302 U.S. 764, 82 L.Ed. 593. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(3.1)

In prosecution for conspiracy to import alcohol without paying duties, evidence establishing conspiracy of others and that one accused permitted his premises to be used for storage and recanning of alcohol supported conviction of such accused. Marino v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1937, 91 F.2d 691, certiorari denied 58 S.Ct. 410, 302 U.S. 764, 82 L.Ed. 593. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(3.1)

Evidence was sufficient to support conviction of conspiring to fraudulently import merchandise without paying import duties, and to remove and conceal distilled spirits on which revenue taxes were not paid. Snow v. U.S., C.C.A.4 (N.C.) 1928, 28 F.2d 704.

Evidence proved certain defendants parties to conspiracy to defraud the United States of customs duties and internal revenue taxes by fraudulent withdrawal of liquor from bonded warehouse. Becher v. U.S., C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1924, 5 F.2d 45. Conspiracy ⚡ 27

Evidence that employes of the owner of a distillery joined and participated with him in removing from such distillery to a place other than a bonded warehouse spirits on which the internal revenue tax had not been paid, in violation of § 2913 of Title 26, under circumstances from which they must have known the illegal nature of the transactions, was sufficient to sustain an indictment, under former § 88 of this title of both employer and employes, for conspiracy to commit an offense against the United States. U.S. v. Scott, C.C.N.D.Ga.1905, 139 F. 697, affirmed 165 F. 172, 91 C.C.A. 206. Conspiracy ⚡ 28(3)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Evidence established that one of defendants charged with conspiracy to illegally purchase at wholesale intoxicating liquors for resale at defendant club did not have to nor did he enter into any agreement or conspiracy with any other member of his family concerning how liquor was to be purchased for defendant club, but that he told other members of family what was going to be done. U. S. v. Mirror Lake Golf and Country Club, Inc., W.D.Mo.1964, 232 F.Supp. 167. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(9)

That one defendant discussed with another person possibility that certain other parties might get together on their own with respect to buying liquor for resale in club did not establish beyond reasonable doubt that such defendant was guilty of conspiring to illegally purchase liquor for resale. U. S. v. Mirror Lake Golf and Country Club, Inc., W.D.Mo.1964, 232 F.Supp. 167. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(9)

Evidence failed to sustain conviction for conspiracy to illegally purchase distilled spirits at wholesale for resale. U. S. v. Mirror Lake Golf and Country Club, Inc., W.D.Mo.1964, 232 F.Supp. 167. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(9)

Evidence sustained conviction for conspiracy to violate provisions of the Internal Revenue Code respecting distilled spirits by a defendant who furnished the sugar for the illegal purpose and knew that the buyers were parties to a conspiracy to operate an illegal still. U. S. v. Kensil, E.D.Pa.1961, 195 F.Supp. 115, affirmed 295 F.2d 489, certiorari denied 82 S.Ct. 439, 368 U.S. 967, 7 L.Ed.2d 396. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(9)

Evidence authorized conviction for conspiracy to violate the Internal Revenue Laws relating to distilled spirits on ground that defendant not only was a part of the chain of distribution of liquor but that he knew he was a part and was acquainted with a substantial number of the other participants. U. S. v. Kensil, E.D.Pa.1961, 195 F.Supp. 115, affirmed 295 F.2d 489, certiorari denied 82 S.Ct. 439, 368 U.S. 967, 7 L.Ed.2d 396. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(9)

Evidence was insufficient to justify conviction of one defendant for conspiracy to violate the Internal Revenue Laws respecting distilled spirits on the ground that the evidence would not support a finding that she had knowledge of the conspiracy. U. S. v. Kensil, E.D.Pa.1961, 195 F.Supp. 115, affirmed 295 F.2d 489, certiorari denied 82 S.Ct. 439, 368 U.S. 967, 7 L.Ed.2d 396. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(9)

Evidence was insufficient to support conviction for conspiracy to violate the Internal Revenue Laws respecting distilled spirits as to two defendants, where proofs failed to show that either had any connection with containers to which the required federal stamps were not affixed or that either defendant had knowledge of the conspiracy. U. S. v. Kensil, E.D.Pa.1961, 195 F.Supp. 115, affirmed 295 F.2d 489, certiorari denied 82 S.Ct. 439, 368 U.S. 967, 7 L.Ed.2d 396. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(9)

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate Title 26 in conjunction with operation of illicit distillery, as to five of the defendants evidence was sufficient to connect them to conspiracy, as to one defendant evidence was such that an injustice would result from permitting conviction to stand and a new trial would be granted, and as to other defendant evidence was insufficient to sustain conviction and his motion of acquittal would be granted. U. S. v. Markowitz, E.D.Pa.1959, 176 F.Supp. 681. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(9); Conspiracy ⚡ 48.2(2); Criminal Law ⚡ 935(1)

Evidence as to defendant, president and sole owner of realty company selling building to party who used the same for operation of an illegal still, was insufficient to sustain conviction of conspiracy to violate Title 26. U. S. v. Markowitz, E.D.Pa.1959, 176 F.Supp. 681. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(9)

781. ---- Occupational tax, tax offenses, sufficiency of evidence

Evidence sustained conviction for conspiracy to defraud United States by impeding and obstructing ascertainment,

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

computations, assessment and collection of tax imposed by Gambling Tax Act, §§ 4401 and 4411 of Title 26, and § 7201, 7203, 7206(1) and 7262 of Title 26. U.S. v. Sams, C.A.3 (Pa.) 1965, 340 F.2d 1014, certiorari denied 85 S.Ct. 1336, 380 U.S. 974, 14 L.Ed.2d 270, on remand 241 F.Supp. 427. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(7)

Evidence was sufficient to sustain conviction of one of defendants of conspiracy to violate federal wagering tax laws and four substantive offenses, but was insufficient to sustain conviction of other defendant. U. S. v. Magliano, C.A.4 (Md.) 1964, 336 F.2d 817. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(7); Internal Revenue ⚡ 5295

Evidence in prosecution for conspiring to engage in business of accepting wagers without paying the special federal occupational tax failed to establish that defendant, claimed to be a "banker" or to have some other proprietary interest in business of receiving wagers from bettors was liable for the tax. U. S. v. Sette, C.A.2 (Conn.) 1964, 334 F.2d 267. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(7)

In prosecution for engaging in business of accepting wagers as copartners in syndicate and conspiring and attempting to defeat part of excise tax on wagers, evidence permitted jury to conclude that defendants conspired to utilize registration and monthly tax returns of one defendant as front to mask magnitude of operation with plan of evading substantial taxes due. U.S. v. Shaffer, C.A.7 (Ind.) 1961, 291 F.2d 689, certiorari denied 82 S.Ct. 192, 368 U.S. 915, 7 L.Ed.2d 130, rehearing denied 82 S.Ct. 392, 368 U.S. 962, 7 L.Ed.2d 393, certiorari denied 82 S.Ct. 193, 368 U.S. 914, 7 L.Ed.2d 130. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(7)

In prosecution for making a false statement of material fact to government agents, willfully attempting to evade a substantial amount of wagering excise taxes due by licensed wagering business in which defendants were partners and for conspiring to commit an offense against the United States, jury could find from all the evidence that two partners having a proprietary interest had the requisite intent although the third defendant alone signed the tax returns and had charge of the books and records. U.S. v. Clancy, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1960, 276 F.2d 617, certiorari granted 80 S.Ct. 1611, 363 U.S. 836, 4 L.Ed.2d 1723, reversed on other grounds 81 S.Ct. 645, 365 U.S. 312, 5 L.Ed.2d 574. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.1(2.1); Fraud ⚡ 69(5); Internal Revenue ⚡ 5299

In prosecution for, among other things, conspiring to commit an offense against the United States, evidence was such that jury could reasonably find that an unlawful conspiracy did exist. U.S. v. Clancy, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1960, 276 F.2d 617, certiorari granted 80 S.Ct. 1611, 363 U.S. 836, 4 L.Ed.2d 1723, reversed on other grounds 81 S.Ct. 645, 365 U.S. 312, 5 L.Ed.2d 574. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.1(2.1)

Evidence was sufficient to sustain conviction of a defendant for conspiracy to violate gambling tax laws even though defendant was primarily engaged in conducting a dice game not subject to federal tax on premises where a gambling operation subject to federal tax was conducted. U. S. v. Sams, W.D.Pa.1963, 219 F.Supp. 164, affirmed in part, vacated in part 340 F.2d 1014, certiorari denied 85 S.Ct. 1336, 380 U.S. 974, 14 L.Ed.2d 270, on remand 241 F.Supp. 427. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(7)

782. Tampering with vessels, sufficiency of evidence

Evidence disclosing that defendant conspired with another to remove engines of a vessel of United States in order to use those stolen engines on boat being built by defendant and that boat was stolen, her engines removed and other radar and navigational equipment was also removed and abandoned was sufficient to sustain conviction of conspiracy to violate section 2275 of this title prohibiting the tampering with the mode of power or instrumentalities of navigation of vessel with intent to injure or endanger safety of the vessel or of her cargo or of persons on board, since evidence was sufficient to prove intent charged in indictment. U. S. v. Franicevich, C.A.5 (La.) 1972, 465 F.2d 467. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(3.1)

783. Travel and transportation, sufficiency of evidence

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Evidence was sufficient to prove that defendant, and head of government relations department of life insurance corporation that employed defendant as lobbyist, engaged in conspiracy, in that they knowingly agreed to commit mail fraud, wire fraud, and violations of Travel Act, defendant voluntarily participated in such agreement, and they performed overt acts in furtherance of conspiracy. U.S. v. Sawyer, C.A.1 (Mass.) 1996, 85 F.3d 713. Conspiracy ↻ 47(5)

Evidence was sufficient to sustain conviction of conspiring to carry on prostitution and bribery in Kansas, by traveling and causing travel in interstate commerce and by using and causing use of facilities in interstate commerce, including wire communication facilities. U. S. v. Russo, C.A.10 (Kan.) 1975, 527 F.2d 1051, certiorari denied 96 S.Ct. 2226, 426 U.S. 906, 48 L.Ed.2d 831, rehearing denied 96 S.Ct. 3201, 427 U.S. 913, 49 L.Ed.2d 1204. Conspiracy ↻ 47(3.1); Conspiracy ↻ 47(13)

There was evidence from which jury could have found that there was a conspiracy to violate the laws of the United States, particularly the Mann Act, section 2421 et seq. of this title, and the Travel Act, section 1952 of this title, and that defendant participated in conspiracy as a conspirator. U. S. v. Hiatt, C.A.9 (Wash.) 1975, 527 F.2d 1048. Conspiracy ↻ 47(3.1)

Evidence, including showing of defendant's overall participation in operation of house of prostitution in Covington, Kentucky, supported finding that defendant's relationship with coconspirators, who included cab drivers from Cincinnati, was to promote and to aid them in their interstate travel for the purpose of carrying on prostitution in the state of Kentucky. U. S. v. Chambers, C.A.6 (Ohio) 1967, 382 F.2d 910. Conspiracy ↻ 47(3.1)

Evidence was sufficient to sustain conviction of one of defendants for violation of § 2421 et seq. of this title and for conspiring to violate said sections and to sustain conviction of other defendant for conspiring to violate said sections. Blumenfield v. U. S., C.A.8 (Minn.) 1960, 284 F.2d 46, certiorari denied 81 S.Ct. 693, 365 U.S. 812, 5 L.Ed.2d 692. Conspiracy ↻ 47(3.1)

Evidence was insufficient to sustain conviction of defendants, who were sisters, for conspiracy to violate White Slave Traffic Act, § 2421 et seq. of this title. Harms v. U.S., C.A.4 (Va.) 1959, 272 F.2d 478, certiorari denied 80 S.Ct. 590, 361 U.S. 961, 4 L.Ed.2d 543. Conspiracy ↻ 47(3.1)

Evidence sustained conviction of conspiracy to violate the White Slave Traffic Act, § 2421 et seq. of this title. Williams v. U.S., C.A.4 (N.C.) 1959, 271 F.2d 703. Conspiracy ↻ 47(3.1)

Substantial evidence supported conviction for conspiracy to induce another to travel by common carrier interstate for the purpose of prostitution. Bell v. U.S., C.A.8 (Minn.) 1958, 251 F.2d 490. Conspiracy ↻ 47(3.1)

In prosecution for inducing another to travel by common carrier interstate for the purpose of prostitution, substantial evidence supported finding that the defendant offered the victim profitable employment as a prostitute in Missouri and that the defendant induced the victim to make the trip to such place for such purpose. Bell v. U.S., C.A.8 (Minn.) 1958, 251 F.2d 490. Prostitution ↻ 4

Evidence sustained conviction of defendant for conspiring with her husband to transport and for actually transporting prostitutes across state lines for purpose of engaging in prostitution. Wright v. U.S., C.A.5 (Ga.) 1957, 243 F.2d 569, certiorari denied 78 S.Ct. 45, 355 U.S. 831, 2 L.Ed.2d 43. Conspiracy ↻ 47(3.1)

In prosecution for conspiring to transport women between several states for purposes of prostitution, evidence sustained conviction as to two of the alleged conspirators but not as to the third. Ege v. U. S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1957, 242 F.2d 879. Conspiracy ↻ 47(3.1)

Evidence was insufficient to take to jury question of guilt of one of three men charged with conspiracy to transport women in interstate commerce for purpose of prostitution. Dodson v. U. S., C.A.6 (Ky.) 1954, 215 F.2d 196. Conspiracy ↻ 48.1(2.1)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Evidence disclosing that female defendant was transported in automobile of male defendant from Illinois to Indiana for purpose of engaging in practice of prostitution but not disclosing that female defendant did anything further than to acquiesce in the transportation for such purpose was insufficient to sustain conviction of female defendant for conspiracy to transport woman in interstate commerce for immoral purposes. U.S. v. Martin, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1951, 191 F.2d 569. Conspiracy ↻ 47(3.1)

Evidence that defendant and his companion undertook to remove five children from jurisdiction of juvenile authorities in Wichita, Kan., by transporting them to Oklahoma, that defendant before they crossed state line suggested to companion the necessity for marrying 12-year-old girl to avoid charge under § 2421 of this title, and that companion thereafter attempted to have immoral relations with girl in Oklahoma, sustained conviction of defendant for violation of said section and for conspiracy to violate said section. Long v. U.S., C.C.A.10 (Okla.) 1947, 160 F.2d 706. Conspiracy ↻ 47(3.1)

Evidence sustained conviction of conspiracy to violate and the substantive offense of violating the Mann Act, § 2421 of this title, by transporting girls interstate for prostitution. Proctor v. U.S., C.C.A.5 (Tex.) 1944, 146 F.2d 724, certiorari denied 65 S.Ct. 867, 324 U.S. 862, 89 L.Ed. 1419. See, also, U.S. v. Stoecker, C.A.Ill.1954, 216 F.2d 51. Conspiracy ↻ 47(3.1); Prostitution ↻ 4

Evidence was insufficient to sustain conviction for conspiracy to transport in interstate commerce girls for immoral purposes. Ellis v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Mo.) 1943, 138 F.2d 612. Prostitution ↻ 4

In prosecution for conspiracy to harbor and conceal aliens not entitled to reside in the United States, and to keep and support aliens an prostitutes without registering them, and to transport prostitutes in foreign commerce, the crime need not be proved as laid in the indictment, but proof of conspiracy to commit any single one of the crimes charged would be sufficient. U S v. Mack, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1940, 112 F.2d 290. Conspiracy ↻ 43(12)

Evidence was insufficient to sustain conviction for conspiring to transport woman for immoral purposes on ground that defendant did not know of existence of conspiracy or its purpose when he transported woman for immoral purposes. Lee v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Wash.) 1939, 106 F.2d 906. Conspiracy ↻ 47(3.1)

Evidence was insufficient to show that divorced man who had lived with and entirely supported divorced woman for four years, and had furnished money for her interstate transportation conspired with woman to transport such woman in interstate commerce for purpose of debauchery. Mackreth v. U. S., C.C.A.5 (Ala.) 1939, 103 F.2d 495. Conspiracy ↻ 47(3.1)

Evidence sustained conviction of causing woman to be transported in interstate commerce for purpose of prostitution and of inducing woman to go into interstate commerce for such purpose and of conspiracy to violate the White Slave Act, § 2421 of this title. U. S. v. Sorrentino, M.D.Pa.1948, 78 F.Supp. 425, affirmed 175 F.2d 721, certiorari denied 70 S.Ct. 143, 338 U.S. 868, 94 L.Ed. 532, rehearing denied 70 S.Ct. 238, 338 U.S. 896, 94 L.Ed. 551. Conspiracy ↻ 47(3.1)

784. Wire communication offenses, sufficiency of evidence

Evidence was sufficient to support finding that defendants joined in a conspiracy to commit wire fraud; first defendant applied for a loan to purchase a house for second defendant because he could not obtain a loan and each of the alleged conspirators benefited from this arrangement, with the first defendant receiving $7500 from home builder, and second defendant moving into the house with his family, and home builder liquidated his assets. U.S. v. Johnson, C.A.8 (Mo.) 2006, 450 F.3d 366. Conspiracy ↻ 47(5)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Sufficient evidence sustained convictions for wire fraud and conspiracy to commit wire fraud, in connection with arson scheme; defendant's alleged coconspirator testified that he and defendant discussed and planned arson on several occasions and that defendant gave him key for that purpose, and that he telephoned defendant to inform him that arson was complete, which was corroborated by telephone records. U.S. v. Ingles, C.A.5 (La.) 2006, 445 F.3d 830. Telecommunications ☞ 1018(4)

Evidence was sufficient to support federal convictions for mail and wire fraud and conspiracy arising out of telemarketing scam involving phony insurance contracts, contrary to defendant's contention that evidence established nothing more than that defendant was employee of fraudulent scheme; defendant admitted to police that he was office manager at scheme's headquarters, and there was evidence that defendant himself leased office space, rented mailboxes, received mail, and cashed money orders on behalf of sham companies set up to carry out scheme. U.S. v. Mornan, C.A.3 (Pa.) 2005, 413 F.3d 372. Telecommunications ☞ 1018(4)

Conviction for conspiracy to commit wire fraud arising from fraudulent investment scheme was supported by purported coconspirator's testimony that defendant was involved with codefendant in earlier, similar investment scheme and that some of the money from scheme had been diverted to defendant's personal use, and by evidence that investors in scheme underlying conviction deposited or wired money directly to defendant's bank account and that defendant received approximately $2,200,000 from company involved in scheme, that defendant maintained frequent contact with codefendant who was leader of company via telephone and facsimile transmissions, and evidence that defendant presented himself as experienced international investor with special contacts at seminars attended by potential investors. U.S. v. Dazey, C.A.10 (Okla.) 2005, 403 F.3d 1147. Conspiracy ☞ 47(5)

Evidence was sufficient to show intent element to sustain conviction of one count of conspiracy to commit wire fraud and four counts of wire fraud; jury could have reasonably inferred both that defendant intended to defraud her investors and that agreement existed among defendant and others to carry out fraudulent scheme. U.S. v. Wonderly, C.A.8 (Neb.) 1995, 70 F.3d 1020, certiorari denied 116 S.Ct. 1443, 517 U.S. 1146, 134 L.Ed.2d 564. Conspiracy ☞ 47(5); Telecommunications ☞ 1018(4)

Evidence was sufficient to sustain wire fraud and conspiracy convictions in connection with defendant's participation in fraudulent loan scheme; coconspirator testified that defendant was part of scheme in which conspirators collected "advance fees" from potential borrowers by fraudulently promising to arrange preapproved multimillion-dollar loans from foreign lending institution; defendant's intent to defraud potential borrowers could be inferred from fact that he received $1.5 million from such fees, that he was in contact with coconspirator daily, and that of dozens of "clients," not one ever received promised loan. U.S. v. Aggarwal, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1994, 17 F.3d 737, rehearing denied. Conspiracy ☞ 47(5); Telecommunications ☞ 1018(4)

Evidence established defendant's willing participation in conspiracy to commit wire fraud in planning to recover from police ring stolen during robbery and murders under investigation by wiretap; telephone conversations established defendant's awareness of fraudulent nature of coconspirator's claim of ownership and defendant's willingness to help. U.S. v. Homick, C.A.9 (Nev.) 1992, 964 F.2d 899. Conspiracy ☞ 47(5)

Sufficient evidence was presented to jury for it to reasonably conclude that conspiracy to commit wire and mail fraud through operation of business to prepare applications for oil and gas leases on government property was not abandoned until after change in lottery rules occurred within limitations period; while lottery had merely been suspended, defendants continued operation to persuade customers to leave their money with business and that operation was to further main objective of profiting from wire fraud scheme. U.S. v. Lash, C.A.6 (Mich.) 1991, 937 F.2d 1077, rehearing denied, certiorari denied 112 S.Ct. 397, 502 U.S. 949, 116 L.Ed.2d 347, certiorari denied 112 S.Ct. 943, 502 U.S. 1061, 117 L.Ed.2d 113. Criminal Law ☞ 565

There was sufficient evidence of defendant's fraudulent intent to support his conspiracy conviction, in relation to investments in production of music video, in view of codefendant's testimony regarding preparation of false financial statement and guaranty for their investment company and failure of defendant and codefendant to spend invested money on music video despite their prior representations. U.S. v. Gill, C.A.7 (Wis.) 1990, 909 F.2d 274. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(3.1)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Government's appeal from judgment of acquittal on wire fraud counts was barred by double jeopardy clause, where district court clearly evaluated Government's evidence on such counts under prevailing legal standards for such counts in the ninth circuit and determined that the evidence was legally insufficient to sustain a wire fraud conviction as indicted. U.S. v. Schwartz, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1986, 785 F.2d 673, certiorari denied 107 S.Ct. 290, 479 U.S. 890, 93 L.Ed.2d 264, on remand 679 F.Supp. 972. Double Jeopardy ⚡ 100.1

In prosecution for conspiracy and wire fraud, evidence, including that "gems" offered by defendant, and accepted by some persons, in exchange for expensive automobiles, were worthless, and tape recordings from which jury could readily infer that defendant intended to defraud the prospective gem purchasers, was sufficient to sustain conviction. U.S. v. Melton, C.A.11 (Ga.) 1984, 739 F.2d 576. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(5); Telecommunications ⚡ 1018(4)

Evidence was sufficient to support conviction for conspiracy to use wire facilities in interstate commerce for transmission of wagering information and for use of wire facilities in interstate commerce for transmission of wagering information. U. S. v. Swank, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1971, 441 F.2d 264. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(7); Gaming ⚡ 98(1)

Evidence in prosecution for wire fraud, when viewed in most favorable light to government, was sufficient to support jury's finding of guilt on each of four counts and count alleging conspiracy to commit substantive offenses. Henderson v. U. S., C.A.5 (Tex.) 1970, 425 F.2d 134. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(5); Telecommunications ⚡ 1018(4)

Evidence sustained conviction for conspiracy to knowingly use wire communication facility while engaged in business of betting and wagering for transmission in interstate commerce. Lichtenstein v. U. S., C.A.5 (Fla.) 1965, 341 F.2d 476, certiorari denied 86 S.Ct. 48, 382 U.S. 821, 15 L.Ed.2d 67, rehearing denied 86 S.Ct. 309, 382 U.S. 933, 15 L.Ed.2d 345. Telecommunications ⚡ 1018(4)

Evidence sustained convictions for violations of Wire Fraud Statute, § 1343 of this title, and for conspiracy to do so. Huff v. U. S., C.A.5 (Tex.) 1962, 301 F.2d 760, certiorari denied 83 S.Ct. 289, 371 U.S. 922, 9 L.Ed.2d 230. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(5); Telecommunications ⚡ 1018(4)

In prosecutions for conspiring to wilfully or maliciously injure or destroy means of communication controlled or operated by United States, evidence was sufficient to establish that many of the circuits destroyed were under full time operation and control of the Government even though the facilities were owned by the telephone company. Abbate v. U.S., C.A.5 (Miss.) 1957, 247 F.2d 410, certiorari granted 78 S.Ct. 330, 355 U.S. 902, 2 L.Ed.2d 258, affirmed 79 S.Ct. 666, 359 U.S. 187, 3 L.Ed.2d 729. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(3.1)

Evidence that a telephone operator in office of Securities and Exchange Commission connected defendant's office telephone by means of the "conference system" with calls from an employee of commission, who was calling his superior, was sufficient to sustain conviction of conspiracy and of aiding and abetting violation of the wire-tapping provisions of § 605 of Title 47. U.S. v. Gruber, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1941, 123 F.2d 307. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(3.1); Telecommunications ⚡ 1453

Evidence was sufficient to support defendant's conviction for conspiracy to commit wire fraud, in connection with his participation in investment scheme; law enforcement agents testified that they witnessed defendant engaging in wire fraud, phone records showed that defendant called co-conspirator 119 times in the two-month period prior to their arrests, fraud victim testified that she wired money to defendant believing that she was paying a fee to receive an inheritance from a relative. U.S. v. Okehi, S.D.N.Y.2003, 2003 WL 21649440, Unreported, affirmed 111

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Fed.Appx. 41, 2004 WL 2165382. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(5)

785. Miscellaneous offenses, sufficiency of evidence

There was sufficient evidence of single, overarching conspiracy to violate Sherman Act and to commit fraud, as alleged by indictment, in connection scheme to rig bidding on three Egyptian construction contracts financed by USAID; common goal of overarching scheme was to steal from United States by inflating winning bids and to reciprocate on future contracts, those involved in scheme worked in consistent manner on all three contracts, and, although participants were different in each meeting, there was substantial overlap. U.S. v. Anderson, C.A.11 (Ala.) 2003, 326 F.3d 1319, rehearing and rehearing en banc denied 71 Fed.Appx. 824, 2003 WL 21432589, certiorari denied 124 S.Ct. 178, 540 U.S. 825, 157 L.Ed.2d 46. Monopolies ⚡ 29

Evidence was sufficient to support finding that defendant understood that her use of vacant rental units without paying rent was fraudulent, and that she used the mails to perpetrate the fraudulent activity, as required to sustain defendant's conviction for conspiring to commit mail fraud, stemming from defendant's conduct in the operation of a property management business; on at least two occasions defendant contacted the owner of a unit and paid rent for her stay, but when she occupied other units, while renting out her own residence, defendant did not disclose the use, and defendant directed office staff not to include her uses in the owners' statements. U.S. v. Montgomery, C.A.9 (Or.) 2004, 384 F.3d 1050. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(5)

Conviction for conspiracy to rob banks was supported by sufficient evidence, including defendant's detailed account of robberies, and evidence that his gun was found with two robbers, that he provided false identification to co-conspirator, and that he made several purchases and bank deposits directly after three of the robberies. U.S. v. Beverly, C.A.6 (Ohio) 2004, 369 F.3d 516, certiorari denied 125 S.Ct. 122, 543 U.S. 910, 160 L.Ed.2d 188, certiorari denied 125 S.Ct. 229, 543 U.S. 910, 160 L.Ed.2d 188, certiorari denied 125 S.Ct. 85, 543 U.S. 910, 160 L.Ed.2d 188. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(11)

Finding that defendant was involved in conspiracy to commit bank robberies was supported by sufficient evidence, including witnesses' description of his participation in creating disguises used during robbery, photographic evidence of his presence at bank, and bullet recovered from file cabinet at bank matching his gun. U.S. v. Beverly, C.A.6 (Ohio) 2004, 369 F.3d 516, certiorari denied 125 S.Ct. 122, 543 U.S. 910, 160 L.Ed.2d 188, certiorari denied 125 S.Ct. 229, 543 U.S. 910, 160 L.Ed.2d 188, certiorari denied 125 S.Ct. 85, 543 U.S. 910, 160 L.Ed.2d 188. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(11)

Trial court could find that defendant committed conspiracy to steal from interstate baggage; undercover agent testified that camera he was negotiating to buy from coconspirator was same camera that was taken by defendant, defendant was present during negotiations for camera, and defendant participated in negotiations by stating that he could get higher price than that offered by agent from drug dealers living near him. U.S. v. Brookins, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1995, 52 F.3d 615. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(11)

Defendant's conviction for conspiracy based on role in credit card fraud scheme was supported by coconspirator's statements to undercover officer that defendant would bring fake credit cards and repeated reference to persons who would participate in fraud as "we" and evidence that defendant engaged in countersurveillance by looking into vehicles and looking at people while coconspirators discussed scheme with undercover officers and that defendant negotiated specifics of intended transaction with undercover officer. U.S. v. Alonso, C.A.9 (Nev.) 1995, 48 F.3d 1536. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(4)

Evidence was sufficient for jury in prosecution of outside counsel for conspiracy and mail fraud, wire fraud and bank fraud in connection with insurance company's scheme to defraud state regulators and policyholders by inflating its assets. U.S. v. Cavin, C.A.5 (La.) 1994, 39 F.3d 1299. Attorney And Client ⚡ 33

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

There was insufficient evidence of conspiracy between defendant and owner of backhoe which was same model and had same identification number as stolen backhoe transported by defendant interstate to support defendant's conspiracy conviction; while defendant's father testified that defendant told him defendant purchased backhoe from contractor, contractor's testimony made no mention of agreement with defendant and explicitly denied selling defendant backhoe. U.S. v. Mackay, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1994, 33 F.3d 489. Conspiracy ↻ 47(11)

Evidence was sufficient to support conviction of member of the Hells Angels motorcycle club for conspiracy with another person to blow up the clubhouse of the Outlaws motorcycle club. U.S. v. Barger, C.A.6 (Ky.) 1991, 931 F.2d 359, reconsideration denied. Conspiracy ↻ 47(3.1)

Finding that defendant had knowingly participated in conspiracy to produce child pornography was sufficiently supported by evidence, including correspondence between defendant and coconspirators and evidence that defendant had processed and modified photographs that he received of nude child models in order to render them suitable for commercial distribution. U.S. v. Cross, C.A.11 (Fla.) 1991, 928 F.2d 1030, certiorari denied 112 S.Ct. 594, 502 U.S. 985, 116 L.Ed.2d 618, certiorari denied 112 S.Ct. 941, 502 U.S. 1060, 117 L.Ed.2d 112. Conspiracy ↻ 47(3.1)

In prosecution for conspiracy to hold persons in involuntary servitude, evidence that defendants entered into agreement with one another to obtain workers under false pretenses and deliver them to labor camp, where they worked long hours for little or no pay against their will, was sufficient to sustain convictions. U.S. v. Warren, C.A.11 (Fla.) 1985, 772 F.2d 827, certiorari denied 106 S.Ct. 1214, 475 U.S. 1022, 89 L.Ed.2d 326. Conspiracy ↻ 47(3.1)

Evidence that president of federal land bank association referred potential sellers and purchasers of farmland to defendant, who acted as retained counsel for the association, that the president, a codefendant, persuaded potential sellers and purchasers to deal with defendant, and that defendant and codefendant were both present when relevant transactions were consummated supported conclusion that defendant conspired with codefendant and that defendant knew essential nature of the conspiracy. U.S. v. Payne, C.A.11 (Ala.) 1985, 750 F.2d 844. Conspiracy ↻ 47(3.1)

Evidence that one defendant formed corporation primarily for crude oil resale, that the volume of business was large and that the transactions grossed some $7,500,000 in profit, of which only $93,000 represented legitimate profit, that the two defendants signed personal loan guarantees to cover monthly crude oil purchases, and that defendants were aware of the very high profits was sufficient to sustain conspiracy conviction involving miscertification of crude oil. U. S. v. Zang, C.A.10 (Okla.) 1982, 703 F.2d 1186, certiorari denied 104 S.Ct. 103, 464 U.S. 828, 78 L.Ed.2d 107. Conspiracy ↻ 47(6)

Evidence showing, inter alia, carefully orchestrated activities with respect to scheme to induce investments of large amounts of money in project to extract gold and silver from low grade ore deposit, division of work among two groups, one responsible for handling scientific aspects of analysis and extraction processes and another responsible for marketing silver options and refining contracts and misrepresentations to investors that ore contained incredible amounts of precious metals that could be extracted through "secret processes" was sufficient to establish a conspiracy to defraud. U.S. v. Becker, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1978, 569 F.2d 951, rehearing denied 576 F.2d 931, certiorari denied 99 S.Ct. 188, 439 U.S. 865, 58 L.Ed.2d 174, certiorari denied 99 S.Ct. 726, 439 U.S. 1048, 58 L.Ed.2d 708. Conspiracy ↻ 47(4)

Evidence that two government agents went to funeral of member of group to which a number of defendants belonged, that one of the agents was assaulted, that second agent drew his gun and was assaulted, that the second agent then identified himself as a federal agent, that, as second agent was driving away, shots were fired at his car, and that one of the persons involved in the incident was an unindicted coconspirator in the instant case was sufficient to connect the assault with the conspiracy. U. S. v. Harris, C.A.7 (Ind.) 1976, 542 F.2d 1283, certiorari denied 97 S.Ct. 1558, 430 U.S. 934, 51 L.Ed.2d 779. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(3.1)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Evidence in prosecution of members of organization claiming to be an independent foreign nation composed of citizens descended from slaves and claiming sovereignty over five southern states was sufficient to support conviction for conspiracy to commit assault on federal officers engaged in the performance of their duties. U. S. v. James, C.A.5 (Miss.) 1976, 528 F.2d 999, rehearing denied 532 F.2d 1054, certiorari denied 97 S.Ct. 382, 429 U.S. 959, 50 L.Ed.2d 326, rehearing denied 97 S.Ct. 770, 429 U.S. 1055, 50 L.Ed.2d 772, certiorari denied 97 S.Ct. 383, 429 U.S. 959, 50 L.Ed.2d 326. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(8); Internal Revenue ⚡ 5295; Weapons ⚡ 17(4)

Evidence was sufficient to support convictions for conspiracy to circumvent internal accounting controls, and for the underlying circumvention offenses; each defendant's personal usage of airplanes was reasonably foreseeable to the other. U.S. v. Wittig, D.Kan.2006, 425 F.Supp.2d 1196. Securities Regulation ⚡ 199

Jury question was presented whether attorney and alleged associate conspired to commit theft from witness voucher program; attorney had signed out 2,047 witness vouchers, allowing for payment of witnesses testifying on behalf of indigent defendants, while average was 61 per attorney, attorney was seen in company of fellow defendant who was defense investigator, and various witnesses testified that investigator gave them vouchers to be cashed when they had not participated in any proceedings. U.S. v. Hoover-Hankerson, D.D.C.2005, 406 F.Supp.2d 76. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.1(2.1)

Evidence that defendant, while serving as city treasurer, received benefits in return for accepting codefendant's recommendations for the selection of various professionals to provide services to the city for substantial professional fees, failed to make disclosures of the benefits, which he was required by law to disclose, and took discretionary action in favor of the person or entity that conveyed the benefit to him was sufficient to support conviction for honest services fraud. U.S. v. Kemp, E.D.Pa.2005, 379 F.Supp.2d 690. Postal Service ⚡ 35(10)

Defendant's intended use of gamma hydroxy butyrate (GHB) he manufactured and distributed was sufficient to support jury finding that GHB was a drug, rather than a food supplement used for bodybuilding, and thus to support conviction for conspiracy to distribute and manufacture a misbranded and adulterated drug with the intent to defraud or mislead. U.S. v. Poor, C.A.8 (Neb.) 2000, 230 F.3d 1365, Unreported. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(12)

XII. DEFENSES

<Subdivision Index>

- Acquittal of others 812
- Acquittal or conviction of other offenses 811
- Advice of counsel 813
- Coercion 814
- Collateral estoppel 815
- Commencement and running of period, limitations 839
- Compromise 816
- Consummation of offense 817
- Court martial, double jeopardy 824
- Double jeopardy 818-825
 - Double jeopardy - Generally 818
 - Double jeopardy - Court martial 824
 - Double jeopardy - Lesser included offenses 822
- Double jeopardy - Overt acts 821
- Double jeopardy - Retrial 823

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

- Double jeopardy - Sentence 825
- Double jeopardy - Separate conspiracies 819
- Double jeopardy - Undiscovered crime 820
- Due process 826
- Entrapment 827
- Fraud and deceit 828
- Immunity 829
- Imprisonment 830
- Incapacity to commit offense 831
- Intent 833
- Isolated transaction 834
- Knowledge of conspiracy 836
- Laches 837
- Last overt act as controlling, limitations 841
- Legal impossibility 835
- Lesser included offenses, double jeopardy 822
- Limitations 838-842
 - Limitations - Generally 838
 - Limitations - Commencement and running of period 839
 - Limitations - Last overt act as controlling 841
 - Limitations - New parties and parties withdrawing 842
 - Limitations - Overt acts committed within period 840
- Mental incompetency 832
- Miscellaneous defenses 848
- New parties and parties withdrawing, limitations 842
- Overt acts committed within period, limitations 840
- Overt acts, double jeopardy 821
- Plea agreement 843
- Provocation 844
- Res judicata 845
- Retrial, double jeopardy 823
- Scope of employment 846
- Sentence, double jeopardy 825
- Separate conspiracies, double jeopardy 819
- Termination of substantive statute 847
- Undiscovered crime, double jeopardy 820

811. Acquittal or conviction of other offenses, defenses

Illegal conspiracy is complete regardless of whether crime agreed upon is actually consummated, and defendant may be convicted of conspiracy even though he is acquitted of substantive count. U. S. v. Tombrello, C.A.11 (Ala.) 1982, 666 F.2d 485, certiorari denied 102 S.Ct. 2279, 456 U.S. 994, 73 L.Ed.2d 1291.

Fact that two defendants were acquitted on one count did not bar affirmance of their convictions of conspiracy to embezzle union funds since defendants did not have to participate as trustees of union pension funds in every phase of criminal conspiracy to be guilty of conspiracy. U.S. v. Ford, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1980, 632 F.2d 1354, certiorari denied 101 S.Ct. 1399, 450 U.S. 934, 67 L.Ed.2d 369.

Defendant's conviction for aiding and abetting in pension trust embezzlement did not bar his conviction for conspiracy to commit that same crime. U.S. v. Andreen, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1980, 628 F.2d 1236.

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Acquittal on a substantive count does not bar conviction for conspiracy unless there is an identity of proof necessary, and since conviction requires proof beyond a reasonable doubt, it follows that acquittal on a substantive count does not bar a preliminary finding of conspiracy, which need only satisfy the lesser "preponderance" standard. U. S. v. Dalzotto, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1979, 603 F.2d 642, certiorari denied 100 S.Ct. 530, 444 U.S. 994, 62 L.Ed.2d 425.

Conspiracy and related substantive offense which is object of conspiracy are separate and distinct crimes, and acquittal on substantive count does not foreclose prosecution and conviction for related conspiracy. U. S. v. Romeros, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1979, 600 F.2d 1104, rehearing denied 605 F.2d 554, certiorari denied 100 S.Ct. 1025, 444 U.S. 1077, 62 L.Ed.2d 759.

Fact that jury acquitted defendant on substantive count of theft of government property and retention of the same knowing that it was stolen was not a ground for setting aside defendant's conviction under count charging conspiracy to commit the former substantive offense. U. S. v. Green, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1979, 594 F.2d 1227, certiorari denied 100 S.Ct. 108, 444 U.S. 853, 62 L.Ed.2d 70.

The principle that an acquittal on substantive offense does not preclude verdict of guilty on count charging conspiracy to commit such substantive offense applies with equal force where alleged conspiracy had as its purpose far more than the commission of single substantive offense of which defendant was acquitted. U. S. v. Elliott, C.A.5 (Ga.) 1978, 571 F.2d 880, rehearing denied 575 F.2d 300, certiorari denied 99 S.Ct. 349, 439 U.S. 953, 58 L.Ed.2d 344.

A conviction for conspiracy and acquittal of the substantive offense may properly arise from the same facts and trial; however, such result engages judicial skepticism and a critical analysis of the facts is required when such a contrariety of results appears. U.S. v. Caro, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1978, 569 F.2d 411.

Acquittal on conspiracy count will bar conviction on substantive count only if it constitutes a determination favorable to defendant of facts essential to conviction of substantive offense which depends on facts adduced at each trial and instructions under which jury arrived at its verdict in first trial. U. S. v. Zane, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1974, 495 F.2d 683, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 174, 419 U.S. 895, 42 L.Ed.2d 139.

Where defendant did not give trial court complete transcript of trial in which he was acquitted on charge of conspiracy to counterfeit, government was not collaterally estopped from prosecuting defendant on charge of aiding and abetting manufacture of counterfeit federal reserve notes. U. S. v. Tierney, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1970, 424 F.2d 643, certiorari denied 91 S.Ct. 53, 400 U.S. 850, 27 L.Ed.2d 87.

The commission of the substantive offense and the conspiracy to commit it are two separate and distinct offenses, and a conviction on the substantive count does not merge the conspiracy count. Baker v. U. S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1968, 393 F.2d 604, certiorari denied 89 S.Ct. 110, 393 U.S. 836, 21 L.Ed.2d 106.

Acquittal of defendants on counts charging substantive crime of theft or conversion of United States property did not require reversal of judgments of conviction after jury verdict of guilty on count charging conspiracy to commit such substantive offenses even though the counts were supported by the same evidence relating to criminal intent. U. S. v. Vastine, C.A.3 (Pa.) 1966, 363 F.2d 853.

Fact that one is guilty of no substantive offense does not preclude his conviction as coconspirator. U. S. v. Magliano, C.A.4 (Md.) 1964, 336 F.2d 817.

Conviction for conspiracy may be had even though substantive offense is completed, and it is only identity of offenses which is fatal. Carmack v. U. S., C.A.10 (Okla.) 1961, 296 F.2d 893. Conspiracy ↻ 28(1)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Where a defendant was charged in a two-count indictment with an unlawful sale of narcotics on a certain date, and in second count with conspiracy to violate narcotic laws, fact that jury acquitted defendant on the substantive charge did not preclude a verdict of guilty on a conspiracy charge based in part on his alleged participation in the sale. U.S. v. Marcone, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1960, 275 F.2d 205, certiorari denied 80 S.Ct. 879, 362 U.S. 963, 4 L.Ed.2d 877.

In prosecution for conspiracy to sell liquor at wholesale without federal wholesaler's tax being paid, acquittal of all other defendants charged with defendant did not establish his innocence, particularly where others who were not defendants were alleged to be conspirators. Jenkins v. U.S., C.A.5 (Ga.) 1958, 253 F.2d 710.

While prosecutions for both substantive crimes and conspiracy to commit such crimes are not favored if confiction is accompanied by consecutive sentences, a second prosecution is not absolutely barred. United States v. Miranti, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1958, 253 F.2d 135.

The doctrine that an acquittal on a charge of conspiracy may be a valid defense to a later prosecution for the substantive offense does not apply to different counts in the same indictment or to consolidated indictments. Ross v. U. S., C.A.6 (Ohio) 1952, 197 F.2d 660, certiorari denied 73 S.Ct. 40, 344 U.S. 832, 97 L.Ed. 648, certiorari denied 73 S.Ct. 46, 344 U.S. 832, 97 L.Ed. 648.

Acquittal or conviction of conspiracy to commit crime is not per se a bar to prosecution for commission of such crime or for aiding and abetting another to commit it. United States v. Sealfon, C.C.A.3 (N.J.) 1947, 161 F.2d 481, certiorari granted 68 S.Ct. 70, 332 U.S. 754, 92 L.Ed. 341, reversed on other grounds 68 S.Ct. 237, 332 U.S. 575, 92 L.Ed. 180.

Acquittal of conspiracy to defraud United States in application for replacement of rationed sugar was, as matter of law, no bar to conviction on substantially the same evidence of aiding and abetting as principal in uttering false and forged invoices for purpose of defrauding United States, and plea of res judicata was properly withdrawn from jury. United States v. Sealfon, C.C.A.3 (N.J.) 1947, 161 F.2d 481, certiorari granted 68 S.Ct. 70, 332 U.S. 754, 92 L.Ed. 341, reversed on other grounds 68 S.Ct. 237, 332 U.S. 575, 92 L.Ed. 180.

Conviction of objective offenses of importation of opium into United States and transportation of opium therein, did not bar conviction for conspiracy to commit such offenses. Kramer v. U. S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1945, 147 F.2d 202 .

In determining whether same offense is charged in two counts of an indictment or in two indictments consolidated for trial, so that acquittal on one offense will bar a conviction on the other, test is whether same evidence will support both counts. Hughes v. U.S., C.C.A.5 (Fla.) 1938, 95 F.2d 538. See, also, Schmeller v. U.S., C.C.A. Ohio 1944, 143 F.2d 544. Double Jeopardy ↪ 132.1

If the same offense is charged in two counts of an indictment or in two indictments consolidated for trial, acquittal on one count will bar conviction on the other. Hughes v. U.S., C.C.A.5 (Fla.) 1938, 95 F.2d 538.

Where indictments for conspiracy to violate national liquor laws and for unlawful possession of whisky were consolidated for trial and one defendant was convicted of possession but acquitted of conspiracy, but other persons who engaged in one of the overt acts on which conspiracy charge was founded and which was basis of conviction of possession were not the alleged conspirators, acquittal of conspiracy did not bar conviction for possession. Hughes v. U.S., C.C.A.5 (Fla.) 1938, 95 F.2d 538.

A prisoner was not entitled to be discharged from custody of warden of federal penitentiary on ground that he was convicted and sentenced on substantive offense and on a conspiracy charge and that conspiracy was not of itself a crime, since conspiracy to violate laws is a separate and distinct offense punishable as such. Thompson v.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Johnston, C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1938, 94 F.2d 355. Conspiracy ↪ 28(2)

Acquittal under indictment charging possession of counterfeited Federal Reserve notes with intent to defraud in violation of former § 265 of this title, did not bar subsequent prosecution under indictment charging conspiracy to commit such offense. Coy v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1925, 5 F.2d 309.

Where indictment charged conspiracy, under former § 88 of this title [now this section], to violate National Prohibition Act, former § 1 et seq. of Title 27, and in another count charged unlawful possession, conviction on later count was valid, notwithstanding disagreement as to conspiracy count, and conviction in later trial on conspiracy count was valid, there being no jeopardy by reason of disagreement. Linden v. U.S., C.C.A.3 (N.J.) 1924, 2 F.2d 817.

Where on a charge for conspiracy the government elected to prove as a part of the charge the larceny of certain goods which it failed to prove, there could be no subsequent prosecution for a larceny of the same goods. U.S. v. Clavin, E.D.N.Y.1921, 272 F. 985.

An acquittal of conspiracy, in which the alleged overt acts were the taking of certain whisky from a shipment in interstate commerce, is a bar to a subsequent prosecution for the stealing of that whisky. U.S. v. Clavin, E.D.N.Y.1921, 272 F. 985.

In prosecution for conspiracy to break into a United States post office in Connecticut and for conspiracy to convert to defendant's own use property of the Post Office Department knowing it to have been stolen, defendant was not entitled to a dismissal on ground that trial under the instant indictment would place him in double jeopardy because he had already been tried and acquitted in Connecticut where the Connecticut indictment charged the defendant only with substantive offenses. U S v. Kosmol, E.D.N.Y.1959, 173 F.Supp. 280.

In order to determine whether a judgment of acquittal of the substantive offense is a bar to the second trial of the conspiracy count, instructions under which the verdict was rendered must be set in a practical frame, and viewed with an eye to all the circumstances of the proceedings. U S v. Perrone, S.D.N.Y.1958, 161 F.Supp. 252.

A conspiracy to commit a crime is a different offense from the crime which is the object of the conspiracy, and each offense has different elements, and an acquittal or conviction of the substantive crime or of aiding and abetting in the commission thereof, does not with rare exceptions bar prosecution for conspiracy to commit the substantive crime. U S v. Perrone, S.D.N.Y.1958, 161 F.Supp. 252.

An acquittal on charge of substantive crime does not preclude prosecution for conspiracy to commit same substantive crime. U.S. v. Waldin, E.D.Pa.1957, 149 F.Supp. 912, affirmed 253 F.2d 551, rehearing denied, certiorari denied 78 S.Ct. 1136, 356 U.S. 973, 2 L.Ed.2d 1147.

Previous acquittal of accused in prosecution under former § 88 of this title [now this section] on indictment charging conspiracy to violate § 1138 of Title 12 wherein same overt acts were relied upon as were charged by subsequent indictment as constituting substantive offenses in violation of § 1138 of Title 12, did not bar the subsequent prosecution for the substantive offenses on principle of "res judicata" or "estoppel", since verdict of not guilty of conspiracy did not necessarily involve determination by jury that accused did not commit the overt acts, but jury may have been of opinion that accused committed the acts but had not conspired. U.S. v. Halbrook, E.D.Mo.1941, 36 F.Supp. 345.

Conviction under former § 88 of this title [now this section] for conspiring to defraud the United States by the unlawful removal of distilled spirits, without paying taxes, was a bar to a subsequent civil suit to recover the penalty of double the amount of such taxes. U.S. v. McKee, C.C.Mo.1877, 26 F.Cas. 1116, 6 Am. Law Rec. 196, 25 Pitts.L.J. 39, 10 Chi.Leg.N. 18, No. 15688. Internal Revenue ↪ 2364

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

812. Acquittal of others, defenses

Existence of coconspirator is not only element of conspiracy but also essence of crime and thus in a single trial, if indictment names two people as only coconspirators and one person is acquitted, no crime can have been committed. U. S. v. Pearson, C.A.5 (Ala.) 1982, 667 F.2d 12.

Defendant may be found not guilty of substantive crimes alleged to be object of conspiracy while still being found guilty of conspiracy to commit those crimes. U.S. v. Long, W.D.Mo.1990, 757 F.Supp. 1038, reversed on other grounds 952 F.2d 1520, rehearing denied, certiorari denied 113 S.Ct. 298, 121 L.Ed.2d 222.

Because accused's only other accomplice was acquitted on a charge of conspiracy, defendant could not be convicted of conspiracy, even though defendant had pled guilty rather than being found guilty after trial, and even though it was arguable that the reason that the accomplice was acquitted at his separate trial was that the accused wrongfully refused to testify against the accomplice. U. S. v. Gates, ACMR 1979, 8 M.J. 631. Military Justice ↪ 801.1

813. Advice of counsel, defenses

"Advice of counsel" defense was not available to defendant who had pleaded guilty to tax fraud conspiracy count and who then sought to withdraw the guilty plea to assert the defense, where the attorney in question had been integrally involved in the sham operation, shared in the profits of the scheme, had actively promoted the operation, and where there was little, if any, evidence that the attorney was ever asked, or gave, advice in the context of an attorney-client relationship. U.S. v. Carr, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1984, 740 F.2d 339, certiorari denied 105 S.Ct. 1865, 471 U.S. 1004, 85 L.Ed.2d 159.

In order that defendant charged with others in conspiracy to illegally use moneys of federally insured banks and savings associations could be acquitted on theory that he was acting according to advice of his counsel, there would have to be showing that defendant made full disclosure to his attorneys of all facts pertaining to transactions under scrutiny. U. S. v. Kahn, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1967, 381 F.2d 824, certiorari denied 88 S.Ct. 591, 389 U.S. 1015, 19 L.Ed.2d 661, rehearing denied 88 S.Ct. 2272, 392 U.S. 948, 20 L.Ed.2d 1413, certiorari denied 88 S.Ct. 592, 389 U.S. 1015, 19 L.Ed.2d 661, rehearing denied 88 S.Ct. 2272, 392 U.S. 948, 20 L.Ed.2d 1414.

814. Coercion, defenses

Where testimony of defendant and co-defendant that a third defendant held a gun on them and forced them to break into post office was denied by the latter, such testimony was sufficient to overcome coercion defense to charges of breaking and entering a post office with intent to commit larceny and conspiring to commit that offense. U. S. v. Watson, C.A.8 (Ark.) 1982, 677 F.2d 689.

To the extent defendant pressed fanciful claims that he was coerced into committing his crimes conspiring to commit securities and wire fraud, money laundering, and making a false statement to a federal official, those claims, as to which defendant would have had the burden of proof at a trial, even if accepted as true, did not come near to establishing elements of a coercion defense, which required a showing that defendant was confronted by actual threat of force at the time he committed the illegal acts in question, had reasonable fear of immediate death or serious bodily harm, and had no reasonable opportunity to escape other than by performing those acts. Durante v. U.S., S.D.N.Y.2006, 425 F.Supp.2d 537. Criminal Law ↪ 38

815. Collateral estoppel, defenses

Dismissal of two conspiracy counts pursuant to plea agreement did constitute determination on merits that would later bar, under doctrine of collateral estoppel, any prosecution for constituent overt acts of those conspiracies,

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

since conspiracy charges were distinct from substantive charges. U.S. v. Conkins, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1993, 9 F.3d 1377, as amended, dismissal of post-conviction relief affirmed 217 F.3d 845. Judgment ↪ 751

Dismissal of two conspiracy counts pursuant to plea agreement did not constitute determination on merits that would later bar, under doctrine of collateral estoppel, any prosecution for constituent overt acts of those conspiracies, since conspiracy charges were distinct from substantive charges. U.S. v. Conkins, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1993, 987 F.2d 564, amended and superseded 9 F.3d 1377, as amended.

Doctrine of collateral estoppel did not apply to situation in which district court, in prosecution for possessing stolen goods, found government witness' testimony incredible as to defendant's presence at witness' home on days for which she was charged with possession, as government was not attempting to relitigate an issue of ultimate fact resolved in a prior proceeding in a separate future lawsuit, rather, instant case merely presented an appeal from district court's judgment. U.S. v. Green, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1984, 735 F.2d 1018.

Collateral estoppel effect of finding of guilt on general conspiracy count is limited to essence of conspiracy when it cannot be determined which means were used to carry out unlawful purpose of the conspiracy. U. S. v. Podell, C.A.2 1978, 572 F.2d 31. Judgment ↪ 751

An acquittal in a conspiracy case would not necessarily be based on the jury's belief of the defendant's testimony and hence would not normally be the basis for collateral estoppel in a subsequent perjury trial. U. S. v. Brown, C.A.8 (Ark.) 1977, 547 F.2d 438, certiorari denied 97 S.Ct. 1566, 430 U.S. 937, 51 L.Ed.2d 784.

Acquittal of substantive offenses arising from post office burglaries settled that defendant did not burglarize the post offices and was not responsible for whoever did, where defendant's evidence had denied any participation whatever and evidence made any other explanation of acquittal impossible, and hence admission of evidence of defendant's participation in burglaries in subsequent prosecution for conspiracy and receiving stolen goods, substantially identical with that given in earlier prosecution except as to burglaries themselves, was error under principle of collateral estoppel. U.S. v. Kramer, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1961, 289 F.2d 909.

Where defendant had been convicted at initial trial on charge of perjury for having made false statement to the grand jury which was investigating alleged illegal firearm sales by defendant, doctrine of collateral estoppel did not preclude defendant from thereafter being charged with conspiracy in connection with the firearms transactions. U. S. v. Panetta, E.D.Pa.1977, 436 F.Supp. 114, affirmed 568 F.2d 771.

Under circumstances presented by federal liquor law violation prosecution on multiple count indictment, wherein government contended that defendant's guilt derived from his control of illegal stills which were operated by others, verdict acquitting defendant on conspiracy count and several substantive counts operated, through collateral estoppel, to bar subsequent prosecution on aiding and abetting theory insofar as acts of named coconspirators were involved, but would not bar prosecution for acts committed by defendant personally or by any person other than named coconspirators. U. S. v. Flowers, E.D.N.C.1966, 255 F.Supp. 485.

816. Compromise, defenses

In act action on a distiller's bond for breach of § 2913 of Title 26, a compromise of prosecutions under § 2833 of Title 26, former § 88 of this title [now this section] for removal of the same liquor was a complete defense. U.S. v. Chouteau, U.S.Mo.1880, 102 U.S. 603, 12 Otto 603, 26 L.Ed. 246.

Where an assessor of internal revenue was indicted upon the provisions of former § 88 of this title [now this section] and § 4047 of Title 26, for having entered into a corrupt arrangement with certain distillers to defraud the government, and before trial proposed terms of compromise to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, under § 3761 of Title 26, the case did not come within the purview of the latter section. 1872, 14 Op.Atty.Gen. 43.

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

817. Consummation of offense, defenses

The fact that conspiracy was not carried through to fruition was not a defense to conspiracy charge. U. S. v. Morello, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1957, 250 F.2d 631.

818. Double jeopardy, defenses--Generally

The commission of a substantive offense and a conspiracy to commit it are separate and distinct crimes, and a plea of double jeopardy is no defense to a conviction for both. Pereira v. U.S., U.S.Tex.1954, 74 S.Ct. 358, 347 U.S. 1, 98 L.Ed. 435.

The plea of double jeopardy is no defense to a conviction for commission of a substantive offense and of a conspiracy to commit it. Pinkerton v. U. S., U.S.Ala.1946, 66 S.Ct. 1180, 328 U.S. 640, 90 L.Ed. 1489, rehearing denied 67 S.Ct. 26, 329 U.S. 818, 91 L.Ed. 697.

Difference between charge of conspiracy to violate Taft-Hartley Act under statute governing conspiracy to commit offense against or to defraud the United States and charge of agreeing to accept illegal payment under Taft-Hartley Act were sufficient so that both could be charged without violating double jeopardy as each offense requires proof of at least one essential element not required by the other. U.S. v. McGowan, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1995, 58 F.3d 8. Double Jeopardy ↪ 151(4)

While defendant's acquittal in prior perjury trial precluded the use against him in subsequent conspiracy trial of evidence of his alleged conspiratorial conversations with his codefendant, the latter, not having been a party to the perjury trial, was not entitled to the same protection; similarly, that the jury found defendant not guilty in the perjury trial did not implicate the codefendant's double jeopardy rights in the subsequent conspiracy trial. U. S. v. Brown, C.A.8 (Ark.) 1977, 547 F.2d 438, certiorari denied 97 S.Ct. 1566, 430 U.S. 937, 51 L.Ed.2d 784.

Dismissal of count of indictment charging defendant with substantive violations of section 1465 of this title making it unlawful to transport in interstate commerce for purposes of sale and distribution any obscene material did not bar prosecution for conspiracy to violate substantive offense under doctrine of collateral estoppel or double jeopardy. U. S. v. Friedman, C.A.8 (Ark.) 1974, 506 F.2d 511, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 2407, 421 U.S. 1004, 44 L.Ed.2d 673, rehearing denied 96 S.Ct. 160, 423 U.S. 885, 46 L.Ed.2d 116.

While the dismissal at close of government's case of the substantive narcotics count against defendant appeared to be inconsistent with subsequent judgment convicting defendant on narcotics conspiracy count, the inconsistency did not deprive defendant of his rights as he was not exposed to jeopardy twice. U. S. v. Mallah, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1974, 503 F.2d 971, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 1425, 420 U.S. 995, 43 L.Ed.2d 671.

Where new indictment was identical to first except that additional overt acts were alleged under conspiracy count, dismissal of first indictment and reindictment, at a time when no jury had been sworn, did not constitute double jeopardy. U. S. v. Mendoza, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1972, 473 F.2d 692.

As the evidence at defendant's 1965 trial, at which he was convicted of the interstate transportation of government bearer bonds obtained by fraud, wire fraud and conspiracy, was materially different from the evidence at 1959 trial, at which he was convicted of concealing government bearer bonds from trustee in bankruptcy, interstate transportation of those bonds and mail fraud, and as the same evidence was not required to sustain both of the interstate transportation charges, a plea of double jeopardy was not available to defendant at his second trial, notwithstanding his claim that the bonds were the same in both cases except for denominational changes. U. S. v. Engle, C.A.6 (Ohio) 1972, 458 F.2d 1021, certiorari denied 93 S.Ct. 154, 409 U.S. 863, 34 L.Ed.2d 111.

Defendant's convictions on both the substantive count of inducing another to import narcotics and the count of conspiracy to smuggle drugs did not constitute double jeopardy since the offenses were not identical in that the agreement was the essence of the conspiracy and defendant's contribution of funds to facilitate smuggling by another was essence of the substantive crime, even though both the conspiracy and substantive counts were charged under the same statute. U. S. v. Sarno, C.A.1 (Mass.) 1972, 456 F.2d 875.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Crime of conspiracy is separate and distinct offense from substantive one and sanctions of double jeopardy are ordinarily not brought into play by conviction for both. Matthews v. U. S., C.A.5 (Tex.) 1969, 407 F.2d 1371, certiorari denied 90 S.Ct. 2177, 398 U.S. 968, 26 L.Ed.2d 554, certiorari denied 90 S.Ct. 2178, 398 U.S. 968, 26 L.Ed.2d 554, rehearing denied 91 S.Ct. 26, 400 U.S. 857, 27 L.Ed.2d 97.

In prosecution in federal District Court for knowingly transporting a stolen motor vehicle in interstate and foreign commerce and for conspiring to do so, prosecution witness was properly permitted to testify concerning alleged participation by defendant in purchase and registration of another stolen automobile to prove guilty knowledge, over objection that testimony subjected him to double jeopardy because he had previously been acquitted in state court of charge of receiving other stolen automobile, or, alternatively, that federal government was collaterally estopped from presenting testimony, since essential elements of "double jeopardy" and "collateral estoppel" were not present. U. S. v. Feinberg, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1967, 383 F.2d 60, certiorari denied 88 S.Ct. 788, 389 U.S. 1044, 19 L.Ed.2d 836.

Defendant convicted for violating laws of Allied High Commissioner for conspiring to take bribes while employee of federal agency could not properly be convicted of conspiring to defraud the United States for same conduct and second conviction violated defendant's constitutional right to be free of successive prosecutions for same offense. Harlow v. U. S., C.A.5 (Tex.) 1962, 301 F.2d 361, certiorari denied 83 S.Ct. 25, 371 U.S. 814, 9 L.Ed.2d 56, rehearing denied 83 S.Ct. 204, 371 U.S. 906, 9 L.Ed.2d 167.

Where reason that defendants were tried on substantive charges only and were not tried on conspiracy counts was because they had theretofore been convicted of a conspiracy involving the same allegations, determination in favor of defendants on conspiracy counts did not entitle them to benefit of rule of autrefois acquit. U. S. v. Ward, C.C.A.3 (Pa.) 1948, 168 F.2d 226.

A conspiracy to commit a substantive offense and the substantive offense itself constitute separate offenses, and prosecution and sentence of a defendant both for the conspiracy and the substantive offense do not subject him to double jeopardy or void the indictment. Morrison v. Hunter, C.C.A.10 (Kan.) 1947, 161 F.2d 723.

Even though indictment charging conspiracy to obstruct justice was based on conspiracy which was entered into at a time when there was no proceeding pending in federal district court, where the conspiracy continued into a period when there were proceedings pending in that court, and acts in furtherance of the conspiracy were committed both prior to and after the commencement of such proceedings, the indictment which charged existence of a conspiracy after the inception of the proceeding, could be sustained, since the defendants were not misled and were not in any danger of being put twice in jeopardy. U.S. v. Perlstein, C.C.A.3 (N.J.) 1942, 126 F.2d 789, certiorari denied 62 S.Ct. 1106, 316 U.S. 678, 86 L.Ed. 1752.

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate internal revenue laws, plea of former jeopardy was properly overruled where defendant was given opportunity to make the plea good by offering proof that conspiracy charged in indictment was the same as that on which he had been first tried and defendant declined to offer such proof. Johnson v. U.S., C.C.A.5 (Ga.) 1941, 124 F.2d 101.

Acquittal of county treasurer of substantive counts charging making false entries in books and reports of national bank, and aiding, abetting, inciting, counseling, and procuring such offense, was no bar to his conviction under conspiracy count. Curtis v. U.S., C.C.A.10 (Colo.) 1933, 67 F.2d 943.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Accused acquitted on substantive counts relating to making false entries in national bank's books and false reports, by failing to object to verdict of conviction on count charging conspiracy to commit such offenses, or to entry of judgment thereon in trial court, waived defense of autrefois acquit. Curtis v. U.S., C.C.A.10 (Colo.) 1933, 67 F.2d 943.

Acquittal of defendants under indictment charging substantive offense did not preclude conviction for conspiracy to commit such offense. Enrique Rivera v. U.S., C.C.A.1 (Puerto Rico) 1932, 57 F.2d 816.

Conviction for conspiracy to pass, utter, publish, or sell counterfeited obligations was not inconsistent with acquittal for possession of counterfeit money. Sloan v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Mo.) 1929, 31 F.2d 902.

Acquittal of substantive offense was no defense to indictment for conspiracy to commit other related offenses. Woodman v. U.S., C.C.A.5 (Tex.) 1929, 30 F.2d 482, certiorari denied 49 S.Ct. 351, 279 U.S. 855, 73 L.Ed. 997.

A prosecution for conspiracy to commit one or less number of offenses charged in former indictment for conspiracy is not authorized. Powe v. U. S., C.C.A.5 (Ala.) 1926, 11 F.2d 598.

There may be a conviction for a conspiracy to commit an offense and a conviction for the consummated offense which was the object of the conspiracy. Lewis v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Wash.) 1925, 6 F.2d 222.

In an indictment for conspiracy unlawfully to purchase and transport intoxicating liquor "without obtaining a permit so to do, that is to say, upon a false, forged, and fictitious permit," the averment quoted was not required to be proved, and was regarded as surplusage, and a prosecution on such indictment is a bar to a prosecution on a second indictment charging the same conspiracy unlawfully to purchase, transport, possess, and sell the liquor for beverage purposes. U.S. v. Weiss, N.D.Ill.1923, 293 F. 992.

Acquittal of a defendant on an indictment for conspiracy to commit an offense does not, as a matter of law, bar a prosecution against him for aiding and abetting his former co-defendant to commit the same substantive offense. Louie v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Wash.) 1914, 218 F. 36, 134 C.C.A. 58.

An indictment under former § 88 of this title [now this section], charging a defendant with conspiring to utter as true false naturalization certificates charged an offense different from that under the latter section, and hence an acquittal on the indictment for such conspiracy was not a bar to a subsequent prosecution for the offense of uttering, etc. Berkowitz v. U S, C.C.A.3 (Pa.) 1899, 93 F. 452, 35 C.C.A. 379.

Fact that defendant was acquitted as to substantive crime of obstructing interstate commerce by robbery, did not preclude his conviction of conspiracy to commit the crime. U. S. v. Nedley, W.D.Pa.1957, 153 F.Supp. 887, reversed 255 F.2d 350.

The commission of a substantive offense and a conspiracy to commit it are distinct crimes and a plea of double jeopardy is no defense to a conviction for both. U. S. v. Petite, D.C.Md.1957, 147 F.Supp. 791, affirmed 262 F.2d 788, certiorari granted 79 S.Ct. 1293, 360 U.S. 908, 3 L.Ed.2d 1259, remanded on other grounds 80 S.Ct. 450, 361 U.S. 529, 4 L.Ed.2d 490.

Deposit for collection of falsely made check purportedly drawn upon bank in another state, may constitute three separate federal offenses, i.e., mail fraud, violation of Stolen Property Act and, when done in concert by two or more persons, conspiracy; and since elements of each offense are different prosecution for all does not constitute double jeopardy. U. S. v. Solomon, S.D.Ill.1959, 26 F.R.D. 397.

819. ---- Separate conspiracies, double jeopardy, defenses

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

When applying Blockburger test to determine whether Double Jeopardy Clause bars conviction, under both general federal conspiracy statute and specific conspiracy statute, of defendant who engaged in single overall conspiracy, element that court must consider under general statute is not "any offense against the United States," but rather specific substantive offense that defendant is alleged to have conspired to commit; that substantive offense is designated in count of indictment charging defendant; overruling United States v. Alerta, 96 F.3d 1230. U.S. v. Arlt, C.A.9 (Cal.) 2001, 252 F.3d 1032, certiorari denied 122 S.Ct. 841, 534 U.S. 1094, 151 L.Ed.2d 720. Double Jeopardy ☞ 151(2)

Indictment charging conspiracy to impede or impair due administration of Internal Revenue Service (IRS) in ascertainment, computation, assessment and collection of taxes, and conspiracy to commit mail fraud charged separate and distinct violations of separate and distinct provisions of conspiracy statute and thus did not violate double jeopardy; former count charged violation of "defraud" provision, while latter count charged violation of "offense" provision of conspiracy statute, and each count required proof of element that the other did not. U.S. v. Ervasti, C.A.8 (Minn.) 2000, 201 F.3d 1029, rehearing denied. Double Jeopardy ☞ 151(1)

Double jeopardy clause did not bar prosecution of defendants for conspiracy to defraud Internal Revenue Service (IRS) following their acquittal on charges of conspiracy to distribute marijuana; primary object of tax conspiracy was to defraud United States, but primary object of marijuana conspiracy was to possess and distribute marijuana, and conspiracies were premised on separate statutory provisions. U.S. v. Morris, C.A.1 (Me.) 1996, 99 F.3d 476. Double Jeopardy ☞ 151(2)

Double jeopardy did not preclude prosecution of defendant for conspiracy and making false statements to the United States where instant prosecution involved different parties than prior prosecution for similar offenses and, in the prior conspiracy, defendant acted in his position as loan officer to arrange for phony "strawbuyers" to take temporary title to certain property whereas, in the instant prosecution, his role was that of purchaser of the properties. U.S. v. Sasser, C.A.10 (Okla.) 1992, 974 F.2d 1544, certiorari denied 113 S.Ct. 1063, 506 U.S. 1085, 122 L.Ed.2d 368.

Double jeopardy did not bar convictions for both conspiring to defraud United States and conspiring to defraud United States by obtaining payment of false claims, even though convictions arose from single conspiracy; statutes were intended to address two different crimes, since general conspiracy statute required proof of overt act. U.S. v. Lanier, C.A.11 (Ga.) 1991, 920 F.2d 887, rehearing denied 931 F.2d 901, certiorari denied 112 S.Ct. 208, 502 U.S. 872, 116 L.Ed.2d 166. Double Jeopardy ☞ 151(2)

There was only one conspiracy, so that Oregon prosecution barred subsequent prosecution in Texas, where there was a significant overlap of four years in the two indictments, the Oregon indictment named defendant and three others, two of whom were joined with defendant and 19 others in the Texas indictment, the same statutes were alleged to have been violated, and both indictments targeted a single conspiracy to sell illegal tax schemes and detailed similar activities. U.S. v. Bryan, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1990, 896 F.2d 68, rehearing denied, certiorari denied 111 S.Ct. 133, 498 U.S. 847, 112 L.Ed.2d 101, certiorari denied 111 S.Ct. 76, 498 U.S. 824, 112 L.Ed.2d 49.

Oklahoma trial on charges of conspiring to violate section 1343 of this title and make false statements to influence action of a federally insured bank under section 1014 of Title 18 would not place defendants in double jeopardy notwithstanding prior Colorado conviction of conspiring to transport stolen or fraudulently obtained securities and making a false statement to a federally insured bank where prior indictment mentioned four banks while instant indictment involved only one bank and although there was a time-period overlap, there was no showing that there was but one conspiracy. U. S. v. Puckett, C.A.10 (Okla.) 1982, 692 F.2d 663, certiorari denied 103 S.Ct. 579, 459 U.S. 1091, 74 L.Ed.2d 939, certiorari denied 103 S.Ct. 1276, 460 U.S. 1024, 75 L.Ed.2d 497.

Prosecution for alleged conspiracy to violate Small Business Investment Act, section 661 et seq. of Title 15, was not barred by former jeopardy doctrine due to conspiracy judgment in prior prosecution where, apart from possibility that primary conspirators had but a single object, that of getting as much money from Small Business Administration as possible, secondary conspirators, who furnished temporary money, were concerned with only one objective, transactions were not dependent on each other, there was no knowledge of involvement of others by those who provided temporary capital, and government did not act with any bad faith motive in drawing indictments with reference to time of execution of individual conspiracies. U. S. v. McMurray, C.A.10 (Utah) 1980, 656 F.2d 540, on rehearing 680 F.2d 695.

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Defendant's acquittal under previous indictment of conspiracy to smuggle amygdalin would not support plea of double jeopardy in absence of evidence that combinations of persons named in the second indictment for conspiracy to smuggle and import merchandise, and persons named in the first indictment, were encompassed by the same agreement. U. S. v. Westover, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1975, 511 F.2d 1154, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 2633, 422 U.S. 1009, 45 L.Ed.2d 673.

Jury's determination in prior prosecution that defendants lacked criminal intent with respect to acts alleged in one indictment charging them with conspiracy to misapply and misapplication of federally insured bank funds, arising from transactions involving defendants and securities firm, did not preclude subsequent prosecution under second indictment for conspiracy to misapply and misapplication of federally insured bank funds arising from other transactions involving only defendants where overt acts averred in the two indictments were separate, distinct and unrelated, even though modus operandi in the two cases was practically the same, encompassing use of same bank account, and defendants were the central or core figures in both instances. U. S. v. Sarullo, C.A.6 (Tenn.) 1975, 510 F.2d 1174, certiorari denied 96 S.Ct. 64, 423 U.S. 837, 46 L.Ed.2d 55, rehearing denied 96 S.Ct. 472, 423 U.S. 1026, 46 L.Ed.2d 401, stay denied 96 S.Ct. 765, 423 U.S. 1043, 46 L.Ed.2d 632.

Acquittal of one charge of conspiracy to possess 800-pound shipment of marijuana illegally imported did not, under double jeopardy clause, bar prosecution for conspiracy to possess 2400-pound shipment brought into country at another time where the two shipments involved entirely distinct offenses and two conspiracies involved different parties, though it was contended that there was but one single conspiracy to possess marijuana. U. S. v. Hodges, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1974, 502 F.2d 586.

Where, so far as indictments indicated, the conspiracy with which defendant was charged was separate from and involved different people than conspiracy to which defendant had pled guilty, mere fact that defendant and two other persons were charged with being members of both conspiracies and that both conspiracies involved dealing in stolen credit cards and overlapped in time to some extent failed to establish any claim of double jeopardy by reason of prior plea of guilty. U. S. v. Barzie, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1970, 433 F.2d 984, certiorari denied 91 S.Ct. 1194, 401 U.S. 975, 28 L.Ed.2d 324.

To convict party severally for being part of two conspiracies, when in reality he is only involved in one overall conspiracy, would be convicting him of same crime twice. U. S. v. Palermo, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1969, 410 F.2d 468.

Where first conspiracy existed from January 11, 1963 to April 1, 1963, and second conspiracy from November 1, 1963 to April 19, 1964, and, except for defendant and one codefendant, no other conspirators were common to both conspiracies, and illegal distilleries in each case were in separate locations, second conspiracy conviction was not barred by double jeopardy, since the two offenses were not the same in fact. Dryden v. U. S., C.A.5 (Ga.) 1968, 403 F.2d 1008.

Although two convictions of defendant were for conspiracy to transport stolen securities in interstate commerce, where one indictment charged conspiracy lasting from June 1961 to January 1962 between certain named persons and subsequent indictment charged conspiracy between other persons lasting from April 1962 to July 1962 to transport stocks stolen from a company other than that from which securities were charged to have been stolen in first indictment, conviction on second indictment was not barred on basis that defendant had been placed in jeopardy twice for the same crime. U. S. v. Edwards, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1966, 366 F.2d 853, certiorari denied 87 S.Ct.

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

852, 386 U.S. 908, 17 L.Ed.2d 782, certiorari denied 87 S.Ct. 882, 386 U.S. 919, 17 L.Ed.2d 790.

In one trial there can be a conspiracy with several defendants and in the second trial there can be a different conspiracy with some of the same defendants or co-conspirators or even the same conspiracy with other, different defendants being tried for the first time, all without fatal multiplicity in any case. U. S. v. Armone, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1966, 363 F.2d 385, certiorari denied 87 S.Ct. 391, 385 U.S. 957, 17 L.Ed.2d 303, certiorari denied 87 S.Ct. 392, 385 U.S. 957, 17 L.Ed.2d 303, certiorari denied 87 S.Ct. 398, 385 U.S. 957, 17 L.Ed.2d 303.

Record revealed that defendant's prior conspiracy conviction was separate in law and fact from conspiracy to violate federal narcotics laws involved in instant prosecution so that instant prosecution did not constitute double jeopardy. U. S. v. Bentvena, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1963, 319 F.2d 916, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 345, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 271, rehearing denied 90 S.Ct. 894, 397 U.S. 928, 25 L.Ed.2d 108, rehearing denied 84 S.Ct. 515, 375 U.S. 989, 11 L.Ed.2d 476, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 346, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 271, rehearing denied 84 S.Ct. 1162, 377 U.S. 913, 12 L.Ed.2d 183, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 353, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 272, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 354, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 272, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 355, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 272, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 360, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 272.

In prosecution for conspiracy to evade income taxes and conspiracy to obstruct Treasury Department in collection of revenue, wherein trial court entered judgment of acquittal as to count charging conspiracy to evade income taxes, evidence in support of that count was admissible under count alleging conspiracy to obstruct Treasury Department, and prosecution of defendant under such count did not amount to double jeopardy. U.S. v. Klein, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1957, 247 F.2d 908, certiorari denied 78 S.Ct. 365, 355 U.S. 924, 2 L.Ed.2d 354.

Where indictment charged defendants conspired to violate laws of United States respecting rationing of sugar and control of sugar prices, prior indictment charged a conspiracy by means of a certain scheme to falsify, conceal and cover up material facts within jurisdiction of Office of Price Administration to be effected by false sugar ration deposit slips and false entries of credit in sugar account in bank and evidence warranted conclusion that indictments were based on separate agreements and distinct conspiracies defendants were not twice put in jeopardy for the same offense. Bartlett v. United States, C.C.A.10 (N.M.) 1948, 166 F.2d 928.

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate internal revenue laws, plea of "former jeopardy" was properly overruled where evidence showed that conspiracy with which defendant was charged was an entirely different conspiracy as to persons and events from the one as to which jeopardy had attached. Johnson v. U.S., C.C.A.5 (Ga.) 1941, 124 F.2d 101.

Where the accused and others conspired to further a scheme to defraud through the post office department, each overt act of mailing a letter pursuant to such scheme or withdrawing a letter from the post office warranted a charge of conspiracy to commit such offense, so that an indictment therefor would not shield from a subsequent indictment for another conspiracy of the same person to commit another and additional offense, though of the same kind. Francis v. U S, C.C.A.3 (Pa.) 1907, 152 F. 155, 81 C.C.A. 407, certiorari denied 27 S.Ct. 797, 206 U.S. 565, 51 L.Ed. 1191.

Defendant's convictions for conspiracy to distribute cocaine, and for conspiracy to commit crime against United States, the crime being money laundering or engaging in illegal monetary transactions, did not result in defendant's being convicted twice for same conduct; proof required to convict him of each conspiracy was different. U.S. v. Nesser, W.D.Pa.1996, 939 F.Supp. 417. Double Jeopardy ↪ 151(2)

To determine whether one conspiracy is actually the same offense as another, court must consider: time periods covered by the alleged conspiracies; the places where the conspiracies allegedly occurred; persons charged as coconspirators; overt acts alleged to have been committed in furtherance of the conspiracies, as well as other descriptions addressing nature and scope of activities being prosecuted; and substantive statutes alleged to have been violated. U.S. v. Hawes, E.D.N.C.1991, 774 F.Supp. 965. Conspiracy ⚡ 24(2)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

820. ---- Undiscovered crime, double jeopardy, defenses

Prosecution for conspiracy in connection with efforts to obtain immigration visas could not go forward under the "undiscovered crime" exception to the double jeopardy rule if it were shown that the conspiracy with which defendant was charged was the same conspiracy for which he had previously been prosecuted where the Government knew of the conspiracy at the time that it began the first prosecution, although it may not have been aware of the extent of defendant's involvement. U.S. v. Ragins, C.A.4 (S.C.) 1988, 840 F.2d 1184, on remand 702 F.Supp. 1249.

821. ---- Overt acts, double jeopardy, defenses

Allegation of an independent crime as an overt act of a conspiracy does not immunize a defendant, on double jeopardy grounds, from an indictment on that separate offense. U. S. v. Phillips, C.A.5 (Fla.) 1981, 664 F.2d 971, certiorari denied 102 S.Ct. 2965, 457 U.S. 1136, 73 L.Ed.2d 1354, certiorari denied 103 S.Ct. 208, 459 U.S. 906, 74 L.Ed.2d 166.

In prosecution for conspiracy to sell heroin, inclusion of transaction, for which defendant had been convicted and sentenced for substantive crime of sale of heroin in another jurisdiction in indictment as overt act and receiving of evidence thereon, were proper and did not constitute double jeopardy. U. S. v. Campisi, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1957, 248 F.2d 102, certiorari denied 78 S.Ct. 266, 355 U.S. 892, 2 L.Ed.2d 191.

Where certain defendant was convicted in federal District Court for Southern District of New York for conspiracy to violate and for substantive violations of the narcotics law of the United States, and the overt acts charged in New York indictment were the same as those charged in subsequent indictment under which defendant was prosecuted in federal District Court in New Jersey, such defendant's plea of double jeopardy should have been sustained. U.S. v. Cohen, C.A.3 (N.J.) 1952, 197 F.2d 26.

Conviction under indictment for conspiracy is not a bar to prosecution on an indictment alleging a different overt act. Ferracane v. U. S., C.C.A.7 (Ind.) 1928, 29 F.2d 691.

An acquittal on the charge of committing one of the overt acts alleged in the indictment is not a bar to a prosecution for a conspiracy to commit such act. Moorehead v. U.S., C.C.A.5 (Miss.) 1921, 270 F. 210, petition dismissed 42 S.Ct. 52, 257 U.S. 643, 66 L.Ed. 412.

822. ---- Lesser included offenses, double jeopardy, defenses

Even assuming first count's conspiracy charge, on which the jury deadlocked, was contained in the Pinkerton vicarious liability counts, on which defendant was acquitted, defendant's double jeopardy right would not be violated by retrial of the conspiracy count, since defendant was subjected to only one trial in which the conspiracy and vicarious liability counts were tried simultaneously, and since simultaneous jeopardy for greater and lesser included offenses is clearly proper. U.S. v. Larkin, C.A.5 (Fla.) 1979, 605 F.2d 1360, opinion withdrawn in part on rehearing 611 F.2d 585, certiorari denied 100 S.Ct. 2160, 446 U.S. 939, 64 L.Ed.2d 793.

823. ---- Retrial, double jeopardy, defenses

In view of fact that conviction for drug conspiracy does not require proof of an overt act while conviction for a firearms conspiracy does, the two offenses are separate and defendants who were charged in connection with a drugs-for-weapons scheme and who were acquitted of the drug conspiracy charges, and as to whom jury could not reach a verdict on firearms conspiracy charges, could be retried on the firearms conspiracy charges. U.S. v.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Mulherin, C.A.11 (Ga.) 1983, 710 F.2d 731, certiorari denied 104 S.Ct. 402, 464 U.S. 964, 78 L.Ed.2d 343, certiorari denied 104 S.Ct. 1305, 465 U.S. 1034, 79 L.Ed.2d 703.

Although one of grounds for reversal of convictions of transporting in commerce stolen securities of value of $5,000 or more was improper denial of each defendant's motion for judgment of acquittal filed on ground that there was insufficient showing that the securities were worth $5,000 or more, if government could produce additional relevant evidence of market value of stock and elected to require defendants to stand trial again, that would not place them twice in jeopardy in violation of U.S.C.A. Const. Amend. 5. U. S. v. Nall, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1971, 437 F.2d 1177.

Defendant was not entitled to reversal of conviction of conspiracy to make false bank entries on theory that because his motion for directed verdict of acquittal at first trial, in which jury was unable to reach verdict, was improperly denied, his second trial placed him twice in jeopardy for same offense, in view of sufficient evidence at each trial to warrant submission of issue of defendant's guilt to jury. U. S. v. Harris, C.A.4 (Va.) 1970, 433 F.2d 333. Double Jeopardy ↪ 98

Mistrial at defendant's first trial in prosecution for conspiracy to commit an offense against the United States and for receiving stolen government property did not bar second trial upon same indictment where trial court had not abused its discretion by its declaration of mistrial. Grogan v. U. S., C.A.5 (Ga.) 1967, 394 F.2d 287, certiorari denied 89 S.Ct. 97, 393 U.S. 830, 21 L.Ed.2d 100.

824. ---- Court martial, double jeopardy, defenses

Prosecution for conspiring to defraud by depriving government of faithful services of army officer was not barred on ground of double jeopardy by court martial conviction of violation of §§ 1567 and 1568 of Title 10, as to each of which specifications set forth receipt of same payments of money for effecting same transfers of enlisted men that were involved in the conspiracy indictment. U.S. v. Bayer, U.S.N.Y.1947, 67 S.Ct. 1394, 331 U.S. 532, 91 L.Ed. 1654, rehearing denied 68 S.Ct. 29, 332 U.S. 785, 92 L.Ed. 368.

825. ---- Sentence, double jeopardy, defenses

Separate sentences imposed on defendants for arson, conspiracy to commit arson, and using fire to commit this conspiracy violated double jeopardy clause, on theory that once government proved the arson and conspiracy-to-commit arson counts, no further proof was necessary to support defendants' conviction of using fire to commit their conspiracy; there was no suggestion that defendants had used fire other than as overt act supporting conspiracy charge, such as to communicate by smoke signals between themselves. U.S. v. Corona, C.A.5 (La.) 1997, 108 F.3d 565, modified on denial of rehearing. Double Jeopardy ↪ 151(4)

Double jeopardy did not preclude imposition of sentences for both violation of general conspiracy statute and the Hobbs Act conspiracy provision; Hobbs Act reaches any person who conspires to obstruct the movement of an article in interstate commerce, which need not be proven under the general conspiracy statute, and general conspiracy statute requires proof of an overt act in furtherance of the conspiracy, which is unnecessary for a Hobbs Act conspiracy conviction. U.S. v. Maldonado-Rivera, C.A.2 (Conn.) 1990, 922 F.2d 934, certiorari denied 111 S.Ct. 2811, 501 U.S. 1211, 115 L.Ed.2d 984, certiorari denied 111 S.Ct. 2858, 501 U.S. 1233, 115 L.Ed.2d 1025, certiorari denied 111 S.Ct. 2858, 501 U.S. 1233, 115 L.Ed.2d 1026.

Sentence imposed upon second defendant convicted of conspiracy and bribery of a Federal Bureau of Investigation employee did not violate the constitutional prohibition against double jeopardy, in that each of the offenses for which defendant was sentenced required proof of at least one element not required for conviction of the other. U.S. v. Lanci, C.A.6 (Ohio) 1982, 669 F.2d 391, certiorari denied 102 S.Ct. 2960, 457 U.S. 1134, 73 L.Ed.2d 1350

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Defendants were not subjected to double jeopardy by conviction, with consecutive sentences, for conspiracy and for related substantive offenses with implied accusation of collusion between defendants as aiders and abettors, although evidence identical to that adduced to establish conspiracy was used to convict on substantive counts. U. S. v. McGowan, C.A.4 (Va.) 1970, 423 F.2d 413.

Imposition of consecutive sentences following pleas of guilty to charges of substantive offense of taking money from bank with intent to steal and of conspiracy to commit substantive offense did not constitute double jeopardy. Pegram v. U. S., C.A.8 (Iowa) 1966, 361 F.2d 820.

826. Due process, defenses

Due process defense of outrageous government conduct did not require acquittal on charge of conspiracy to commit murder for hire, even if government engaged in outrageous conduct after scheduled deadline for the killings; defendant had been present and willingly participated in initial discussion between his father and undercover FBI agent regarding planned murder, and his partial payment to agent as killer was overt act. U.S. v. Pardue, C.A.8 (Ark.) 1993, 983 F.2d 835, rehearing denied, certiorari denied 113 S.Ct. 3043, 509 U.S. 925, 125 L.Ed.2d 728.

Actions of Government in investigating and promoting criminal enterprise involving escape plan from federal penitentiary were not so overwhelming that they went beyond boundaries of acceptable governmental activity so as to constitute due process violation, even though two conspirators became government informants during conspiracy, where both conspirators were intricately involved in conspiracy long before they began cooperating with Federal Bureau of Investigation. U.S. v. Sababu, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1989, 891 F.2d 1308.

827. Entrapment, defenses

Government ruse to see if defendant and his father would further conspiracy to fruition of murder for hire was permissible under law of entrapment. U.S. v. Pardue, C.A.8 (Ark.) 1993, 983 F.2d 835, rehearing denied, certiorari denied 113 S.Ct. 3043, 509 U.S. 925, 125 L.Ed.2d 728.

Trial court correctly forced defense counsel to choose, in his arguments to the jury, between the defense that the Government had illegally induced defendant to knowingly participate in an illegal conspiracy, and the defense that there was no conspiracy with persons other than Government agents, in that the defenses were inconsistent and necessarily disproved one another. U.S. v. Smith, C.A.11 (Fla.) 1985, 757 F.2d 1161, rehearing denied 763 F.2d 419.

Conviction of conspiracy to travel in interstate commerce with intent to distribute cocaine was not required to be reversed as result of contingent fee agreement providing informants with motive to coerce defendant to enter into drug deal, as defendant did not allege that Government had targeted him particularly for conviction or that informers specifically were directed to implicate him. U.S. v. Yater, C.A.5 (La.) 1985, 756 F.2d 1058, certiorari denied 106 S.Ct. 225, 474 U.S. 901, 88 L.Ed.2d 226.

Where no agent of government and no one acting on government's behalf ever suggested to defendant that condition for earning commission on casino project was his willingness to participate in bribing of congressmen, and, when defendant's role became known to the government operators, they simply invited him to continue locating willing congressmen, without offering any inducement, other than whatever nominal share of the bribe payments defendant was able to obtain from another individual, entrapment was not available as a defense, nor was there excessive or outrageous government conduct as a defense. U.S. v. Silvestri, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1983, 719 F.2d 577.

In prosecution for conspiring to commit offense against United States by transporting stolen goods in interstate commerce and willfully infringing motion picture copyrights, government proved that one defendant was predisposed to commit crime and, therefore, that defendant was not entrapped. U.S. v. Belmont, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1983, 715 F.2d 459, 222 U.S.P.Q. 463, certiorari denied 104 S.Ct. 1275, 465 U.S. 1022, 79 L.Ed.2d 679, 224 U.S.P.Q. 616, certiorari denied 104 S.Ct. 2657, 467 U.S. 1215, 81 L.Ed.2d 364.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Despite defendant's objections to, inter alia, government agents' use of the informant, their informing him of possible reward for his aid, their financing drinks during meetings, their supplying getaway vehicle and their providing funds for disguises, government activities were not of a character warranting reversal of defendant's convictions of conspiracy to attempt bank robbery and attempted bank robbery. U. S. v. Dearmore, C.A.9 (Or.) 1982, 672 F.2d 738.

Entrapment was not a defense in prosecution for conspiracy arising out of firearms registration, licensing and taxing violations, where government agents, although willing and eager buyers, did not initiate criminal activity of which defendants were convicted. U. S. v. Bradsby, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1980, 628 F.2d 901.

Where government agents were led to defendant by individual shown to be hub of "wheel" conspiracy and defendant sold agents a weapon during their first meeting and thereafter continued to do business with the agents with little encouragement and even proposed further illicit transactions, it could not be said that defendant was entrapped. U. S. v. Grassi, C.A.5 (Fla.) 1980, 616 F.2d 1295, rehearing denied 624 F.2d 1098, certiorari denied 101 S.Ct. 363, 449 U.S. 956, 66 L.Ed.2d 220.

Defense of entrapment is available where defendant denies that he was party to or knew of conspiracy with which he is charged, but admits commission of one of the alleged overt acts. U. S. v. Greenfield, C.A.5 (Ala.) 1977, 554 F.2d 179.

Where the Government's own case in chief injects substantial evidence to support a theory of entrapment, a defendant may argue simultaneously that he was not a member of alleged conspiracy and that he was entrapped to commit overt acts charged in the indictment, but otherwise a defendant may not plead entrapment and nonparticipation in the alternative. U. S. v. Morrow, C.A.5 (Fla.) 1976, 537 F.2d 120, rehearing denied 541 F.2d 282, certiorari denied 97 S.Ct. 1602, 430 U.S. 956, 51 L.Ed.2d 806. Criminal Law ¶ 269

Even if prosecution witnesses had been working for government during period of his participation in conspiracy to perpetrate securities fraud, defendant in prosecution for such securities fraud would not have viable entrapment claim where evidence of defendant's predisposition was overwhelming. U. S. v. Koss, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1974, 506 F.2d 1103, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 1402, 420 U.S. 977, 43 L.Ed.2d 657, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 1565, 421 U.S. 911, 43 L.Ed.2d 776.

Defendants charged with conspiring to transport stolen shirts in interstate commerce were not entrapped as a matter of law despite involvement of investigators to the extent of suggesting and arranging for transportation, where the arrangement was made by private investigators rather than governmental agents and where, in any event, the conduct of the investigators merely afforded opportunities and facilities for the commission of the offense in a continuing illegal enterprise without initiating the criminal design in the defendants' minds. U. S. v. Maddox, C.A.5 (Ala.) 1974, 492 F.2d 104, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 92, 419 U.S. 851, 42 L.Ed.2d 82.

Fact that undercover government agent had supplied means for commission of crimes of conspiracy, obstruction of justice and bribery by furnishing material purportedly related to grand jury investigation and obtained through contact in United States attorney's office to defendant who paid for the material obtained did not preclude conviction of those offenses on theory of entrapment. U. S. v. Rosner, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1973, 485 F.2d 1213, certiorari denied 94 S.Ct. 3080, 417 U.S. 950, 41 L.Ed.2d 672.

Where no government official implanted in defendant's mind the disposition to commit crime of conspiring to defraud agency of the United States Government by intentionally selling to agent a non-narcotic substance represented to be heroin, and where factual pattern of sale in question did not indicate impermissibly vigorous government involvement, defendant was not entitled to defense of entrapment. U. S. v. Morales, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1973, 477 F.2d 1309.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Proffered entrapment instructions were not required where evidence did not reveal that any government agent induced defendant to commit offense but rather that informer offered defendant opportunity to avoid participation. U. S. v. Aloisio, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1971, 440 F.2d 705, certiorari denied 92 S.Ct. 49, 404 U.S. 824, 30 L.Ed.2d 51, certiorari denied 92 S.Ct. 69, 404 U.S. 824, 30 L.Ed.2d 51.

Evidence that FBI agents had knowledge of a possible conspiracy to transport stolen trucks in foreign commerce before an informer approached defendant as to possibility of purchasing such trucks did not prove entrapment as a matter of law, nor was it important that government set stage and provided aid, incentive, and opportunity for commission of crime, absent proof that defendant had done that which he would never have done had it not been for encouragement of government agents or informers. U. S. v. Groessel, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1971, 440 F.2d 602, certiorari denied 91 S.Ct. 2263, 403 U.S. 933, 29 L.Ed.2d 713.

In prosecution for offering gratuity to inspector of Internal Revenue service and for conspiracy to bribe, evidence was sufficient to permit finding that defendant possessed propensity to offer bribe and gratuity, and therefore refuted contention that defense of entrapment was established as matter of law. U. S. v. Viviano, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1971, 437 F.2d 295, certiorari denied 91 S.Ct. 1659, 402 U.S. 983, 29 L.Ed.2d 149.

When the defendant denies both participation in conspiracy and having committed any of the overt criminal acts charged, necessary prerequisite for entrapment instruction is that the government's own evidence establishes entrapment as matter of law. Sendejas v. U. S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1970, 428 F.2d 1040, certiorari denied 91 S.Ct. 122, 400 U.S. 879, 27 L.Ed.2d 116, certiorari denied 91 S.Ct. 127, 400 U.S. 879, 27 L.Ed.2d 116.

Refusal, in prosecution of internal revenue agent for various counts growing out of alleged bribery of fellow agent, to permit defendant, who raised entrapment defense, to cross-examine person, who had assumed role of dishonest inspector, and whom defendant had allegedly bribed, as to name of "acquaintance" who introduced inspector to defendant co-conspirator, was not error where inquiry was permitted into whether such "acquaintance" was government agent and into inspector's "method of operation" generally, the facts relevant to entrapment defense. U. S. v. Weiser, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1969, 428 F.2d 932, certiorari denied 91 S.Ct. 1606, 402 U.S. 949, 29 L.Ed.2d 119.

Actions of undercover agents in persistently persuading and encouraging one of the defendants to meet and discuss counterfeit currency, and action when undercover agent allegedly threatened that defendant in order to insure his attendance at meeting of alleged conspirators did not constitute defense of "entrapment" in prosecution for conspiracy to transfer or deliver counterfeit government obligations. U.S. v. Lefner, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1970, 422 F.2d 1021.

In prosecution for conspiring to travel in interstate commerce with intent to carry on unlawful activity involving extortion, there was no evidence in record that would establish defense of entrapment. U. S. v. Fellabaum, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1969, 408 F.2d 220, certiorari denied 90 S.Ct. 125, 396 U.S. 858, 24 L.Ed.2d 109, certiorari denied 90 S.Ct. 55, 396 U.S. 818, 24 L.Ed.2d 69.

Defendant charged with the possession, sale and delivery of counterfeit money and with conspiracy was precluded from raising for the first time on appeal the defense of entrapment, as he failed to make a timely suggestion that entrapment was an issue in the case. U. S. v. Bishop, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1966, 367 F.2d 806.

Evidence in prosecution for conspiracy involving the failure to pay special tax on retail dealerships in liquor showed that contrary to entrapment claim of defendant, government agent did not put defendant under such extraordinary temptation or inducement as to entrap him. Brown v. U. S., C.A.5 (Fla.) 1966, 367 F.2d 145, certiorari denied 87 S.Ct. 2082, 387 U.S. 947, 18 L.Ed.2d 1334.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Defense of entrapment asserted by defendants charged with conspiring to violate federal narcotics laws and making unlawful sales of narcotic drugs was not established as a matter of law in government's case. U. S. v. Clarke, C.A.3 (Pa.) 1965, 343 F.2d 90.

Where evidence showing defendants' participation in conspiracy long before government agents knew about it or entered case and showing that government agents merely exposed and proved existing illegal conspiracy was uncontradicted, trial court was justified in refusing to submit defense of entrapment to jury. U. S. v. Gosser, C.A.6 (Ohio) 1964, 339 F.2d 102, certiorari denied 86 S.Ct. 44, 382 U.S. 819, 15 L.Ed.2d 65, rehearing denied 86 S.Ct. 309, 382 U.S. 933, 15 L.Ed.2d 345, certiorari denied 86 S.Ct. 44, 382 U.S. 819, 15 L.Ed.2d 66, rehearing denied 86 S.Ct. 285, 382 U.S. 922, 15 L.Ed.2d 237.

Where defendants and another person were engaged in conspiracy to obtain illegally copies of confidential documents in Intelligence Division of Internal Revenue Service long before government agents knew about it or entered case, and agents merely used such other person to expose and prove illegal conspiracy, there was no entrapment. U. S. v. Gosser, C.A.6 (Ohio) 1964, 339 F.2d 102, certiorari denied 86 S.Ct. 44, 382 U.S. 819, 15 L.Ed.2d 65, rehearing denied 86 S.Ct. 309, 382 U.S. 933, 15 L.Ed.2d 345, certiorari denied 86 S.Ct. 44, 382 U.S. 819, 15 L.Ed.2d 66, rehearing denied 86 S.Ct. 285, 382 U.S. 922, 15 L.Ed.2d 237.

In prosecution for conspiracy to commit an offense against or to defraud the United States and for receipt and concealment of merchandise brought into United States contrary to § 545 of this title, where record disclosed that German seamen, while attempting to make deliveries of contraband whisky to defendant, were seized by customs officials who then allowed a seaman to complete delivery to defendant who, seaman stated had agreed to purchase liquor knowing it was contraband before seamen had any contact with government officials, defense of entrapment presented an issue for the jury. Badon v. U.S., C.A.5 (La.) 1959, 269 F.2d 75, certiorari denied 80 S.Ct. 199, 361 U.S. 894, 4 L.Ed.2d 152.

Defendant in a prosecution for conspiracy concerning the distilling of nontaxpaid whiskey, could admit operating an illicit still, deny being a party to the conspiracy charge, and still claim that such overt acts as he did commit, were done as a result of entrapment. Henderson v. U.S., C.A.5 (Fla.) 1956, 237 F.2d 169.

In prosecution of defendant for conspiracy to violate Internal Revenue Code sections proscribing various activities connected with distilling of non-taxpaid whiskey, defendant was entitled to raise defense of entrapment resulting from his alleged inducement to commit federal offenses by state officer. Henderson v. U.S., C.A.5 (Fla.) 1956, 237 F.2d 169.

That one of the parties to a conspiracy was a government agent participating for purposes of entrapment does not affect the criminality of the others. De Mayo v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Okla.) 1929, 32 F.2d 472.

If the sole overt act was done by a government officer entering the conspiracy for purpose of entrapment there can be no conviction. De Mayo v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Okla.) 1929, 32 F.2d 472.

In prosecution for conspiracy to use mails in connection with scheme to defraud, while replies to decoy letters sent by post office inspectors are admissible to how that conspiracy actually existed, conspiracy must have existed independently of decoy letters, and conviction cannot be had where it was induced as result of such letters. Holsman v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1918, 248 F. 193, 160 C.C.A. 271, certiorari denied 39 S.Ct. 258, 249 U.S. 600, 63 L.Ed. 796.

Where officers of the law incited a person to commit the crime charged, and lured him on in its consummation, with the purpose of arresting him, the law will not authorize a verdict of guilty. Sam Yick v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1917, 240 F. 60, 153 C.C.A. 96.

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

828. Fraud and deceit, defenses

Personal injury attorney convicted of conspiracy to commit mail and wire fraud was not entitled to reduction of value of loss to victims by the amount of valuable free services and fee reductions that the law firm provided to clients, given that the free services and reductions that the firm provided to the victims were services routinely provided to all firm clients, not just those who were defrauded. U.S. v. Hausmann, C.A.7 (Wis.) 2003, 345 F.3d 952, rehearing and suggestion for rehearing en banc denied, certiorari denied 124 S.Ct. 2412, 541 U.S. 1072, 158 L.Ed.2d 981. Sentencing And Punishment ↻ 736

That government officer, induced to contract for disposal of surplus goods by false representations, had available evidence of fraud was no defense. Falter v. U.S., C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1928, 23 F.2d 420, certiorari denied 48 S.Ct. 528, 277 U.S. 590, 72 L.Ed. 1003.

In prosecution for conspiracy to smuggle liquors, it is not a defense that defendants were deceived and liquor was in fact of domestic origin. Craven v. U.S., C.C.A.1 (Mass.) 1927, 22 F.2d 605, certiorari denied 48 S.Ct. 321, 276 U.S. 627, 72 L.Ed. 739.

829. Immunity, defenses

In prosecution of corporate officer for illegal extension of preference ratings and illegal diversion of textiles so procured and for conspiracy to sell textiles at prices in excess of established maximum, where officer testified under compulsion of Office of Price Administration subpoena and made disclosures which bore directly on subsequent charges of misuse of priorities and goods obtained thereby as well as the charge of conspiracy to violate Price Control Act, 50 App. § 901 et seq., officer was immune from prosecution under Compulsory Testimony Act, § 46 of Title 49, in absence of waiver of officer's privilege against self-incrimination. Smith v. United States, U.S.N.Y.1949, 69 S.Ct. 1000, 337 U.S. 137, 93 L.Ed. 1264.

Government should be held to abide by terms of promise allegedly made to defendant, who was convicted of forgery and conspiracy in another district, and who alleged that he was promised that, in exchange for his cooperation in apprehending and convicting other defendants in that district, he would not be prosecuted elsewhere for any crime arising from stolen checks, and case should be remanded for an evidentiary hearing to determine if such promise was made and, if so, by whom and of what scope. U. S. v. Carter, C.A.4 (Va.) 1972, 454 F.2d 426, appeal decided 490 F.2d 1407, certiorari denied 94 S.Ct. 2646, 417 U.S. 933, 41 L.Ed.2d 237.

In prosecution for conspiracy to sell liquor at wholesale without federal wholesaler's tax being paid, payment in 1955 by defendant of tax for preceding year and succeeding year did not provide immunity from penalties resulting from conduct prior to time of payment. Jenkins v. U.S., C.A.5 (Ga.) 1958, 253 F.2d 710.

United Nations Charter provision granting United Nations officials privileges and immunities necessary for independent exercise of their functions in connection with organization granted only functional immunity and did not clothe United Nations employee with immunity from prosecution for conspiracy to obtain defense information, and to induce a United States citizen to act illegally as a foreign agent and aiding to act illegally as a foreign agent. U. S. v. Melekh, N.D.Ill.1961, 193 F.Supp. 586.

830. Imprisonment, defenses

Imprisonment of defendant does not necessarily show his withdrawal from conspiracy. U. S. v. Borelli, C.A.2

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

(N.Y.) 1964, 336 F.2d 376, certiorari denied 85 S.Ct. 647, 379 U.S. 960, 13 L.Ed.2d 555.

Where a conspiracy was shown, so that act of each of the conspirators was act of all, fact that one conspirator was in penitentiary at time of commission of overt acts was no defense as to him. Pinkerton v. U. S., C.C.A.5 (Ala.) 1945, 151 F.2d 499, certiorari granted 66 S.Ct. 702, 327 U.S. 772, 90 L.Ed. 1002, affirmed 66 S.Ct. 1180, 328 U.S. 640, 90 L.Ed. 1489, rehearing denied 67 S.Ct. 26, 329 U.S. 818, 91 L.Ed. 697.

831. Incapacity to commit offense, defenses

Defendant may be convicted of conspiracy, even if person defendant and his coconspirators thought would participate in conspiracy was actually agent of Government, so that intended substantive crime could not have occurred. U.S. v. Miranda-Ortiz, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1991, 926 F.2d 172, certiorari denied 112 S.Ct. 347, 502 U.S. 928, 116 L.Ed.2d 287.

A culpable conspiracy could exist even though, because of misapprehension of conspirators as to certain facts, the substantive crime which was the object of the conspiracy was impossible to commit. U. S. v. Waldron, C.A.1 (Mass.) 1979, 590 F.2d 33, certiorari denied 99 S.Ct. 2056, 441 U.S. 934, 60 L.Ed.2d 662.

Fact that government knew of defendant's attempts to obtain information related to grand jury investigation from United States attorney's office through undercover agent acting in guise of corrupt policeman did not preclude conviction of conspiracy, endeavoring to obstruct justice and bribery on theory that crimes were legally incapable of attainment. U. S. v. Rosner, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1973, 485 F.2d 1213, certiorari denied 94 S.Ct. 3080, 417 U.S. 950, 41 L.Ed.2d 672.

Personal defenses of other conspirators not amounting to total incapacity to commit crime are not defenses in prosecution for conspiracy. Farnsworth v. Zerbst, C.C.A.5 (Ga.) 1938, 98 F.2d 541.

832. Mental incompetency, defenses

Defendant could not be convicted of conspiracy where sole alleged coconspirator was insane at time she was alleged to have conspired. U. S. v. Phillips, C.A.6 (Ky.) 1980, 630 F.2d 1138.

833. Intent, defenses

Good faith, but erroneous, belief that actions were legal was not defense to making false statements to government and conspiring to file false documents with Internal Revenue Service (IRS) and to impede administration of justice; defendants were not charged with criminal to offenses. U.S. v. Lorenzo, C.A.9 (Hawai'i) 1993, 995 F.2d 1448, certiorari denied 114 S.Ct. 225, 510 U.S. 881, 126 L.Ed.2d 180, rehearing denied 114 S.Ct. 589, 510 U.S. 1006, 126 L.Ed.2d 487, certiorari denied 114 S.Ct. 227, 510 U.S. 882, 126 L.Ed.2d 182.

In conspiracy prosecution, lack of intent was not an affirmative defense under circumstances. Mount v. U.S., C.A.5 (Tex.) 1964, 333 F.2d 39, certiorari denied 85 S.Ct. 188, 379 U.S. 900, 13 L.Ed.2d 175.

As a general rule advice of counsel is no excuse for violation of the law, but where the question is one of intent, as in the case of a conspiracy, the advice and good faith of the defendant is a defense to be considered by the jury. Miller v. U.S., C.C.A.4 (S.C.) 1921, 277 F. 721.

Jury instructions defining elements of mail fraud and explaining consideration of actual harm to victim as evidence of intent to defraud properly explained fraudulent intent, in prosecution for mail fraud and conspiracy to commit mail fraud; financial or economic harm was not necessary to establish intent to defraud, but existence of scheme

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

could serve as evidence of intent. U.S. v. Easton, C.A.8 (S.D.) 2002, 54 Fed.Appx. 242, 2002 WL 31814951, Unreported. Postal Service ☞ 35(5); Postal Service ☞ 50

834. Isolated transaction, defenses

Isolated transaction rule, which has been used to exonerate a defendant when there is no independent evidence tending to prove that he had knowledge of broader conspiracy and when single transaction is not one in itself from which such knowledge might be inferred, is not to be applied rigidly and without reason. U. S. v. Bentvena, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1963, 319 F.2d 916, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 345, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 271, rehearing denied 90 S.Ct. 894, 397 U.S. 928, 25 L.Ed.2d 108, rehearing denied 84 S.Ct. 515, 375 U.S. 989, 11 L.Ed.2d 476, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 346, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 271, rehearing denied 84 S.Ct. 1162, 377 U.S. 913, 12 L.Ed.2d 183, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 353, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 272, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 354, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 272, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 355, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 272, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 360, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 272.

835. Legal impossibility, defenses

Legal impossibility is not a defense to charge of conspiracy. U.S. v. Bosch, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1990, 914 F.2d 1239.

836. Knowledge of conspiracy, defenses

Proof of scienter was not an essential element of conviction of conspiring to steal, receive and to possess goods from a shipment moving in interstate commerce provided the shipment was, in fact, moving in such commerce; jurisdictional fact under governing statute was that the goods were moving in interstate commerce and since theft is clearly wrongful, a conspiracy to commit such act is punishable without proof that defendants knew there was federal jurisdiction. U. S. v. Viruet, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1976, 539 F.2d 295.

Where defendant waited in automobile while co-defendant presented note to bank teller containing demand for money and co-defendant was not shown to have known contents of note or that he was robbing bank, co-defendant in presenting note was not acting in furtherance of conspiracy and defendant could not be convicted of bank robbery on theory of defendant's membership in conspiracy. Thomas v. U. S., C.A.5 (Fla.) 1967, 398 F.2d 531.

In prosecution under former § 88 of this title [now this section] for conspiring to defraud the United States by obtaining by false manifests clearances for vessels which misstated destinations, it was no defense that defendants had no knowledge of unlawfulness of object of their conspiracy. Hamburg-American Steam Packet Co. v. U.S., C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1918, 250 F. 747, 163 C.C.A. 79, certiorari denied 38 S.Ct. 333, 246 U.S. 662, 62 L.Ed. 927.

Where defendants conspired to obtain false clearances for vessels used to coal German war vessels on high seas, they could defeat prosecution because parties who verified manifests were innocent of real plans of conspirators, and supposed that coal and supplies were to be carried to ports named. Hamburg-American Steam Packet Co. v. U.S., C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1918, 250 F. 747, 163 C.C.A. 79, certiorari denied 38 S.Ct. 333, 246 U.S. 662, 62 L.Ed. 927.

837. Laches, defenses

Evidence, in prosecution for mail fraud and securities fraud, did not establish that government had been aware of defendants' three years before securing indictment or that defendants were substantially disadvantaged or that proceedings were rendered unfair because of such time lapse. U. S. v. Livengood, C.A.9 (Wash.) 1970, 427 F.2d 420.

Prosecution on conspiracy indictment was not barred by laches of government in failing to obtain indictment for several years after indictment on substantive counts was handed down. U S v. Gelb, S.D.N.Y.1959, 175 F.Supp.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

267, affirmed 269 F.2d 675, certiorari denied 80 S.Ct. 66, 361 U.S. 822, 4 L.Ed.2d 66.

838. Limitations, defenses--Generally

The crucial question in determining whether statute of limitations has run against conspiracy indictment is the scope of conspiratorial agreement, for it is that which determines both the duration of conspiracy, and whether the act relied on as an overt act may properly be regarded as in furtherance of the conspiracy. Grunewald v. U.S., U.S.N.Y.1957, 77 S.Ct. 963, 353 U.S. 391, 1 L.Ed.2d 931.

The duration of a conspiracy cannot be indefinitely lengthened merely because conspiracy is kept a secret, and merely because conspirators take steps to bury their traces, in order to avoid detection and punishment after central criminal purpose has been accomplished. Grunewald v. U.S., U.S.N.Y.1957, 77 S.Ct. 963, 353 U.S. 391, 1 L.Ed.2d 931.

In determining whether a conspiracy prosecution is barred by three year statute of limitations, a vital distinction must be made between acts of concealment done in furtherance of main criminal objectives of conspiracy, and acts of concealment done after the central objectives have been attained, for the purpose only of covering up after the crime. Grunewald v. U.S., U.S.N.Y.1957, 77 S.Ct. 963, 353 U.S. 391, 1 L.Ed.2d 931.

A charge of conspiracy to commit a certain substantive offense is not entitled to a longer statute of limitation than the charge of committing the offense itself. Bridges v. U. S., U.S.Cal.1953, 73 S.Ct. 1055, 346 U.S. 209, 97 L.Ed. 1557. Criminal Law ↪ 147

To be within § 3748 of Title 26 [I.R.C.1939] providing a six-year period of limitations where object of conspiracy is to attempt to evade any tax or payment thereof, it is not necessary that conspiracy have as its object the commission of an offense in which defrauding or attempting to defraud the United States is an element, but it is enough that conspiracy involves an attempt to evade or defeat the payment of federal taxes. Braverman v. U.S., U.S.Mich.1942, 63 S.Ct. 99, 317 U.S. 49, 87 L.Ed. 23.

Section 3748 of Title 26 [I.R.C.1939] and not former § 582 of this title applied to prosecution for conspiracy involving an attempt to evade or defeat the payment of federal taxes under internal revenue liquor laws. Braverman v. U.S., U.S.Mich.1942, 63 S.Ct. 99, 317 U.S. 49, 87 L.Ed. 23.

Limitation as to "offenses" arising under revenue laws prescribed by former § 585 of this title did not apply to prosecution for conspiracy to defraud the United States in respect of internal revenue. U.S. v. McElvain, U.S.Ill.1926, 47 S.Ct. 219, 272 U.S. 633, 71 L.Ed. 451.

Indictment for conspiracy to defraud the United States in respect of internal revenue was barred after three years under former § 582 of this title. U.S. v. McElvain, U.S.Ill.1926, 47 S.Ct. 219, 272 U.S. 633, 71 L.Ed. 451.

Five year statute of limitations for general conspiracy, rather than three year statute of limitations for offenses arising under Internal Revenue Code, applied to prosecution, under general conspiracy statute, for conspiracy to disclose tax return information. U.S. v. Ely, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1998, 140 F.3d 1089. Internal Revenue ↪ 5281

Conspiracy to defraud government by making false statements to Immigration and Naturalization Service (INS) and by obstructing INS proceedings terminated on October 29, 1984 with INS approval of defendant's application for green card which was object of conspiracy, so that prosecution based on May 9, 1990 indictment was barred by 5-year statute of limitations; neither defendant's divorce of woman he married to obtain green card nor his subsequent marriage to another alien could reasonably be viewed as overt acts in furtherance of conspiracy. U.S. v. Roshko, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1992, 969 F.2d 9.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Conspiracy to adjust immigration status by sham marriage to citizen terminated, and five-year statute of limitations commenced, when defendant's application for green card was approved before alien's sham marriage was dissolved and alien married defendant; divorce and marriage to defendant were not "payoffs" of immigration conspiracy. U.S. v. Roshko, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1992, 969 F.2d 1.

With respect to a charge of conspiring to defraud the United States, a mere cessation of activity is not enough to begin the running of the statute of limitations, but rather, there must also be affirmative action, either the making of a clean breast to the authorities, or a communication of the abandonment in a manner reasonably calculated to reach coconspirators, and the burden of establishing withdrawal lies on defendant. U. S. v. D'Andrea, C.A.7 (Ind.) 1978, 585 F.2d 1351, certiorari denied 99 S.Ct. 1795, 440 U.S. 983, 60 L.Ed.2d 244, rehearing denied 612 F.2d 1386.

Limitations for indictments under this section are those supplied by other provisions of law or where there are none, by section 3282 of this title applicable except as otherwise specified by law. U. S. v. Lowder, C.A.4 (N.C.) 1974, 492 F.2d 953, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 685, 419 U.S. 1092, 42 L.Ed.2d 685.

Conspiracy conviction was proper despite lack of proof of any act by defendant within limitation period, where there was ample evidence of defendant's connection with conspiracy less than a month before critical date, and no evidence to show that his connection had ended before overt acts which occurred within statutory period. Green v. U. S., C.A.5 (Fla.) 1964, 332 F.2d 788, certiorari denied 85 S.Ct. 446, 379 U.S. 949, 13 L.Ed.2d 546. Criminal Law ⚡ 565

Where Supreme Court of the United States had ruled that conspiracy to reorganize the Communist Party as a group of the kind proscribed by Smith Act, § 2385 of this title, was barred by statute of limitations, and same organization, with same evidence of events and their chronology, was relied upon in subsequent prosecution, the subsequent organizing charge was also barred by the statute of limitations and defendants were entitled at least to a new trial in which the portion of indictment concerning organization of Communist Party and all evidence which related exclusively to that charge must be excluded. U. S. v. Kuzma, C.A.3 (Pa.) 1957, 249 F.2d 619.

A conspiracy and overt acts may be charged in the indictment which are not within the three year period of the statute of limitation, but they must be limited to show only the conspiracy and its continuation. Pinkerton v. U. S., C.C.A.5 (Ala.) 1944, 145 F.2d 252. Indictment And Information ⚡ 87(6)

Where accused was shown to have been active in conspiracy at least as late as December, 1936, and he did not prove that his connection ended before his first confession which was in July, 1937, indictment filed in March, 1940, was seasonable regardless of first indictment which it superseded. U.S. v. Goldstein, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1941, 120 F.2d 485, certiorari granted 62 S.Ct. 89, 314 U.S. 588, 86 L.Ed. 474, affirmed 62 S.Ct. 1000, 316 U.S. 114, 86 L.Ed. 1312.

In prosecution for using and for conspiring to use mails to defraud in sale of stock in gold mines, evidence of sales of stock and other activities of defendants during three-year period prior to date indictment was returned sustained finding that prosecution was not barred by statute of limitations. U.S. v. Bob, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1939, 106 F.2d 37, certiorari denied 60 S.Ct. 115, 308 U.S. 589, 84 L.Ed. 493.

In prosecution for using mails in furtherance of scheme to defraud by means of confidence game and for conspiring to commit such offense, where letters on which three counts in indictment charging the substantive offense were based were all shown to have been delivered within three years next preceding finding of indictment, the prosecution was not barred by limitations. U.S. v. Graham, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1939, 102 F.2d 436, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 1041, 307 U.S. 643, 83 L.Ed. 1524, rehearing denied 60 S.Ct. 68, 308 U.S. 632, 84 L.Ed. 526.

Six-year limitation was applicable to conspiracy to defraud United States. Falter v. U.S., C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1928, 23

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

F.2d 420, certiorari denied 48 S.Ct. 528, 277 U.S. 590, 72 L.Ed. 1003.

Former § 582 of this title, was applicable to offenses described in former § 688 of this title. Greene v. U.S., C.C.A.5 (Ga.) 1907, 154 F. 401, 85 C.C.A. 251, certiorari denied 28 S.Ct. 261, 207 U.S. 596, 52 L.Ed. 357. See, also, Brown v. Elliott, Cal.1912, 32 S.Ct. 812, 225 U.S. 392, 56 L.Ed. 1136; Rabinowitz v. U.S., N.Y.1915, 222 F. 846, 139 C.C.A. 272.

Six-year limitations period for offenses involving defrauding the United States applied to charges of unlawfully conspiring to defraud United States by impeding, impairing, obstructing and defeating the lawful efforts of the Internal Revenue Service to ascertain, compute, assess, and collect income taxes, rather than general five-year statute of limitations, although overt acts listed in indictment did not contain words willful, intentional, or their equivalent. U.S. v. Christensen, D.Utah 2004, 344 F.Supp.2d 1294. Internal Revenue ☞ 5281

Count of indictment charging defendant with conspiracy to make false statements to banks and to misapply bank funds, which alleged that nine of the 14 overt acts alleged were committed within five years of filing of the indictment, was not barred by section 3282 of this title. U.S. v. Epperson, S.D.Ill.1982, 552 F.Supp. 359.

Count of indictment charging conspiracy to commit obscenity offenses was not barred by five-year statute of limitations. U. S. v. Luros, N.D.Iowa 1965, 243 F.Supp. 160, certiorari denied 86 S.Ct. 433, 382 U.S. 956, 15 L.Ed.2d 361.

Count alleging continuing conspiracy was not time-barred. U. S. v. Hughes, S.D.N.Y.1961, 195 F.Supp. 795.

Indictment charging continuous course of conduct to date of indictment, and specific violations within limitation period, was not time-barred. U. S. v. Hughes, S.D.N.Y.1961, 195 F.Supp. 795.

Statute of limitations for a conspiracy to defraud United States, to obstruct justice, and to commit perjury is indefinitely extended. U S v. Bonanno, S.D.N.Y.1959, 177 F.Supp. 106, on subsequent appeal 285 F.2d 408.

Indictments charging conspiracy to defraud the United States by violating income tax statutes, attempted evasion of income taxes and aiding and abetting such evasion charged separate and not identical offenses. U.S. v. Albanese, S.D.N.Y.1954, 123 F.Supp. 732, affirmed 224 F.2d 879, certiorari denied 76 S.Ct. 87, 350 U.S. 845, 100 L.Ed. 753 . Criminal Law ☞ 29(5.5)

Prosecution under indictment charging violation of general conspiracy statute, former § 88 of this title [now this section], in that defendant fraudulently petitioned for and obtained naturalization in a naturalization proceeding was within war statute, former § 590a of this title, providing that prosecution involving defrauding or attempts to defraud United States or any agency thereof should not be barred until three years after hostilities had ended. U.S. v. Bridges, N.D.Cal.1949, 86 F.Supp. 922.

839. ---- Commencement and running of period, limitations, defenses

Where conspiracy indictment was returned on October 25, 1954, it was incumbent on the government to prove that conspiracy, as contemplated in agreement as finally formulated, was still in existence on October 25, 1951, and that at least one overt act in furtherance of conspiracy was performed after that date. Grunewald v. U.S., U.S.N.Y.1957, 77 S.Ct. 963, 353 U.S. 391, 1 L.Ed.2d 931.

If central objective of conspiracy to defraud the United States by operation of a tax fixing ring was to protect taxpayers from tax-evasion prosecutions, on which statute of limitations did not run until 1952, and if the 1948 and 1949 "no prosecution" rulings obtained by conspirators were but an "installment" of what conspirators aimed to accomplish, then statute of limitations on conspiracy did not begin to run until 1952, within three years of the indictment. Grunewald v. U.S., U.S.N.Y.1957, 77 S.Ct. 963, 353 U.S. 391, 1 L.Ed.2d 931.

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

An indictment returned on October 25, 1954 charging conspiracy to defraud the United States by operation of a tax fixing ring in obtaining "no prosecution" rulings in 1948 and 1949 could not escape bar of three year statute of limitations, § 3282 of this title, on theory that general aim of conspiracy was to engage in continuing business of fixing any and all tax fraud cases, where no overt act done to further the purpose of engaging in "new" business was charged or proved to have occurred after October 25, 1951. Grunewald v. U.S., U.S.N.Y.1957, 77 S.Ct. 963, 353 U.S. 391, 1 L.Ed.2d 931.

Where particular scam had already effectively rendered partnership profitless, partnership dissolution which relieved partnership from having to file future tax returns would not lead to the concealment of income and thus statute of limitations on tax fraud conspiracy charges did not begin to run on the date of dissolution. U.S. v. Fletcher, C.A.2 (Conn.) 1991, 928 F.2d 495, certiorari denied 112 S.Ct. 67, 502 U.S. 815, 116 L.Ed.2d 41.

Statute of limitations had not run on charge of conspiring to defraud United States even though indictment was unsealed after limitations period, where original indictment was returned by grand jury within limitation period, and indictment was sealed for legitimate purpose. U.S. v. Southland Corp., C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1985, 760 F.2d 1366, certiorari denied 106 S.Ct. 82, 474 U.S. 825, 88 L.Ed.2d 67.

For statute of limitations purposes, conspiracy continued after commission of the substantive underlying offense had been completed, namely, until the conspirator received anticipated economic benefits. U.S. v. Mennuti, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1982, 679 F.2d 1032. Criminal Law ↪ 150

It is proper for jury to infer one conspiracy starting before and ending after statute of limitations period. U.S. v. Ashdown, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1975, 509 F.2d 793, rehearing denied 511 F.2d 1402, certiorari denied 96 S.Ct. 48, 423 U.S. 829, 46 L.Ed.2d 47. Criminal Law ↪ 150

Each defendant can be held only for that part of the conspiracy which he understood and assented to, and the statute of limitations will begin to run for him when his own agreement terminates. U.S. v. Borelli, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1964, 336 F.2d 376, certiorari denied 85 S.Ct. 647, 379 U.S. 960, 13 L.Ed.2d 555. Criminal Law ↪ 150

Where internal revenue agent did not affirmatively disassociate himself from conspiracy with other revenue agents and accountant to fix real or purported government claims based on defective income tax returns to defraud the United States, and there was ample evidence to show that other members of conspiracy committed overt acts as part of the conspiracy after date three years before filing of indictment charging that revenue agent with conspiracy to defraud the United States, three year limitations statute, § 3282 of this title and § 3748 of Title 26 [I.R.C.1939], had not run in favor of that revenue agent. U.S. v. Witt, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1954, 215 F.2d 580, certiorari denied 75 S.Ct. 207, 348 U.S. 887, 99 L.Ed. 697. Criminal Law ↪ 150

Acts committed more than three years before indictment was returned charging a conspiracy to obstruct administration of justice could be proved to show the existence and continuance of the conspiracy, though there could be no prosecution for any substantive offense charged as an overt act. U.S. v. Johnson, C.C.A.3 (Pa.) 1947, 165 F.2d 42, certiorari denied 68 S.Ct. 355, 332 U.S. 852, 92 L.Ed. 421, motion granted 68 S.Ct. 357, rehearing denied 68 S.Ct. 457, 333 U.S. 834, 92 L.Ed. 1118, certiorari denied 68 S.Ct. 355, 332 U.S. 852, 92 L.Ed. 422. Conspiracy ↪ 46

Limitations did not run against prosecution for conspiracy to defraud the United States in connection with sale of zinc to it until payment of check therefor or giving of credit by the bank of deposit. Meyer v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Wash.) 1915, 220 F. 800, 135 C.C.A. 564. Criminal Law ↪ 150

A conspiracy continues, so far as the statute of limitations is concerned, so long as there is a course of conduct in violation of law to effect its purpose. Ryan v. U.S., C.C.A.7 (Ind.) 1914, 216 F. 13, 132 C.C.A. 257. See, also, Braverman v. U.S., C.C.A.Mich.1942, 125 F.2d 283, reversed on other grounds 63 S.Ct. 99, 317 U.S. 49, 87 L.Ed. 23.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Co-conspirator's sale of stock warrants, which conspirators had secretly accumulated for purpose of selling at profit, was overt act occurring within five years of indictment for conspiracy to commit securities fraud, and thus prosecution was timely; purpose of conspiracy was not accumulation of warrants, but rather their subsequent sale for profit. U.S. v. Benussi, S.D.N.Y.2002, 216 F.Supp.2d 299, affirmed 352 F.3d 608, post-conviction relief denied 2005 WL 1248824. Criminal Law ↪ 150

Defendants' claims that they withdrew from alleged odometer tampering conspiracy more than five years before they were indicted raised question for jury on statute of limitations defense; although defendants claimed that they withdrew from conspiracy when they confessed or cooperated with government, government alleged that the defendants did not do everything within their power to prevent commission of offenses and that their passivity in response to further actions with respect to "clocked" cars negated their attempted withdrawals. U.S. v. Waldrop, M.D.Pa.1991, 786 F.Supp. 1194, affirmed 983 F.2d 1054, certiorari denied 113 S.Ct. 2440, 508 U.S. 950, 124 L.Ed.2d 658. Conspiracy ↪ 48.1(3); Criminal Law ↪ 739(3)

Six-year limitations period applicable to conspiracy charges based on defendants' alleged conspiracy to evade taxes commenced when defendants last made false statements to Internal Revenue Service agents designed to conceal fraudulent deductions, rather than when deductions were actually taken. U.S. v. Feldman, S.D.N.Y.1990, 731 F.Supp. 1189. Criminal Law ↪ 150

Statute of limitations on a conspiracy charge does not begin to run when the scheme is first conceived. U.S. v. Isaacs, N.D.Ill.1972, 347 F.Supp. 743. Criminal Law ↪ 150

Where defendant was arrested on March 5, 1954 for his participation in a conspiracy and limitation statute was amended on September 1, 1954 by extending period of limitation from three to five years and new period was made effective not only with respect to offenses committed on or after date of enactment but also as to offenses committed prior to such date, if on such date prosecution therefor was not barred by provisions of law in effect prior to such date, five-year period applied to the conspiracy prosecution against defendant and his subsequent indictment on October 23, 1957 was not barred. U.S. v. Gelb, S.D.N.Y.1959, 175 F.Supp. 267, affirmed 269 F.2d 675, certiorari denied 80 S.Ct. 66, 361 U.S. 822, 4 L.Ed.2d 66. Criminal Law ↪ 146

The Wartime Suspension of Limitations Act, § 3287 of this title, providing in part that when United States is at war, the running of any statute of limitations applicable to any offense committed in connection with the disposition of any real or personal property of the United States shall be suspended until three years after termination of hostilities as proclaimed by President, applied to offense of causing veteran employed by corporations of which defendant was president and treasurer to make a false statement in application for certain government surplus property, to effect that property was not to be sold by veteran when, in fact, it was procured for purpose of sale and was sold by veteran to corporations. U.S. v. Epstein, E.D.Pa.1953, 119 F.Supp. 946. Criminal Law ↪ 151.1

The crime of conspiracy is a continuing offense and an indictment alleging criminal conspiracy need not limit allegations of conspiracy to the three-year period preceding the return of the indictment. U.S. v. Westbrook, W.D.Ark.1953, 114 F.Supp. 192. Indictment And Information ↪ 87(6)

A continuing conspiracy does not toll statute of limitations, where agreement, which can be continuous, and overt act of short duration to effect object of conspiracy are both essential to constitute punishable crime. U.S. v. Schneiderman, S.D.Cal.1952, 106 F.Supp. 892. Criminal Law ↪ 150

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

The Wartime Suspension of Limitations Act, § 3287 of this title, applied only to offenses committed prior to Presidential Proclamation of December 31, 1946, and indictment under this section and §§ 287 and 1001 of this title for offense committed after such date, but more than three years prior to return of indictment, was barred by three year statute of limitations. U.S. v. Peoples Sav. Bank in Providence, D.C.R.I.1952, 102 F.Supp. 439. See, also, U.S. v. Riley, D.C.R.I.1952, 102 F.Supp. 440. Criminal Law ☞ 151.1

The existence of a conspiracy and conscious participation of defendant therein within three years before filing of indictment were indispensable to maintenance of prosecution for conspiracy to commit an offense against United States. U.S. v. Ames, S.D.N.Y.1941, 39 F.Supp. 885. Criminal Law ☞ 147

840. --- Overt acts committed within period, limitations, defenses

Where substantiation of a conspiracy charge requires proof of an overt act, it must be shown both that conspiracy still subsisted within three years prior to return of indictment, and that at least one overt act in furtherance of conspiratorial agreement was performed within that period. Grunewald v. U.S., U.S.N.Y.1957, 77 S.Ct. 963, 353 U.S. 391, 1 L.Ed.2d 931. Criminal Law ☞ 150

Where main objective of conspiracy to defraud the United States by operation of a tax fixing ring was the obtaining in 1948 and 1949 of "no prosecution" rulings by the Bureau of Internal Revenue, prosecution commenced in 1954 was barred by three-year statute of limitations, § 3282 of this title, as against contention that conspiracy also included as a subsidiary element an agreement to conceal the conspiracy to "fix" tax cases to the end that conspirators would escape detection and punishment, since no agreement to conceal conspiracy after its accomplishment was shown or could be implied on the evidence to have been part of conspiratorial agreement. Grunewald v. U.S., U.S.N.Y.1957, 77 S.Ct. 963, 353 U.S. 391, 1 L.Ed.2d 931. Criminal Law ☞ 150

Conspiracy to use the mails to defraud, within former § 88 of this title [now this section], which the indictment alleged was designed to be and was in fact continuous, continued so far as limitations were concerned, so long as the overt acts were done by any of the conspirators. Brown v. Elliott, U.S.Cal.1912, 32 S.Ct. 812, 225 U.S. 392, 56 L.Ed. 1136. Criminal Law ☞ 150

A conspiracy to acquire fraudulently school lands from the states of California and Oregon, and to corrupt the officers of the General Land Office to facilitate their selection, under Act June 4, 1897 (repealed in part) in exchange for other public lands, continued, so far as limitations were concerned, so long as any overt acts were done in furtherance of the conspiracy. Hyde v. U.S., U.S.Dist.Col.1912, 32 S.Ct. 793, 225 U.S. 347, 56 L.Ed. 1114, Am. Ann. Cas. 1914A,614. Criminal Law ☞ 150

Filing of notice of appeal by defendant attorney did not constitute "overt act" in furtherance of conspiracy to obstruct justice, and thus did not bring conspiracy within limitations period, where object of conspiracy was to fabricate and backdate documents for filing in federal court, not generally to obtain favorable verdict for client, and filing of notice of appeal was not reasonably calculated to effect specific object of conspiracy. U.S. v. Craft, C.A.6 (Ky.) 1997, 105 F.3d 1123. Criminal Law ☞ 150

Submission, within limitations period, of request to Nuclear Regulatory Commission (NRC) to end suspension of nuclear materials license imposed due to false documents respecting shipment of radioactive material was part of main conspiracy to defraud United States by concealing from NRC violation of its rules governing shipments, rather than mere cover-up under Grunewald rule precluding use of conspiracy cover-up as part of conspiracy for limitations purposes, and, thus, main conspiracy continued through commission of that overt act and prosecution for main conspiracy was not barred by statute of limitations, where it was essential part of conspiracy to continue to mislead NRC, and false documentation was submitted for that purpose. U.S. v. Finlay, C.A.9 (Hawai'i) 1995, 55 F.3d 1410, certiorari denied 116 S.Ct. 193, 516 U.S. 871, 133 L.Ed.2d 129. Criminal Law ☞ 150

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Execution of promissory note to secure for one conspirator his fair share of profits was an overt act in furtherance of tax fraud conspiracy and could trigger limitations period. U.S. v. Fletcher, C.A.2 (Conn.) 1991, 928 F.2d 495, certiorari denied 112 S.Ct. 67, 502 U.S. 815, 116 L.Ed.2d 41. Criminal Law ⚡ 150

Objectives of conspiracy to impede the Internal Revenue Service in the ascertainment, computation and collection of federal income taxes were not attained on date allegedly inaccurate returns were filed, or due if they were not filed, but, rather, conspiracy would not be successful unless source of unreported income was concealed until action thereon was barred and evasion of taxes permanently effected; therefore, evidence of overt acts, which were designed to conceal source of unreported income and which occurred within six-year statute of limitations period, was sufficient to defeat timeliness challenge to the conspiracy prosecution. U.S. v. Vogt, C.A.4 (N.C.) 1990, 910 F.2d 1184, rehearing denied, certiorari denied 111 S.Ct. 955, 498 U.S. 1083, 112 L.Ed.2d 1043, dismissal of habeas corpus affirmed 17 F.3d 1435, certiorari denied 114 S.Ct. 1648, 128 L.Ed.2d 367. Criminal Law ⚡ 150

For limitations purposes, police officer's promotion constituted "overt act" in furtherance of mail fraud conspiracy involving officer's receipt of advance copy of promotion examination even though officer's receipt of salary payments attributable to promotion was not sufficient to forestall running of limitations period. U.S. v. Nazzaro, C.A.1 (Mass.) 1989, 889 F.2d 1158, rehearing denied, denial of post-conviction relief affirmed 993 F.2d 1530. Criminal Law ⚡ 150

In prosecution for wire fraud, mail fraud, interstate travel in aid of racketeering and conspiracy, if prosecution elected on retrial to proceed on theory of concealment in order to extend conspiracy into period of limitations, it would have to present direct evidence that conspirators originally expressly agreed to conceal conspiracy and show beyond reasonable doubt that certain transfer furthered that purpose; neither circumstantial evidence permitting an inference of agreement to conceal, nor direct evidence that conspirators implicitly agreed to conceal would satisfy prosecution's burden of production, and it could not rely on evidence that conspirators agreed to conceal their doings from a defendant's internal auditors. U.S. v. Steele, C.A.3 (N.J.) 1982, 685 F.2d 793, certiorari denied 103 S.Ct. 213, 459 U.S. 908, 74 L.Ed.2d 170. Criminal Law ⚡ 565

Despite contention that applicable five-year statute of limitations had run before defendant was indicted for conspiracy, in that two leap years passed during interim, prosecution was timely where, although conspiracy began outside limitation period, conspiracy continued and overt acts were committed within such limitation period. U.S. v. Parker, C.A.5 (Fla.) 1978, 586 F.2d 422, rehearing denied 590 F.2d 333, certiorari denied 99 S.Ct. 2408, 441 U.S. 962, 60 L.Ed.2d 1067. Criminal Law ⚡ 150

In a conspiracy prosecution for violating this section, the statute of limitations must be computed from the date of the last overt act of which there is appropriate allegation and proof, and it is not sufficient that the government prove an overt act within the limitations period that is not alleged in the indictment. U.S. v. Davis, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1976, 533 F.2d 921. Criminal Law ⚡ 155

Since indictment charging conspiracy to defraud the United States was filed on October 23, 1973, the Government was only required to show that one overt act in furtherance of the conspiracy occurred after October 23, 1968, in order to avoid being time barred by the five-year limitations period. U.S. v. Brasco, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1975, 516 F.2d 816, certiorari denied 96 S.Ct. 116, 423 U.S. 860, 46 L.Ed.2d 88. Criminal Law ⚡ 150

In prosecution under indictment which was returned February 6, 1969 and which charged a broad and continuing conspiracy to misapply funds of a federally insured state-chartered savings and loan association and to make false and fraudulent statements to an agency of the United States, instruction that the government must prove that at least one overt act as set forth in indictment was committed and that one or more of overt acts occurred after February 6, 1964 was a sufficient instruction on statute of limitations defense. U.S. v. Nowak, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1971, 448 F.2d 134, certiorari denied 92 S.Ct. 714, 404 U.S. 1039, 30 L.Ed.2d 731. Criminal Law ⚡ 772(4)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In prosecution for conspiracy to evade income taxes, evidence that the defendant committed overt acts within the six-year period of limitations prior to the return of the indictment established that the prosecution was not barred by limitations. U.S. v. Keenan, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1959, 267 F.2d 118, certiorari denied 80 S.Ct. 121, 361 U.S. 863, 4 L.Ed.2d 104, rehearing denied 80 S.Ct. 254, 361 U.S. 921, 4 L.Ed.2d 189. Criminal Law ¶ 565

That evidence admitted would extend conspiracy back to date prior to that laid in indictment was immaterial, where overt acts were within period of statute of limitations. Merrill v. U.S., C.C.A.5 (La.) 1930, 40 F.2d 315. Indictment And Information ¶ 176

Conceding that the limitation of one year prescribed in former § 52 of Title 11 was applicable to a conspiracy to commit an offense created by that section, the prosecution was not barred, where there was evidence of overt acts within 12 months before the finding of the indictment. Miller v. U.S., C.C.A.4 (S.C.) 1921, 277 F. 721. Criminal Law ¶ 155

Although the mere continuance of the result of a crime does not continue the crime, it is also true that "so long as it may be shown that the conspirators are acting together for the common purpose comprehended by the scheme formed and entered upon with the view to defraud the government, and have, while so acting together, committed some overt act to effectuate the purpose, all within the three years prior to the finding of the indictment, the statute has not run." Meyer v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Wash.) 1915, 220 F. 800, 135 C.C.A. 564.

Where a conspiracy to defraud the United States was formed more than three years prior to the indictment, and acts in pursuance thereof were done both prior to and within the three years' prosecution therefor under former § 88 of this title [now this section], it was not barred by the limitation imposed by former § 582 of this title. Houston v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Wash.) 1914, 217 F. 852, 133 C.C.A. 562, certiorari denied 35 S.Ct. 284, 238 U.S. 613, 59 L.Ed. 1490. See, also, Stager v. U.S., N.Y.1916, 233 F. 510, 147 C.C.A. 396. Criminal Law ¶ 150

"Any act in execution of the original plan may be regarded as a renewal of the original combination, and may be prosecuted against any one participating, personally or through others, within three years after such act." U.S. v. Reddin, E.D.Wis.1912, 193 F. 798.

A prosecution for a conspiracy and overt act in pursuance thereof committed more than three years before the filing of the indictment is barred by limitations, but subsequent overt acts committed under the old conspiracy within three years will sustain a prosecution for the conspiracy. Ware v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Neb.) 1907, 154 F. 577, 84 C.C.A. 503, 12 Am. Ann. Cas. 233, certiorari denied 28 S.Ct. 255, 207 U.S. 588, 52 L.Ed. 353. Criminal Law ¶ 150

An overt act committed by one of alleged co-conspirators within three years, under a conspiracy between him and the defendant formed and followed by an overt act more than three years before the filing of the indictment, without the defendant's consent or agreement within the three years to the continued existence and execution of the conspiracy, is incompetent to establish its existence and his participation therein within three years. Ware v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Neb.) 1907, 154 F. 577, 84 C.C.A. 503, 12 Am. Ann. Cas. 233, certiorari denied 28 S.Ct. 255, 207 U.S. 588, 52 L.Ed. 353. Criminal Law ¶ 150

Proof of the formation by defendant and others more than three years before the indictment of such a conspiracy as that charged in the indictment and of an overt act thereunder prior to the three years is insufficient to sustain the charge of conspiracy within the three years, but other evidence of the existence of the conspiracy and of defendant's conscious participation in it within three years is competent evidence for the jury. Ware v. U. S., C.C.A.8 (Neb.) 1907, 154 F. 577, 84 C.C.A. 503, 12 Am. Ann. Cas. 233, certiorari denied 28 S.Ct. 255, 207 U.S. 588, 52 L.Ed. 353. Criminal Law ¶ 150

An overt act being necessary to sustain a prosecution for conspiracy to defraud the United States, under former §

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

88 of this title [now this section], the statute of limitations did not begin to run against such a prosecution until the commission of an overt act, and since every such overt act was a renewal of the conspiracy, a prosecution could have been instituted within three years after the commission of any overt act, although more than that length of time may have elapsed since the conspiracy was first formed or the first of such acts was committed thereunder. U.S. v. Bradford, C.C.E.D.La.1905, 148 F. 413, affirmed 152 F. 616, 81 C.C.A. 606, certiorari denied 27 S.Ct. 795, 206 U.S. 563, 51 L.Ed. 1190.

Where an alleged conspiracy to defraud the United States out of public lands was formed in September, 1902, and the necessary affidavits to consummate the fraud were filed on the 7th and 8th of October, 1902, the filing of such affidavits constituted an overt act, which started limitations against a prosecution for conspiracy, which was barred on October 8, 1905, under former § 582 of this title, limiting prosecutions for federal offenses to three years after the offense shall have been committed. Ex parte Black, E.D.Wis.1906, 147 F. 832, affirmed 160 F. 431, 87 C.C.A. 383. Criminal Law ⚡ 150

When an overt act is committed the offense of conspiracy is complete, and the statute of limitations at once begins to run, but it does not follow that all similar acts thereafter may be committed with impunity, if the first act is barred by the statute, since through the repetition of overt acts, the conspiracy is made a continuing offense. Lorenz v. U.S., App.D.C.1904, 24 App.D.C. 337, certiorari denied 25 S.Ct. 796, 196 U.S. 640, 49 L.Ed. 631.

Count charging health care conspiracy was timely brought, notwithstanding commission of some overt acts outside five-year limitations period, where other overt acts, including defendants' receipt of Medicare checks on false claims, occurred within period. U.S. v. Cooper, D.Kan.2003, 283 F.Supp.2d 1215. Criminal Law ⚡ 150

Where conspiracy indictment was returned more than five years after date of last overt act in furtherance of conspiracy, as charged in indictment, indictment failed to meet five-year statute of limitations. U.S. v. Treto, S.D.Fla.1995, 904 F.Supp. 1374. Criminal Law ⚡ 150

For purposes of period of limitations, section 3282 of this title, overt acts alleged in indictment and approved at trial mark the duration of the conspiracy, and, accordingly, proof of overt acts, occurring within five years prior to indictment but not charged in indictment, were not sufficient to satisfy the period of limitations, section 3282 of this title. U.S. v. Walls, N.D.Ga.1984, 577 F.Supp. 772. Criminal Law ⚡ 149

Proof that a conspiracy continued into period of limitations and that an overt act in furtherance of the conspiracy was performed within that period constitutes an element of offense of conspiracy under this section; thus, in order to convict a defendant under this section, government must prove prima facie that period of limitations was satisfied, a burden that will be met if government proves prima facie that an overt act in furtherance of conspiracy was committed within limitations period. U.S. v. Greichunos, N.D.Ill.1983, 572 F.Supp. 220. Criminal Law ⚡ 330; Criminal Law ⚡ 565

In prosecution for criminal conspiracy, an overt act must be alleged and proved which occurred within the three-year statute of limitations. U.S. v. Westbrook, W.D.Ark.1953, 114 F.Supp. 192. Indictment And Information ⚡ 166

The doctrine of continuing conspiracy renders evidence of conspirators' agreement and overt acts antedating three year limitation period admissible, not to show accused's guilt when such acts were committed, but to show illegal agreement, accused's participation therein and his knowledge and intent in order to aid jury's determination of issues whether conspiracy existed, whether defendant was party thereto with knowledge and intent charged, and whether overt act was done to effect object of conspiracy, within limitation period. U.S. v. Schneiderman, S.D.Cal.1952, 106 F.Supp. 892. Criminal Law ⚡ 422(1)

A continuing conspiracy does not toll statute of limitations, where agreement, which can be continuous, and overt act of short duration to effect object of conspiracy are both essential to constitute punishable crime. U.S. v. Schneiderman, S.D.Cal.1952, 106 F.Supp. 892. Criminal Law ↻ 150

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Evidence of criminal conspiracy antedating three year limitation period is not inadmissible, but to convict accused, proof must establish that conspirators agreement, shown to exist before such period, continued in effect and that overt act to effect object of agreement was committed within limitation period. U.S. v. Schneiderman, S.D.Cal.1952, 106 F.Supp. 892. Criminal Law ↻ 150

The crime of conspiracy is complete as soon as an act is done to effect object of conspirators' agreement, though agreement may be continuous, and indictment for such offense must be found within three years after such act. U.S. v. Schneiderman, S.D.Cal.1952, 106 F.Supp. 892. Criminal Law ↻ 150

841. ---- Last overt act as controlling, limitations, defenses

Final payment of contract with United States and acceptance of that payment were part of bid-rigging conspiracy, and extended five year limitations period for prosecuting charges of conspiracy to violate Sherman Act and to commit fraud. U.S. v. Anderson, C.A.11 (Ala.) 2003, 326 F.3d 1319, rehearing and rehearing en banc denied 71 Fed.Appx. 824, 2003 WL 21432589, certiorari denied 124 S.Ct. 178, 540 U.S. 825, 157 L.Ed.2d 46. Criminal Law ↻ 150

Conspiracy on part of American and Chinese defendants to deceive United States into issuing export licenses for aircraft machinery tools that were subject to export controls ended with issuance of export licenses, not on later date when tools were actually exported and delivered, absent any allegation in indictment that American corporation and executive shared their Chinese co-conspirators' separate alleged purpose of diverting machine tools to unauthorized locations upon their arrival in China, and thus indictment of American executive was time-barred when not brought within five years of export. U.S. v. Hitt, C.A.D.C.2001, 249 F.3d 1010, 346 U.S.App.D.C. 16. Criminal Law ↻ 150

Although written confirmation from general land office (GLO) was integral to success of scheme to secure from State of Texas the continued right to exploit mineral resources of tract, and was necessary step in the plot, mailing by GLO was not overt act of conspirator and thus could not be considered last act of conspiracy for limitations purposes. U.S. v. Manges, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1997, 110 F.3d 1162, rehearing and suggestion for rehearing en banc denied 116 F.3d 1479, certiorari denied 118 S.Ct. 1675, 523 U.S. 1106, 140 L.Ed.2d 813. Criminal Law ↻ 150

Last overt act of conspiracy to defraud United States by bid rigging timber sale by United States Forest Service was not committed when defendant filed false certificate that no bid rigging had taken place in connection with his bid on two timber sales or when award was made to defendant at an artificially deflated price, but rather conspiracy was not complete until defendant had cut last timber, obtained title to it, paid government noncompetitive price for it, resold it at excess profit, and split the excess with his coconspirators; therefore, indictment was not barred where some payoffs of coconspirators occurred well within five-year period. U.S. v. Walker, C.A.9 (Or.) 1981, 653 F.2d 1343, certiorari denied 102 S.Ct. 1253, 455 U.S. 908, 71 L.Ed.2d 446. Criminal Law ↻ 150

For limitations purposes, a conspiracy may be deemed terminated when, in a broad sense, its objectives have either been accomplished or abandoned, not when its last overt act was committed. U.S. v. Grammatikos, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1980, 633 F.2d 1013. Criminal Law ↻ 150

Evidence in prosecution for conspiracy to use mails in furtherance of scheme to defraud and conspiracy to defraud United States by obstructing the Internal Revenue Service sustained finding that defendants' acts of concealment which took place within five-year limitations period were done in furtherance of overall conspiracy, and therefore, defendants' prosecution was not time barred. U.S. v. Fitzgerald, C.A.7 (Ind.) 1978, 579 F.2d 1014, certiorari denied 99 S.Ct. 610, 439 U.S. 1002, 58 L.Ed.2d 677, certiorari denied 99 S.Ct. 611, 439 U.S. 1002, 58 L.Ed.2d

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

677. Criminal Law ⚡ 564(1)

Bank employee's concealment of misapplication of funds through making of false entries in bank's records for many years after bank employees honored defendant's checks even though insufficient funds were on deposit in defendant's account was in furtherance of original conspiracy and period of limitation did not begin to run until last time bank's records were falsified to cover up prior false entries. U.S. v. Portner, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1972, 462 F.2d 678, certiorari denied 93 S.Ct. 319, 409 U.S. 983, 34 L.Ed.2d 246. Criminal Law ⚡ 150

In conspiracy cases, statute of limitations starts to run on date of last overt act alleged to have caused complainant injury. Bergschneider v. Denver, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1971, 446 F.2d 569. Limitation Of Actions ⚡ 55(1)

Conspiracy is a continuing offense so long as any concerted action continues, but even in conspiracy, concert may end and only the result remain, and in that event the limitation runs from end of the concert which may be the last overt act. United States v. Lewis, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1947, 161 F.2d 683. Criminal Law ⚡ 150

Where the conspiracy contemplates various overt acts and the consequent continuance of the conspiracy beyond the commission of the first act, each overt act thereafter gives a new, separate and distinct effect to the conspiracy, and constitutes another agreement, so that a prosecution is not barred by the statute of limitations until three years after the commission of the last overt act alleged and proved. Pinkerton v. U.S., C.C.A.5 (Ala.) 1944, 145 F.2d 252. Criminal Law ⚡ 150

A conspiracy by state and local officers, acting under color of law, to deprive inhabitants of United States of rights and immunities secured and protected by U.S.C.A.Const. Amend. 14 and federal laws by imprisoning and mistreating them for the purpose of extortion, was a "continuing conspiracy", against which the statute of limitations did not commence to run until the last overt act leading to accomplishment of the conspiracy was committed. Culp v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Ark.) 1942, 131 F.2d 93. Criminal Law ⚡ 150

Where the last overt act alleged in indictment and proved by government in prosecution for conspiracy by state and local officers acting under color of law to deprive inhabitants of the United States of rights and immunities secured and protected by U.S.C.A.Const. Amend. 14 and federal laws occurred within the period of limitations, fact that prosecution for a substantive offense charged as an overt act was barred by limitations did not preclude proof of the commission of such act in furtherance of the conspiracy or as indicating that conspiracy commenced and continued as alleged in indictment. Culp v. U. S., C.C.A.8 (Ark.) 1942, 131 F.2d 93. Criminal Law ⚡ 423(1)

Where, in a prosecution for conspiracy to commit a crime against the United States is violation of former §§ 88 [now this section] and 382 of this title, the indictments charged the first overt act as of January 20, 1908, and the last August 27, 1911, and were filed February 6, 26, 1912, the prosecution was not barred by limitations. Ryan v. U.S., C.C.A.7 (Ind.) 1914, 216 F. 13, 132 C.C.A. 257. Criminal Law ⚡ 150

Where a conspiracy to defraud the United States of public lands contemplated various overt acts, a prosecution begun within three years of the last overt act was not barred by former § 582 of this title. Hedderly v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Or.) 1912, 193 F. 561, 114 C.C.A. 227.

Where defendants devise a scheme to defraud, consisting of plans for the sale of corporate stock by false representations to be carried out by means of correspondence through the post office, the conspiracy was a continuing offense, and a prosecution therefor was not barred until three years from the last overt act. Wilson v. U.S., C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1911, 190 F. 427, 111 C.C.A. 231. Criminal Law ⚡ 150

While under former § 88 of this title [now this section] the gravamen of the offense was the conspiracy, there also must have been overt act to make the offense complete, and so the period of limitation within which it may have been prosecuted was computed from the date of the overt act rather than the formation of the conspiracy, and where during the existence of the conspiracy there were successive overt acts, the period of limitation was computed from the date of the last of them of which there was appropriate allegation and proof. U.S. v. Francis, E.D.Pa.1906, 144 F. 520, affirmed as modified on other grounds 152 F. 155, 81 C.C.A. 407, certiorari denied 27 S.Ct. 797, 206 U.S. 565, 51 L.Ed. 1191. See, also, Brown v. Elliott, Cal.1912, 32 S.Ct. 812, 225 U.S. 392, 56 L.Ed. 1136; Jones v. U.S., Or.1910, 179 F. 584, 103 C.C.A. 142; Lonabaugh v. U.S., Wyo.1910, 179 F. 476, 103 C.C.A. 56; U.S. v. Breese, C.C.N.C.1909, 173 F. 402; U.S. v. Raley, D.C.Or.1909, 173 F. 159; Jones v. U.S., Or.1908, 162 F. 417, 89 C.C.A. 303, certiorari denied 29 S.Ct. 685, 212 U.S. 576, 53 L.Ed. 657; Bradford v. U.S., 1907, 152 F. 616, 81 C.C.A. 606, certiorari denied 27 S.Ct. 795, 206 U.S. 563, 51 L.Ed. 1190; U.S. v. Brace, D.C.Cal.1907, 149 F. 874.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Where conspiracy charged in indictment was alleged to have continued for one and one-half years after an incident which was named as an overt act, that the incident took place nearly three years before the indictment was returned did not require dismissal of indictment, despite fact that the incident had provided basis for an earlier arrest of defendant and two previous indictments which were dismissed. U.S. v. Smith, S.D.N.Y.1976, 412 F.Supp. 1. Indictment And Information ↪ 7

Where indictment charging conspiratorial and substantive violations of section 610 of this title prohibiting labor unions from making political contributions indicated that last overt act occurred on or about June 10, 1969, indictment was founded well within the five-year period of limitation and was not barred. U.S. v. Boyle, D.C.D.C.1972, 338 F.Supp. 1028. Criminal Law ↪ 150

A continuing conspiracy is a continuing danger, and statute of limitations runs from last objective act that indicates that the original agreement, and the danger arising therefrom, is still alive. U.S. v. Bonanno, S.D.N.Y.1959, 177 F.Supp. 106, on subsequent appeal 285 F.2d 408. Criminal Law ↪ 150

The statute of limitation begins to run on charge of conspiracy from date of last overt act properly alleged in indictment. U.S. v. Albanese, S.D.N.Y.1954, 123 F.Supp. 732, affirmed 224 F.2d 879, certiorari denied 76 S.Ct. 87, 350 U.S. 845, 100 L.Ed. 753. Criminal Law ↪ 150

Where, during existence of conspiracy, there are successive overt acts, three year period of limitations against prosecution for such conspiracy must be computed from date of last act of which there is appropriate allegation and proof, notwithstanding some of the earlier acts may have occurred more than three years before indictment was found. U.S. v. Flynn, S.D.N.Y.1951, 103 F.Supp. 925. Criminal Law ↪ 150

The three-year statute of limitations started to run as to conspiracies which under former § 88 of this title [now this section] did not become crimes until an overt act has occurred from the date of the last overt act, each succeeding overt act being considered the consummation of a new or revived conspiracy. U.S. v. McWilliams, D.C.D.C.1944, 54 F.Supp. 791. Criminal Law ↪ 150

842. ---- New parties and parties withdrawing, limitations, defenses

Disclosure by a government employe of continuing conspiracy to which he was a party, to defraud the United States out of its public lands, contrary to former § 88 of this title, did not prevent subsequent overt acts of any of his associates from continuing him in the conspiracy so far as the statute of limitations was concerned, if, after the first disclosure, he acquiesced in the later acts. Hyde v. U.S., U.S.Dist.Col.1912, 32 S.Ct. 793, 225 U.S. 347, 56 L.Ed. 1114, Am. Ann. Cas. 1914A,614. Criminal Law ↪ 150

Conspirator's actions which represented abandonment of portion of conspiracy designed to defraud taxpayer's employer was not an abandonment of the goals of profit distribution and tax fraud, and thus was an act within the latter conspiracy and could extend the time for running of the statute of limitations on the tax fraud conspiracy charge. U.S. v. Fletcher, C.A.2 (Conn.) 1991, 928 F.2d 495, certiorari denied 112 S.Ct. 67, 502 U.S. 815, 116

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

L.Ed.2d 41. Criminal Law ⚡ 150

In prosecution for using and for conspiring to use mails to defraud in sale of stock in gold mines, evidence sustained finding that defendant alleged to be the principal figure and directing genius of the scheme to defraud did not withdraw from the scheme prior to three years before indictment was returned and hence prosecution was not barred as to such defendant. U.S. v. Bob, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1939, 106 F.2d 37, certiorari denied 60 S.Ct. 115, 308 U.S. 589, 84 L.Ed. 493. Criminal Law ⚡ 288

As to a conspirator withdrawing from the scheme, the statute of limitations runs from time of his withdrawal. U.S. v. Raley, D.C.Or.1909, 173 F. 159.

Where an indictment charged that defendant and others did, on the 18th day of April, 1904, unlawfully, etc., conspire together to commit an offense against the United States, and the evidence established that defendant came into the conspiracy in October, 1902, while the indictment was found June 15, 1905, the offense was not barred by the three-years' limitation. U.S. v. Francis, E.D.Pa.1906, 144 F. 520, affirmed as modified on other grounds 152 F. 155, 81 C.C.A. 407, certiorari denied 27 S.Ct. 797, 206 U.S. 565, 51 L.Ed. 1191.

A conspiracy to defraud the United States by making unlawful entries of public lands cannot, for the purpose of avoiding the statute of limitations, be split up into different conspiracies for each section of land entered or for each overt act done, nor is there a new conspiracy by the parties to the original conspiracy, whenever a new party is brought into the scheme, so as to make the statute of limitations begin to run from that time. U.S. v. McCord, W.D.Wis.1895, 72 F. 159. Criminal Law ⚡ 150

Where at time that alleged coconspirator made alleged pay-offs he was acting as government agent and furthering purposes of the government rather than objectives of the conspiracy, the partnership in crime ceased and, by reason of such facts, government failed to seek timely indictment for conspiracy count. U.S. v. Walls, N.D.Ga.1984, 577 F.Supp. 772. Criminal Law ⚡ 149

Defendant who was alleged to be co-conspirator or co-schemer in stock manipulation conspiracy had burden of establishing defense of withdrawal, and, where both conspiracy and nonconspiracy counts of indictment were facially proper, question of whether defense of withdrawal was established was singularly inappropriate for pretrial decision on motion to dismiss and would be left for jury. U.S. v. Bloom, E.D.Pa.1977, 78 F.R.D. 591. Criminal Law ⚡ 330; Indictment And Information ⚡ 144.2

843. Plea agreement, defenses

Accepting plea agreement calling for sentence of 262 months' imprisonment, which was in excess of five-year maximum term of imprisonment set forth in statute of conviction, was plain error; error was apparent from language of statute, imposition of excessive sentence affected defendant's substantial rights, and acceptance of plea agreement calling for illegal sentence seriously affected fairness, integrity, or public reputation of the judicial proceedings. U.S. v. Gibson, C.A.7 (Ill.) 2004, 356 F.3d 761. Criminal Law ⚡ 1031(4)

Counts of second superseding indictment charging defendant with drug conspiracy involving cocaine and marijuana violated prior plea agreement implicitly obliging Government not to subsequently re prosecute defendant for same offenses alleged against him in counts of initial indictment, notwithstanding Government's argument that it was not currently prosecuting defendant for same offenses alleged in counts of initial indictment. U.S. v. Hawes, E.D.N.C.1991, 774 F.Supp. 965. Criminal Law ⚡ 273.1(2)

Conspiracy count in indictment was not subject to dismissal on ground that it was sought in violation of a prior promise of United States attorney that any superseding indictment would not contain a conspiracy count, where there was no evidence that United States attorney made any such commitment, nor citation of authority supporting proposition that violation of such a promise would require dismissal. U.S. v. Smith, N.D.Ga.1974, 65 F.R.D. 464. Indictment And Information ⚡ 144.1(1)

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

844. Provocation, defenses

That acts of violence committed by other parties might have tended to show provocation for retaliatory acts by defendants charged with conspiring to obstruct movement of mails and to restrain trade would not constitute a defense. U.S. v. Anderson, C.C.A.7 (Ill.) 1939, 101 F.2d 325, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 822, 307 U.S. 625, 83 L.Ed. 1502, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 822, 307 U.S. 625, 83 L.Ed. 1503, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 823, 307 U.S. 625, 83 L.Ed. 1503, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 823, 307 U.S. 625, 83 L.Ed. 1504, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 823, 307 U.S. 625, 83 L.Ed. 1504, 86 L.Ed. 1504, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 824, 307 U.S. 625, 83 L.Ed. 1505, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 824, 307 U.S. 625, 83 L.Ed. 1506, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 825, 307 U.S. 625, 83 L.Ed. 1506, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 825, 307 U.S. 625, 83 L.Ed. 1507, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 825, 307 U.S. 625, 83 L.Ed. 1508, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 826, 307 U.S. 625, 83 L.Ed. 1508, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 826, 307 U.S. 625, 83 L.Ed. 1509. Conspiracy ⚡ 38; Monopolies ⚡ 29

845. Res judicata, defenses

The commission of a substantive offense and a conspiracy to commit it are separate and distinct offenses, and with some exceptions, one may be prosecuted for both crimes but res judicata may be a defense in a second prosecution. Sealfon v. U. S., U.S.N.J.1948, 68 S.Ct. 237, 332 U.S. 575, 92 L.Ed. 180. Double Jeopardy ⚡ 151(3.1); Judgment ⚡ 751

Acquittal of conspiracy solely on ground that there was no proof of concert of action was not res judicata of substantive offenses relied on as overt acts in conspiracy indictment, particularly where transfer of ration coupons was relied on in conspiracy indictment and substantive offense charged was possession with intent to utter such coupons. U.S. v. Zeoli, C.A.3 (Pa.) 1948, 170 F.2d 358. Judgment ⚡ 751

Acquittal of conspiracy solely on ground that there was no proof of concert of action was not res judicata of substantive offenses relied on as overt acts in conspiracy indictment. U.S. v. Curzio, C.A.3 (Pa.) 1948, 170 F.2d 354. Judgment ⚡ 751

Acquittal of charge of conspiracy to harbor fugitive from justice was not res judicata in prosecution arising from same transaction for conspiracy to harbor another fugitive from justice, the two conspiracies being distinct offenses. Piquett v. U.S., C.C.A.7 (Ill.) 1936, 81 F.2d 75, certiorari denied 56 S.Ct. 749, 298 U.S. 664, 80 L.Ed. 1388. Judgment ⚡ 751

Prosecution for conspiracies to illegally sell and transport sacramental wine was not bar to nor res judicata in prosecution for conspiracies to violate bribery and extortion statutes, on theory that only one conspiracy was involved. U.S. v. Owen, D.C.Ill.1927, 21 F.2d 868. Criminal Law ⚡ 200(6)

Acquittal of conspiracy to defraud United States by issuing withdrawal permits in violation of National Prohibition Act, former § 1 et seq. of Title 27, barred second prosecution for such conspiracy by unlawfully issuing same permits, under doctrine of res judicata. U.S. v. McConnell, D.C.Pa.1926, 10 F.2d 977.

Acquittal on charge of conspiracy to violate National Prohibition Act, former § 1 et seq. of Title 27, was res judicata of libel for seizure of vessel and liquor cargo. U.S. v. 2,180 Cases of Champagne, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1926, 9 F.2d 710. Customs Duties ⚡ 133(1)

Principle of res judicata was not available to defendants charged with conspiracy following an earlier trial for conspiracy where the conspiracies were distinct and court was not confronted with the same offense. U.S. v. De

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Sapio, S.D.N.Y.1969, 299 F.Supp. 436. Judgment ⚡ 751

In prosecution for receiving and possessing goods stolen while moving in interstate commerce and conspiring to transport such goods in interstate commerce knowing them to have been stolen, where issues before jury on substantive count of transportation or aiding and abetting it, were not identical with issues with respect to conspiracy count and core of the case on substantive count was whether defendant had requisite guilty knowledge before transportation ceased, a verdict of acquittal on substantive count did not under the doctrine of "res judicata" determine in defendants' favor any issue essential to their conviction on the conspiracy count. U.S. v. Perrone, S.D.N.Y.1958, 161 F.Supp. 252. Judgment ⚡ 751

Indictment charging defendants with selling vending machines through mail by fraud stated offense separate from that charged in instant indictment for conspiracy and for substantive offense of mail fraud in sale of vending machines to different persons through different companies, and acquittal on first indictment did not furnish ground for quashing instant indictment and for discharge of defendants on pleas of autrefois acquit and res judicata. U.S. v. Hanlin, W.D.Mo.1962, 29 F.R.D. 481. Double Jeopardy ⚡ 151(3.1); Judgment ⚡ 751

846. Scope of employment, defenses

That defendant's employment required him to engage in criminal conspiracy is no defense. Susnjar v. U.S., C.C.A.6 (Ohio) 1928, 27 F.2d 223. Criminal Law ⚡ 58

Defendant's participation in a criminal conspiracy is not excused by showing that what he did was in performance of duties of his employment. Hardy v. U.S., C.C.A.5 (Tex.) 1919, 256 F. 284, 167 C.C.A. 456, certiorari denied 40 S.Ct. 9, 250 U.S. 659, 63 L.Ed. 1194. Conspiracy ⚡ 38

847. Termination of substantive statute, defenses

Prosecution for conspiracy to violate Emergency Price Control Act, 50 App. former § 901 et seq., was not barred because indictment was returned after termination of said sections in view of saving clause in 50 App. former § 901. Quirk v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Iowa) 1947, 161 F.2d 138. Criminal Law ⚡ 13.2

Federal District Court did not lose jurisdiction of prosecution for conspiracy to violate former § 123 of Title 27, prohibiting importation of liquor into dry state, where after completion of conspiracy and overt acts in furtherance thereof state prohibition law was repealed. Barker v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Ark.) 1936, 86 F.2d 284. Criminal Law ⚡ 15

848. Miscellaneous defenses

It is no defense to a charge of conspiracy based upon an effort to circumvent the law that the statutory scheme sought to be evaded is somehow defective. Dennis v. U. S., U.S.Colo.1966, 86 S.Ct. 1840, 384 U.S. 855, 16 L.Ed.2d 973. Conspiracy ⚡ 38

Government did not improperly manufacture federal jurisdiction in prosecution for conspiracy to commit bank fraud even though undercover agent gave defendant phony deposit slips from federally insured bank so that agent could satisfy defendant's demand for proof of deposit of stolen checks; all elements of federal conspiracy statute were met, as defendant scrutinized slips for authenticity and was well aware that apparent location of funds was at bank, defendant ordered his "secretary" to call bank in attempt to confirm deposit, and defendant and coconspirators undertook to pressure agent to withdraw money from bank. U.S. v. Wallace, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1996, 85 F.3d 1063. Criminal Law ⚡ 36.6

Facts of case did not support claim of outrageous government conduct though undercover informant was paid

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

$90,000 for his activity, supplied defendants with beer and food and paid for trip and bomb components in plan to bomb a homosexual bar, and though defendants were arrested before the bomb was assembled, where, at time informant first targeted defendants for investigation, both had already expressed interest in blowing up establishments frequented by homosexuals, and informant did not suggest or set up the plan from which the conspiracy evolved. U.S. v. Winslow, C.A.9 (Idaho) 1992, 962 F.2d 845, as amended. Criminal Law ¶ 36.6

Even if evidence showed two conspiracies and not one, defendant who was shown to be central figure in each was not prejudiced by indictment or trial as for one conspiracy in absence of claim of surprise and where plea of former conviction would be available on any subsequent prosecution for any matters alleged. Sanders v. U. S., C.A.5 (La.) 1969, 415 F.2d 621, certiorari denied 90 S.Ct. 1096, 397 U.S. 976, 25 L.Ed.2d 271. Criminal Law ¶ 1167(1)

Defendant charged with mailing obscene material and conspiracy was not entitled to acquittal on ground that governmental policy, as expressed in memorandum to effect that prosecution for mailing of obscene private correspondence should be an exception confined to cases involving repeated offenders or aggravated circumstances, was violated by prosecution of defendant. Spillman v. U.S., C.A.9 (Ariz.) 1969, 413 F.2d 527, certiorari denied 90 S.Ct. 265, 396 U.S. 930, 24 L.Ed.2d 228. Postal Service ¶ 31.1

Where defendant had been convicted of conspiracy to transfer marihuana not pursuant to written order, defendant would not, on appeal from conviction, be heard to complain that payment of tax on marihuana was impossible. Browning v. U. S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1966, 366 F.2d 420. Criminal Law ¶ 1134(8)

Fact that defendants offered to refund the premiums to insured after inspection of accident and sickness insurance policies, would not preclude conviction of defendants for use of mails in attempt to defraud in the sale of accident and sickness policies, and for conspiracy to commit the same offense. U.S. v. Sylvanus, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1951, 192 F.2d 96, certiorari denied 72 S.Ct. 555, 342 U.S. 943, 96 L.Ed. 701. Conspiracy ¶ 38; Postal Service ¶ 35(.5)

Alleged fact that conduct of defendants in conducting insurance business was approved by State Department of Insurance, did not preclude conviction of defendants for using the mails in attempt to defraud and for conspiracy to commit such offense. U.S. v. Sylvanus, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1951, 192 F.2d 96, certiorari denied 72 S.Ct. 555, 342 U.S. 943, 96 L.Ed. 701. Conspiracy ¶ 38; Postal Service ¶ 35(.5)

That money lender's area manager intrusted with procuring FHA loan applications did not himself present false applications to Federal Housing Administration is no defense in prosecution of money lender for conspiracy to cause to be made or passed statements known to be false, for purpose of influencing Federal Housing Administration to insure loans, when evidence discloses that such manager knowingly caused to be made such false statements. C. I. T. Corp. v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Wash.) 1945, 150 F.2d 85. Conspiracy ¶ 33(2.1)

Where negotiable notes of corporation in reorganization in federal District Court for Minnesota had been fastened to proofs of claim and had been allowed by court but notes were detached from proofs of claim, stolen from clerk's office and brought to New York and sold for more than $5,000, prosecution for conspiracy to transport in interstate commerce securities of value of $5,000, knowing them to have been stolen, could not be successfully defended on ground that notes were merged in the claims and were valueless when detached. United States v. Bollenbach, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1944, 147 F.2d 199, certiorari granted 65 S.Ct. 915, 324 U.S. 837, 89 L.Ed. 1401, reversed on other grounds 66 S.Ct. 402, 326 U.S. 607, 90 L.Ed. 350. Conspiracy ¶ 38

That § 440 et seq. of Title 31, may have unlawfully attempted to delegate legislative power to Secretary of Treasury was no defense to prosecution for conspiring to defraud United States by an agreement to effect sale of gold to United States mint by falsely concealing in required affidavit true origin of gold, since Congress was entitled to protect government against swindlers, regardless of constitutionality of operation being conducted by government. Hills v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1938, 97 F.2d 710. Conspiracy 38

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

At hearing under the Classified Information Procedures Act (CIPA) defendants failed to show validity of their defense that person to whom they allegedly sold zirconium and fuse components was an agent of the United States government, so as to defeat charges of conspiracy with, and aiding and abetting, such person, and thus did not establish predicate for introduction of classified information in support of such defense at trial. U.S. v. Cardoen, S.D.Fla.1995, 898 F.Supp. 1563, affirmed 139 F.3d 1359, rehearing denied, rehearing and suggestion for rehearing en banc denied 149 F.3d 1197, certiorari denied 119 S.Ct. 2365, 527 U.S. 1021, 144 L.Ed.2d 770. Witnesses 216(1)

Helsinki Accords did not bar prosecution of American Indian on conspiracy and weapon charges, despite his contention that Accords made binding on Government a provision of the Treaty of Canandaigua requiring formal complaint to chiefs of the Six Nations before taking unilateral action against protected individuals; Accords were not enforceable as treaty and status of Treaty of Canandaigua was effectively modified or abrogated by criminal statutes in question. U.S. v. Kakwirakeron, N.D.N.Y.1990, 730 F.Supp. 1200. Indians 3(2); Treaties 8

XIII. INSTRUCTIONS

<Subdivision Index>

Generally 871

Acquittal or conviction of others 882

Acts of others attributable to all 887

Advice of counsel 902

Advocating overthrow of Government 906

Agreement 879

Alibi 899

Association 894

Banking offenses 907

Bankruptcy offenses 908

Bribery 909

Character evidence 892

Circumstantial evidence 893

Corroboration 888

Credibility 884

Declarations of coconspirators 886

Defendant's connection with conspiracy 880

Defrauding United States 910, 911

Defrauding United States - Generally 910

Defrauding United States - False and fraudulent claims 911

Distilled spirits, tax offenses 927

Entrapment 898

Erroneous admission 890

Existence of conspiracy 878

False and fraudulent claims, defrauding United States 911

Guilty plea of accomplice or co-conspirator 883

Immigration offenses 912

Income tax, tax offenses 926

Indictment not evidence of guilt 874

Individual determination of guilt of conspirators 900

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Intent 896
Interstate commerce offenses 913
Irrelevant evidence 891
Knowledge 897
Limited admission 889
Liquor offenses 914
Lottery offenses 915
Mail fraud, postal offenses 920
Multiple conspiracy 930
Narcotics offenses 916
Number of conspiracies 876
Overt acts 895
Perjury 917
Postal offenses 919, 920
 Postal offenses - Generally 919
 Postal offenses - Mail fraud 920
Price control offenses 918
Prior acquittal or conviction 881
Reasonable doubt 873
Reference to defendants 877
Repetition 905

Request 904
Securities offenses 921
Selective service offenses 922
Sentence 901
Smuggling 923
Specific offense charged 875
Stipulation 903
Stolen property 924
Summary of evidence 872
Tax offenses 925-927
 Tax offenses - Generally 925
 Tax offenses - Distilled spirits 927
 Tax offenses - Income tax 926
Testimony of coconspirators 885
Travel and transportation 928
Wire communication offenses 929

871. Generally, instructions

District judge has broad discretion in formulating the charge so long as the charge accurately reflects the law and the facts of the case. U.S. v. Allred, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1989, 867 F.2d 856. Criminal Law ↻ 769

In prosecution for conspiracy to commit offenses against United States involving two military recruiting center bombings, court's instruction sufficiently warned jury that it could not convict defendant on basis of legal conduct, such as peaceful opposition to Vietnam War, protected by U.S.C.A. Const. Amend. 1. U. S. v. Giese, C.A.9 (Or.) 1979, 597 F.2d 1170, certiorari denied 100 S.Ct. 480, 444 U.S. 979, 62 L.Ed.2d 405. Conspiracy ↻ 48.2(2)

In conspiracy prosecution, trial court's instructions fairly presented issue of conspiracy and relationship of conspiracy to substantive counts. U. S. v. Chandler, C.A.5 (Ga.) 1978, 586 F.2d 593, certiorari denied 99 S.Ct.

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

1262, 440 U.S. 927, 59 L.Ed.2d 483. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.2(1)

Presumption-of-truthfulness instruction given in joint prosecution for conspiracy and possession of goods stolen from interstate commerce did not constitute plain error requiring reversal in absence of specific objection by defense counsel where presumption-of-truthfulness instruction was delivered as part of court's extensive instruction on factors which would tend to discredit testimony of witnesses, including that of chief prosecution witness. U. S. v. LaRiche, C.A.6 (Ohio) 1977, 549 F.2d 1088, certiorari denied 97 S.Ct. 1687, 430 U.S. 987, 52 L.Ed.2d 383, certiorari denied 98 S.Ct. 506, 434 U.S. 966, 54 L.Ed.2d 452. Criminal Law ⚡ 1043(2)

Considering instructions given, it was not plain error to fail to charge that jury could find defendants guilty of substantive offenses on basis of membership in conspiracy only if they found beyond reasonable doubt that such offenses were committed in furtherance of the conspiracy. U. S. v. Guidice, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1970, 425 F.2d 886, certiorari denied 91 S.Ct. 85, 400 U.S. 842, 27 L.Ed.2d 77. Criminal Law ⚡ 822(6)

It was unnecessary to charge that to find each defendant guilty of substantive offense in which he did not directly participate jury must determine that substantive offense was committed in furtherance of conspiracy of which he was a member, an instruction not requested by any of the defendants who did not object to failure of court to give it, where there was evidence of only one conspiracy. Gradsky v. U.S., C.A.5 (Fla.) 1967, 376 F.2d 993, certiorari denied 88 S.Ct. 224, 389 U.S. 908, 19 L.Ed.2d 224, rehearing denied 88 S.Ct. 488, 389 U.S. 998, 19 L.Ed.2d 505. Criminal Law ⚡ 814(3)

Where most of trial of multidefendant conspiracy case was occupied with presentation of government's case, trial judge in devoting more time to government's case in summarizing the evidence did not thereby become an advocate or incorrectly marshal evidence and weigh it in favor of prosecution, especially where court admonished jury that its recollection of facts and not court's was controlling, that it must consider all of evidence and not merely that mentioned by court, that jury was sole judge of facts and that jury was to draw no conclusions from court's failure to include something in summation of contentions of parties. U. S. v. Edwards, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1966, 366 F.2d 853, certiorari denied 87 S.Ct. 852, 386 U.S. 908, 17 L.Ed.2d 782, certiorari denied 87 S.Ct. 882, 386 U.S. 919, 17 L.Ed.2d 790. Criminal Law ⚡ 777.5; Criminal Law ⚡ 823(1)

Instruction on constitutional privilege of defendants not to testify in their own behalf, as requested by codefendant, was proper, and not prejudicial to defendants, who also declined to testify, in prosecution for conspiracy to defraud public by distribution of oil company stock at grossly inflated prices. U. S. v. Kelly, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1965, 349 F.2d 720, certiorari denied 86 S.Ct. 1467, 384 U.S. 947, 16 L.Ed.2d 544. Criminal Law ⚡ 787(1); Criminal Law ⚡ 1172.2

The mere charge that acts done in connection with a conspiracy were in violation of statute is not sufficient where facts alleged fail to support such a charge and where such charge amounts to nothing more than the statement of a legal conclusion. U.S. v. Strauss, C.A.5 (Fla.) 1960, 283 F.2d 155. Conspiracy ⚡ 43(6)

Under indictment charging conspiracy to commit four offenses, jury needed to find conspiracy to commit only one of the offenses in order to convict, but defendant was entitled to insist that in absence of sufficient proof of conspiracy to commit any one of the offenses, jury should be instructed to disregard that offense. U.S. v. Smith, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1940, 112 F.2d 83. Conspiracy ⚡ 24(2); Conspiracy ⚡ 48.2(2)

An instruction as to the essential elements of a criminal conspiracy was correct. Welter v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Neb.) 1925, 4 F.2d 342. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.2(1)

In prosecutions for conspiracy, extraordinary precaution is required, not only that instructions shall not mislead, but that they shall scrupulously safeguard each defendant individually, as far as possible, from loss of identity in the mass. U. S. v. Bally Mfg. Corp., E.D.La.1972, 345 F.Supp. 410. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.2(1)

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In prosecution of attorney for conspiracy to violate § 2385 of this title, court should clearly instruct jury on request, or on his own motion if evidence warrants it, that lawyer representing client with professional propriety is not subject to criticism by reason of professional activity. U. S. v. Frankfeld, D.C.Md.1952, 103 F.Supp. 48. Criminal Law ⚡ 824(1)

872. Summary of evidence, instructions

In prosecution for conspiracy to produce, and possession of, counterfeit bills, charge that Government's testimony was "undisputed" because defendant had introduced no witnesses of his own was prejudicially erroneous. U. S. v. Hall, C.A.5 (Miss.) 1976, 525 F.2d 1254. Criminal Law ⚡ 788; Criminal Law ⚡ 1172.2

Trial judge's characterization of defense's case, in prosecution for crossing state borders to further unlawful activity, conspiracy to do same, and interstate transportation of gambling paraphernalia, as contending that evidence was consistent with innocence was not error where such characterization was accurate and burden of proof was properly charged in another part of instructions. U. S. v. Marquez, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1970, 424 F.2d 236, certiorari denied 91 S.Ct. 56, 400 U.S. 828, 27 L.Ed.2d 58. Criminal Law ⚡ 770(3)

Where evidence against defendant differed from and was less substantial than evidence against codefendants on issue involving defendants' participation in single, over-all conspiracy to defraud public by distribution of oil company stock at grossly inflated prices, court improperly failed to marshal proofs in such fashion as to place clearly before jury difference between evidence against codefendants and evidence against defendant on that issue, despite request by counsel for both sides that court not marshal evidence. U. S. v. Kelly, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1965, 349 F.2d 720, certiorari denied 86 S.Ct. 1467, 384 U.S. 947, 16 L.Ed.2d 544. Criminal Law ⚡ 777.5

In prosecution for mail fraud, securities fraud and conspiracy, it was not error for court, in lieu of admitting record of prior civil litigation, to make statement to jury summarizing such litigation, where court told jury such statement was to be considered solely in consideration of charges relating to defendants' failure to disclose pendency of such litigation to prospective investors. Farrell v. U. S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1963, 321 F.2d 409, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 631, 375 U.S. 992, 11 L.Ed.2d 478. Criminal Law ⚡ 656(1)

A federal trial judge need not summarize the evidence at all, but if he undertakes to do so, the summary must be fair and adequate and must not be one-sided. Williams v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1937, 93 F.2d 685. Criminal Law ⚡ 756

A charge is subject to complaint where it devotes many pages to a summary of the indictment and many more pages to a summary of the evidence presented by the prosecution while making only meager, hurried, and passing reference to the case made by the defense, and refers extensively to the defense testimony only in one instance and then for the purpose of discrediting the testimony of one defendant. Williams v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1937, 93 F.2d 685. Criminal Law ⚡ 756

Charge of trial court was not criticizable as giving less prominence in summing up to defendants' side than to that of government. Russell v. U. S., C.C.A.6 (Ohio) 1926, 12 F.2d 683, 4 Ohio Law Abs. 585, certiorari denied 47 S.Ct. 100, 273 U.S. 708, 71 L.Ed. 851, certiorari denied 47 S.Ct. 100, 273 U.S. 709, 71 L.Ed. 851. Criminal Law ⚡ 811(1)

873. Reasonable doubt, instructions

Reasonable doubt jury instruction in bank fraud prosecution that defendant should be acquitted if "there is real possibility that he is not guilty" was not plain error, where potentially confusing "real possibility" language was only used in clarifying charge, and original charge based on doubt that would make jurors "hesitate to act" was given twice. U.S. v. Reese, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1994, 33 F.3d 166, certiorari denied 115 S.Ct. 756, 513 U.S. 1092, 130

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

L.Ed.2d 655. Criminal Law ⚡ 1038.1(5)

Although verbal jury instruction mistakenly required that defendants' guilt be proved beyond all possible doubt, trial court's instructions, when considered as a whole, did not mislead jury as to Government's burden of proving defendants' guilt beyond all reasonable doubt. U.S. v. Carrodegua, C.A.11 (Fla.) 1984, 747 F.2d 1390, certiorari denied 106 S.Ct. 60, 474 U.S. 816, 88 L.Ed.2d 49. Criminal Law ⚡ 822(13)

Instruction in conspiracy prosecution was sufficient to inform jury as to guilty knowledge of purpose of conspiracy required to show membership in such conspiracy, and court was not required to cast instruction in terms of "clear and unequivocal" proof of knowledge in view of fact that term "proof beyond a reasonable doubt" was fully explained and guilty knowledge was identified as one of elements required to be proved beyond a reasonable doubt. U. S. v. Fontenot, C.A.5 (Ga.) 1973, 483 F.2d 315. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.2(1)

In a case where some lack of evidence for government fairly creates a reasonable doubt of guilt, a normally intelligent jury might be expected to perceive that fact after comparison and consideration of all the evidence, and court did not err in prosecution for conspiracy and for endeavoring to influence a witness in refusing to add to its charge that reasonable doubt might arise from lack of evidence in situation where defendants made no attempt to show prejudice and none was revealed by a reading of the trial transcript. Laughlin v. U. S., C.A.D.C.1967, 385 F.2d 287, 128 U.S.App.D.C. 27, certiorari denied 88 S.Ct. 1245, 390 U.S. 1003, 20 L.Ed.2d 103. Criminal Law ⚡ 789(17)

In conspiracy prosecution, refusal of trial judge, after he had adequately and correctly defined term "reasonable doubt", to add, on request, that it also meant that jury must be convinced to a moral certainty was not error. U.S. v. Latin, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1943, 139 F.2d 569. Criminal Law ⚡ 829(18)

A charge that government had burden of meeting presumption of innocence and overcoming it by proof to show guilt beyond reasonable doubt, and that accused could not be convicted unless every essential element of crime had been established by evidence that satisfied jury beyond reasonable doubt, and if after full consideration of all the evidence there was reasonable doubt as to guilt, jury should not hesitate to return a verdict of not guilty, was proper. Holmes v. U. S., C.C.A.8 (Neb.) 1940, 115 F.2d 528, vacated on other grounds 62 S.Ct. 357, 314 U.S. 583, 86 L.Ed. 472, conformed to 126 F.2d 431. Criminal Law ⚡ 789(4)

In prosecution for conspiracy, instruction to find defendant guilty if defendant's evidence "failed to balance or equal" government's evidence, and "there is not that reasonable doubt," was erroneous as requiring defendant to raise a reasonable doubt by his own evidence. Lambert v. U. S., C.C.A.5 (La.) 1939, 101 F.2d 960. Criminal Law ⚡ 778(5)

In a prosecution against a naturalized citizen of German origin and another, a subject of the German empire, for conspiracy to sink a vessel in navigable waters, etc., the charge sufficiently safeguarded the rights of the naturalized citizen as to the question of reasonable doubt and the treatment he should receive at the hands of the jury, notwithstanding alienage of his conspirator. Wierse v. U.S., C.C.A.4 (S.C.) 1918, 252 F. 435, 164 C.C.A. 359, certiorari denied 39 S.Ct. 10, 248 U.S. 568, 63 L.Ed. 425. Criminal Law ⚡ 789(2)

874. Indictment not evidence of guilt, instructions

Defendants in prosecution for conspiracy and for endeavoring to influence a witness were not greatly prejudiced by trial court's reading to jury of paragraph of one count of the indictment since jury was properly instructed that the indictment was not evidence and, moreover, when court offered to clarify the significance of the paragraph the defendants declined such offer. Laughlin v. U. S., C.A.D.C.1967, 385 F.2d 287, 128 U.S.App.D.C. 27, certiorari denied 88 S.Ct. 1245, 390 U.S. 1003, 20 L.Ed.2d 103. Criminal Law ⚡ 1166.20

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In prosecution for conspiring to violate espionage laws under indictment charging that it was part of conspiracy to engage in acts of sabotage, such allegation as to sabotage was surplusage, but failure to strike such surplusage was insubstantial error when there was no testimony concerning sabotage or a conspiracy to commit sabotage and jury was instructed that indictment was not evidence and was not to be considered as evidence. U S v. Abel, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1958, 258 F.2d 485, certiorari granted 79 S.Ct. 59, 358 U.S. 813, 3 L.Ed.2d 56, affirmed 80 S.Ct. 683, 362 U.S. 217, 4 L.Ed.2d 668, rehearing denied 80 S.Ct. 1056, 362 U.S. 984, 4 L.Ed.2d 1019. Criminal Law 1167(3); Indictment And Information 119

In prosecution for conspiring to transport in interstate commerce lewd and obscene motion picture film, refusal of requested instruction that indictment was not evidence but was charge which government must establish by proof beyond reasonable doubt, did not constitute reversible error in view of other instructions adequately covering law. Parr v. U. S., C.A.5 (Tex.) 1958, 255 F.2d 86, certiorari denied 79 S.Ct. 40, 358 U.S. 824, 3 L.Ed.2d 64. Criminal Law 829(1)

In prosecution for conspiring to transport in interstate commerce lewd and obscene motion picture film, instruction that indictment is a charge which in itself is not proof of things therein alleged but undertakes to set forth things government charges defendant with having done and which government undertakes to prove, was not objectionable on ground that jury might infer that indictment could be used as evidence if some other evidence was offered to go with it. Parr v. U. S., C.A.5 (Tex.) 1958, 255 F.2d 86, certiorari denied 79 S.Ct. 40, 358 U.S. 824, 3 L.Ed.2d 64. Criminal Law 772(3)

In conspiracy prosecution, trial court did not err in refusing requested instruction that indictment itself was not evidence of guilt of accused persons in view of fact, that considering instructions in their entirety substance of requested instruction was covered in general charge so that jury could understand therefrom that defendants could not be found guilty until government established their guilt beyond a reasonable doubt by evidence produced in the trial, without consideration of indictment itself. Garner v. U.S., C.A.6 (Tenn.) 1957, 244 F.2d 575, certiorari denied 78 S.Ct. 47, 355 U.S. 832, 2 L.Ed.2d 44. Criminal Law 822(11)

Where trial court, in reading indictment to jury and discussing it, had always referred to it as "alleging" or "charging" certain acts, and correctly and clearly charged as to presumption of innocence, failure to instruct that jury should disregard indictment in determining issues was not harmful, in absence of reason to suspect that jury thought that indictment was evidence of facts alleged. United States v. Martin, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1955, 223 F.2d 666. Criminal Law 1173.2(1)

Refusal to instruct that indictment was not evidence of guilt, and that jurors should not be influenced by return of indictment, was reversible error. Cooper v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Iowa) 1925, 9 F.2d 216. Criminal Law 778(4)

875. Specific offense charged, instructions

Trial court's reference in conspiracy instruction to a finding that "a" conspiracy existed did not impermissibly allow the jury to convict upon a finding of any conspiracy rather than the one alleged on the indictment where the charge, viewed as a whole, was appropriate and referred to the specific conspiracy. U.S. v. Maldonado-Rivera, C.A.2 (Conn.) 1990, 922 F.2d 934, certiorari denied 111 S.Ct. 2811, 501 U.S. 1211, 115 L.Ed.2d 984, certiorari denied 111 S.Ct. 2858, 501 U.S. 1233, 115 L.Ed.2d 1025, certiorari denied 111 S.Ct. 2858, 501 U.S. 1233, 115 L.Ed.2d 1026. Criminal Law 822(1)

876. Number of conspiracies, instructions

Fact that prostitution was carried on in two massage parlors and apartments did not operate to require an instruction on a "two conspiracy" theory where there was but one conspiracy, involving several different persons, each playing his own role, and involving interstate travel for purpose of promoting and maintaining houses of prostitution in violation of Kansas law. U. S. v. Russo, C.A.10 (Kan.) 1975, 527 F.2d 1051, certiorari denied 96 S.Ct. 2226, 426 U.S. 906, 48 L.Ed.2d 831, rehearing denied 96 S.Ct. 3201, 427 U.S. 913, 49 L.Ed.2d 1204. Conspiracy ↪ 48.2(2)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Failure expressly to charge jury that multiple conspiracies were not within ambit of indictment was not error, where court in its charge twice stressed that government alleged a single conspiracy and added that it must show that each defendant was a knowing part of it, and defendants did not point out how they could have been prejudiced by failure to give such an additional charge in view of evidence before jury. U. S. v. Aiken, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1967, 373 F.2d 294, certiorari denied 88 S.Ct. 32, 389 U.S. 833, 19 L.Ed.2d 93. Conspiracy ↪ 48.2(1)

877. Reference to defendants, instructions

In prosecution for conspiracy, mail fraud, wire fraud, and obstruction of justice, trial court's jury charge on conspiracy count which referred several times to "two or more" conspirators when conspiracy charged involved only two defendants did not prejudice defendants. U. S. v. Coven, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1981, 662 F.2d 162, certiorari denied 102 S.Ct. 1771, 456 U.S. 916, 72 L.Ed.2d 176. Criminal Law ↪ 1172.1(5)

Trial court did not err, in instructing jury which was considering charges of conspiracy, bribery of Federal Housing Administration officials, and submission of false statements to obtain FHA insurance on mortgages, in grouping together defendants associated with mortgagee, other defendants associated with Administration, and other defendants who were connected with the credit reporting aspect of the case. U. S. v. Bernstein, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1976, 533 F.2d 775, certiorari denied 97 S.Ct. 523, 429 U.S. 998, 50 L.Ed.2d 608. Criminal Law ↪ 793

878. Existence of conspiracy, instructions

In prosecution for conspiracy to conduct illegal gambling business, jury instructions were not objectionable on ground that they failed to contain list of specific elements of crime of conspiracy. U. S. v. McCoy, C.A.5 (Ala.) 1976, 539 F.2d 1050, certiorari denied 97 S.Ct. 2185, 431 U.S. 919, 53 L.Ed.2d 230. Conspiracy ↪ 48.2(2)

Where jury was properly instructed on reasonable doubt, court was not required to give requested reasonable hypothesis charge relative to circumstantial evidence. U. S. v. Nicholson, C.A.5 (La.) 1976, 525 F.2d 1233, certiorari denied 96 S.Ct. 2170, 425 U.S. 972, 48 L.Ed.2d 795, certiorari denied 97 S.Ct. 105, 429 U.S. 837, 50 L.Ed.2d 103. Criminal Law ↪ 829(15)

Even if it was error to refuse to give defendant's requested instructions to the effect that if jury should find codefendant not guilty by reason of insanity then defendant could not be considered a member of the conspiracy until it was shown that defendant had conspired with one who was mentally competent, such refusal was harmless in view of fact that codefendant was found guilty. U. S. v. Thompson, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1974, 493 F.2d 305, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 60, 419 U.S. 834, 42 L.Ed.2d 60. Criminal Law ↪ 1173.3

Where reference to financial stake in venture was omitted in final instruction to jury on conspiracy, preinstruction on conspiracy which assertedly allowed jury to consider defendant's financial stake in venture as a factor in determining whether conspiracy existed and whether defendant was a member of it was not reversible error on claim that the preinstruction allowed jury to infer guilt from financial interest in a "legitimate" venture. U. S. v. Goodman, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1972, 457 F.2d 68, certiorari denied 92 S.Ct. 2073, 406 U.S. 961, 32 L.Ed.2d 348. Criminal Law ↪ 1172.1(3)

Instruction in conspiracy prosecution as to requirement of unanimity in finding that all conspirators agreed on at least one unlawful object was sufficient. U. S. v. Friedman, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1971, 445 F.2d 1076, certiorari denied 92 S.Ct. 326, 404 U.S. 958, 30 L.Ed.2d 275. Criminal Law ↪ 798(.5)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Failure to give instructions relating to problem of guilt by association and distinction between conspiracy and substantive offense forming the object of conspiracy did not entitle defendant to reversal of conspiracy conviction in absence of request for instruction on guilt by association and in view of fact that instruction given adequately informed jury that defendant could be found guilty only of crime charged, which was conspiracy only. U. S. v. Chamley, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1967, 376 F.2d 57, certiorari denied 88 S.Ct. 221, 389 U.S. 898, 19 L.Ed.2d 220. Criminal Law ⚡ 824(4); Criminal Law ⚡ 829(3)

Inasmuch as court instructed that jury had to find conspiracy existed as charged in indictment, that defendants knowingly associated themselves with conspiracy and that each defendant's association with conspiracy had to be determined from evidence as to that defendant's own acts, declarations, and conduct, instruction as to conspiracy was not objectionable on basis that it did not adequately focus attention of jury on question whether evidence established one conspiracy or many and whether one defendant was knowing member. U. S. v. Kahn, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1966, 366 F.2d 259, certiorari denied 87 S.Ct. 321, 385 U.S. 948, 17 L.Ed.2d 226, certiorari denied 87 S.Ct. 324, 385 U.S. 948, 17 L.Ed.2d 226, rehearing denied 87 S.Ct. 502, 385 U.S. 984, 17 L.Ed.2d 445, rehearing denied 87 S.Ct. 503, 385 U.S. 984, 17 L.Ed.2d 445. Criminal Law ⚡ 823(4)

Where instruction on conspiracy was not itself erroneous and where competence of certain evidence as to certain defendants depended upon determination that conspiracy existed, it was proper to instruct jury periodically, as against contention that such instruction came too soon and too often. Semler v. U. S., C.A.9 (Ariz.) 1964, 332 F.2d 6, certiorari denied 85 S.Ct. 61, 379 U.S. 831, 13 L.Ed.2d 39. Criminal Law ⚡ 801; Criminal Law ⚡ 806(1)

Where it did not appear from record that defendant's counsel, in a prosecution for violating fraud provisions of the Securities Act, § 77q of title 15, and the mail fraud statute, this title, and conspiracy to commit such crimes, requested a limiting instruction at time evidence of acts and declarations of alleged coconspirator were admitted, that jury could not consider such evidence against defendant until and unless they found a conspiracy to exist between defendant and alleged coconspirator, defendant had no basis for complaint, and in any event, such failure to instruct was not prejudicial in view of fact general instructions given at conclusion of trial adequately instructed jury as to limited use against defendant of declarations and acts made by others. Donaldson v. U. S., C.A.9 (Mont.) 1957, 248 F.2d 364, certiorari denied 78 S.Ct. 706, 356 U.S. 922, 2 L.Ed.2d 717. Criminal Law ⚡ 824(8); Criminal Law ⚡ 829(13)

Where indictment charged conspiracy and substantive offense and court in overruling objections to evidence stated that the exhibits were received with understanding that they could not apply and could not be used against the various defendants if their connection with the conspiracy was not established, failure to include in general charge instruction which court had assured defendants would be given, to effect that in event conspiracy was not established evidence should be disregarded, was prejudicial error, not waived by failure of defendants to request such a charge after the evidence was concluded. Schmeller v. U. S., C.C.A.6 (Ohio) 1944, 143 F.2d 544. Criminal Law ⚡ 824(5)

Instruction that jury must find that conspiracy existed to warrant conviction and that no person not party thereto was bound by his or others' words was sufficient to cover subject-matter of refused charge. Feigenbutz v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Mo.) 1933, 65 F.2d 122. Criminal Law ⚡ 829(13)

879. Agreement, instructions

Instruction defining conspiracy, which first stated that conspiracy was combination or agreement of two or more persons to accomplish some unlawful purpose, but later explained that it was not necessary for Government to prove that conspiracy members had entered into "any formal type of agreement," was not contradictory, since reasonable juror would interpret instruction to mean that conspiracy required agreement, but not necessarily formal agreement. U.S. v. Valdiosera-Godinez, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1991, 932 F.2d 1093, rehearing denied 946 F.2d 1545,

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

certiorari denied 113 S.Ct. 2369, 508 U.S. 921, 124 L.Ed.2d 275. Criminal Law ⚡ 810

In prosecution for, inter alia, conspiracy, trial judge's charge in which he discussed at length the proposition that actions often speak louder than words and that specific, tangible agreement in words is not necessary to establish existence of conspiracy was fair and properly responsive to jury's request and was not prejudicial to defendants. U. S. v. Cassino, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1972, 467 F.2d 610, certiorari denied 93 S.Ct. 957, 410 U.S. 913, 34 L.Ed.2d 276, certiorari denied 93 S.Ct. 959, 410 U.S. 913, 35 L.Ed.2d 276, certiorari denied 93 S.Ct. 1363, 410 U.S. 928, 35 L.Ed.2d 590, certiorari denied 93 S.Ct. 1363, 410 U.S. 942, 35 L.Ed.2d 608. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.2(1)

Where evidence is ambiguous as to scope of agreement made by a particular defendant accused of conspiracy and the issue had practical importance, the court must appropriately focus the jury's attention on that issue rather than allow it to decide on an all-or-nothing basis as to all defendants. U. S. v. Borelli, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1964, 336 F.2d 376, certiorari denied 85 S.Ct. 647, 379 U.S. 960, 13 L.Ed.2d 555. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.2(1)

Instruction defining conspiracy and stating that evidence need not show formal agreement but must show that members came to mutual understanding to try to accomplish common and unlawful plan was correct and proper. U.S. v. Duff, C.A.6 (Mich.) 1964, 332 F.2d 702. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.2(1)

880. Defendant's connection with conspiracy, instructions

Defendant was not entitled to instruction on fair use exception to copyright infringement, in prosecution for copyright infringement conspiracy premised on involvement in group dedicated to allowing members to obtain unauthorized copies of copyrighted software over internet, despite defendant's claim that website was noncommercial and educational because members did not pay to download software, learned something from using software, and one of individuals operating site was a professor; members had to contribute valuable services, a barter form of payment, to receive software, and regardless, exception would not be applied to internet piracy. U.S. v. Slater, C.A.7 (Ill.) 2003, 348 F.3d 666, 69 U.S.P.Q.2d 1081. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.2(2)

In order to promote goal of keeping distinct conspiracies distinct, court should describe explicitly the possibility of several conspiracies and instruct jury that in order to convict a given defendant it must find that he was member of conspiracy charged in indictment and not some other conspiracy. U. S. v. Cambindo Valencia, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1979, 609 F.2d 603, certiorari denied 100 S.Ct. 2163, 446 U.S. 940, 64 L.Ed.2d 795. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.2(1)

Instruction which told the jury that each defendant's participation in the alleged conspiracy was required to be established by evidence of the defendant's own words, his own actions, and the general course of his conduct did not improperly suggest that membership in the conspiracy could be determined on the basis of something other than a particular defendant's own words and acts. U. S. v. Haldeman, C.A.D.C.1976, 559 F.2d 31, 181 U.S.App.D.C. 254, certiorari denied 97 S.Ct. 2641, 431 U.S. 933, 53 L.Ed.2d 250, rehearing denied 97 S.Ct. 2992, 433 U.S. 916, 53 L.Ed.2d 1103. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.2(1)

Once Government establishes existence of conspiracy through independent evidence, only slight evidence is required to connect a defendant with it; requirement of only slight evidence does not eliminate Government's need to introduce that minimal quantum of proof independently establishing that each defendant entered, participated in or furthered the conspiracy. U. S. v. Peterson, C.A.9 (Nev.) 1977, 549 F.2d 654. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(1)

Instruction which told the jury that mere presence or association with conspirators was not, in and of itself, enough to establish that a person was acting as a member of a conspiracy was a sufficient instruction on the "mere presence doctrine" despite contention that court should have emphasized the mere presence principle to a greater extent. U. S. v. Graham, C.A.8 (Iowa) 1977, 548 F.2d 1302. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.2(2)

Charge which instructed the jury that the Government was required to prove the existence of only a single conspiracy and that each defendant's participation in the conspiracy was required to be determined individually by his own actions and declarations was not an improper "all or nothing" charge but rather was adequate on the issue. U. S. v. Arredo-Sarmiento, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1976, 545 F.2d 785, certiorari denied 97 S.Ct. 1330, 430 U.S. 917, 51 L.Ed.2d 595, certiorari denied 97 S.Ct. 1331, 430 U.S. 917, 51 L.Ed.2d 595. Conspiracy ↪ 48.2(2)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

"When a conspiracy has been established by competent proof, only slight evidence is necessary to connect a person with a conspiracy," describes the standard a court should use to determine whether the evidence against a particular defendant supports submission of his case to the jury but the quoted language should not be used in the charge to a jury. U. S. v. Hall, C.A.5 (Miss.) 1976, 525 F.2d 1254. Conspiracy ↪ 48.1(1); Conspiracy ↪ 48.2(1)

In conspiracy prosecution, trial court's instruction cautioning jury when it admitted hearsay evidence of statements made by defendant's coconspirator did not require that trial court charge jury to correct any possible notion engendered by earlier instruction that court had already decided that prosecution had proven defendant's membership in unlawful conspiracy beyond reasonable doubt. U. S. v. Wiley, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1975, 519 F.2d 1348, certiorari denied 96 S.Ct. 793, 423 U.S. 1058, 46 L.Ed.2d 648. Criminal Law ↪ 769

Refusal to instruct jury as to possibility that Government has shown several conspiracies, rather than one overall conspiracy charged in indictment, did not establish that trial court had failed to adequately protect defendant from risk of guilt transference, where evidence clearly indicated that defendant knew that individual being harbored was an escapee, that members of a committee were responsible for escape and subsequent concealment, and that he was aiding in that concealment on orders from committee. U. S. v. Hobson, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1975, 519 F.2d 765, certiorari denied 96 S.Ct. 283, 423 U.S. 931, 46 L.Ed.2d 261. Conspiracy ↪ 48.1(2.1)

It is improper in a conspiracy trial to instruct that once the existence of the agreement or common scheme or conspiracy is shown, "slight evidence" is all that is required to connect particular defendant with conspiracy. U. S. v. Marionneaux, C.A.5 (La.) 1975, 514 F.2d 1244. Conspiracy ↪ 48.2(1)

Court's instruction that one could become member of conspiracy without full knowledge of all details of conspiracy or without being acquainted with all other conspirators was not erroneous. U. S. v. Musgrave, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1973, 483 F.2d 327, certiorari denied 94 S.Ct. 447, 414 U.S. 1023, 38 L.Ed.2d 315, certiorari denied 94 S.Ct. 450, 414 U.S. 1025, 38 L.Ed.2d 316. Conspiracy ↪ 48.2(1)

In prosecution for conspiracy, where entire instruction given by court was otherwise sufficient to properly define elements of offense, court was not required to give requested instruction that "Each defendant must in some sense promote their venture himself, make it his own, have a stake in its outcome." U. S. v. Salcido-Medina, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1973, 483 F.2d 162, certiorari denied 94 S.Ct. 582, 414 U.S. 1070, 38 L.Ed.2d 476. Criminal Law ↪ 829(3)

Where defendant was neither mentioned nor referred to in any manner in conversation between Government agent and coconspirator, trial court in conspiracy prosecution was not required to instruct that jury could not consider conversation with respect to defendant. U. S. v. Johnson, C.A.1 (Mass.) 1972, 467 F.2d 804, certiorari denied 93 S.Ct. 963, 410 U.S. 909, 35 L.Ed.2d 270. Criminal Law ↪ 779

Where trial court charged that, to convict on conspiracy count, it would be sufficient if jury found agreement between defendants and named, but unindicted, coconspirators, or at least two of the number, so that it was impossible to know whether jury found that defendant conspired with codefendant alone or with others, it would be improper to speculate in that regard when codefendant's conviction was vacated and defendant's conviction must also be vacated. U. S. v. Shuford, C.A.4 (S.C.) 1971, 454 F.2d 772. Criminal Law ↪ 1186.1

Instruction that, in order to establish proof that conspiracy existed, evidence had to show beyond a reasonable doubt that defendants "and/or other persons," in some way or manner, or through some contrivance, expressly or tacitly came to a mutual understanding to try to accomplish a common and unlawful plan was not erroneous on ground that, because of the "and/or," the jury could have found defendants guilty even though other persons, not the defendants, came to a mutual understanding, since defendants did not have to originally form conspiracy in order to later join conspiracy and be convicted for their complicity in it. U. S. v. Fischetti, C.A.5 (Fla.) 1971, 450 F.2d 34, certiorari denied 92 S.Ct. 1290, 405 U.S. 1016, 31 L.Ed.2d 478. Conspiracy ↪ 48.2(2)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Erroneous submission to jury of issue of guilt on substantive count, by erroneously instructing that defendant could be found guilty of substantive offense if he at time of offense was party to conspiracy and substantive offense charged was in fact committed in furtherance of it, so tainted conspiracy conviction that reversal of conspiracy conviction as well as conviction on substantive offense was required. U. S. v. Cantone, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1970, 426 F.2d 902, certiorari denied 91 S.Ct. 55, 400 U.S. 827, 27 L.Ed.2d 57. Criminal Law ↪ 1177

Court was not required to give requested charge stating that jury must determine each defendant's membership in conspiracy on evidence independent of acts and statements of other conspirators. U. S. v. Calarco, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1970, 424 F.2d 657, certiorari denied 91 S.Ct. 46, 400 U.S. 824, 27 L.Ed.2d 53, rehearing denied 91 S.Ct. 1522, 402 U.S. 934, 28 L.Ed.2d 870. Conspiracy ↪ 48.2(1)

Defendants in narcotics conspiracy case were not entitled to instruction that, in determining defendant's membership, jury should not consider what others may have said or done but should decide without regard to and independently of statements and declarations of others. U. S. v. Nuccio, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1967, 373 F.2d 168, certiorari denied 87 S.Ct. 1688, 387 U.S. 906, 18 L.Ed.2d 623, rehearing denied 88 S.Ct. 16, 389 U.S. 889, 19 L.Ed.2d 199. Conspiracy ↪ 48.2(2)

Instruction which directed that person might become member of conspiracy either at its inception or afterwards and that what was done or said by a coconspirator thereafter would be admissible against that person but which failed to limit, carefully and clearly, jury's consideration of evidence after date on which conspiracy ended as result of arrest, leaving jury free to rely on acts and declarations of coconspirator following such date in determining guilt or innocence of alleged former coconspirator for his part in conspiracy which had ended on his arrest, was clearly erroneous. U.S. v. Chase, C.A.4 (Va.) 1967, 372 F.2d 453, certiorari denied 87 S.Ct. 1688, 387 U.S. 907, 18 L.Ed.2d 626, certiorari denied 87 S.Ct. 1701, 387 U.S. 913, 18 L.Ed.2d 635. Criminal Law ↪ 779

In view of instructions that jury could convict only if conspiracy embraced concept that stolen securities should cross state lines or move to foreign countries, and that each defendant must be found to have knowingly associated himself with conspiracy, charge was not deficient on basis that it failed to state that each participant in conspiracy must have knowledge that conspiracy involved element of interstate or foreign transportation. U. S. v. Edwards, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1966, 366 F.2d 853, certiorari denied 87 S.Ct. 852, 386 U.S. 908, 17 L.Ed.2d 782, certiorari denied 87 S.Ct. 882, 386 U.S. 919, 17 L.Ed.2d 790. Conspiracy ↪ 48.2(2)

Where the issue is material, the court must charge that various defendants' connections with conspiracy must be determined on an individual basis. U. S. v. Borelli, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1964, 336 F.2d 376, certiorari denied 85 S.Ct. 647, 379 U.S. 960, 13 L.Ed.2d 555. Conspiracy ↪ 48.2(1)

Charge in which jury was admonished that membership in conspiracy must be established by evidence of defendant's own conduct, that witness' testimony might be discredited or impeached by proof of conviction for felony and that testimony of accomplice should be considered with care and caution, was predicated upon accurate appraisal of applicable law and was free from prejudicial error. Newman v. U. S., C.A.8 (Ark.) 1964, 331 F.2d 968, certiorari denied 85 S.Ct. 672, 379 U.S. 975, 13 L.Ed.2d 566. Criminal Law ↪ 1172.2

Charge in conspiracy prosecution correctly conditioned jury's consideration of acts and declarations of co-conspirators upon establishment of conspiracy and defendant's connection with it. Landers v. U. S., C.A.5 (Ga.) 1962, 304 F.2d 577. Criminal Law ↪ 779

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Where the court already had instructed jury that it would be proper to consider the interest of defendant in the case, his hopes and his fears, and what he had to gain or lose as a result of the verdict, it was reversible error to refer to defendant's interest again in connection with a comparison of his interest with that of another witness. Williams v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1937, 93 F.2d 685. Criminal Law ⚡ 758; Criminal Law ⚡ 811(5)

The singling out of defendant's testimony in the charge by an instruction to consider his interest is particularly objectionable when such testimony has been elicited on cross-examination by the trial judge himself. Williams v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1937, 93 F.2d 685. Criminal Law ⚡ 811(6)

Instruction that the interest of defendant in the result should be considered in weighing his testimony, and in determining how far, or to what extent, if at all, it is worthy of credit, is proper. Schulze v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1919, 259 F. 189, 170 C.C.A. 257. Criminal Law ⚡ 786(3)

881. Prior acquittal or conviction, instructions

Court in prosecution for conspiracy and for endeavoring to influence a witness did not err in refusing requested instruction that defendant's explanation of previous conviction and pardon he received be considered in evaluation of his criminal record where such request was tendered long after entire charge had been given and after defendant's counsel had specifically conceded that court's instruction on the effect of the conviction was correct if evidence of the conviction was properly admitted. Laughlin v. U. S., C.A.D.C.1967, 385 F.2d 287, 128 U.S.App.D.C. 27, certiorari denied 88 S.Ct. 1245, 390 U.S. 1003, 20 L.Ed.2d 103. Criminal Law ⚡ 826

In prosecution for harboring fugitive from justice, refusal to instruct that accused's acquittal in another prosecution for harboring a fugitive could be considered by jury as affecting credibility of witnesses who testified in both cases was not error. Piquett v. U.S., C.C.A.7 (Ill.) 1936, 81 F.2d 75, certiorari denied 56 S.Ct. 749, 298 U.S. 664, 80 L.Ed. 1388. Criminal Law ⚡ 785(3)

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate and for violations of National Prohibition Act, former § 1 et seq. of Title 27, instruction that jury might consider previous convictions of one defendant to supplement other evidence of guilt was reversible error, there being no question of defendant's credibility as witness. Filiatreau v. U.S., C.C.A.6 (Ky.) 1926, 14 F.2d 659.

882. Acquittal or conviction of others, instructions

In prosecution for conspiracy to embezzle funds belonging to a federally insured savings and loan association, failure of district court, following coconspirator's acquittal, to instruct jury to disregard evidence previously conditionally received covering period of the coconspirator's alleged involvement in the conspiracy did not constitute reversible error where the court carefully and thoroughly instructed jury on requirements which must be met prior to their consideration of acts and declarations of others, counsel failed to object to instructions as given, and evidence strongly supported jury's verdict. U. S. v. Morris, C.A.10 (Colo.) 1980, 623 F.2d 145, certiorari denied 101 S.Ct. 793, 449 U.S. 1065, 66 L.Ed.2d 609. Criminal Law ⚡ 1173.2(5)

Any error in statement in instructions that jurors were not to concern themselves with disposition of cases against others named in indictment and that what had happened to them "frankly, is none of your business," was cured where court, after objection, stated that jury could consider how cases against others were disposed of only when determining whether they told truth as witnesses and fact that they got probation or that jurors might think that one individual was very reprehensible character and should not have received probation were not matters for jury. Sabari v. U. S., C.A.9 (Nev.) 1964, 333 F.2d 1019. Criminal Law ⚡ 823(1)

That jury acquitted eight codefendants in prosecution arising from kickback arrangement involving loan by pension fund did not compel conclusion that remaining defendants, who participated on entirely different footing in case,

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

should have been acquitted. U. S. v. Wenger, S.D.N.Y.1970, 320 F.Supp. 1269. Criminal Law ☞ 877

883. Guilty plea of accomplice or co-conspirator, instructions

No undue prejudice attached to defendant because of mentioning of coconspirator's guilty plea, and fact that trial court may not have given a specific instruction as to effect of the guilty plea on both defendants did not amount to reversible error since apparently no such instruction had ever been requested and there were no additional aggravating circumstances that might have forced trial court to give such a specific instruction on its own. U. S. v. Horton, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1981, 646 F.2d 181, rehearing denied 655 F.2d 1131, certiorari denied 102 S.Ct. 516, 454 U.S. 970, 70 L.Ed.2d 388, certiorari denied 102 S.Ct. 1274, 455 U.S. 919, 71 L.Ed.2d 459. Criminal Law ☞ 422(2); Criminal Law ☞ 824(1)

Although it might have been preferable to tell jury only that case against original codefendants, who had entered pleas of nolo contendere, had been disposed of previously and that they had been eliminated from present trial, it was not error to reveal to jury the pleas of these codefendants, and in any event any prejudice which might have arisen from this information was cured when jury was told not to consider such pleas in any manner as related to remaining defendants and that it was not to be taken as evidence of any guilt of the remaining defendants. U. S. v. Curry, C.A.4 (N.C.) 1975, 512 F.2d 1299, certiorari denied 96 S.Ct. 55, 423 U.S. 832, 46 L.Ed.2d 50. Criminal Law ☞ 1169.5(2)

Trial judge's instruction, after prosecutor inquired of witness whether witness was aware that an individual named in the indictment had entered a guilty plea, that jury should disregard question and any answer which might have been given was insufficient; trial court should have instructed that evidence regarding the defendant who plead guilty was no proof whatsoever of guilt of the defendants on trial and that the proffered testimony should be disregarded completely in determining guilt or innocence. U. S. v. Gullo, C.A.3 (N.J.) 1974, 502 F.2d 759. Criminal Law ☞ 730(3)

Where trial court referred to guilty plea of coconspirator immediately after he informed jury that law presumed each defendant to be innocent and told jury that coconspirator who pleaded guilty was not involved in the proceeding in any way and trial court reiterated instruction that each defendant had to be taken to begin trial "with a clean slate without any evidence against them," remark as to coconspirator's guilty plea did not affect substantial rights of defendants and though an explicit cautionary instruction would have been preferable, it was not necessary. U. S. v. Johnson, C.A.5 (Miss.) 1972, 455 F.2d 311. Criminal Law ☞ 1166.22(2)

Where defendant, as trial tactic, elicited fact that codefendant, a defense witness, had pleaded guilty to one of charges pending against both defendants and prosecution brought out that codefendant had pleaded guilty to conspiracy, such evidence could be considered by jury in any way that it was relevant and probative, and instruction that codefendant's plea should be considered as evidence in case only insofar as it concerned guilt of defendants of conspiracy was not improper. Isaac v. U. S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1970, 431 F.2d 11. Criminal Law ☞ 783(1)

In prosecution for mail fraud and for conspiracy, wherein after three weeks of trial one defendant pleaded guilty, trial court properly advised jury that after ascertaining that the change was voluntary court had accepted such defendant's plea and that such plea should not be considered by jury as evidence of guilt of remaining defendants. Koolish v. U. S., C.A.8 (Minn.) 1965, 340 F.2d 513, certiorari denied 85 S.Ct. 1805, 381 U.S. 951, 14 L.Ed.2d 724. Criminal Law ☞ 301

The entry of guilty pleas by many defendants during trial of prosecution for conspiracy and illegal sale of unregistered stock did not prejudice remaining defendants, where precautionary instructions were given. U.S. v. Dardi, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1964, 330 F.2d 316, certiorari denied 85 S.Ct. 117, 379 U.S. 869, 13 L.Ed.2d 73, certiorari denied 85 S.Ct. 50, 379 U.S. 845, 13 L.Ed.2d 50, rehearing denied 85 S.Ct. 640, 379 U.S. 986, 13 L.Ed.2d 579,

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

certiorari denied 85 S.Ct. 51, 379 U.S. 845, 13 L.Ed.2d 50. Criminal Law ⚡ 1166(3)

In prosecution of commissioner, deputy clerk, and interpreters for conspiracy to defraud the Government by issuance of passports, failure to charge that pleas of guilty by two interpreter defendants could not be considered as evidence against commissioner was not reversible error under given charges warning about use of accomplice's testimony, and stating requirements as to reasonable doubt and presumption of innocence, in absence of failure of commissioner to request such a charge. U. S. v. Griffin, C.A.3 (Pa.) 1949, 176 F.2d 727, certiorari denied 70 S.Ct. 478, 338 U.S. 952, 94 L.Ed. 588, rehearing denied 70 S.Ct. 559, 339 U.S. 916, 94 L.Ed. 1341. Criminal Law ⚡ 824(5)

Charge was calculated to mislead jury to believe that fact of coindictes having pleaded guilty could be considered against defendants. O'Shaughnessy v. U. S., C.C.A.5 (Ala.) 1927, 17 F.2d 225. Criminal Law ⚡ 779

884. Credibility, instructions

Defendant in prosecution for conspiracy to evade federal fuel excise taxes failed to establish that prosecution witnesses, who were under state indictment for evasion of state fuel excise taxes, were offered immunity or leniency, or that witnesses were accomplices or informants, as required to warrant instruction to jury regarding assessment of credibility of witnesses who testify to obtain personal gain; traditional instruction on witness credibility was adequate response to defendant's concerns. U.S. v. Tanios, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1996, 82 F.3d 98, rehearing denied. Criminal Law ⚡ 785(9)

It was plain error not to give special cautionary instruction on uncorroborated testimony from interested witnesses where only witnesses who testified directly as to defendant's part in conspiracy were interested witnesses, and only other testimony that might be considered corroborating was testimony indicating that defendant was of same height and weight as one of robbers. U. S. v. Hill, C.A.10 (Okla.) 1980, 627 F.2d 1052. Criminal Law ⚡ 1038.2

Instructions given jury in respect to impeaching effect of statements made during trial that were inconsistent with testimony given at trial were not erroneous. U. S. v. Russo, C.A.10 (Kan.) 1975, 527 F.2d 1051, certiorari denied 96 S.Ct. 2226, 426 U.S. 906, 48 L.Ed.2d 831, rehearing denied 96 S.Ct. 3201, 427 U.S. 913, 49 L.Ed.2d 1204. Criminal Law ⚡ 785(12)

885. Testimony of coconspirators, instructions

Trial court was not required to give requested instruction regarding coconspirator testimony; elements of instruction had been communicated by instructions actually given, requiring jury to take into account defendant's interest or lack of interest in result of suit and that coconspirator testimony is always to be received with caution and weighed with great care. U.S. v. Roberts, C.A.7 (Ind.) 1994, 22 F.3d 744, rehearing and suggestion for rehearing en banc denied, certiorari denied 115 S.Ct. 744, 513 U.S. 1086, 130 L.Ed.2d 645. Criminal Law ⚡ 829(16)

Where there are multiple reasons justifying jury instruction regarding credibility of accomplice testimony, such as circumstances that accomplice was paid informant, was drug addict, and was not prosecuted in return for agreement to testify, it is better to give jury instruction on credibility of accomplice testimony combining such reasons. U. S. v. Bernard, C.A.9 (Wash.) 1980, 625 F.2d 854. Criminal Law ⚡ 780(1)

In prosecution for conspiracy, mail fraud, and interstate travel to facilitate an unlawful activity, trial court properly submitted cautionary instruction on the limited use of evidence of coconspirators' statement. U. S. v. Tilton, C.A.5 (Fla.) 1980, 610 F.2d 302. Criminal Law ⚡ 779

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Instructions on conspiracy including instruction that testimony of coconspirator had to be received with caution and weighed with great care and that defendant should not be convicted upon unsupported testimony of alleged accomplice unless jury believed such testimony beyond reasonable doubt were in no way improper. Wilkerson v. U. S., C.A.5 (Tex.) 1979, 591 F.2d 1046, rehearing denied 595 F.2d 1221. Criminal Law ⚡ 779

Trial court's instructions which emphasized the necessity for knowing participation in the conspiracy by any coconspirator whose statements were admitted into evidence against defendant was sufficient. U. S. v. Jacobson, C.A.10 (Colo.) 1978, 578 F.2d 863, certiorari denied 99 S.Ct. 324, 439 U.S. 932, 58 L.Ed.2d 327. Criminal Law ⚡ 779

Where all witnesses who were granted immunity were accomplices, jury was instructed that testimony of an accomplice was to be received with caution and weighed with great care, and jurors were informed of those witnesses who had been granted immunity and were given a general instruction on credibility of witnesses, failure to give an instruction specifically relating to weight to be accorded testimony of a witness who had been granted immunity was not "plain error" which would command reversal. U. S. v. Curry, C.A.4 (N.C.) 1975, 512 F.2d 1299, certiorari denied 96 S.Ct. 55, 423 U.S. 832, 46 L.Ed.2d 50. Criminal Law ⚡ 1038.2

Though better course in setting of particular case would have been for trial judge to caution jury to scrutinize testimony of accomplices in terms of their possible motivations rather than simply their records and activities, issue of coconspirators' interest was fairly put to jury, and court's instruction on accomplice and coconspirator testimony was sufficient for such purpose. U. S. v. Santana, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1974, 503 F.2d 710, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 632, 419 U.S. 1053, 42 L.Ed.2d 649, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 1352, 420 U.S. 963, 43 L.Ed.2d 439, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 1450, 420 U.S. 1006, 43 L.Ed.2d 764. Criminal Law ⚡ 779; Criminal Law ⚡ 780(3)

Where trial court charged that testimony of coconspirators should be subjected to close and careful scrutiny and also charged that witness might be impeached by inconsistent statements, trial court's refusal to charge that testimony of admitted perjurer should be considered with caution and weighed with great care was not error. U. S. v. Evanchik, C.A.2 (Conn.) 1969, 413 F.2d 950. Criminal Law ⚡ 829(16)

Cautionary instruction that jury should keep in mind that testimony of an accomplice is to be received with caution and weighed with great care and that they should not convict the defendant upon unsupported testimony of an accomplice unless they believe such testimony to be true beyond a reasonable doubt is in keeping with better practice. U. S. v. Callis, C.A.6 (Tenn.) 1968, 390 F.2d 606. Criminal Law ⚡ 780(3)

Charge that accomplice testimony should be "received with caution and weighed with care" sufficiently instructed jury to give greater scrutiny to accomplice testimony than to other testimony. U. S. v. Mattio, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1968, 388 F.2d 368, certiorari denied 88 S.Ct. 1643, 390 U.S. 1043, 20 L.Ed.2d 305. Criminal Law ⚡ 780(3)

Where trial court made correct ruling on initial admission of evidence of admissions by alleged coconspirators, trial court, in absence of request for instruction, was not required to instruct that if jury acquitted defendant of conspiracy count evidence of admissions by alleged coconspirators must be disregarded. U.S. v. Vida, C.A.6 (Mich.) 1966, 370 F.2d 759, certiorari denied 87 S.Ct. 1695, 387 U.S. 910, 18 L.Ed.2d 630. Criminal Law ⚡ 824(8)

Where much of evidence against defendants in stock conspiracy trial involved testimony against them by persons who were jointly charged as codefendants and who had pleaded guilty before trial, as well as by accomplices and coconspirators with criminal records, trial judge had duty accurately to instruct jury on accomplices' guilty pleas, witnesses' criminal records, and credibility. U. S. v. Kelly, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1965, 349 F.2d 720, certiorari denied 86 S.Ct. 1467, 384 U.S. 947, 16 L.Ed.2d 544. Criminal Law ⚡ 781(1); Criminal Law ⚡ 785(10)

A defendant is entitled to a cautionary instruction on accomplice's testimony. Sabari v. U. S., C.A.9 (Nev.) 1964,

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

333 F.2d 1019. Criminal Law ⚡ 780(1)

Trial judge did not take from jury factual issue of whether government witness was accomplice in conspiracy when he correctly stated witness' testimony that, by his own admission, he was accomplice but further cautioned jury that, in light of this admission, it must scrutinize his testimony with special care. U. S. v. Bentvena, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1963, 319 F.2d 916, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 345, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 271, rehearing denied 90 S.Ct. 894, 397 U.S. 928, 25 L.Ed.2d 108, rehearing denied 84 S.Ct. 515, 375 U.S. 989, 11 L.Ed.2d 476, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 346, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 271, rehearing denied 84 S.Ct. 1162, 377 U.S. 913, 12 L.Ed.2d 183, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 353, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 272, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 354, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 272, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 355, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 272, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 360, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 272. Criminal Law ⚡ 757(4)

With evidence supporting government's theory that after debacle, in attempt to obtain leniency for person who was to be sentenced, a conspiracy continued with objective of reducing his sentence through restitution by him of funds, court properly charged that jury must first determine whether conspiracy ended on date of such debacle, that if it so found it must in deciding whether a defendant had been member, exclude all evidence of restitution plan other than his particular admissions, but that, if it found that conspiracy continued beyond date of such debacle, it might consider acts or declarations of all coconspirators during that period in furtherance of conspiracy's objectives. U. S. v. Kahaner, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1963, 317 F.2d 459, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 62, 375 U.S. 835, 11 L.Ed.2d 65, rehearing denied 84 S.Ct. 478, 375 U.S. 982, 11 L.Ed.2d 429, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 73, 375 U.S. 836, 11 L.Ed.2d 65, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 74, 375 U.S. 836, 11 L.Ed.2d 65, rehearing denied 84 S.Ct. 263, 375 U.S. 926, 11 L.Ed.2d 169. Criminal Law ⚡ 779

In view of instruction to effect that statements taken after conspiracy ended may be considered as to guilt or innocence of man who made them but may not be considered as to guilt or innocence of other defendants, defendant was not prejudiced by joint trial with other alleged conspirators. Mee v. U. S., C.A.8 (Minn.) 1963, 316 F.2d 467, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 1923, 377 U.S. 997, 12 L.Ed.2d 1049, rehearing denied 85 S.Ct. 20, 379 U.S. 873, 13 L.Ed.2d 80. Criminal Law ⚡ 1166(6)

The failure, in conspiracy case, to instruct jury to scrutinize with special care the testimony of accomplices was not prejudicial, where usual instructions as to bias and interest were given by trial judge, defense counsel, in their summations to jury and in their motion to the court, made repeated references to asserted inconsistencies in testimony of government witnesses and these references were reiterated in judge's instruction, and there was testimony from other individuals introduced in corroboration of that of accomplice. U. S. v. Cianchetti, C.A.2 (Conn.) 1963, 315 F.2d 584. Criminal Law ⚡ 1173.2(6)

The trial judge in conspiracy cases would be well advised to caution jury as to the scrutiny appropriate in considering testimony of accomplices; but failure to so caution should not be made cause for reversal unless it has resulted in substantial prejudice. U. S. v. Cianchetti, C.A.2 (Conn.) 1963, 315 F.2d 584. Criminal Law ⚡ 780(1); Criminal Law ⚡ 1173.2(6)

Instruction that testimony of accomplice should be taken with great caution and should be scrutinized very carefully by jury afforded more than adequate safeguards to insure close examination of accomplice's testimony. U. S. v. Vita, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1961, 294 F.2d 524, certiorari denied 82 S.Ct. 837, 369 U.S. 823, 7 L.Ed.2d 788, certiorari denied 82 S.Ct. 1032, 369 U.S. 866, 8 L.Ed.2d 85. Criminal Law ⚡ 780(3)

Where district court instructed relative to testimony of alleged accomplices, and thereafter defendant called to court's attention that only one witness who was alleged to be an accomplice had testified, and court thereupon amended instruction by making it refer to such witness instead of witnesses, court's amendment cured suggested defect. U.S. v. Vanco, C.C.A.7 (Ill.) 1942, 131 F.2d 123. Criminal Law ⚡ 818

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

There was no basis for complaint that court charged that rules relating to testimony of accomplices were applicable to testimony of defendant who took stand in his own defense, where court merely said that it was for jury to pass on credibility of accomplices and that same rule applied to defendant's testimony. U.S. v. Ritchie, C.C.A.3 (N.J.) 1942, 128 F.2d 798. Criminal Law ⚡ 786(2)

In prosecution for conspiracy, court, in admitting evidence as to statements by alleged coconspirators, properly instructed that if jury found a conspiracy existed, any happening occurring in furtherance of conspiracy could be used against a conspirator, whether he was present or not, and if they found conspiracy did not exist so far as accused was concerned, jury should strike the evidence from their minds. Deacon v. U. S., C.C.A.1 (Mass.) 1941, 124 F.2d 352. Criminal Law ⚡ 779

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate internal revenue laws, refusal of instruction that testimony of an accomplice should be subjected to closest scrutiny and giving of instruction that, in considering testimony of an accomplice, fact that witness is an accomplice should be considered, but which did not advise jury to subject testimony to closest scrutiny, was not reversible error, where testimony of accomplices was so uncontradicted and so thoroughly corroborated as to leave no doubt as to its truth. Hanks v. U.S., C.C.A.4 (S.C.) 1938, 97 F.2d 309. Criminal Law ⚡ 1172.2

Whether trial judge should caution jury with respect to weight to be given testimony of an accomplice is matter resting in his sound discretion. Hanks v. U.S., C.C.A.4 (S.C.) 1938, 97 F.2d 309. Criminal Law ⚡ 780(3)

Where testimony of an accomplice is placed in evidence, jury should be told that it is to be received with caution and carefully scrutinized. Hanks v. U.S., C.C.A.4 (S.C.) 1938, 97 F.2d 309. Criminal Law ⚡ 780(3)

In conspiracy prosecution, complaint that confessions of some of defendants were admitted against all defendants without instruction that confessions were competent against makers only was without merit, where instruction was given that no statements made by defendants after termination of conspiracy could be used as evidence against any other defendant. Patterson v. U.S., C.C.A.6 (Mich.) 1935, 82 F.2d 937, certiorari denied 56 S.Ct. 677, 298 U.S. 657, 80 L.Ed. 1383. Criminal Law ⚡ 783(1)

In conspiracy prosecution instruction requiring close scrutiny of testimony of accomplices was properly rejected, as abstract and inconsistent with defense. Newman v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Wash.) 1928, 28 F.2d 681, certiorari denied 49 S.Ct. 253, 279 U.S. 839, 73 L.Ed. 986. Criminal Law ⚡ 814(15)

Instruction relative to testimony of coconspirators was adequate. McDonnell v. U.S., C.C.A.1 (Mass.) 1927, 19 F.2d 801, certiorari denied 48 S.Ct. 114, 275 U.S. 551, 72 L.Ed. 421.

It is not error to charge the jury that they may convict on the uncorroborated testimony of accomplices, where they are also charged that they should scrutinize such testimony with care. Goldberg v. U.S., C.C.A.5 (Ga.) 1924, 297 F. 98. Criminal Law ⚡ 780(3)

Instructions on a trial for criminal conspiracy sufficiently cautioned the jury with respect to the testimony of defendants, who pleaded guilty and were witnesses for the government. Orear v. U.S., C.C.A.5 (Tex.) 1919, 261 F. 257. Criminal Law ⚡ 780(3)

In a prosecution for conspiracy to defraud the United States, where testimony was admitted of the statements or admissions of one defendant, made to a representative of the Department of Justice after the conspiracy had ended in failure, it was prejudicial error to refuse to instruct that such statements, made out of court, were not competent as against the other defendant. Feder v. U.S., C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1919, 257 F. 694, 168 C.C.A. 644. Criminal Law ⚡ 673(4)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Instruction that statements by coconspirator made in absence of defendant could not be considered unless conspiracy was found and that the admission of such testimony was subject to its being stricken was proper and did not constitute instruction that, since evidence was not stricken, Government had sustained its burden of proving conspiracy. U. S. v. Vespe, D.C.Del.1975, 389 F.Supp. 1359, affirmed 520 F.2d 1369, certiorari denied 96 S.Ct. 779, 423 U.S. 1051, 46 L.Ed.2d 640. Criminal Law ⚡ 779

After defense counsel requested trial court to instruct jury on the inadmissibility of statements made by one co-conspirator as evidence against other co-conspirators unless and until the existence of a conspiracy is established, it was not improper for the court, at time evidence was being introduced, to simply instruct jury that they were to accept and be guided by defense counsel's statement of a few moments before. U. S. v. Riccobene, E.D.Pa.1970, 320 F.Supp. 196, affirmed 451 F.2d 586. Criminal Law ⚡ 833

In conspiracy case, trial judge will instruct jury as to which of several defendants are bound by witnesses' testimony as to coconspirators' acts and declarations. U.S. v. Lang, E.D.N.Y.1941, 40 F.Supp. 414. Criminal Law ⚡ 779

886. Declarations of coconspirators, instructions

Willful blindness instruction was warranted, in trial for conspiracy to commit theft from Indian tribal organization, by evidence supporting inference that defendants consciously chose to remain ignorant about extent of their criminal behavior, including evidence they told federal agents they could have checked, but did not want to know how much money they had taken through payroll advances. U.S. v. Goings, C.A.8 (S.D.) 2002, 313 F.3d 423. Indians ⚡ 38(1)

In conspiracy prosecution, trial court did not err in failing to instruct jury that reason that hearsay statements of certain nonattendant coconspirators were admissible was that judge had made preliminary determination, out of jury's presence, that substantial evidence pointed towards existence of conspiracy between defendant and declarants and that statements were made in furtherance of conspiracy, and that, by the close of all the evidence, trial judge was convinced that evidence preponderated in this direction, in view of fact that such an instruction carried profuse potential for conveying to jury understanding that trial court was persuaded of defendant's guilt. U. S. v. Hill, C.A.5 (Ga.) 1980, 622 F.2d 900. Criminal Law ⚡ 762(5)

It was not error to fail to give requested instruction that jury could consider co-conspirators' declarations made in absence of defendant only if jury found, on independent proof, that conspiracy existed and that absent defendant knowingly participated in conspiracy. Carbo v. U. S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1963, 314 F.2d 718, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 1625, 377 U.S. 953, 12 L.Ed.2d 498, rehearing denied 84 S.Ct. 1902, 377 U.S. 1010, 12 L.Ed.2d 1058, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 1626, 377 U.S. 953, 12 L.Ed.2d 498, rehearing denied 84 S.Ct. 1903, 377 U.S. 1010, 12 L.Ed.2d 1058, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 1627, 377 U.S. 953, 12 L.Ed.2d 498. Criminal Law ⚡ 779

Defendants were entitled to nothing more than instruction that jury should disregard testimony of codefendant that one of defendants in conversation with codefendant stated that he had committed offense other than those charged, and were not entitled to mistrial, where testimony of codefendant was drawn from him after counsel for defendants asked that he be more specific with regard to conversation with defendants. U. S. v. Vita, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1961, 294 F.2d 524, certiorari denied 82 S.Ct. 837, 369 U.S. 823, 7 L.Ed.2d 788, certiorari denied 82 S.Ct. 1032, 369 U.S. 866, 8 L.Ed.2d 85. Criminal Law ⚡ 783.5; Criminal Law ⚡ 867

In prosecution against bottling plant owner and ration bank teller for falsifying, concealing and covering up material facts within jurisdiction of Office of Price Administration by means of false sugar ration deposit slips, conspiracy existing between them terminated when teller left the bank, and, therefore, declarations made by the owner to teller's successor were not admissible against the teller and refusal of instruction that owner's declarations to teller's successor could not be considered against teller was error. Bartlett v. United States, C.C.A.10 (N.M.)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

1948, 166 F.2d 920. Criminal Law ⚡ 424(1); Criminal Law ⚡ 673(4)

Where district judge limited evidential use of statements allegedly made by one jointly charged with defendant after termination of the alleged conspiracy to one making the statements alone, defendant could not complain because district judge failed to restate such limitation in his formal charge to jury, in absence of request therefor. U. S. v. Alfano, C.C.A.3 (Pa.) 1945, 152 F.2d 395. Criminal Law ⚡ 824(11)

In prosecution for making war material in defective manner, evidence which related to transactions subsequent to date of making of allegedly defective part involved was competent to establish wilfulness but court should have charged that testimony regarding conversations held not in presence of one or more of the various defendants and not binding on them in their official capacity were inadmissible against them unless conspiracy was proved. Schmeller v. U. S., C.C.A.6 (Ohio) 1944, 143 F.2d 544. Criminal Law ⚡ 371(1); Criminal Law ⚡ 779

Statements in charge that "acts and declarations of each of the members of the conspiracy are competent and available proof against each other member," and that "they are then partners as in other transactions of life, lawful transactions, each acts for every one, and for all the others," were not misleading as against objection that charge permitted jury to consider declarations of one conspirator, made out of presence of another and after termination of conspiracy, admissible against such other, especially where no such declarations had been made after termination. Johnson v. U.S., C.C.A.4 (W.Va.) 1925, 5 F.2d 471, certiorari denied 46 S.Ct. 101, 269 U.S. 574, 70 L.Ed. 419.

887. Acts of others attributable to all, instructions

Where indictment charged alien defendants with conspiring from 1939 to 1944 to defraud the United States by concealing and misrepresenting their membership in the Nazi party but the last overt act alleged was the filing of a false registration by one defendant on December 23, 1940, such registration was adequate as an overt act in furtherance of conspiracy to make a false return but could not serve as an overt act in furtherance of a conspiracy to conceal from 1940 to 1944 the fact that false returns had been made so as to make admissible against co-defendants separate admissions of defendants in 1943 and 1944, and instruction that admissions of each were admissible against all if there was a conspiracy and all of them were in it, was error. Fiswick v. U.S., U.S.N.J.1946, 67 S.Ct. 224, 329 U.S. 211, 91 L.Ed. 196. Criminal Law ⚡ 423(9); Criminal Law ⚡ 779

Pinkerton instruction that conspirator is responsible for offenses committed by fellow conspirators if he was member of conspiracy when offense was committed, and if offense was committed in furtherance of conspiracy, was not adequate to support defendant's convictions on counts of attempted extortion where various aspects of liability were unusual and complex, and instruction was not linked to crime of attempted extortion or its elements; complex indictment, ubiquity of government informant and absence of coconspirators standing trial required that court explain specifically and in detail how jury should apply Pinkerton to facts before it. U.S. v. McClain, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1991, 934 F.2d 822. Criminal Law ⚡ 779

In prosecution for conspiracy to commit offenses against United States involving two military recruiting center bombings, trial court properly instructed jury that it could consider acts and declarations of coconspirators. U. S. v. Giese, C.A.9 (Or.) 1979, 597 F.2d 1170, certiorari denied 100 S.Ct. 480, 444 U.S. 979, 62 L.Ed.2d 405. Criminal Law ⚡ 779

Instruction that, in a conspiracy case, the guilt of any defendant may be established without proof that he or she personally did every act constituting the offense charged was not improper on theory it allowed jury to "attribute" to defendant the requisite knowledge to convict possibly possessed by other coconspirators. U. S. v. Eaglin, C.A.9 (Or.) 1977, 571 F.2d 1069, certiorari denied 98 S.Ct. 1453, 435 U.S. 906, 55 L.Ed.2d 497. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.2(1)

In conspiracy prosecution, proposed instruction with respect to vicarious liability of coconspirators was properly refused, where proposed instruction precluded any liability except for acts in which they "knowingly and willingly participated," and federal rule is that a coconspirator can be held liable for reasonably foreseeable act committed in furtherance of a common illegal objective. U. S. v. Manning, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1974, 509 F.2d 1230, certiorari denied 96 S.Ct. 37, 423 U.S. 824, 46 L.Ed.2d 40. Conspiracy ↻ 48.2(1)

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Refusal to instruct jury that acts and statements of conspirators must have been in furtherance of conspiracy to be admissible against all coconspirators, if error, was harmless, absent any acts or statements admitted into evidence which were not in furtherance of the conspiracy. U. S. v. Mendoza, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1972, 473 F.2d 692. Criminal Law ↻ 1173.2(5)

Where court proceeding count by count through entire indictment named respective defendants charged under each count and carefully defined elements of each offense in terms of defendants so named and instructed that "each offense charged in the indictment and the evidence that is applicable to each defendant should be considered by you separately," the entire charge did not improperly imply that if one defendant was found guilty under one conspiracy count all defendants had to be found guilty under that count. U. S. v. Vicars, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1972, 467 F.2d 452, certiorari denied 93 S.Ct. 1451, 410 U.S. 967, 35 L.Ed.2d 702. Conspiracy ↻ 48.2(1)

While declaration of one alleged conspirator in furtherance of conspiracy otherwise banned by hearsay rule is not admissible against another without other proof of latter's membership, if the judge is satisfied that such proof is adequate, he is to leave declaration to jury to use like any other evidence, without instructing them to consider it as proof only after they too have decided a preliminary issue which alone makes it competent. U. S. v. Nuccio, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1967, 373 F.2d 168, certiorari denied 87 S.Ct. 1688, 387 U.S. 906, 18 L.Ed.2d 623, rehearing denied 88 S.Ct. 16, 389 U.S. 889, 19 L.Ed.2d 199. Criminal Law ↻ 736(1); Criminal Law ↻ 779

Where attorney, who had acted for defendants, had been named as conspirator in the indictment but had not been indicted, trial judge's instruction pertaining to admissibility of act of one partner in crime against other partners was sufficient to cover trial judge's earlier statement that he would instruct, regarding attorney's testimony, whether or not one was bound by the other. U. S. v. Weinberg, C.A.3 (Pa.) 1955, 226 F.2d 161, certiorari denied 76 S.Ct. 305, 350 U.S. 933, 100 L.Ed. 815. Conspiracy ↻ 48.2(1)

In prosecution for use of mails in attempt to defraud in sale of accident and sickness policies and for conspiracy to commit the same offense, court properly ruled that one of defendants was chargeable with acts and declaration of the other defendants prior to the time of his association with them and with acts and declarations of insurer's other agents, since the act of agent is the act of his principal and the act of one conspirator is the act of all. U. S. v. Sylvanus, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1951, 192 F.2d 96, certiorari denied 72 S.Ct. 555, 342 U.S. 943, 96 L.Ed. 701. Conspiracy ↻ 41

888. Corroboration, instructions

In prosecution for conspiring to violate § 212 of this title prohibiting bribery of customs officials and §§ 173, 174 of Title 21 concerning narcotics laws, one of defendants was not entitled as of right to a charge that government's evidence against him through testimony of a coconspirator was uncorroborated, a charge explaining uncorroborated testimony, and a charge that uncorroborated testimony of accomplice should be scrutinized with great caution. United States v. Stromberg, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1959, 268 F.2d 256, certiorari denied 80 S.Ct. 119, 361 U.S. 863, 4 L.Ed.2d 102, certiorari denied 80 S.Ct. 123, 361 U.S. 863, 4 L.Ed.2d 102, certiorari denied 80 S.Ct. 124, 361 U.S. 863, 4 L.Ed.2d 102, certiorari denied 80 S.Ct. 130, 361 U.S. 868, 4 L.Ed.2d 108. Criminal Law ↻ 780(1)

Although in a conspiracy prosecution, an instruction that accomplice's testimony should be received with caution is generally desirable, its omission is not necessarily reversible error, since corroboration of an accomplice's testimony is not a prerequisite to conviction. Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co. v. U.S., C.A.4 (Va.) 1958, 260 F.2d 397, certiorari granted 79 S.Ct. 289, 358 U.S. 917, 3 L.Ed.2d 237, certiorari granted 79 S.Ct. 290, 358 U.S. 918, 3

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

L.Ed.2d 237, affirmed 79 S.Ct. 1237, 360 U.S. 395, 3 L.Ed.2d 1323, rehearing denied 80 S.Ct. 42, 361 U.S. 855, 4 L.Ed.2d 94. Criminal Law ⚡ 780(1); Criminal Law ⚡ 1173.2(6)

In a prosecution under former § 88 of this title [now this section] the failure of the court to instruct the jury as to the value of the testimony of an accomplice, and to call its attention to the danger of placing too much reliance upon such testimony, and to their rights to require corroborating testimony before giving credence to such evidence, is not error. Nee v. U S, C.C.A.3 (Pa.) 1920, 267 F. 84.

In a prosecution for conspiring to defraud the United States, where the jury had been charged that the testimony of confederates and accomplices should not be accepted unless corroborated, a further charge that the confessions of such confederates might be considered as corroboration was improper, allowing the confessions of his alleged coconspirators which were not in furtherance of the conspiracy to be used against defendant. Fitter v. U.S., C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1919, 258 F. 567, 169 C.C.A. 507. Criminal Law ⚡ 780(4)

889. Limited admission, instructions

Where relevant declaration or admissions of conspirator made in absence of coconspirator are admitted in trial for conspiracy, the court must clearly instruct that the evidence is limited as against the declarant only. Delli Paoli v. U.S., U.S.N.Y.1957, 77 S.Ct. 294, 352 U.S. 232, 1 L.Ed.2d 278. Criminal Law ⚡ 673(4)

Where instruction in prosecution for transporting forged check in interstate commerce and for conspiracy to commit such offense, that certain evidence had limited purpose was not proposed, and no objection to its absence was made, failure to give such instruction could not be assigned as error. U. S. v. Solomon, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1970, 422 F.2d 1110, certiorari denied 90 S.Ct. 2201, 399 U.S. 911, 26 L.Ed.2d 565, rehearing denied 91 S.Ct. 26, 400 U.S. 855, 27 L.Ed.2d 93. Criminal Law ⚡ 824(8)

Codefendants in conspiracy case could not claim prejudice in respect to testimony offered to show defendant's consciousness of guilt, where there was an instruction that the testimony was offered only as to defendant. U.S. v. Dardi, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1964, 330 F.2d 316, certiorari denied 85 S.Ct. 117, 379 U.S. 869, 13 L.Ed.2d 73, certiorari denied 85 S.Ct. 50, 379 U.S. 845, 13 L.Ed.2d 50, rehearing denied 85 S.Ct. 640, 379 U.S. 986, 13 L.Ed.2d 579, certiorari denied 85 S.Ct. 51, 379 U.S. 845, 13 L.Ed.2d 50. Criminal Law ⚡ 673(4)

There was no basis for defendant's claim that trial court erroneously refused to direct a verdict in his favor in conspiracy prosecution because certain evidence was excluded as against him and was never afterward reoffered, where such evidence had been admitted as against co-defendant with instruction that it was not to be considered as against defendant unless there was proof connecting him with conspiracy, and, after admission of such proof, court instructed jury that it should consider all of testimony that had been offered. U.S. v. Ritchie, C.C.A.3 (N.J.) 1942, 128 F.2d 798. Criminal Law ⚡ 673(4)

In trial of several defendants for conspiracy, trial court's failure to limit evidentiary value of one defendant's statement, prejudicial to codefendant, as admission of defendant making it, by instruction to jury, as colloquy between court and counsel in jury's absence disclosed to be trial court's intention, was error, available to defendants on appeal, though they took no exception, in view of court's statement that he would instruct jury in accordance with defendants' requests. U.S. v. Perlstein, C.C.A.3 (N.J.) 1941, 120 F.2d 276. Criminal Law ⚡ 1056.1(3.1)

Portion of instruction concerning liability of conspirators for declarations and acts of coconspirators was not erroneous as failing to limit declarations or acts for which conspirators were liable to acts and statements made in furtherance of conspiracy, where entire instruction as given properly limited liability of conspirators. Levine v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Wash.) 1935, 79 F.2d 364. Criminal Law ⚡ 822(1)

The admission of evidence incompetent against one defendant charged with conspiracy but competent against the other defendants, is not prejudicial, if jury is also instructed that evidence should only be considered against defendants as to whom the evidence is competent and not against the defendant as to whom the evidence is incompetent. U.S. v. Rose, W.D.Ky.1940, 31 F.Supp. 249. Criminal Law ⚡ 921

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

890. Erroneous admission, instructions

Generally, error in the admission of evidence is cured by withdrawing the evidence from jury's consideration and instructing jury to disregard it. Holt v. U.S., C.C.A.10 (Okla.) 1937, 94 F.2d 90. Criminal Law ⚡ 1169.5(1)

In prosecution for using mails in furtherance of scheme to defraud and for conspiracy to use mails in furtherance of scheme to defraud by representing an imposter to be heir to valuable mineral rights and inducing others to enter into contracts regarding mineral rights, error in the admission of the imposter's purported dying declaration giving complete narrative of what occurred between imposter and his alleged coconspirators from beginning was not cured by court's instruction to jury to disregard statement, where it squarely contradicted defense that defendant did not know the alleged heir was an imposter. Holt v. U.S., C.C.A.10 (Okla.) 1937, 94 F.2d 90. Criminal Law ⚡ 1169.5(5)

891. Irrelevant evidence, instructions

Conviction of violations of Securities Act, section 77a et seq. of Title 15, mail fraud and conspiracy was not required to be overturned in absence of showing how irrelevant testimony would have prejudiced minds of jurors to such degree that explicit instruction would not have cured error. McMahan v. U. S., C.A.7 (Ill.) 1970, 424 F.2d 1216, certiorari denied 91 S.Ct. 51, 400 U.S. 826, 27 L.Ed.2d 55. Criminal Law ⚡ 1163(3)

In a prosecution for conspiring to violate §§ 2833 and 3253 of Title 26, error in admitting certain defendants' irrelevant written statements relating solely to a murder committed by one of the defendants is not cured by instructions that the jury are not concerned with such murder nor with the manner in which the victim's body was disposed of, and that the jury should disregard the statements unless they aided the jury in ascertaining the fact of conspiracy, or the members thereof. Smith v. U.S., App.D.C.1937, 91 F.2d 556, 67 App.D.C. 251. Criminal Law ⚡ 1169.5(2)

892. Character evidence, instructions

Defendants charged with conspiracy to commit wire fraud and to submit false statements as to matters within jurisdiction of federal agency were entitled to requested character instruction, and trial court's failure to give that instruction was prejudicial error; one defendant had testified at length regarding his distinguished 24-year career in Air Force during which he received several commendations and possessed top secret clearance, and the other defendant had testified regarding his work on military projects during which he had "secret" clearances as well as to his extensive involvement in community activities, and defendants' testimony touched on their character as to relevant traits of law-abidingness and honesty. U.S. v. Daily, C.A.10 (Kan.) 1990, 921 F.2d 994, certiorari denied 112 S.Ct. 405, 502 U.S. 952, 116 L.Ed.2d 354. Criminal Law ⚡ 776(3); Criminal Law ⚡ 1173.2(5)

Defendant in conspiracy prosecution was not entitled to instruction that character evidence standing alone is sufficient to raise reasonable doubt. U. S. v. Fontenot, C.A.5 (Ga.) 1973, 483 F.2d 315. Criminal Law ⚡ 776(5)

To have had jury decide question of whether independent evidence was of sufficient quality and quantity to permit it to consider testimony of alleged coconspirator as evidence of a conspiracy would have rendered testimony valueless and would have served only to confirm what jury had already determined, namely, existence of conspiracy charged. U. S. v. Pisciotta, C.A.10 (Colo.) 1972, 469 F.2d 329. Criminal Law ⚡ 741(5)

Instruction on subject of character proof elicited from some of government witnesses by defendant's counsel as part of defendant's defense, was properly given as requested by government, in prosecution for conspiracy to defraud public by distribution of oil company stock at grossly inflated prices. U. S. v. Kelly, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1965, 349 F.2d 720, certiorari denied 86 S.Ct. 1467, 384 U.S. 947, 16 L.Ed.2d 544. Criminal Law ⚡ 776(1)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Court's charge, in prosecution for conspiracy to take fraudulent deductions on corporate income tax return, regarding character testimony fairly set forth position of character evidence and there was no error in failing to charge in exact language requested by defendants. U.S. v. Haskell, C.A.2 (Conn.) 1964, 327 F.2d 281, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 1351, 377 U.S. 945, 12 L.Ed.2d 307. Criminal Law ⚡ 834(2)

The failure of two defendants to request an instruction on character testimony and the failure of all defendants to except to the instruction given did not preclude the reviewing court from examining the instruction given. Miller v. U. S., C.C.A.10 (Kan.) 1941, 120 F.2d 968. Criminal Law ⚡ 824(5); Criminal Law ⚡ 1056.1(3.1)

Refusal to give instruction that character testimony might in itself produce reasonable doubt of defendant's guilt, requiring acquittal, was proper. Scheib v. U.S., C.C.A.7 (Ind.) 1926, 14 F.2d 75, certiorari denied 47 S.Ct. 95, 273 U.S. 700, 71 L.Ed. 847, certiorari denied 47 S.Ct. 95, 273 U.S. 701, 71 L.Ed. 847, certiorari denied 47 S.Ct. 95, 273 U.S. 701, 71 L.Ed. 848, certiorari denied 47 S.Ct. 113, 273 U.S. 718, 71 L.Ed. 856. Criminal Law ⚡ 776(5)

Refusal of instruction that circumstances might be such that good reputation would alone create reasonable doubt, and court's charge that evidence of good character augmented presumption of innocence, and should be considered with such presumption and other facts, was not error. Linde v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (S.D.) 1926, 13 F.2d 59. Criminal Law ⚡ 776(5)

893. Circumstantial evidence, instructions

No separate charge to jury is to be made suggesting that circumstantial evidence is on a different and lower plane than other forms of evidence. U.S. v. Valenti, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1943, 134 F.2d 362, certiorari denied 63 S.Ct. 1317, 319 U.S. 761, 87 L.Ed. 1712, rehearing denied 64 S.Ct. 29, 320 U.S. 809, 88 L.Ed. 489. Criminal Law ⚡ 784(8)

894. Association, instructions

Trial court's instruction cautioning the jury against paying excessive attention to evidence of defendants' association with each other sufficiently instructed jury on the issue of conspiracy as shown by fact that defendants associated with each other. U. S. v. Hathaway, C.A.1 (Mass.) 1976, 534 F.2d 386, certiorari denied 97 S.Ct. 64, 429 U.S. 819, 50 L.Ed.2d 79. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.2(1)

895. Overt acts, instructions

There was no plain error in trial court's failure to sua sponte include statute of limitations instruction as to charge of conspiracy to defraud United States; case involved 26 alleged overt acts, of which ten were within five-year limitations period immediately preceding date of indictment, and there was ample evidence to prove number of overt acts within statutory period, such that limitations defense would not have been obvious to trial court. U.S. v. Matzkin, C.A.4 (Va.) 1994, 14 F.3d 1014, denial of habeas corpus affirmed 52 F.3d 322, certiorari denied 116 S.Ct. 175, 516 U.S. 863, 133 L.Ed.2d 115. Criminal Law ⚡ 1038.3

In prosecution for conspiracy to defraud United States, trial court's instructions on conspiracy, read as a whole, did not improperly permit jury to convict defendant of conspiracy for having completed just overt act. U.S. v. Sorrow, C.A.11 (Ga.) 1984, 732 F.2d 176. Criminal Law ⚡ 822(6)

Violation of state Gaming Commission regulation could not of itself form predicate for state law violation required for federal prosecution under section 1952 of this title, but, under conspiracy count, violation of regulations alone would be considered as overt acts by defendants committing them which were ingredients of crime of conspiracy. U. S. v. Goldfarb, C.A.6 (Mich.) 1981, 643 F.2d 422, certiorari denied 102 S.Ct. 117, 454 U.S. 827, 70 L.Ed.2d 101, certiorari denied 102 S.Ct. 118, 454 U.S. 827, 70 L.Ed.2d 101. Conspiracy ⚡ 27; Gaming ⚡ 66

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In prosecution for, inter alia, conspiracy to rob a bank, instruction, not timely objected to, that jury could consider as an overt act in furtherance of the conspiracy a purchase of a pair of men's stockings was not plain error, though there was no showing how the purchase could be in furtherance of the conspiracy, where there were two other acts in furtherance of the conspiracy in which defendant admittedly participated. U. S. v. Robinson, C.A.8 (Minn.) 1976, 539 F.2d 1181, certiorari denied 97 S.Ct. 1124, 429 U.S. 1101, 51 L.Ed.2d 550. Criminal Law ⚡ 1038.1(7)

Where instructions required active participation by defendant in total scheme to defraud to convict for large scale "check kiting", trial court did not err in failing to instruct jury that guilty knowledge that crime was being committed is insufficient proof defendant aided and abetted crime. U. S. v. Jones, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1970, 425 F.2d 1048, certiorari denied 91 S.Ct. 44, 400 U.S. 823, 27 L.Ed.2d 51. Criminal Law ⚡ 829(20)

Where trial judge had previously instructed jury as to what an overt act was and his analysis of evidence was not misleading or one-sided, judge's statement that he did not think there was any substantial question in jury's minds that any number of overt acts were committed did not constitute an invasion of jury's province. Glazerman v. U. S., C.A.10 (Okla.) 1970, 421 F.2d 547, certiorari denied 90 S.Ct. 1817, 398 U.S. 928, 26 L.Ed.2d 90. Criminal Law ⚡ 763(1)

Under charge that, to establish offense of conspiracy, evidence must show that defendant knowingly and wilfully became member of conspiracy and that one of conspirators thereafter knowingly committed at least one of overt acts charged in indictment at or about time and place alleged, if jury believed government's evidence, pertaining to one overt act, that defendant rented motel room on or about certain date, it could find defendant guilty of offense of conspiracy, even if evidence did not substantiate overt act charged, that two other alleged coconspirators had rented motel rooms on or about certain date. Bradford v. U. S., C.A.5 (Miss.) 1969, 413 F.2d 467. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(3.1)

Instructions in conspiracy prosecution were not improper for failure to require proof beyond reasonable doubt of at least one overt act within court's jurisdiction, nor as shifting burden of proof as to overt act to defendant. Mount v. U.S., C.A.5 (Tex.) 1964, 333 F.2d 39, certiorari denied 85 S.Ct. 188, 379 U.S. 900, 13 L.Ed.2d 175. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.2(1); Criminal Law ⚡ 778(5)

In prosecution on various charges including one of conspiring to commit various offenses, instruction stating in part that a conspiracy may be proved by overt acts was not prejudicial or confusing when considered in light of entire charge. Schnautz v. U.S., C.A.5 (Tex.) 1959, 263 F.2d 525, certiorari denied 79 S.Ct. 1294, 360 U.S. 910, 3 L.Ed.2d 1260. Criminal Law ⚡ 822(13)

In prosecution for conspiracy to sell heroin brought in District Court for Eastern District of New York, wherein proof of a number of overt acts in Eastern District was uncontroverted and of substantial character, omission of trial judge, in his charge to jury concerning necessity of finding that overt act took place, to specifically require a finding of an overt act in Eastern District, was not ground for reversal, where no exception was taken, no request was submitted, and defendant indicated no criticism of charge. U. S. v. Campisi, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1957, 248 F.2d 102, certiorari denied 78 S.Ct. 266, 355 U.S. 892, 2 L.Ed.2d 191. Criminal Law ⚡ 1038.3; Criminal Law ⚡ 1056.1(4)

Where there was no evidence of the single overt act charged in the indictment other than the confession of codefendant, instruction that defendant might be found guilty of the overt act charged was prejudicial error even though there was undisputed proof of an overt act not charged in the indictment. U.S. v. Negro, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.)

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

1947, 164 F.2d 168. Criminal Law ⚡ 814(5); Criminal Law ⚡ 1172.6

Refusal of instruction that proof of overt acts alone would not warrant conviction for conspiracy was not error. Feigenbutz v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Mo.) 1933, 65 F.2d 122. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.2(1)

Requested instructions that unless the overt acts were committed subsequent to the formation of the conspiracy, and not merely during its formation, defendants should be acquitted, were properly refused, since it was not necessary to convict to prove that more than one of the overt acts charged had been committed, and the doing of an act in furtherance of a conspiracy presupposes that it was done after the conspiracy was formed. Wilkes v. U.S., C.C.A.6 (Tenn.) 1923, 291 F. 988, certiorari denied 44 S.Ct. 181, 263 U.S. 719, 68 L.Ed. 523. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.2(1)

A requested instruction that occurrences after the overt acts were committed could not be considered in determining whether or not a conspiracy was formed was properly refused. Wilkes v. U.S., C.C.A.6 (Tenn.) 1923, 291 F. 988, certiorari denied 44 S.Ct. 181, 263 U.S. 719, 68 L.Ed. 523. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.2(1)

An instruction to find which of the overt acts charged were committed by the accused is properly refused where the accused admits the commission of the overt acts and the conspiracy is the only issue. Windsor v. U. S., C.C.A.6 (Ohio) 1923, 286 F. 51, 1 Ohio Law Abs. 339, certiorari denied 43 S.Ct. 523, 262 U.S. 748, 67 L.Ed. 1212.

Omission in the charge to specifically point out the necessity of proof of overt acts on a trial for conspiracy to defraud the United States was not ground for reversal where no objection was made or further instruction requested, and where testimony to some of the acts charged was undisputed, and the court had elsewhere fully stated the elements of the offense. Wolf v. U.S., C.C.A.7 (Ill.) 1922, 283 F. 885, certiorari denied 43 S.Ct. 164, 260 U.S. 743, 67 L.Ed. 492. Criminal Law ⚡ 823(10); Criminal Law ⚡ 1038.2; Criminal Law ⚡ 1038.3; Criminal Law ⚡ 1173.2(2)

Instruction in a conspiracy case that commission of one of the overt acts alleged by one or more of defendants would sustain a conviction, etc., was not erroneous, because authorizing a conviction on an overt act not proven, or committed by a codefendant who had been acquitted, where no further instruction was requested. Gilson v. U.S., C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1919, 258 F. 588, 169 C.C.A. 528, certiorari denied 40 S.Ct. 119, 251 U.S. 555, 64 L.Ed. 412. Criminal Law ⚡ 825(2)

Any error in an instruction in a conspiracy case, claimed to permit jury to consider unproven overt acts, did not authorize a reversal, in absence of an exception, where numerous overt acts were established by evidence. Gilson v. U.S., C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1919, 258 F. 588, 169 C.C.A. 528, certiorari denied 40 S.Ct. 119, 251 U.S. 555, 64 L.Ed. 412. Criminal Law ⚡ 1056(1)

In view of the indictment, an instruction, in a prosecution for conspiracy, was not objectionable as failing to charge that the overt act must have followed the conspiracy in point of time. Shepard v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1916, 236 F. 73, 149 C.C.A. 283. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.2(1)

Supplemental jury instruction did not prejudice defendants charged with conspiracy to defraud government, in that instruction correctly stated the law in informing jurors that they were not limited to considering overt acts specifically enumerated in indictment and could consider only overt acts committed within statute of limitations, indictment itself specifically alleged that defendants had committed overt acts in addition to those specifically enumerated, court limited jury's consideration to overt acts substantially similar to those listed in indictment, and evidence presented at trial suggested to defendants that overt acts beyond those enumerated in indictment would be considered by jury. U.S. v. Anderson, C.A.9 (Or.) 2004, 94 Fed.Appx. 487, 2004 WL 604937, Unreported, certiorari denied 125 S.Ct. 192, 543 U.S. 863, 160 L.Ed.2d 105, rehearing denied, rehearing denied 125 S.Ct. 493, 543 U.S. 984, 160 L.Ed.2d 367, certiorari denied 125 S.Ct. 203, 543 U.S. 863, 160 L.Ed.2d 105. Criminal Law

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

⌚ 1174(1)

896. Intent, instructions

Jury instruction on intent required for conspiracy, which used language imposing higher burden on government than law required, did not prejudice defendant. U.S. v. Royal, C.A.1 (Mass.) 1996, 100 F.3d 1019, on remand 7 F.Supp.2d 96. Criminal Law ⌚ 1172.7

Instruction on elements of conspiracy, in prosecution for conspiring to violate statute prohibiting trustees of employee stock ownership plan (ESOP) from receiving kickbacks, that included words "or either of them," did not improperly allow jury to convict defendant without finding that defendant had requisite intent to be conspirator; charge, taken as whole, would not have permitted jury to improperly convict. U.S. v. McCord, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1994, 33 F.3d 1434, certiorari denied 115 S.Ct. 2558, 515 U.S. 1132, 132 L.Ed.2d 812. Criminal Law ⌚ 822(7)

In prosecution for conspiracy to unlawfully transport stolen motor vehicles and stolen property in foreign commerce, district court's instructions were adequate to inform jury that it had to find that defendant knew that trucks had been stolen in order to find him guilty of conspiracy. U. S. v. Graves, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1982, 669 F.2d 964. Conspiracy ⌚ 48.2(2)

In drug prosecution wherein one defendant claimed that he joined conspiracy solely to gather incriminating evidence on coconspirators and eventually to supply such evidence to authorities, district court's instruction to jury that person does not have criminal intent required for conviction if he acts as police informant or in honest, good-faith belief that he is police informant and instruction that person is not guilty of criminal conspiracy unless he joins conspiracy with intent to further its purposes were adequate. U. S. v. Thompson, C.A.4 (N.C.) 1979, 598 F.2d 879. Conspiracy ⌚ 48.2(2)

Jury in a criminal conspiracy trial must be instructed that Government is required to prove beyond a reasonable doubt necessary elements of knowledge, actual participation and criminal intent. U. S. v. Malatesta, C.A.5 (Fla.) 1979, 590 F.2d 1379, certiorari denied 99 S.Ct. 1508, 440 U.S. 962, 59 L.Ed.2d 777, certiorari denied 100 S.Ct. 91, 444 U.S. 846, 62 L.Ed.2d 59. Conspiracy ⌚ 48.2(1)

In prosecution for conspiracy to possess with intent to distribute marijuana, trial court properly instructed jury that Government was required to prove beyond all reasonable doubt that conspiracy was knowingly formed and that individual defendants willfully participated in the illegal plan and that each defendant's acts had to be considered in deciding whether such requirement had been satisfied. U. S. v. Herring, C.A.10 (N.M.) 1978, 582 F.2d 535. Conspiracy ⌚ 48.2(2)

Where trial court indicated to the jury the type of intent required for conspiracy every time the subject came up, fact that trial court's definition of specific intent did not appear in the same place in the instructions as the recital of the elements of the crime of conspiracy was not improper despite contention that the jury could have been confused into believing that only general intent was required to convict on that charge. U. S. v. Haldeman, C.A.D.C.1976, 559 F.2d 31, 181 U.S.App.D.C. 254, certiorari denied 97 S.Ct. 2641, 431 U.S. 933, 53 L.Ed.2d 250, rehearing denied 97 S.Ct. 2992, 433 U.S. 916, 53 L.Ed.2d 1103. Criminal Law ⌚ 772(5)

In prosecution for conspiracy to obstruct justice and to defraud the United States by impeding a grand jury investigation wherein defendant, a lawyer, contended that he thought he was compelled to act as he did by the ethical obligations of a lawyer and that he was therefore without criminal intent in connection with two alleged conspiratorial episodes, jury was not called on to determine whether legal ethics actually required that defendant act as he did but only whether defendant believed he was thus constrained and, if so, whether defendant, because of his belief, was not acting with specific intent to advance the alleged conspiracy and, therefore, jury instruction which focused on question of intent and accurately stated the law presented question to jury with proper guidance.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

U. S. v. Mardian, C.A.D.C.1976, 546 F.2d 973, 178 U.S.App.D.C. 207. Conspiracy ↻ 48.2(2)

In prosecution for conspiracy in which jury was adequately told by other instructions what type of involvement was necessary to find defendants guilty of conspiracy, trial judge's editing of tendered instructions that mere knowledge, approval of, or acquiescence in object or purpose of conspiracy without an intention and agreement to cooperate in crime is insufficient to delete therefrom reference to acquiescence was within the court's discretion, and in light of other instructions did not constitute error. U. S. v. Bastone, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1975, 526 F.2d 971, certiorari denied 96 S.Ct. 2172, 425 U.S. 973, 48 L.Ed.2d 797. Criminal Law ↻ 834(3)

Charge on intent in prosecution for violation of section 1343 of this title, inducing interstate travel in execution of a fraud, and interstate transportation of proceeds of a fraud, and conspiracy, and for mail fraud was not erroneous for failure to state that crimes had to be proved beyond reasonable doubt, in view of judge's prior instructions. U. S. v. Crisona, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1969, 416 F.2d 107, certiorari denied 90 S.Ct. 991, 397 U.S. 961, 25 L.Ed.2d 253, certiorari denied 90 S.Ct. 993, 397 U.S. 961, 25 L.Ed.2d 253. Criminal Law ↻ 823(15)

In prosecution for conspiracy with respect to illegal sales of whiskey wherein court fairly and comprehensively defined the issues and, by its instructions, made clear to jury that defendants, to conspire, must have agreed to co-operate to accomplish an illegal purpose, or to violate a law to accomplish a legal purpose, and that before defendants could be convicted, it must be proved that they intended to violate the law, refusal of instruction requested by one of the defendants in reference to his honest belief as to distribution of the whiskey was not error. Samuel v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1948, 169 F.2d 787. Criminal Law ↻ 829(3)

In prosecution for buying false ration cheques, for fraudulently obtaining subsidies from the Defense Supplies Corporation, and for conspiring to commit both such offenses, where court charged that mere signing of cheques was not a crime, and that person signing must have known them to be untrue and have signed them to accomplish some unlawful end, and that intent was always crucial, refusal of request to charge that if defendant had in good faith filed subsidy petitions on the advice of counsel he was guiltless was not improper. U.S. v. Center Veal & Beef Co., C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1947, 162 F.2d 766. Criminal Law ↻ 829(3)

A charge that fraud or conspiracy charged in indictment charging defendant with violating former §§ 88 [now this section] and 338 of this title, involved an evil mind and a wrongful intent, that the purpose of said former § 338 of this title was to protect against intentional efforts to defraud others, and that if defendant acted in good faith and had honest belief in enterprise in which he was engaged, and in any statements which he made or authorized to be made, or of which he had knowledge, he was not guilty of any crime adequately set forth guide lines for jury's deliberation. Deaver v. U.S., App.D.C.1946, 155 F.2d 740, 81 U.S.App.D.C. 148, certiorari denied 67 S.Ct. 121, 329 U.S. 766, 91 L.Ed. 659. Conspiracy ↻ 48.2(2); Postal Service ↻ 50

In prosecution for conspiracy, bribery, and evading service in armed forces, where court fully instructed the jury as to every element of such offenses and gave the jury an additional charge that defendant must have had the intention of violating the law, defendant was not entitled to complain, especially where no objection was made to any part of the charge or to refusal to give requested instructions. Claunch v. U.S., C.C.A.5 (Tex.) 1946, 155 F.2d 261. Criminal Law ↻ 1038.1(4)

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate the National Housing Act, §§ 1703(a, b, g) and 1731(a) Title 12, instructions regarding necessity of proof of statutory intent and of knowledge of falsity of statements were adequate. U.S. v. Groopman, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1945, 147 F.2d 782, certiorari denied 66 S.Ct. 29, 326 U.S. 745, 90 L.Ed. 445. Conspiracy ↻ 48.2(2)

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate the National Housing Act, § 1701 et seq. of Title 12, refusal to give requested instruction based on erroneous assumption that practice of making loans before completion of work was no more than immaterial deviation from regulation requiring borrower and contractor to certify that work had been fully completed was not error. U.S. v. Grooman, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1945, 147 F.2d 782, certiorari denied 66 S.Ct. 29, 326 U.S. 745, 90 L.Ed. 445. Criminal Law ⚡ 830

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Instruction as to proof of intent was not improper. Brims v. U.S., C.C.A.7 (Ill.) 1927, 21 F.2d 889. Conspiracy ⚡ 48

Instructions with respect to the intent necessary to be found to warrant a conviction of defendants on a charge of conspiracy to defraud the United States, which charged, in effect, that, if defendants intended the consequences which naturally and in fact resulted from their acts, and such result was to defraud the government, they could not be acquitted because they may not have thought the government would be defrauded, were considered and approved. McGregor v. U.S., C.C.A.4 (Md.) 1904, 134 F. 187, 69 C.C.A. 477. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.2(2)

Jury instructions defining elements of mail fraud and explaining consideration of actual harm to victim as evidence of intent to defraud properly explained fraudulent intent, in prosecution for mail fraud and conspiracy to commit mail fraud; financial or economic harm was not necessary to establish intent to defraud, but existence of scheme could serve as evidence of intent. U.S. v. Easton, C.A.8 (S.D.) 2002, 54 Fed.Appx. 242, 2002 WL 31814951, Unreported. Postal Service ⚡ 35(5); Postal Service ⚡ 50

897. Knowledge, instructions

Ostrich instruction was appropriate against defendant claiming that she lacked guilty knowledge when she participated in conspiratorial activities; her activities in purchasing multiple cashier's checks for expensive purchases made in other persons' names with multiple cashier's checks obtained by other persons allowed jury to infer knowledge. U.S. v. Jackson, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1994, 33 F.3d 866, rehearing denied, certiorari denied 115 S.Ct. 1316, 514 U.S. 1005, 131 L.Ed.2d 197, rehearing denied 115 S.Ct. 1992, 514 U.S. 1123, 131 L.Ed.2d 878. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.2(2); Criminal Law ⚡ 772(5)

Court properly gave conscious avoidance instruction in tax fraud prosecution where defendants denied allegations that goal of their undertaking was to defraud the Internal Revenue Service, despite defendants' claim that there was no dispute over any specific aspect of their knowledge except that their conduct would violate the tax laws. U.S. v. Fletcher, C.A.2 (Conn.) 1991, 928 F.2d 495, certiorari denied 112 S.Ct. 67, 502 U.S. 815, 116 L.Ed.2d 41. Criminal Law ⚡ 772(5); Internal Revenue ⚡ 5317

In prosecution for conspiracy to commit offenses against the United States involving two military recruiting center bombings, trial court properly instructed jury on issue of knowledge of conspiracy. U. S. v. Giese, C.A.9 (Or.) 1979, 597 F.2d 1170, certiorari denied 100 S.Ct. 480, 444 U.S. 979, 62 L.Ed.2d 405. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.2(2)

Trial court's instructions to the effect that one must know the existence of the conspiracy and of its purpose and must voluntarily and knowingly join with others before he can be found to be a conspirator and that the mere fact that defendant may know that others have formed a conspiracy or be present when other people are talking about the conspiracy is insufficient to show guilt was sufficient to inform the jury that it could not consider defendants members of the conspiracy unless it found that they affirmatively joined in and promoted its objectives. U. S. v. Guillette, C.A.2 (Conn.) 1976, 547 F.2d 743, certiorari denied 98 S.Ct. 132, 434 U.S. 839, 54 L.Ed.2d 102. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.2(1)

Trial court did not commit plain error by charging jury to effect that to be a member of a conspiracy one need not have full knowledge of its operations as long as one becomes a member "with full knowledge of its general scope and purposes" inasmuch as that section of charge did not negate earlier instruction that conspiracy must be one to use the mails or instrumentalities of interstate commerce in committing the particular fraud charged. U. S. v. Koss, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1974, 506 F.2d 1103, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 1402, 420 U.S. 977, 43 L.Ed.2d 657, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 1565, 421 U.S. 911, 43 L.Ed.2d 776. Criminal Law ⚡ 1038.1(3.1)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Instruction, in prosecution for conspiracy to violate section 2113 of this title, permitting jury to convict defendant despite lack of knowledge on his part that conspiracy was to rob bank, was fatally defective. U. S. v. Gallishaw, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1970, 428 F.2d 760. Conspiracy ↪ 48.2(2)

Any error in the submission of the conscious avoidance jury instruction was harmless, in prosecution for conspiracy to defraud the United States, and filing false personal and corporate tax returns, in light of overwhelming evidence of defendant's direct participation in tax avoidance scheme, which included diverting corporate rent checks to defendant's personal account and concealing accurate accounting records from corporation's tax preparer. U.S. v. Rhodis, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 2003, 58 Fed.Appx. 527, 2003 WL 151264, Unreported. Criminal Law ↪ 1172.1(3)

898. Entrapment, instructions

In prosecution for conducting illegal traffic in food stamps, trial court did not abuse its discretion, when instructing jury on entrapment, in altering proposed instruction that predisposition could be inferred not only from prior acts but from eagerness to take part in proposed scheme so as to add instruction that predisposition could also be inferred from postcrime statements in order to compensate for misstatement of law on entrapment perpetrated by defendant in his closing argument. U.S. v. Andrews, C.A.11 (Ala.) 1985, 765 F.2d 1491, rehearing denied 772 F.2d 918, certiorari denied 106 S.Ct. 815, 474 U.S. 1064, 88 L.Ed.2d 789. Criminal Law ↪ 804(9)

In prosecution which resulted in convictions of conspiracy to attempt bank robbery and attempted bank robbery, instructions on entrapment were inadequate, where charge failed to instruct jury that Government must prove beyond reasonable doubt that defendant was ready and willing to commit crimes whenever an opportunity was afforded. U. S. v. Dearmore, C.A.9 (Or.) 1982, 672 F.2d 738. Criminal Law ↪ 772(6)

In prosecution for conspiracy, obstruction of justice and bribery arising from defendant's alleged purchase of certain material purportedly related to grand jury investigation and obtained from United States attorney's office, defendant who raised defense of entrapment was not entitled to requested charge that, though grand jury minutes had been obtained several days after other material, separate independent inducement by Government was not required to be shown as to grand jury minutes where there could have been no misapprehension by jury with respect to the matter as evidence showed a single continuous course of dealing and no one suggested that there had been anything but a single continuing inducement. U. S. v. Rosner, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1973, 485 F.2d 1213, certiorari denied 94 S.Ct. 3080, 417 U.S. 950, 41 L.Ed.2d 672. Criminal Law ↪ 772(6)

Evidence, in prosecution of defendant for conspiring to pay illegal kick-backs to agent and counsel of union pension fund and of codefendant for receiving money with intent to be influenced with respect to official duties as to fund, did not warrant instruction on entrapment, where government did not initiate either scheme or the final payoff. U.S. v. Russo, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1971, 442 F.2d 498, certiorari denied 92 S.Ct. 669, 404 U.S. 1023, 30 L.Ed.2d 673, rehearing denied 92 S.Ct. 930, 405 U.S. 949, 30 L.Ed.2d 819. Criminal Law ↪ 772(6)

In prosecution for conspiracy to transfer marihuana illegally, where the first three solicitations by government agent had resulted in defendant's refusal to sell heroin, being refusal to commit more serious offense than offense for which he was on trial, and where solicitations were unaccompanied by emotional appeals and evidence of such previous solicitations was brought out when government witness was being cross-examined, not to show entrapment but in effort to show defendant's claimed noninvolvement in marihuana transfer, evidence did not require court sua sponte to give instruction on entrapment. U. S. v. Bradley, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1970, 426 F.2d 148. Criminal Law ↪ 824(4)

Jury charge on law of entrapment in prosecution for violation of this section in solicitation and receipt of kickback from architects on county hospital project under Hill-Burton Act, section 291 et seq. of Title 42, that, inter alia, there was unlawful entrapment where person with no previous intent or purpose to violate law was induced or persuaded by law enforcement agents to commit a crime and that lawful entrapment occurred where government agents provided what appeared to be favorable opportunity was proper. U. S. v. Thompson, C.A.6 (Tenn.) 1966, 366 F.2d 167, certiorari denied 87 S.Ct. 512, 385 U.S. 973, 17 L.Ed.2d 436. Criminal Law ⚡ 772(6)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

899. Alibi, instructions

Alibi instruction was not required in prosecution for conspiracy, theft from interstate shipment, mail fraud, and wire fraud, despite evidence that defendants were not present when underlying theft of cash from armored car business' vault occurred; presence in vault was not necessary to support conspiracy conviction. U.S. v. Bryser, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1992, 954 F.2d 79, certiorari denied 112 S.Ct. 2939, 504 U.S. 972, 119 L.Ed.2d 564, post-conviction relief denied 838 F.Supp. 124, affirmed 40 F.3d 1236, dismissal of post-conviction relief affirmed 100 F.3d 942, post-conviction relief denied 10 F.Supp.2d 392. Conspiracy ⚡ 40.1; Criminal Law ⚡ 775(2)

900. Individual determination of guilt of conspirators, instructions

Instruction that jury should consider each defendant's case separately in determining his participation in the scheme charged was not the equivalent of cautionary instruction appropriate in cases where related but separate conspiracies are tried together that jury should take care to consider evidence relating to each conspiracy separately from that relating to each other conspiracy charged. Kotteakos v. U.S., U.S.N.Y.1946, 66 S.Ct. 1239, 328 U.S. 750, 90 L.Ed. 1557. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.2(1)

In prosecutions for conspiracy, as the charges are broadened to include more and more in varying degrees of attachment to the confederation so that possibilities for miscarriage of justice to particular individuals become greater and greater, extraordinary precaution is required, not only that instructions shall not mislead, but that they shall scrupulously safeguard each defendant individually, as far as possible, from loss of identity in the mass. Kotteakos v. U.S., U.S.N.Y.1946, 66 S.Ct. 1239, 328 U.S. 750, 90 L.Ed. 1557. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.2(1)

Evidence with respect to defendant's dealings in drugs was not so prejudicial to codefendant that he was entitled to a new trial, where jurors were instructed that each defendant was entitled to have his case determined from his own acts and statements and the other evidence in the case which might be applicable to him and were warned that fact that they might find one defendant guilty should not control their verdict as to other defendant. U. S. v. Curry, C.A.4 (N.C.) 1975, 512 F.2d 1299, certiorari denied 96 S.Ct. 55, 423 U.S. 832, 46 L.Ed.2d 50. Criminal Law ⚡ 921

Trial court's charge to jury in prosecution for conspiracy was not improper on theory that it failed to elaborate on defendant's defense of noninvolvement in charged transaction and to distinguish it from defense of entrapment and withdrawal raised by codefendants, where instructions made plain that jury should consider each count of indictment separately and consider whether Government had proved its case beyond reasonable doubt as to each defendant in each count, defense counsel argued defendant's non-participation defense and trial court referred only to codefendants when discussing defense of entrapment and withdrawal. U. S. v. Badalamente, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1974, 507 F.2d 12, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 1565, 421 U.S. 911, 43 L.Ed.2d 776. Criminal Law ⚡ 772(6)

Where defendants charged with conspiracy to embezzle union funds were a closely knit group acquainted with each other, and instructions as a whole meticulously defined all elements of conspiracy and instructed jury that guilt of each defendant must be individually determined and that if any of essential elements of conspiracy were not proved beyond reasonable doubt as to particular defendant he should be acquitted, there was no prejudicial error in instruction which predicated conviction on separate conspiracies relating to acts alleged in indictment. Hayes v. U. S., C.A.8 (Mo.) 1964, 329 F.2d 209, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 1883, 377 U.S. 980, 12 L.Ed.2d 748. Criminal Law ⚡ 1172.1(2)

In prosecution for making or using a false writing in a matter within the jurisdiction of a department of the United States, and for conspiracy, instructions in effect requiring jury to find each defendant individually guilty before they could convict either, but prohibiting the returning of any verdict of conviction, even if one defendant might have been proved guilty unless jury found the other had also been proved to be guilty, afforded defendants an improper benefit, and even if erroneous were not prejudicial on any theory that they required jury to return a joint verdict only of guilt or innocence, depriving them of benefit of separate verdicts. Ebeling v. U.S., C.A.8 (Mo.) 1957, 248 F.2d 429, certiorari denied 78 S.Ct. 334, 355 U.S. 907, 2 L.Ed.2d 261. Criminal Law ⚡ 1172.7

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Failure to instruct jury that defendant's participation in conspiracy had to be established without reference to declarations of alleged coconspirators unless there was proof aliunde of defendant's participation in conspiracy is not plain error where trial court has made independent determination of sufficiency of evidence to justify submitting the issue of existence of conspiracy and defendant's alleged participation therein to jury. U. S. v. Dabney, E.D.Pa.1975, 393 F.Supp. 529. Criminal Law ⚡ 1038.2

901. Sentence, instructions

Defendant's sentence for multiple-object conspiracy conviction could not be based on offense with which defendant was not substantively charged, where jury was not instructed on elements of that offense. U.S. v. Miller, C.A.11 (Ga.) 1994, 22 F.3d 1075. Conspiracy ⚡ 51

The practice of permitting a detailed discussion of extent of punishment in argument, and of indulging in discussion in instructions of punishment that may be anticipated, is not to be commended, but where arguments of defendants' counsel raised question of excessive punishment to which defendants might be subjected, instruction that maximum punishment would not be imposed, but that one commensurate with crime would be imposed was rendered appropriate, if not necessary. Ryan v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Mo.) 1938, 99 F.2d 864, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 484, 306 U.S. 635, 83 L.Ed. 1037, rehearing denied 59 S.Ct. 586, 306 U.S. 668, 83 L.Ed. 1063. Criminal Law ⚡ 796

Where counsel for one of defendants made no statements in argument with reference to penalty as had been made on behalf of other defendants, but did not disclaim benefits of such statements, court's instruction stating, in effect, that maximum punishment would not be imposed, but that a punishment commensurate with crime would be imposed, was proper even as to such defendant, as against contention that instruction constituted bartering with jury for verdict of guilty. Ryan v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Mo.) 1938, 99 F.2d 864, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 484, 306 U.S. 635, 83 L.Ed. 1037, rehearing denied 59 S.Ct. 586, 306 U.S. 668, 83 L.Ed. 1063. Criminal Law ⚡ 796

902. Advice of counsel, instructions

Where one of defendants in prosecution for conspiracy to defraud the Veterans Administration by preventing its loan guaranty program from being administered in accordance with law did not advise his counsel as to all the circumstances of transaction and defendant signed accommodation agreement before he consulted his attorney, defendant was not entitled to have jury instructed on defense of "advice of counsel". U.S. v. Levinson, C.A.6 (Mich.) 1968, 405 F.2d 971, certiorari denied 89 S.Ct. 1746, 395 U.S. 906, 23 L.Ed.2d 219, certiorari denied 89 S.Ct. 2097, 395 U.S. 958, 23 L.Ed.2d 744, rehearing denied 90 S.Ct. 37, 396 U.S. 869, 24 L.Ed.2d 124, rehearing denied 90 S.Ct. 36, 396 U.S. 869, 24 L.Ed.2d 124. Criminal Law ⚡ 772(6)

903. Stipulation, instructions

Since defendants stipulated to validity of several of the copyrights involved in prosecution for conspiracy to violate copyrights, that stipulation was binding upon them and trial judge did not err in instructing jury that copyrights were valid as a matter of law and in not submitting that question to jury. U. S. v. Sherman, C.A.10 (Okla.) 1978, 576 F.2d 292, 200 U.S.P.Q. 561, certiorari denied 99 S.Ct. 284, 439 U.S. 913, 58 L.Ed.2d 259. Stipulations ⚡ 14(10)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

904. Request, instructions

Where trial court's instructions in defendant's prosecution for conspiracy to violate Trading with the Enemy Act, section 1 et seq. of the Appendix to Title 50, and Cuban Assets Control Regulation were clear and simple and carefully explained specific regulation which formed predicate for violation, and defendant failed to seek instruction concerning additional regulations which related to one of his affirmative defenses, trial court did not commit plain error in failing to apprise jury of additional regulations. U.S. v. Fuentes-Coba, C.A.11 (Fla.) 1984, 738 F.2d 1191, certiorari denied 105 S.Ct. 1186, 469 U.S. 1213, 84 L.Ed.2d 333. Criminal Law ¶ 1038.3

Trial court was not required to give defendant's requested instructions on conspiracy and aiding and abetting where trial court's instructions covered applicable legal principles. U. S. v. Wedelstedt, C.A.8 (Iowa) 1978, 589 F.2d 339, certiorari denied 99 S.Ct. 2836, 442 U.S. 916, 61 L.Ed.2d 283. Criminal Law ¶ 829(3); Criminal Law ¶ 829(20)

In prosecution for conspiracy to use mails in furtherance of scheme to defraud and conspiracy to defraud United States by obstructing Internal Revenue Service, defendants were not prejudiced as result of trial court's modification of its previous position concerning instructions it proposed to give on the statute of limitations, in view of fact that defendants failed to timely file their requested instructions, and defense counsel fully argued the issues relating to statute of limitations and concealment. U. S. v. Fitzgerald, C.A.7 (Ind.) 1978, 579 F.2d 1014, certiorari denied 99 S.Ct. 610, 439 U.S. 1002, 58 L.Ed.2d 677, certiorari denied 99 S.Ct. 611, 439 U.S. 1002, 58 L.Ed.2d 677. Criminal Law ¶ 1038.3; Criminal Law ¶ 1166.22(1)

Instruction, in prosecution for use of interstate telephone facilities for gambling activities and for conspiring to commit such offenses, regarding defendant's right not to testify was proper, absent request that such instruction not be given or an objection after instruction was given. U. S. v. Fuller, C.A.4 (S.C.) 1971, 441 F.2d 755, certiorari denied 92 S.Ct. 73, 404 U.S. 830, 30 L.Ed.2d 59, certiorari denied 92 S.Ct. 74, 404 U.S. 830, 30 L.Ed.2d 59. Criminal Law ¶ 847

In prosecution for conspiracy to commit four offenses, defendant's failure to request instruction that jury disregard one of the offenses because of insufficiency of evidence precluded reversal of conviction on ground of insufficiency of evidence as respects such offense. U.S. v. Smith, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1940, 112 F.2d 83. Criminal Law ¶ 824(1)

In prosecution of three defendants, one defendant as to whom testimony was inadmissible had duty to request that testimony which was admissible as to codefendants be limited to them if he so desired. Reavis v. U.S., C.C.A.10 (Okla.) 1939, 106 F.2d 982. Criminal Law ¶ 824(8)

Failure of court to instruct on certain point was not error, in absence of request. Green v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Okla.) 1928, 28 F.2d 965. Criminal Law ¶ 824(1)

Requested instruction in conspiracy prosecution was properly refused, where it was likely to mislead jury and given instructions amply covered it. Kuhn v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1928, 24 F.2d 910, modified on denial of rehearing 26 F.2d 463, certiorari denied 49 S.Ct. 11, 278 U.S. 605, 73 L.Ed. 533. Criminal Law ¶ 829(3)

Where the court had quoted the statutory definition of conspiracy, and had sufficiently covered the essential elements in further explanation, there was no error in refusing requests for instructions as to what constituted conspiracy. Violette v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Mont.) 1922, 278 F. 163, certiorari denied 42 S.Ct. 382, 258 U.S. 626, 66 L.Ed. 798. Criminal Law ¶ 829(3)

On trial for conspiring to commit crime, requested instruction as to what would make one defendant party to conspiracy was covered by instructions given. McKelvey v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1917, 241 F. 801, 154 C.C.A. 503

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

. Criminal Law ☞ 829(2)

905. Repetition, instructions

Where trial judge's charge as to conspiracy was accurate but brief, jury requested a re-reading of the charge, and, after repeating his instruction, court inquired of jury whether anything about it was not clear or whether there was anything which they desired to have amplified, but nothing was suggested, the brevity of the charge was not reversible error. U.S. v. Bayer, U.S.N.Y.1947, 67 S.Ct. 1394, 331 U.S. 532, 91 L.Ed. 1654, rehearing denied 68 S.Ct. 29, 332 U.S. 785, 92 L.Ed. 368. Conspiracy ☞ 48.2(2)

Where jury during deliberation sent question to trial judge stating that instructions were given so rapidly that jury did not understand whether in conspiracy charge participation in one act made one guilty of all charges and trial court reread instructions as to conspiracy omitting all definitions of terms and made no reference to presumption of innocence and standard of proof required for conviction, conduct of trial fell below standards of clarity required for fair trial by jury. U. S. v. Harris, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1967, 388 F.2d 373. Criminal Law ☞ 863(2)

Where trial court sufficiently instructed jury on a particular subject, it did not err in refusing to again cover such subject. Chevillard v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1946, 155 F.2d 929. Criminal Law ☞ 829(1)

906. Advocating overthrow of Government, instructions

In prosecution for conspiring to teach and advocate overthrow of United States government by force and violence, trial court's charge concerning clear and present danger was not prejudicial to defendants, where existence of conspiracy as outlined by court and as prosecution contended throughout was for jury to determine and if they did, court stated that it would be clear and present danger in view of world conditions. U. S. v. Mesarosh, C.A.3 (Pa.) 1955, 223 F.2d 449, certiorari granted 76 S.Ct. 218, 350 U.S. 922, 100 L.Ed. 807, reversed on other grounds 77 S.Ct. 1, 352 U.S. 1, 1 L.Ed.2d 1. Criminal Law ☞ 1172.1(2)

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate the Smith Act, § 2385 of this title, making it an offense to advocate forcible overthrow of the government, court's charge did not erroneously fail to require a showing of unlawful intent to be made against each defendant on the basis of his own acts and declarations, before acts and declarations of third parties were admissible against him. United States v. Flynn, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1954, 216 F.2d 354, certiorari denied 75 S.Ct. 295, 348 U.S. 909, 99 L.Ed. 713, order withheld 75 S.Ct. 285, 99 L.Ed. 1298, rehearing denied 75 S.Ct. 436, 348 U.S. 956, 99 L.Ed. 747. Criminal Law ☞ 779

907. Banking offenses, instructions

Assuming that trial court erred by not giving instruction, to jury considering claim that defendants had conspired to defraud federally insured financial institution and had committed specific acts of fraud, that multiple conspiracies might be involved and that if multiple conspiracies did exist jurors must determine whether alleged conspirators directed their efforts toward accomplishment of common goal, error was harmless; even if instruction had been given there was evidence of single scheme, to obtain financing for condominium project by falsely representing existence of down payments that were never made, which was pursued by participants in whatever multiple conspiracies might have been found. U.S. v. Brandon, C.A.1 (R.I.) 1994, 17 F.3d 409, certiorari denied 115 S.Ct. 80, 513 U.S. 820, 130 L.Ed.2d 34, certiorari denied 115 S.Ct. 81, 513 U.S. 820, 130 L.Ed.2d 34. Criminal Law ☞ 1173.2(2)

Defendant charged with conspiracy to fraudulently obtain money from banks was not entitled to instruction that for jury to convict her of conspiracy, it had to find that she cashed checks with knowledge that checks were loans that bank would not normally make and that she knew before or at time she caused checks to be cashed that loans contained false information to induce bank to give checks to borrower; instructions suggested that jury had to believe defendant cashed checks to find her guilty of conspiracy when conspiracy charge was not limited to her cashing checks at her window but in helping other conspirators complete false loan applications or finding friends to masquerade as fictitious borrowers. U.S. v. Moore, C.A.1 (Mass.) 1991, 923 F.2d 910. Criminal Law ⚡ 814(5)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Allegedly erroneous instructions that reckless disregard of interest of bank was equivalent to intent to injure or defraud and that knowledge of fact could be inferred from willful blindness to existence of fact were harmless in prosecution for conspiring to defraud United States, where entire set of instructions required jury to find willfulness, where willfulness was defined as voluntarily and purposefully committing act with specific intent to disobey or disregard law, and where instructions stated that showing of negligence or mistake was insufficient. U.S. v. Hoffman, C.A.6 (Ky.) 1990, 918 F.2d 44, rehearing denied. Criminal Law ⚡ 822(7)

Conspiracy instruction in prosecution of high bank officers for conspiring to make false entries in bank records was sufficient, notwithstanding contention that conspiracy involved two distinct transactions, i.e., false evaluation of securities and fictitious foreign exchange transactions, since instructions described general goal and various federal offenses alleged to have been committed, with court selecting one of the alleged objects in interest of simplicity and expounding thereon, and jury was told that to convict they must find a single conspiracy of the type alleged and that acquittal was necessary if jury found two separate, independent conspiracies. U.S. v. Gleason, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1979, 616 F.2d 2, certiorari denied 100 S.Ct. 1037, 444 U.S. 1082, 62 L.Ed.2d 767, certiorari denied 100 S.Ct. 1320, 445 U.S. 931, 63 L.Ed.2d 764. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.2(2)

Where, in prosecution of defendant for conspiracy to misapply and misapplication of funds of savings and loan association, court instructed jury that defendant's acts must have been accomplished "wilfully," court did not err in refusing defendant's tendered instructions on "good faith." U. S. v. Kaczmarek, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1974, 490 F.2d 1031. Criminal Law ⚡ 829(3)

Where trial judge's instruction both before and after coconspirator's testimony was given was amply protective on the fact that testimony was admissible against defendant on conspiracy count but inadmissible on substantive count of armed robbery of federally insured bank, trial judge's failure to reiterate the caution at time of jury charge, in absence of request for him to do so or any objection to his failure to do so, was not error. U. S. v. Walker, C.A.6 (Tenn.) 1968, 390 F.2d 622. Criminal Law ⚡ 824(8); Criminal Law ⚡ 847

Evidence was insufficient to support giving of instruction that defendant, charged with others in conspiracy to illegally use moneys of federally insured banks and savings associations, was acting according to advice of his counsel. U. S. v. Kahn, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1967, 381 F.2d 824, certiorari denied 88 S.Ct. 591, 389 U.S. 1015, 19 L.Ed.2d 661, rehearing denied 88 S.Ct. 2272, 392 U.S. 948, 20 L.Ed.2d 1413, certiorari denied 88 S.Ct. 592, 389 U.S. 1015, 19 L.Ed.2d 661, rehearing denied 88 S.Ct. 2272, 392 U.S. 948, 20 L.Ed.2d 1414. Criminal Law ⚡ 772(6)

In prosecution for robbing and conspiring to rob a bank, court erred in failing, after request, to instruct jury to take seriously into account the admitted perjury of prosecution witness, who in an earlier separate trial had been convicted of the robbery in question, in determining whether such witness' present testimony on the same subject merited belief. U.S. v. Barrasso, C.A.3 (N.J.) 1959, 267 F.2d 908. Criminal Law ⚡ 785(15)

In prosecution for bank robbery and conspiracy, failure to give defendant's requested instruction directing jury to receive testimony of accomplices with great caution did not constitute reversible error, especially in view of fact that there was substantial corroboration of accomplices' testimony. Stoneking v. U.S., C.A.8 (Mo.) 1956, 232 F.2d 385, certiorari denied 77 S.Ct. 54, 352 U.S. 835, 1 L.Ed.2d 54, certiorari denied 77 S.Ct. 1406, 354 U.S. 941, 1 L.Ed.2d 1540, rehearing denied 78 S.Ct. 78, 355 U.S. 852, 2 L.Ed.2d 61. Criminal Law ⚡ 1173.2(6)

In prosecution for bank robbery and conspiracy, giving of instruction that, if jury believed certain testimony as to identification, defendant would be guilty was not error in view of other instructions given. Stoneking v. U.S., C.A.8 (Mo.) 1956, 232 F.2d 385, certiorari denied 77 S.Ct. 54, 352 U.S. 835, 1 L.Ed.2d 54, certiorari denied 77 S.Ct. 1406, 354 U.S. 941, 1 L.Ed.2d 1540, rehearing denied 78 S.Ct. 78, 355 U.S. 852, 2 L.Ed.2d 61. Criminal Law ⚡ 823(1)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In prosecution for wilful misapplication of bank funds, making false entries in bank records, conspiracy to commit offenses against United States, and violation of mail fraud statute, § 1341 of this title, court's refusal to charge that testimony of admitted accomplice of defendants should be considered in light of hope of possibility of leniency in case was not error requiring reversal, where court had instructed jury that testimony of such accomplice should be received with caution and carefully scrutinized. U. S. v. Scoblick, C.A.3 (Pa.) 1955, 225 F.2d 779. Criminal Law ⚡ 829(10)

In prosecution for wilful misapplication of bank funds, making false entries in bank records, conspiracy to commit offenses against United States, and violation of mail fraud statute, § 1341 of this title, charge that there must have been specific intent on behalf of any defendant to defraud bank before that defendant could be found guilty was not necessary, where element of criminal intent appeared several times in charge of court. U. S. v. Scoblick, C.A.3 (Pa.) 1955, 225 F.2d 779. Criminal Law ⚡ 829(3)

Where the district court fully instructed jury on element of intent in prosecution for conspiracy to embezzle funds of a national bank and to make and cause to be made false entries in bank's books with intent to injure it and deceive its officers, it was not prejudicial to decline to repeat the instruction. Wilson v. U.S., C.C.A.6 (Ky.) 1940, 109 F.2d 895. Criminal Law ⚡ 806(1)

In prosecution of bank employee for conspiracy to commit grand larceny and embezzlement, instructions defining larceny and embezzlement as abstract statements of rule of measure of proof in either case was not error, where other instruction clearly told jury that offenses charged were conspiracies, and that to convict there must be proof of agreement on part of two or more of alleged conspirators plus an overt act. McNeil v. U.S., App.D.C.1936, 85 F.2d 698, 66 App.D.C. 199. Criminal Law ⚡ 823(4)

In prosecution of bank employee for conspiracy to commit grand larceny and embezzlement, refusal of instruction that to convict jury must believe that all three of alleged conspirators participated in conspiracy, and that government must prove each overt act alleged, was not error, especially where court's instruction given at instance of defendant covered ground. McNeil v. U.S., App.D.C.1936, 85 F.2d 698, 66 App.D.C. 199. Criminal Law ⚡ 829(3)

In prosecution of bank employee for conspiracy to commit grand larceny and embezzlement, refusal of instruction intended to emphasize rule that defendant was entitled to presumption of innocence at every stage of case was not error, where subject was fully covered in general charge and further instruction thereon would have been confusing. McNeil v. U.S., App.D.C.1936, 85 F.2d 698, 66 App.D.C. 199. Criminal Law ⚡ 829(9)

On trial for conspiracy to abstract and misapply funds of national bank, instructions as to lack of knowledge that money received was property of the bank were properly refused. Oppenheim v. U.S., C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1917, 241 F. 625, 154 C.C.A. 383. Conspiracy ⚡ 48

908. Bankruptcy offenses, instructions

Giving of "willful blindness" instruction was not error where three defendants, in prosecution for conspiracy to commit mail fraud, mail fraud and conspiring to conceal property of a bankrupt, asserted that they were simply associated with bankrupt and did not realize that they were engaged in fraudulent schemes but under the evidence jury could have thought that the facts indicated a pattern of behavior predicated on knowledge of the conspiracy together with a desire to limit inculpatory evidence of complicity, yet nevertheless participate in the scheme. U. S.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

v. Ciampaglia, C.A.1 (Mass.) 1980, 628 F.2d 632, certiorari denied 101 S.Ct. 365, 449 U.S. 956, 66 L.Ed.2d 221, certiorari denied 101 S.Ct. 618, 449 U.S. 1038, 66 L.Ed.2d 501. Criminal Law ⚡ 772(5)

Where counsel for two defendants charged with conspiracy to defeat Bankruptcy Act, section 1 et seq. of Title 11, and with substantive violations of Bankruptcy Act read portions of voluntary petition in bankruptcy to jury, government counsel's reading omitted paragraph to jury was not unfair in view of instruction to jury that statements in petition should not be treated as true and correct and that it was received in evidence to show beginning of bankruptcy. U. S. v. Harris, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1967, 388 F.2d 373. Criminal Law ⚡ 673(2)

In prosecution for concealing assets from trustee in bankruptcy and conspiring to transfer assets of one corporation to another in contemplation of bankruptcy, instructions, considered as a whole, were not erroneous as allowing jury to find defendant guilty of conspiracy count if jury believed that he transferred or concealed property involved and failing to instruct jury that it must find that object of conspiracy was the object alleged in indictment, especially where defendant made no objection. U.S. v. Switzer, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1958, 252 F.2d 139, certiorari denied 78 S.Ct. 1363, 357 U.S. 922, 2 L.Ed.2d 1366, rehearing denied 79 S.Ct. 16, 358 U.S. 859, 3 L.Ed.2d 93. Criminal Law ⚡ 822(6)

In prosecution for conspiracy with bankrupt to conceal assets from bankruptcy receiver, trial court's refusal to instruct jury on aiding and abetting in response to inquiry by jury as to aiding and abetting was not error where such issue was not in the case. Sultan v. U. S., C.A.5 (Fla.) 1957, 249 F.2d 385. Criminal Law ⚡ 814(1)

In prosecution for conspiracy with bankrupt to conceal bankruptcy assets, trial court's refusal to allow defendant's counsel to make objection to instructions out of presence of jury did not place defendant in position of challenging judge in jury's presence. Sultan v. U. S., C.A.5 (Fla.) 1957, 249 F.2d 385. Criminal Law ⚡ 842

In prosecution for conspiracy with bankrupt to conceal assets from bankruptcy receiver, trial court's refusal to instruct jury that defendant should be acquitted if jury found that bankrupt operated under impression and advice of counsel that he had right to set such assets apart as his constitutional homestead exemption was not error where instruction was phrased in terms of defendant being advised by bankrupt that bankrupt has exercised his constitutional homestead exemption and there was complete lack of evidence that bankrupt had ever communicated anything to defendant in respect to bankrupt's rights under state Constitution. Sultan v. U. S., C.A.5 (Fla.) 1957, 249 F.2d 385. Criminal Law ⚡ 814(8)

In prosecution for conspiracy to defraud the United States by corruptly administering or procuring the corrupt administration of the Frazier Lemke Act, §§ 201 to 203 of Title 11, an instruction that the purpose of said sections was to aid distressed farmers and their creditors and, except for lawful fees fixed for Conciliation Commission's appraisers, that said sections were not to be administered for the personal profit of commissioners or solicitors or appraisers, was not prejudicially erroneous as telling jurors that mere fact that defendant solicitor accepted compensation for services was a violation of law. Joyce v. U. S., C.C.A.8 (N.D.) 1946, 153 F.2d 364, certiorari denied 66 S.Ct. 1349, 328 U.S. 860, 90 L.Ed. 1631. Criminal Law ⚡ 1172.3

In prosecution for concealing a bankrupt's goods and for conspiracy to commit that offense, refusal to give requested charges, the substance of which the court had charged or which were unimportant, was not error. U.S. v. Aronoff, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1943, 138 F.2d 911, certiorari denied 64 S.Ct. 522, 321 U.S. 765, 88 L.Ed. 1062. Criminal Law ⚡ 769; Criminal Law ⚡ 829(1)

Failure to list merchandise and cash in schedules, alleged in indictment for conspiracy to conceal bankrupt's assets, was sufficiently covered in instructions. Gerson v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Okla.) 1928, 25 F.2d 49. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.2(2)

On a trial for conspiring with a bankrupt to conceal assets from the trustee, and for aiding and abetting the concealment, an instruction that the undisputed evidence showed the trustee had knowledge of the funds charged to have been concealed, and that no discharge had been granted, and that under such facts the indictment must fall and the verdict be not guilty, was properly refused as being inapplicable, where the trustee denied knowledge that the bankrupt was the owner of the fund, and there was no evidence to the contrary. Miller v. U.S., C.C.A.4 (S.C.) 1921, 277 F. 721. Bankruptcy ⚡ 3862; Criminal Law ⚡ 814(5)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

On the trial of a bankrupt's attorney for conspiracy to conceal assets, an instruction that action of the bankrupt on the advice of counsel honestly given would exonerate him and defeat the charge of conspiracy was properly refused, because it did not express the additional requisite that the bankrupt must have honestly taken the advice and acted upon it. Miller v. U.S., C.C.A.4 (S.C.) 1921, 277 F. 721. Bankruptcy ⚡ 3862; Criminal Law ⚡ 815(5)

909. Bribery, instructions

Any error in district court's failure to give proposed jury instruction concerning gratuity defense in bribery and conspiracy prosecution was not reversible; defendants had accepted payments that could not be deemed gratuities, and instructions viewed as a whole thoroughly eliminated any possibility that jury might convict defendants of conspiracy and bribery merely because they received unsolicited gifts. U.S. v. Duvall, C.A.5 (Miss.) 1988, 846 F.2d 966. Criminal Law ⚡ 1173.2(3)

While defendant corporate officer, who was charged with offenses arising out of the alleged bribery of city officials to secure a contract for his corporation, and who raised the defense that he made the payments only to satisfy extortionate demands, alleged that the trial court instruction, by its emphasis on the voluntariness of the payments, implicitly disallowed the extortion defense and permitted only the narrower defense of duress, the instruction could not have prejudiced defendant since he characterized his own conduct in such a way as to absolutely preclude the availability of the extortion defense. U. S. v. McPartlin, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1979, 595 F.2d 1321, certiorari denied 100 S.Ct. 65, 444 U.S. 833, 62 L.Ed.2d 43. Criminal Law ⚡ 1172.1(4)

Charge to jury, in prosecution for conspiracy to commit bribery, stating, inter alia, that it was not necessary to find that the action or result sought by whoever hypothetically gives a bribe is something that is in fact within the power of the official in question, and that it would not be possible for jury to find bribery if the action sought was so far outside the purview of the official's duties that it would be unreasonable to suppose that the official could have done anything about the particular subject, was not plainly erroneous, over objection of defendant that personal influence is not within the scope of bribery statute since it is inconsistent with the term "official act." U. S. v. Carson, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1972, 464 F.2d 424, certiorari denied 93 S.Ct. 268, 409 U.S. 949, 34 L.Ed.2d 219. Criminal Law ⚡ 1043(1)

In prosecution of individuals under indictment charging conspiracy to defraud the United States through violation of former § 203 of this title, prohibiting members of Congress from receiving compensation in matters affecting the government and charging receipt by congressman of compensation for services with respect to matters before the War Department, and charging individuals with aiding and abetting, complicated charge necessitated by complications of the case was not objectionable as confusing and misleading. May v. United States, C.A.D.C.1949, 175 F.2d 994, 84 U.S.App.D.C. 233, certiorari denied 70 S.Ct. 58, 338 U.S. 830, 94 L.Ed. 505, order withheld 70 S.Ct. 81, 338 U.S. 854, motion denied 70 S.Ct. 94, motion denied 70 S.Ct. 95, rehearing denied 70 S.Ct. 154, 338 U.S. 882, 94 L.Ed. 542, rehearing denied 70 S.Ct. 155, 338 U.S. 882, 94 L.Ed. 542, order withheld 70 S.Ct. 80. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.2(2); United States ⚡ 52

In a trial for conspiracy to defraud the United States and to bribe government officers or agents, instructions were correct and fully protected defendant's rights. Sears v. U.S., C.C.A.1 (Mass.) 1920, 264 F. 257.

Where charges of conspiracy, obstruction of justice and making a false material declaration to a grand jury, and/or perjury was not a case charging bribes or payoffs to councilman for awarding garbage contract but, rather involved obstruction of justice for lying about the situation to grand jury, trial court did not err in refusing to give requested charge that councilman and garbage hauler could not be found guilty of perjury unless or until jury first found beyond a reasonable doubt that the garbage hauler, in fact, engaged in bribery or payoffs. U. S. v. Long, W.D.Pa.1976, 421 F.Supp. 1355, affirmed 574 F.2d 761, certiorari denied 99 S.Ct. 577, 439 U.S. 985, 58 L.Ed.2d 657. Obstructing Justice ⚡ 18; Perjury ⚡ 37(1)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

910. Defrauding United States, instructions--Generally

A charge under the "defraud clause" of statute prohibiting a conspiracy to defraud the United States by impairing the ability of the IRS to ascertain and collect income taxes does not require a "deceit and dishonest means" instruction. U.S. v. Martin, C.A.5 (La.) 2003, 332 F.3d 827, rehearing and rehearing en banc denied 75 Fed.Appx. 982, 2003 WL 21766700. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.2(2)

Failing to instruct jury on use of deceitful or dishonest means element of conspiracies to defraud the United States or any agency thereof in any manner or for any purpose was constitutional error in prosecution for conspiracy to obstruct Internal Revenue Service (IRS); jury may have found that defendant was guilty of felony for having agreed to obstruct IRS, even if she did not agree to do so dishonestly or deceitfully. U.S. v. Caldwell, C.A.9 (Or.) 1993, 989 F.2d 1056. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.2(2)

Defendant's requested jury instruction that activities of defendants were not illegal unless activities furthered conspiracy to impede the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) was adequately covered by instruction given that conviction of conspiring to defraud the United States was only possible if Government showed that "means or methods described in the indictment were agreed upon to be used in an effort to * * * accomplish * * * the conspiracy." U.S. v. Sturman, C.A.6 (Ohio) 1991, 951 F.2d 1466, rehearing denied, certiorari denied 112 S.Ct. 2964, 504 U.S. 985, 119 L.Ed.2d 586, post-conviction relief denied. Criminal Law ⚡ 829(3)

Jury instructions which included a paragraph following general statutory language of conspiracy statute governing criminal conspiracy to commit an offense against or defraud United States and which properly set forth multiple objects of conspiracy, as well as paragraph describing with particularity the generic crimes charged in preceding paragraph and providing essential nature of conspiratorial agreement, were clearly sufficient to inform jury of essential nature of conspiratorial agreement, the meeting of minds, that Government was required to prove beyond a reasonable doubt. U.S. v. Treadwell, C.A.D.C.1985, 760 F.2d 327, 245 U.S.App.D.C. 257, certiorari denied 106 S.Ct. 814, 474 U.S. 1064, 88 L.Ed.2d 788. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.2(2)

Charge, in prosecution for conspiracy to defraud the United States, was sufficient, even though jury, in order to determine what they had to decide, had to resort to the count. U.S. v. Gillilan, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1961, 288 F.2d 796, certiorari denied 82 S.Ct. 38, 368 U.S. 821, 7 L.Ed.2d 26. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.2(2)

In prosecution for conspiring to defraud the United States, giving of instruction that, to convict, crime would have had to have been committed within certain federal judicial district and that jury was being instructed, as matter of law, "that it did happen" in such district and "that the defendants at the bar committed the crime, or crimes, in such manner as would make them guilty under the law heretofore defined and explained to you," did not constitute reversible error in view of other instructions given. Lazarov v. U.S., C.A.6 (Tenn.) 1955, 225 F.2d 319, certiorari denied 76 S.Ct. 140, 350 U.S. 886, 100 L.Ed. 781, rehearing denied 76 S.Ct. 341, 350 U.S. 955, 100 L.Ed. 831. Criminal Law ⚡ 823(2)

In prosecution of United States Marshal, deputy United States Marshal, and friend of Marshal for alleged conspiracy to defraud the United States, on ground that they conspired to obtain money from one convicted of a federal offense by granting him special privileges with respect to his imprisonment, instructions given correctly stated the law. Carrigan v. U. S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1952, 197 F.2d 817, certiorari denied 73 S.Ct. 106, 344 U.S. 866,

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

97 L.Ed. 672. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.1(3)

In prosecution of two corporate defendants and five individual defendants under two indictments charging conspiracy to defraud United States by delivering under contracts with Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation rejected egg powder and conspiracy to defraud United States by obtaining payment of certain false claims, indictments charged separate offenses, and a charge that jury might convict on both indictments if they found two conspiracies was proper. U.S. v. Samuel Dunkel & Co., C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1950, 184 F.2d 894, certiorari denied 71 S.Ct. 491, 340 U.S. 930, 95 L.Ed. 671. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.2(2)

In prosecution for conspiracy to acquire and for fraudulent acquisition of surplus war materials from the War Assets Administration, evidence did not require an instruction on the theory that a co-defendant who participated in the acquisition was introduced to defendant as a veteran dealer. DeBon v. U.S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1949, 175 F.2d 439. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(6); Fraud ⚡ 69(5)

Alien Property Custodian, charged with conspiring to defraud government, could not complain of instruction that he was charged with information in office papers not known to him. Miller v. U.S., C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1928, 24 F.2d 353, certiorari denied 48 S.Ct. 421, 276 U.S. 638, 72 L.Ed. 421. Criminal Law ⚡ 1172.7

Instruction that it was fraud to defeat government's right to fully contract, or to deprive it of its dominion as owner, was not error. Falter v. U.S., C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1928, 23 F.2d 420, certiorari denied 48 S.Ct. 528, 277 U.S. 590, 72 L.Ed. 1003. Conspiracy ⚡ 48

On a trial for conspiracy to defraud the United States by using counterfeits of the stamping devices used by government inspectors in connection with the manufacture of shoes for the government, where defendant, the general manager, denied knowledge of their use, as neither guilty knowledge nor intent were in issue, an instruction that the jury might consider a corrupt transaction with a government inspector under a previous contract as throwing light upon whether defendant was innocent or guilty in his knowledge of the transaction involved in the trial, was in effect an instruction that they might consider it in determining whether he was innocent or guilty of being concerned in the conspiracy charged. MacDonald v. U S, C.C.A.1 (Mass.) 1920, 264 F. 733.

Where defendant, charged with conspiracy to defraud the United States in connection with the manufacture of shoes for the government, excepted, not only to evidence of the bribery of a government inspector under a previous contract, but also to the court's instruction as to the use which the jury might make of such evidence, the instruction, if erroneous, could not be cured, because defendant introduced testimony in explanation of the evidence as to the transaction with the inspector. MacDonald v. U S, C.C.A.1 (Mass.) 1920, 264 F. 733.

In prosecution against financing corporation, its branch office manager, store owners, and their sales manager for conspiracy to defraud the United States by making false documents to secure insurance under modernization of homes provisions of National Housing Act, § 1701 et seq. of Title 12, wherein testimony of conversation with sales manager regarding reliance on advice of counsel was admitted solely for purpose of negating contention that store owners and sales manager relied upon advice of branch officer manager, instructions during and at conclusion of trial to disregard such testimony insofar as it affected store owners and sales manager were necessary. U.S. v. Thomas, E.D.Wash.1943, 52 F.Supp. 571. Criminal Law ⚡ 673(4)

911. ---- False and fraudulent claims, defrauding United States, instructions

Given that indictment charging conspiracy to defraud the United States by impairing the ability of the IRS to ascertain and collect income taxes included the "deceit and dishonest means" language, and that the evidence demonstrated a scheme that, at a minimum, involved "trickery", jury instruction that did not include "deceit and dishonest means" language was not so clearly erroneous as to result in the likelihood of a grave miscarriage of justice. U.S. v. Martin, C.A.5 (La.) 2003, 332 F.3d 827, rehearing and rehearing en banc denied 75 Fed.Appx.

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

982, 2003 WL 21766700. Criminal Law ⚡ 1038.1(4)

Jury charge on two conspiracy counts, each alleging conspiracy with two objectives, including felony conspiracy to defraud Food and Drug Administration (FDA) and misdemeanor conspiracy to violate specific Food, Drug, and Cosmetics Act provisions, was not plain error, despite defendant's claim that charge was confusing and created possibility that jury would mistakenly convict him under felony prong while only finding evidence sufficient under misdemeanor prong; court specifically and separately discussed elements under both prongs and repeatedly distinguished between them, and specificity of verdict form provided additional assurance that there was no confusion. U.S. v. Ballistrea, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1996, 101 F.3d 827, certiorari denied 117 S.Ct. 1327, 520 U.S. 1150, 137 L.Ed.2d 488. Criminal Law ⚡ 823(4)

Where jury in conspiracy prosecution was specifically instructed that indictment alleged that defendant and his coconspirators had agreed to make false statements on loan-guarantee application and that defendant denied having any knowledge before loan was closed that application contained false statements, jury must have found that defendant knew that application which he submitted contained false statements, and there was no failure to require jury, before convicting defendant, to find that he knew of false statements in application before loan was closed. U. S. v. Hutcher, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1980, 622 F.2d 1083, certiorari denied 101 S.Ct. 218, 449 U.S. 875, 66 L.Ed.2d 96. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.2(2)

In prosecution for conspiring to defraud the United States by submitting and causing submission of false cost reports for medicare and medicaid payments to nursing home, court's jury charge, while it omitted some traditional formulations of element of specific intent, sufficiently focused jury's attention on requisite state of mind, especially in view of absence of timely submission of defendant's preferred language. U. S. v. Nemes, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1977, 555 F.2d 51. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.2(2)

It was not error, in prosecution for conspiracy to defraud the United States and for aiding and abetting the making of false statements to, and the concealment of material facts from, the Immigration and Naturalization Service, to instruct that it would constitute aiding and abetting the concealment of a material fact from an agency of the United States for defendants to have aided and abetted certain aliens in concealing from the Service that the marriages which those aliens had contracted with American citizens were made solely to enable the aliens to obtain immigrant visas not otherwise available and not with intention that parties live together or perform the usual obligations of marriage. U. S. v. Bernard, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1967, 384 F.2d 915. Fraud ⚡ 69(7)

In prosecution for unlawful sales of government owned wool being made into army jackets, a conspiracy to defraud the government and for making of false statements about disposition of wool serge furnished manufacturer, instructions properly submitted case to the jury with respect to test used by the government to prove the amount of serge which the manufacturer should have had on hand at the completion of the contract. U. S. v. Fabric Garment Co., C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1958, 262 F.2d 631, certiorari denied 79 S.Ct. 1117, 359 U.S. 989, 3 L.Ed.2d 978. Criminal Law ⚡ 783(1)

In prosecution for conspiracy to defraud the United States by inducing the Veterans Administration through fraudulent representations to guarantee a home loan to veteran, a charge that cause was between the United States and defendants and not between loan association and defendants, or between veteran and defendants, was proper. Heald v. U. S., C.A.10 (Colo.) 1949, 175 F.2d 878, certiorari denied 70 S.Ct. 101, 338 U.S. 859, 94 L.Ed. 526, certiorari denied 70 S.Ct. 102, 338 U.S. 859, 94 L.Ed. 526. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.2(2)

In prosecution for presenting false claims against government, charge that fact that co-defendant pleaded guilty was not evidence against defendant but that jury could consider that one of two conspirators did plead guilty and make such use of evidence as they thought fit, was reversible error. U. S. v. Toner, C.A.3 (Pa.) 1949, 173 F.2d 140. Criminal Law ⚡ 793; Criminal Law ⚡ 1172.1(2)

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In prosecution for presenting false claims to United States and conspiring to do so, statement by trial judge, in attempted definition of term "reasonable doubt," that it was something to be distinguished from an ordinary doubt, where no exception was taken thereto, was not reversible error on ground that it confused jury. U.S. v. Breen, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1938, 96 F.2d 782, certiorari denied 58 S.Ct. 1061, 304 U.S. 585, 82 L.Ed. 1546. Criminal Law ⚡ 1038.1(5)

In prosecution of defendants, who organized and operated five trade schools, for conspiring to defraud Government by fraudulently inflating cost basis of tuition rate and by fraudulently increasing cost to be charged to Veterans' Administration, instruction that evidence must be such as to exclude every reasonable hypothesis other than that of guilt, in addition to full and complete charge on reasonable doubt was sufficient. U. S. v. Weinberg, M.D.Pa.1955, 129 F.Supp. 514, affirmed 226 F.2d 161, certiorari denied 76 S.Ct. 305, 350 U.S. 933, 100 L.Ed. 815. Criminal Law ⚡ 784(4)

Defendants, convicted of conspiracy to defraud the United States by making false documents to secure insurance under modernization of homes provisions of National Housing Act, § 1701 et seq. of Title 12, were not entitled to new trial because of refusal to give requested instructions to effect that receipts and certificates falsified did not mean what they said. U.S. v. Thomas, E.D.Wash.1943, 52 F.Supp. 571. Criminal Law ⚡ 922(2)

Store owners and their sales manager, who with financing corporation and its branch office manager were convicted of conspiracy to defraud the United States by making false documents to secure insurance under modernization of homes provisions of National Housing Act, § 1701 et seq. of Title 12, were not entitled to new trial because of failure to instruct that jury should consider whether corporation or Federal Housing Administration had right of civil action against store owners for losses sustained. U.S. v. Thomas, E.D.Wash.1943, 52 F.Supp. 571. Criminal Law ⚡ 922(2)

912. Immigration offenses, instructions

In prosecution of commissioner, deputy clerk and interpreters for conspiracy to defraud the Government by issuance of passports, court's charge with respect to commissioner was not objectionable as failing properly to define specific crime charged against him. U. S. v. Griffin, C.A.3 (Pa.) 1949, 176 F.2d 727, certiorari denied 70 S.Ct. 478, 338 U.S. 952, 94 L.Ed. 588, rehearing denied 70 S.Ct. 559, 339 U.S. 916, 94 L.Ed. 1341. Criminal Law ⚡ 772(2)

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate Alien Registration Act of 1940, § 457(c) Title 8, by filing application for registration containing false statements, defendants were entitled to have judge charge that no defendant could be found guilty unless he was a party to an agreement, plan or combination to file an application containing false statements known by him to be false. U.S. v. Ausmeier, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1945, 152 F.2d 349. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.2(2)

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate Alien Registration Act of 1940, § 457(c) of Title 8, by giving false answers in application for registration, error in failing to give a specific charge as to knowledge of falsity of answers was not cured when court gave usual general charges as to presumption of innocence, burden of proof, and reasonable doubt. U.S. v. Ausmeier, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1945, 152 F.2d 349. Criminal Law ⚡ 823(4)

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate Alien Registration Act of 1940, § 457(c) of Title 8, by giving of false answers in application for alien registration, withdrawal by defendants of certain requests to charge with respect to knowledge of existence of the conspiracy was not an acquiescence in error of court in failing to make essential charge with respect to defendants' knowledge of falsity of their answers. U.S. v. Ausmeier, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1945, 152 F.2d 349. Criminal Law ⚡ 1137(1)

913. Interstate commerce offenses, instructions

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Even if knowledge relating to interstate character of forged securities was essential element in prosecution for conspiracy to transport forged securities in interstate commerce, and even if jury should have been so instructed, failure to so instruct could not have led jury into believing that it could convict defendant, in view of importance of use of interstate facilities in scheme participated in by defendant, without deciding that defendant was well aware of necessary use of interstate facilities. U. S. v. Thompson, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1973, 476 F.2d 1196, certiorari denied 94 S.Ct. 214, 414 U.S. 918, 38 L.Ed.2d 154. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.2(2)

Failure, in prosecution for conspiracy to travel interstate to further unlawful activity, in response to jury's request for clarification of meaning of conspiracy, to include, in rereading of charge, stress on interstate requirement of underlying substantive count was not error. U. S. v. Marquez, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1970, 424 F.2d 236, certiorari denied 91 S.Ct. 56, 400 U.S. 828, 27 L.Ed.2d 58. Criminal Law ⚡ 863(2)

Judge's instruction, at trial for conspiring to use facilities of interstate commerce to promote extortion in violation of laws of North Carolina, that gave preponderance of evidence standard was erroneous though court properly defined at length correct burden of proof earlier in the charge and later in charge frequently referred to reasonable doubt requirement. U. S. v. Hughes, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1968, 389 F.2d 535. Criminal Law ⚡ 782(9); Criminal Law ⚡ 823(10)

Instruction that defendant could be convicted on substantive count of transporting stolen securities in interstate commerce if jury found that substantive offense was committed in furtherance of the conspiracy and that, at time of commission of substantive offense, particular defendant was member of the conspiracy was not erroneous for failure to add that substantive offense must not have been merely an unforeseen part of ramifications of plan, where defendant did not request such addition. U. S. v. Edwards, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1966, 366 F.2d 853, certiorari denied 87 S.Ct. 852, 386 U.S. 908, 17 L.Ed.2d 782, certiorari denied 87 S.Ct. 882, 386 U.S. 919, 17 L.Ed.2d 790. Criminal Law ⚡ 825(2)

In prosecution for conspiring to transport in interstate commerce lewd and obscene motion picture films, instruction that criminal conspiracy has its origin in atmosphere of secrecy and that it is an informal understanding or undertaking of two or more persons and that conspiracy implies concerted design, was adequate and no error resulted from refusing required instruction on conspiracy. Parr v. U. S., C.A.5 (Tex.) 1958, 255 F.2d 86, certiorari denied 79 S.Ct. 40, 358 U.S. 824, 3 L.Ed.2d 64. Criminal Law ⚡ 829(3)

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate § 301 et seq. of Title 49 instructions sufficiently advised jury regarding nature of conspiracy and facts which were required to be established in order to warrant a conviction. Martin v. U. S., C.C.A.10 (Colo.) 1938, 100 F.2d 490, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 590, 306 U.S. 649, 83 L.Ed. 104, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 590, 306 U.S. 649, 83 L.Ed. 1047, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 590, 306 U.S. 649, 83 L.Ed. 1048, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 591, 306 U.S. 649, 83 L.Ed. 1048, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 642, 306 U.S. 651, 83 L.Ed. 1050. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.2(2)

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate § 301 et seq. of Title 49 by employment of unlicensed carriers of passengers, that court instructed that charge was conspiracy to violate the provision of the said sections, providing that no person shall sell, offer for sale, or arrange for transportation unless he holds a broker's license, was harmless error where entire record indicated that verdict was right. Martin v. U. S., C.C.A.10 (Colo.) 1938, 100 F.2d 490, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 590, 306 U.S. 649, 83 L.Ed. 104, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 590, 306 U.S. 649, 83 L.Ed. 1047, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 590, 306 U.S. 649, 83 L.Ed. 1048, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 591, 306 U.S. 649, 83 L.Ed. 1048, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 642, 306 U.S. 651, 83 L.Ed. 1050. Criminal Law ⚡ 1172.3

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate § 1952 of this title prohibiting travel in interstate commerce to facilitate gambling activity, instruction that a lugger traveling in interstate commerce and discharging players facilitated dice game was not plain error, in absence of objection to that part of charge. U. S. v. Barrow, E.D.Pa.1964, 229 F.Supp. 722, affirmed in part, reversed in part on other grounds 363 F.2d 62, certiorari denied 87 S.Ct. 703, 385

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

U.S. 1001, 17 L.Ed.2d 541. Criminal Law ⌘ 922(7)

In prosecution for conspiracy to travel in interstate commerce to facilitate gambling activity and for the substantive offense, instruction stating in effect that co-conspirators might be convicted of the substantive crime was error with respect to the substantive charge as to those defendants who were not involved in interstate travel. U. S. v. Barrow, E.D.Pa.1964, 229 F.Supp. 722, affirmed in part, reversed in part on other grounds 363 F.2d 62, certiorari denied 87 S.Ct. 703, 385 U.S. 1001, 17 L.Ed.2d 541. Criminal Law ⌘ 793

914. Liquor offenses, instructions

In prosecution for bringing liquor into dry state, and for conspiracy to commit this crime, instructions given were not improper. McDonough v. U.S., C.A.10 (Okla.) 1955, 227 F.2d 402. Conspiracy ⌘ 48.2(2); Intoxicating Liquors ⌘ 239(1)

In prosecution for violation of federal liquor laws and for conspiracy to violate federal liquor laws, charge was not prejudicially erroneous. Newman v. U.S., C.A.5 (Ga.) 1955, 220 F.2d 289, certiorari denied 76 S.Ct. 51, 350 U.S. 824, 100 L.Ed. 736, rehearing denied 76 S.Ct. 148, 350 U.S. 897, 100 L.Ed. 789. Criminal Law ⌘ 1172.1(1)

Where District Court overruled motion to strike testimony concerning illicit liquor transactions between witness and accused which occurred several years before date of alleged conspiracy to violate revenue laws relating to intoxicating liquors, and no motion for mistrial was made, instruction that, in determining accused's guilt, jury should disregard any evidence concerning transactions of accused prior to period covered in indictment, granted to accused only relief to which he would have been entitled if motion had been sustained, and overruling of motion was not prejudicial. Heflin v. U.S., C.C.A.5 (Fla.) 1943, 132 F.2d 907. Criminal Law ⌘ 1168(4)

Instruction that there was no evidence that defendant possessed whisky in pursuance of conspiracy was properly denied. McDonnell v. U.S., C.C.A.1 (Mass.) 1927, 19 F.2d 801, certiorari denied 48 S.Ct. 114, 275 U.S. 551, 72 L.Ed. 421. Conspiracy ⌘ 48

Requested instruction that there was no evidence that alcohol, whisky, and intoxicating liquor were imported was properly denied. McDonnell v. U.S., C.C.A.1 (Mass.) 1927, 19 F.2d 801, certiorari denied 48 S.Ct. 114, 275 U.S. 551, 72 L.Ed. 421. Conspiracy ⌘ 48

Instruction that all conspiring defendants would be guilty of operating still actually operated by their agent, regardless of whether they were present, was proper. Cummings v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Wash.) 1926, 15 F.2d 168. Conspiracy ⌘ 41

Instruction in prosecution for possession of liquor and conspiracy, under former § 88 of this title [now this section], to effect that defendant's participation in transportation and sale constituted conspiracy was erroneous, as eliminating element of agreement or understanding. Fisher v. U.S., C.C.A.4 (W.Va.) 1926, 13 F.2d 756. Criminal Law ⌘ 815(12)

On trial for conspiracy to manufacture and keep intoxicating liquors for sale, instructions given were sufficient. Liberato v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Wash.) 1926, 13 F.2d 564. Conspiracy ⌘ 48.2(2)

Charge in prosecution for conspiracy to violate National Prohibition Act, former § 1 et seq. of Title 27, was not erroneous, when considered with another part of charge, to effect that defendants would be guilty if they agreed in Louisiana to possess intoxicating liquor, and in pursuance of that agreement possessed it in Mississippi. Shook v. U.S., C.C.A.5 (Miss.) 1925, 10 F.2d 151, certiorari denied 46 S.Ct. 482, 271 U.S. 666, 70 L.Ed. 1141.

In prosecution under National Prohibition Act, former § 1 et seq. of Title 27, for conspiring unlawfully to transport and sell whisky for beverage purposes, requested instructions were properly refused as obscure. Langley v. U.S., C.C.A.6 (Ky.) 1925, 8 F.2d 815, certiorari denied 46 S.Ct. 204, 269 U.S. 588, 70 L.Ed. 427. Conspiracy ↪ 48

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In prosecution of police officer and others for conspiracy to violate National Prohibition Act, former § 1 et seq. of Title 27, where officer was not charged with failure to arrest, denial of instructions defining limitations on his power to arrest was not error. Marron v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1925, 8 F.2d 251.

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate National Prohibition Act, former § 1 et seq. of Title 27, instruction that, if acts of parties were committed in manner or under circumstances which, by reason of their situation and conditions surrounding them, gave rise to reasonable and just inference that they were result of previous agreement, jury could find existence of conspiracy to do those acts, was error, in view of presumption of innocence of accused until proven guilty. Terry v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1925, 7 F.2d 28.

In prosecution for conspiracy at certain time and place to violate National Prohibition Act, former § 1 et seq. of Title 27, in absence of testimony tending to show that accused persons, assembled at such place, were parties to conspiracy to transport, possess or sell intoxicating liquor at another place six weeks prior thereto, or had any knowledge of such transaction, instruction permitting evidence of violation of said former sections at such other place to be considered constituted reversible error. Terry v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1925, 7 F.2d 28.

Where evidence in prosecution for conspiracy to obtain whisky from bond by forged permits and its unlawful sale showed, that, if defendants did acts charged, they could not have believed permits were lawful, refusal to charge that, if any defendant did not know that deliveries were made on forged permits, finding of not guilty would be warranted, was not error. A Guckenheimer & Bros Co v. U S, C.C.A.3 (Pa.) 1925, 3 F.2d 786, certiorari denied 45 S.Ct. 509, 268 U.S. 688, 69 L.Ed. 1157.

Former § 50 of Title 27, making possession of liquor prima facie evidence of unlawful purpose, had no application in a trial for conspiracy under former § 88 of this title [now this section], and an instruction quoting such section, and giving no other charge, as to burden of proof, constituted reversible error. Linden v. U.S., C.C.A.3 (N.J.) 1924, 2 F.2d 817.

It was not error to refuse requested instructions that jointly bringing whisky into the state or causing it to be transported in interstate commerce was not sufficient to convict of the conspiracy unless it was done in pursuance of a preconceived plan or purpose, and that a defendant could not be convicted merely because he knew of a conspiracy by other defendants, where, from the charge as given, the jury could not reasonably have failed so to understand. Wilkes v. U.S., C.C.A.6 (Tenn.) 1923, 291 F. 988, certiorari denied 44 S.Ct. 181, 263 U.S. 719, 68 L.Ed. 523. Criminal Law ↪ 829(4)

915. Lottery offenses, instructions

Where indictment charged aiding and abetting commission of conspiracy to transport lottery tickets in interstate commerce, and evidence disclosed accused's participation by reading and approving printer's proofs of tickets and advertisements and in answering inquiries respecting the scheme after he had acquired knowledge of its illegality, the giving of instruction under the aiding and abetting statute, former § 550 of this title, was not erroneous on theory that accused was not indicted as an "aider" and "abettor" since the evidence showed his participation in conspiracy and that he "aided" and "abetted" it, and that he was, therefore, a "principal" within said former section. Deacon v. U. S., C.C.A.1 (Mass.) 1941, 124 F.2d 352. Criminal Law ↪ 792(2)

Where, even if accused's original participation in conspiracy to transport lottery tickets in interstate commerce might have been innocent when he made agreement for codefendant to conduct contests for benefit of hospital of which accused was head, accused, after learning criminal nature of scheme, took no steps to sever his connection with scheme and continued to accept benefits thereof, court properly instructed that accused could be found guilty of conspiracy charged. Deacon v. U. S., C.C.A.1 (Mass.) 1941, 124 F.2d 352. Conspiracy ↪ 40.1

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

916. Narcotics offenses, instructions

Charge in prosecution for conspiracy to violate federal narcotics statutes stating that jury, in determining whether defendants had requisite knowledge, willfulness and intent, should presume that a person intends natural and probable consequences of his acts was erroneous as not complying with requirement that Government must establish a specific intent to violate substantive statute beyond reasonable doubt. U. S. v. Bertolotti, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1975, 529 F.2d 149. Conspiracy ↪ 48.2(2)

Court's accomplice charge to the effect that participant may believe defendant's acquittal will vitiate expected rewards that may have been explicitly or implicitly promised but that the court had made no promises to the accomplice-witness in the instant case was confusing and, combined with passion and prejudice which improper summation by prosecutor likely aroused, raised grave doubts about the fairness of the trial, requiring reversal of convictions for conspiracy and for smuggling cocaine. U. S. v. Gonzalez, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1973, 488 F.2d 833. Criminal Law ↪ 780(3); Criminal Law ↪ 1172.3

Trial judge was not required to charge the jury that the testimony of a coconspirator, who testified as a state's witness, might have been given under a promise of immunity, as no evidence of such a promise was introduced at trial and as the witness expressly denied under oath that he had been promised any sort of consideration. U. S. v. Salazar, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1973, 485 F.2d 1272, certiorari denied 94 S.Ct. 1579, 415 U.S. 985, 39 L.Ed.2d 882. Criminal Law ↪ 785(9)

Even if defendants in narcotics conspiracy prosecution were entitled to charge on issue of multiple conspiracies, charge given was not erroneous but complied with requirements that judge instruct jury to consider proof against each defendant individually and explain evidence upon which government relied as to each defendant and that there be instruction that jury could convict some but not all. U. S. v. Calabro, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1971, 449 F.2d 885, certiorari denied 92 S.Ct. 728, 404 U.S. 1047, 30 L.Ed.2d 735, certiorari denied 92 S.Ct. 978, 405 U.S. 928, 30 L.Ed.2d 801. Conspiracy ↪ 48.2(2)

Government was entitled to have charged conspiracy to illegally transport marijuana at anytime within statutory limitation period without regard to any existing indictment for transportation of marijuana. U. S. v. Jasso, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1971, 442 F.2d 1054, certiorari denied 92 S.Ct. 146, 404 U.S. 845, 30 L.Ed.2d 81. Conspiracy ↪ 28(3)

Charge on conspiracy, which incorporated statutory definition of the offense, was sufficient in absence of objection that charge failed to make clear that knowledge of illegal importation of narcotics had to be established, and, in any event, error was cured by verdicts finding defendants guilty on counts wherein need of knowledge of illegal importation had been clearly charged. U. S. v. Chow, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1968, 398 F.2d 596. Criminal Law ↪ 847; Criminal Law ↪ 1177

Trial judge's erroneous charging of jury as to first count in language of this section, rather than in language of conspiracy portion of section 174 of Title 21 relating to narcotics under which defendants were in fact indicted, did not constitute such "plain error" as to justify reversal of defendants' convictions in the absence of exception below. U. S. v. Baratta, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1968, 397 F.2d 215, certiorari denied 89 S.Ct. 293, 393 U.S. 939, 21 L.Ed.2d 276, rehearing denied 89 S.Ct. 613, 393 U.S. 1045, 21 L.Ed.2d 597. Criminal Law ↪ 1056.1(5)

Trial court's mistaken reference to this section making it unlawful to conspire to commit any offense against the United States did not affect the substance of its charge on crime of conspiracy to violate narcotics laws. Genovese v. U. S., C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1967, 378 F.2d 748. Criminal Law ↪ 821(1)

Where trial judge determined that there had been sufficient showing of conspiracy to admit narcotics bureau agent's testimony recounting statements made by seller of narcotics to agent out of defendant's presence, trial judge in instructing jury that it should only consider such testimony if it first found that prima facie case of conspiracy had been established in effect unnecessarily gave jury an opportunity to second-guess judge's decision, but error favored defendant and provided no basis for reversal of judgment of conviction. U. S. v. Ragland, C.A.2 (Conn.) 1967, 375 F.2d 471, certiorari denied 88 S.Ct. 860, 390 U.S. 925, 19 L.Ed.2d 987. Criminal Law ⚡ 779; Criminal Law ⚡ 1172.7

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In prosecution for sale of heroin and for a conspiracy to violate the federal narcotics law, charge on entrapment by the federal agents was not required in view of lack of evidence thereof. U. S. v. Gironda, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1959, 267 F.2d 312, certiorari denied 80 S.Ct. 104, 361 U.S. 848, 4 L.Ed.2d 86. Criminal Law ⚡ 814(5)

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate narcotic laws and for receiving concealing, transporting and selling heroin, trial court did not err in failing to instruct, without a request, that a defendant could not be found guilty on circumstantial evidence alone, unless the proved circumstances were not only consistent with the hypothesis that the defendant was guilty of the crime, but where irreconcilable with any other rational conclusion, since such instruction should never be given when the evidence is not wholly circumstantial, and the proof in the case was practically all direct. Leyvas v. U. S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1958, 264 F.2d 272. Criminal Law ⚡ 814(17)

In prosecution, for conspiracy to traffic in narcotic drugs, in which two defendants were tried together, charge that alleged participation by a defendant cannot be established by acts or declarations of alleged coconspirators in such defendant's absence and that a defendant's connection with conspiracy must be established by independent proof was adequate to safeguard a defendant's rights. U S v. De Fillo, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1958, 257 F.2d 835, certiorari denied 79 S.Ct. 591, 359 U.S. 915, 3 L.Ed.2d 577. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.2(2)

In prosecution for unlawful conspiracy to sell narcotic drugs, and for unlawful transfer of 12 marijuana cigarettes, trial court did not err in failing to submit issue of entrapment to the jury in view of fact such issue was not in the case because government's testimony did not tend to show that defendant was induced to sell marijuana, but only that the opportunity to do so was afforded by an offer of a federal agent to buy, and in view of fact there was no written request for such an instruction and no objection to the court's charge was made as required by rule 30 of the Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure, 18 U.S.C.A. Costello v. U.S., C.A.5 (Fla.) 1958, 252 F.2d 750. Criminal Law ⚡ 814(8); Criminal Law ⚡ 824(4); Criminal Law ⚡ 847

In prosecution for conspiracy to import heroin in violation of narcotic laws, §§ 173 and 174 of Title 21, refusal of court to charge expressly that words and deeds of narcotic agents not said or done in defendants' presence could not bind defendants, was not a basis for reversal, where instructions made it reasonably apparent that neither of agents qualified as coconspirators and every juror was aware that agents' acts had not been in furtherance of conspiracy. U. S. v. Morello, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1957, 250 F.2d 631. Criminal Law ⚡ 779

Charge concerning "constructive possession" of narcotic drug, even if erroneous, was not ground for reversal, where charge was contained in portion of instructions which dealt with substantive counts not involved in appeal and which did not deal with counts concerning conspiracy from which defendants' appeal was taken. U S v. Carminati, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1957, 247 F.2d 640, certiorari denied 78 S.Ct. 150, 355 U.S. 883, 2 L.Ed.2d 113. Criminal Law ⚡ 1172.1(3)

In prosecution for conspiracy to bring narcotic drugs into the United States, instruction that after conspiracy has come to an end either by accomplishment of the common design or by the parties abandoning same, evidence of acts or declarations thereafter by conspirators can be considered only as against the person doing such acts or making such statements was proper. Sandez v. U. S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1956, 239 F.2d 239, rehearing denied 245 F.2d 712. Criminal Law ⚡ 779

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate narcotic laws, instruction by court that jury could consider evidence of good character and reputation and determine its weight together with all the other evidence in case in arriving at their verdict as to defendant's innocence or guilt, was proper. Poliafico v. U. S., C.A.6 (Ohio) 1956, 237 F.2d 97, certiorari denied 77 S.Ct. 590, 352 U.S. 1025, 1 L.Ed.2d 597, rehearing denied 77 S.Ct. 718, 353 U.S. 931, 1 L.Ed.2d 725. Criminal Law ☞ 776(4)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate narcotic laws, on whole, court's charge correctly instructed jury as to law of conspiracy and proof necessary to sustain a conviction of the parties charged. Poliafico v. U. S., C.A.6 (Ohio) 1956, 237 F.2d 97, certiorari denied 77 S.Ct. 590, 352 U.S. 1025, 1 L.Ed.2d 597, rehearing denied 77 S.Ct. 718, 353 U.S. 931, 1 L.Ed.2d 725. Conspiracy ☞ 48.2(2)

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate narcotic laws, there was no error in trial court's refusing to give defendants' requested instruction that conversations introduced in evidence were to be considered if the jury found a conspiracy to exist but these conversations could not be applied to any other than the conspiracy count unless conversations were in presence of defendants affected. Poliafico v. U. S., C.A.6 (Ohio) 1956, 237 F.2d 97, certiorari denied 77 S.Ct. 590, 352 U.S. 1025, 1 L.Ed.2d 597, rehearing denied 77 S.Ct. 718, 353 U.S. 931, 1 L.Ed.2d 725. Criminal Law ☞ 779

In prosecution for participation in a conspiracy to traffic in narcotic drugs in violation of the laws of the United States, that portion of trial judge's charge to jury to effect that verdict of innocent was required to follow if scales in which jury weighed evidence in case were equally balanced was not reversible error in view of fact that both before and after such statement court emphasized correct and accepted interpretation of reasonable doubt and statement in fact was emphatic statement of prosecution's high burden of proof which was last thing jury heard before retiring. United States v. Markman, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1952, 193 F.2d 574. Criminal Law ☞ 822(13)

In prosecution for selling and conspiring to sell marihuana cigarettes, charge that jury could consider plea of guilty entered by alleged co-conspirator and fact that, in entering it, alleged co-conspirator "may have had in mind all the parties or the unknown conspirators" was reversible error. U.S. v. Hall, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1950, 178 F.2d 853. Criminal Law ☞ 779; Criminal Law ☞ 1172.2

In prosecution for conspiring to violate Harrison Anti-Narcotic Act, §§ 696 and 697 of Title 26, instructions as to the definition and description of the conspiracy charged were proper. Smith v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Mo.) 1922, 284 F. 673, certiorari denied 43 S.Ct. 362, 261 U.S. 617, 67 L.Ed. 829. Conspiracy ☞ 48

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate narcotic laws, where no uncontradicted evidence established entrapment of defendant, court was not required to direct acquittal of defendant, but fulfilled its duty by properly instructing jury in respect to entrapment rule. U. S. v. Yee Ping Jong, W.D.Pa.1939, 26 F.Supp. 69. Criminal Law ☞ 753.2(5); Criminal Law ☞ 772(6)

917. Perjury, instructions

In prosecution for perjury, and making of false statements to government agencies and for conspiracy, charge to jury was in all respects legally sufficient and correct. U. S. v. Marchisio, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1965, 344 F.2d 653. Conspiracy ☞ 48.2(2); Fraud ☞ 69(7); Perjury ☞ 37(1)

In prosecution for conspiracy to commit offense of perjury and subornation of perjury, failure to give cautionary instruction with respect to testimony of an accomplice was not error where no such instruction was requested. Hall v. U.S., C.C.A.10 (Okla.) 1935, 78 F.2d 168. Criminal Law ☞ 824(7)

The instructions given on the trial of an indictment for conspiracy to induce perjury on the part of persons applying to enter land under the Timber and Stone Act, § 311 et seq. of Title 43, by falsely stating that the lands were not being purchased by them on speculation and that they had not made any agreement by which the titles they might acquire should inure to the benefit of any other person, were considered, and, as applied to the evidence, were correct, as confining the inquiry to the preliminary statements made at the time of the applications. Nickell v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Or.) 1909, 167 F. 741, 93 C.C.A. 229, certiorari denied 29 S.Ct. 699, 214 U.S. 517, 53 L.Ed. 1064.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Undue emphasis was not placed on defendants' raffle tickets story, i.e., that money paid by borough garbage hauler to councilman was for raffle tickets rather than for an illegal purpose, by reading a portion of indictment pertaining to alleged fabrication of a "cover story" since such language enabled jury to focus on the exact charges, which included making false material declarations to a grand jury; same could be said with respect to definitions of "payoffs" and "kickbacks," which had to be defined for proper consideration of factual issues, notwithstanding that case was not one charging bribes or payoffs. U. S. v. Long, W.D.Pa.1976, 421 F.Supp. 1355, affirmed 574 F.2d 761, certiorari denied 99 S.Ct. 577, 439 U.S. 985, 58 L.Ed.2d 657. Criminal Law ⚡ 811(3)

918. Price control offenses, instructions

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate Emergency Price Control Act, 50 App. former § 901 et seq., in purchasing corn in excess of ceiling price, instructions based on evasion order promulgated by Price Administrator were not erroneous for informing jury that such order was the law, where by said sections such order had the force of law. Quirk v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Iowa) 1947, 161 F.2d 138. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.2(2)

919. Postal offenses, instructions--Generally

In prosecution for conspiracy to burglarize a contract Post Office, instruction pertaining to testimony of accomplices and to the care and caution with which the jury should consider the testimony of an accomplice was not improper even though it was not specifically directed to the testimony of a specific accomplice since the court's definition of accomplice could have been applied to only two of the government's witnesses, one of whom was the accomplice in question. Cleaver v. U. S., C.A.10 (Colo.) 1956, 238 F.2d 766. Criminal Law ⚡ 780(3)

920. ---- Mail fraud, postal offenses, instructions

In criminal proceedings for conspiracy to commit mail fraud and money laundering, although the better practice would have been to include a jury instruction requiring that the mail fraud scheme be credible enough to deceive persons of ordinary prudence and comprehension, district court's refusal to instruct the jury on reasonable reliance did not warrant a reversal because the omission, when taken in the context of the entire jury instruction, was not confusing, misleading, or prejudicial; by explaining that the scheme must have had the potential to cause reliance, the trial court substantially covered the purpose of the "prudence and comprehension" requirement. U.S. v. Jamieson, C.A.6 (Ohio) 2005, 427 F.3d 394, rehearing and rehearing en banc denied, certiorari denied 2006 WL 1523238. Criminal Law ⚡ 822(6)

In prosecution arising out of Louisiana sheriff's alleged conspiracy with purported consultant to defraud sheriff's office, district court's refusal to include purported consultant's requested instructions that sheriff could enter into oral contract and subsequently put contract into writing and that party could fail to fulfill contract expectations without committing fraud was not reversible error; judge adequately charged jury as to elements of both conspiracy and mail fraud and also carefully and fully defined those elements to enable jury to properly assess evidence offered in case. U.S. v. Hatch, C.A.5 (La.) 1991, 926 F.2d 387, certiorari denied 111 S.Ct. 2239, 500 U.S. 943, 114 L.Ed.2d 481, certiorari denied 112 S.Ct. 126, 502 U.S. 839, 116 L.Ed.2d 93. Criminal Law ⚡ 1173.2(2)

In prosecution on 16 counts of an indictment which included conspiracy, mail fraud and the interstate transportation of securities taken by fraud, charge could not be construed as instructing that a finding of guilty on substantive counts could be based upon a finding of guilt on conspiracy counts but instead constituted a proper submission of substantive counts on an agency theory. U. S. v. Deaton, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1977, 563 F.2d 777, certiorari denied 98 S.Ct. 1475, 435 U.S. 917, 55 L.Ed.2d 510. Criminal Law ⚡ 792(3)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In prosecution for conspiracy and mail fraud, court's instructions to jury to consider guilt or innocence of each defendant separately and independently and that jury should acquit if it should find that multiple conspiracies existed, informing jury satisfactorily what jury must determine in order to find existence of one overall conspiracy, adequately protected individual rights of each defendant in view of absence of admissions admissible against some but not all of defendants. U. S. v. Perez, C.A.5 (La.) 1973, 489 F.2d 51, rehearing denied 488 F.2d 552, certiorari denied 94 S.Ct. 3067, 417 U.S. 945, 41 L.Ed.2d 664, certiorari denied 94 S.Ct. 3068, 417 U.S. 945, 41 L.Ed.2d 664. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.2(1)

Instruction in mail fraud prosecution that testimony of alleged coconspirator could not be considered until it had been corroborated by independent evidence and "you can consider that evidence and give it such weight as you determine it is entitled to in the light of all the evidence that you have heard and will hear in the case" was not erroneous as usurping jury's function of judging weight of testimony and credibility of witnesses, as amounting to a directed verdict of guilty on conspiracy count, nor as intimating to jury that defendant would have to present evidence in his defense, thereby infringing on his right to remain silent. U. S. v. Pisciotta, C.A.10 (Colo.) 1972, 469 F.2d 329. Criminal Law ⚡ 763(18); Criminal Law ⚡ 780(3)

Where jury was correctly instructed on what constitutes essential elements of crime of mail fraud and that its verdict had to be unanimous and jury returned verdict of guilty on five counts charging substantive violations of mail fraud statute and guilty on count charging that one object of conspiracy was to commit mail fraud scheme alleged in the other five counts, failure of trial court to instruct jury to return special verdict did not prejudice defendant. U. S. v. Jones, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1970, 425 F.2d 1048, certiorari denied 91 S.Ct. 44, 400 U.S. 823, 27 L.Ed.2d 51. Criminal Law ⚡ 1173.2(2)

Where trial court gave proper and adequate instruction on reasonable doubt in prosecution for fraudulent sale of securities, fraud in the use of the mails and for conspiracy, instruction on circumstantial evidence was properly refused. Wall v. U. S., C.A.10 (Utah) 1967, 384 F.2d 758. Criminal Law ⚡ 784(1)

Charge as whole in connection with prosecution for mail fraud, wire fraud, conspiracy to defraud and misbranding protected all of defendants' rights and did not eliminate from jury's consideration presumption of defendants' innocence or requirement that guilt be proved beyond reasonable doubt as asserted by defendants on appeal. U. S. v. Andreadis, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1966, 366 F.2d 423, certiorari denied 87 S.Ct. 703, 385 U.S. 1001, 17 L.Ed.2d 541. Criminal Law ⚡ 822(1)

In prosecution for mail fraud, securities fraud and conspiracy, where court instructed jury that defendants were not charged with responsibility for acts occurring after receiver was appointed, it was presumed that jury heeded instruction, and any error in admission of evidence of losses sustained after receiver was appointed was cured by the instruction. Farrell v. U. S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1963, 321 F.2d 409, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 631, 375 U.S. 992, 11 L.Ed.2d 478. Criminal Law ⚡ 1144.15; Criminal Law ⚡ 1169.5(2)

In prosecution for use of mails in attempt to defraud in sale of accident and sickness policies and for conspiracy to commit the same offense, court properly requested instruction of one of the defendants that mere fact that he knew codefendant during the period in question was not sufficient to support a charge of conspiracy, since instruction would tend to add emphasis to an evidentiary fact. U. S. v. Sylvanus, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1951, 192 F.2d 96, certiorari denied 72 S.Ct. 555, 342 U.S. 943, 96 L.Ed. 701. Criminal Law ⚡ 811(2)

Where there was no defendant as to whom only circumstantial evidence was offered, court did not err in refusing defendants' requested instruction that where guilt of any defendant depends entirely on circumstantial evidence, burden rests on government to prove its case not only beyond a reasonable doubt but to exclusion of any reasonable hypothesis of innocence. U. S. v. Sylvanus, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1951, 192 F.2d 96, certiorari denied 72 S.Ct.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

555, 342 U.S. 943, 96 L.Ed. 701. Criminal Law ⚡ 814(17)

In prosecution for use of mails in attempt to defraud in sale of accident and sickness policies and for conspiracy to commit the same offense, court properly refused to give requested instruction of one of the defendants that his relation to the insurance business was merely that of an agent and that so long as he acted in good faith and in reliance on instructions from officers of insurer, he was not guilty, since mere fact that such defendant entered into an agency contract with insurer did not mean that he could not be a conspirator. U. S. v. Sylvanus, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1951, 192 F.2d 96, certiorari denied 72 S.Ct. 555, 342 U.S. 943, 96 L.Ed. 701. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.2(2); Postal Service ⚡ 50

In prosecution of several defendants for using mails to defraud and for conspiracy to commit substantive crime, district judge did not err in failing to discuss facts other than to state that evidence was conflicting when charging jury. U.S. v. Cohen, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1944, 145 F.2d 82, certiorari denied 65 S.Ct. 553, 323 U.S. 799, 89 L.Ed. 637, certiorari denied 65 S.Ct. 553, 323 U.S. 799, 89 L.Ed. 638, certiorari denied 65 S.Ct. 554, 323 U.S. 800, 89 L.Ed. 638. Criminal Law ⚡ 777.5

In prosecution for using mails in furtherance of scheme to defraud in sale of mining stock and for conspiracy to defraud, instruction that to "defraud" a person of his money or property means to deprive him of it without giving any fair consideration, to which no exception was taken, was not so palpably misleading as to require a reversal. Estep v. U.S., C.C.A.10 (Utah) 1943, 140 F.2d 40. Criminal Law ⚡ 1056.1(3.1)

In prosecution for using mails to defraud and for conspiring to do so, an instruction that it was immaterial what defendants preached or wrote or talked in their classes, and that if defendants honestly and in good faith believed those things, they should be acquitted, otherwise they should be convicted, was erroneous as failing to submit to jury whether representations were true or false. Ballard v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1943, 138 F.2d 540, certiorari granted 64 S.Ct. 427, 320 U.S. 733, 88 L.Ed. 434, reversed on other grounds 64 S.Ct. 882, 322 U.S. 78, 88 L.Ed. 1148, on remand 152 F.2d 941. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.2(2); Postal Service ⚡ 50

In prosecution for using mails to defraud and for conspiracy to use mails to defraud, charge to jury which did not make general intent to defraud a factor in the crime was not improper. U.S. v. Dilliard, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1938, 101 F.2d 829, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 484, 306 U.S. 635, 83 L.Ed. 1036. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.2(2); Postal Service ⚡ 50

In prosecution for using mails to defraud, violation of § 77a et seq. of Title 45, and conspiracy, failure of court to charge that evidence must negative every reasonable hypothesis except that of guilt to justify conviction was not error, where charge given left no alternative to an acquittal if jury did not believe evidence which, if accepted as true, was actually inconsistent with innocence, lack of guilty knowledge, and fraudulent intent. Beckman v. U. S., C.C.A.5 (La.) 1938, 96 F.2d 15. Criminal Law ⚡ 829(15)

Considering all parts of charge on conspiracy, on prosecution for conspiracy to use the mails in furtherance of a scheme to defraud, it was not open to the interpretation that defendant would be guilty, if all he did was to assist in the defrauding, or to share in the proceeds. Shea v. U. S., C.C.A.6 (Ohio) 1918, 251 F. 433, 163 C.C.A. 451, certiorari denied 39 S.Ct. 132, 248 U.S. 581, 63 L.Ed. 431. Criminal Law ⚡ 822(6); Postal Service ⚡ 50

In prosecution for conspiracy to use mails in connection with scheme to defraud, denial of defendants' requested instruction that decoy letters and replies could only be considered in determining whether defendants had actually entered into conspiracy, and that information elicited by such letters was not sufficient to sustain conviction, was not error, where court charged that government officials could not conspire with another to violate laws for purpose of getting such person convicted. Holsman v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1918, 248 F. 193, 160 C.C.A. 271, certiorari denied 39 S.Ct. 258, 249 U.S. 600, 63 L.Ed. 796. Criminal Law ⚡ 829(3)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Instructions considered and approved in a prosecution under former § 88 of this title [now this section] for using the mails to defraud. Mitchell v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Wash.) 1912, 196 F. 874, 116 C.C.A. 436, certiorari denied 33 S.Ct. 218, 226 U.S. 611, 57 L.Ed. 381. Postal Service ☞ 50

Jury instructions defining elements of mail fraud and explaining consideration of actual harm to victim as evidence of intent to defraud properly explained fraudulent intent, in prosecution for mail fraud and conspiracy to commit mail fraud; financial or economic harm was not necessary to establish intent to defraud, but existence of scheme could serve as evidence of intent. U.S. v. Easton, C.A.8 (S.D.) 2002, 54 Fed.Appx. 242, 2002 WL 31814951, Unreported. Postal Service ☞ 35(5); Postal Service ☞ 50

921. Securities offenses, instructions

In prosecution for conspiracy to transport securities in interstate commerce knowing them to have been stolen, instruction that possession of stolen property in another state than that in which it was stolen shortly after theft, raises presumption the possessor was the thief and transported stolen property in interstate commerce meant that jury was permitted to find defendant guilty of conspiracy to transport stolen securities if he joined in their disposal after transportation had ended, and was erroneous. Bollenbach v. U.S., U.S.N.Y.1946, 66 S.Ct. 402, 326 U.S. 607, 90 L.Ed. 350. Conspiracy ☞ 48.1(2.1)

Refusal, in prosecutions for conspiracy to transport stolen securities in interstate commerce, to instruct jury that they should acquit defendants if they found separate conspiracies, rather than a single, overall conspiracy, was not error, where court charged that Government had to show that each defendant was a "knowing part" of conspiracy and that jury in determining whether a particular defendant was a member of alleged conspiracy should consider only his acts and statements for he could not be bound by acts or declarations of other participants until it was established that a conspiracy existed and that he was a participant in it. U. S. v. Salerno, C.A.3 (N.J.) 1973, 485 F.2d 260, certiorari denied 94 S.Ct. 1596, 415 U.S. 994, 39 L.Ed.2d 891, rehearing denied 94 S.Ct. 2415, 416 U.S. 1000, 40 L.Ed.2d 778. Criminal Law ☞ 829(2)

Refusal, in prosecution for conspiracy and for receiving and selling securities of value in excess of $5,000 moving in interstate commerce, knowing such securities to have been stolen, to instruct that if jury had reasonable doubt as to truthfulness of alleged coparticipant's implication of defendant, defendant should be acquitted because there was no other evidence other than version offered by defendant or coparticipant was not error in view of charge that jury should consider coparticipant's testimony with scrupulous care. U. S. v. Cataldo, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1970, 433 F.2d 38, certiorari denied 91 S.Ct. 1200, 401 U.S. 977, 28 L.Ed.2d 326, rehearing denied 91 S.Ct. 1523, 402 U.S. 934, 28 L.Ed.2d 869, certiorari denied 91 S.Ct. 1205, 401 U.S. 977, 28 L.Ed.2d 326. Criminal Law ☞ 829(16)

Instruction explanatory of burden of proof, as prepared and given by trial judge on his own, was proper as adequate and accurate, in prosecution for conspiracy to defraud public by distribution of oil company stock at grossly inflated prices. U. S. v. Kelly, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1965, 349 F.2d 720, certiorari denied 86 S.Ct. 1467, 384 U.S. 947, 16 L.Ed.2d 544. Criminal Law ☞ 778(1)

Instruction, effect of which was to require jury to find existence of single, over-all conspiracy to defraud public by distribution of oil company stock at grossly inflated prices, rather than separate, independent conspiracies with separate and distinct groups involved with no over-all central purpose, to warrant conviction of defendant as well as codefendants for conspiracy, was prejudicial, as to defendant against whom evidence of participation in over-all conspiracy was less substantial than was evidence against codefendants. U. S. v. Kelly, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1965, 349 F.2d 720, certiorari denied 86 S.Ct. 1467, 384 U.S. 947, 16 L.Ed.2d 544. Conspiracy ☞ 48.2(2); Criminal Law ☞ 1172.1(2)

The charge, when viewed in its entirety, correctly stated the law to be applied in prosecution for conspiracy and for illegal sale of unregistered stock, and adequately informed jury of government's obligation to prove guilty

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

knowledge. U.S. v. Dardi, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1964, 330 F.2d 316, certiorari denied 85 S.Ct. 117, 379 U.S. 869, 13 L.Ed.2d 73, certiorari denied 85 S.Ct. 50, 379 U.S. 845, 13 L.Ed.2d 50, rehearing denied 85 S.Ct. 640, 379 U.S. 986, 13 L.Ed.2d 579, certiorari denied 85 S.Ct. 51, 379 U.S. 845, 13 L.Ed.2d 50. Criminal Law ⤴ 822(6)

Even though one of overt acts alleged in prosecution for conspiring to transport forged securities in interstate commerce was that of person subsequently acquitted, instruction that commission of any one of ten overt acts alleged was sufficient to convict did not warrant reversal of conviction where jury was also instructed that to satisfy this section overt act must be committed in furtherance of object of conspiracy and by person who was party to it. Hansen v. U. S., C.A.9 (Wash.) 1963, 326 F.2d 152. Criminal Law ⤴ 823(4)

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate former § 416 of this title by concealing securities which had been stolen and which became part of interstate commerce when received by accused, instruction that if jury believed securities were stolen and entered into flow of interstate commerce, and there being no evidence of intermediate sale to a purchaser, and securities came into unexplained possession of accused knowing the securities to be stolen property, jury could infer that securities at time of coming into possession were still in interstate commerce was erroneous. Booth v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1946, 154 F.2d 73. Conspiracy ⤴ 48.1(2.1)

Charge that defendant might be convicted for transporting or causing to be transported stolen securities in interstate commerce, if they were organized to dispose of stolen securities, were willing to do so, and cared not where the property came from either within or without the state, was not error. U.S. v. Turley, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1943, 135 F.2d 867, certiorari denied 64 S.Ct. 47, 320 U.S. 745, 88 L.Ed. 442. Receiving Stolen Goods ⤴ 9(2)

In prosecution for conspiracy and use of mails to defraud in sale of stock, instruction that jury should determine whether alleged representation that corporation organized by one of defendants was well established and responsible brokerage house engaged in general brokerage business was made for purpose of trickery or deception, or with honest intent to serve investors, did not place undue emphasis on evidence and was not misleading. Levine v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Wash.) 1935, 79 F.2d 364. Criminal Law ⤴ 811(2)

In prosecution for conspiracy and use of mails to defraud in sale of stock, instruction that belief in advance of selling price of stock was insufficient to support good faith when selling price was based upon defendants' studied acts to create fictitious values by misrepresentations, and not upon actual or prospective worth or value, was correct and warranted by evidence. Levine v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Wash.) 1935, 79 F.2d 364. Conspiracy ⤴ 48.2(2); Postal Service ⤴ 50

In prosecution for conspiracy and use of mails to defraud in sale of stock, failure to limit evidence concerning transactions and conversations, out of presence of defendants, with stock salesmen employed by defendants, by instruction to disregard such transactions and conversations unless defendants authorized them or were parties to conspiracy, was not error in view of instructions given. Levine v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Wash.) 1935, 79 F.2d 364. Criminal Law ⤴ 823(18)

Instruction that success of scheme to defraud in use of mails to sell securities required men of reputation nullified effects of good character instruction. Sunderland v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Neb.) 1927, 19 F.2d 202. Criminal Law ⤴ 810

In conspiracy and oil stock mail fraud case, instruction that good faith was no defense was not error. Nelson v. U. S., C.C.A.8 (Ark.) 1926, 16 F.2d 71. Postal Service ⤴ 50

Though indictment for conspiracy and oil stock mail fraud alleged intent to appropriate money, charge that use to be made of money was immaterial was proper. Nelson v. U. S., C.C.A.8 (Ark.) 1926, 16 F.2d 71. Postal Service ⤴ 48(8)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Instruction, in prosecution under former §§ 88 [now this section] and 338 of this title, for scheme to defraud in sale of mortgage company stock by use of mails, that if acts were done with innocent motives, or without unlawful intent, defendant should be acquitted, was properly refused, in view of other instructions embodying such proposition. Scheib v. U.S., C.C.A.7 (Ind.) 1926, 14 F.2d 75, certiorari denied 47 S.Ct. 95, 273 U.S. 700, 71 L.Ed. 847, certiorari denied 47 S.Ct. 95, 273 U.S. 701, 71 L.Ed. 847, certiorari denied 47 S.Ct. 95, 273 U.S. 701, 71 L.Ed. 848, certiorari denied 47 S.Ct. 113, 273 U.S. 718, 71 L.Ed. 856. Criminal Law ⚡ 829(3)

In a prosecution for conspiring to use the mails to defraud in disposing of corporate stock, charge was not erroneous as directing jury what was intent of defendants, but to leave that matter for their determination, nor erroneous, as declaring that, though defendants believed corporation could be made a success, that was no defense to assurances that the stock would prove valuable and dividends would be paid. Menefee v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Or.) 1916, 236 F. 826, 150 C.C.A. 88. Criminal Law ⚡ 761(4); Criminal Law ⚡ 763(10)

In view of instructions given on conspiracy to knowingly transport in interstate commerce, with fraudulent intent, counterfeit securities, trial court did not err in refusing to instruct that, although one could become member of conspiracy without full knowledge of all terms, person who had no knowledge of conspiracy did not become a conspirator by happening to act in way furthering some object or purpose of conspiracy. U. S. v. Natale, D.C.N.J.1966, 250 F.Supp. 381. Criminal Law ⚡ 829(3)

In prosecution for using mails in furtherance of scheme to defraud in sale of securities, for using mails to sell and to deliver after sale certain unregistered securities and conspiring to violate the mail fraud statute, former § 338 of this title and the Securities Act, § 77a et seq. of Title 15, instruction regarding reasonable doubt did not mislead the jury when taken in connection with the entire charge. U. S. v. Sussman, E.D.Pa.1941, 37 F.Supp. 294. Criminal Law ⚡ 822(16)

922. Selective service offenses, instructions

Instructions, in a prosecution for conspiracy to defraud the United States by preventing registration of persons for military service, approved. Firth v. U.S., C.C.A.4 (W.Va.) 1918, 253 F. 36, 165 C.C.A. 56. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.2(2)

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate certain provisions of the Selective Service Act, 50 App. former § 301 et seq., charge that if jury was satisfied beyond a reasonable doubt from all the evidence, including character evidence, that defendant was guilty, evidence of defendant's good character could not be permitted to overcome the conclusion which followed from that view of the case, was not erroneous as unduly minimizing the importance of character evidence. U. S. v. Winter, E.D.Pa.1941, 38 F.Supp. 627. Criminal Law ⚡ 776(4)

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate certain provisions of the Selective Service Act, 50 App. former § 301 et seq., charge that the testimony of a confessed conspirator should be received with caution and should be carefully scrutinized but that if after consideration jury concluded testimony worthy of belief, it could be the basis of a verdict of guilty, even though some of it was uncorroborated, was proper as against contention that charge did not properly instruct jury how to regard the testimony of a confessed conspirator. U. S. v. Winter, E.D.Pa.1941, 38 F.Supp. 627. Criminal Law ⚡ 779

923. Smuggling, instructions

In prosecutions for conspiracy to smuggle psittacine birds into United States, for smuggling such birds into United States, and for receiving, concealing and transporting such birds, instruction on entrapment was not required where government agency did not plant any idea in defendants' minds but merely went along with criminal plan and obtained recording of defendants' plans through recording device placed upon an informer. Murray v. U.S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1957, 250 F.2d 489, certiorari denied 78 S.Ct. 1375, 357 U.S. 932, 2 L.Ed.2d 1373. Criminal Law ⚡

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

814(8)

Charge in prosecution for conspiracy to smuggle was not subject to claimed objection of authorizing conviction on mere proof of possession by a defendant, and properly required showing of concert or combination to violate law. U.S. v. McKee, C.A.2 (Vt.) 1955, 220 F.2d 266. Conspiracy ↻ 48.1(2.1)

In prosecution for illegally conspiring to smuggle cattle into the United States from Mexico, charge respecting the hoof-and-mouth disease quarantine making it illegal to bring live cattle from Mexico was not error because the hoof-and-mouth disease statute or regulation was not cited in the indictment. Babb v. U.S., C.A.5 (Tex.) 1954, 210 F.2d 473. Criminal Law ↻ 814(1)

924. Stolen property, instructions

Evidence that defendant received jewelry shipped uninsured from same source in packages that did not name sender, that defendant was only permitted to contact sender by calling his beeper number, that defendant was told to make cash payments, and that defendant accepted without question hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of jewelry from someone he did not know on representation that it came from estate supported district court's willful blindness instruction to jury in prosecution for conspiracy to transport, possess, and sell stolen property in interstate commerce. U.S. v. Richardson, C.A.1 (Me.) 1994, 14 F.3d 666. Conspiracy ↻ 48.2(2)

In prosecution for conspiring to transport stolen property in interstate commerce and knowingly concealing and transporting such property in interstate commerce, instruction requested by defendants, which did not deal with distinction between observation of stolen property by officers and recovery of such property, and which authorized acquittal if there was actual and exclusive physical possession of property by officers prior to time property was allegedly transported, improperly assumed that actual exclusive physical possession was equivalent to recovery, and thus, requested instruction was incomplete statement of law. U.S. v. Johnson, C.A.8 (Mo.) 1985, 767 F.2d 1259. Receiving Stolen Goods ↻ 9(2)

Although evidence of a single four-link conspiracy in prosecution for conspiring to transport and distribute stolen automobile engine and parts proved in vain when jury acquitted ultimate receivers, where there was evidence on which a finding of a single four-part conspiracy might have been based, it was not error for trial judge to so instruct the jury. U. S. v. Diana, C.A.4 (S.C.) 1979, 605 F.2d 1307, certiorari denied 100 S.Ct. 1067, 444 U.S. 1102, 62 L.Ed.2d 787. Conspiracy ↻ 48.2(2)

In prosecution for conspiracy to receive and possess, defendants were not entitled to requested instruction that he could not be convicted if conspiracy was to sell rather than to receive and possess, where instructions repeatedly emphasized principle that defendant must be found guilty of crime as charged. U. S. v. Anderson, C.A.8 (Minn.) 1977, 552 F.2d 1296. Criminal Law ↻ 829(3)

Trial court, in prosecution for conspiracy and possession of stolen interstate shipment of beef, gave correct instruction concerning inference which may be drawn from possession of property recently stolen. U. S. v. Verdoorn, C.A.8 (Iowa) 1976, 528 F.2d 103. Larceny ↻ 77(1)

Instructions in prosecution for conspiracy to violate the Dyer Act, section 2313 of this title, were not lacking in clarity and precision in, inter alia, making it clear that defendants were on trial for conspiracy and not for any substantive offenses shown to have been committed. U. S. v. Mayes, C.A.6 (Ky.) 1975, 512 F.2d 637, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 2629, 422 U.S. 1008, 45 L.Ed.2d 670, certiorari denied 96 S.Ct. 69, 423 U.S. 840, 46 L.Ed.2d 59. Conspiracy ↻ 48.2(1)

Where knowledge of the interstate character of the goods was essential element of charge of conspiracy to possess goods stolen from an interstate shipment and trial court gave proper charge on substantive count that knowledge of the interstate character of the goods was not an essential component of the substantive count, failure to charge that knowledge of the interstate character of the goods was an essential component of the conspiracy charge was plain error, and required reversal of the conspiracy charge. U. S. v. De Marco, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1973, 488 F.2d 828. Criminal Law ⚡ 1038.2; Criminal Law ⚡ 1173.2(2)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Submitting conspiracy charge under erroneous theory that evidence supported conclusion that defendants had entered into an agreement to have stolen Treasury bills transported to Washington, D.C., for payment by the United States and also under correct view that defendants had entered into an agreement to defraud the United States by causing it to redeem the bills from recipient from a thief rather than from the rightful owner, did not require reversal of convictions conspiracy since, even if jury had found the conspiracy on the erroneous view, it would have found every element necessary to support convictions under the properly submitted theory. U. S. v. Jacobs, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1973, 475 F.2d 270, certiorari denied 94 S.Ct. 116, 414 U.S. 821, 38 L.Ed.2d 53, certiorari denied 94 S.Ct. 131, 414 U.S. 821, 38 L.Ed.2d 53. Criminal Law ⚡ 1172.1(2)

Notwithstanding claim that instruction on entrapment in prosecution for conspiring to transport stolen trucks in foreign commerce failed to place burden of proof on government, an examination of charge showed clearly how very carefully trial court correctly spelled out to jury principle of entrapment and fact that it had to be disproven beyond a reasonable doubt. U. S. v. Groessel, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1971, 440 F.2d 602, certiorari denied 91 S.Ct. 2263, 403 U.S. 933, 29 L.Ed.2d 713. Criminal Law ⚡ 772(6)

Choice of words employed in final charge did not rise to the level of plain error, particularly when on three separate occasions the court clearly warned the jury not to consider prior inconsistent statements of witness as probative of facts contained therein, but only to "neutralize" direct testimony of that witness in prosecution for possession of stolen goods and for conspiracy. U. S. v. Grasso, C.A.3 (N.J.) 1970, 437 F.2d 317, certiorari denied 91 S.Ct. 2236, 403 U.S. 920, 29 L.Ed.2d 698. Criminal Law ⚡ 1038.1(6)

Instruction in automobile theft conspiracy prosecution, that possession of recently stolen property, not satisfactorily explained, will support inference and finding that person in possession knew it had been stolen, and that it was exclusive province of jury to determine whether facts and circumstances in evidence warranted such inference, was proper. U. S. v. Nasse, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1970, 432 F.2d 1293, certiorari denied 91 S.Ct. 927, 401 U.S. 938, 28 L.Ed.2d 217, certiorari denied 91 S.Ct. 928, 401 U.S. 938, 28 L.Ed.2d 217, certiorari denied 91 S.Ct. 1657, 402 U.S. 983, 29 L.Ed.2d 148. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.2(2)

In prosecution for possession of goods stolen from interstate commerce and for conspiracy, trial court did not err in instructing jury over defendant's objection, as to defendant's right not to testify, though court also instructed that possession of property recently stolen, if not satisfactorily explained, is circumstance from which jury may infer that person knew property had been stolen, and instructions as whole did not violate privileges under U.S.C.A. Const. Amend. 5. U. S. v. McGann, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1970, 431 F.2d 1104, certiorari denied 91 S.Ct. 904, 401 U.S. 919, 27 L.Ed.2d 821. Criminal Law ⚡ 393(1); Criminal Law ⚡ 787(1); Receiving Stolen Goods ⚡ 9(2)

Charge, in prosecution for stealing goods from an interstate shipment, for transporting in interstate commerce goods known to have been stolen, and for conspiring to commit those two crimes, was entirely clear in instructing jury that its task was to determine whether defendants were guilty of crimes charged, and not merely whether the crimes had been committed. U. S. v. Mattio, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1968, 388 F.2d 368, certiorari denied 88 S.Ct. 1643, 390 U.S. 1043, 20 L.Ed.2d 305. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.2(2); Receiving Stolen Goods ⚡ 9(2)

Instruction that if defendants violated section 2314 of this title they could be found guilty of conspiracy did not permit conviction of defendants, indicted only for conspiracy, of offense not charged in view of instruction that it was necessary to first establish unlawful combination. U. S. v. Mattia, C.A.3 (N.J.) 1967, 379 F.2d 725, certiorari denied 88 S.Ct. 100, 389 U.S. 846, 19 L.Ed.2d 113. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.2(1)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Charge in prosecution for transporting stolen goods in interstate commerce and for conspiracy, sufficiently distinguished between presumption as mandatory deduction from evidence and inference as permissible deduction. Herman v. U.S., C.A.5 (Fla.) 1961, 289 F.2d 362, certiorari denied 82 S.Ct. 174, 368 U.S. 897, 7 L.Ed.2d 93. Criminal Law ⚡ 778(2)

In prosecution for conspiracy to possess and sell property stolen from interstate commerce and for possession thereof, knowing such to have been stolen, instruction that sale of goods at price considerably less than market value could be considered as indication of knowledge on part of one associated with sale that transaction was illegal was proper statement of law and was warranted by the evidence. U.S. v. Bletterman, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1960, 279 F.2d 320. Receiving Stolen Goods ⚡ 9(2)

In prosecution for transporting stolen motor vehicles beyond borders of state, charge that automobiles that government believed had been identified all crossed border between New York and New Jersey did not amount to directing verdict of guilty against defendant when judge at no time had told jury that defendant had transported automobiles or had caused them to be transported or had conspired with others to such effect and when evidence was conclusive as to crossing referred to in charge. U.S. v. Mura, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1951, 191 F.2d 886. Criminal Law ⚡ 763(1)

In prosecution for conspiracy to receive, dispose of, and transport stolen merchandise in interstate commerce, alleged refusal to charge that there could be no conviction of conspiracy to receive and dispose of the merchandise in violation of former § 416 of this title was not reversible error. Andrews v. U.S., C.C.A.4 (W.Va.) 1939, 108 F.2d 511. Criminal Law ⚡ 1173.2(1)

Court's instruction which was given in connection with charge of conspiracy to possess goods stolen from interstate commerce was proper even though it did not specifically instruct that knowledge by defendant of interstate character of shipment was essential element of offense. U. S. v. Whitfield, E.D.Pa.1974, 378 F.Supp. 184, affirmed 515 F.2d 506, affirmed 515 F.2d 507. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.2(2)

925. Tax offenses, instructions--Generally

In prosecution for conspiracy to defraud the United States by operation of a tax fixing ring, wherein facts were equivocal in that jury might have concluded that aim of conspiracy had been accomplished in 1949 when conspirators obtained "no prosecution" rulings from Bureau of Internal Revenue, and that overt acts of concealment occurred after that date were done pursuant to alleged conspiracy to hide the conspirators, it was essential for trial judge to charge clearly and unequivocally that on such facts jury could not infer a continuing conspiracy to conceal the conspiracy, whether actual or implied. Grunewald v. U.S., U.S.N.Y.1957, 77 S.Ct. 963, 353 U.S. 391, 1 L.Ed.2d 931. Criminal Law ⚡ 772(4)

In prosecution under indictment filed on October 25, 1954 for conspiracy to defraud the United States by operation of a tax fixing ring whereby conspirators had in 1948 and 1949 obtained "no prosecution" rulings from Bureau of Internal Revenue, a charge which failed to distinguish between concealment in order to achieve central purpose of conspiracy of immunizing taxpayers from tax-evasion prosecution, and concealment intended solely to cover up an already executed crime, that of obtaining the "no prosecution" rulings, under which charge jury might have concluded that defendants were guilty even though jury found merely that central aim of conspiracy was accomplished in 1949, and that subsequent acts of concealment were motivated exclusively by conspirators' fear of conspiracy prosecution, was fatally erroneous. Grunewald v. U.S., U.S.N.Y.1957, 77 S.Ct. 963, 353 U.S. 391, 1 L.Ed.2d 931. Criminal Law ⚡ 772(4); Conspiracy ⚡ 48.2(2)

In prosecution under indictment filed on October 25, 1954 charging conspiracy to defraud the United States by operation of a tax fixing ring whereby conspirators in 1948 and 1949 had obtained "no prosecution" rulings from Bureau of Internal Revenue, it was incumbent on judge to charge that in order to convict the jury would have to find that central aim of conspiracy was to immunize the taxpayers from tax prosecution, that such objective continued in being through 1951 within three years prior to the indictment and that overt acts of concealment proved at trial were at least partly calculated to further such aim. Grunewald v. U.S., U.S.N.Y.1957, 77 S.Ct. 963, 353 U.S. 391, 1 L.Ed.2d 931. Criminal Law ⤵ 772(4)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

District court's charge adequately instructed jury of possibility of variance between indictment that charged defendants with single conspiracy to avoid payment of gasoline excise taxes and evidence that may have disclosed multiple conspiracies; jury was instructed that it was factual issue whether there was one conspiracy or more than one conspiracy, and jury was instructed to acquit any defendant if he was member of separate conspiracy other than that charged in indictment and if he was not a member of the charged conspiracy. U.S. v. Aracri, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1992, 968 F.2d 1512. Conspiracy ⤵ 48.2(2)

In joint trial of uncle and nephew on charge of conspiring to defraud the United States by impeding the Internal Revenue Service in collecting income taxes, uncle could not have been prejudiced by the introduction of nephew's preconspiracy financial statement, which purported to list nephew's outstanding obligations yet made no mention of a loan from uncle, since the jury was repeatedly instructed that statements of any conspirator made before the existence of the conspiracy may only be considered as evidence against the person making it. U. S. v. Diez, C.A.5 (Fla.) 1975, 515 F.2d 892, rehearing denied 521 F.2d 815, certiorari denied 96 S.Ct. 780, 423 U.S. 1052, 46 L.Ed.2d 641. Criminal Law ⤵ 1169.5(2)

Instructions, tendered in prosecution for engaging as copartners in wagering syndicate and conspiring to evade excise tax on wagers, tendered on theory that acts of concealment were for purpose of concealing prior criminal acts, were not warranted by evidence and were properly refused. U.S. v. Shaffer, C.A.7 (Ind.) 1961, 291 F.2d 689, certiorari denied 82 S.Ct. 192, 368 U.S. 915, 7 L.Ed.2d 130, rehearing denied 82 S.Ct. 392, 368 U.S. 962, 7 L.Ed.2d 393, certiorari denied 82 S.Ct. 193, 368 U.S. 914, 7 L.Ed.2d 130. Internal Revenue ⤵ 5317

Lesser included offense instructions were properly refused, in prosecution for engaging as copartners in accepting wagers and conspiring to willfully evade and defeat large part of excise tax on wagers, where it was possible to commit greater offense without committing lesser offense of evasion of occupation tax on wagering. U.S. v. Shaffer, C.A.7 (Ind.) 1961, 291 F.2d 689, certiorari denied 82 S.Ct. 192, 368 U.S. 915, 7 L.Ed.2d 130, rehearing denied 82 S.Ct. 392, 368 U.S. 962, 7 L.Ed.2d 393, certiorari denied 82 S.Ct. 193, 368 U.S. 914, 7 L.Ed.2d 130. Internal Revenue ⤵ 5317

In prosecution for conspiracy to obstruct Treasury Department's collection of revenue, refusal of court to make specific acts of concealment basis of government's case and to instruct jury that prosecution was limited to certain theories was not improper where defendants advanced conflicting theories as to purposes of transaction and defense and not prosecution had command of evidence as to real purpose of transactions. U.S. v. Klein, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1957, 247 F.2d 908, certiorari denied 78 S.Ct. 365, 355 U.S. 924, 2 L.Ed.2d 354. Conspiracy ⤵ 48.2(2)

In prosecution for conspiracy to obstruct Treasury Department in collection of revenue, wherein defendants gave conflicting versions of purpose of certain transaction, instruction that government must have proof beyond a reasonable doubt that defendant was knowingly associated in unlawful common enterprise and that he participated in it willfully with intent to further common purpose or design clearly directed that conviction required more than finding of separate conspiracies, and was not improper. U.S. v. Klein, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1957, 247 F.2d 908, certiorari denied 78 S.Ct. 365, 355 U.S. 924, 2 L.Ed.2d 354. Conspiracy ⤵ 48.2(2)

In prosecution for conspiracy to obstruct Treasury Department in collection of revenue, wherein versions of transaction as described by defendants were in conflict, and either version would show contribution to scheme for obstructing the government's knowledge and collection of revenue due, prosecution was entitled to alternative submission to the jury. U.S. v. Klein, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1957, 247 F.2d 908, certiorari denied 78 S.Ct. 365, 355 U.S. 924, 2 L.Ed.2d 354. Criminal Law ⤵ 770(2)

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In prosecution of corporation and its president for conspiracy to defraud Government by obstructing proper functions of Internal Revenue Bureau in ascertaining, levying, assessing and collecting taxes and penalties, instruction that an extrajudicial statement by defendant president to internal revenue officers after termination of conspiracy could be considered only against him was not error, warranting reversal of conviction, as telling jury that statement was admitted in evidence because alleged conspiracy had been established as to such defendant. Benatar v. U.S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1954, 209 F.2d 734, certiorari denied 74 S.Ct. 786, 347 U.S. 974, 98 L.Ed. 1114. Criminal Law ⚡ 1172.2

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate internal revenue laws, charge of the court was ample and fair and the refused requests were either covered substantially in the charge given or contained inaccuracies which made their refusal proper. Chastain v. U.S., C.C.A.5 (Ga.) 1943, 138 F.2d 413. Criminal Law ⚡ 829(1); Criminal Law ⚡ 830

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate internal revenue laws, wherein an impersonation of an officer by an accused was set out as one of acts done in pursuance of the conspiracy, giving of a charge that accused was charged with representing himself to be an officer and that if jury should believe that accused violated former § 77 of this title, making it a crime for a person to impersonate a federal officer, jury would be justified in finding verdict of guilty was error and required reversal even though no objection was made to the charge at time of its delivery. Walker v. U.S., C.C.A.4 (W.Va.) 1939, 104 F.2d 465. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.2(2); Criminal Law ⚡ 1038.1(7)

926. ---- Income tax, tax offenses, instructions

Defense expert's testimony that charged conduct implicated Internal Revenue Code sections regarding the tax treatment of trusts did not alone require any instructions as to those sections as part of the theory of defendant's case, since the undisputed evidence throughout the prosecution showed that the corporate entity purportedly converted to a trust never changed in its substantive nature, even after filing of dissolution notice, and remained taxable as a corporation for federal tax purposes. U.S. v. Crockett, C.A.10 (Utah) 2006, 435 F.3d 1305. Criminal Law ⚡ 772(6)

Instruction, in prosecution for conspiracy to take fraudulent deductions on corporate income tax return, did not, when considered in context, amount to instruction that verdict be either against defendant or Government, and where court repeated charge in slightly different form after objection no possibility of misunderstanding existed. U.S. v. Haskell, C.A.2 (Conn.) 1964, 327 F.2d 281, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 1351, 377 U.S. 945, 12 L.Ed.2d 307. Criminal Law ⚡ 809

In prosecution for conspiracy to evade income taxes by a corporation of which defendants were majority stockholders, instruction that disassociation from the corporation was not in itself a sufficient affirmative step to disassociate the defendant from the conspiracy was not error under the evidence. U.S. v. Keenan, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1959, 267 F.2d 118, certiorari denied 80 S.Ct. 121, 361 U.S. 863, 4 L.Ed.2d 104, rehearing denied 80 S.Ct. 254, 361 U.S. 921, 4 L.Ed.2d 189. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.2(2)

In prosecution under indictment charging defendants (1) with willfully attempting to evade part of federal taxes due from corporation by filing false corporation tax return and (2) with conspiring to willfully attempt to evade same taxes and committing certain overt acts to effect object of conspiracy, trial court's failure to read words of § 7201 of Title 26 proscribing offense charged in first count would not, in view of absence of any request so to do and in view of fact that contents of such section had been clearly before jury, require reversal of conviction under second count of indictment. Giardano v. U.S., C.A.8 (Mo.) 1958, 251 F.2d 109, certiorari denied 78 S.Ct. 1136, 356 U.S. 973, 2 L.Ed.2d 1147, rehearing denied 78 S.Ct. 1382, 357 U.S. 944, 2 L.Ed.2d 1558. Criminal Law ⚡ 824(1); Criminal Law ⚡ 1172.1(2)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Instruction, which repeated words of indictment and which charged conspiracy to commit offense against United States by willfully attempting to evade and defeat large part of income taxes due United States by third parties in violation of designated federal statutory provisions, adequately charged the conspiracy and the substantive offense. U.S. v. Gordon, C.A.3 (Pa.) 1957, 242 F.2d 122, certiorari denied 77 S.Ct. 1378, 354 U.S. 921, 1 L.Ed.2d 1436. Conspiracy ↻ 48.2(2); Internal Revenue ↻ 5317

In prosecution for evasion of income and excise taxes, and conspiracy to defraud the United States, charge that good motive is never a defense where the act done is a crime, and that if person does intentionally an act which the law denounces as a crime, motive is immaterial, except insofar as it may aid determination of Internal Revenue Laws relating erroneous. Kobey v. U.S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1953, 208 F.2d 583. Criminal Law ↻ 772(6)

Refusal to instruct that defendants, filing tax return pursuant to regulation were not guilty of criminal intent because of later regulation changing rule, was error, in view of defendants' apparent good faith in making return. Cooper v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Iowa) 1925, 9 F.2d 216. Conspiracy ↻ 48.2(2)

Refusal to instruct that corporate officers were not responsible for clerical errors on part of employees in making tax returns was error, in view of evidence. Cooper v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Iowa) 1925, 9 F.2d 216. Conspiracy ↻ 48.2(2)

927. ---- Distilled spirits, tax offenses, instructions

Giving of instruction, which suggested that where testimony of witnesses conflicted in any particular, all testimony of one had to be received and all testimony of other rejected and which related to sensitive area particularly within jury's province, required reversal of defendants' convictions of, inter alia, tax stamp violation and conspiracy. U. S. v. Holland, C.A.5 (Ga.) 1976, 526 F.2d 284, on rehearing 537 F.2d 821, rehearing denied 541 F.2d 281. Criminal Law ↻ 782(8); Criminal Law ↻ 1172.2

Instruction in prosecution for violation of the issue as to intent, was not to moonshine whiskey was not erroneous for failure to include word "willfully" where requirements of willfulness had been pointed out by court previously. Grissette v. U. S., C.A.5 (Fla.) 1963, 313 F.2d 187. Criminal Law ↻ 829(3)

In prosecution of police officials, liquor dealers and others for conspiring to violate laws of United States by importing intoxicating liquors into dry state of Oklahoma, instructions that elements of conspiracy were willful conspiring together of two or more persons to commit offenses against United States and that offense was complete if it appeared from evidence that any one of overt acts alleged in indictment was committed for purpose of effecting objects of conspiracy, were proper. Jones v. U. S., C.A.10 (Okla.) 1958, 251 F.2d 288, certiorari denied 78 S.Ct. 703, 356 U.S. 919, 2 L.Ed.2d 715. Conspiracy ↻ 48.2(2)

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate federal statutes by dealing in untaxed liquor, there was no error in refusing to give charge that failure to produce a witness creates a presumption that testimony would have been unfavorable, where persons mentioned as being available but uncalled were, if their testimony was of more than cumulative value, equally available to the prosecution and defense. Papalia v. U.S., C.A.5 (Fla.) 1957, 243 F.2d 437. Criminal Law ↻ 788

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate federal statutes by dealing in untaxed liquor, where witnesses although perhaps participants to substantive offense of illegal sale of untaxpaid liquor were in no way connected by the evidence with conspiracy, it was not erroneous to decline a charge on accomplices' testimony. Papalia v. U.S., C.A.5 (Fla.) 1957, 243 F.2d 437. Criminal Law ↻ 780(1)

In prosecution for conspiracy to sell liquor wholesale and retail at residence of third person without a wholesale or retail liquor dealer's tax stamp, instruction that third person, who had testified as a witness, might not have fully understood purport of her testimony that no arrangement between her and the defendants existed, and that jury would not be bound by testimony of third person if jury thought it at variance with other evidence in the case, was not reversibly erroneous, on ground that it unduly influenced jury's consideration of facts and circumstances. Calderon v. United States, C.A.10 (N.M.) 1952, 196 F.2d 554. Criminal Law ⚡ 1172.2

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate §§ 2803, 2833, 3253, 3321 of Title 26, by aiding in transportation of taxunpaid liquor with intent to defraud the United States, accused's request to instruct jury to disregard testimony regarding accused's commission of similar offenses 15 years before period covered by indictment, required court to charge jury to consider such testimony only upon question of guilty knowledge and intent to defraud, and court's failure to give such instruction constituted prejudicial error. Orloff v. U.S., C.C.A.6 (Mich.) 1946, 153 F.2d 292. Criminal Law ⚡ 673(5); Criminal Law ⚡ 1173.2(9)

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate internal revenue laws relating to liquors and for removing and concealing tax-unpaid liquors, a requested charge as to contention of one defendant that he had aided the purchasers of the liquor to buy and not to sell and that in such event he was not guilty of any offense, was properly denied, where evidence was sufficient to convict under the second count. Burt v. U.S., C.C.A.5 (Ala.) 1943, 139 F.2d 73, certiorari denied 64 S.Ct. 936, 321 U.S. 799, 88 L.Ed. 1087. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.2(2)

Where indictment charged defendants with violation of federal liquor laws and with conspiracy and evidence showed that certain defendants had nothing to do with offenses charged in some counts, whereas other defendants had no connection with charges described in other counts, denial of defendants' motion to instruct jury to find defendants not guilty, on ground that evidence showed a "misjoinder of offenses and defendants", was not prejudicial error where all counts charged closely related offenses based on a series of transactions constituting a preconceived system. U. S. v. Tuffanelli, C.C.A.7 (Ill.) 1942, 131 F.2d 890, certiorari denied 63 S.Ct. 769, 318 U.S. 772, 87 L.Ed. 1142. Criminal Law ⚡ 1167(2)

In prosecution for conspiracy to import alcohol without paying duties, instruction that, if accused gave use of his premises for landing or storage of alcohol, he assisted in enterprise, and that it seemed to court that it would not be violent inference to infer that he had knowledge of conspiracy, was not error, where court instructed that his comment was "in no sense controlling" on jury. Marino v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1937, 91 F.2d 691, certiorari denied 58 S.Ct. 410, 302 U.S. 764, 82 L.Ed. 593. Criminal Law ⚡ 762(3); Criminal Law ⚡ 759(1)

In prosecution for conspiring to violate federal laws with reference to possession, transportation, manufacture, and sale of tax-unpaid intoxicating liquors, giving of instruction that there was no dispute about the overt act because defendant stood there and watched them carry the liquor across the slough was not error, since if a fact in evidence clearly appears and is undisputed court may so state to jury. Johnson v. U. S., C.C.A.5 (Ala.) 1936, 84 F.2d 114, certiorari denied 57 S.Ct. 37, 299 U.S. 574, 81 L.Ed. 423. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.2(2)

In prosecution for conspiracy to import intoxicating liquor without permit and without paying customs duties, instructions that offense charged was conspiracy unlawfully to import liquor was not misleading or insufficient, although not specifically mentioning statute imposing customs duties. Moyer v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1935, 78 F.2d 624. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.2(2)

Instructions relative to purpose of agreement to cover up illegal sale of liquor were not prejudicial, in prosecution for conspiracy to defraud government. Wallenstein v. U.S., C.C.A.3 (N.J.) 1928, 25 F.2d 708, certiorari denied 49 S.Ct. 13, 278 U.S. 608, 73 L.Ed. 534. Criminal Law ⚡ 823(5)

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate the Internal Revenue Code respecting distilled spirits and for the substantive offenses, charge when construed in its entirety was sufficient as enabling the jury to fully understand the issues and the legal distinctions between aiding, abetting and conspiring. U. S. v. Kensil, E.D.Pa.1961, 195 F.Supp. 115, affirmed 295 F.2d 489, certiorari denied 82 S.Ct. 439, 368 U.S. 967, 7 L.Ed.2d 396. Criminal Law

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

☞ 822(6)

928. Travel and transportation, instructions

Instructions on charge of conspiracy to violate the laws of United States, particularly the Mann Act, section 2421 et seq. of this title, and the Travel Act, section 1952 of this title, were neither inadequate, confusing, nor erroneous where defendant could well have been found to have been a major key in transportation of women from Seattle to Anchorage with intent and purpose of having them engage in prostitution. U. S. v. Hiatt, C.A.9 (Wash.) 1975, 527 F.2d 1048. Conspiracy ☞ 48.2(2)

929. Wire communication offenses, instructions

District court's error in giving willful blindness instruction during defendant's prosecution for conspiracy to commit wire fraud and wire fraud, absent a factual predicate for the instruction, was harmless; only instance of deliberate ignorance or willful blindness concerned defendant's initial refusal to accept documents from bank officer who wanted confirmation that documents were not forged, defendant was posing as fictional government officer at time and had submitted the phony documents with fictional name, defendant told officer that signatures were hers, and nothing in defendant's actions amounted to attempt to remain ignorant of some fact bearing on criminality of endeavors. U.S. v. Alston-Graves, C.A.D.C.2006, 435 F.3d 331, 369 U.S.App.D.C. 219. Criminal Law ☞ 1172.1(3)

In prosecution for conspiring to violate the wire and travel fraud statutes, and substantive violations of those statutes, the trial court's instructions made clear to the jury that even though a conspiracy was established by the evidence admitted, the jury could not find defendant towing company president guilty as a conspirator unless his membership in the conspiracy was established by independent evidence other than the statements of coconspirators; furthermore, there was in any event overwhelming independent evidence sufficient to show the existence of a conspiracy. U. S. v. McPartlin, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1979, 595 F.2d 1321, certiorari denied 100 S.Ct. 65, 444 U.S. 833, 62 L.Ed.2d 43. Conspiracy ☞ 47(3.1)

In prosecution for unlawfully devising a scheme or artifice to defraud by the use of wire, radio or television, instruction that after joint scheme had once been established, declarations of one conspirator could be taken as a declaration of every other member of the conspiracy, or the other member in this case, just the same as though the other member made it, was not erroneous on any theory that it opened up for jury's speculation possibility that defendant might also have been guilty of substantive crime of conspiracy. Kumpe v. U. S., C.A.5 (Tex.) 1957, 250 F.2d 125. Criminal Law ☞ 779

930. Multiple conspiracy, instructions

Broker who was charged with conspiracy to defraud insurance regulators by inflating insurance company's assets was entitled to multiple conspiracy charge where there was evidence that implicated him in alleged uncharged conspiracy to defraud insurance company by misrepresenting encumbered status of bonds that were reported on insurance company's financial statement; jury could have found that he participated in uncharged conspiracy, but was not responsible for the manner in which company reported transaction and therefore did not participate in charged conspiracy. U.S. v. Cavin, C.A.5 (La.) 1994, 39 F.3d 1299. Conspiracy ☞ 48.2(2)

If only one conspiracy has been alleged and proved, defendants are not entitled to a multiple conspiracy charge. U. S. v. Martino, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1981, 664 F.2d 860, certiorari denied 102 S.Ct. 3493, 458 U.S. 1110, 73 L.Ed.2d 1373. Conspiracy ☞ 48.2(1)

XIV. QUESTIONS FOR JURY

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

<Subdivision Index>

Generally 951
Advocating overthrow of Government 966
Banking offenses 967
Bankruptcy offenses 968
Bribery 969
Conspirators, credibility 962
Counterfeiting 970
Credibility 961-963
 Credibility - Generally 961
 Credibility - Conspirators 962
 Credibility - Witnesses 963
Customs offenses 971
Embezzlement 972
Entrapment 960
Existence of conspiracy 952
Expert witnesses 964
Failure of defendant to testify 965
False and fraudulent claims 973
False prosecution 974
Foreign agents, registration of 975
Furtherance of conspiracy 956
Harboring fugitives 977
Identification of defendants 957
Intent 958
Interstate commerce offenses 976
Kickbacks 978
Knowledge 959
Liquor offenses 979
Mail fraud 980

Murder 981
Narcotics offenses 982
Number of conspiracies 953
Obstruction of justice 983
Overt acts 955
Participation in conspiracy 954
Securities offenses 984
Stolen property 985
Tax offenses 986
Witnesses, credibility 963

951. Generally, questions for jury

Stock options trader in prosecution for wire fraud and conspiracy arising from unauthorized options trades was not entitled to submission of issue of "apparent authority" of codefendant, options trader for financial services firm, to trade on defendant's account with broker/dealer, i.e. reasonableness of defendant's belief that broker/dealer was still customer of codefendant's firm; government's fraud theory, that defendant accepted codefendant's trades when they were profitable, and sent unprofitable trades to firm, which was unaware of them, did not depend on whether

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

broker/dealer was firm's customer. U.S. v. Callipari, C.A.1 (R.I.) 2004, 368 F.3d 22, vacated 125 S.Ct. 985, 543 U.S. 1098, 160 L.Ed.2d 998. Telecommunications ☞ 1020

Facts on which court relied to make enhancement under Sentencing Guidelines, based on conduct involving a conscious risk of serious bodily injury, after defendant was convicted of conspiring to violate federal regulations limiting number of hours operators of motor carriers may drive, and to conceal violations by falsifying records, were not required under Apprendi to be submitted to jury, and proven beyond a reasonable doubt, where no increase in maximum sentence resulted from enhancement. U.S. v. Johansson, C.A.9 (Cal.) 2001, 249 F.3d 848. Jury ☞ 24; Sentencing And Punishment ☞ 973

In order to convict a defendant of conspiracy, jury must be warranted in finding beyond a reasonable doubt that a conspiracy existed, that defendant knew of it, and that he voluntarily became part of it. U. S. v. Dominguez, C.A.4 (N.C.) 1979, 604 F.2d 304, certiorari denied 100 S.Ct. 664, 444 U.S. 1014, 62 L.Ed.2d 644.

Evidence in prosecution for conspiracy to defraud, fraudulently submitting false appraisals to federally insured savings and loan association for purpose of obtaining loans and unlawfully sharing and participating in proceeds of loans was sufficient to submit to jury the defense of good faith. U. S. v. Musgrave, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1971, 444 F.2d 755.

Sufficient evidence existed to send issue of defendant's complicity in conspiracy to present false claims to the Government to the jury. U. S. v. Tyminski, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1969, 418 F.2d 1060, certiorari denied 90 S.Ct. 1523, 397 U.S. 1075, 25 L.Ed.2d 810.

Whether telephone call made by nonconspirator to defendant charged with conspiring to steal government property was made at request of defendant was jury question. Condrey v. U. S., C.A.5 (Fla.) 1965, 351 F.2d 456.

Evidence in prosecution for conspiracy to possess goods which defendants knew were stolen from interstate shipment and for possession of goods stolen in interstate commerce and known to have been stolen presented jury questions. U. S. v. Allegretti, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1964, 340 F.2d 243, on rehearing 340 F.2d 254, certiorari denied 85 S.Ct. 1531, 381 U.S. 911, 14 L.Ed.2d 433, rehearing denied 85 S.Ct. 1800, 381 U.S. 956, 14 L.Ed.2d 728, certiorari denied 85 S.Ct. 1532, 381 U.S. 911, 14 L.Ed.2d 433, certiorari denied 88 S.Ct. 830, 390 U.S. 908, 19 L.Ed.2d 876.

In view of representations by defendants to public in making sales of trust deeds, jury was properly permitted, in prosecution for mail fraud, securities fraud and conspiracy, to find that the deeds were "notes," "evidence of indebtedness" or "investment contracts" even if, under California law, maker of trust deeds had no personal liability. Farrell v. U. S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1963, 321 F.2d 409, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 631, 375 U.S. 992, 11 L.Ed.2d 478.

Whether money withdrawn from safety deposit box and paid to defendants by owner was paid in pursuance of conspiracy on part of defendants to defraud owner by pretending that one defendant was an internal revenue agent who was collecting back taxes, or whether defendants received money as part of a scheme on part of owner to take cash from safety deposit box without knowledge of owner's wife, and whether defendants received part of money as fee for participating in scheme and part of it for safekeeping, were questions for jury under evidence. U. S. v. Poppa, C.A.7 (Ind.) 1951, 190 F.2d 112.

In prosecution for conspiracy, where there is substantial evidence to support every essential ingredient of crime charged, question is for jury. American Tobacco Co. v. U.S., C.C.A.6 (Ky.) 1944, 147 F.2d 93, certiorari granted 65 S.Ct. 864, 324 U.S. 836, 89 L.Ed. 1400, certiorari granted 65 S.Ct. 865, 324 U.S. 836, 89 L.Ed. 1400, rehearing denied 65 S.Ct. 1021, 324 U.S. 891, 89 L.Ed. 1438, affirmed 66 S.Ct. 1125, 328 U.S. 781, 90 L.Ed. 1575.

Upon the trial of a charge of conspiracy, where the prosecution depends upon inferences to be drawn from facts to prove the conspiracy, great latitude of proof must be allowed, and the jury should have before them, and are entitled to consider, every fact which has a bearing upon and a tendency to prove the ultimate fact in issue. Nee v. U S, C.C.A.3 (Pa.) 1920, 267 F. 84. See, also, U.S. v. Greene, D.C.Ga.1906, 146 F. 803, affirmed 154 F. 401, 85 C.C.A. 251, certiorari denied 28 S.Ct. 261, 207 U.S. 596, 52 L.Ed. 357; U.S. ex rel. Marcus v. Hess, D.C.Pa.1941, 41 F.Supp. 197, reversed on other grounds 127 F.2d 233, rehearing denied 63 S.Ct. 756, 318 U.S. 799, 87 L.Ed. 1163.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

On the trial of an indictment for conspiracy, letters shown to be in the handwriting of the defendant, addressed to an alleged co-conspirator and containing self-charging admissions, are admissible in evidence, although it is not proved that they were transmitted to the persons to whom they are addressed, and their interpretation and weight are matters for determination by the jury in the light of all of the evidence in the case. Chadwick v. U. S., C.C.A.6 (Ohio) 1905, 141 F. 225, 72 C.C.A. 343.

In prosecution for conspiracy, jury's duty is to determine whether evidence establishes beyond reasonable doubt that defendants did things charged in indictment in the past, regardless of what kind of people defendants are or what sort of things they would be likely to do if allowed to remain at liberty. U. S. v. Schneiderman, S.D.Cal.1952, 106 F.Supp. 906.

In prosecution for conspiracy, jury must give separate, personal consideration to each individual defendant's case and analyze what evidence shows respecting such defendant without considering any evidence admitted solely against some other defendant or defendants. U. S. v. Schneiderman, S.D.Cal.1952, 106 F.Supp. 906.

In prosecution for conspiracy, jury, finding from evidence that a defendant was member of conspiracy, may consider statements or declarations of other members thereof, including other defendants, as if made by such defendant, if made during existence of conspiracy and in furtherance of an object or purpose thereof as charged in indictment, but otherwise any admission or incriminatory statement made outside court by one defendant may not be considered as evidence against another defendant not present when statement was made. U. S. v. Schneiderman, S.D.Cal.1952, 106 F.Supp. 906.

In prosecution for conspiracy, jury may consider acts done and statements or declarations made by any person found by jury to be member of conspiracy in connection with case of any defendant found to have been member thereof, though such acts and declarations were done or made in absence and without knowledge of such defendant, if they were made and done during continuance of conspiracy and in furtherance of an object or purpose thereof. U. S. v. Schneiderman, S.D.Cal.1952, 106 F.Supp. 906.

In prosecution for conspiracy, fact that certain defendants were subordinates of another defendant was a fact to be considered with other facts in proving such defendant's guilt. U.S. v. Ryan, W.D.Mo.1938, 23 F.Supp. 513.

952. Existence of conspiracy, questions for jury

Defendants, who were arrested near rear doors of closed savings and loan association, were entitled to have question of attempt to enter the institution submitted to the jury with appropriate instructions covering whether their conduct had reached the point where an overt act directly tending to effect the commission of the substantive offense and strongly corroborative of criminal purpose had been committed; however, such test was not required to be phrased in terms of an attempt-preparation dichotomy. U. S. v. Clay, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1974, 495 F.2d 700, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 207, 419 U.S. 937, 42 L.Ed.2d 164.

In prosecution for conspiracy to utter forged United States Treasurer's checks, whether there had been an agreement reached between defendant and a group handling checks at some point prior to defendant's decision to defraud members of group was jury question. U. S. v. Brown, C.A.1 (Mass.) 1974, 495 F.2d 593, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 226, 419 U.S. 965, 42 L.Ed.2d 179.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In prosecution for conspiracy to import marihuana into United States contrary to law, knowingly and with intent to defraud United States, evidence permitted jury to conclude beyond reasonable doubt that defendants entered into common scheme to import marihuana into United States contrary to law and that overt acts proved were in furtherance of that scheme. U. S. v. Warner, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1971, 441 F.2d 821, certiorari denied 92 S.Ct. 65, 404 U.S. 829, 30 L.Ed.2d 58.

If issue of defendant's alleged guilty involvement with declarant who made statement adverse to defendant in defendant's absence is submitted to jury, it then becomes function of jury, not trial judge, to determine whether evidence was credible and convincing beyond reasonable doubt. U. S. v. Ragland, C.A.2 (Conn.) 1967, 375 F.2d 471, certiorari denied 88 S.Ct. 860, 390 U.S. 925, 19 L.Ed.2d 987.

In passing on question of existence of conspiracy, jury may consider acts of alleged conspirators, their individual or collective interest, and their relations preceding and attending culmination of conspiracy. Rizzo v. U. S., C.A.8 (Mo.) 1962, 304 F.2d 810, certiorari denied 83 S.Ct. 188, 371 U.S. 890, 9 L.Ed.2d 123.

The overt acts performed by parties to effectuate object of an illegal agreement may be considered in determining whether a "conspiracy" existed. Pastrano v. U.S., C.C.A.4 (Md.) 1942, 127 F.2d 43.

Facts and circumstances alleged to constitute conspiracy are for jury. U.S. v. Wilson, D.C.W.Va.1927, 23 F.2d 112

On trial of defendant, charged with others with conspiracy to commit an offense against the United States, the question whether the conspiracy existed was one for the jury, to be determined on all the evidence, regardless of admissions of another defendant used as witness by the government. Snitkin v. U.S., C.C.A.7 (Ind.) 1920, 265 F. 489.

The questions whether a conspiracy existed, as charged in an indictment, and whether an act was done by one or more of the defendants to effect the object of the conspiracy, are questions of fact for the jury. Marrash v. U.S., C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1909, 168 F. 225, 93 C.C.A. 511.

Existence of single conspiracy is ultimately factual question left to jury's determination. U.S. v. Law Firm of Zimmerman & Schwartz, P.C., D.Colo.1990, 738 F.Supp. 407, reversed 943 F.2d 1246.

953. Number of conspiracies, questions for jury

Whether evidence proved single conspiracy or multiple conspiracies is question of fact to be resolved by jury. U.S. v. Holt, C.A.8 (Minn.) 1992, 969 F.2d 685, rehearing denied.

Whether evidence at trial established single conspiracy or multiple conspiracies was question of fact for jury. U.S. v. Sababu, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1989, 891 F.2d 1308.

Question of whether single or multiple conspiracy exists is for jury, and in deciding issue, jury need not find that every coconspirator knew of every other coconspirator to find one conspiracy; rather it is sufficient that jury finds coconspirators were aware of general nature and scope of conspiracy and knowingly joined in overall scheme. U.S. v. Zimmerman, C.A.8 (Iowa) 1987, 832 F.2d 454.

Evidence in prosecution for conspiracy to possess and distribute large quantities of marijuana in four-year period established a single conspiracy; while operation of the conspiracy may have been casual, its membership shifting and its structure not strictly hierarchical, there was sufficient evidence to warrant treatment of the components as one general business venture and, furthermore, no request to charge or objection to the charge as given was made with respect to the single versus multiple conspiracy matter. U. S. v. McGrath, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1979, 613 F.2d 361, certiorari denied 100 S.Ct. 2946, 446 U.S. 967, 64 L.Ed.2d 827.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Whether the evidence has established multiple conspiracies rather than a single conspiracy is ordinarily a question of fact for the jury. U. S. v. Arredo-Sarmiento, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1976, 545 F.2d 785, certiorari denied 97 S.Ct. 1330, 430 U.S. 917, 51 L.Ed.2d 595, certiorari denied 97 S.Ct. 1331, 430 U.S. 917, 51 L.Ed.2d 595.

Whether a scheme is one conspiracy or several is primarily a jury question, since it is a question of fact as to the nature of the agreement. Koolish v. U. S., C.A.8 (Minn.) 1965, 340 F.2d 513, certiorari denied 85 S.Ct. 1805, 381 U.S. 951, 14 L.Ed.2d 724. See, also, U.S. v. Dardi, C.A.N.Y.1964, 330 F.2d 316, certiorari denied 85 S.Ct. 50, 51, 117, 379 U.S. 845, 869, 13 L.Ed.2d 50, 73, rehearing denied 85 S.Ct. 640, 379 U.S. 986, 13 L.Ed.2d 579; U.S. v. Wilson, 497 F.2d 602, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 655, 419 U.S. 1069, 42 L.Ed.2d 664. Conspiracy 48.1(1)

The issue of whether a conspiracy is a single overall conspiracy is usually one of fact. Hayes v. U. S., C.A.8 (Mo.) 1964, 329 F.2d 209, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 1883, 377 U.S. 980, 12 L.Ed.2d 748.

In prosecution of six defendants for conspiracy to violate federal statutes by dealing in untaxed liquor, evidence was sufficient to present jury question as to whether defendants were guilty of a single conspiracy lasting over a period of 11 months rather than three separate disconnected enterprises. Papalia v. U.S., C.A.5 (Fla.) 1957, 243 F.2d 437.

In prosecution for conspiring to violate tax laws pertaining to unlawful possession, removal, and concealment of nontax-paid whisky question whether there was any and, if so, more than one, conspiracy was for jury. Jolley v. U.S., C.A.5 (Ga.) 1956, 232 F.2d 83.

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate Emergency Price Control Act, 50 App. former § 904, by conspiring to purchase field corn at excess of ceiling price, accused's guilt was for jury whether case was viewed as involving a single general conspiracy with accused as the hub, or as involving separate conspiracies with accused involved in each. Quirk v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Iowa) 1947, 161 F.2d 138.

Whether proofs establish conspiracy alleged, or establish several conspiracies not alleged, is question of fact for jury. Lefco v. U S, C.C.A.3 (Pa.) 1934, 74 F.2d 66.

Evidence at trial was clearly sufficient to permit jury to find that defendant was part of single ongoing conspiracy, rather than multiple conspiracies, based upon his significant involvement in street gang's heroin and cocaine business, his status as important contact and intermediary for various drug sources, and his money laundering activities, demonstrating his agreement to join single ongoing conspiracy. U.S. v. Boyd, N.D.Ill.1992, 792 F.Supp. 1083.

Whether evidence establishes single or several conspiracies is question of fact for jury determination. U.S. v. Regan, S.D.N.Y.1989, 726 F.Supp. 447, affirmed in part, vacated in part on other grounds 937 F.2d 823, amended on other grounds 946 F.2d 188, certiorari denied 112 S.Ct. 2273, 504 U.S. 940, 119 L.Ed.2d 200.

Question of whether single or multiple conspiracies existed is a question of fact for the jury. U.S. v. Cole, E.D.Pa.1989, 717 F.Supp. 309.

Issue of a single conspiracy or separate conspiracies is one of fact, and if there be a common, continuing objective of the parties there is a single offense, despite existence of diverse ways and means used to accomplish it. U. S. v. American Honda Motor Co., N.D.Cal.1967, 271 F.Supp. 979.

Whether or not proof in a particular case establishes a single conspiracy charged in an indictment or establishes several conspiracies which have not been charged is a question of fact for jury. U. S. v. Boyance, E.D.Pa.1963, 215 F.Supp. 390.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

954. Participation in conspiracy, questions for jury

Jury must determine that an individual was a member of conspiracy before his out-of-court declarations may be considered as substantive evidence. U. S. v. Bright, C.A.5 (Miss.) 1980, 630 F.2d 804.

Given the existence of a conspiracy, each defendant's participation in the crime must be established by evidence which jury could conclude rules out any reasonable hypothesis of innocence. U. S. v. Butler, C.A.5 (Ga.) 1980, 611 F.2d 1066, rehearing denied 615 F.2d 685, certiorari denied 101 S.Ct. 97, 449 U.S. 830, 66 L.Ed.2d 35.

In conspiracy cases, issue whether a particular defendant culpably participated in conspiracy is question of fact to be determined by trier of fact. U. S. v. Anderson, C.A.5 (Ga.) 1978, 574 F.2d 1347.

Whether defendant was member of charged conspiracy to steal, receive, sell and dispose of aviation equipment belonging to United States, whether he knew of conspiracy and whether he intentionally performed act in furtherance of conspiracy were jury questions. Lopez v. U. S., C.A.5 (Tex.) 1969, 414 F.2d 909.

Whether one defendant participated in conspiracy to pass, utter and publish forged and altered United States postal money orders was question for trier of fact. Bradford v. U. S., C.A.5 (Miss.) 1969, 413 F.2d 467.

Evidence raised jury question as to whether a defendant continued his participation in conspiracy after he was sent to prison. U. S. v. Borelli, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1964, 336 F.2d 376, certiorari denied 85 S.Ct. 647, 379 U.S. 960, 13 L.Ed.2d 555.

Whether defendant had participated in conspiracy was for jury. U. S. v. Kelly, C.A.3 (N.J.) 1964, 329 F.2d 314. Conspiracy  48.1(1)

Whether defendants violated and conspired to violate mail fraud statute, § 1341 of this title, and violated and conspired to violate wire fraud statute, § 1343 of this title, were jury questions. U.S. v. Johnston, C.A.6 (Mich.) 1963, 318 F.2d 288.

Jury might properly consider particular meeting of persons to determine whether conspiracy was formed, and if so, who were members of it, even though particular meeting could not satisfy requirements of overt act to complete crime of conspiracy. Herman v. U.S., C.A.5 (Fla.) 1961, 289 F.2d 362, certiorari denied 82 S.Ct. 174, 368 U.S. 897, 7 L.Ed.2d 93.

In determining whether conspiracy existed, parties' overt acts may be considered with other evidence and attending circumstances, where there were such as are usually, if not necessarily, done pursuant to previous scheme and plan. U.S. v. Holt, C.C.A.7 (Ind.) 1939, 108 F.2d 365, certiorari denied 60 S.Ct. 616, 309 U.S. 672, 84 L.Ed. 1018, rehearing denied 60 S.Ct. 806, 309 U.S. 698, 84 L.Ed. 1037.

Complicity in conspiracy was for jury, and denial of motion to set aside sentence on plea of guilty not abuse of discretion. Gleckman v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Minn.) 1926, 16 F.2d 670.

In considering what a person knows and what are his purposes, jury may consider what his position is in the conspiracy and if he is an officer or employee with responsibilities, jury may infer that he has extensive opportunities for knowledge and that he has acquired extensive knowledge, and whether a particular individual does control, know or share purposes of a conspiracy is a question of fact for jury. U. S. v. Palladino, D.C.Mass.1962, 203 F.Supp. 35.

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In prosecution for criminal conspiracy, jury must determine issue of particular defendant's membership in conspiracy from evidence of such defendant's own statements or declarations and acts or conduct independently of other alleged co-conspirators' statements or declarations. U. S. v. Schneiderman, S.D.Cal.1952, 106 F.Supp. 892.

In prosecution for conspiracy, evidence of acts and statements or declarations of any persons found by jury to be members of conspiracy, if jury finds existence thereof and membership of all or any of defendants therein, may be considered in connection with case of any defendant found to be member of conspiracy as if done or made by him, though acts were done and declarations made in such defendant's absence and without his knowledge, if they were done or made during continuance of conspiracy and in furtherance of an object or purpose thereof. U. S. v. Schneiderman, S.D.Cal.1952, 106 F.Supp. 892.

Evidence that alleged conspirators acted together to accomplish something unlawful shows conspiracy, though individual conspirators did acts apart from and unknown to other conspirators in furtherance of common unlawful design. U. S. v. Schneiderman, S.D.Cal.1952, 106 F.Supp. 892.

955. Overt acts, questions for jury

It is error to submit to jury overt act as to which there is total lack of proof, but questions of whether or not proven overt act is in furtherance of conspiracy are ordinarily for jury to decide. U. S. v. Fontenot, C.A.5 (Ga.) 1973, 483 F.2d 315.

Where there was proof from which jury could find that telephone call made by nonconspirator to defendant charged with conspiring to steal government property was made at request of defendant himself and the overt act charged was sufficiently broad to comprehend carrying on of telephone conversation, submission of overt act to jury was not improper merely because telephone call had been made by nonconspirator. Condrey v. U. S., C.A.5 (Fla.) 1965, 351 F.2d 456.

Where overt acts are such as are usually, if not necessarily, done pursuant to a previous scheme and plan, proofs of such acts have a tendency to show such pre-existing conspiracy, and may be considered as evidence of the conspiracy charged, and, if the established facts and inescapable inferences are inconsistent with defendant's professions of innocence, guilt is for jury. U. S. v. Beck, C.C.A.7 (Ill.) 1941, 118 F.2d 178, certiorari denied 61 S.Ct. 1121, 313 U.S. 587, 85 L.Ed. 1542. See, also, U.S. v. Glasser, et al., C.C.A.III.1941, 116 F.2d 690, modified on other grounds 62 S.Ct. 457, 315 U.S. 60, 86 L.Ed. 680. Conspiracy ⚡ 46; Conspiracy ⚡ 48.1(1)

Where overt acts are such as are usually, if not necessarily, done pursuant to a previous scheme and plan, proofs of such acts have a tendency to show such pre-existing conspiracy, and may be considered as evidence of the conspiracy charged, and, if the established facts and inescapable inferences are inconsistent with defendant's professions of innocence, guilt is for jury. U. S. v. Beck, C.C.A.7 (Ill.) 1941, 118 F.2d 178, certiorari denied 61 S.Ct. 1121, 313 U.S. 587, 85 L.Ed. 1542.

Though conviction of conspiracy cannot be had if evidence is as consistent with innocence as with guilt, overt acts of accused may be considered with all other evidence in determining his guilt. U. S. v. Beck, C.C.A.7 (Ill.) 1941, 118 F.2d 178, certiorari denied 61 S.Ct. 1121, 313 U.S. 587, 85 L.Ed. 1542.

Whether alleged overt act is such is question of fact for jury. U.S. v. Olmstead, D.C.Wash.1925, 5 F.2d 712.

956. Furtherance of conspiracy, questions for jury

Conviction on theory that defendant was party to conspiracy and liable as principal for substantive offenses committed in furtherance of conspiracy requires submission to jury of fact issues whether substantive offense was committed in furtherance of conspiracy and as part of it. Thomas v. U. S., C.A.5 (Fla.) 1967, 398 F.2d 531.

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

957. Identification of defendants, questions for jury

Conflict as to identification of defendants as persons committing overt act in conspiracy to rob mail presented jury question. Bellande v. U.S., C.C.A.5 (La.) 1928, 25 F.2d 1, certiorari denied 48 S.Ct. 602, 277 U.S. 607, 72 L.Ed. 1012.

958. Intent, questions for jury

Whether defendant, as president of United States company directly involved in product sales which violated the American-Cuban embargo in place under the Trading with the Enemy Act (TWEA) and the Cuban Assets Control Regulations (CACRs), had willfully blinded himself to fact that such sales were occurring, such that defendant had guilty knowledge required to support his conviction of conspiring to trade with Cuba, was question for jury, given evidence of instruction from defendant to billing department that could be viewed as attempt to ensure that he never again saw direct reference to Cuba on company's books, despite intending for transactions with Cuba to continue, and that defendant either instigated or at least contributed to pervasive corporate culture in which "code" words were used to refer to Cuba and to Cuban sales. U.S. v. Brodie, C.A.3 (Pa.) 2005, 403 F.3d 123. Conspiracy ↪ 48.1(2.1)

In prosecution charging defendants with knowingly and willfully submitting false statement to government agency by falsely designating as "vessel supplies" 1,150 cases of bonded scotch whiskey on United States Customs form and with conspiring to accomplish the same, evidence, including inference that 25-man crew on 14-day voyage could not ingest 1,150 cases of scotch, was sufficient for jury on issue of specific intent of defendants, who clearly intended to manipulate and pervert Customs' functioning by means of their falsification and whose falsified forms did in fact carry a capacity to deceive. U. S. v. Lichenstein, C.A.5 (Ga.) 1980, 610 F.2d 1272, certiorari denied 100 S.Ct. 2991, 447 U.S. 907, 64 L.Ed.2d 856.

Question of intent of defendants, charged with possession of goods of value of more than $100 stolen from an interstate shipment and with conspiracy to possess goods stolen from interstate shipment, when defendants rented trucks was question for jury. U. S. v. Francisco, C.A.8 (Minn.) 1969, 410 F.2d 1283.

In prosecution for conspiracy, violation of Ex.Ord. No. 8712, March 15, 1941 and causing false statements to be made in application for export license, documents indicating that accused sought license to export goods to China with knowledge that goods were destined for Japan, made criminal intent a question for jury. Takahashi v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Wash.) 1944, 143 F.2d 118.

Conflicting evidence as to intent and purpose of conspiracy presents question of fact for jury. McDonald v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Okla.) 1925, 9 F.2d 506.

It is not necessary that there should have been received any pecuniary or other advantage, but if it should appear from the evidence that any was or might be expected, the circumstance should be considered by the jury as supplying some evidence of motive. U.S. v. Newton, S.D.Iowa 1892, 52 F. 275. See, also, U.S. v. Allen, C.C.N.Y.1868, 7 Int.Rev.Rec. 163, 24 Fed.Cas. No. 14,432.

Government could proceed with prosecution of defense contractor, for conspiracy to defraud government in connection with submission of cost data, even though contractor claimed that it lacked specific intent to defraud, as under applicable regulations many cost assessments were estimates; question of intent would require jury trial to resolve. U.S. v. Frequency Electronics, E.D.N.Y.1994, 862 F.Supp. 834. Indictment And Information ↪ 144.1(3)

Question of whether specific criminal intent necessary to conviction of conspiracy exists is for jury. U.S. v. Belisle, W.D.Wash.1951, 107 F.Supp. 283.

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In determining intent of any of defendants charged with conspiracy, jury may consider any meaning or interpretation given to, and any use made of, any exhibit in evidence by such defendant, as shown by evidence, including statements or declarations made by him as to his understanding of meaning of all or any part of language of exhibit, bearing in mind that defendant's, not jurors', understanding of meaning thereof must be considered in arriving at verdict. U. S. v. Schneiderman, S.D.Cal.1952, 106 F.Supp. 906.

Jury instructions defining elements of mail fraud and explaining consideration of actual harm to victim as evidence of intent to defraud properly explained fraudulent intent, in prosecution for mail fraud and conspiracy to commit mail fraud; financial or economic harm was not necessary to establish intent to defraud, but existence of scheme could serve as evidence of intent. U.S. v. Easton, C.A.8 (S.D.) 2002, 54 Fed.Appx. 242, 2002 WL 31814951, Unreported. Postal Service ⤴ 35(5); Postal Service ⤴ 50

959. Knowledge, questions for jury

Whether defendant, as president of United States company directly involved in product sales which violated the American-Cuban embargo in place under the Trading with the Enemy Act (TWEA) and the Cuban Assets Control Regulations (CACRs), had actual knowledge of fact that sales were occurring, of kind sufficient to satisfy knowledge requirement of conspiracy charge, was question for jury, given evidence that defendant was not mere figurehead but took active role in company's affairs, that defendant knew, before transaction was brought to his attention by auditors, of one such prohibited sale and had taken steps to conceal it, that defendant had approved the promotion of employee most directly involved in Cuban sales, and that defendant either instigated or at least contributed to pervasive corporate culture in which "code" words were used to refer to Cuba and to Cuban sales. U.S. v. Brodie, C.A.3 (Pa.) 2005, 403 F.3d 123. Conspiracy ⤴ 48.1(2.1)

In prosecution for conspiracy to transport stolen property in interstate commerce, testimony as to prices paid to certain company for telephones was admissible to show knowledge of defendants, who paid only about one-fourth of such price for stolen telephones, that they were stolen; weight of such evidence, in view of contention that such prices paid were not true prices paid because of intercorporate relationship, was for jury. U. S. v. Nicholson, C.A.5 (La.) 1976, 525 F.2d 1233, certiorari denied 96 S.Ct. 2170, 425 U.S. 972, 48 L.Ed.2d 795, certiorari denied 97 S.Ct. 105, 429 U.S. 837, 50 L.Ed.2d 103.

Instruction in prosecution for possession of stolen goods and for conspiracy, stating that if jury should find as a fact that defendant had possessed the stolen goods, either "actively" or "constructively", they might infer that defendant knew television sets were stolen, which was an essential element of the crime, did not contain plain error such as to cause a miscarriage of justice. U. S. v. Grasso, C.A.3 (N.J.) 1970, 437 F.2d 317, certiorari denied 91 S.Ct. 2236, 403 U.S. 920, 29 L.Ed.2d 698.

Whether defendant general manager of finance company, which purchased fictitious automobile accounts created by another defendant, had full knowledge of facts which caused his representations to investors in finance company that automobile paper secured their loans to be false was jury question in prosecution wherein defendants contended that single conspiracy had not been proved and that testimony as to declarations of one defendant were improperly considered by jury as binding on the other. Gradsky v. U. S., C.A.5 (Fla.) 1965, 342 F.2d 426, certiorari denied 86 S.Ct. 58, 382 U.S. 846, 15 L.Ed.2d 86.

In prosecution for conspiracy to commit an offense against the United States, substance of conspiracy being that an Army sergeant with access to groceries and other property furnished for military service at Army camp would unlawfully convey the groceries to accused and another as operators of a mercantile store, whether accused had guilty knowledge of the unlawful transactions was for jury. Smith v. U.S., C.C.A.10 (Okla.) 1944, 145 F.2d 643, certiorari denied 65 S.Ct. 563, 323 U.S. 803, 89 L.Ed. 641.

Whether accused charged with conspiracy to harbor fugitive from justice had knowledge of fact that man harbored was a fugitive was for jury. Piquett v. U.S., C.C.A.7 (Ill.) 1936, 81 F.2d 75, certiorari denied 56 S.Ct. 749, 298 U.S. 664, 80 L.Ed. 1388.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

960. Entrapment, questions for jury

In prosecution for conspiracy, obstruction of justice and bribery, where undercover agent, in guise of corrupt policeman, had initially approached coindictee on matter not involving defendant, coindictee had first suggested that undercover agent could be helpful in case involving defendant and defendant requested agent to obtain certain materials related to grand jury investigation from contact in United States Attorney's office, question of whether the defendant, who had paid money for the materials obtained by the agent, had been entrapped by the agent was for jury. U. S. v. Rosner, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1973, 485 F.2d 1213, certiorari denied 94 S.Ct. 3080, 417 U.S. 950, 41 L.Ed.2d 672.

Whether defendants charged with violating this section in soliciting and receiving kickback from architects on county hospital project under Hill-Burton Act, section 291 et seq. of Title 42, were entrapped was question for jury where impetus for conspiracy came from defendants who approached architects requesting kickback and architects thereafter reported matter to Federal Bureau of Investigation. U. S. v. Thompson, C.A.6 (Tenn.) 1966, 366 F.2d 167, certiorari denied 87 S.Ct. 512, 385 U.S. 973, 17 L.Ed.2d 436.

961. Credibility, questions for jury--Generally

In prosecution for bank robbery, placing lives of bank employees in peril, and for conspiracy, weight and credibility of evidence were for jury to determine. U. S. v. Avellino, C.A.3 (Pa.) 1954, 216 F.2d 877.

962. ---- Conspirators, credibility, questions for jury

Once trial court decides that independent evidence would support finding connecting defendant to conspiracy, it is jury's function to determine whether evidence, including coconspirators' declarations, is credible and convincing beyond reasonable doubt. U. S. v. Giese, C.A.9 (Or.) 1979, 597 F.2d 1170, certiorari denied 100 S.Ct. 480, 444 U.S. 979, 62 L.Ed.2d 405.

Credibility of coconspirator's testimony was for jury. U. S. v. Alger, C.A.7 (Ind.) 1963, 325 F.2d 502, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 1124, 376 U.S. 963, 11 L.Ed.2d 981.

In prosecution for conspiracy, credibility of accomplice was for jury notwithstanding contradiction between his testimony and previous statements, and proof of his low character. United States v. Reina, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1957, 242 F.2d 302, certiorari denied 77 S.Ct. 1294, 354 U.S. 913, 1 L.Ed.2d 1427, rehearing denied 78 S.Ct. 9, 355 U.S. 852, 2 L.Ed.2d 61.

In prosecution for bank robbery, for placing lives of bank employees in peril and for conspiracy, wherein alleged accomplice testified for state, his credibility was for jury notwithstanding contention he was untrustworthy and unworthy of belief. U. S. v. Avellino, C.A.3 (Pa.) 1954, 216 F.2d 875.

In prosecution for conspiracy to transport stolen property in interstate commerce, the credibility and weight to be given to the testimony of a codefendant who pleaded guilty to the charge were for the jury. Banning v. U.S., C.C.A.6 (Mich.) 1942, 130 F.2d 330, certiorari denied 63 S.Ct. 434, 317 U.S. 695, 87 L.Ed. 556.

Court may accept testimony of accomplice making inconsistent statements, leaving question of his credibility and weight of evidence to jury. Kuhn v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1928, 24 F.2d 910, modified on denial of rehearing 26 F.2d 463, certiorari denied 49 S.Ct. 11, 278 U.S. 605, 73 L.Ed. 533.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

963. ---- Witnesses, credibility, questions for jury

The credibility of a witness is a question for the jury. Glasser v. U.S., U.S.Ill.1942, 62 S.Ct. 457, 315 U.S. 60, 86 L.Ed. 680, rehearing denied 62 S.Ct. 629, 315 U.S. 827, 86 L.Ed. 1222, rehearing denied 62 S.Ct. 637, 315 U.S. 827, 86 L.Ed. 1222. See, also, Murray v. U.S., C.C.A.Ill.1926, 10 F.2d 409, certiorari denied 46 S.Ct. 486, 271 U.S. 673, 70 L.Ed. 1144; Fahy v. U.S., C.C.A.Ill.1926, 10 F.2d 409, certiorari denied 46 S.Ct. 486, 271 U.S. 673, 70 L.Ed. 1144; Marin v. U.S., C.C.A.Mich.1926, 10 F.2d 271; Fisher v. U.S., C.C.A.R.I.1925, 8 F.2d 978, certiorari denied 46 S.Ct. 482, 271 U.S. 666, 70 L.Ed. 1140; U.S. v. Rose, D.C.Ky.1940, 31 F.Supp. 249.

Coconspirator's testimony, which established defendants' involvement in conspiracy to defraud United States, did not defy physical evidence or the laws of nature and was not incredible as a matter of law. U. S. v. De Los Santos, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1980, 625 F.2d 62, rehearing denied 633 F.2d 582.

In prosecution for conspiring to manufacture and sell counterfeit United States currency, testimony, which was elicited in attempt to blunt impact of attack against government witness' credibility and which indicated that Government had promised to bring witness' cooperation to the attention of the sentencing judge and that witness would be prosecuted if he testified falsely, did not constitute an impermissible government voucher for the witness' credibility. U. S. v. Araujo, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1976, 539 F.2d 287, certiorari denied 97 S.Ct. 498, 429 U.S. 983, 50 L.Ed.2d 593.

Notwithstanding the alleged total unreliability of Government's witness, the jury was the proper arbiter of such witness' credibility and there was sufficient evidence to make out a prima facie case of conspiracy. U. S. v. Cravero, C.A.5 (Fla.) 1976, 530 F.2d 666.

Inconsistencies in government agent's testimony in multiple prosecution for conspiracy and possession of stolen interstate shipment of beef presented matter for jury to weigh in crediting testimony of witness, and was not ground for mistrial. U. S. v. Verdoorn, C.A.8 (Iowa) 1976, 528 F.2d 103.

Refusal, in prosecution of defendant for conspiring to pay illegal kickbacks to agent and counsel of union pension fund and of codefendant for receiving money with intent to be influenced with respect to official duties as to fund, to admit testimony of government's principal witness' alleged contact with central intelligence agency to effect that such contact would not believe witness under oath and that witness' reputation for truthfulness was bad was not reversible error where there was ample other testimony before jury to effect that witness was unworthy of belief. U.S. v. Russo, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1971, 442 F.2d 498, certiorari denied 92 S.Ct. 669, 404 U.S. 1023, 30 L.Ed.2d 673, rehearing denied 92 S.Ct. 930, 405 U.S. 949, 30 L.Ed.2d 819.

Question of credibility of witness as admitted liar was for jury, as against rejected contention that his testimony should have been eliminated in its entirety because he conceded or admitted that he was unworthy of belief, in stock conspiracy trial. U. S. v. Kelly, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1965, 349 F.2d 720, certiorari denied 86 S.Ct. 1467, 384 U.S. 947, 16 L.Ed.2d 544.

Question of credibility of witness, in prosecution for perjury, for making false statements to government agencies and for conspiracy, was for triers of fact. U. S. v. Marchisio, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1965, 344 F.2d 653.

Credibility of witnesses and weight to be accorded their testimony were peculiarly within province of trier of facts. Farrell v. U. S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1963, 321 F.2d 409, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 631, 375 U.S. 992, 11 L.Ed.2d 478.

Fact that an extremely important witness in government's case, in a conspiracy prosecution, was a convicted felon turned informer, merely reflected on his credibility which was a matter for the trier of fact, as was the question of the ability of such witness and other witnesses to have seen and heard the actions and statements to which they testified under the circumstances described by them. U. S. v. Vittoria, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1960, 284 F.2d 451.

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In prosecution of defendants for participation in a conspiracy to traffic in narcotic drugs in violation of the laws of the United States, credibility of witness who connected defendants with the illegal affair was a matter for the jury and its verdict was not subject to appellate review on ground of lack thereof, particularly, where there seemed no practical room for an inference of anything but guilt. United States v. Markman, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1952, 193 F.2d 574.

In prosecution for conspiring to violate the internal revenue laws, credibility of witness was for the jury, which had right to believe his testimony, even if the testimony was without corroboration. Thomas v. U. S., C.C.A.5 (Ala.) 1948, 168 F.2d 707.

A witness' bad reputation for truth went only to his credibility and not his competency, and truth or falsity of his testimony was to be weighed by the jury which saw and heard him. Anderson v. U.S., C.C.A.6 (Tenn.) 1941, 124 F.2d 58, certiorari granted 62 S.Ct. 941, 316 U.S. 651, 86 L.Ed. 1732, reversed on other grounds 63 S.Ct. 599, 318 U.S. 350, 87 L.Ed. 829.

Credibility of government's witnesses in prosecution for violating and conspiring to violate National Prohibition Act, former § 1 et seq. of Title 27, was for jury. McLaughlin v. U S, C.C.A.3 (Pa.) 1928, 26 F.2d 1.

In prosecution for conspiring to commit an offense against United States or to defraud United States by conspiring to have a third party make a false claim against government, credibility of witnesses was a matter for the jury. U. S. v. Strycker, E.D.Wis.1960, 182 F.Supp. 677.

964. Expert witnesses, questions for jury

The probative value of expert testimony, as dependent on the qualifications of the witness, is to be determined by the jury. U S v. Fischer, E.D.Pa.1917, 245 F. 477, affirmed 250 F. 793, 163 C.C.A. 125.

965. Failure of defendant to testify, questions for jury

Defendants' failure to testify, in prosecution for conspiracy and for unlawful possession of sugar intended for use in violation of internal revenue laws, and to explain their acquisition and possession of large quantity of sugar, could be considered by jury. U. S. v. Ragland, C.A.4 (Md.) 1962, 306 F.2d 732, certiorari denied 83 S.Ct. 504, 371 U.S. 949, 9 L.Ed.2d 498.

966. Advocating overthrow of Government, questions for jury

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate the Smith Act, § 2385 of this title, making it an offense to advocate forcible overthrow of the government, declarations of co-conspirators, in furtherance of the conspiracy and within its purview, were matters properly to be considered on the intent of any particular defendant. United States v. Flynn, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1954, 216 F.2d 354, certiorari denied 75 S.Ct. 295, 348 U.S. 909, 99 L.Ed. 713, order withheld 75 S.Ct. 285, 99 L.Ed. 1298, rehearing denied 75 S.Ct. 436, 348 U.S. 956, 99 L.Ed. 747.

In prosecution for conspiracy to organize Communist Party of United States as a group to teach and advocate overthrow of United States government by force and violence, trial judge properly took from the jury all questions regarding constitutionality of § 2385 of this title, forbidding advocating overthrow of government by force, and properly left to jury the question whether defendants' intent was to overthrow the government as speedily as circumstances would permit the overthrow to be achieved. U.S. v. Dennis, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1950, 183 F.2d 201, certiorari granted 71 S.Ct. 91, 340 U.S. 863, 95 L.Ed. 630, affirmed 71 S.Ct. 857, 341 U.S. 494, 95 L.Ed. 1137, rehearing denied 72 S.Ct. 20, 342 U.S. 842, 96 L.Ed. 636, rehearing denied 78 S.Ct. 409, 355 U.S. 936, 2 L.Ed.2d 419.

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate Smith Act, § 2385 of this title, by advocating and teaching, and helping to organize as Communist Party persons teaching and advocating, overthrow of Government by force, jury, in weighing testimony of former members of Communist Party, should consider whether circumstances of their membership in or leaving of party might have given rise to some hostility against Party or defendants or to some self-interest which might affect accuracy or truthfulness of their testimony. U. S. v. Schneiderman, S.D.Cal.1952, 106 F.Supp. 906.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate Smith Act, § 2385 of this title, by advocating and teaching and helping to organize as Communist Party persons teaching and advocating overthrow of government by force, jury may consider any meaning or interpretation given to, and any use made of, an exhibit in evidence by such Party, as shown by evidence, in determining nature, character, aims and objectives of Party, that is, whether it was a society, group and assembly of persons teaching and advocating overthrow of government by force and violence, as charged in indictment, during period covered thereby. U. S. v. Schneiderman, S.D.Cal.1952, 106 F.Supp. 906.

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate Smith Act, § 2385 of this title, by wilfully advocating and teaching overthrow of government by force and wilfully helping to organize as Communist Party persons teaching and advocating such overthrow, evidence of statements or declarations and teachings of instructors in alleged Communist Party schools and declarations and acts of other alleged Communist Party members after such section became law may be considered by jury in determining whether such Party was group of persons teaching and advocating overthrow of government by force during three year limitation period before finding of indictment. U. S. v. Schneiderman, S.D.Cal.1952, 106 F.Supp. 892.

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate Smith Act, § 2385 of this title, by advocating and teaching overthrow of government by force and helping to organize as Communist Party persons teaching and advocating such overthrow, jury may consider acts done and statements and declarations made by any persons found by jury to be members of conspiracy in connection with case of any defendant found to be member thereof as if done or made by such defendant, if done and made during continuance of conspiracy and in furtherance of an object or purpose thereof. U. S. v. Schneiderman, S.D.Cal.1952, 106 F.Supp. 892.

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate Smith Act, § 2385 of this title, by advocating and teaching and helping to organize as Communist Party persons teaching and advocating overthrow of government by force, jury may consider each book, pamphlet, paper and written or printed document introduced in evidence in its entirety for purpose of understanding, interpreting, construing and knowing the meaning of language used therein and may also consider period of history in which particular book or document was written and background, condition and other circumstance under which it was written or prepared. U. S. v. Schneiderman, S.D.Cal.1952, 106 F.Supp. 892.

967. Banking offenses, questions for jury

Jury could very well have inferred that savings and loan association building was entered with intent to commit a felony, where ladder was found positioned against the building, a window had been jimmied and the front door damaged, a hole had been pounded in concrete wall around the vault, one of the defendants was found hiding in the building, and automobile was discovered suspiciously parked and disposed nearby. U. S. v. Castaldi, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1971, 453 F.2d 506, certiorari denied 92 S.Ct. 1263, 405 U.S. 992, 31 L.Ed.2d 460, certiorari denied 92 S.Ct. 1273, 405 U.S. 992, 31 L.Ed.2d 460.

Whether chairman of board of federally insured savings and loan association, his attorney and borrower caused grossly inflated appraisals of property to be submitted in order to obtain loan from association so that borrower might purchase chairman's interest in the association and whether the collateral was grossly inadequate were questions for the jury in prosecutions for conspiracy to defraud and for defrauding federally insured savings and loan association. U. S. v. Musgrave, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1971, 444 F.2d 755.

In prosecution for conspiracy in connection with embezzlement by bank officer who used bank's funds to pay no fund checks written by defendants, whether defendants intended for bank officer to embezzle bank's money, and whether they knew that he was doing so rather than using his own personal funds, were questions for jury. U. S. v. Randall, C.C.A.7 (Ind.) 1947, 164 F.2d 284, certiorari denied 68 S.Ct. 729, 333 U.S. 856, 92 L.Ed. 1136, rehearing denied 68 S.Ct. 901, 333 U.S. 878, 92 L.Ed. 1153, certiorari denied 68 S.Ct. 733, 333 U.S. 856, 92 L.Ed. 1136.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Whether president of Dallas Joint Stock Land Bank feloniously abstracted and converted to his own use money belonging to the bank, and conspired to commit such offense, was for jury. Ferguson v. U.S., C.C.A.5 (Tex.) 1941, 119 F.2d 582, certiorari denied 62 S.Ct. 78, 314 U.S. 623, 86 L.Ed. 501, order withheld 62 S.Ct. 118, 314 U.S. 576, rehearing denied 62 S.Ct. 176, 314 U.S. 709, 86 L.Ed. 566.

Evidence of bank employee's guilt of conspiracy to commit grand larceny and embezzlement was for jury. McNeil v. U.S., App.D.C.1936, 85 F.2d 698, 66 App.D.C. 199.

968. Bankruptcy offenses, questions for jury

Even if purported signature of defendant charged with conspiracy to conceal assets in contemplation of bankruptcy had not been made by him, on checks, whether such checks had been endorsed by someone other than defendant with his consent or had been ratified by defendant were questions for trier of fact. Strauss v. U. S., C.A.5 (Fla.) 1966, 363 F.2d 366, certiorari denied 87 S.Ct. 602, 385 U.S. 989, 17 L.Ed.2d 450.

Evidence presented question for jury as to whether defendant was guilty of conspiring to violate Bankruptcy Act, former § 52 of Title 11, by concealing assets from trustee in bankruptcy of bankrupt corporation, by transferring assets of such corporation in contemplation of its bankruptcy and with intent to defeat § 1 et seq. of Title 11, and by concealing, mutilating, and falsifying books and records of corporation. U.S. v. Goodman, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1942, 129 F.2d 1009.

969. Bribery, questions for jury

It was for jury to decide whether tape of conversation between defendant alleged coconspirator and alleged coconspirator working in concert with government proved defendant's innocence or merely revealed that he was on his guard during the meeting and thus avoided any discussion of the bribery. U. S. v. Birnbaum, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1967, 373 F.2d 250, rehearing denied 375 F.2d 232, certiorari denied 88 S.Ct. 53, 389 U.S. 837, 19 L.Ed.2d 99.

In prosecution of individuals and congressman for conspiracy to defraud the United States through violation of former § 203 of this title, prohibiting members of Congress from receiving compensation in matters affecting the government, whether money received by congressman from individuals was received as compensation for services or for disbursement by congressman on account of individuals or their corporations was for the jury. May v. United States, C.A.D.C.1949, 175 F.2d 994, 84 U.S.App.D.C. 233, certiorari denied 70 S.Ct. 58, 338 U.S. 830, 94 L.Ed. 505, order withheld 70 S.Ct. 81, 338 U.S. 854, motion denied 70 S.Ct. 94, motion denied 70 S.Ct. 95, rehearing denied 70 S.Ct. 154, 338 U.S. 882, 94 L.Ed. 542, rehearing denied 70 S.Ct. 155, 338 U.S. 882, 94 L.Ed. 542, order withheld 70 S.Ct. 80.

Whether acceptance of bribe was part of conspiracy was for jury. Harvey v. U.S., C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1928, 23 F.2d 561.

Evidence made jury question as to conspiracy to corruptly influence persons acting for United States. Felder v. U.S., C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1925, 9 F.2d 872, certiorari denied 46 S.Ct. 348, 270 U.S. 648, 70 L.Ed. 779.

In prosecution for conspiracy to defraud the United States and to commit the offense of bribery against the United States, evidence required that the defense of entrapment be submitted to the jury. U. S. v. Klosterman,

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

E.D.Pa.1957, 147 F.Supp. 843, reversed 248 F.2d 191.

970. Counterfeiting, questions for jury

In prosecution for uttering and passing counterfeit Kingdom of Belgium bonds, with intent to defraud, and for conspiring to negotiate similar bonds, question whether defendant had knowledge that bonds were counterfeit was for jury. U.S. v. Kaye, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1958, 251 F.2d 87, certiorari denied 78 S.Ct. 702, 356 U.S. 919, 2 L.Ed.2d 714.

Question whether defendant was guilty of conspiracy to pass counterfeit money was for jury. Marson v. U.S., C.A.6 (Mich.) 1953, 203 F.2d 904.

In prosecution for counterfeiting and for conspiracy, whether plates and prints were like genuine plates and prints of United States obligations were questions for jury. Litkofsky v. U.S., C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1925, 9 F.2d 877.

971. Customs offenses, questions for jury

In prosecution of customs inspectors for conspiracy to defraud United States of free and incorrupt operation of customs service, question of whether one of the defendants had withdrawn from conspiracy at time of his transfer from docks to airport was properly for jury. U.S. v. Lev, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1960, 276 F.2d 605, certiorari denied 80 S.Ct. 1248, 363 U.S. 812, 4 L.Ed.2d 1153.

In prosecution for violating §§ 483 and 1593 of Title 19, and for conspiring to violate such sections, where photostatic copies of defendant bank statements showing $15,000 withdrawal was admitted to corroborate testimony of witness that he had received $15,000 from defendant, defendant's failure to explain or to recollect the withdrawal was a circumstance which jury might properly consider in weighing defendant's guilt. U.S. v. Kushner, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1943, 135 F.2d 668, certiorari denied 63 S.Ct. 1449, 320 U.S. 212, 87 L.Ed. 1850, rehearing denied 64 S.Ct. 32, 320 U.S. 808, 88 L.Ed. 488.

Evidence made questions for jury as to whether United States was defrauded of customs duties in connection with imported coal as result of conspiracy between defendants. Smith v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1916, 231 F. 25, 145 C.C.A. 213, certiorari denied 37 S.Ct. 19, 242 U.S. 636, 61 L.Ed. 539.

972. Embezzlement, questions for jury

In prosecution of union officials for conspiracy to embezzle union funds, whether a single overall conspiracy had occurred was for jury. Hayes v. U. S., C.A.8 (Mo.) 1964, 329 F.2d 209, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 1883, 377 U.S. 980, 12 L.Ed.2d 748.

In prosecution of union officials for conspiracy to embezzle union funds, whether funds were actually converted by official under guise of expense money was for jury. U.S. v. Speed, D.C.D.C.1948, 78 F.Supp. 366.

In prosecution of union officials for conspiracy to embezzle funds, where official had signed two union checks which were misapplied by another, whether official had signed the checks in blank without knowing that they would be used for an improper purpose was for the jury. U.S. v. Speed, D.C.D.C.1948, 78 F.Supp. 366.

973. False and fraudulent claims, questions for jury

In prosecution for conspiring to deliver underweight bags of cement to government project and to defraud the United States by obtaining payment of false and fraudulent claims, testimony that any loss sustained was made good by subsequent deliveries was for jury on question of lack of mens rea. Mininsohn v. U.S., C.C.A.3 (N.J.)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

1939, 101 F.2d 477.

In prosecution for submitting false claims to United States Treasury Department and conspiring to do so in connection with contracts for supplying equipment for projects of Works Progress Administration, whether one of defendants, who was an old man, although president of one of companies to which contracts were awarded, knew that vouchers and certificates signed by him were false was for jury. U.S. v. Breen, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1938, 96 F.2d 782, certiorari denied 58 S.Ct. 1061, 304 U.S. 585, 82 L.Ed. 1546.

Where there was substantial evidence in support of verdict of guilty in prosecution for presenting false claims to United States Treasury Department and conspiring to do so in connection with contracts for supplying equipment for projects of Works Progress Administration, case was properly submitted to jury. U.S. v. Breen, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1938, 96 F.2d 782, certiorari denied 58 S.Ct. 1061, 304 U.S. 585, 82 L.Ed. 1546.

Whether acts occurring after allowance of claims constituted overt acts, in conspiracy to defraud United States by allowance and payment of claims, was for jury. Miller v. U.S., C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1928, 24 F.2d 353, certiorari denied 48 S.Ct. 421, 276 U.S. 638, 72 L.Ed. 421.

In prosecution against New York financing corporation whose western office operated in eight states with branch office in Yakima, and others, for conspiracy to defraud the United States by passing false documents to secure insurance under modernization of homes provisions of National Housing Act, § 1701 et seq. of Title 12, whether acts were done by governing officer of corporation or with knowledge or consent of any governing officer so as to render corporation criminally liable was for jury. U.S. v. Thomas, E.D.Wash.1943, 52 F.Supp. 571.

974. False prosecution, questions for jury

In prosecution for conspiracy to institute false prosecution against government witness, defendant's good faith in making charge was for jury. Harper v. U. S., C.C.A.8 (Ark.) 1928, 27 F.2d 77.

975. Foreign agents, registration of, questions for jury

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate the Foreign Agents Registration Act, § 612 of Title 22, where defendants contended that a film showed to court and jury was not the same as original film, but there was testimony on behalf of Government that the film was the same as had been shown at meetings of corporate defendant, the problem was properly left to the jury. U.S. v. German-American Vocational League, C.C.A.3 (N.J.) 1946, 153 F.2d 860, certiorari denied 66 S.Ct. 976, 328 U.S. 833, 90 L.Ed. 1608, certiorari denied 66 S.Ct. 976, 328 U.S. 833, 90 L.Ed. 1609, certiorari denied 66 S.Ct. 977, 328 U.S. 833, 90 L.Ed. 1609, certiorari denied 66 S.Ct. 977, 328 U.S. 834, 90 L.Ed. 1609, certiorari denied 66 S.Ct. 977, 328 U.S. 834, 90 L.Ed. 1610, certiorari denied 66 S.Ct. 978, 328 U.S. 834, 90 L.Ed. 1610.

976. Interstate commerce offenses, questions for jury

Whether employees of interstate carrier had conspired to exact more than regular tariff charges for accommodations, and whether an employee had exacted more than regular tariff charges and pocketed the difference, were for jury. Howitt v. U.S., C.C.A.5 (Fla.) 1945, 150 F.2d 82, certiorari granted 66 S.Ct. 92, 326 U.S. 706, 90 L.Ed. 417, affirmed 66 S.Ct. 923, 328 U.S. 189, 90 L.Ed. 1162.

977. Harboring fugitives, questions for jury

Whether proof of agreement to alter man's facial features and finger lines, purpose thereof not being disclosed by evidence, sustained charge of conspiracy to harbor man for purpose of preventing his arrest under federal warrant was for jury. Piquett v. U.S., C.C.A.7 (Ill.) 1936, 81 F.2d 75, certiorari denied 56 S.Ct. 749, 298 U.S. 664, 80 L.Ed. 1388.

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

978. Kickbacks, questions for jury

Whether kickback received by defendants who were members of county council was in return for obtaining locally financed school contract or obtaining contract for hospital project under Hill-Burton Act, section 291 et seq. of Title 42, was question for jury in prosecution for violation of general conspiracy statute arising out of alleged kickback on hospital project. U. S. v. Thompson, C.A.6 (Tenn.) 1966, 366 F.2d 167, certiorari denied 87 S.Ct. 512, 385 U.S. 973, 17 L.Ed.2d 436.

979. Liquor offenses, questions for jury

Submission of question whether there was a single moonshine conspiracy embracing all four stills was proper, despite contention that proof showed two separate conspiracies, where there were several distinct threads running through actions of parties in connection with all stills. Green v. U. S., C.A.5 (Fla.) 1964, 332 F.2d 788, certiorari denied 85 S.Ct. 446, 379 U.S. 949, 13 L.Ed.2d 546. Conspiracy ↪ 48.2(2)

Whether defendant was guilty of conspiring to violate internal revenue laws in regard to alcohol, of carrying on business of distiller without having given bond, of possession of unregistered still and of making and fermenting mash fit for distillation were jury questions. U. S. v. D'Antonio, C.A.3 (N.J.) 1963, 324 F.2d 667, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 662, 376 U.S. 909, 11 L.Ed.2d 607.

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate internal revenue laws pertaining to whiskey, evidence presented a question for the jury as to whether one of the defendants was involved in an illegal moonshining operation, even though a witness who connected such defendant with the operation by using his name, on cross-examination stated that the named person involved was not the defendant sitting in the courtroom. Tenpenny v. U.S., C.A.6 (Tenn.) 1960, 285 F.2d 213.

Evidence raised question for jury whether the defendants were guilty of conspiracy to violate statutory provisions relating to manufacture, sale, possession, transportation, and distribution of non-tax-paid whiskey. Roberson v. U.S., C.A.6 (Tenn.) 1960, 282 F.2d 648, certiorari denied 81 S.Ct. 167, 364 U.S. 879, 5 L.Ed.2d 102.

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate certain federal liquor laws, evidence, including testimony showing defendant's relations with other defendants and showing the manner in which he knew exactly how to fit into the part he was to play in receiving and paying for a load of whiskey on terms which must have been the subject of a prior agreement, was sufficient to present a question for the jury as to defendant's participation in the conspiracy. Parmenter v. U.S., C.A.5 (Fla.) 1960, 279 F.2d 151.

In prosecution for conspiracy charging defendant and several other named and divers other unnamed conspirators with conspiring among other things, to unlawfully engage in business of distilling spirituous liquors, to unlawfully possess, transport, conceal and sell distilled non-tax-paid spirits, and to carry on business of wholesale liquor dealers in spirituous liquors without paying required tax, whether one or two conspiracies existed was a question of fact. Dean v. U.S., C.A.5 (Ga.) 1958, 251 F.2d 339.

In prosecution for conspiring to operate distillery, to manufacture distilled spirits without giving bond, and to transport distilled spirits in nontax-paid containers, weight of invoices and paper which were linked to one defendant and which represented purchase of items which could be used in still and contained name of person indicted as codefendant, as evidence of one defendant's participation in conspiracy, was for jury, and failure of government to show that materials described in invoices were actually used in still went to their weight as evidence. United States v. Giallo, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1953, 206 F.2d 207, certiorari granted 74 S.Ct. 129, 346 U.S. 871,

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

98 L.Ed. 380, affirmed 74 S.Ct. 319, 346 U.S. 929, 98 L.Ed. 421.

In prosecution against corporate officers for selling liquor at wholesale in excess of ceiling prices and for conspiracy, officers' guilt was for jury. U.S. v. Hare, C.C.A.7 (Ind.) 1946, 153 F.2d 816, certiorari denied 66 S.Ct. 982, 328 U.S. 836, 90 L.Ed. 1612, certiorari denied 66 S.Ct. 983, 328 U.S. 836, 90 L.Ed. 1612.

Whether codefendants were participants in conspiracy to violate internal revenue liquor laws was for jury. Thaxton v. U.S., C.C.A.5 (Ga.) 1945, 151 F.2d 533. See, also, Hall v. U.S., C.C.A.Okl.1940, 109 F.2d 976. Conspiracy ↪ 48.2(2)

In prosecution for concealing commodities to defraud the government of the tax thereon, jury was entitled to consider close blood relationship and business dealings between defendants to determine whether defendants were in fact in a conspiracy to commit substantive offenses charged even if there had been no conspiracy count in indictment. Pinkerton v. U. S., C.C.A.5 (Ala.) 1945, 151 F.2d 499, certiorari granted 66 S.Ct. 702, 327 U.S. 772, 90 L.Ed. 1002, affirmed 66 S.Ct. 1180, 328 U.S. 640, 90 L.Ed. 1489, rehearing denied 67 S.Ct. 26, 329 U.S. 818, 91 L.Ed. 697.

Evidence of whether conspiracy to maintain unlawful distillery and related offenses included particular defendant, made a case for jury. Hall v. U.S., C.C.A.5 (Ga.) 1945, 150 F.2d 280, certiorari denied 66 S.Ct. 140, 326 U.S. 760, 90 L.Ed. 457.

Evidence that defendants voluntarily joined conspiracy to violate §§ 2803(a), 2810, 2814, 2831, 2833 and 2834 of Title 26 relating to stills and distilled liquor and actively aided in carrying it out required submission to jury of question of guilt of conspiracy to violate said sections. U S v. Mule, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1944, 141 F.2d 487.

Evidence presented question for jury as to whether defendant, who was a trooper of New York State Police, was guilty of conspiring to defraud the United States of taxes on distilled spirits, where the three principal conspirators testified that defendant was on their payroll to give them "protection". U.S. v. Quinn, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1941, 124 F.2d 378.

Whether accused were guilty of conspiracy to remove distilled spirits on which tax was not paid to place other than warehouse provided by law, or to conceal or aid in concealment of such spirits and of doing acts in pursuance of conspiracy, was for jury. Walker v. U.S., C.C.A.4 (W.Va.) 1939, 104 F.2d 465.

Whether accused were guilty of conspiracy to remove deposit or conceal spiritous liquors with intent to defraud United States of the tax, and of doing acts in pursuance of the conspiracy, was for jury. Walker v. U.S., C.C.A.4 (W.Va.) 1939, 104 F.2d 465.

Whether accused were guilty of having in their custody or possession spiritous liquors for purpose of selling the liquors without payment of tax imposed by internal revenue laws and of doing acts in pursuance of the conspiracy was for jury. Walker v. U.S., C.C.A.4 (W.Va.) 1939, 104 F.2d 465.

Sufficiency of identification of articles abandoned by fleeing defendants was for jury in trial for conspiracy to possess and transport intoxicating liquor. Rubio v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1927, 22 F.2d 766, certiorari denied 48 S.Ct. 213, 276 U.S. 619, 72 L.Ed. 734.

Evidence of conspiracy to violate National Prohibition Act, former § 1 et seq. of Title 27, was for jury as to one defendant. Green v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Wash.) 1927, 19 F.2d 850, certiorari denied 48 S.Ct. 117, 275 U.S. 557, 72 L.Ed. 424, 72 L.Ed. 729, rehearing granted 48 S.Ct. 207, 276 U.S. 609, 72 L.Ed. 729, affirmed 48 S.Ct. 564, 277 U.S. 438, 72 L.Ed. 944. See, also, Olmstead v. U.S., C.C.A.Wash.1927, 19 F.2d 842, 53 A.L.R. 1472, affirmed 48 S.Ct. 564, 277 U.S. 438, 72 L.Ed. 944.

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Evidence in prosecution of conspiracy to violate National Prohibition Act, former § 1 et seq. of Title 27, was for jury. Di Bonaventura v. U.S., C.C.A.4 (W.Va.) 1926, 15 F.2d 494. See, also, Shown v. U.S., C.C.A.Idaho, 1926, 12 F.2d 594; Marron v. U.S., C.C.A.Cal.1925, 8 F.2d 251; Crowley v. U.S., C.C.A.Cal.1925, 8 F.2d 118; Baron v. U.S., C.C.A.Ohio 1923, 286 F. 822, certiorari denied 43 S.Ct. 524, 262 U.S. 749, 67 L.Ed. 1213. Conspiracy ↪ 48.1(4)

In prosecution for conspiring to fraudulently import and bring intoxicating liquor into the United States in violation of §§ 493, 496 and 497 of Title 19, and former § 12 of Title 27, question of defendant's guilt was for the jury. Lee v. U S, C.C.A.1 (Mass.) 1926, 14 F.2d 400, certiorari granted 47 S.Ct. 336, 273 U.S. 686, 71 L.Ed. 840, reversed on other grounds 47 S.Ct. 746, 274 U.S. 559, 71 L.Ed. 1202. See, also, McDonnell v. U.S., C.C.A.Mass.1927, 19 F.2d 801.

980. Mail fraud, questions for jury

In prosecution for using and conspiring to use the mails to defraud by means of a so-called "religious movement", the court properly withdrew from the jury the truth of defendants' religious doctrines and beliefs. U.S. v. Ballard, U.S.Cal.1944, 64 S.Ct. 882, 322 U.S. 78, 88 L.Ed. 1148, on remand 152 F.2d 941.

In prosecution for using and conspiring to use the mails to defraud by means of a so-called "religious movement", where defendants consistently contended that the indictment wrongfully invaded their constitutional religious freedom and should be quashed, their acquiescence in the court's withdrawal from the jury of the truth of defendants' religious doctrines and beliefs did not preclude defendants from asserting on appeal that no part on the indictment should have been submitted to the jury. U.S. v. Ballard, U.S.Cal.1944, 64 S.Ct. 882, 322 U.S. 78, 88 L.Ed. 1148, on remand 152 F.2d 941.

Whether defendants were guilty of conspiracy in connection with transactions with applicants for loans was, on record which included evidence that defendants represented that they had practically unlimited access to loan funds and that former business had been success, although knowing that one defendant was bankrupt, for jury. U. S. v. Pichnarcik, C.A.9 (Wash.) 1970, 427 F.2d 1290.

Question of whether defendants were engaged in scheme to defraud or in legitimate but unsuccessful business venture was question of fact for jury determination in prosecution for fraud in the sale of securities, fraud in the use of the mails and for conspiracy. Wall v. U. S., C.A.10 (Utah) 1967, 384 F.2d 758.

If jury, in prosecution for using mails in attempt to defraud, and for conspiracy to commit such offense, was satisfied that a conspiracy had begun more than three years before return of indictment and had continued in its entirety thence forward and that defendants participated therein, it had right to consider everything that occurred which contributed to its genesis or proved its existence. U. S. v. Sylvanus, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1951, 192 F.2d 96, certiorari denied 72 S.Ct. 555, 342 U.S. 943, 96 L.Ed. 701.

In prosecution for using and conspiring to use the mails to defraud gullible individuals by collecting fee for enrolling them as heirs of mythical Baker estate, whether those accused acted in good faith was for the jury. U. S. v. Sprengel, C.C.A.3 (Pa.) 1939, 103 F.2d 876.

In prosecution of physicians and attorneys and "runner" for attorneys for use of mails to defraud insurance companies by filing false claims and for conspiracy, question of defendants' guilt was for jury. U S v. Weiss, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1939, 103 F.2d 348, certiorari granted 59 S.Ct. 1043, 307 U.S. 621, 83 L.Ed. 1500, reversed on other grounds 60 S.Ct. 269, 308 U.S. 321, 84 L.Ed. 298.

In prosecution for using mails in furtherance of scheme to defraud and for conspiring to use mails in furtherance of scheme to defraud by representing an imposter to be lawful heir of valuable mineral rights and by inducing others to enter into contracts respecting the mineral rights, evidence that defendant knew that the alleged heir was an imposter at time he made the representations to men from whom defendant received money was for jury. Holt v. U.S., C.C.A.10 (Okla.) 1937, 94 F.2d 90.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In prosecution of officers and directors of mortgage guaranty company for conspiracy to use mails to defraud in sale of mortgage participation certificates, question of whether disclosure of arrearages in mortgages in which certificates were sold constituted material misrepresentation on part of defendants would be required to be considered in light of conservative character of company's valuation, which might render negligible impairment of guaranty fund resulting from arrearages. U.S. v. McNamara, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1937, 91 F.2d 986.

Whether defendant had severed his connection with fraudulent scheme to defraud by use of mails before indictment was for jury. Sunderland v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Neb.) 1927, 19 F.2d 202.

Whether use of the mails to collect the check deposited in betting by the victim of a scheme to defraud by fake betting in sham turf exchanges, was not such a natural and probable consequence of the execution of the scheme that the other participants would naturally have foreseen the likelihood thereof, rendering them liable under former § 338 of this title, for acts of confederates, is a proper jury question. Shea v. U. S., C.C.A.6 (Ohio) 1918, 251 F. 440, 163 C.C.A. 458, certiorari denied 39 S.Ct. 132, 248 U.S. 581, 63 L.Ed. 431.

981. Murder, questions for jury

Evidence created jury questions whether defendant was predisposed to be part of conspiracy to commit murder for hire and was entrapped, even if government engaged in outrageous conduct after deadline for the killings had passed; defendant's father created the scheme, defendant was present during discussion of scheme and paid $250 from his own funds to undercover FBI agent shortly after meeting, that payment was requisite overt act, and nothing indicated coercion or duress against defendant. U.S. v. Pardue, C.A.8 (Ark.) 1993, 983 F.2d 835, rehearing denied, certiorari denied 113 S.Ct. 3043, 509 U.S. 925, 125 L.Ed.2d 728.

Defendant was not prejudiced by leaving for jury determination of whether government could ultimately prove that conspiracy to interfere with witnesses was single conspiracy, where objectives of conspiracy involved murder of individual witnesses or attempts to intimidate or solicit murder of individual witnesses. U.S. v. Johnson, N.D.Iowa 2002, 239 F.Supp.2d 897, reconsideration denied 270 F.Supp.2d 1060. Criminal Law ↩ 1168(1)

982. Narcotics offenses, questions for jury

Defendant and codefendant's presence together prior to drug sale, and their several dealings with unindicted coconspirator, were cumulatively sufficient to make existence of a conspiracy more likely than not, and on basis of such a finding the jury could properly consider defendant's hearsay statement that codefendant was his source, and although mere referral may have been insufficient to establish agreement, the jury might have found on basis of defendant's statement that there had been an ongoing relationship in which codefendant sold to defendant who sold to unindicted coconspirator, and thus evidence was sufficient to support conspiracy conviction. U. S. v. Dalzotto, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1979, 603 F.2d 642, certiorari denied 100 S.Ct. 530, 444 U.S. 994, 62 L.Ed.2d 425.

It was for jury in conspiracy and narcotics prosecution to determine facts and Court of Appeals could not substitute its judgment for that of jury. U.S. v. Duff, C.A.6 (Mich.) 1964, 332 F.2d 702.

Recantation by witness at first trial after trial did not make such testimony from first trial totally inadmissible at second conspiracy trial at which her unavailability was established but her extra-judicial recantation was merely impeaching material and it was for jury to decide which, if either, statement was to be believed. U. S. v. Bentvena, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1963, 319 F.2d 916, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 345, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 271, rehearing denied 90 S.Ct. 894, 397 U.S. 928, 25 L.Ed.2d 108, rehearing denied 84 S.Ct. 515, 375 U.S. 989, 11 L.Ed.2d 476, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 346, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 271, rehearing denied 84 S.Ct. 1162, 377 U.S. 913, 12 L.Ed.2d 183, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 353, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 272, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 354, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 272, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 355, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 272, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 360, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 272.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Whether defendant supplied narcotic for which narcotics agent paid co-defendant, whether defendant participated in subsequent sale to informer, whether co-defendant was only connection between defendant and ultimate purchaser and whether defendant and co-defendant were actively engaged in conspiracy to sell and facilitate transportation and concealment of narcotics were jury questions. U. S. v. Williams, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1963, 311 F.2d 721, certiorari denied 83 S.Ct. 1703, 374 U.S. 812, 10 L.Ed.2d 1035.

Whether defendant was guilty of unlawful sale of narcotics, of unlawfully receiving, concealing and facilitating transportation and concealment of narcotics after unlawful importation and of conspiracy to violate federal narcotic laws were jury questions. U. S. v. Williams, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1963, 311 F.2d 721, certiorari denied 83 S.Ct. 1703, 374 U.S. 812, 10 L.Ed.2d 1035.

In prosecution for conspiracy to acquire and transfer marihuana in violation of the law, defense of entrapment was properly submitted to the jury. Accardi v. U. S., C.A.5 (La.) 1958, 257 F.2d 168, certiorari denied 79 S.Ct. 124, 358 U.S. 883, 3 L.Ed.2d 112, certiorari denied 79 S.Ct. 226, 358 U.S. 900, 3 L.Ed.2d 150, rehearing denied 79 S.Ct. 324, 358 U.S. 938, 3 L.Ed.2d 311.

In prosecution for violation of narcotic laws and conspiracy where defendant interposed defense of entrapment based on ground that federal agents had contacted defendant for purchase of narcotics, issue of entrapment presented question of fact for jury. U. S. v. Gernie, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1958, 252 F.2d 664, certiorari denied 78 S.Ct. 1006, 356 U.S. 968, 2 L.Ed.2d 1073, rehearing denied 78 S.Ct. 1383, 357 U.S. 944, 2 L.Ed.2d 1558.

In prosecution for conspiracy to import heroin in violation of narcotic laws, §§ 173 and 174 of Title 21, it was for jury to apply law, as to which they had been correctly instructed, to facts which they should find proved. U. S. v. Morello, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1957, 250 F.2d 631.

In prosecution for illegal sale of narcotics and for conspiracy to make such a sale, question of whether defendant stood ready without persuasion to make arrangements for illegal sales of narcotics whenever the opportunity afforded, and thus was not entrapped, but was merely afforded an opportunity, was a question for the jury. United States v. Masciale, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1956, 236 F.2d 601, certiorari granted 77 S.Ct. 568, 352 U.S. 1000, 1 L.Ed.2d 545, affirmed 78 S.Ct. 827, 356 U.S. 386, 2 L.Ed.2d 859, rehearing denied 78 S.Ct. 1367, 357 U.S. 933, 2 L.Ed.2d 1375.

Whether accused was guilty of conspiracy, the object of which was alleged to be the receipt and concealment of smoking opium brought into the United States contrary to law, was for jury. Pastrano v. U.S., C.C.A.4 (Md.) 1942, 127 F.2d 43.

Guilt of conspiracy to unlawfully import narcotic drugs, to unlawfully and fraudulently conceal them with knowledge of their unlawful importation, and to violate statute taxing narcotics was for jury. Vachuda v. U.S., C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1927, 21 F.2d 409.

In prosecutions of physicians for having conspired to violate the Harrison Narcotic Act, § 2550 et seq. of Title 26, and having made sales illegally, question whether or not each defendant had conspired with a druggist, a codefendant, to dispense the drug in the guise of prescriptions to patients, but really to addicts for the gratification of their appetite, and not for their cure, was for the jury under the evidence. Melanson v. U. S., C.C.A.5 (Tex.) 1919, 256 F. 783, 168 C.C.A. 129.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Whether testimony of defendants was sufficient to establish defense of entrapment to charges of conspiracy and selling narcotics without written orders required by § 4705 of Title 26 was question for jury. U. S. v. Clarke, E.D.Pa.1963, 220 F.Supp. 905.

983. Obstruction of justice, questions for jury

Whether defendants were guilty of conspiracy to obstruct justice and suborn perjury was jury question. U. S. v. Kahn, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1966, 366 F.2d 259, certiorari denied 87 S.Ct. 321, 385 U.S. 948, 17 L.Ed.2d 226, certiorari denied 87 S.Ct. 324, 385 U.S. 948, 17 L.Ed.2d 226, rehearing denied 87 S.Ct. 502, 385 U.S. 984, 17 L.Ed.2d 445, rehearing denied 87 S.Ct. 503, 385 U.S. 984, 17 L.Ed.2d 445.

In prosecution for conspiring corruptly to obstruct justice, the defense of entrapment was for jury. U.S. v. Polakoff, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1941, 121 F.2d 333, certiorari denied 62 S.Ct. 107, 314 U.S. 626, 86 L.Ed. 503.

984. Securities offenses, questions for jury

Inability of government witness to identify defendant from photographs or at trial in prosecution for conspiracy to defraud government and SEC and for substantive violations of securities laws went to weight of testimony that person identifying himself as defendant had met with him in connection with transactions which were subject of prosecution, where jury could find from other circumstances that such person was in fact representative of principal defendant. U. S. v. Colasurdo, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1971, 453 F.2d 585, certiorari denied 92 S.Ct. 1766, 406 U.S. 917, 32 L.Ed.2d 116.

Conflict in testimony as to whether payment made by alleged coconspirators to defendant charged with conspiring to transport forged securities in interstate commerce was step in effectuating continuing conspiratorial purpose to negotiate bogus money orders or occurred after efforts to negotiate counterfeit money orders had been abandoned was for jury. Hansen v. U. S., C.A.9 (Wash.) 1963, 326 F.2d 152.

Evidence that alleged coconspirator paid defendant $200 was properly submitted as proof of overt act to effect object of conspiracy to transport forged securities in interstate commerce, where there was conflict in evidence as to whether payment was step in effectuating continuing conspiratorial purpose to negotiate bogus money orders or whether it was not related to conspiracy and occurred after efforts to negotiate money orders had been abandoned. Hansen v. U. S., C.A.9 (Wash.) 1963, 326 F.2d 152.

Whether substantial sums were actually paid to nominee of defendants for benefit of defendants charged with violating anti-fraud provisions of Securities Act, § 77q of Title 15, mail fraud statute § 1341 of this title, and this section, was jury question. Peel v. U. S., C.A.5 (Fla.) 1963, 316 F.2d 907, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 174, 375 U.S. 896, 11 L.Ed.2d 125.

Whether salesman of corporation, who participated in false representations to some of investors and, for substantial commission, caused to be invested in company substantial sums used thereafter in manner inconsistent with representations, knew nothing about stock he was selling was jury question in prosecution for violation of anti-fraud provisions of Securities Act, § 77q of Title 15, and mail fraud, and conspiracy. Peel v. U. S., C.A.5 (Fla.) 1963, 316 F.2d 907, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 174, 375 U.S. 896, 11 L.Ed.2d 125.

In prosecution for violating Securities Act, § 77q of Title 15, for using the mails to defraud and for conspiracy to effect scheme to defraud, existence of scheme to defraud was for jury. Holmes v. U. S., C.C.A.8 (Neb.) 1943, 134 F.2d 125, certiorari denied 63 S.Ct. 1434, 319 U.S. 776, 87 L.Ed. 1722.

In prosecution for violation of former § 333 of this title in a fraudulent stock-selling scheme and for conspiring so to do, whether defendant had directed another to commit perjury at a hearing conducted in connection with an investigation of a fraudulent stock jobbing operation was for the jury. U.S. v. Berman, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1938, 98 F.2d 733.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

985. Stolen property, questions for jury

In prosecution for conspiracy to transport stolen property in interstate commerce under this section, whether conspiracy existed between defendant and two others to transport stolen property in interstate commerce and whether defendant's role was the stealing of boat in Colorado, or alternately, receiving it from some undisclosed party who performed the theft and delivering it in Arizona were jury questions. U. S. v. Scurlock, C.A.9 (Ariz.) 1971, 448 F.2d 721.

Evidence in prosecution for conspiracy to receive goods stolen and moved in interstate commerce was sufficient to present questions for trier of fact as to whether original plan for theft encompassed eventual sale of goods to innocent purchaser and whether particular defendants, who received goods from person who had originally received them from thieves, had requisite knowledge of theft and interstate transportation. U. S. v. Cardillo, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1963, 316 F.2d 606, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 123, 375 U.S. 857, 11 L.Ed.2d 84, rehearing denied 84 S.Ct. 203, 375 U.S. 917, 11 L.Ed.2d 158, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 60, 375 U.S. 822, 11 L.Ed.2d 55, rehearing denied 84 S.Ct. 263, 375 U.S. 926, 11 L.Ed.2d 169.

Question whether supplier of burlap bags, used to wrap guns, had knowledge of conspiracy to receive, possess, transport, and export firearms stolen from federal government and was integral part thereof was for jury. U. S. v. Carlucci, C.A.3 (Pa.) 1961, 288 F.2d 691, certiorari denied 81 S.Ct. 1920, 366 U.S. 961, 6 L.Ed.2d 1253.

In prosecution of defendants for conspiracy to convert to their own use property of the United States Navy and for conversion of specific property, evidence presented jury question as to the guilt of the three defendants who were employees of a corporation that was leasing a United States Navy shipyard. O'Malley v. U. S., C.A.1 (Mass.) 1955, 227 F.2d 332, certiorari denied 76 S.Ct. 434, 350 U.S. 966, 100 L.Ed. 838. Conspiracy ↻ 48.1(2.1); Embezzlement ↻ 47

In prosecution for illegal possession of goods known to have been stolen while in interstate commerce, and for conspiracy to commit the substantive offense, whether goods involved were stolen in interstate commerce and whether accused had knowledge thereof were for jury. U. S. v. Danzo, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1947, 164 F.2d 200.

986. Tax offenses, questions for jury

Whether corporate taxpayer's president, who was also treasurer and general manager and who admittedly was generally responsible for tax returns, knowingly and willfully caused false and fraudulent corporate income tax return to be filed and did so with intention of defrauding government and willfully and intentionally entered into conspiracy to achieve that purpose were jury questions. Blauner v. U.S., C.A.8 (Mo.) 1961, 293 F.2d 723, certiorari denied 82 S.Ct. 368, 368 U.S. 931, 7 L.Ed.2d 193.

Whether expense accounts of president of corporation and his son, who was employee, were heavily loaded with items having nothing whatsoever to do with business of corporation and whether they knowingly and willfully evaded income tax by charging as business deductions purely personal expenses were jury questions. Blauner v. U.S., C.A.8 (Mo.) 1961, 293 F.2d 723, certiorari denied 82 S.Ct. 368, 368 U.S. 931, 7 L.Ed.2d 193.

Whether conduct of corporation's president in charging to corporation expenses having no relation to business of corporation constituted attempt to evade corporation's income taxes was jury question. Blauner v. U.S., C.A.8 (Mo.) 1961, 293 F.2d 723, certiorari denied 82 S.Ct. 368, 368 U.S. 931, 7 L.Ed.2d 193.

In prosecution for making false statements of material fact to internal revenue agents, willfully attempting to evade a substantial amount of wagering excise taxes due and owing government, and conspiring to commit offense against United States, wherein defendants relied on the "independent bookie" theory and that amounts of bets not reported constituted "lay-off" bets which defendants in good faith thought they did not have to report, questions as to willfulness, knowledge, or intent were for the jury. U.S. v. Clancy, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1960, 276 F.2d 617, certiorari granted 80 S.Ct. 1611, 363 U.S. 836, 4 L.Ed.2d 1723, reversed on other grounds 81 S.Ct. 645, 365 U.S. 312, 5 L.Ed.2d 574.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In prosecution of corporation and its president for conspiracy to defraud United States by obstructing proper functions of Internal Revenue Bureau in ascertaining, levying, assessing and collecting taxes and penalties, president's intent in signing false unemployment tax abatement claim prepared by chief accountant in Internal Revenue Collector's office is for jury to determine after considering all circumstances in evidence. Benatar v. U.S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1954, 209 F.2d 734, certiorari denied 74 S.Ct. 786, 347 U.S. 974, 98 L.Ed. 1114.

In prosecution for conspiracy and carrying on distillery business with intent to defraud United States of the tax, where evidence against defendant was wholly circumstantial, determination of effect of conflict in evidence was for jury. Carter v. U.S., C.A.5 (Ga.) 1952, 194 F.2d 748.

Whether officers and employees of corporation had knowingly and wilfully understated the corporation's net income with intent to evade a substantial portion of its taxes, and whether they had conspired to attempt to do so, were for jury. Heindel v. U.S., C.C.A.6 (Ohio) 1945, 150 F.2d 493.

Evidence in prosecution for conspiracy to defraud United States created jury question as to tacit or explicit agreement to obstruct and impede lawful functions of Internal Revenue Service (IRS) by failing to report large amounts of personal income generated by illegal gambling business; tax returns did not indicate gambling revenues; some defendants failed to file income tax returns in some years; testimony indicated that employees were paid in cash; and safe deposit box maintained by one defendant contained over $400,000 in cash. U.S. v. Giovanelli, S.D.N.Y.1989, 747 F.Supp. 897.

Evidence presented question for jury as to whether defendant, who was charged with certain violations of the gambling tax laws, had a proprietary interest in establishment at which gambling operations were conducted. U. S. v. Sams, W.D.Pa.1963, 219 F.Supp. 164, affirmed in part, vacated in part 340 F.2d 1014, certiorari denied 85 S.Ct. 1336, 380 U.S. 974, 14 L.Ed.2d 270, on remand 241 F.Supp. 427.

XV. SENTENCE AND PUNISHMENT

<Subdivision Index>

Generally 1011Concurrent sentences 1023*Congressional intent 1012*Consecutive sentences 1024*Conviction on several counts 1019*Correction of sentence 1034*Cumulative sentences 1025*Disbarment or suspension of attorney 1032*Discharge of government employee 1033*Discretion of court 1016*Double punishment 1027*Duration or termination of conspiracy 1018*Fine 1031

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Misdemeanors 1013
Multiple defendants 1021
Multiple penalties 1020
Nolo contendere plea 1014
Place of confinement 1030
Pre-sentence investigation 1015
Retrial 1036
Second offenders 1028
Selection of statutory basis 1017
Sentence within maximum limits 1022
Separate sentences 1026

Term of imprisonment 1029
Vacation of sentence 1035

1011. Generally, sentence and punishment

In sentencing defendant for conspiracy to violate Sherman Antitrust Act and to commit fraud, district court properly applied fraud guideline, rather than bid rigging guideline; bid-rigging was merely a means to commit fraud. U.S. v. Anderson, C.A.11 (Ala.) 2003, 326 F.3d 1319, rehearing and rehearing en banc denied 71 Fed.Appx. 824, 2003 WL 21432589, certiorari denied 124 S.Ct. 178, 540 U.S. 825, 157 L.Ed.2d 46. Sentencing And Punishment ↪ 653(7)

At sentencing for conspiracy and possessing and concealing counterfeit obligations of the United States, enhancement, on basis that part of offense was committed outside the U.S., was warranted even though Congressional directive establishing enhancement had referred to a different statute than that under which defendant was convicted; Sentencing Commission properly exercised its legislative judgment in applying enhancement to convictions under other statutes. U.S. v. Hernandez, C.A.7 (Ill.) 2003, 325 F.3d 811. Sentencing And Punishment ↪ 684

Defendants charged with conspiring to convert moneys of United States to their own use and conversion of said moneys to their own use in connection with misrepresentations and irregularities which occurred with Farmers Home Administration loans which one defendant borrowed and which second defendant, as county supervisor of FmHA, authorized and monitored were not entitled to leniency despite assertion that the United States Attorney's Office prosecuted them for actions which Department of Agriculture had instructed would simply constitute disciplinary violation. U.S. v. Barnes, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1985, 761 F.2d 1026. Criminal Law ↪ 36.6

In imposing sentences on those convicted of violations of narcotic laws and of conspiracies to violate narcotic laws, court, within limits of its discretion, should exercise meticulous care to impose consistent sentences commensurate with extent of participation by conspirators. U. S. v. Somohano, D.C.Conn.1961, 193 F.Supp. 201.

In prosecution for conspiracy to advocate the overthrow or destruction of the government by force or violence, duty of imposing sentence rested exclusively upon court. U.S. v. Foster, S.D.N.Y.1949, 9 F.R.D. 367.

Downward departure from twelve- to eighteen-month guideline range to five-year probationary term was warranted for defendant, convicted of conspiring to commit bank fraud, on ground of extreme childhood abuse; defendant's history of child abuse included violent abuse as infant, frequent and brutal beatings as child, being burned, forced to eat cat food, and locked outdoors in inclement weather, defendant was induced to commit fraud by individual who deliberately engendered in defendant an interest in a personal relationship with him, taking advantage of her in manner to which her history of abuse rendered her susceptible, and probationary term to which she was sentenced, which included community service and home confinement, in combination with treatment programs, served

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

punitive, deterrent, and rehabilitative purposes. U.S. v. Brady, E.D.N.Y.2004, 2004 WL 86414, Unreported. Sentencing And Punishment ↪ 867

1012. Congressional intent, sentence and punishment

Congress intended, that punishment for conspiracy to knowingly import, receive, conceal, buy, sell or facilitate the transportation, concealment or sale of illegally imported narcotic drugs be greater than that for conspiracy to commit other offenses. U. S. v. McKenney, S.D.N.Y.1959, 181 F.Supp. 143, affirmed 281 F.2d 908, certiorari denied 81 S.Ct. 1916, 366 U.S. 960, 6 L.Ed.2d 1253, rehearing denied 82 S.Ct. 26, 368 U.S. 871, 7 L.Ed.2d 72, certiorari denied 81 S.Ct. 1929, 366 U.S. 967, 6 L.Ed.2d 1257.

1013. Misdemeanors, sentence and punishment

"Misdemeanor" limitation on punishment that can be imposed on party convicted of conspiring "to commit any offense against United States, or to defraud the United States," applies only to convictions arising under the "offense against the United States" part of statute. U.S. v. Tuohey, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1989, 867 F.2d 534. Conspiracy ↪ 51

1014. Nolo contendere plea, sentence and punishment

Federal court, after acceptance of plea of nolo contendere in prosecution for conspiracy for using mails to defraud, in violation of former §§ 88 [now this section] and 338 of this title, authorizing punishment by fine or imprisonment, had authority to impose a prison sentence. Hudson v. United States, U.S.Pa.1926, 47 S.Ct. 127, 272 U.S. 451, 71 L.Ed. 347.

District court had jurisdiction to impose sentence to imprisonment for one year and payment of $50 fine following entry of plea of nolo contendere to indictment charging conspiracy to violate § 1461 of this title prescribing punishment for mailing obscene or crime-inciting matter and sentence imposed did not violate Constitution or laws of the United States. U. S. v. DeGregory, E.D.Pa.1963, 220 F.Supp. 249, affirmed 341 F.2d 277, certiorari denied 86 S.Ct. 96, 382 U.S. 850, 15 L.Ed.2d 89, rehearing denied 86 S.Ct. 317, 382 U.S. 933, 15 L.Ed.2d 346.

1015. Pre-sentence investigation, sentence and punishment

Record on appeal from conviction for conspiring to counterfeit obligations of United States did not disclose presence of false or misleading information in presentence report that would constitute a violation of due process. U. S. v. Glover, C.A.4 (Va.) 1973, 475 F.2d 90.

Refusal, in prosecution for conspiracy to make, possess, pass and cause to be made, possessed and passed, certain counterfeit $20 federal reserve notes, to permit defendant to inspect presentence report was not error. U. S. v. Lloyd, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1970, 425 F.2d 711.

In prosecution for use of mails to defraud, and for conspiracy, wherein sentencing court indicated that testimony in nine-day trial about defendants, showing violations extending over seven years, was reason why he thought presentence report was unnecessary, and stated that range of sentences contemplated various degrees of guilt, no abuse of discretion in refusing pre-sentence investigation was shown. U. S. v. Tenenbaum, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1964, 327 F.2d 210, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 1165, 377 U.S. 905, 12 L.Ed.2d 177.

Federal district court in prosecution for conspiracy to commit extortion did not violate Sixth Amendment by relying on injury to victim in order to enhance sentence; defendant's statement at sentencing that he had no objections to presentence report (PSR), which contained fact of victim's injury, constituted admission to court of that fact. U.S. v. Frydman, C.A.6 (Ohio) 2005, 150 Fed.Appx. 482, 2005 WL 2470811, Unreported. Jury 34(1)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Defendant who pleaded guilty to conspiracy to defraud United States by impeding Internal Revenue Service (IRS) from collecting tax revenue was subject to enhanced sentence under applicable version of Sentencing Guidelines on grounds that substantial portion of his income was derived from offense, given uncontradicted assessment in presentence report (PSR) that defendant's legitimate businesses generated negligible income during time period of conspiracy and defendant's testimony that, during scheme, he received at least $300,000 from defrauded taxpayers and had no legitimate income. U.S. v. Cesario, C.A.7 (Ill.) 2003, 70 Fed.Appx. 356, 2003 WL 21489706, Unreported. Sentencing And Punishment 704

1016. Discretion of court, sentence and punishment

Matter of sentencing is within discretion of trial court and is not reviewable by an appellate court so long as sentence is within bounds prescribed by statute; only exception to this rule is where defendant can establish that information presented to court prior to sentencing should not have been considered. U. S. v. Sanchez-Murillo, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1979, 608 F.2d 1314. Criminal Law 1147; Criminal Law 1134(3)

1017. Selection of statutory basis, sentence and punishment

Defendant who pleaded guilty to conspiracy to engage in witness tampering/obstruction of justice was not entitled to downward departure from Sentencing Guidelines range based on duress when defendant admitted that codefendant did not directly threaten her, her family, or her property if she did not assist in obstructing murder investigation, but rather claimed perceived threat of harm based on her knowledge of codefendant's criminal background and her witnessing codefendant committing murder under investigation. U.S. v. Cotto, C.A.2 (Conn.) 2003, 347 F.3d 441. Sentencing And Punishment 858

A simple illegal activity may be punished under two distinct and specific conspiracy statutes, or under general conspiracy statute [18 U.S.C.A. § 371] and a more specific conspiracy statute. Timberlake v. U.S., C.A.10 (Okla.) 1985, 767 F.2d 1479, certiorari denied 106 S.Ct. 882, 474 U.S. 1101, 88 L.Ed.2d 918, certiorari denied 106 S.Ct. 883, 474 U.S. 1101, 88 L.Ed.2d 918. Conspiracy 28(2)

Defendant who was sentenced under section 176a of Title 21 relating to conspiracy to import marijuana, rather than under this section was not denied the possibility of probation where trial judge observed that he would have imposed the same sentence whether the sentence was under either the general or specific conspiracy statute. U. S. v. Bates, C.A.9 (Nev.) 1970, 429 F.2d 557, certiorari denied 91 S.Ct. 61, 400 U.S. 831, 27 L.Ed.2d 61, certiorari denied 91 S.Ct. 175, 400 U.S. 916, 27 L.Ed.2d 155, rehearing denied 91 S.Ct. 452, 400 U.S. 1002, 27 L.Ed.2d 449 . Sentencing And Punishment 1845

Conviction for a general conspiracy to violate any of three combination conspiracy-substantive offense statutes, § 174 of Title 21 and §§ 4704(a) and 4705(a) of Title 26, pertaining to narcotics, ipso facto incurs penalty for conspiracy contemplated by the particular statute found violated. Brown v. U. S., C.A.D.C.1962, 299 F.2d 438, 112 U.S.App.D.C. 57, certiorari denied 82 S.Ct. 1593, 370 U.S. 946, 8 L.Ed.2d 812. Conspiracy 51

Defendant, by pleading guilty to charge of conspiracy to smuggle, waived objection that punishment should have been assessed under statute prescribing penalties for violation of quarantine laws. Murray v. U. S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1954, 217 F.2d 583. Criminal Law 273.4(1)

If accused were convicted under count of indictment alleging conspiracy under both this section and under section 1962 of this title proscribing certain conduct incident to racketeering activity, sentence could only be imposed

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

under statute providing least severe punishment. U. S. v. Amato, S.D.N.Y.1973, 367 F.Supp. 547.

1018. Duration or termination of conspiracy, sentence and punishment

Defendants' resignation from savings and loan association in November 1988 did not terminate conspiracy to obtain money from the association by false or fraudulent pretenses, and sentencing under guidelines as amended in November 1989 and November 1990 was proper where defendants continued their participation and ownership in joint ventures, corporations, partnership and property which was obtained with money illegally defrauded from the association. U.S. v. Burger, D.Kan.1991, 770 F.Supp. 598, affirmed 968 F.2d 21, certiorari denied 113 S.Ct. 1382, 507 U.S. 959, 122 L.Ed.2d 758, on remand.

1019. Conviction on several counts, sentence and punishment

The fact that some of overt acts charged in conspiracy count were the same acts charged as offenses in substantive counts, and that each of substantive offenses found was committed pursuant to the conspiracy, did not result in a merger of the substantive counts in the conspiracy count and require that only a single sentence not exceeding the maximum two year penalty provided by former § 88 of this title [now this section] be imposed. Pinkerton v. U. S., U.S.Ala.1946, 66 S.Ct. 1180, 328 U.S. 640, 90 L.Ed. 1489, rehearing denied 67 S.Ct. 26, 329 U.S. 818, 91 L.Ed. 697.

A conviction upon several counts of indictment, each charging conspiracy to violate a different provision of the internal revenue liquor laws, did not sustain a sentence of more than two years' imprisonment, the maximum penalty for a single violation of former § 88 of this title [now this section] where jury's verdict was supported by evidence of but a single conspiracy, and for such a violation only the single penalty prescribed by said former section could have been imposed. Braverman v. U.S., U.S.Mich.1942, 63 S.Ct. 99, 317 U.S. 49, 87 L.Ed. 23.

Felony punishment for conspiracy to defraud United States was not improper, notwithstanding facts that defendant's additional conviction for aiding and abetting a willful failure to file a currency transaction report was stipulated to be a misdemeanor, and conspiracy to defraud statute provided for punishment as misdemeanor if underlying offense was misdemeanor, where conspiracy to defraud count was based on facts which were not limited to failure to file report on $200,000 currency transaction, but also included separate and distinct activities showing defendant's specific intent to aid and abet conspiracy to defraud Internal Revenue Service. U.S. v. Segal, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1988, 852 F.2d 1152.

Convictions on four counts of wire fraud, one count of transportation of proceeds of fraud in interstate commerce and one count of conspiracy in connection with illegal kickback scheme were supported by sufficient evidence, which showed that defendant was intimately involved in setting up various offshore accounts through which defendants channelled money which company paid for shipping, and jury could reasonably infer that defendant set up those accounts because he had foreknowledge that his employer, a freight forwarder, would get bid for shipping housing to Saudi Arabia, and that that venture would generate excessive profits. U.S. v. Lemire, C.A.D.C.1983, 720 F.2d 1327, 232 U.S.App.D.C. 100, certiorari denied 104 S.Ct. 2678, 467 U.S. 1226, 81 L.Ed.2d 874.

Sentences of imprisonment for 53 years, fines of $270,000 and special parole terms of six years; of imprisonment for 64 years, fines of $325,000 and special parole terms totalling eight years; and of imprisonment for 33 years, fines of $100,000, and special parole terms totalling four years imposed upon defendants who were convicted of conspiracy, Racketeer Influenced and Corrupt Organizations Act [sections 1961-1968 of this title] violations, violating the Travel Act [section 1952 of this title], and violating the drug laws with respect to large marijuana importing operation were not excessive. U. S. v. Phillips, C.A.5 (Fla.) 1981, 664 F.2d 971, certiorari denied 102 S.Ct. 2965, 457 U.S. 1136, 73 L.Ed.2d 1354, certiorari denied 103 S.Ct. 208, 459 U.S. 906, 74 L.Ed.2d 166.

As long as one general sentence was imposed, conviction on separate charges of conspiracy to interfere with commerce by threats or violence and conspiracy to transport stolen property in interstate commerce could stand even though there had, in fact, been only one conspiracy. Natarelli v. U. S., C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1975, 516 F.2d 149.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Even though defendant convicted under three federal conspiracy statutes (this section and sections 846 and 963 of Title 21) was guilty of only one crime for which only a single sentence could be imposed, submission of all three counts was not prejudicial and defendant was not entitled to new trial, but the three separate concurrent sentences would be vacated and cause remanded for sentencing upon any of the three counts the Government might select. U. S. v. Honneus, C.A.1 (Mass.) 1974, 508 F.2d 566, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 1677, 421 U.S. 948, 44 L.Ed.2d 101.

Defendant was not entitled to relief from conviction on conspiracy to make, possess, pass and cause to be made, possessed and passed, certain counterfeit $20 federal reserve notes on theory that government charged defendant with single conspiracy while evidence showed two or more conspiracies where "common end" was passing of large quantity of counterfeit bills over period of time. U. S. v. Lloyd, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1970, 425 F.2d 711.

Where count alleging conspiracy to use mails to defraud stood on different ground from multiple counts of using mails to defraud, convictions could be had for conspiracy count and substantive counts. Atkinson v. U. S., C.A.8 (Mo.) 1969, 418 F.2d 1311.

Where indictment charged petitioner with conspiracy to violate § 472 of this title, defining substantive offense of possessing and uttering counterfeit obligations, said section punishing conspiracy to counterfeit was entitled to preference in determining punishment over this section, punishing conspiracy to commit any offense, even though this section was set out in indictment. Masi v. U.S., C.A.5 (Fla.) 1955, 223 F.2d 132, certiorari denied 76 S.Ct. 208, 350 U.S. 919, 100 L.Ed. 805.

Conviction of defendant under first count charging defendant and other with procuring another to pass counterfeit currency with intent to defraud and conviction under second count charging defendant with conspiring to pass counterfeit money did not constitute double jeopardy, though second count averred, as one of the overt acts done pursuant to alleged conspiracy, the passing of the same counterfeit note specified in the first count. Bocock v. U.S., C.A.7 (Ind.) 1954, 216 F.2d 465.

Sentence of individual defendant convicted on two indictments charging conspiracy to defraud United States by delivery under contracts with Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation rejected egg powder and conspiracy to defraud United States of obtaining payment of certain false claims would not be limited to two years imposed under the first indictment on theory of merger, since the two offenses were of equal rank the theory of merger was inapplicable. U.S. v. Samuel Dunkel & Co., C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1950, 184 F.2d 894, certiorari denied 71 S.Ct. 491, 340 U.S. 930, 95 L.Ed. 671.

Sentences for conspiracy to cause stolen goods to be transported in interstate commerce under former § 418a of this title rather than former § 88 of this title [now this section] were immaterial since the offenses denounced by each section were the same, particularly where the sentences of all the defendants except one for conspiracy were concurrent with those of the substantive offense and separate overt acts on his part were proved by uncontradicted testimony. U.S. v. Tannuzzo, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1949, 174 F.2d 177, certiorari denied 70 S.Ct. 38, 338 U.S. 815, 94 L.Ed. 493, rehearing denied 70 S.Ct. 233, 338 U.S. 896, 94 L.Ed. 551.

Where evidence sustained conviction of counterfeiting, of unlawful possession of counterfeit currency, and of conspiracy to violate former §§ 262 and 265 of this title, and maximum sentence of 15 years was possible for substantive offenses and a maximum sentence of two years could have been imposed for conspiracy, a general sentence of three years was sustained. U.S. v. Karavias, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1948, 170 F.2d 968.

Defendant sentenced both for conspiracy to commit crime and for the substantive offense was not entitled to have sentence on conspiracy count vacated on ground that it was unfair to prosecute him on both counts, since matter of whether a defendant should be charged for both a substantive offense and a conspiracy is a question for law enforcement authorities. Rutledge v. U. S., C.C.A.8 (Ark.) 1948, 168 F.2d 776.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Where court, before accepting pleas of guilty, stated that charge involved in first count was conspiracy to escape and charge involved in second count was attempt to escape, and explained punishment possible for such offenses, defendant's pleas of guilty and sentences thereon did not amount to twice pleading guilty and twice being sentenced for conspiracy, even if second count was duplicitous as embracing both charge of conspiracy and charge of attempt. Brown v. U. S., C.C.A.8 (Ark.) 1948, 167 F.2d 772.

Where separate counts alleged conspiracy to unlawfully transport women in interstate commerce for purpose of debauchery, and first count covered transportation of two women from Atlanta to Dade county Florida, on same trip, only one conspiracy was alleged for which maximum sentence was two years, and sentence of two years on each count, the sentences to run consecutively, rendered sentence on second count void. Youst v. U.S., C.C.A.5 (Fla.) 1945, 151 F.2d 666.

Where petitioner was sentenced to 15 years on each of two counts for violations of former §§ 264 and 265 of this title, relating to using plates to print government notes without authority and uttering forged government obligation, with the terms to run consecutively and for two years for violation of former § 88 of this title [now this section], relating to conspiring to commit crimes against the government, with the terms to run concurrently with the others, the sentences were proper. Spencer v. Cox, C.C.A.8 (Mo.) 1944, 140 F.2d 73, certiorari denied 64 S.Ct. 943, 322 U.S. 731, 88 L.Ed. 1566.

Sentence on each of counts for conspiracy to import liquor, and to barter, sell, and furnish liquor, was properly imposed. Olmstead v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Wash.) 1927, 19 F.2d 842, certiorari denied 48 S.Ct. 117, 275 U.S. 557, 72 L.Ed. 424, 72 L.Ed. 729, rehearing granted 48 S.Ct. 207, 276 U.S. 609, 72 L.Ed. 729, affirmed 48 S.Ct. 564, 277 U.S. 438, 72 L.Ed. 944.

In prosecution under former § 88 of this title [now this section] for conspiracy to commit an offense against the United States by having possession of and transporting intoxicating liquor, in violation of the National Prohibition Act, former § 12 of Title 27, the court was authorized in imposing the punishment prescribed for conspiracy to commit an offense against the United States, though such punishment was greater than that prescribed by the said former section for the offenses which the defendants had conspired to commit. Murry v. U. S., C.C.A.8 (Ark.) 1922, 282 F. 617.

In determining sentence for defendant convicted on two of eleven mail fraud counts and acquitted on one count of conspiracy, court would not consider acquitted conduct, especially where facts government sought to have court consider were not facts enhancing crime of conviction, but rather facts comprising different crimes, each in a different count. U.S. v. Pimental, D.Mass.2005, 367 F.Supp.2d 143. Sentencing And Punishment ↪ 782

Where defendant was found guilty on four counts charging conspiracy to violate narcotic laws and four counts of substantive violation, form of sentence imposed on defendant, claiming that only the single penalty prescribed by this section could have been imposed, was sufficient to impose a total imprisonment of 11 years on all counts, substantive and conspiratorial. Rush v. U. S., E.D.La.1964, 225 F.Supp. 843.

Where indictment charged that defendants conspired to violate §§ 4701, 4703, 4704(a), 4724(c), 4771(a) of Title 26 and §§ 173 and 174 of Title 21, and then set forth overt acts allegedly done in furtherance of the conspiracy and at the end of the list was a citation to this section, and jury returned a general verdict of "guilty" and evidence proved not only a conspiracy to violate narcotics laws but to violate § 174 of Title 21 as well, verdict was construable as guilty as charged in the indictment and defendants were validly sentenced under § 174 of Title 21 containing the more severe penalty, rather than under this section, the general conspiracy statute. U. S. v.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

McKenney, S.D.N.Y.1959, 181 F.Supp. 143, affirmed 281 F.2d 908, certiorari denied 81 S.Ct. 1916, 366 U.S. 960, 6 L.Ed.2d 1253, rehearing denied 82 S.Ct. 26, 368 U.S. 871, 7 L.Ed.2d 72, certiorari denied 81 S.Ct. 1929, 366 U.S. 967, 6 L.Ed.2d 1257.

Where defendant was charged with conspiring to violate the Harrison Act, § 4701 et seq. of Title 26, and § 7237(a) of Title 26 contains a minimum penalty of two years and the general conspiracy provision, this section, does not specify any minimum penalty, punishment for conspiring to dispense narcotics other than from the original stamped package was entitled to preference over provisions of general conspiracy statute, this section, and where jury returned a general verdict of guilty, defendant should be sentenced under § 7237(a) of Title 26. U.S. v. Shackelford, S.D.N.Y.1957, 180 F.Supp. 857.

Where indictment charged defendant with conspiring to violate the Jones-Miller Act, §§ 173 and 174 of Title 21, and the Harrison Act, § 4701 et seq. of Title 26, and the general conspiracy laws of the United States, this section, and court could not ascertain upon which statutes jury based their general verdict of guilty, and evidence supported a conviction under both Jones-Miller Act and Harrison Act, but a sentence under the former, providing a greater penalty, would be prejudicial to defendant despite his failure to object to duplicity before trial, defendant should not be sentenced under Jones-Miller Act. U.S. v. Shackelford, S.D.N.Y.1957, 180 F.Supp. 857.

Conspiracy and substantive charges are entirely separate and distinct crimes, and conviction on a substantive offense does not bar a subsequent conviction for a conspiracy and separate penalties may be imposed for each crime. U.S. v. Gelb, S.D.N.Y.1959, 175 F.Supp. 267, affirmed 269 F.2d 675, certiorari denied 80 S.Ct. 66, 361 U.S. 822, 4 L.Ed.2d 66.

Where indictment charged conspiracy to conceal goods valued at $80,000, substantive offense of concealment of such goods, a conspiracy to conceal $38,000 in cash, and substantive offense of concealing such cash, general or gross sentence of three years imprisonment was valid, since general sentence did not exceed the aggregate of punishment which could have been imposed upon the several counts. U.S. ex rel. Kutler v. Hill, M.D.Pa.1937, 21 F.Supp. 229.

Where first count of indictment charged that defendant did conspire to conceal merchandise to value of $80,000, second count charged that defendant did conceal property to value of $80,000, third count charged that defendant did agree to conceal cash to amount of $38,000 and upwards, and fourth count charged that defendant did conceal cash to amount of $38,000, four offenses were charged, as regards question whether sentence of three years' imprisonment was void. U.S. ex rel. Kutler v. Hill, M.D.Pa.1937, 21 F.Supp. 229.

When an indictment contains three counts charging defendants with conspiracy to defraud the United States and there is a verdict of guilty on all of the counts, if before judgment the law should be changed eliminating the element of fraud on which one of the counts was based, the verdict would stand and support judgment on the counts based on the elements of fraud not affected by the legislation. In re Calicott, C.C.N.Y.1868, 4 F.Cas. 1051, No. 2311.

Defendant who pled guilty to one count of conspiracy to commit bank fraud and one count of bank fraud would be sentenced to 12 months' imprisonment followed by two years' supervised release, would pay mandatory special assessment of $200, and would be required to make restitution to victim, even though defendant had zero criminal history points and criminal history category of one; offenses were grouped because they involved same harm, base offense level of six was adjusted to 16 in consideration that resulting loss was more than $200,000 but less than $350,00 and that offense involved more than minimal planning, defendant qualified for three-level reduction for acceptance of responsibility resulting in total offense level of 13, and applicable sentencing range was 12 to 18 months' imprisonment. U.S. v. Palaez, S.D.N.Y.2003, 2003 WL 2012407, Unreported. Sentencing And Punishment ¶ 725; Sentencing And Punishment ¶ 736; Sentencing And Punishment ¶ 772

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Defendant who pled guilty to one count of conspiracy to commit wire fraud and one count of wire fraud would be sentenced to 18 months' imprisonment followed by two years' supervised release, even though defendant had zero criminal history points and criminal history category of one; offenses were grouped because they involved same harm, six levels were added to base offense level of six because financial loss of $35,050 was more than $30,000 but less than $70,000, four more levels were added because offense involved misrepresentation that defendant was acting on behalf of government agency and substantial part of scheme took place outside United States, defendant qualified for three-level reduction for acceptance of responsibility, and applicable sentencing range was 12 to 18 months' imprisonment. U.S. v. Uzor, S.D.N.Y.2003, 2003 WL 2012405, Unreported. Sentencing And Punishment ☞ 689; Sentencing And Punishment ☞ 736; Sentencing And Punishment ☞ 772

1020. Multiple penalties, sentence and punishment

Multiple penalties could not be imposed for conspiracy to violate certain federal law merely by reason of corporate succession. U. S. v. Stone, C.A.8 (Mo.) 1971, 452 F.2d 42. Conspiracy ☞ 51

1021. Multiple defendants, sentence and punishment

District court's reliance on normal retail price of original copyrighted software to arrive at valuation of infringing items, for purposes of sentencing defendants for conspiracy to commit copyright infringement in connection with their involvement in group dedicated to allowing members to download unauthorized copies of copyrighted material over the internet, was not clearly erroneous, given that there was little or no evidence of value of infringing item, and that infringing item was virtual equivalent of infringed item. U.S. v. Slater, C.A.7 (Ill.) 2003, 348 F.3d 666, 69 U.S.P.Q.2d 1081. Sentencing And Punishment ☞ 736

When sentencing defendant for conspiracy to commit bank fraud, district court could rely in part on sentences received by co-defendants in deciding not to depart downward to point that defendant would receive no incarcerative term whatsoever. U.S. v. Bonner, C.A.2 (Conn.) 2002, 313 F.3d 110. Sentencing And Punishment ☞ 870

District court's error in sentencing petitioner for marijuana smuggling while sentencing petitioner's codefendants under general conspiracy provision when all three had been charged in a single count indictment for conspiracy to smuggle marijuana, did not establish any "class" from which petitioner was improperly excluded, and there was no denial of equal protection. U. S. v. Leyvas, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1971, 446 F.2d 901. Constitutional Law ☞ 250.3(1)

Accused could not complain because his confederate received a more favorable sentence than himself. U.S. v. Mann, C.C.A.7 (Ind.) 1939, 108 F.2d 354. Criminal Law ☞ 1177

Defendant who, by his own admission, had an agreement with source of false identification documents for a few months and who used that source "every now and then" to obtain documents which he sold to others would have believed that his coconspirator had the ability to produce multiple counterfeit documents but defendant could not be held accountable at sentencing for conspiracy for the entire 300 documents which the coconspirator held in his bedroom at the time of his arrest. U.S. v. Avila-Medina, N.D.Ill.1994, 844 F.Supp. 427.

1022. Sentence within maximum limits, sentence and punishment

General sentences of fine and imprisonment imposed under substantive counts were still valid after court had held on appeal that certain of the counts were barred by limitations, where each of remaining substantive counts on which jury had returned a verdict of guilty carried a maximum penalty in excess of that imposed by the general sentences. Pinkerton v. U. S., U.S.Ala.1946, 66 S.Ct. 1180, 328 U.S. 640, 90 L.Ed. 1489, rehearing denied 67 S.Ct. 26, 329 U.S. 818, 91 L.Ed. 697.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

A conspiracy to commit any offense which, by an Act of Congress, is prohibited in the interest of the public policy of the United States, although not of itself made punishable by criminal prosecution, but only by suit for a penalty, was a conspiracy to commit an "offense against the United States," within the meaning of former § 88 of this title, and, provided there was the necessary overt act or acts, was punishable under the terms of said former section. U.S. v. Hutto, U.S.Okla.1921, 41 S.Ct. 541, 256 U.S. 524, 65 L.Ed. 1073. See, also, U.S. v. Hutto, Okl.1921, 41 S.Ct. 543, 256 U.S. 530, 65 L.Ed. 1076; Biskind v. U.S., C.C.A.Ohio 1922, 281 F. 47, certiorari denied 43 S.Ct. 93, 260 U.S. 731, 67 L.Ed. 486.

District court's imposition of 14-level enhancement based on amount of loss in calculating sentence for defendant's guilty plea conviction for mail fraud and conspiracy to commit securities fraud and mail fraud did not violate defendant's rights under the Fifth or Sixth Amendments, even though indictment did not allege a specific amount of loss attributable to defendant's conduct, where those facts did not trigger mandatory minimum sentence or increase penalty beyond prescribed statutory maximum sentence. U.S.C.A. Const.Amend. 5,6; 18 U.S.C.A. §§§§ 371, U.S. v. Sheikh, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 2006, 433 F.3d 905, for additional opinion, see 161 Fed.Appx. 165, 2006 WL 41327. Criminal Law ☞ 113

District court's Sixth Amendment Booker error in sentencing defendant to enhanced sentence for bank fraud and conspiracy to commit bank fraud based on court-found facts was harmless beyond a reasonable doubt, given that defendant was sentenced to highest possible term in Sentencing Guidelines range, and that, during sentencing, district court lectured defendant on the avarice he showed in committing fraud and involving loved ones in pursuit of material possessions, which indicated that district court, given greater discretion, would not reduce sentence. U.S. v. Waldroop, C.A.10 (Okla.) 2005, 431 F.3d 736. Criminal Law ☞ 1166(1)

In prosecution, based on rebate program, for mail and wire fraud and conspiracy to commit mail and wire fraud, sentence did not violate Apprendi; sentence did not exceed total statutory maximum. U.S. v. Fredette, C.A.10 (Wyo.) 2003, 315 F.3d 1235, dismissal of habeas corpus affirmed 65 Fed.Appx. 929, 2003 WL 1795858, certiorari denied 123 S.Ct. 2100, 538 U.S. 1045, 155 L.Ed.2d 1084. Jury ☞ 34(1)

For purpose of Sentencing Guidelines provision that letter grade of offense determines permissible length of discretionary supervised release term, letter grade of offense for which governing statute carried no letter grade and for which Guidelines provided no guidance regarding classification was determined in reference to statutory maximum term of imprisonment, not in reference to applicable Guidelines range. U.S. v. Cunningham, C.A.2 (Vt.) 2002, 292 F.3d 115. Sentencing And Punishment ☞ 1946

Four years imprisonment for conspiracy, which imprisonment was longer than maximum sentence which could have been imposed on any of the six substantive charges, i.e., three years, was not improper, in that conspiracy and completed substantive offenses were separate crimes. U.S. v. Cattle King Packing Co., Inc., C.A.10 (Colo.) 1986, 793 F.2d 232, certiorari denied 107 S.Ct. 573, 479 U.S. 985, 93 L.Ed.2d 577, habeas corpus denied 928 F.2d 1133.

Whether defendant was guilty of conspiring to defraud United States by obstructing Internal Revenue Service in its efforts to collect information and reports of currency transactions larger than $1,000, or wilfully failing to file and cause failure to file of currency transaction reports in connection with currency exchanges totalling in excess of $100,000, defendant was subject to being sentenced to five years in prison, or $1,000 fine, and therefore, sentence within those bounds was not excessive. U.S. v. Sans, C.A.11 (Fla.) 1984, 731 F.2d 1521, rehearing denied 738 F.2d 451, certiorari denied 105 S.Ct. 791, 469 U.S. 1111, 83 L.Ed.2d 785. Conspiracy ☞ 51; United States ☞ 34

After defendants were convicted of conspiracy to commit mail fraud and mail fraud, sentences of 20 and 12 years respectively were not abuse of discretion in light of massive fraud with over 700 victims and losses approaching one million dollars. U. S. v. Shelton, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1982, 669 F.2d 446, certiorari denied 102 S.Ct. 1989, 456 U.S. 934, 72 L.Ed.2d 454.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Fact that defendant's sentence was more severe than that received by codefendants while indictment cast defendant and codefendants in a similar role in narcotics conspiracy did not entitle defendant to have sentence vacated where the sentence was within the statutory limits and no abuse of discretion was demonstrated. U. S. v. Cuesta, C.A.5 (Fla.) 1979, 597 F.2d 903, certiorari denied 100 S.Ct. 451, 444 U.S. 964, 62 L.Ed.2d 377, certiorari denied 100 S.Ct. 452, 444 U.S. 964, 62 L.Ed.2d 377.

Eight-year sentence imposed upon defendant convicted of securities fraud, wire fraud, mail fraud, and conspiracy was not disparate or excessive. U. S. v. Mahler, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1978, 579 F.2d 730, certiorari denied 99 S.Ct. 205, 439 U.S. 872, 58 L.Ed.2d 184, certiorari denied 99 S.Ct. 592, 439 U.S. 991, 58 L.Ed.2d 666, rehearing denied 99 S.Ct. 885, 439 U.S. 1104, 59 L.Ed.2d 66.

Court of Appeals reviewing defendant's conviction for various charges relating to unlawful copying of copyrighted sound recordings could not disturb sentence imposed upon defendant, even though such sentence was more severe than that given his coconspirator who had pleaded guilty and testified in behalf of prosecution, where sentence was well within applicable statutory limits. U. S. v. Malicoate, C.A.10 (Okla.) 1975, 531 F.2d 439, 189 U.S.P.Q. 691.

Imposition of five-year sentence on defendant upon conviction of conspiracy to transport forged securities in interstate commerce was not shown to have been penalty for exercising right to jury trial, but was warranted by evidence that defendant was principal director of actions taken. U. S. v. Thompson, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1973, 476 F.2d 1196, certiorari denied 94 S.Ct. 214, 414 U.S. 918, 38 L.Ed.2d 154.

Where maximum term of imprisonment which could be imposed under this section for conspiring to manufacture counterfeit Federal Reserve notes was five years, imposition of seven years' imprisonment was erroneous even though trial court made sentence subject to granting of parole at such time as the board of parole might determine. U. S. v. King, C.A.6 (Tenn.) 1972, 467 F.2d 478.

There was no error in sentencing defendant to serve consecutive terms for conspiracy to receive and conceal stolen postal money orders and to forge postal money orders, and for receiving and concealing stolen postal money orders, nor in sentencing defendant to serve longer terms than his codefendants. U. S. v. Singletary, C.A.5 (Fla.) 1971, 441 F.2d 333.

In view of this section providing that if crime, furtherance of which is object of conspiracy, is only a misdemeanor, maximum punishment on conviction of conspiracy may not exceed maximum punishment provided for substantive offense, two-year sentences on conspiracy count charging conspiracy to violate federal wagering tax laws were illegal, though defendants were convicted on more than one substantive count under Title 26, where substantive offenses were misdemeanors only, and maximum sentence which could have been imposed on conviction of any substantive offense was one year imprisonment, and sentences were to run concurrently. U. S. v. Magliano, C.A.4 (Md.) 1964, 336 F.2d 817.

Where sentences imposed on substantive counts were to run concurrently with conspiracy count, and all sentences were within punishment prescribed for conspiracy, decision of Court of Appeals was based upon conspiracy count alone. U. S. v. Tenenbaum, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1964, 327 F.2d 210, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 1165, 377 U.S. 905, 12 L.Ed.2d 177.

It was unnecessary, following conviction for transporting stolen securities in interstate commerce and for conspiracy to transport, to consider the sufficiency of the evidence to support the conspiracy count where conviction on the transportation count was supported and where the sentence thereon was not more than the maximum allowable on the conspiracy count. Thogmartin v. U. S., C.A.8 (Iowa) 1963, 313 F.2d 589.

This section providing that if the offense, the commission of which is object of conspiracy, is a misdemeanor only, the punishment for such conspiracy shall not exceed the maximum punishment provided for such misdemeanor, was not applicable where the substantive offense against United States was not a misdemeanor but was enforceable only by a suit for a civil penalty, and therefore 18-month sentence which was within limit prescribed in first paragraph of this section was lawful, even though it might appear incongruous to impose a greater penalty for a conspiracy to commit an offense against the United States which is neither a felony nor a misdemeanor than would be the penalty had the offense against the United States been a misdemeanor only. Hunsaker v. U. S., C.A.9 (Or.) 1960, 279 F.2d 111, certiorari denied 81 S.Ct. 52, 364 U.S. 819, 5 L.Ed.2d 49.

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Where until 1948, former § 88 of this title [now this section] provided a maximum prison punishment of two years, irrespective of whether the conspiracy was to commit an "offense" or to "defraud" the United States, and was then amended to increase the maximum sentence to five years, with a proviso that where object of conspiracy was to commit a misdemeanor, sentence should not exceed the maximum punishment provided for substantive offense, amendment did not indicate an intent to eliminate non-criminal offenses, so as to preclude a conviction for conspiracy to violate the Gold Reserve Act, § 440 et seq. of Title 31, and Regulations, which carry only civil penalties. United States v. Wiesner, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1954, 216 F.2d 739.

Defendants were not prejudiced because they were convicted of two conspiracies when allegedly there was only one conspiracy shown, where sentences of imprisonment on conspiracy counts ran concurrently with those imposed on remaining counts, and penalties exacted were within maximum prescribed for a single conspiracy. Maxfield v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Nev.) 1945, 152 F.2d 593, certiorari denied 66 S.Ct. 821, 327 U.S. 794, 90 L.Ed. 1021.

A defendant convicted of violating Securities Act, § 77q of Title 15, and of using the mails to defraud and of conspiracy to effect scheme to defraud, who was sentenced to imprisonment on 18 counts for 15 years and to pay a fine of $25,000 was not given an "excessive sentence" where sentence was within maximum limits provided by statutes involved. Holmes v. U. S., C.C.A.8 (Neb.) 1943, 134 F.2d 125, certiorari denied 63 S.Ct. 1434, 319 U.S. 776, 87 L.Ed. 1722.

Where proof in prosecution for conspiracy to violate internal revenue laws relating to intoxicating liquor pointed to single continuing agreement though embracing a multiplicity of criminal activities, accused could not be sentenced for a term of more than two years' imprisonment, constituting maximum penalty for single conspiracy. Moss v. U.S., C.C.A.6 (Mich.) 1943, 132 F.2d 875.

Counts for conspiracy charged but one offense, so that punishment in excess of that authorized for one offense was unlawful. Sprague v. Aderholt, D.C.Ga.1930, 45 F.2d 790.

1023. Concurrent sentences, sentence and punishment

Under concurrent-sentence doctrine, it was unnecessary to determine the sufficiency of evidence under substantive count of possession with intent to distribute 546 pounds of marijuana where conviction on conspiracy count was sustained and concurrent sentences had been imposed. U. S. v. Muller, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1977, 550 F.2d 1375, certiorari denied 98 S.Ct. 522, 434 U.S. 971, 54 L.Ed.2d 460.

Where trial court erroneously imposed separate sentences on defendant after conviction on two-count conspiracy indictment where proof showed only single conspiracy, error could not be cured by existence of concurrent sentences, and Court of Appeals could not discern sentencing court's intention with certainty, proper remedy was to remand case for resentencing, even though vacation of sentence on one count would leave defendant with permissible sentence under statute. Natarelli v. U. S., C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1975, 516 F.2d 149.

Any error with respect to sufficiency of evidence to sustain conviction under conspiracy count was harmless under concurrent sentence doctrine where there was no error with respect to conviction on other counts and concurrent sentences were imposed. U.S. v. Ramirez, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1975, 506 F.2d 742.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In prosecution for conspiracy to conduct an abetting operation of illegal gambling and conspiracy to obstruct Florida law, defendant's contentions that one of the counts upon which he was convicted was multiplicitous with another and that two of the counts properly carried lesser punishments than he received were foreclosed by concurrent sentence doctrine. U. S. v. Wertis, C.A.5 (Fla.) 1974, 505 F.2d 683, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 2662, 422 U.S. 1045, 45 L.Ed.2d 697.

Where four defendants were each convicted and sentenced for conspiracy, and more than one substantive count for violation of the federal Travel Act, section 1952 of this title, where jail terms were concurrent, where separate fines were imposed on each defendant on the conspiracy count and on at least one substantive count, each of these four defendants was affected adversely by the separate convictions, and the concurrent sentence doctrine was not applicable. U. S. v. Polizzi, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1974, 500 F.2d 856, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 802, 419 U.S. 1120, 42 L.Ed.2d 820, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 803, 419 U.S. 1120, 42 L.Ed.2d 820.

Where, during prosecution of defendants for conspiracy to misapply and misapplication of $244,250 of funds of savings and loan association, codefendants pleaded guilty and each received sentences of $10,000 fine and probation and third defendant, having elected to stand trial, was found guilty, imposition on third defendant of $10,000 fine and concurrent two-year sentence on each count did not show unlawful disparity from sentences received by other defendants. U. S. v. Kaczmarek, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1974, 490 F.2d 1031.

Issues concerning defendant's conviction on one count of conspiracy to defraud the United States were rendered moot where sentence imposed for conviction of that offense was ordered to run concurrently with sentence imposed for valid conviction on another count of same indictment and the alleged errors did not affect the other conviction. U. S. v. Tager, C.A.10 (Kan.) 1973, 479 F.2d 120, certiorari denied 94 S.Ct. 924, 414 U.S. 1162, 39 L.Ed.2d 115, rehearing denied 94 S.Ct. 1962, 416 U.S. 952, 40 L.Ed.2d 302.

Although a number of issues were raised with respect to verdict on conspiracy count in robbery prosecution, Court of Appeals was not compelled to decide them, where 5-year term imposed on conviction on such count was to be served concurrently with 20-year sentence imposed on conviction for substantive charge about which there was no question. U. S. v. Crouch, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1971, 442 F.2d 427, certiorari denied 92 S.Ct. 325, 404 U.S. 959, 30 L.Ed.2d 277.

It was not necessary to decide on appeal whether use of certain testimony was prejudicial to defendant under conspiracy count where defendant received concurrent sentences of five years on each of three counts and this did not exceed maximum permitted on other two counts. U. S. v. Johnson, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1971, 439 F.2d 885, certiorari denied 92 S.Ct. 213, 404 U.S. 880, 30 L.Ed.2d 161.

Where conspiracy convictions were affirmed and sentences on conspiracy counts were to run concurrently with sentences on substantive convictions, it was not necessary to resolve problems raised in connection with substantive convictions. U. S. v. Wechsler, C.A.4 (Va.) 1968, 392 F.2d 344, certiorari denied 88 S.Ct. 2283, 392 U.S. 932, 20 L.Ed.2d 1389, rehearing denied 89 S.Ct. 71, 393 U.S. 902, 21 L.Ed.2d 191, rehearing denied 408 F.2d 1184, certiorari denied 89 S.Ct. 2130, 395 U.S. 978, 23 L.Ed.2d 766, certiorari denied 89 S.Ct. 2131, 395 U.S. 978, 23 L.Ed.2d 766, rehearing denied 90 S.Ct. 40, 396 U.S. 870, 24 L.Ed.2d 126, certiorari denied 89 S.Ct. 2150, 395 U.S. 984, 23 L.Ed.2d 773.

Where conviction on one count of indictment for which 15-year sentence was imposed was sustained, it was unnecessary to consider any infirmity in two conspiracy convictions in which two five-year sentences were imposed to run concurrently with 15-year sentence imposed on substantive count. U. S. v. Nitti, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1967, 374 F.2d 750, certiorari denied 87 S.Ct. 2141, 388 U.S. 920, 18 L.Ed.2d 1366.

Inasmuch as defendant's sentence on substantive count was concurrent and of same length as sentence on conspiracy count and it was concluded that conviction on conspiracy count should be affirmed, court would not decide whether evidence against defendant on substantive count was sufficient. U. S. v. Kahn, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1966, 366 F.2d 259, certiorari denied 87 S.Ct. 321, 385 U.S. 948, 17 L.Ed.2d 226, certiorari denied 87 S.Ct. 324, 385 U.S. 948, 17 L.Ed.2d 226, rehearing denied 87 S.Ct. 502, 385 U.S. 984, 17 L.Ed.2d 445, rehearing denied 87 S.Ct. 503, 385 U.S. 984, 17 L.Ed.2d 445.

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Where defendant was convicted of having in his possession certain counterfeit bank notes, for selling the same notes on the same day, and of conspiring to do so, court properly imposed concurrent sentences of 15 years on possession count and 10 years on sale count. U.S. v. DiPalermo, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1965, 340 F.2d 988, certiorari denied 85 S.Ct. 1774, 381 U.S. 940, 14 L.Ed.2d 703.

Even if explanation of law of conspiracy had been inadequate, such inadequacy would not prejudice defendant whose sentence on conspiracy count was to be served concurrently with sentences imposed on substantive counts. U. S. v. Mayo, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1965, 340 F.2d 943.

Insufficiency of proof on four of five conspiracy counts would perhaps not be reversible error as to concurrent sentences received by two defendants, but would affect consecutive sentences imposed on other defendant. U. S. v. Quong, C.A.6 (Tenn.) 1962, 303 F.2d 499, certiorari denied 83 S.Ct. 119, 371 U.S. 863, 9 L.Ed.2d 100.

Twelve-year sentences for sale of counterfeit money, to run concurrently with five-year sentence for conspiracy, were not void on theory that substantive offenses were merged in the conspiracy. Buono v. U S, S.D.N.Y.1954, 126 F.Supp. 644.

Defendant who pled guilty to conspiring to steal the property of a healthcare benefit program and stealing checks payable to healthcare providers valued at over $800,000 would be sentenced to 46 months on each count, to be served concurrently, to be followed by 3 years' supervised release on each count, to be served concurrently; the offense involved an intended loss of more than $400,000 but less than $1,000,000, and defendant's criminal convictions resulted in 11 criminal history points. U.S. v. Smith, S.D.N.Y.2003, 2003 WL 1701979, Unreported. Conspiracy ☞ 51; Larceny ☞ 88; Sentencing And Punishment ☞ 571

Defendant convicted on a plea of guilty to conspiring to steal the property of a healthcare benefit program and stealing checks payable to healthcare providers would be sentenced to 51 months on each count, to be served concurrently, to be followed by 3 years supervised release on each count, to be served concurrently; the offense involved an intended loss of more than $400,000 but less than $1,000,000, and defendant's criminal convictions resulted in 25 criminal history points. U.S. v. Francis, S.D.N.Y.2003, 2003 WL 1701978, Unreported. Conspiracy ☞ 51; Sentencing And Punishment ☞ 559(1)

1024. Consecutive sentences, sentence and punishment

Consecutive sentences for conspiracy to commit arson and substantive crimes, based on two separate incidents, both of which were objects of same conspiracy, did not violate prohibition against double jeopardy. U.S. v. Chamlee, C.A.8 (Ark.) 1987, 828 F.2d 451.

Double jeopardy clause of U.S.C.A. Const.Amend. 5 was not violated by imposing consecutive sentences on petitioner following his conviction of conspiracy and of interstate transportation of stolen securities, since both this section and section 2314 of this title mandate proof of different facts; conspiracy requires proof of an agreement or combination to commit an offense, but that element is not germane to a charge of transporting stolen securities in interstate commerce. U.S. v. Santora, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1983, 711 F.2d 41.

Contention that conspiracy sentence was invalid because there could be no consecutive punishment for conspiracy following punishment for substantive offense was without merit. U. S. v. Welty, C.A.3 (Pa.) 1970, 426 F.2d 615, on remand 330 F.Supp. 699.

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In determining whether consecutive sentences for substantive offense and conspiracy to commit such offense constitutes double punishment for same crime, test does not turn on identity of evidence actually produced on both counts, but on whether same evidence is required to prove two offenses. Nolan v. U. S., C.A.10 (Okla.) 1969, 423 F.2d 1031, certiorari denied 91 S.Ct. 47, 400 U.S. 848, 27 L.Ed.2d 85.

Where sentences of 5 years and 25 years to run concurrently were imposed pursuant to conviction on charges of conspiracy and armed postal robbery which was ultimately set aside, subsequent imposition of sentences of 5 years and 25 years to run consecutively with 25-year sentence suspended and defendant placed on probation for 5 years did not deprive defendant of due process. Thurman v. U. S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1970, 423 F.2d 988, certiorari denied 91 S.Ct. 148, 400 U.S. 911, 27 L.Ed.2d 151. Constitutional Law ↪ 270(3)

Consecutive sentences may be imposed for violation of criminal statute and for conspiracy to violate it. Sanders v. U. S., C.A.5 (La.) 1969, 415 F.2d 621, certiorari denied 90 S.Ct. 1096, 397 U.S. 976, 25 L.Ed.2d 271.

Defendant convicted on two counts, one charging that defendant conspired with employee of foreign embassy to transmit information relating to national defense to foreign government, and second count charging that defendant and same employee and other persons conspired to obtain national defense information, was properly sentenced to consecutive sentences on each count. Boeckenhaupt v. U. S., C.A.4 (Va.) 1968, 392 F.2d 24, certiorari denied 89 S.Ct. 162, 393 U.S. 896, 21 L.Ed.2d 177.

Sentences aggregating 20 years were validly imposed for transportation of a forged warehouse receipt in interstate commerce and conspiracy to violate section 2314 of this title prohibiting such transportation where sentences, consisting of two consecutive ten-year sentences and one concurrent five-year and one concurrent ten-year sentence, were imposed after compliance with section 4208 of this title providing for commitment pending acquisition of more information as a basis of sentencing, notwithstanding claim that reference to concurrence of sentences made after sentencing suggested that sentences aggregating ten years had been imposed. U. S. v. DeAngelis, C.A.3 (N.J.) 1966, 361 F.2d 788, certiorari denied 87 S.Ct. 77, 385 U.S. 834, 17 L.Ed.2d 69.

Imposition of consecutive sentences for substantive narcotics offenses arising from single transaction was not error and imposition of separate sentence for conspiracy offense was not improper. U. S. v. Accardi, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1965, 342 F.2d 697, certiorari denied 86 S.Ct. 426, 382 U.S. 954, 15 L.Ed.2d 359.

Court had jurisdiction to impose consecutive sentences for convictions for robbery and conspiracy to rob. Potter v. U. S., C.A.8 (Mo.) 1963, 317 F.2d 661.

Substantive offense is not merged into conspiracy, and defendant may be punished for both by consecutive sentences, unless precluded by particular statute defining substantive offense. Hill v. U. S., C.A.9 (Wash.) 1962, 306 F.2d 245.

It was proper to impose separate consecutive sentences on defendant for crime of conspiracy to transport women in interstate commerce for purpose of prostitution, and for transportation for same women in interstate commerce for purposes of prostitution. Carmack v. U. S., C.A.10 (Okla.) 1961, 296 F.2d 893.

Imposition of consecutive sentences for substantive count involving sale of one-fourth kilo of heroin and conspiracy involving at least kilo was not improper. U. S. v. Campisi, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1961, 292 F.2d 811, certiorari denied 82 S.Ct. 401, 368 U.S. 958, 7 L.Ed.2d 389.

A defendant may be given consecutive sentences for commission of a substantive offense and for conspiring to commit that offense. Meyers v. U. S., C.A.5 (Tex.) 1958, 260 F.2d 956, certiorari denied 79 S.Ct. 893, 359 U.S. 975, 3 L.Ed.2d 841. See, also, U.S. v. Arce, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1980, 633 F.2d 689, certiorari denied 101 S.Ct. 2051, 451 U.S. 972, 68 L.Ed.2d 351. Sentencing And Punishment ↪ 559(3)

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

One may be given different penalties, to run consecutively, for conspiracy to smuggle and for perjury, although perjury conviction was based upon same facts as one of the overt acts charged in the conspiracy count. Murray v. U. S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1954, 217 F.2d 583.

Where first conspiracy charged transportation of stolen lithographs in interstate commerce between Aug. 25, and Sept. 1, 1977, while second conspiracy charged transportation of stolen jewelry in interstate commerce between Sept. 1 and Sept. 22, 1977, two conspiracies were separate and distinct and, thus, defendant properly received consecutive sentences after being indicted and convicted in two cases each involving a conspiracy count and the substantive offense count. Kerrigan v. U. S., D.C.Mass.1980, 491 F.Supp. 1355, affirmed 644 F.2d 47.

The district court was without authority to impose two sentences, running consecutively, on accused pleading guilty to count charging that accused conspired to remove, deposit, and conceal commodities with intent to defraud the United States of tax thereon, in violation of § 3321 of Title 26, and to count charging that accused conspired to possess alcohol in containers to which no internal revenue tax stamps were affixed, in violation of § 2803(a) of Title 26, where the persons, times, and places were the same in both counts, and only one act and one conspiracy were involved, since if accused had entered plea of guilty to first count or had been convicted otherwise upon first count, a plea of autrefois convict would have been good as to second count. Ex parte Rose, W.D.Mo.1940, 33 F.Supp. 941.

1025. Cumulative sentences, sentence and punishment

The Blockburger rule, used to determine whether Congress intended that two statutory offenses be punished cumulatively, applies to substantive offenses as well as conspiracies. Albernaz v. U. S., U.S.Fla.1981, 101 S.Ct. 1137, 450 U.S. 333, 67 L.Ed.2d 275.

Cumulative punishment may be imposed for conspiracy and for the substantive offense. U. S. v. Calvert, C.A.8 (Mo.) 1975, 523 F.2d 895, certiorari denied 96 S.Ct. 1106, 424 U.S. 911, 47 L.Ed.2d 314.

Commission of substantive offense and conspiracy to commit it are separate and distinct offenses, and cumulative sentences imposed therefor are not cumulative punishments. Williams v. U. S., C.A.8 (Mo.) 1961, 292 F.2d 157.

Where members of coal miners' union charged with conspiring to obstruct movement of mails and to restrain trade were actually engaged in but one conspiracy which was to stop transportation of coal, although objects thereof became diverse by implication, court improperly imposed cumulative sentences. U.S. v. Anderson, C.C.A.7 (Ill.) 1939, 101 F.2d 325, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 822, 307 U.S. 625, 83 L.Ed. 1502, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 822, 307 U.S. 625, 83 L.Ed. 1503, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 823, 307 U.S. 625, 83 L.Ed. 1503, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 823, 307 U.S. 625, 83 L.Ed. 1504, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 823, 307 U.S. 625, 83 L.Ed. 1504, 86 L.Ed. 1504, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 824, 307 U.S. 625, 83 L.Ed. 1505, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 824, 307 U.S. 625, 83 L.Ed. 1506, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 825, 307 U.S. 625, 83 L.Ed. 1506, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 825, 307 U.S. 625, 83 L.Ed. 1507, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 825, 307 U.S. 625, 83 L.Ed. 1508, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 826, 307 U.S. 625, 83 L.Ed. 1508, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 826, 307 U.S. 625, 83 L.Ed. 1509.

Where defendant is convicted of distinct crimes in different indictments or in different counts of same indictment, valid cumulative terms of imprisonment may be imposed. Asgill v. U.S., C.C.A.4 (Va.) 1932, 60 F.2d 780.

Imposition of cumulative maximum sentences for bribery and conspiracy to bribe was abuse of discretion. Nash v. U.S., C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1932, 54 F.2d 1006, certiorari denied 52 S.Ct. 457, 285 U.S. 556, 76 L.Ed. 945.

Cumulative sentences may be imposed, but they must be imposed in that form. U.S. v. Peeke, C.C.A.3 (N.J.) 1907, 153 F. 166, 82 C.C.A. 340.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Where petitioner was found guilty on five counts of an indictment under former § 88 of this title [now this section] each charging a separate conspiracy to commit an offense against the United States, and was given a single sentence of confinement in a penitentiary for a term of five years, the judgment was construed as a single sentence for five years, and not as one for cumulative sentences on the five counts, no one exceeding two years, and as so construed it was void as to the excess above two years. Ex parte Peeke, D.C.N.J.1906, 144 F. 1016, affirmed 153 F. 166, 82 C.C.A. 340.

1026. Separate sentences, sentence and punishment

Unlike some crimes that arise in a single transaction, the conspiracy to commit an offense and the subsequent commission of that crime normally do not merge into a single punishable act; in most cases separate sentences can be imposed for the conspiracy to do an act and for the subsequent accomplishment of that end. Iannelli v. U. S., U.S.Pa.1975, 95 S.Ct. 1284, 420 U.S. 770, 43 L.Ed.2d 616.

Congress has the power to enact a statute making a conspiracy to do an act punishable more severely than the doing of the act itself and the power exists to separate the offenses and to affix distinct and independent penalties to each. Clune v. U.S., U.S.Cal.1895, 16 S.Ct. 125, 159 U.S. 590, 40 L.Ed. 269. Conspiracy ↪ 51; Constitutional Law ↪ 50

Disparate sentences imposed upon two defendants, who had been convicted of conspiracy to steal and possess part of interstate shipment of freight, theft of freight from interstate shipment, and possession of goods stolen from interstate shipment, by trial judge, who apparently viewed one defendant as mastermind of operation and fined such defendant in addition to sentencing him to term twice as long as that imposed upon other defendant, was not abuse of discretion. U. S. v. Trotter, C.A.3 (N.J.) 1976, 529 F.2d 806.

A defendant may properly be convicted of both conspiracy to violate section 1955 of this title and a substantive violation; likewise, there is no bar to separate convictions of "lesser participants," since decision to seek dual convictions is committed to the sound discretion of the prosecutor. U. S. v. Calaway, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1975, 524 F.2d 609, certiorari denied 96 S.Ct. 1462, 424 U.S. 967, 47 L.Ed.2d 733.

Where single general sentence was imposed and none of defendants received sentence in excess of maximum authorized under specified statute, judgment would be upheld if conviction on count under specified statute were sustainable, notwithstanding contention that because the Government's position was that there was a single conspiracy defendants were prejudiced by fact that they were charged with two separate conspiracy counts. U. S. v. Kenny, C.A.3 (N.J.) 1972, 462 F.2d 1205, certiorari denied 93 S.Ct. 233, 409 U.S. 914, 34 L.Ed.2d 176, certiorari denied 93 S.Ct. 234, 409 U.S. 914, 34 L.Ed.2d 176.

Where defendant was charged with conspiracy to import a narcotic drug and, in separate count, with conspiracy to commit an offense against the United States, namely traveling in foreign commerce to promote unlawful activity, namely importation of a narcotic drug, and where the parties, duration and overt acts alleged in both conspiracy counts were the same, there was single agreement which constituted single offense subject to single punishment though the conspiracy charged envisioned the violation of several substantive provisions, and violated this section as well as section 174 of Title 21. U. S. v. Mori, C.A.5 (Fla.) 1971, 444 F.2d 240, certiorari denied 92 S.Ct. 238, 404 U.S. 913, 30 L.Ed.2d 187.

With limited exceptions, separate sentences may be imposed for violating criminal statute and for conspiring to violate it; this may be done even when sole evidence of commission of substantive offense is participation in conspiracy, which makes the defendant an aider or abettor of the substantive crime. U.S. v. Crosby, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1963, 314 F.2d 654, certiorari denied 83 S.Ct. 1523, 373 U.S. 923, 10 L.Ed.2d 421. Conspiracy ↪ 28(1)

Defendant could be subjected to separate and consecutive sentences upon conviction of receiving money known to have been taken from bank by armed robbery, and for conspiracy to commit that offense. Hill v. U. S., C.A.9 (Wash.) 1962, 306 F.2d 245.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Count of indictment charging accused with aiding, abetting, counseling, commanding, inducing and procuring another to falsely assume and pretend to another to be an agent of internal revenue bureau and to demand money of such other person in such pretended character, and count charging accused and another with conspiring to commit substantive offense charged in first recited count, charged separate and distinct offenses and separate sentences were properly imposed when accused was convicted on both counts. Colosacco v. U.S., C.A.10 (Colo.) 1952, 196 F.2d 165.

Count, charging conspiracy to commit offense denounced by portion of former § 347 of this title charged offense separate from counts charging the commission of other acts denounced therein and accused was properly sentenced separately on the conspiracy count. Harrison v. King, C.C.A.8 (Mo.) 1940, 111 F.2d 420.

Court can impose sentence for the offense of conspiracy, and also sentences for the completed substantive offenses. Humphries v. Biddle, C.C.A.8 (Kan.) 1927, 19 F.2d 193.

Consolidation for trial of indictment for conspiracy with one for the substantive offenses does not prevent conviction and punishment under both. Humphries v. Biddle, C.C.A.8 (Kan.) 1927, 19 F.2d 193.

Where an indictment in one count charged conspiracy to unlawfully possess liquor, in violation of National Prohibition Act, former § 1 et seq. of Title 27, and in other count charged the concealment of smuggled liquor knowing it to have been smuggled, in violation of § 497 of Title 19, the court did not err in assessing separate punishments under each count, though the offenses arose out of one transaction. Powers v. U.S., C.C.A.5 (Tex.) 1923, 294 F. 512.

Separate sentences could be imposed for conspiracy and substantive wire and bank fraud violations, which could have been committed while acting alone, even though indictment alleged that defendants entered into single scheme to commit wire fraud and bank fraud. U.S. v. Jones, S.D.N.Y.1986, 648 F.Supp. 241.

First count of indictment charging conspiracy to transport interstate stolen money of more than $5,000 value and second count charging defendant and others with having transported interstate stolen money of more than $5,000 value charged separate offenses upon which separate sentences could be imposed. U.S. v. Clevenger, E.D.Tenn.1951, 105 F.Supp. 333, appeal dismissed 197 F.2d 521.

Conspiracy to commit a crime is a separate offense from the substantive offenses which are the object of the conspiracy and the conspiracy and the substantive offenses may be separately punished. U.S. v. Sharpe, E.D.Ky.1945, 61 F.Supp. 237, affirmed 164 F.2d 94.

1027. Double punishment, sentence and punishment

Conspiracy to do an act and the completed substantive offense are separate crimes for which separate sentences can be imposed. U. S. v. Batimana, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1980, 623 F.2d 1366, certiorari denied 101 S.Ct. 617, 449 U.S. 1038, 66 L.Ed.2d 500.

Separate sentences for the same overt act charged in both conspiracy and substantive counts does not constitute double punishment; it is only an identity of offenses which is fatal. U. S. v. Toombs, C.A.5 (Fla.) 1974, 497 F.2d 88.

Prosecution for conspiracy, as well as for the commission of substantive offense, is permissible as it offends neither the principles of merger nor double jeopardy. U. S. v. Bobo, C.A.4 (S.C.) 1973, 477 F.2d 974, certiorari denied 95

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

S.Ct. 1557, 421 U.S. 909, 43 L.Ed.2d 774.

Defendant who pleaded guilty to conspiracy count in each of two indictments, thus admitting alleged conspiracies to violate securities laws, was not entitled to have consecutive sentences set aside on ground that he had received double punishment for single offense, where, despite similarities in several instances, conspiracies were separate and distinct, extending over different periods of time and involving different predatory statutory offenses and different devices and schemes, agreeing principals, and overt acts, so that deletion from first count of allegations overlapping second count would leave first count still stating an offense capable of proof by evidence different from that necessary to prove second count. U. S. v. Hall, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1972, 457 F.2d 1324.

Fact that evidence which was relevant in proving existence of conspiracy to obstruct justice was also relevant or vital in proving entirely different fact of motivation in both the substantive count of obstructing justice and conspiracy count did not result in merger or identity of offenses and sentencing to two consecutive terms on conviction of both counts did not impose double punishment for the same offense. Cardarella v. U. S., C.A.8 (Mo.) 1967, 375 F.2d 222, certiorari denied 88 S.Ct. 129, 389 U.S. 882, 19 L.Ed.2d 176.

Transposition of concurrent sentences for a substantive crime and for conspiracy after defendant had commenced to serve the sentences was a violation of constitutional guarantee against double jeopardy, even though such transposition was to carry out original intention of sentencing judge, and under the circumstances, sentence imposed on prisoner of seven years for conspiracy would be reduced to maximum penalty permissible for such crime of five years. U. S. v. Sacco, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1966, 367 F.2d 368.

When indictment charges both conspiracy to engage in course of criminal conduct and substantive offense committed pursuant to that conspiracy, accused, on conviction, may be punished both for conspiracy and for substantive offense. Pegram v. U. S., C.A.8 (Iowa) 1966, 361 F.2d 820.

Consecutive sentence imposed for obstructing justice and for conspiracy to obstruct justice was not invalid as double punishment for single offense. Cardarella v. U. S., C.A.8 (Mo.) 1965, 351 F.2d 272, certiorari denied 86 S.Ct. 633, 382 U.S. 1017, 15 L.Ed.2d 531.

The prosecution may allege the same charge in different counts but only a single penalty is permitted, and when there are double penalties, only one is reversed but a jury acquittal on one count does not require reversal of conviction on another count, even though there may seem to be a surface inconsistency. U.S. v. Klein, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1957, 247 F.2d 908, certiorari denied 78 S.Ct. 365, 355 U.S. 924, 2 L.Ed.2d 354.

Conspiracy is a crime separate and distinct from the crime which is the object of the conspiracy and therefore imposition of consecutive sentences on conviction of conspiracy to violate the Dyer Vehicle Theft Act, § 2312 of this title, and of substantive crimes charged as objects of the conspiracy, did not constitute double punishment in violation of U.S.C.A.Const. Amend. 5. Hodge v. U.S., C.A.4 (N.C.) 1956, 235 F.2d 85, certiorari denied 77 S.Ct. 240, 352 U.S. 934, 1 L.Ed.2d 169.

Where a conspiracy charged in an indictment for violation of Dyer Vehicle Theft Act, § 2312 of this title, was not confined to substantive crimes charged as objects of the conspiracy in the indictment, imposition of consecutive sentences on the substantive and conspiracy counts did not constitute double punishment in violation of U.S.C.A.Const. Amend. 5. Hodge v. U.S., C.A.4 (N.C.) 1956, 235 F.2d 85, certiorari denied 77 S.Ct. 240, 352 U.S. 934, 1 L.Ed.2d 169.

Defendant could be convicted of both violation of narcotics laws and conspiring to violate narcotics laws, even though overt act of conspiracy might also have been offense which was object of conspiracy, and conviction on both counts was not double punishment. Toliver v. U. S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1955, 224 F.2d 742.

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Where indictment charged conspiracies and attempts to defraud income tax, and alleged numerous overt acts, including filing of proposed false return, conviction on conspiracy counts did not cover attempts so as to preclude, on theory of double punishment, imposition of sentence on each count. U.S. v. Wexler, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1935, 79 F.2d 526, certiorari denied 56 S.Ct. 384, 297 U.S. 703, 80 L.Ed. 991. See, also, U.S. v. Wylie, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1980, 625 F.2d 1371, certiorari denied 101 S.Ct. 863, 449 U.S. 1080, 66 L.Ed.2d 804. Sentencing And Punishment 520(3)

Conviction for conspiracy to violate banking laws, based on same overt acts charged as substantive offenses, did not present case of "double punishment." Steigleder v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Okla.) 1928, 25 F.2d 959.

Counts for conspiracy, possession, and manufacture of liquor were not duplicitous and did not call for double punishment. Perry v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Okla.) 1927, 18 F.2d 477.

Question of double punishment is not presented under indictments charging conspiracy to violate National Prohibition Act, former § 1 et seq. of Title 27, and offenses against revenue laws applicable to manufacture. Godsey v. U.S., C.C.A.6 (Tenn.) 1927, 17 F.2d 877.

Parties may be punished both for conspiracy to transport stolen automobile in interstate commerce and for such transportation. Hostetter v. U. S., C.C.A.8 (Colo.) 1926, 16 F.2d 921.

Where one count alleged conspiracy to import liquor from Canada across the Detroit river into the United States at Trenton, and second count alleged transportation from river bank to another point some distance away, contention that there was double prosecution and punishment because first count necessarily involved transportation from the boundary line to shore, was untenable. Parmenter v. U. S., C.C.A.6 (Mich.) 1924, 2 F.2d 945, certiorari denied 45 S.Ct. 514, 268 U.S. 697, 69 L.Ed. 1163.

In prosecution for fraudulent use of the mails, with conspiracy counts, conviction under the substantive counts and also under conspiracy counts did not involve a double penalty. Ader v. U.S., C.C.A.7 (Ill.) 1922, 284 F. 13, certiorari denied 43 S.Ct. 247, 260 U.S. 746, 67 L.Ed. 493.

In a similar prosecution, under former § 338 of this title, where conspiracy counts set forth as overt acts mailing of letters not set out in counts under said former section, contention that conviction on conspiracy counts as well as on others is double conviction was untenable. Preeman v. U.S., C.C.A.7 (Ill.) 1917, 244 F. 1, 156 C.C.A. 429, certiorari denied 38 S.Ct. 12, 245 U.S. 654, 62 L.Ed. 533.

Judgment and sentences under separate counts of indictment charging conspiracy to transport stolen motor vehicles in interstate commerce and the substantive offenses of transporting and concealing stolen automobiles did not constitute double jeopardy or double punishment. U.S. v. Sharpe, E.D.Ky.1945, 61 F.Supp. 237, affirmed 164 F.2d 94.

1028. Second offenders, sentence and punishment

Defendant, who had previously been convicted of conspiracy to violate federal narcotic laws, was, on subsequent conviction of possessing heroin, a "second offender" so as to be subject to enhanced punishment in subsequent prosecution, though, at time of prior conviction, conspiracy to violate narcotic laws was an offense punishable only under general omnibus provisions of this section. U. S. v. Buia, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1956, 236 F.2d 548.

1029. Term of imprisonment, sentence and punishment

Defendant's sentence of 121 months' imprisonment for his conviction of conspiracy, stemming from the theft,

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

transportation, and fraudulent endorsement of United States Treasury checks was not unreasonable; even though defendant's involvement in the conspiracy began when the 2000 Guidelines, which recommended almost half the sentence suggested by the 2001 Guidelines, were still in effect, the sentence imposed fell at the midpoint of the range recommended by the 2001 Guidelines, which were the applicable guidelines. U.S. v. Vaughn, C.A.7 (Wis.) 2006, 433 F.3d 917. Sentencing And Punishment ↻ 664(6)

Sentences ranging from 16 to 30 years imposed upon defendants convicted of perjury, giving false statements to grand jury, obstructing investigation and conspiracy in connection with alleged coverup of police shooting of members of independence movement did not constitute cruel and unusual punishment. U.S. v. Moreno Morales, C.A.1 (Puerto Rico) 1987, 815 F.2d 725, certiorari denied 108 S.Ct. 458, 484 U.S. 966, 98 L.Ed.2d 397, denial of post-conviction relief affirmed 976 F.2d 724, denial of post-conviction relief affirmed 991 F.2d 786.

Although jury failed to bring in special verdict indicating whether accused had violated this section or narcotics statute, § 4705 of Title 26, 15-year sentence imposed was not illegal, where reference in indictment to this section was miscitation and accused failed to show that error in citation had prejudiced him. Tanksley v. U. S., C.A.8 (Minn.) 1963, 321 F.2d 647.

Where indictment was intended to charge conspiracy to cause or attempt to cause escape of federal prisoners, but, because defendant was one of those whose escape was attempted, actually charged conspiracy to commit offense against United States, the offense consisting of escape or attempt to escape, and defendant pleaded guilty, and was erroneously sentenced to three year term under § 752 of this title relating to conspiracy to cause escape, sentence was properly vacated and defendant, having by his guilty plea admitted the facts alleged, was properly resentenced to maximum term of two years under this section relating to conspiracy to commit offense. Kahl v. U.S., C.A.10 (Okla.) 1953, 204 F.2d 864.

Where conspiracy to violate Internal Revenue Laws, §§ 2803, 2810, 2833, 2834, and 3321 of Title 26, prohibiting distillation, possession, purchase, sale, transportation, deposit and concealment of nontax paid distilled spirits, was alleged in indictment, supported by proof and jury's verdict, to be continuous, sentence to five years imprisonment under this section as revised before commission of last eight of thirty overt acts charged, instead of two years provided for by provisions prior to revision, was not erroneous as subjecting defendants to greater penalty for committing crime consummated before revision of this section in 1948 increasing penalty was passed and became effective. Huff v. U.S., C.A.5 (Ga.) 1951, 192 F.2d 911, certiorari denied 72 S.Ct. 560, 342 U.S. 946, 96 L.Ed. 703.

Sentences of imprisonment for three years, imposed upon conviction under indictment charging conspiracy to use mails in furtherance of scheme to defraud, being maximum penalty for substantive offense, were excessive and void. Lefco v. U S, C.C.A.3 (Pa.) 1934, 74 F.2d 66.

Persons convicted under former § 88 of this title [now this section] of conspiracy to violate the National Prohibition Act, former § 1 et seq. of Title 27, could have been punished by sentence of not more than two years in the penitentiary, under former §§ 695 of the 742 of this title. Biddle v. Moreno, C.C.A.8 (Kan.) 1922, 279 F. 566.

When statutes prescribe particular modes of punishment a court cannot inflict another, and hence under former § 88 of this title [now this section], authorizing imprisonment for conspiracy to commit a federal offense, imprisonment "at hard labor" was unauthorized. Ex parte Harlan, C.C.N.D.Fla.1909, 180 F. 119, affirmed 31 S.Ct. 44, 218 U.S. 442, 54 L.Ed. 1101, 21 Am. Ann. Cas. 849.

Where intermediary of Naturalization Examiner was convicted under one count of conspiracy and was given a two year sentence, and was convicted under several counts of soliciting and collecting fees in proceedings relating to naturalization and was given sentences of one year on each, and was convicted on one count as an aider and abetter of Naturalization Examiner in soliciting and collecting such fees and was given a sentence of two years, and sentences were all to run concurrently, sentences would not be reduced on ground that they were too severe. U. S. v. Scott, S.D.Cal.1954, 124 F.Supp. 335.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Where major part of offenses charged in indictment for violation of this section occurred subsequent to amendment statute which increased maximum sentence from two to five years, trial court was fully justified and warranted in imposing sentence of four years imprisonment. U.S. v. Jackson, E.D.S.C.1951, 94 F.Supp. 912.

When sentencing defendant for conspiracy to defraud the Internal Revenue Service, federal district court was not required to hold oral argument or evidentiary hearing to determine amount of tax loss suffered by the government, which was relevant to calculate base offense level under Sentencing Guidelines, even though defendant's plea agreement had reserved right to litigate that issue, where court noted that, pursuant to Booker, Guidelines were merely advisory, and court had reviewed defendant's written objections to pre-sentence report. U.S. v. Suzuki, C.A.9 (Hawai'i) 2006, 2006 WL 1381579, Unreported. Sentencing And Punishment ¶ 987

In light of the sentences provided to other defendants who shared similar "Team Leader" roles in "boiler room" operation, defendant, who pled guilty to one count of conspiracy to commit securities, mail and wire fraud, would be sentenced to 15 months in prison, to be followed by three years of supervised release and required to make restitution; although an effort was made to achieve as much as possible uniformity in sentencing the twenty-one defendants who participated in the scheme while considering each defendant's respective role in the operation, it was virtually impossible to justify imprisoning the defendant for up to five times as long as the man who hired, inspired and gravely misled them, and who was sentenced to just 366 days' imprisonment due to great assistance provided in a related case. U.S. v. MacCaull, S.D.N.Y.2002, 2002 WL 31426006, Unreported. Sentencing And Punishment ¶ 56; Sentencing And Punishment ¶ 752

1030. Place of confinement, sentence and punishment

Where a person was convicted under former § 88 of this title [now this section] and sentenced to imprisonment for a term longer than one year, he might under former § 695 of this title have been imprisoned in a state prison where hard labor was part of the treatment of convicts, though former § 88 of this title [now this section] did not in terms include hard labor as part of the penalty. Ex parte Karstendick, U.S.La.1876, 93 U.S. 396, 3 Otto 396, 23 L.Ed. 889

Where accused was sentenced to one year only on one of the counts of an indictment for conspiracy, the court had no power to direct that such sentence be served in a penitentiary. Francis v. U S, C.C.A.3 (Pa.) 1907, 152 F. 155, 81 C.C.A. 407, certiorari denied 27 S.Ct. 797, 206 U.S. 565, 51 L.Ed. 1191.

1031. Fine, sentence and punishment

Concurrent two-year sentence and $10,000 fine were not excessive after defendant's conviction for conspiracy to misapply and misapplication of $244,250 of funds of savings and loan. U. S. v. Kaczmarek, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1974, 490 F.2d 1031.

Imposition of $5,000 fine against defendant, who was convicted of conspiracy, fraud in sale of securities and use of mails to defraud, for conspiracy offense did not constitute imposition of excessive sentence. U. S. v. Fishbein, C.A.9 (Ariz.) 1971, 446 F.2d 1201, certiorari denied 92 S.Ct. 683, 404 U.S. 1019, 30 L.Ed.2d 667.

Where fines imposed against corporation and its president for violating and conspiracy to violate Emergency Price Control Act of 1942, 50 App. former § 901 et seq., were re-allocated on same day that fines were originally imposed, the increased fine against corporation was not void on ground that it was not imposed in presence of corporation's officers, under showing that corporation's president was in custody of the court at the time and that counsel for corporation was in constant communication with him when counsel asked that fines imposed be reallocated. Acme Poultry Corp. v. U.S., C.C.A.4 (Md.) 1944, 146 F.2d 738, certiorari denied 65 S.Ct. 865, 324 U.S. 860, 89 L.Ed. 1417.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

1032. Disbarment or suspension of attorney

Conviction for crimes of conspiracy, theft of government property, and false statements warrants disbarment. Matter of Milton, D.C.1994, 642 A.2d 839. Attorney And Client ⚡ 58

Conviction for conspiracy to commit wire fraud warrants disbarment. In re Lobar, D.C.App.1993, 632 A.2d 110.

Conviction of offenses involving moral turpitude per se, including conspiracy to defraud the United States, and wire fraud, warrants disbarment. Matter of McGough, D.C.App.1992, 605 A.2d 605.

Conviction of perjury and of conspiracy to defraud the Internal Revenue Service, both offenses involving moral turpitude, warrants disbarment. Matter of Meisnere, D.C.App.1984, 471 A.2d 269.

1033. Discharge of government employee, sentence and punishment

Discharge of border patrol agent for Immigration and Naturalization Service was not inappropriate punishment for misconduct involving mistreatment of aliens. Otherson v. Department of Justice, I.N.S., C.A.D.C.1983, 711 F.2d 267, 228 U.S.App.D.C. 481.

1034. Correction of sentence, sentence and punishment

Although conviction of making false statements in connection with loans was not infirm, judgment of sentence imposed thereon was required to be vacated for resentencing where conspiracy conviction and conviction of willfully misapplying bank funds were reversed, since fact of the latter convictions was properly taken into consideration in imposing sentence on the former. U. S. v. Gallagher, C.A.3 (N.J.) 1978, 576 F.2d 1028.

Fact that district court was under incorrect impression in 1973 that defendant had pleaded guilty to crimes in addition to crime of conspiracy to commit espionage did not operate to undermine validity of defendant's 1965 sentence for crime nor did court's incorrect assessment of defendant's motion for correction or reduction of sentence as being untimely serve to undermine previous validity. Thompson v. U. S., C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1973, 484 F.2d 942.

Defendant who was convicted by United States District Court for the Southern District of Florida of conspiracy to misapply funds of a national bank and of making false entries in bank records with intent to defraud and who, subsequent to his conviction and sentencing in Florida, cooperated in securities theft prosecution in the Southern District of New York and had details of his cooperation communicated by the New York prosecutors to trial judge in Florida was not entitled to reduction of sentence, notwithstanding defendant's statement that he was promised by prosecutors in New York that he would not have to serve any time if he cooperated. U. S. v. Fanning, C.A.5 (Fla.) 1973, 477 F.2d 45, rehearing denied 477 F.2d 596, certiorari denied 94 S.Ct. 365, 414 U.S. 1006, 38 L.Ed.2d 243, rehearing denied 94 S.Ct. 935, 414 U.S. 1172, 39 L.Ed.2d 121.

Counts charging conspiracy to import a narcotic drug and conspiracy to commit an offense against the United States, namely traveling in foreign commerce to promote importation of a narcotic drug, were overlapping rather than inconsistent; thus, where separate sentences were imposed, it was sufficient to remand for resentencing rather than for new trial. U. S. v. Mori, C.A.5 (Fla.) 1971, 444 F.2d 240, certiorari denied 92 S.Ct. 238, 404 U.S. 913, 30 L.Ed.2d 187.

Where written commitment recited that defendant, who had been convicted of conspiracy to make false bank entries, was convicted of making false entries, case would be remanded to permit commitment to be corrected to conform to judgment. U. S. v. Harris, C.A.4 (Va.) 1970, 433 F.2d 333.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Record on motion to vacate sentence imposed for conviction of conspiracy and for interstate transportation of fraudulent securities supported conclusion of district judge that defendant's waiver of counsel had been valid and that his plea of guilty was voluntary. Campbell v. U. S., C.A.5 (Tex.) 1968, 398 F.2d 828.

Where petitioner was indicted for conspiracy to violate § 472 of this title, defining substantive offense of possessing and uttering counterfeit obligations, and where petitioner was sentenced under said section, punishing conspiracy to counterfeit, even though this section punishing conspiracy to commit any offense and bearing lesser punishment was set out in indictment, such error, if prejudicial, could have been corrected on motion or on appeal from original judgment and sentence, but sentence was not subject to collateral attack on motion attacking sentence. Masi v. U.S., C.A.5 (Fla.) 1955, 223 F.2d 132, certiorari denied 76 S.Ct. 208, 350 U.S. 919, 100 L.Ed. 805.

Where defendant filed petition to modify and correct judgment on ground that his conviction for procuring another to pass counterfeit money with intent to defraud and conviction for conspiring to pass counterfeit money constituted double jeopardy, but convictions did not constitute double jeopardy petition was properly dismissed. Bocock v. U.S., C.A.7 (Ind.) 1954, 216 F.2d 465.

Where defendant was illegally sentenced twice for one conspiracy, the sentences to run consecutively, and was also sentenced for substantive offenses which sentences were to begin on expiration of conspiracy sentences, defendant was entitled to have illegal conspiracy sentence vacated and to have time served applied on valid sentences and to have deductions for good conduct computed accordingly, though he had served a period of time equal to or in excess of sentences imposed on conspiracy charge. Youst v. U.S., C.C.A.5 (Fla.) 1945, 151 F.2d 666.

Where court had sentenced defendant twice for a single conspiracy, court was bound to vacate invalid sentence and to transmit to warden of penitentiary an authenticated record of entry vacating invalid sentence, though term at which sentence was imposed had passed, and it was not necessary that defendant be brought before court for such purpose. Youst v. U.S., C.C.A.5 (Fla.) 1945, 151 F.2d 666.

Excessive sentence for conspiracy is void only as to excess and may be corrected by reviewing court's mandate. Spirou v. U.S., C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1928, 24 F.2d 796, certiorari denied 48 S.Ct. 559, 277 U.S. 596, 72 L.Ed. 1006.

On application to the federal Circuit Court for habeas corpus by one convicted therein, the court could correct the sentence if it be excessive or resentence, and hence where persons convicted of conspiring to commit a federal offense under former § 88 of this title [now this section] were sentenced to imprisonment "at hard labor," on habeas corpus proceedings the trial court could amend the sentence nunc pro tunc by striking the quoted words, when not authorized by the statute. Ex parte Harlan, C.C.N.D.Fla.1909, 180 F. 119, affirmed 31 S.Ct. 44, 218 U.S. 442, 54 L.Ed. 1101, 21 Am. Ann. Cas. 849.

Concurrent sentences of five years on each count on convictions on one count of conspiring to make false statements and file false documents required under immigration laws and two counts of knowingly making and using false documents in petitions filed with Immigration and Naturalization Service would not be reduced in view of defendant's knowing participation in scheme in which defendant located United States citizens willing to "marry" aliens seeking permanent residence, organized the "marriages," witnessed them, and signed notarized permanent residence petitions intended to fraudulently secure permanent residence status for illegal aliens for a fee, and in view of defendant's denial of any knowledge of or participation in the scheme, and her failure to present new grounds or circumstances not before sentencing court. U.S. v. Ramos, S.D.N.Y.1985, 605 F.Supp. 277.

1035. Vacation of sentence, sentence and punishment

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Where defendant at time he pled guilty had been advised by his counsel of possible five-year sentence under conspiracy statute but was not informed that he was subject to sentence under Youth Corrections Act, section 5071 of this title, and that this might lead to confinement up to six years, sentence would be vacated and set aside. Matthews v. U. S., S.D.N.Y.1969, 308 F.Supp. 456. Criminal Law ↪ 1482

1036. Retrial, sentence and punishment

Where defendant was sentenced to four-year concurrent terms for stealing, uttering and publishing United States Treasury checks and for conspiracy and at second trial, which was held after reversal of first conviction, was sentenced to five-year concurrent terms, and district court failed to give any reasons for more severe five-year sentences, case was remanded for reconsideration of sentence in accordance with United States Supreme Court decision requiring trial judge to state reasons for more severe sentence and requiring that such reasons be based on objective information concerning identifiable conduct on part of defendant occurring after time of original sentencing proceeding. U. S. v. King, C.A.6 (Tenn.) 1969, 415 F.2d 737, certiorari denied 90 S.Ct. 465, 396 U.S. 974, 24 L.Ed.2d 443. Criminal Law ↪ 1181.5(8)

XVI. REVIEW

<Subdivision Index>

Acquittal or conviction of others 1090Admissibility of evidence 1073-1080*Admissibility of evidence - Generally 1073*Admissibility of evidence - Confessions 1076*Admissibility of evidence - Declarations of coconspirators 1077*Admissibility of evidence - Evidence against codefendant 1078*Admissibility of evidence - Harmless error 1074*Admissibility of evidence - Intent 1080*Admissibility of evidence - Overt acts 1079*Admissibility of evidence - Prejudicial error 1075*Affirmance 1097*Assistance of counsel 1069*Certiorari 1062*Comments of counsel 1071*Comments of court 1070*Confessions, admissibility of evidence 1076*Declarations of coconspirators, admissibility of evidence 1077*Evidence against codefendant, admissibility of evidence 1078*Findings of fact 1088*Fine 1095*Habeas corpus 1101*Harmless error, admissibility of evidence 1074*Harmless error, instructions 1086*Harmless error, witnesses 1083*Indictment 1072*Instructions 1085-1087*Instructions - Generally 1085*Instructions - Harmless error 1086

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Instructions - Prejudicial error 1087
Intent, admissibility of evidence 1080
Interlocutory appeal 1063
Multiple counts 1093
Multiple defendants 1091
Multiple object conspiracy 1092
New trial 1099
Objections not raised below 1066
Overt acts, admissibility of evidence 1079
Prejudicial error, admissibility of evidence 1075
Prejudicial error, instructions 1087
Prejudicial error, witnesses 1084
Presumptions 1068
Questions or issues not raised below 1065
Record on appeal 1064
Remand 1100

Reversal 1098
Scope of review generally 1061
Sentence 1094
Standing 1067
Substantial evidence 1096
Sufficiency of evidence 1081
Verdict 1089
Witnesses 1082-1084
 Witnesses - Generally 1082
 Witnesses - Harmless error 1083
 Witnesses - Prejudicial error 1084
 1061. Scope of review generally

In prosecution for conspiracy to defraud the United States by operation of a tax fixing ring and for influencing witnesses and impeding a grand jury investigation, wherein prosecutor on cross-examination was permitted to ask defendant whether he had invoked his constitutional privilege against self-incrimination before grand jury in response to same or similar questions in response to which he had testified fully on the trial, wherein if jury followed instructions that plea of Fifth Amendment was relevant only to credibility, then weight to be given such evidence was less than negligible, but danger that jury made impermissible use of testimony by implicitly equating the plea with guilt was far from negligible, Supreme Court, weighing such factors, would draw upon its supervisory power over the administration of federal criminal justice in order to rule on the matter. Grunewald v. U.S., U.S.N.Y.1957, 77 S.Ct. 963, 353 U.S. 391, 1 L.Ed.2d 931. Federal Courts ⚡ 444

In reviewing conviction for conspiracy, question is whether the circumstances, acts and conduct of the parties are of such character that reasonable persons might conclude therefrom that an unlawful agreement existed. U. S. v. Parnell, C.A.10 (Okla.) 1978, 581 F.2d 1374, certiorari denied 99 S.Ct. 852, 439 U.S. 1076, 59 L.Ed.2d 44. Conspiracy ⚡ 24(1)

In reviewing jury verdict of guilty in prosecution for conspiracy, mail fraud, fraud by wire, and fraudulent inducement of interstate travel, reviewing court was not free to try the case de novo but was limited to determining whether there was sufficient evidence to support the verdict. U. S. v. Wayman, C.A.5 (Ga.) 1975, 510 F.2d 1020, certiorari denied 96 S.Ct. 84, 423 U.S. 846, 46 L.Ed.2d 67. Criminal Law ⚡ 1159.2(3)

It was not function of Court of Appeals to weigh evidence as to individual defendants found guilty of conspiracy

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

once it had determined that there was not such an insufficiency of evidence as to require reversal. U. S. v. Donner, C.A.7 (Ind.) 1974, 497 F.2d 184, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 619, 419 U.S. 1047, 42 L.Ed.2d 641, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 620, 419 U.S. 1047, 42 L.Ed.2d 641. Criminal Law ⚡ 1159.2(10)

Where defendant was 39-year-old man who had been continuously afool of law since age of 14 and had already had at least three felony convictions and where conspiracy count grew out of same series of acts as count charging possession of stolen mail and where identical sentences were imposed on each count and were to run concurrently, Court of Appeals after upholding defendant's conviction on possession count would not, in exercise of its discretion, review conviction on conspiracy count. U. S. v. Hamilton, C.A.7 (Ind.) 1970, 420 F.2d 1096. Criminal Law ⚡ 1177

In appeal from conviction on charge of conspiracy, Court of Appeals looks only to see whether from evidence presented, and viewed in light most favorable to government, jury could reasonably find conspiracy existed and that appellant was member. Nelson v. U. S., C.A.5 (Tex.) 1969, 415 F.2d 483, certiorari denied 90 S.Ct. 751, 396 U.S. 1060, 24 L.Ed.2d 754. Criminal Law ⚡ 1134(3)

Where Court of Appeals sustained defendant's conviction for conspiracy to violate section 176a of Title 2, prohibiting sale and concealment of marihuana and section 4742 of Title 26, prohibiting transfer of marihuana not pursuant to written order form supplied by Secretary of Treasury and defendant had been given equal and concurrent sentences for that conviction and conviction for concealing of marihuana, it was unnecessary for Court of Appeals to justify conviction on charge of concealing marihuana. Browning v. U. S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1966, 366 F.2d 420. Criminal Law ⚡ 1177

Appellate court could not disregard testimony of admitted liar in determining sufficiency of evidence to sustain conviction on conspiracy counts in prosecution involving conspiracy to defraud public by distribution of oil company stock at grossly inflated prices. U. S. v. Kelly, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1965, 349 F.2d 720, certiorari denied 86 S.Ct. 1467, 384 U.S. 947, 16 L.Ed.2d 544. Criminal Law ⚡ 1159.4(6)

Where defendant moved for judgment of acquittal both at close of government's case and at close of all the evidence, on appeal question was sufficiency of evidence, as a whole, to sustain verdict of guilty, rather than whether a prima facie case had been made out by government. U.S. v. Haskell, C.A.2 (Conn.) 1964, 327 F.2d 281, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 1351, 377 U.S. 945, 12 L.Ed.2d 307. Criminal Law ⚡ 1134(8)

Where verdicts were against defendants, reviewing court would take evidence most favorable to government in treating contention that defendants should have been acquitted on their motions. U. S. v. Tenenbaum, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1964, 327 F.2d 210, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 1165, 377 U.S. 905, 12 L.Ed.2d 177. Criminal Law ⚡ 1144.13(3)

Trial courts and reviewing courts must be especially cautious in evaluating the evidence as to each defendant in mass conspiracy trials. U.S. v. Bufalino, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1960, 285 F.2d 408. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(1)

Where jury found defendants guilty of conspiracy charged in first count of indictment, and failed to agree upon verdict on second count charging substantive offense, and defendants appealed, case was before Court of Appeals as though it had been tried only on conspiracy count. Blackford v. U. S., C.A.10 (Kan.) 1952, 195 F.2d 896, certiorari denied 72 S.Ct. 1041, 343 U.S. 945, 96 L.Ed. 1350. Criminal Law ⚡ 1134(8)

Courts of review do not weigh evidence or determine credibility of witnesses. U. S. v. Poppa, C.A.7 (Ind.) 1951, 190 F.2d 112. Criminal Law ⚡ 1159.2(9); Criminal Law ⚡ 1159.4(1)

In appeal from conviction for conspiracy, Court of Appeals must accept as true additional evidence offered by the government to prove the conspiracy. U.S. v. Nelson, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1950, 185 F.2d 758. Criminal Law ⚡ 1144.13(8)

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

On an appeal from a conspiracy conviction, it is not for the Circuit Court of Appeals to weigh the conflicting facts, circumstances and inferences of the trial proceedings, but only to consider whether the evidence, in its most favorable aspect to the Government, is legally capable of allowing a jury to become persuaded of guilt. Phelps v. U. S., C.C.A.8 (Minn.) 1947, 160 F.2d 858, rehearing denied 161 F.2d 940, certiorari denied 68 S.Ct. 1525, 334 U.S. 860, 92 L.Ed. 1780. Criminal Law ⚡ 1159.3(6)

On defendants' appeal from judgment on verdict of guilty, Circuit Court of Appeals must accept that view of the evidence which is most favorable to the government. Anderson v. U.S., C.C.A.6 (Tenn.) 1941, 124 F.2d 58, certiorari granted 62 S.Ct. 941, 316 U.S. 651, 86 L.Ed. 1732, reversed on other grounds 63 S.Ct. 599, 318 U.S. 350, 87 L.Ed. 829. See, also, Marx v. U.S., C.C.A.Minn.1936, 86 F.2d 245. Criminal Law ⚡ 1144.13(3)

Defendant, pleading guilty, is in same position respecting matters reviewable by appeal as though jury had found him guilty. Spirou v. U.S., C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1928, 24 F.2d 796, certiorari denied 48 S.Ct. 559, 277 U.S. 596, 72 L.Ed. 1006. Criminal Law ⚡ 1028

Advice of Judicial Council to use caution in using conspiracy statute, former § 88 of this title [now this section], had no relation as to duty of reviewing court. Knable v. U. S., C.C.A.6 (Ohio) 1925, 9 F.2d 567. Criminal Law ⚡ 1134(2)

Where the jury acquitted defendants of conspiracy, charged under former § 88 of this title [now this section], but convicted them of using the mails to defraud, contrary to former § 338 of this title, the record must be closely scanned to determine whether evidence admitted to support the conspiracy charge, and inadmissible on the other charge, prejudiced defendants. Hart v. U.S., C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1917, 240 F. 911, 153 C.C.A. 597. Criminal Law ⚡ 1163(3)

Where a defendant is shown by direct and positive evidence to have been a party to a conspiracy, or where the circumstantial evidence as to such defendant, properly applied, meets the required degree of proof, the record can be viewed as a composite whole. U. S. v. Standard Oil Co. (Indiana), W.D.Wis.1938, 23 F.Supp. 937, motion denied 24 F.Supp. 575, reversed 105 F.2d 809, certiorari granted 60 S.Ct. 124, 308 U.S. 540, 84 L.Ed. 455, reversed 60 S.Ct. 811, 310 U.S. 150, 84 L.Ed. 1129, rehearing denied 60 S.Ct. 1091, 310 U.S. 658, 84 L.Ed. 1421. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(2)

1062. Certiorari, review

Supreme Court granted certiorari to consider admissibility of codefendant's confession which was made after termination of alleged conspiracy and from which references to other defendants were not deleted and as to which the District Court instructed that the confession was to be considered only in determining guilt of confessor. Delli Paoli v. U.S., U.S.N.Y.1957, 77 S.Ct. 294, 352 U.S. 232, 1 L.Ed.2d 278. Federal Courts ⚡ 452

1063. Interlocutory appeal, review

On interlocutory appeal, Court of Appeals lacked jurisdiction to resolve issue of statutory interpretation concerning whether federal conspiracy statute authorized prosecution of defendant for rejoining conspiracy for which he had already been convicted. U.S. v. Asher, C.A.7 (Ind.) 1996, 96 F.3d 270, certiorari denied 117 S.Ct. 786, 519 U.S. 1100, 136 L.Ed.2d 729. Criminal Law ⚡ 1134(10)

Order, which granted forma pauperis relief to defendant by directing that minutes of trial wherein he was convicted for conspiracy be transcribed at government expense and which involved an expenditure of appropriately $3,000, was appealable, considering that there was no other way in which government could test direction to disburse a considerable sum of money. U. S. v. Sacco, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1970, 430 F.2d 1304. Criminal Law ⚡ 1023(12)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

1064. Record on appeal, review

Record in prosecution for conspiracy to transport stolen merchandise in interstate commerce disclosed that contrary to claim of defendant, court did not limit cross-examination of accomplice witness but rather the court stated it would allow impeachment of witness and counsel abandoned issue. U. S. v. Bastone, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1975, 526 F.2d 971, certiorari denied 96 S.Ct. 2172, 425 U.S. 973, 48 L.Ed.2d 797. Witnesses ↻ 278

Record on appeal from conviction for armed bank robbery and conspiracy established there was no concealment or suppression of any part of colloquy that occurred when government's accomplice witness pleaded guilty to reduced charge. U. S. v. Maxey, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1974, 498 F.2d 474. Criminal Law ↻ 700(4)

Record on appeal from conviction for conspiring to defraud the United States reflected no abuse of discretion with respect to order of proof at trial. U. S. v. Smith, C.A.10 (Okla.) 1974, 496 F.2d 185, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 225, 419 U.S. 964, 42 L.Ed.2d 179, rehearing denied 95 S.Ct. 646, 419 U.S. 1060, 42 L.Ed.2d 658. Criminal Law ↻ 680(1)

In prosecution for conspiratorial and substantive violations of gambling laws, wherein defense moved to discover names, addresses and telephone of all witnesses whom Government intended to call at trial, record was insufficient to pass upon defendants' claim that discovery was reasonable and necessary to prepare for trial and, inasmuch as Government had not had opportunity to make showing for protective order, dismissal with prejudice for failure of Government to comply with discovery order was unwarranted. U. S. v. Richter, C.A.9 (Wash.) 1973, 488 F.2d 170. Criminal Law ↻ 627.8(6); Criminal Law ↻ 1115(1)

Record on appeal from conviction for conspiring to counterfeit obligations of United States did not disclose presence of false or misleading information in presentence report that would constitute a violation of due process. U. S. v. Glover, C.A.4 (Va.) 1973, 475 F.2d 90. Constitutional Law ↻ 270(2)

Record, in prosecution resulting in defendant's conviction for conspiracy to violate section 2314 of this title relating to interstate transportation of stolen goods, disclosed that defendant was not prejudiced by actions of trial judge with respect to his alleged intervention and interrogation of witnesses, his remarks allegedly bolstering credibility of government witnesses and his alleged disparaging remarks indicating disbelief of defense witnesses. U. S. v. Way, C.A.5 (Fla.) 1972, 462 F.2d 1367, certiorari denied 93 S.Ct. 697, 409 U.S. 1078, 34 L.Ed.2d 667. Criminal Law ↻ 1166.22(5)

Record on appeal from conviction for conspiring to bribe and bribery of a public official showed that prosecution was scrupulously fair in affording defendant more than ample access to all evidence to which he was entitled and in fact disclosed appreciably more than was required by law. U. S. v. Caracci, C.A.5 (La.) 1971, 446 F.2d 173, certiorari denied 92 S.Ct. 202, 404 U.S. 881, 30 L.Ed.2d 162. Criminal Law ↻ 700(2.1)

Record on appeal from conviction for wilful misapplication of bank's funds, wilful making of false entries in bank records, and conspiracy to misapply bank funds did not support defendant's contention that he had been prejudiced as result of alleged inconsistent factual statements in closing arguments of counsel. U. S. v. Silverthorne, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1970, 430 F.2d 675, certiorari denied 91 S.Ct. 585, 400 U.S. 1022, 27 L.Ed.2d 633. Criminal Law ↻ 1171.1(2.1)

Evidence in proceeding to vacate conviction for conspiracy to commit offense against United States did not support petitioner's allegations that he was under influence of drugs at time of entry of guilty plea, that he was led to believe through misrepresentation of counsel that his federal sentence would run concurrently with, rather than consecutively to, prior state sentence, and that he had entered plea to avoid abuse and cruel treatment to which he was being subjected in county jail. Day v. U. S., C.A.8 (Mo.) 1970, 428 F.2d 1193. Criminal Law ↻ 1618(5)

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Record which did not show that government had list of witnesses did not show that trial court had erred in denying defendant's motion for complete list of witnesses in prosecution for conspiracy. U. S. v. Cudia, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1965, 346 F.2d 227, certiorari denied 86 S.Ct. 428, 382 U.S. 955, 15 L.Ed.2d 359, rehearing denied 86 S.Ct. 612, 382 U.S. 1021, 15 L.Ed.2d 536. Criminal Law ⚡ 1115(1)

Record on appeal from conspiracy conviction showed that particular defendant had sufficient connection with setting up means by which fraud was perpetrated and acquisition of property which became subject of interstate commerce to warrant submission to jury of issue of his knowledge and participation in the conspiracy. Ivey v. U.S., C.A.5 (Ga.) 1965, 346 F.2d 157, certiorari denied 86 S.Ct. 237, 382 U.S. 903, 15 L.Ed.2d 156. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.1(3)

Record revealed that defendants suffered no prejudice from assertedly adverse newspaper publicity where there was no showing that any juror came into contact with such matter or that he could not serve in fair and impartial manner but government had taken affirmative action, requesting newspapers to avoid publishing articles related to case and the trial court made continuing efforts to secure fair and impartial jury trial. U. S. v. Bentvena, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1963, 319 F.2d 916, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 345, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 271, rehearing denied 90 S.Ct. 894, 397 U.S. 928, 25 L.Ed.2d 108, rehearing denied 84 S.Ct. 515, 375 U.S. 989, 11 L.Ed.2d 476, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 346, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 271, rehearing denied 84 S.Ct. 1162, 377 U.S. 913, 12 L.Ed.2d 183, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 353, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 272, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 354, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 272, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 355, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 272, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 360, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 272. Criminal Law ⚡ 1174(1)

Where defendant, who was convicted of using mails to defraud and of conspiracy to use mails to defraud, did not cause to be transcribed testimony taken at very lengthy trial, and original papers certified by clerk of District Court did not include transcript of such testimony and an oral argument in Court of Appeals defendant's counsel did not press as error any matter which would not require examination of untranscribed testimony, judgment would be affirmed. Gallarelli v. U. S., C.A.1 (Mass.) 1957, 248 F.2d 539. Criminal Law ⚡ 1114.1(3)

Where speeches of the defense were not taken down in prosecution for using mails to defraud and for conspiracy, reviewing court would not reverse conviction, because of prosecutors' speeches to jury indicating importance of their decision to the public. U.S. v. Dilliard, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1938, 101 F.2d 829, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 484, 306 U.S. 635, 83 L.Ed. 1036. Criminal Law ⚡ 1119(4)

Alleged error, in view of the evidence, in charge that if the evidence established a conspiracy, it was a continuing conspiracy, was not reviewable where evidence was not before reviewing court. U.S. v. Twentieth Century Bus Operators, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1939, 101 F.2d 700, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 821, 307 U.S. 624, 83 L.Ed. 1502. Criminal Law ⚡ 1122(3)

1065. Questions or issues not raised below, review

Where defendant, who was convicted of conspiring to manufacture, import and distribute heroin, did not request a charge on multiple conspiracies and took no exception to the charge as given, he came ill-equipped to the Court of Appeals to assert a claim of a single conspiracy charged and multiple conspiracies proven; moreover, he made no showing of prejudice resulting from the asserted multiplicity. U. S. v. Head, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1976, 546 F.2d 6, certiorari denied 97 S.Ct. 1551, 430 U.S. 931, 51 L.Ed.2d 775. Criminal Law ⚡ 1050

Since the appellant's conviction under indictment's conspiracy count had to be affirmed, under the concurrent sentence rule the Court of Appeals did not have to consider his objection to the substantive count. U. S. v. Ingman, C.A.9 (Wash.) 1976, 541 F.2d 1329. Criminal Law ⚡ 1177

Although oblique references to defendant's federal wagering tax stamp filings were sufficient to entitle defendant to claim his privilege against self-incrimination, in prosecution for conspiracy to use and actual use of facilities in interstate commerce to carry on an unlawful gambling business, it was incumbent on defendant to make a timely and proper assertion of privilege; accordingly, where privilege was not asserted in trial court, defense counsel being aware that availability of privilege was being actively litigated, privilege was waived and could not be asserted for first time on appeal. Nolan v. U. S., C.A.10 (Okla.) 1969, 423 F.2d 1031, certiorari denied 91 S.Ct. 47, 400 U.S. 848, 27 L.Ed.2d 85. Criminal Law ⚡ 1036.1(3.1)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In prosecution for violation of the Harison Narcotic Act, §§ 4704, 7237 of Title 26, the Jones-Miller Act, § 174 of Title 21, and conspiracy to violate such Acts, defendant who had made no request that jury be examined on voir dire to determine whether they had read newspaper articles and, if so, whether they had been influenced thereby could not successfully complain that trial judge had abused his discretion in denying new trial motion grounded on newspaper articles relative to expected testimony of a woman that one of defendants had acted as her procurer and had supplied her with narcotics, and that she was afraid to testify. Ferrari v. U. S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1957, 244 F.2d 132, certiorari denied 78 S.Ct. 124, 355 U.S. 873, 2 L.Ed.2d 78, certiorari denied 78 S.Ct. 125, 355 U.S. 873, 2 L.Ed.2d 78. Criminal Law ⚡ 1039

Where defendants, each of whom was convicted of substantive offense of operating lottery, and jointly of conspiracy to operate lottery, did not request trial court to compel election of counts on ground that substantive and conspiracy counts were duplicitous, in view of identity of proof under each count, and constituted double jeopardy, defendants did not save question for review on appeal, and Court of Appeals would not consider merits of contention. Aikens v. U.S., C.A.D.C.1956, 232 F.2d 66, 98 U.S.App.D.C. 66. Criminal Law ⚡ 1032(6)

Where conspiracy count charged 17 overt acts and defendant criticized only four of them and it was impossible to say which overt act jury found to have been committed, no error was presented. Holmes v. U. S., C.C.A.8 (Neb.) 1943, 134 F.2d 125, certiorari denied 63 S.Ct. 1434, 319 U.S. 776, 87 L.Ed. 1722. Criminal Law ⚡ 1116

Whether it was necessary that testimony of a conspirator against his codefendants in prosecution for conspiracy to transport stolen jewelry in interstate commerce be corroborated was not an issue on appeal where objection to admission of such evidence was made on the ground that it tended to show defendants had committed an offense other than that charged in the indictment. Banning v. U.S., C.C.A.6 (Mich.) 1942, 130 F.2d 330, certiorari denied 63 S.Ct. 434, 317 U.S. 695, 87 L.Ed. 556. Criminal Law ⚡ 1043(3)

In prosecution for conspiracy to transport stolen jewelry in interstate commerce, error in permitting district attorney on cross-examination of one of the defendants to inquire whether several years previously while being taken to prison he had not taken deputy sheriff's gun and shot him was not prejudicial error in view of fact that defendant replied in the negative and no attempt was made to refute such answer and the matter inquired about was remote and irrelevant. Banning v. U.S., C.C.A.6 (Mich.) 1942, 130 F.2d 330, certiorari denied 63 S.Ct. 434, 317 U.S. 695, 87 L.Ed. 556. Criminal Law ⚡ 1170.5(5)

In prosecution for conspiracies and attempts to defraud income tax, accused could not successfully complain on appeal as to keeping wife off stand, where every one then supposed that such was the law and defense agreed that it should be done. U.S. v. Wexler, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1935, 79 F.2d 526, certiorari denied 56 S.Ct. 384, 297 U.S. 703, 80 L.Ed. 991. Criminal Law ⚡ 1137(1)

In a prosecution against a contractor, who manufactured leather jerkins for the United States, and another, for conspiracy to defraud the United States, etc., in violation of former §§ 87 and 88 [now this section] of this title, where the contractor disposed of linings furnished by the United States, title to which did not pass to him, it was unnecessary to inquire whether, at the time he demanded the linings disposed of, he knew that they were in excess of his requirements, where there was no evidence in the record, and nothing was said in the argument concerning it. Borman v. U.S., C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1919, 262 F. 26. Criminal Law ⚡ 1178

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

1066. Objections not raised below, review

Where statement by codefendant, who did not testify at joint prosecution for conspiring to defraud an agency of the United States Government by intentionally selling to agent a nonnarcotic substance represented to be heroin, added very little weight to Government's case against defendant who did not object to its admission, introduction of such statement did not constitute sufficiently serious flaw to rise to level of "plain error" so as to permit defendant, under rule 52, Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure, this title, to raise for first time on appeal his right to confrontation of witness under U.S.C.A. Const. Amend. 6. U. S. v. Morales, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1973, 477 F.2d 1309. Criminal Law ⤴ 1036.1(5)

Where defendants in prosecution for fraudulent sale of securities, fraud in the use of the mails and for conspiracy did not point out before trial court or in appellate court with any particularity why any particular exhibit was objectionable or how defendants were prejudiced by admission of the evidence, Court of Appeals would not consider claim that trial court erroneously denied motion to strike certain exhibits. Wall v. U. S., C.A.10 (Utah) 1967, 384 F.2d 758. Criminal Law ⤴ 1036.1(6)

In prosecution for conspiracy and smuggling in relation to alleged plot to blow up Statue of Liberty, allegations of error by two defendants with respect to testimony concerning racist organization and Canadian separatist organization to which third defendant belonged could not be sustained when no objection was raised before trial court and, in any event, such evidence was clearly relevant to the conspiracy. U. S. v. Bowe, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1966, 360 F.2d 1, certiorari denied 87 S.Ct. 401, 385 U.S. 961, 17 L.Ed.2d 306, certiorari denied 87 S.Ct. 779, 385 U.S. 1042, 17 L.Ed.2d 686, rehearing denied 87 S.Ct. 1040, 386 U.S. 969, 18 L.Ed.2d 127. Conspiracy ⤴ 45; Criminal Law ⤴ 1036.1(3.1)

Failure to note objection precluded assigning as error on appeal claim that trial court failed to instruct jury that coconspirator's acts and declarations, made in furtherance of conspiracy, may serve as evidence against his codefendants only with respect to conspiracy count. U. S. v. Castellana, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1965, 349 F.2d 264, certiorari denied 86 S.Ct. 934, 383 U.S. 928, 15 L.Ed.2d 847, certiorari denied 86 S.Ct. 935, 383 U.S. 928, 15 L.Ed.2d 847, rehearing denied 86 S.Ct. 1368, 384 U.S. 923, 16 L.Ed.2d 444. Criminal Law ⤴ 1038.2

Error in admission of testimony of F.B.I. agent concerning statements made by alleged coconspirator of defendant to agent after alleged conspiracy had been terminated was sufficiently prejudicial to be considered on appeal though error was not called to attention of federal district court. Gay v. U. S., C.A.10 (Utah) 1963, 322 F.2d 208. Criminal Law ⤴ 1036.1(3.1)

Where exhibits were available for inspection by defendants for three weeks before submission to jury, and defendants found out at least before jury had finished deliberations that objectionable material was attached to exhibits but made no objection until moving for new trial, any error did not warrant reversal. Farrell v. U. S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1963, 321 F.2d 409, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 631, 375 U.S. 992, 11 L.Ed.2d 478. Criminal Law ⤴ 1036.1(6)

Receipt of inadmissible hearsay evidence as to a purported agreement of a defendant charged with conspiracy was prejudicial error, where it was only evidence sufficient to make a case against him, and notice would be taken thereof on appeal, even though the evidence was received without objection. U. S. v. Dunn, C.A.6 (Ky.) 1962, 299 F.2d 548. Criminal Law ⤴ 419(1.5); Criminal Law ⤴ 1036.5; Criminal Law ⤴ 1169.1(9)

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate statutory provisions relating to manufacture, sale, possession, transportation, and distribution of untax-paid whiskey, wherein appellants had made no objection at trial as to admission of testimony that codefendant, after being arrested, had admitted delivery of whiskey from premises of which one of appellants was a tenant, admission of such testimony was not error. Roberson v. U.S., C.A.6 (Tenn.) 1960, 282 F.2d 648, certiorari denied 81 S.Ct. 167, 364 U.S. 879, 5 L.Ed.2d 102. Criminal Law ⤴ 1036.1(3.1)

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Where defendants obtained dismissal of counts in indictment charging income tax evasion and conspiracy to evade income taxes, but did not seek mistrial on basis that what was excluded by dismissal was so inextricably mingled with what was retained in remaining count charging conspiracy to obstruct Treasury Department in collection of income taxes, as to make impossible a fair trial based only on admissible evidence, defendants could not complain of fact that emphasis in trial shifted from charges of direct tax evasion to broader charges contained in remaining count. U.S. v. Klein, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1957, 247 F.2d 908, certiorari denied 78 S.Ct. 365, 355 U.S. 924, 2 L.Ed.2d 354. Criminal Law ⚡ 1137(2)

Trial court did not err in not sustaining objections to evidence of Government witnesses as to statements made by codefendant of defendants, not in the presence of the defendants, prior to formation and not in pursuance of alleged conspiracy, and prior to production of any evidence to establish conspiracy, where codefendant did not object to such testimony, since such testimony was admissible as to codefendant. Alexander v. U. S., C.A.8 (Mo.) 1957, 241 F.2d 351, certiorari denied 77 S.Ct. 1405, 354 U.S. 940, 1 L.Ed.2d 1539, rehearing denied 78 S.Ct. 78, 355 U.S. 852, 2 L.Ed.2d 61. Criminal Law ⚡ 422(9)

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate seven liquor law provisions, defendant, failing to call trial court's attention to possible jeopardy of sentence for felony on conviction of violating any of such provisions, though violation of one of them would be only a misdemeanor, for which maximum permissible penalty is 30 days in jail and $1,000 fine, by objection to form of indictment, request for charge to jury, calling for special verdict or verdict indicating degree of offense for which defendant was convicted, objection to court's charge, or otherwise, until after verdict of conviction was recorded and jury discharged, waived any errors in the indictment and trial and could not insist that these made the verdict ambiguous. Williams v. U.S., C.A.5 (Ga.) 1956, 238 F.2d 215, certiorari denied 77 S.Ct. 589, 352 U.S. 1024, 1 L.Ed.2d 596. Criminal Law ⚡ 1032(5); Criminal Law ⚡ 1038.1(3.1); Criminal Law ⚡ 1038.3

Where objection to venue was not raised until the conclusion of government's proof in prosecution for conspiracy to violate narcotic laws, objection was waived. Poliafico v. U. S., C.A.6 (Ohio) 1956, 237 F.2d 97, certiorari denied 77 S.Ct. 590, 352 U.S. 1025, 1 L.Ed.2d 597, rehearing denied 77 S.Ct. 718, 353 U.S. 931, 1 L.Ed.2d 725. Criminal Law ⚡ 132

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate narcotic laws, where government at first declined, but later turned over to defendants' counsel statements of government witness who had pled guilty to crime with understanding that such witnesses could be called for further cross-examination, and defendants did not avail themselves of this opportunity, they could not contend on appeal that they should have been allowed to show inconsistencies between such statements and witnesses' testimony. Poliafico v. U. S., C.A.6 (Ohio) 1956, 237 F.2d 97, certiorari denied 77 S.Ct. 590, 352 U.S. 1025, 1 L.Ed.2d 597, rehearing denied 77 S.Ct. 718, 353 U.S. 931, 1 L.Ed.2d 725. Criminal Law ⚡ 1036.2

In prosecution for conspiracy to steal or to receive, possess and dispose of whiskey from an interstate shipment, where evidence as to other crimes and conspiracies was not solicited by prosecution, but was injected by a witness in response to cross-examination questions of counsel for defendants, and there was no immediate objection to such evidence, subsequent refusal to strike such evidence was not reversible error. Clark v. U.S., C.A.5 (Fla.) 1954, 213 F.2d 63. Criminal Law ⚡ 1168(4)

In prosecution for conspiracy, where no objection was made to alleged improper remarks of prosecuting attorney, such remarks were not subject to review. Clark v. U.S., C.A.5 (Fla.) 1954, 213 F.2d 63. Criminal Law ⚡ 1037.1(1)

In prosecution for conspiracy to commit, and the commission of, violations of §§ 173 and 174 of Title 21 and § 2591(a) of Title 26, alleged error of trial judge in refusing to read from case report prepared by Narcotics Agent would not be considered in view of defense counsel's acquiescence in judge's conduct. U. S. v. Tramaglino, C.A.2

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

(N.Y.) 1952, 197 F.2d 928, certiorari denied 73 S.Ct. 105, 344 U.S. 864, 97 L.Ed. 670. Criminal Law ☞ 1137(1)

Where court in conspiracy prosecution gave cautionary instructions as to credibility of defendant's personal testimony, and gave no instructions as to scrutiny to be given testimony of an accomplice, but defendant's counsel made no request and entered no objection or exceptions to conclusions in judge's charge, Court of Appeals could, in the public interest, take notice of the error, if any. U.S. v. Levi, C.A.7 (Ind.) 1949, 177 F.2d 827. Criminal Law ☞ 1038.3; Criminal Law ☞ 1056.1(4)

In prosecution for conspiracy, admission of hearsay statements made to and by co-conspirators out of presence of conspirator, to which he was not a party, if error, was not ground for reversal in absence of exceptions thereto. Briggs v. U.S., C.A.10 (Okla.) 1949, 176 F.2d 317, certiorari denied 70 S.Ct. 102, 338 U.S. 861, 94 L.Ed. 528, rehearing denied 70 S.Ct. 158, 338 U.S. 882, 94 L.Ed. 541, certiorari denied 70 S.Ct. 103, 338 U.S. 861, 94 L.Ed. 528. Criminal Law ☞ 1054(1)

Where indictment charged that defendant, codefendant, and divers persons unknown were parties to conspiracy, and confession by codefendant was in evidence, defendant could not object for first time on appeal to instruction that a conspiracy involves two persons and that, if defendant was found not guilty of conspiracy, jury must find codefendant not guilty. U.S. v. Negro, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1947, 164 F.2d 168. Criminal Law ☞ 1038.1(4)

Where evidence on issue whether conspiracy included particular defendant made a case for jury and there was no objection to charge, admission of evidence of what other conspirators said during continuance of enterprise about defendant, which was ruled to be dependent on satisfactory establishment otherwise that conspiracy included defendant, was not reversible error. Hall v. U.S., C.C.A.5 (Ga.) 1945, 150 F.2d 280, certiorari denied 66 S.Ct. 140, 326 U.S. 760, 90 L.Ed. 457. Criminal Law ☞ 1169.7

In prosecution for conspiracy to defraud Government of floor stock tax on distilled spirits and wine, where court explained effect on one defendant of testimony as to statements made by other defendant in nature of admission, and no further complaint was made of admission of such testimony, such defendant could not complain on appeal of admission of such testimony. Auerbach v. U.S., C.C.A.6 (Tenn.) 1943, 136 F.2d 882. Criminal Law ☞ 673(4)

If testimony, though relevant on certain issues, was prejudicial and proved too much, it was duty of accused to suggest to court below that jury be instructed to make only a limited use of the testimony, and it was too late to object to prejudicial effect of testimony for first time on appeal. Deacon v. U. S., C.C.A.1 (Mass.) 1941, 124 F.2d 352. Criminal Law ☞ 1038.3

In prosecution of three defendants for conspiracy to have in their possession counterfeit coins and to attempt to pass, utter and sell such coins and for possession of counterfeit coins, contention that testimony of secret service agent that two of defendants stated to him in presence of codefendant that the three of them came to town together and that codefendant did not deny statement was inadmissible and prejudicial to codefendant was not available on appeal where no objection was interposed to testimony at time of its admission and codefendant made no request that it be limited to defendants as against whom it was clearly admissible. Reavis v. U.S., C.C.A.10 (Okla.) 1939, 106 F.2d 982. Criminal Law ☞ 1036.1(5); Criminal Law ☞ 1036.3

Although defendants made no specific objection to introduction in evidence of testimony procured by government agents' intercepting and divulging intrastate telephone communication between defendants on ground that such admission violated § 151 et seq. of Title 47, appellate court could consider and determine such question to avoid a miscarriage of justice. Sablowsky v. U. S., C.C.A.3 (Pa.) 1938, 101 F.2d 183. Criminal Law ☞ 1036.1(4)

In prosecution for use of mails in furtherance of scheme to defraud owners of public investment trust units, for violation of § 77a et seq. of Title 15 and for conspiracy to commit such crimes, court's statement that objection to question propounded witness might be renewed later if the defendants were not connected "with this unlawful scheme or schemes" was not an error which could be considered on appeal, where objection was not presented to trial court in some manner. Troutman v. U. S., C.C.A.10 (Colo.) 1938, 100 F.2d 628. Criminal Law ↪ 1035(9)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

An exception to the court's charge respecting the nature of the conspiracy charged in indictment on ground that it did not represent a correct statement of the law if it represented the same theory that the court had advanced during a colloquy with the prosecuting attorney, presented nothing for review. Diehl v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Mo.) 1938, 98 F.2d 545. Criminal Law ↪ 1059(2)

Judgment of conviction for possessing counterfeit United States obligations with intent to pass could not be reversed in absence of valid bill of exceptions. Trant v. U.S., C.C.A.7 (Ill.) 1936, 88 F.2d 475. Criminal Law ↪ 1090.1(1)

The fact that an indictment charging conspiracy, on which issue alone the case was submitted, was duplicitous, was immaterial, where motions by defendants to quash were abandoned and not argued. Matthews v. U.S., C.C.A.7 (Ill.) 1924, 300 F. 556. Indictment And Information ↪ 196(7)

In prosecution for a conspiracy to commit offense against United States, for aiding and abetting attempted armed robbery of national bank, and for being an accessory after the fact to principal offender in the robbery, questions which were asked state trooper, as to whereabouts at time of trial of other troopers who had contact with defendants after attempted robbery but which were not objected to, were properly admitted in evidence as any error was waived by failure to make objection. U. S. v. Anthony, M.D.Pa.1956, 145 F.Supp. 323. Criminal Law ↪ 698(1)

1067. Standing, review

Defendants who were not charged in indictment alleging that their codefendants had willfully and maliciously destroyed dock and vessel within the special admiralty and territorial jurisdiction of United States had no standing to challenge that count of indictment for failing to allege acts falling within the special maritime and territorial jurisdiction of the United States, where offense charged in count affected trial of complaining defendants only insofar as it was one of the several unlawful objects alleged in conspiracy count against all defendants and such count did not affect convictions of complaining defendants on conspiracy counts so long as any one of the objects of conspiracy was unchallenged. U. S. v. Tanner, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1972, 471 F.2d 128, certiorari denied 93 S.Ct. 269, 409 U.S. 949, 34 L.Ed.2d 220. Indictment And Information ↪ 144

1068. Presumptions, review

Reviewing court could not presume that trial judge made improper use of evidence as to an asserted conspirator's admission. United States v. Tutino, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1959, 269 F.2d 488. Criminal Law ↪ 1144.1

In prosecution for using, and conspiracy to use, mails to defraud, procedure followed in admitting evidence which was limited to certain defendants when admitted on understanding that, if it later became admissible as to others, government could move to have it so treated, and then denying motion to have evidence admitted against all defendants except such as had been offered only against particular defendants and instructing jury as to use to be made of such evidence, was not erroneous, since reviewing court could not assume that jury would disregard instructions and make improper use of evidence. U.S. v. Rollnick, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1937, 91 F.2d 911. Criminal Law ↪ 1144.15

Where an indictment contained three counts, the first two of which were insufficient, and charged an offense different from that charged in the third count, and the court instructed the jury that they might find the defendants guilty on all or any of the three counts, that they could find a general verdict of guilty and such verdict would be upheld in the way of pleading, if any of the counts in the indictment were good, it cannot be presumed that the general verdict was based on the third count, which was good, and therefore the conviction must be reversed. Bruno v. U.S., C.C.A.1 (Mass.) 1923, 289 F. 649.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In a prosecution for conspiracy to defraud the United States by adding fictitious names to the pay roll of a railroad which had been under federal control for more than a year, the conviction should not be reversed for absence of affirmative proof (a point not raised on the trial) that the money obtained by means of such fictitious entries was money derived from the operation of the road during federal control, which Federal Control Act, § 12 (temporary) and therefore the property of the U.S., there being a presumption that it was so derived. Morenkow v. U. S., C.C.A.6 (Ohio) 1921, 276 F. 293. Conspiracy ⚡ 43(10); Indictment And Information ⚡ 62

Where, in a trial for conspiring to use the mails in carrying out a scheme to defraud, on an indictment charging a scheme to defraud named persons and others whose names were unknown to grand inquest, there was no showing that any other persons than those named were known to the grand inquest, it was presumed on writ of error that the indictment in this regard truthfully stated the fact. US v. Marrin, E.D.Pa.1908, 159 F. 767, affirmed 167 F. 951, 93 C.C.A. 351, certiorari denied 32 S.Ct. 523, 223 U.S. 719, 56 L.Ed. 629.

1069. Assistance of counsel, review

In prosecution for conspiracy to defraud the United States, where the trial court, though advised of the possibility that conflicting interests might arise which would diminish an attorney's usefulness to defendant for whom attorney had entered his appearance as associate counsel, appointed attorney as codefendant's counsel, evidence showed that attorney's representation of defendant was not as effective as it might have been had the appointment not been made, and the court thereby denied defendant his right to have the effective "assistance of counsel" guaranteed by U.S.C.A.Const. Amend.6. Glasser v. U.S., U.S.III.1942, 62 S.Ct. 457, 315 U.S. 60, 86 L.Ed. 680, rehearing denied 62 S.Ct. 629, 315 U.S. 827, 86 L.Ed. 1222, rehearing denied 62 S.Ct. 637, 315 U.S. 827, 86 L.Ed. 1222. Criminal Law ⚡ 641.5(2.1)

In conspiracy cases, where the liberal rules of evidence and the wide latitude accorded the prosecution may and sometimes do operate unfairly against an individual defendant, it is especially important that the defendant be given the benefit of the undivided assistance of his counsel without the court's becoming a party to encumbering that assistance. Glasser v. U.S., U.S.III.1942, 62 S.Ct. 457, 315 U.S. 60, 86 L.Ed. 680, rehearing denied 62 S.Ct. 629, 315 U.S. 827, 86 L.Ed. 1222, rehearing denied 62 S.Ct. 637, 315 U.S. 827, 86 L.Ed. 1222. Criminal Law ⚡ 641.13(1)

Refusal to appoint counsel for petitioner, who had pled guilty to conspiracy, and who was represented by counsel at plea proceeding and at hearing on his motion to vacate sentence, for appeal, which presented primary question involving review of evidence presented at hearing at which motion was denied, was not abuse of discretion. Day v. U. S., C.A.8 (Mo.) 1970, 428 F.2d 1193. Criminal Law ⚡ 1077.3

Defendant who retained private counsel, who failed to object before or during trial to lack of separate counsel for codefendant, and who was unable to point to any incident indicating lack of effective assistance of counsel was not prejudiced by trial court's failure to inform him of alleged right to separate counsel in conspiracy prosecution. U. S. v. Martinez, C.A.6 (Ohio) 1970, 428 F.2d 86, certiorari denied 91 S.Ct. 125, 400 U.S. 881, 27 L.Ed.2d 119, certiorari denied 91 S.Ct. 1630, 402 U.S. 951, 29 L.Ed.2d 122. Criminal Law ⚡ 641.5(7)

No ground for reversal was presented by trial court's assigning counsel to represent a defendant after his counsel and co-counsel had claimed illness, but court appointed physicians could find no objective signs of injury or illness. U. S. v. Bentvena, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1963, 319 F.2d 916, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 345, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 271, rehearing denied 90 S.Ct. 894, 397 U.S. 928, 25 L.Ed.2d 108, rehearing denied 84 S.Ct. 515, 375 U.S. 989, 11 L.Ed.2d 476, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 346, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 271, rehearing denied 84 S.Ct. 1162, 377 U.S. 913, 12 L.Ed.2d 183, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 353, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 272, certiorari

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

denied 84 S.Ct. 354, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 272, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 355, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 272, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 360, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 272. Criminal Law ☞ 1166.10(1)

No ground for reversal appeared in court's denying request of a defendant to discharge appointed defense counsel and conduct cross-examination of government's principal witness himself where he indicated no dissatisfaction with his counsel and apparently relied solely on right to represent himself. U. S. v. Bentvena, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1963, 319 F.2d 916, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 345, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 271, rehearing denied 90 S.Ct. 894, 397 U.S. 928, 25 L.Ed.2d 108, rehearing denied 84 S.Ct. 515, 375 U.S. 989, 11 L.Ed.2d 476, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 346, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 271, rehearing denied 84 S.Ct. 1162, 377 U.S. 913, 12 L.Ed.2d 183, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 353, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 272, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 354, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 272, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 355, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 272, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 360, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 272. Criminal Law ☞ 1166.10(2)

Test of whether reversal was to be ordered because of denial of continuance sought to permit counsel to prepare was whether asserted lack of effective assistance of counsel was such as to shock conscience of court and to make proceedings a farce and mockery of justice. U. S. v. Bentvena, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1963, 319 F.2d 916, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 345, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 271, rehearing denied 90 S.Ct. 894, 397 U.S. 928, 25 L.Ed.2d 108, rehearing denied 84 S.Ct. 515, 375 U.S. 989, 11 L.Ed.2d 476, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 346, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 271, rehearing denied 84 S.Ct. 1162, 377 U.S. 913, 12 L.Ed.2d 183, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 353, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 272, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 354, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 272, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 355, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 272, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 360, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 272. Criminal Law ☞ 1166(7)

Contention that defense counsel appointed by district court was inadequately equipped, because of a dearth of professional experience, to defend prisoners charged with violation of white slave law, § 2421 of this title, and conspiracy to commit such offense was without support in the record. U.S. v. Stoecker, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1954, 216 F.2d 51. Criminal Law ☞ 641.13(4)

Record disclosed no abuse of discretion by district judge in selection and appointment of counsel to defend prisoners charged with violation of white slave law, § 2421 of this title, and conspiracy to commit such offense. U.S. v. Stoecker, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1954, 216 F.2d 51. Criminal Law ☞ 641.10(1)

Record on appeal from convictions for violation of white slave law, § 2421 of this title, and conspiracy to commit such offense established that defense counsel appointed by district court provided defendants the representation by counsel guaranteed by U.S.C.A.Const. Amend. 6. U.S. v. Stoecker, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1954, 216 F.2d 51. Criminal Law ☞ 641.13(2.1)

In prosecution for using, and conspiracy to use, mails to defraud, those defendants who were represented only by lawyer who was appointed by court to represent them in addition to defendant by whom he had been employed could not complain of trial court's action for first time on appeal after conviction where they had accepted services. U.S. v. Rollnick, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1937, 91 F.2d 911. Criminal Law ☞ 1035(7)

In prosecution for using, and conspiracy to use, mails to defraud by selling watered stock, the appointment of attorney for defendant who had acted as promoter, to act for defendants who participated in scheme by their activities on paper which pushed sale of stock, was not erroneous because of the conflict of interest between the defendants for whom attorney was appointed and defendant for whom he was acting. U.S. v. Rollnick, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1937, 91 F.2d 911. Criminal Law ☞ 641.5(3)

Defense attorney's failure to interview or call some potential character witnesses prior to defendant's guilty plea in smuggling conspiracy prosecution was not ineffective assistance of counsel; attorney's determination that witnesses would do more harm than good at sentencing stage was objectively reasonable, and there was no evidence that interviews would have altered attorney's plea recommendation. Silva v. U.S., N.D.Ill.1999, 75 F.Supp.2d 877. Criminal Law ☞ 641.13(7)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Even though employee of defendant's attorney was invited by trial judge to sit at counsel table, and did so, there was no abdication of authority by attorney to employee and no denial of effective assistance of counsel. Mengarelli v. U. S., D.C.Nev.1971, 325 F.Supp. 358, affirmed 476 F.2d 617. Criminal Law ☞ 641.13(2.1)

1070. Comments of court, review

In prosecution for conspiracy to commit, aiding and abetting in, and commission of substantive crimes of making false statements to Immigration and Naturalization Service, obstruction of justice, and visa fraud, in which there was no evidence of "hierarchical" conspiracy, trial judge committed error in including in his charge prejudicial commentaries on law of conspiracy, such as reference to "gruesome, irremediable, drastic horrifying effects of conspiratorial plans," which may have left jury with impression that defendants were members of vast criminal syndicate that government was beginning to unravel. U.S. v. Assi, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1984, 748 F.2d 62. Conspiracy ☞ 48.2(1)

In prosecution for conspiracy to defraud the United States, trial court's comment that another individual should have been named a conspirator was not reversible error, inasmuch as the comment did not so prejudice the jury as to deprive defendants of a fair trial. U. S. v. Burgin, C.A.5 (Miss.) 1980, 621 F.2d 1352, rehearing denied 627 F.2d 239, certiorari denied 101 S.Ct. 574, 449 U.S. 1015, 66 L.Ed.2d 474. Criminal Law ☞ 1166.22(2)

Conviction would not be reversed for trial judge's remarks concerning credibility of witness where judge was not asked to inquire of jury whether they overheard his remarks and was not asked to give jury cautionary instruction. U. S. v. Nicholson, C.A.5 (La.) 1976, 525 F.2d 1233, certiorari denied 96 S.Ct. 2170, 425 U.S. 972, 48 L.Ed.2d 795, certiorari denied 97 S.Ct. 105, 429 U.S. 837, 50 L.Ed.2d 103. Criminal Law ☞ 1035(9)

Judge's statement, made out of hearing of jury, to effect that "Beaver 55" was a publication which one of the defendants had worked on with his mother could not be made basis of reversal of conspiracy conviction relating to destruction of draft board records. U. S. v. Donner, C.A.7 (Ind.) 1974, 497 F.2d 184, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 619, 419 U.S. 1047, 42 L.Ed.2d 641, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 620, 419 U.S. 1047, 42 L.Ed.2d 641. Criminal Law ☞ 1166.22(2)

In prosecution for conspiracy and mail fraud, judge's comments connected with his requiring that a defendant sit "around the other side of the table" because he was looking at witness and sitting close to witness and it was making her uncomfortable were not fatally prejudicial. U. S. v. Perez, C.A.5 (La.) 1973, 489 F.2d 51, rehearing denied 488 F.2d 552, certiorari denied 94 S.Ct. 3067, 417 U.S. 945, 41 L.Ed.2d 664, certiorari denied 94 S.Ct. 3068, 417 U.S. 945, 41 L.Ed.2d 664. Criminal Law ☞ 1166.22(2)

Comments made by trial judge after testimony of unindicted coconspirator were not premature instructions but merely constituted an explanation to jury as to the circumstances under which the testimony was being tentatively received, in prosecution for bribery conspiracy. U. S. v. Pordum, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1971, 451 F.2d 1015, certiorari denied 92 S.Ct. 1249, 405 U.S. 998, 31 L.Ed.2d 467, certiorari denied 92 S.Ct. 1269, 405 U.S. 998, 31 L.Ed.2d 467. Criminal Law ☞ 656(3)

Jury charge in prosecution for conspiracy to misapply bank funds and of making false entries in bank records with intent to defraud did not overstep bounds of rule relating to trial judge's right to comment on evidence. Gordon v. U. S., C.A.5 (Fla.) 1971, 438 F.2d 858, certiorari denied 92 S.Ct. 139, 404 U.S. 828, 30 L.Ed.2d 56, certiorari denied 92 S.Ct. 140, 404 U.S. 828, 30 L.Ed.2d 56, rehearing denied 92 S.Ct. 312, 404 U.S. 960, 30 L.Ed.2d 279, certiorari denied 92 S.Ct. 142, 404 U.S. 828, 30 L.Ed.2d 56, rehearing denied 92 S.Ct. 313, 404 U.S. 960, 30 L.Ed.2d 279, certiorari denied 92 S.Ct. 143, 404 U.S. 828, 30 L.Ed.2d 56, certiorari denied 92 S.Ct. 63, 404 U.S.

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

828, 30 L.Ed.2d 56. Criminal Law ⚡ 755.5

Trial judge's comment made subsequent to return of jury's verdicts did not constitute a basis for challenging validity of the verdicts as such comments could have no effect on verdict and merely characterized judge's view of the offense and culpability of the offender. U. S. v. Winn, C.A.10 (Okla.) 1969, 411 F.2d 415, certiorari denied 90 S.Ct. 245, 396 U.S. 919, 24 L.Ed.2d 198. Criminal Law ⚡ 656(9)

Record did not support defendants' claims of misconduct by trial judge, in allegedly conducting ex parte proceeding in absence of defendants and their counsel in violation of jury-trial rights secured by U.S.C.A.Const. Amend. 6, in relation to comment by judge on basis for determination of intent and wilful participation, as requested by jurors during deliberations in criminal conspiracy trial. U. S. v. Kelly, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1965, 349 F.2d 720, certiorari denied 86 S.Ct. 1467, 384 U.S. 947, 16 L.Ed.2d 544. Criminal Law ⚡ 863(2)

Judge's cautions from time to time that certain evidence admissible as to one defendant would be inadmissible as to other defendant until there was some evidence of conspiracy, something to tie the two together or some connecting proof did not mislead jury as to degree of proof needed to establish conspiracy. U. S. v. Lukasik, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1965, 341 F.2d 325, certiorari denied 85 S.Ct. 1770, 381 U.S. 938, 14 L.Ed.2d 702. Criminal Law ⚡ 783(1)

Jury's final responsibility in conspiracy case was not diluted by trial court's parenthetical reference early in trial to higher court's looking at record, to explain persistence in requiring a witness to make it clear to jury just which of the persons in the courtroom he was identifying. U. S. v. Lukasik, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1965, 341 F.2d 325, certiorari denied 85 S.Ct. 1770, 381 U.S. 938, 14 L.Ed.2d 702. Criminal Law ⚡ 656(3)

Court's statement to jury in overruling objections to testimony relating to acts, conversations and statements made by one or more of defendants, out of presence of other defendants, to effect that government had shown connection between each act, conversation and statement and the several defendants had effect of suggesting that court believed that conspiracy existed and improperly invaded province of jury. U. S. v. Allegretti, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1964, 340 F.2d 243, on rehearing 340 F.2d 254, certiorari denied 85 S.Ct. 1531, 381 U.S. 911, 14 L.Ed.2d 433, rehearing denied 85 S.Ct. 1800, 381 U.S. 956, 14 L.Ed.2d 728, certiorari denied 85 S.Ct. 1532, 381 U.S. 911, 14 L.Ed.2d 433, certiorari denied 88 S.Ct. 830, 390 U.S. 908, 19 L.Ed.2d 876. Criminal Law ⚡ 656(3)

Preliminary remarks by trial judge, in prosecution for conspiracy to take fraudulent deductions on corporate income tax return, regarding seriousness of crime of defeating or evading taxes were not, considering context and purpose, prejudicial to defendant. U.S. v. Haskell, C.A.2 (Conn.) 1964, 327 F.2d 281, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 1351, 377 U.S. 945, 12 L.Ed.2d 307. Criminal Law ⚡ 1166.22(2)

Any prejudice to defendants charged with making knowingly false statements to commodity credit corporation and with conspiracy to defraud the United States, resulting from trial judge's colloquy with defense witness relative to quality of legal advice on which defendant acted was removed by court's immediate instruction that the quality of the advice was irrelevant. Smith v. U.S., C.A.9 (Or.) 1962, 305 F.2d 197, certiorari denied 83 S.Ct. 189, 371 U.S. 890, 9 L.Ed.2d 124, certiorari denied 83 S.Ct. 190, 371 U.S. 890, 9 L.Ed.2d 124. Criminal Law ⚡ 1166.22(5)

Trial judge's reprimanding defense counsel was not prejudicial to defendant, where judge also reprimanded prosecutor and there was no bias or prejudice in either set of reprimands. Herman v. U.S., C.A.5 (Fla.) 1961, 289 F.2d 362, certiorari denied 82 S.Ct. 174, 368 U.S. 897, 7 L.Ed.2d 93. Criminal Law ⚡ 1166.22(3)

In conspiracy prosecution, where during the course of trial a codefendant without knowledge of defendant withdrew his plea of not guilty and entered a plea of guilty, and juror inquired whether such plea had something to do with the guilt of defendant, response of court that the fact that codefendant was guilty did not of itself indicate that defendant was guilty, and whatever weight the jury gave to fact that codefendant had pleaded guilty was a matter for jury, and that he might be guilty of conspiring with another conspirator, was reversible error. Trussell v.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

U.S., C.A.6 (Ky.) 1960, 278 F.2d 478. Criminal Law ⚡ 655(9); Criminal Law ⚡ 1166.22(4.1)

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate narcotic laws, where evidence was insufficient to show defendant's participation in conspiracy, statement of trial court in presence of jury that testimony of government witness, if believed, was sufficient to show that all the defendants were a part of conspiracy, was error prejudicial to defendant. Chavez v. U. S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1960, 275 F.2d 813. Criminal Law ⚡ 656(9); Criminal Law ⚡ 1166.22(7)

In prosecution for conspiracy with bankrupt to conceal assets from bankruptcy receiver, record established that various statements made by trial judge from time to time throughout trial were not meant or understood by jury as comments on evidence which might be weighed by jury but that such statements were responses of trial judge as judge and counsel were engaged in advancing, testing, and countering with arguments, pro and con, on objections or rulings on evidence. Sultan v. U. S., C.A.5 (Fla.) 1957, 249 F.2d 385. Criminal Law ⚡ 656(3)

In prosecution of four defendants for conspiracy, it was not error for trial court to express an opinion on evidence where trial court clearly instructed jury that they were not bound by the judge's opinion but were free to exercise their own judgment. Stanley v. U. S., C.A.6 (Ky.) 1957, 245 F.2d 427, motion denied 249 F.2d 64. Criminal Law ⚡ 762(3)

In prosecution for violation of the Harrison Narcotic Act, §§ 4704, 7237 of Title, 26 and the Jones-Miller Act, § 174 of Title 21, and for conspiracy to violate those Acts, it was not error for trial judge to respond to jury's post-retirement inquiry, as to whether government's recordings of defendants' conversations could have been played in court if they were available, by stating that the records were unavailable, that they were not in evidence, and that consequently the jury couldn't have them. Ferrari v. U. S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1957, 244 F.2d 132, certiorari denied 78 S.Ct. 124, 355 U.S. 873, 2 L.Ed.2d 78, certiorari denied 78 S.Ct. 125, 355 U.S. 873, 2 L.Ed.2d 78. Criminal Law ⚡ 863(2)

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate federal statutes by dealing in untaxpaid liquor, record disclosed no error on ground that trial judge by too great a participation in asking questions and making statements displayed apparent bias in favor of prosecution so that a fair trial could not be had. Papalia v. U.S., C.A.5 (Fla.) 1957, 243 F.2d 437. Criminal Law ⚡ 655(1); Criminal Law ⚡ 656(2)

In prosecution for illegal sale of narcotics and for conspiracy to make such a sale, statement by trial judge in denying defendant's motion for a verdict of acquittal, in the presence of the jury, that the defense of entrapment was not borne out by the evidence was not error, and even if error was not prejudicial in view of judge's instruction to the jury that it was for them to say whether defendant was ready and willing to commit the offense charged. United States v. Masciale, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1956, 236 F.2d 601, certiorari granted 77 S.Ct. 568, 352 U.S. 1000, 1 L.Ed.2d 545, affirmed 78 S.Ct. 827, 356 U.S. 386, 2 L.Ed.2d 859, rehearing denied 78 S.Ct. 1367, 357 U.S. 933, 2 L.Ed.2d 1375. Criminal Law ⚡ 656(9); Criminal Law ⚡ 1166.22(7)

Where, in conspiracy prosecution, witness, who had been attorney for defendants, was asked whether defendants had unlawfully conspired with attorney to defraud the United States, trial court's subsequent remark that there had been questions concerning confidential relationships between lawyers and clients, that there were times when the privilege was not present, and that jury would be instructed later on that matter did not allude to the erroneous question, which was excluded, and did not constitute reversible error. U. S. v. Weinberg, C.A.3 (Pa.) 1955, 226 F.2d 161, certiorari denied 76 S.Ct. 305, 350 U.S. 933, 100 L.Ed. 815. Criminal Law ⚡ 1166.22(6)

In conspiracy prosecution, trial judge's straightforward reading to trial witnesses of requested portions of witness' testimony before grand jury for purpose of refreshing such witness' recollection, did not constitute an abuse of discretion. U. S. v. Weinberg, C.A.3 (Pa.) 1955, 226 F.2d 161, certiorari denied 76 S.Ct. 305, 350 U.S. 933, 100 L.Ed. 815. Witnesses ⚡ 255(9)

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Where, in conspiracy prosecution, counsel had decided views and expressed them as did trial judge, who stated in his charge that there were occasions when he had to stop counsel, naming them, but who stressed necessity of judge to be impartial, and who stated that he did not have any opinion and that that was not his department, trial judge's conduct did not deny defendants a fair trial. U. S. v. Weinberg, C.A.3 (Pa.) 1955, 226 F.2d 161, certiorari denied 76 S.Ct. 305, 350 U.S. 933, 100 L.Ed. 815. Criminal Law ☞ 655(1)

In prosecution for wilful misapplication of bank funds, making false entries in bank records, conspiracy to commit offenses against United States, and violation of mail fraud statute, § 1341 of this title, reference to fact that defrauded bank had closed, though irrelevant to issues in case, did not constitute ground for reversal, where, on only occasion when question was asked, designed to produce such information, defendant's counsel immediately objected and objection was sustained. U. S. v. Scoblick, C.A.3 (Pa.) 1955, 225 F.2d 779. Criminal Law ☞ 1171.1(3)

Record on appeal from conviction of conspiracy to defraud United States did not support defendant's contentions that trial judge had twisted the evidence or that his remarks had given jury wrong impressions. United States v. Scully, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1955, 225 F.2d 113, certiorari denied 76 S.Ct. 156, 350 U.S. 897, 100 L.Ed. 788. Criminal Law ☞ 655(1); Criminal Law ☞ 656(1)

Where trial court, in making statement to jury that defendant's alleged conspirators, who had testified against defendant, did not appear to have had anything to gain or lose by outcome of trial, made specific reference to defendant's testimony that one alleged coconspirator had stated that government was to drop counts against him if he would testify against defendant, he dispelled any possible impression that jury could not take into account any interest that they might find witnesses had. United States v. Martin, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1955, 223 F.2d 666. Criminal Law ☞ 785(9)

In prosecution for transporting stolen whiskey in interstate commerce and conspiring to steal such whiskey, wherein court sustained objection to statements by one of defendants, while being examined as witness by his counsel, that state officers told them he had nothing to do with highjacking of whiskey and that indictment against him in federal court would be dismissed and they wanted him to testify in another suit, subsequent statement by court, that nobody bargained with the court and it made no promises at any time, was not erroneous or prejudicial to any of defendants. Tripp v. U.S., C.A.8 (Mo.) 1955, 221 F.2d 692. Criminal Law ☞ 656(3); Criminal Law ☞ 1166.22(4.1)

In conspiracy case, trial judge's remarks to jury, with reference to consideration to be given to certain evidence admissible against one defendant but inadmissible against other defendants, were not confusing or misleading. Metcalf v. U.S., C.A.6 (Ky.) 1952, 195 F.2d 213. Criminal Law ☞ 783(1)

In prosecution for transporting and conspiring to transport stolen motor vehicles beyond borders of state, comments by judge on lack of credibility of testimony of accomplice of defendant was not improper, and especially so when made in conjunction with warning that any incriminating testimony of accomplice should be received with careful scrutiny. U.S. v. Mura, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1951, 191 F.2d 886. Criminal Law ☞ 656(5)

In prosecution for transporting and causing to be transported a forged cashier's check drawn on Oklahoma bank from Oklahoma to Louisiana and for transporting forged check from Louisiana to Oklahoma and for conspiring to commit offense against United States by such transportation, record established that comments of court on evidence in charge considered as a whole were impartial and did not interfere with jurors' exercise of their independent judgment on facts. Byford v. U.S., C.A.10 (Okla.) 1950, 185 F.2d 171. Criminal Law ☞ 822(4)

Where codefendant indicted for conspiracy to steal government property was brought into court to plead guilty to that charge while defendant charged with tax evasions was on trial before a jury, and court remarked that codefendant's plea might make other defendants change their pleas, and newspapers connected the remark with the defendant, and court on following day questioned jury with respect to newspaper article in a reproving manner and never explained his comment, defendant was deprived of fair trial in tax evasion case and was entitled to a new trial. U.S. v. Levi, C.A.7 (Ind.) 1949, 177 F.2d 833. Criminal Law ⚡ 1186.4(3)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In prosecution of individuals and congressman for conspiracy with another to defraud the United States through violation of former § 203 of this title, prohibiting members of Congress from receiving compensation in matters affecting the government, comments of court indirectly referring to one defendant's failure to testify, made during extended colloquies concerning method of proving certain facts, was not reversible error in view of instruction that failure of that defendant to testify should not be construed against him. May v. United States, C.A.D.C.1949, 175 F.2d 994, 84 U.S.App.D.C. 233, certiorari denied 70 S.Ct. 58, 338 U.S. 830, 94 L.Ed. 505, order withheld 70 S.Ct. 81, 338 U.S. 854, motion denied 70 S.Ct. 94, motion denied 70 S.Ct. 95, rehearing denied 70 S.Ct. 154, 338 U.S. 882, 94 L.Ed. 542, rehearing denied 70 S.Ct. 155, 338 U.S. 882, 94 L.Ed. 542, order withheld 70 S.Ct. 80. Criminal Law ⚡ 1166.22(4.1)

In prosecution of individuals and congressman for conspiracy to defraud the United States through violation of former § 203 of this title, prohibiting members of Congress from receiving compensation in matters affecting the government, record failed to support defendant's claim of unfair trial as result of alleged misconduct of prosecutor and alleged improper comment, hostility and bias of trial judge. May v. United States, C.A.D.C.1949, 175 F.2d 994, 84 U.S.App.D.C. 233, certiorari denied 70 S.Ct. 58, 338 U.S. 830, 94 L.Ed. 505, order withheld 70 S.Ct. 81, 338 U.S. 854, motion denied 70 S.Ct. 94, motion denied 70 S.Ct. 95, rehearing denied 70 S.Ct. 154, 338 U.S. 882, 94 L.Ed. 542, rehearing denied 70 S.Ct. 155, 338 U.S. 882, 94 L.Ed. 542, order withheld 70 S.Ct. 80. Criminal Law ⚡ 655(1); Criminal Law ⚡ 713

In prosecution for conspiring to defraud the United States of taxes on distilled spirits, wherein the district court properly refused to permit cross-examination of a witness who had testified that he took accused to a garage at request of another defendant, tending to elicit the witness' opinion that the accused was simply a messenger sent by the other defendant, the trial court's statement "Not at all", in answer to statement of accused's attorney to effect that attorney thought he was entitled to the same latitude of examination as the district attorney, was not prejudicial. U.S. v. Gallo, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1941, 123 F.2d 229. Criminal Law ⚡ 1166.22(5)

On a trial for mail fraud and conspiracy in the sale of stock, where objection was made to a question asked a defendant by the court concerning an exhibit on the ground that the document spoke for itself, the court's remark that, without some statement from the witness or some other witness, a certain inference was the only fair and reasonable one to be drawn from the exhibit, was entirely out of place, placed counsel in a position of apparently fearing to have the witness express his opinion, and destroyed the effect of the ruling sustaining the objection. Williams v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1937, 93 F.2d 685. Criminal Law ⚡ 656(3)

On a trial for mail fraud and conspiracy in connection with the sale of stock of a corporation, where a defendant who had been bookkeeper and assistant secretary of the corporation testified that he had no distinct recollection of a certain matter, the court indulged in unnecessary sarcasm in asking, "Well, you remember that you were the bookkeeper." Williams v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1937, 93 F.2d 685. Criminal Law ⚡ 656(2)

Court's statement that it considered certain evidence admissible because in its opinion government had made out prima facie case of conspiracy was not error. Lias v. U. S., C.C.A.4 (W.Va.) 1931, 51 F.2d 215, certiorari granted 52 S.Ct. 32, 284 U.S. 604, 76 L.Ed. 518, affirmed 52 S.Ct. 128, 284 U.S. 584, 76 L.Ed. 505. Criminal Law ⚡ 656(9)

Court's interruptions of defendants' counsel during opening to jury, and restrictions thereon, were improper. Sunderland v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Neb.) 1927, 19 F.2d 202. Criminal Law ⚡ 699

In prosecution for conspiracy to use mails to defraud by sales of securities, court's illustration of legal principles by

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

hypothetical "gold brick" swindle was prejudicial. Sunderland v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Neb.) 1927, 19 F.2d 202. Criminal Law ⚡ 760

In view of absence of evidence and circumstances showing conspiracy expression of opinion by court as to his conviction that delivery of liquor was made pursuant to agreement was prejudicial. La Rosa v. U. S., C.C.A.4 (W.Va.) 1926, 15 F.2d 479. Criminal Law ⚡ 762(2)

Defendant in prosecution for conspiracy to evade income taxes was not prejudiced by court's preliminary statement, preceding its formal charge to jury, that "there is in the language of the Supreme Court of the United States, no more serious crime than the crime of defeating or evading taxes or a conspiracy to do so" where, after exception was taken to such statement by defendant's counsel, court called jury back before it began to deliberate and requested jury to totally disregard the statement. U. S. v. Haskell, D.C.Conn.1963, 217 F.Supp. 534, affirmed 327 F.2d 281, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 1351, 377 U.S. 945, 12 L.Ed.2d 307. Criminal Law ⚡ 1166.22(2)

1071. Comments of counsel, review

Prosecutor's misstatement of facts in cross-examination, unsubstantiated intimation that statements had been made to him out of court, pretense that witness had said something he had not said and persistent cross-examination on that basis, bullying of witnesses, and intemperate and misleading argument to jury, where evidence against defendant charged with conspiracy to pass counterfeit federal reserve bank notes was weak, was so prejudicial as to require new trial. Berger v. U.S., U.S.N.Y.1935, 55 S.Ct. 629, 295 U.S. 78, 79 L.Ed. 1314. Criminal Law ⚡ 1171.8(2)

No undue prejudice attached to defendant because of mentioning of coconspirator's guilty plea, and fact that trial court may not have given a specific instruction as to effect of the guilty plea on both defendants did not amount to reversible error since apparently no such instruction had ever been requested and there were no additional aggravating circumstances that might have forced trial court to give such a specific instruction on its own. U. S. v. Horton, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1981, 646 F.2d 181, rehearing denied 655 F.2d 1131, certiorari denied 102 S.Ct. 516, 454 U.S. 970, 70 L.Ed.2d 388, certiorari denied 102 S.Ct. 1274, 455 U.S. 919, 71 L.Ed.2d 459. Criminal Law ⚡ 422(2); Criminal Law ⚡ 824(1)

In prosecution for bribery and conspiracy to bribe criminal investigators of Immigration and Naturalization Service, reversal was not warranted by statement made during government's rebuttal characterizing one defendant as "Chinatown's chief corrupter for 20 years," where no objection was made to statement at trial and where evidence overwhelmingly indicated defendant's guilt. U. S. v. Ong, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1976, 541 F.2d 331, certiorari denied 97 S.Ct. 814, 429 U.S. 1075, 50 L.Ed.2d 793, certiorari denied 97 S.Ct. 1559, 430 U.S. 934, 51 L.Ed.2d 780. Criminal Law ⚡ 1037.1(2)

In prosecution for conspiracy to steal and possess part of interstate shipment of freight, theft of freight from interstate shipment, and possession of goods stolen from interstate shipment, Government's summation, which contained no mention of one defendant's wife's failure to testify but contained strong implication that her testimony would favor defendant, did not prejudice defendant by allegedly inferring that wife's testimony would have been unfavorable if she had testified. U. S. v. Trotter, C.A.3 (N.J.) 1976, 529 F.2d 806. Criminal Law ⚡ 721.5(2)

Where defense suggested in summation that inference adverse to Government might be drawn from Government's failure to introduce fur manufacturers as witnesses in prosecution of fur trade union officials for, inter alia, conspiracy to accept payments from fur manufacturers, conducting union affairs through pattern of racketeering, and for accepting such payments, prosecutor's argument to effect that fur manufacturers were available for subpoena by defense to testify at trial was not improper. U. S. v. Stofsky, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1975, 527 F.2d 237, stay denied 96 S.Ct. 1490, 425 U.S. 902, 47 L.Ed.2d 751, certiorari denied 97 S.Ct. 65, 429 U.S. 819, 50 L.Ed.2d 80,

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

certiorari denied 97 S.Ct. 66, 429 U.S. 819, 50 L.Ed.2d 80. Criminal Law ☞ 726

Prosecutor's statement in closing argument that government agent testified that he saw defendant "at the dock in the rear of the residence in Pompano Beach," whereas agent actually had testified only that defendant had arrived "in front of this residence," not objected to at trial for conspiracy to import and for importing marijuana, could not have so affected defendant's substantial right as to constitute plain error. U. S. v. Goodwin, C.A.5 (Fla.) 1974, 492 F.2d 1141. Criminal Law ☞ 1037.1(2)

In prosecution for conspiracy to defraud by means of interstate wire communications and for substantive offenses, prosecutor's arguments "* * * if there is any evidence that there was an account there, it's up to the defendant to produce it" and "* * * I object to this man's testifying to what his client told him as his attorney when the man is here present" were not plain error affecting defendant's substantial rights, could not be said to have influenced verdict, and did not require reversal in absence of objection or request for mistrial or admonition through it was claimed that remarks were prejudicial references to failure to testify. U. S. v. Waldo, C.A.10 (Okla.) 1972, 470 F.2d 1359. Criminal Law ☞ 1037.1(2); Criminal Law ☞ 1037.2

Final argument of prosecuting attorney in prosecution for conspiracy and substantive charges involving use of interstate facilities to carry on a prostitution enterprise, to the effect that prosecuting attorney had taken an insult from a witness, and that the evidence was cluttered with disgusting and shocking, maybe dirty, disrespectful, dishonest testimony and ideas, did not constitute improper or prejudicial argument. U. S. v. Lyon, C.A.7 (Wis.) 1968, 397 F.2d 505, certiorari denied 89 S.Ct. 131, 393 U.S. 846, 21 L.Ed.2d 117. Criminal Law ☞ 720(1)

Under circumstances, defendant charged with conspiracy to embezzle and with embezzlement of union funds was not prejudiced because his counsel was ordered not to comment in his argument to jury upon failure of codefendants to testify. Hayes v. U. S., C.A.8 (Mo.) 1964, 329 F.2d 209, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 1883, 377 U.S. 980, 12 L.Ed.2d 748. Criminal Law ☞ 1171.5

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate and for substantive offenses of violating, Trading with the Enemy Act, § 1 et seq. of Title 50, Appendix, and regulations thereunder, by dealing in Chinese-type drugs, prosecuting attorney's statement, that person not on trial and not a witness had entered plea of guilty, had no weight with jury, where trial judge immediately ruled statement out and repeated ruling in his charge, and no reversible error resulted. U. S. v. Quong, C.A.6 (Tenn.) 1962, 303 F.2d 499, certiorari denied 83 S.Ct. 119, 371 U.S. 863, 9 L.Ed.2d 100. Criminal Law ☞ 730(1)

Receipt of hearsay blueprinting formation of alleged conspiracy and means by which it was to be carried out, emphasized by government both in its opening and closing statements, was prejudicial error. Dennis v. U.S., C.A.10 (Colo.) 1962, 302 F.2d 5. Criminal Law ☞ 419(1.5); Criminal Law ☞ 1169.1(9)

Trial errors in conspiracy prosecution, including prosecutor's alleged references to matters not in evidence and his leading questions, and court's claimed error, later corrected, in giving instructions, did not require reversal in view of clear case against defendants. Knight v. U. S., C.A.5 (Ga.) 1962, 297 F.2d 675, certiorari denied 82 S.Ct. 1565, 370 U.S. 923, 8 L.Ed.2d 503. Criminal Law ☞ 1171.3; Criminal Law ☞ 1171.8(1); Criminal Law ☞ 1172.1(1)

In prosecution for conspiring to violate § 212 of this title prohibiting bribery of customs officials and §§ 173, 174 of Title 21 concerning narcotics laws, comment by prosecutor in summation as to one of defendants "who had the courage to take the stand" was improper because it indirectly called attention to failure of other defendants to take the stand and was tantamount to saying that certain of defendants lacked courage to take the stand, but it was not so prejudicial as to require a new trial. United States v. Stromberg, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1959, 268 F.2d 256, certiorari denied 80 S.Ct. 119, 361 U.S. 863, 4 L.Ed.2d 102, certiorari denied 80 S.Ct. 123, 361 U.S. 863, 4 L.Ed.2d 102, certiorari denied 80 S.Ct. 124, 361 U.S. 863, 4 L.Ed.2d 102, certiorari denied 80 S.Ct. 130, 361 U.S. 868, 4

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

L.Ed.2d 108. Criminal Law ⚡ 721(3); Criminal Law ⚡ 1171.5

In prosecution for conspiring to violate § 212 of this title prohibiting bribery of customs officials and §§ 173, 174 of Title 21 concerning narcotics laws, prosecutor's remark, after government witness was asked his address, "don't be afraid to give it to us" was not reversible error when judge immediately reproved prosecutor and admonished jury to disregard remark. United States v. Stromberg, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1959, 268 F.2d 256, certiorari denied 80 S.Ct. 119, 361 U.S. 863, 4 L.Ed.2d 102, certiorari denied 80 S.Ct. 123, 361 U.S. 863, 4 L.Ed.2d 102, certiorari denied 80 S.Ct. 124, 361 U.S. 863, 4 L.Ed.2d 102, certiorari denied 80 S.Ct. 130, 361 U.S. 868, 4 L.Ed.2d 108. Criminal Law ⚡ 1171.8(1)

In prosecution for conspiracy, bribery, and making false entries of competitive bids on government purchase orders, improper argument of government's counsel was so extreme and so plainly erroneous as to seriously affect fairness of trial and substantial rights of defendants, and hence judgment of conviction would be reversed and cause remanded for new trial notwithstanding counsel for defendants did not object to the argument. Wagner v. U.S., C.A.5 (Fla.) 1959, 263 F.2d 877. Criminal Law ⚡ 1037.1(1); Criminal Law ⚡ 1189

In prosecution for conspiracy to traffic in narcotics, it was improper for prosecutor to infer that a witness was bought by a defendant but, in view of weight of evidence against defendants, reference was not harmful. U S v. De Fillo, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1958, 257 F.2d 835, certiorari denied 79 S.Ct. 591, 359 U.S. 915, 3 L.Ed.2d 577. Criminal Law ⚡ 720(5); Criminal Law ⚡ 1171.3

In prosecutions for conspiracy to blow up a railroad track used in interstate commerce, and for blowing up such track, observations made by district attorney in cross-examination of one of the defendants, that he "would not give a nickel for a dozen of them" in reference to such defendant's offer to take a lie detector test, while not commendable, did not constitute reversible error. Horton v. U. S., C.A.6 (Tenn.) 1958, 256 F.2d 138. Criminal Law ⚡ 1171.8(2)

In prosecutions for conspiracy to blow up a railroad track used in interstate commerce, and for blowing up such track, district attorney's observations in cross-examination of character witnesses for one of the defendants as to whether they knew of a series of convictions for drunkenness of such defendant did not constitute plain error. Horton v. U. S., C.A.6 (Tenn.) 1958, 256 F.2d 138. Criminal Law ⚡ 1036.2

Record in prosecution for evasion of income and excise taxes, and for conspiracy to defraud the United States, disclose no prejudicial argument by prosecuting attorney. Kobey v. U.S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1953, 208 F.2d 583. Criminal Law ⚡ 1171.1(2.1)

In prosecution of corporation, its president, and three supervisory employees under indictments charging them with making defective war materials and with conspiracy to defraud federal government in its war efforts, reference in prosecuting attorney's argument to letters which had been admitted in evidence, and which tended to show attempts of defendants to overreach in their negotiations with federal government, did not constitute prejudicial error. U.S. v. Antonelli Fireworks Co., C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1946, 155 F.2d 631, certiorari denied 67 S.Ct. 49, 329 U.S. 742, 91 L.Ed. 640, rehearing denied 67 S.Ct. 182, 329 U.S. 826, 91 L.Ed. 701. Criminal Law ⚡ 1171.3

In prosecution for using and conspiring to use the mails to defraud gullible individuals by collecting fees for enrolling them as heirs of mythical Baker estate, where witness, in response to inquiry concerning his knowledge of the Baker estate prosecution testified that he had read of individual, who was member of competing group of conspirators, prosecuting attorney's comment, "Oh, the prosecution where we put them all in jail," was prejudicial, particularly in view of prior attempt to associate competing group with accused. U. S. v. Sprengel, C.C.A.3 (Pa.) 1939, 103 F.2d 876. Criminal Law ⚡ 720(7.1)

In prosecution for using, and conspiracy to use, mails to defraud by selling watered stock, remark of prosecuting

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

attorney in summation that one of defendants had told defendant who had pleaded guilty how to sell stock on a certain date was not prejudicial, where defendant who had pleaded guilty had so testified. U.S. v. Rollnick, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1937, 91 F.2d 911. Criminal Law ⚡ 720(2)

In prosecution for using, and conspiracy to use, mails to defraud by selling watered stock, remark of prosecuting attorney in summation that he believed certain numbers had been assigned to certain salesmen and that one of defendant salesmen had been assigned number 5 was not prejudicial where court instructed jury to disregard statements of counsel as to testimony and whether salesman's number was 5 was immaterial. U.S. v. Rollnick, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1937, 91 F.2d 911. Criminal Law ⚡ 730(8)

In prosecution for using, and conspiracy to use, mails to defraud, remark of prosecuting attorney in opening address that one of defendants named in indictment had pleaded guilty that morning was not prejudicial where such defendant testified and was cross-examined as to his plea and jury was instructed to disregard remark. U.S. v. Rollnick, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1937, 91 F.2d 911. Criminal Law ⚡ 730(2)

In prosecution for conspiracy and use of mails to defraud, prosecuting attorney's statement that one of defendants was fugitive from justice was improper. Sunderland v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Neb.) 1927, 19 F.2d 202. Criminal Law ⚡ 722.3

Defendant in prosecution for conspiracy to evade income taxes was not prejudiced by manner in which his prior criminal record was presented to jury where United States attorney made inadvertent reference to a prior grand larceny conviction of defendant who actually had been convicted of petit larceny. U. S. v. Haskell, D.C.Conn.1963, 217 F.Supp. 534, affirmed 327 F.2d 281, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 1351, 377 U.S. 945, 12 L.Ed.2d 307. Criminal Law ⚡ 722.5

1072. Indictment, review

Clauses in indictment charging a conspiracy to commit an offense against the United States cannot be resorted to in aid of averments of the clause setting forth the conspiracy. Joplin Mercantile Co. v. U.S., U.S.Mo.1915, 35 S.Ct. 291, 236 U.S. 531, 59 L.Ed. 705. Conspiracy ⚡ 43(6)

Trying defendants under indictment alleging one conspiracy was not reversible error, even assuming that evidence established and jury found existence of separate conspiracies, since jury did find that all defendants engaged in at least one conspiracy, and evidence was sufficient to support that verdict. U.S. v. Faulkner, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1994, 17 F.3d 745, rehearing and rehearing en banc denied 21 F.3d 1110, certiorari denied 115 S.Ct. 193, 513 U.S. 870, 130 L.Ed.2d 125, rehearing dismissed 115 S.Ct. 786, 513 U.S. 1105, 130 L.Ed.2d 679, certiorari denied 115 S.Ct. 663, 513 U.S. 1056, 130 L.Ed.2d 598. Criminal Law ⚡ 1167(1)

Defendants who were convicted of being involved in single conspiracy relating to filing of false tax forms with Internal Revenue Service (IRS) were substantially prejudiced by variance between indictment charging single conspiracy and proof presented at trial of existence of multiple conspiracies, requiring reversal of conviction; trial court failed to give multiple conspiracy instruction, record was replete with evidence of inflammatory actions of individuals which, especially in light of length and complexity of trial, jury could easily have applied to group as a whole, there were a large number of defendants and issues involved were complex. U.S. v. Rosnow, C.A.8 (Minn.) 1992, 977 F.2d 399, rehearing denied 981 F.2d 970, certiorari denied 113 S.Ct. 1596, 507 U.S. 990, 123 L.Ed.2d 159, denial of habeas corpus affirmed 16 F.3d 1229. Conspiracy ⚡ 43(12); Criminal Law ⚡ 1167(1)

Conclusion that defendant could only have been a member of a smaller conspiracy consisting of himself and the core and having a more limited objective of stealing and delivering particular motor vehicles desired by him did not necessitate reversal under indictment charging one overall conspiracy unless defendant was prejudiced by the erroneous presentation of the case on the overall conspiracy charge. U. S. v. Lindsey, C.A.7 (Ind.) 1979, 602 F.2d

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

785. Criminal Law ⚡ 1167(1)

In determining whether variance occurred between indictment and Government's proof at trial of conspiracy, court of appeals first had to ascertain if, viewing evidence in light most favorable to Government, substantial evidence supported jury's determination of guilt on single conspiracy charged in indictment. U. S. v. Boyd, C.A.3 (Pa.) 1978, 595 F.2d 120. Criminal Law ⚡ 1159.2(10)

It was affirmative duty of Court of Appeals to carefully scrutinize indictments under broad language of this section because of possibility, inherent in criminal conspiracy charge, that its wide net might ensnare innocent as well as guilty. U. S. v. Porter, C.A.5 (Fla.) 1979, 591 F.2d 1048. Conspiracy ⚡ 43(1)

Improper reading of lengthy and involved conspiracy indictment to jury was not prejudicial to defendants under circumstances, in prosecution for conspiracy to defraud public by distribution of oil company stock at grossly inflated prices. U. S. v. Kelly, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1965, 349 F.2d 720, certiorari denied 86 S.Ct. 1467, 384 U.S. 947, 16 L.Ed.2d 544. Criminal Law ⚡ 1166.20

Where guilty verdict was general to count of conspiracy to introduce into interstate commerce with intent to defraud and mislead a food product which was adulterated and misbranded, insufficiency of indictment with respect to adulteration charge required reversal regardless of sufficiency with respect to alleged misbranding. Van Liew v. U. S., C.A.5 (Tex.) 1963, 321 F.2d 664. Criminal Law ⚡ 1167(1)

Indictment charging defendant with conspiracy was not so vague and ambiguous as to make it impossible to determine whether defendants were charged with and found guilty of conspiracy or of substantive offenses where indictment charged conspiracy alone and was expressly limited to that charge throughout the trial and by the court's instructions. Reno v. U. S., C.A.5 (Fla.) 1963, 317 F.2d 499, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 72, 375 U.S. 828, 11 L.Ed.2d 60. Indictment And Information ⚡ 71.4(3)

Where sentences for conspiracy to possess firearm and possession of firearm were concurrent and substantive offense was established free from error, claimed error relating to conspiracy count would not be considered. U. S. v. Decker, C.A.6 (Ky.) 1961, 292 F.2d 89, certiorari denied 82 S.Ct. 58, 368 U.S. 834, 7 L.Ed.2d 36. Criminal Law ⚡ 1177

Where in prosecution for using mails to defraud some of allegations of overt acts in second indictment charging conspiracy were kept sealed until after all evidence was in, and indictment was submitted to jury with such seals removed, defendants could not claim that they were tried on an indictment which was not the same as returned by the grand jury because such allegations were sealed during trial. Walker v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Wash.) 1940, 116 F.2d 458. Indictment And Information ⚡ 171

Use of word "victims" in indictment for use of mails to defraud and conspiracy was not prejudicial to convicted defendants, where they had fair trial within constitutional guaranties, verdict was proper, and court tempered justice with mercy in fixing punishment. Stern v. U.S., C.C.A.7 (Ind.) 1936, 85 F.2d 394, certiorari denied 57 S.Ct. 40, 299 U.S. 576, 81 L.Ed. 424. Criminal Law ⚡ 1167(1)

Indictment charging defendants with conspiracy to defraud United States by impeding collection of income taxes, and identifying objects of conspiracy as fraudulent creation of purportedly tax deductible losses for oil company client of defendant through fixed and risk-free commodity futures transactions that would guaranty realization by client of certain amount of losses before end of its fiscal year and similar amount of gain during his next fiscal year, and manipulation of contract prices on commodities futures market to achieve premeditated losses and gains, was sufficient to charge offense. U. S. v. Turkish, S.D.N.Y.1978, 458 F.Supp. 874. Conspiracy ⚡ 43(10)

References to aliases in indictment were proper and would not be stricken where aliases were relevant to case

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

because participants in gambling operation charged in indictment were repeatedly referred to by aliases in wiretapped conversations. U. S. v. Esposito, S.D.N.Y.1976, 423 F.Supp. 908. Indictment And Information 81(5)

1073. Admissibility of evidence, review--Generally

Bank officer's testimony relating to agreement between her bank and first merchant found by defendant's accomplice, and discussing bank's policies regarding telemarketing accounts and third-party processing, was admissible in prosecution for conspiracy to commit bank fraud and money laundering by virtue of third-party processing of telemarketing accounts; while officer could not document that her bank had disbursed any money to defendants, other testimony indicated that her bank had unwittingly processed charges for both defendants, and events underlying officer's testimony ended only few months before those involving one bank actually mentioned in indictment. U.S. v. Brown, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1994, 31 F.3d 484, rehearing and suggestion for rehearing en banc denied. Conspiracy 45

In context of conspiracy trial, trial court is given great latitude in its determination of relevancy and admissibility of evidence, and review is limited to inquiry whether court abused that broad discretionary power. U. S. v. Baumgarten, C.A.8 (Mo.) 1975, 517 F.2d 1020, certiorari denied 96 S.Ct. 152, 423 U.S. 878, 46 L.Ed.2d 111. Conspiracy 45; Criminal Law 1153(1)

Testimony that during course of telephone conversation to her boyfriend female defendant related that she was with "the man" (a federal agent) at motel room and was talking to him about deal concerning counterfeit government securities, that boyfriend had nothing to worry about and that she didn't see where anything could go wrong, was competent and evidenced a conspiracy to counterfeit United States Treasury notes, in which conspiracy boyfriend was allegedly involved. U. S. v. Aloisio, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1971, 440 F.2d 705, certiorari denied 92 S.Ct. 49, 404 U.S. 824, 30 L.Ed.2d 51, certiorari denied 92 S.Ct. 69, 404 U.S. 824, 30 L.Ed.2d 51. Criminal Law 422(1)

Review of record of approximately five-week trial of ten defendants charged with conspiracy to misapply funds of bank and of making false entries in bank records with intent to defraud established that judge's adherence to issues of case and rules of evidence did not deprive defendants of fair and impartial trial. Gordon v. U. S., C.A.5 (Fla.) 1971, 438 F.2d 858, certiorari denied 92 S.Ct. 139, 404 U.S. 828, 30 L.Ed.2d 56, certiorari denied 92 S.Ct. 140, 404 U.S. 828, 30 L.Ed.2d 56, rehearing denied 92 S.Ct. 312, 404 U.S. 960, 30 L.Ed.2d 279, certiorari denied 92 S.Ct. 142, 404 U.S. 828, 30 L.Ed.2d 56, rehearing denied 92 S.Ct. 313, 404 U.S. 960, 30 L.Ed.2d 279, certiorari denied 92 S.Ct. 143, 404 U.S. 828, 30 L.Ed.2d 56, certiorari denied 92 S.Ct. 63, 404 U.S. 828, 30 L.Ed.2d 56. Criminal Law 655(1)

On appeal in conspiracy case in which hearsay utterances were admitted without explicit determination of existence of conspiracy reviewing court would assume that trial judge was satisfied of existence of conspiracy on basis of nonhearsay evidence, but must determine whether he had reasonable grounds to be so. U. S. v. Geaney, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1969, 417 F.2d 1116, certiorari denied 90 S.Ct. 1276, 397 U.S. 1028, 25 L.Ed.2d 539. Criminal Law 1134(3); Criminal Law 1144.12; Criminal Law 1144.13(7)

In prosecution for smuggling and conspiracy relative to alleged plot to blow up Statue of Liberty, court's refusal to permit third party to testify that government witness asked him to participate in a plan to blow up Statue of Liberty was not erroneous where defendants failed to lay a proper foundation to support an attack on government witness' credibility based on his alleged request to third party to take part in violent action. U. S. v. Bowe, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1966, 360 F.2d 1, certiorari denied 87 S.Ct. 401, 385 U.S. 961, 17 L.Ed.2d 306, certiorari denied 87 S.Ct. 779, 385 U.S. 1042, 17 L.Ed.2d 686, rehearing denied 87 S.Ct. 1040, 386 U.S. 969, 18 L.Ed.2d 127. Witnesses 398(2)

In prosecution of superintendent of police of a town for conspiring to deprive Negro inhabitants of rights, privileges and immunities secured to them by Constitution and laws of United States, and in prosecution of such superintendent and two police officers for subjecting Negro inhabitants to deprivation of rights, privileges, and immunities, under color of law, evidence of what occurred at time of riot, resulting from attempt of Negro to reside in rented premises involved, was properly received in effort to discover whether defendants' superintendent, under color of office, willfully failed to disperse crowd with intent to further charged conspiracy. U. S. v. Konovsky, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1953, 202 F.2d 721. Civil Rights ↻ 1809; Conspiracy ↻ 45

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In prosecution for use of mails in attempt to defraud in sale of accident and sickness insurance policies and for conspiracy to commit the same offense, court did not err in admitting government's evidence as to loss ratios developed on policies sold by defendants. U. S. v. Sylvanus, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1951, 192 F.2d 96, certiorari denied 72 S.Ct. 555, 342 U.S. 943, 96 L.Ed. 701. Conspiracy ↻ 45; Postal Service ↻ 49(5)

In prosecution under this section and § 1010 of this title making it unlawful knowingly to make or cause to be made false statements to obtain loan intending that it be offered to the Federal Housing Administration for insurance, no reversible error was presented in rulings on admission of evidence. Ross v. U. S., C.A.6 (Ohio) 1950, 180 F.2d 160. Criminal Law ↻ 1169.1(2.1)

In prosecution of corporate defendant for conspiracy to violate, and violation of, Public Utility Holding Company Act, § 791 of Title 15, testimony of corporate defendant's officer, in response to question asked by district attorney, that funds accumulated from rebates and padded expense accounts handled through his office were handled on behalf of corporate defendant, was not objectionable on ground that it called for "conclusion" of witness. Egan v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Mo.) 1943, 137 F.2d 369, certiorari denied 64 S.Ct. 195, 320 U.S. 788, 88 L.Ed. 474. Criminal Law ↻ 448(1)

In prosecution for conspiracy to transport and for transporting girls in interstate commerce for purpose of prostitution and debauchery, erroneous admission of statements of prostitute to federal agent not in furtherance of conspiracy was a technical error and did not affect substantial rights of parties, and hence was not reversible error, where effect upon minds of jurors would have been the same if statements to agent had not been made. Townsend v. U. S., C.C.A.3 (Pa.) 1939, 106 F.2d 273. Criminal Law ↻ 1169.1(9)

In prosecution for conspiracy to import, sell and possess narcotics, where government agent who was posing as buyer of narcotics testified that while agent was bargaining with a New York distributor in New York the distributor said that drug was in defendant's possession and then called up defendant, who was also in New York, and talked to him in Italian, error, if any, in admitting record of dictagraph machine which had been interposed in a circuit leading from the telephone used by distributor to corroborate agent did not require reversal where result would not have been different had agent's testimony stood alone. U S v. Bruno, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1939, 105 F.2d 921, certiorari granted 60 S.Ct. 112, 308 U.S. 536, 84 L.Ed. 451, reversed on other grounds 60 S.Ct. 198, 308 U.S. 287, 84 L.Ed. 257. Criminal Law ↻ 1169.1(8)

Error, if any, in admission of defendant's bank accounts in prosecution for unlawful possession of stills, making mash, operation of an unbounded distillery and conspiracy did not require reversal, where other undisputed evidence established guilt beyond reasonable doubt. U.S. v. Jackskion, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1939, 102 F.2d 683, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 1032, 307 U.S. 635, 83 L.Ed. 1517. Criminal Law ↻ 1169.1(2.1)

In prosecution for conspiracy to harbor fugitive from justice, evidence of delivery of money to witness by accused to induce another to "blow," and of conversations to effect that accused requested witness to tell such other to say that money received from fugitive by accused was for legal fees was properly admitted. Piquett v. U.S., C.C.A.7 (Ill.) 1936, 81 F.2d 75, certiorari denied 56 S.Ct. 749, 298 U.S. 664, 80 L.Ed. 1388. Conspiracy ↻ 45; Criminal Law ↻ 45

Proof contrary to nonessential allegation that agreement took place within district was not reversible, where defendant was not surprised. Sloan v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Mo.) 1929, 31 F.2d 902. Criminal Law ⚡ 1167(1)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Admission of evidence as to other transactions, if error, was cured, where defendant examined and cross-examined in detail about same matters. Sloan v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Mo.) 1929, 31 F.2d 902. Criminal Law ⚡ 1169.2(1)

Testimony by revenue agent pursuant to interview with defendants under guise of examining income tax reports was admissible as to such defendants. Green v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Okla.) 1928, 28 F.2d 965. Criminal Law ⚡ 422(9)

Testimony that defendant had on day previous to raid purchased groceries and fishing tackle and stated he was going fishing was inadmissible as self-serving. Nielson v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Wash.) 1928, 24 F.2d 802. Criminal Law ⚡ 413(1)

In a like prosecution, the court's failure on its own motion to direct admission of evidence as to replevin suit, previously excluded because not shown to be material, was not prejudicial error, especially in view of former § 391 of Title 28. Israel v. U. S., C.C.A.6 (Ohio) 1925, 3 F.2d 743, 3 Ohio Law Abs. 416. Criminal Law ⚡ 1170(1)

Where an indictment for conspiracy under former § 88 of this title [now this section] sufficiently informed accused of the charge, it was not reversible error to reject evidence that the names of persons with whom the accused conspired, alleged in the indictment to be unknown to the grand jury, were known to that body, in view of former § 391 of Title 28. Leverkuhn v. U.S., C.C.A.5 (Tex.) 1924, 297 F. 590, certiorari denied 45 S.Ct. 91, 266 U.S. 603, 69 L.Ed. 463. See, also, Briggs v. U.S., C.C.A.Tex.1924, 297 F. 593. Conspiracy ⚡ 43(2)

The failure to exclude or limit effect of a book of account found in home of one conspirator and identified by others who were witnesses in the case which book was admitted after proper foundation was laid under former § 695 of Title 28 did not violate defendant's constitutional right of "confrontation of witnesses", where court instructed jury that book was not to be used as evidence to establish defendant's entanglement in conspiracy, but only as evidence of what occurred among conspirators so found by evidence aliunde. U.S. v. Dewinsky, D.C.N.J.1941, 41 F.Supp. 149. Criminal Law ⚡ 662.40

1074. ---- Harmless error, admissibility of evidence, review

In conspiracy prosecution, evidence was sufficiently connected with conspiracy to be admissible, or merely cumulative, and its admission harmless. Ford v. U.S., U.S.Cal.1927, 47 S.Ct. 531, 273 U.S. 593, 71 L.Ed. 793. Criminal Law ⚡ 1169.1(2.1); Criminal Law ⚡ 1169.2(2)

District court's erroneous admission of evidence of defendant's prior conviction for purse snatching under Pennsylvania law was not "harmless," in his subsequent trial on charges of conspiracy to commit car-jacking, car-jacking, and using and carrying firearm in furtherance of crime of violence; admission of theft conviction may have affected defendant's substantial rights since defendant's credibility was central to case and prior conviction may have led jury to disbelieve defendant's testimony that he did not have weapon and only remained at crime scene because he feared co-defendant. U.S. v. Johnson, C.A.3 (Pa.) 2004, 388 F.3d 96. Criminal Law ⚡ 1169.11

In criminal proceedings for conspiracy to commit money laundering and wire fraud, district court's erroneous admission of co-conspirators' guilty plea allocutions against defendants in violation of the Confrontation Clause was harmless, given the overwhelming evidence of defendants' guilt, including documentary evidence establishing that defendants set up the fictitious banks together and worked in tandem throughout the duration of the scheme. U.S. v. McClain, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 2004, 377 F.3d 219, supplemented 108 Fed.Appx. 670, 2004 WL 1950415. Criminal Law ⚡ 1168(2)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In prosecution for conspiracy to defraud Internal Revenue Service (IRS) in its function of ascertaining and collecting federal excise taxes on sales of diesel fuel purchased for highway use, Bruton error in admission of non-testifying defendant's statement which inculpated co-defendant was not harmless, since statement was only direct evidence against defendants that they knew that they were participating in tax fraud conspiracy. U.S. v. Doherty, C.A.11 (Fla.) 2000, 233 F.3d 1275. Criminal Law ⚡ 1169.7

Fact that a document that had not been offered into evidence in a prosecution for conspiracy and making false statements was inadvertently sent to jury room with jury did not entitle defendant to a new trial in view of facts that document did not contain a complete summary of Government's case, including a theory never aired at trial, as asserted by defendant, but merely listed items testified to by one government witness, and that trial court responded by immediately retrieving document and instructing jury that it should not be considered by them. U.S. v. Treadwell, C.A.D.C.1985, 760 F.2d 327, 245 U.S.App.D.C. 257, certiorari denied 106 S.Ct. 814, 474 U.S. 1064, 88 L.Ed.2d 788. Criminal Law ⚡ 1174(6)

In prosecution of defendant for conspiracy to defraud Immigration and Naturalization Service by involvement in sham marriage scheme and subsequent cover-up scheme, injection of government's evidence of defendants' role in six prior notice-waived New Hampshire marriages, all involving aliens and all but one performed by same justice of peace who presided at present ceremony, was properly admitted and jury allowed to consider prior marriages as bearing on defendant's state of mind, that is, whether he participated in present ceremonies with some knowledge of what this was all about and even if evidence was not properly admitted, error was harmless in light of defendant's evidence designed to show that earlier marriages were not arranged solely for immigration purposes. U. S. v. Bithoney, C.A.1 (Mass.) 1980, 631 F.2d 1, certiorari denied 101 S.Ct. 869, 449 U.S. 1083, 66 L.Ed.2d 808. Criminal Law ⚡ 345; Criminal Law ⚡ 1169.1(2.1)

In prosecution for conspiracy to steal and possess part of interstate shipment of freight, theft of freight, and possession of goods stolen from interstate shipment, all but inaudible reference to one defendant's other crimes by owner of shop, at which stolen goods were allegedly stored, on redirect examination by Government was "of a brief and passing nature" and, at worst, harmless error. U. S. v. Trotter, C.A.3 (N.J.) 1976, 529 F.2d 806. Criminal Law ⚡ 1169.11

Where, in prosecution for conspiracy to defraud United States and for forgery and uttering forged endorsements, evidence was sufficiently strong to render remark insignificant in the balance, court did not commit reversible error in admitting into evidence allegedly "inflammatory" statement of witness that he had seen defendant with a "two-inch thick" stack of government checks. U. S. v. Goodson, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1974, 502 F.2d 1303. Criminal Law ⚡ 1169.1(7)

Where none of the challenged statements referred to defendant nor in any way connected him with the conspiracy, any error in allowing testimony which allegedly related to recitals of past events and not events part of the conspiracy was harmless beyond a reasonable doubt. U. S. v. Payseur, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1974, 501 F.2d 966. Criminal Law ⚡ 1169.1(1)

Where witness was brought to police station for purpose of identifying woman who had rented automobile and spontaneously recognized defendant at a booking desk as driver of automobile which had brought person who rented automobile to rental firm, there was no "lineup" such as would require the presence of counsel in order to render in-court identification admissible, and in any event, identification of defendant as driver of the automobile was not prejudicial error in view of other evidence implicating defendant in conspiring to transport falsely made and forged securities. U. S. v. Seader, C.A.5 (Fla.) 1971, 440 F.2d 488, certiorari denied 92 S.Ct. 56, 404 U.S. 826, 30 L.Ed.2d 54. Criminal Law ⚡ 339.8(7); Criminal Law ⚡ 1169.2(2)

In prosecution for possession of goods stolen from interstate commerce and for conspiracy, where there was ample other evidence to establish particular defendant's connection to conspiracy, and record did not clearly place particular defendant at apartment on occasion in question, admission of evidence that codefendant had brought allegedly stolen television set to lady's apartment was not ground for reversal. U. S. v. McGann, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1970, 431 F.2d 1104, certiorari denied 91 S.Ct. 904, 401 U.S. 919, 27 L.Ed.2d 821. Criminal Law ⤴ 1169.1(4)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Government's withdrawal of offer of proof of any statements made to witness by defendant, in prosecution for conspiracy and receiving stolen goods, including statement that defendant got goods from person whose description fitted codefendant (the evidence being inadmissible against codefendant) was not error, particularly since no prejudice was shown and defendant did not himself call witness; this procedure did not shift burden of proof to defendant. U. S. v. Kompinski, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1967, 373 F.2d 429. Criminal Law ⤴ 677

In prosecution for conspiracy and smuggling in relation to alleged plot to blow up Statue of Liberty, receipt of testimony concerning one defendant's trip to Cuba and his association with racist group and a Canadian separatist organization was not prejudicial as to other two defendants where trial court repeated several times to jury that the evidence could not be considered with respect to either of them. U. S. v. Bowe, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1966, 360 F.2d 1, certiorari denied 87 S.Ct. 401, 385 U.S. 961, 17 L.Ed.2d 306, certiorari denied 87 S.Ct. 779, 385 U.S. 1042, 17 L.Ed.2d 686, rehearing denied 87 S.Ct. 1040, 386 U.S. 969, 18 L.Ed.2d 127. Criminal Law ⤴ 673(4)

Where defendant, who was president of corporation, and four codefendants, who were mere agents or employees of corporation, were charged with mail fraud and conspiracy to violate section 1341 of this title, it was not prejudicial error for District Court to require, that if defendant desired to testify in his own defense, he be first witness for defense. U. S. v. Shipp, C.A.6 (Tenn.) 1966, 359 F.2d 185, certiorari denied 87 S.Ct. 213, 385 U.S. 903, 17 L.Ed.2d 134. Criminal Law ⤴ 1168(2)

Error, if any, in permitting admission previously made in civil case depositions and bankruptcy examination by one defendant charged with violating and conspiring to violate § 152 of this title to be also used against codefendant was harmless, in view of overwhelming evidence of codefendant's guilt. U. S. v. Castellana, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1965, 349 F.2d 264, certiorari denied 86 S.Ct. 934, 383 U.S. 928, 15 L.Ed.2d 847, certiorari denied 86 S.Ct. 935, 383 U.S. 928, 15 L.Ed.2d 847, rehearing denied 86 S.Ct. 1368, 384 U.S. 923, 16 L.Ed.2d 444. Criminal Law ⤴ 1169.12

Admissions previously made in civil case depositions and bankruptcy examinations by defendants charged with violating and conspiring to violate § 152 of this title had no prejudicial spillover effect on defendants other than declarant in view of specific admonitions to jury that such statements could be considered only against particular defendant who made admission. U. S. v. Castellana, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1965, 349 F.2d 264, certiorari denied 86 S.Ct. 934, 383 U.S. 928, 15 L.Ed.2d 847, certiorari denied 86 S.Ct. 935, 383 U.S. 928, 15 L.Ed.2d 847, rehearing denied 86 S.Ct. 1368, 384 U.S. 923, 16 L.Ed.2d 444. Criminal Law ⤴ 673(4)

Permitting introduction, in prosecutions for violating and conspiring to violate § 152 of this title of admissions previously made in civil case depositions and bankruptcy examinations by defendant was proper exercise of discretion under limiting instructions advising jury that out of court statements could be considered only against particular defendant who made admission. U. S. v. Castellana, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1965, 349 F.2d 264, certiorari denied 86 S.Ct. 934, 383 U.S. 928, 15 L.Ed.2d 847, certiorari denied 86 S.Ct. 935, 383 U.S. 928, 15 L.Ed.2d 847, rehearing denied 86 S.Ct. 1368, 384 U.S. 923, 16 L.Ed.2d 444. Criminal Law ⤴ 673(4)

In prosecution for conspiracy to evade income tax, alleged error in admission of evidence of statement of corporation's president about no women working on corporation's premises even though records showed several feminine names on payroll sheet was harmless in face of other proof. U.S. v. Knox Coal Co., C.A.3 (Pa.) 1965, 347 F.2d 33, certiorari denied 86 S.Ct. 239, 382 U.S. 904, 15 L.Ed.2d 157. Criminal Law ⤴ 1169.1(9)

In prosecution against corporation and others for conspiracy to evade income tax, admission of statements of corporation's president regarding payment of certain checks to fictitious persons for purpose of deductions was not prejudicial to individual defendant who did not ask that trial be severed and court reminded jury at time of objection that statements had "no relation at all to the other two defendants" and later instructed jury to the same effect. U.S. v. Knox Coal Co., C.A.3 (Pa.) 1965, 347 F.2d 33, certiorari denied 86 S.Ct. 239, 382 U.S. 904, 15 L.Ed.2d 157. Criminal Law ⚡ 1169.5(2)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Evidence as to certain conversations was not inadmissible in a conspiracy prosecution on theory they bore no relationship to the conspiracy charged, and, in any event, in view of proof of guilt, admission of the testimony, if error, was not prejudicial. Arnold v. U. S., C.A.9 (Wash.) 1964, 336 F.2d 347, certiorari denied 85 S.Ct. 1348, 380 U.S. 982, 14 L.Ed.2d 275. Criminal Law ⚡ 338(1); Criminal Law ⚡ 1169.1(2.1)

Any error in admitting purely narrative declarations as to a defendant charged with conspiring to violate § 173 of Title 21, was harmless in view of overwhelming evidence of his participation. U. S. v. Bentvena, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1963, 319 F.2d 916, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 345, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 271, rehearing denied 90 S.Ct. 894, 397 U.S. 928, 25 L.Ed.2d 108, rehearing denied 84 S.Ct. 515, 375 U.S. 989, 11 L.Ed.2d 476, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 346, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 271, rehearing denied 84 S.Ct. 1162, 377 U.S. 913, 12 L.Ed.2d 183, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 353, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 272, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 354, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 272, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 355, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 272, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 360, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 272. Criminal Law ⚡ 1186.4(5)

Reviewing court could not say that trial judge was wrong in concluding that defendants had engaged in pre-arranged attempt to confuse witness called to identify certain defendants or to mislead jury where, after one of such defendants had changed seats and witness correctly identified another defendant though incorrectly identifying color of his necktie, defense counsel who had had their backs to both such defendants asserted that witness had identified wrong defendant, nor could reviewing court state that court's statement that there was no doubt in court's mind who was identified, though it would be for jury to decide was improper. U. S. v. Bentvena, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1963, 319 F.2d 916, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 345, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 271, rehearing denied 90 S.Ct. 894, 397 U.S. 928, 25 L.Ed.2d 108, rehearing denied 84 S.Ct. 515, 375 U.S. 989, 11 L.Ed.2d 476, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 346, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 271, rehearing denied 84 S.Ct. 1162, 377 U.S. 913, 12 L.Ed.2d 183, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 353, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 272, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 354, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 272, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 355, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 272, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 360, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 272. Criminal Law ⚡ 655(1)

Record revealed that no prejudice resulted to a defendant in narcotics case by nondisclosure of surveillance reports by parole board and city police department. U. S. v. Bentvena, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1963, 319 F.2d 916, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 345, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 271, rehearing denied 90 S.Ct. 894, 397 U.S. 928, 25 L.Ed.2d 108, rehearing denied 84 S.Ct. 515, 375 U.S. 989, 11 L.Ed.2d 476, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 346, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 271, rehearing denied 84 S.Ct. 1162, 377 U.S. 913, 12 L.Ed.2d 183, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 353, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 272, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 354, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 272, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 355, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 272, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 360, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 272. Criminal Law ⚡ 1170(1)

Admission, in prosecution for conspiracy to purloin and steal money from trust company, of testimony referring to certain checks, and of identification of codefendant as person who cashed checks was not error, although references were to checks connected with prior conviction of defendant, the references being incidental and not enlightening to jury. Rizzo v. U. S., C.A.8 (Mo.) 1962, 304 F.2d 810, certiorari denied 83 S.Ct. 188, 371 U.S. 890, 9 L.Ed.2d 123. Criminal Law ⚡ 369.1

Admission of hearsay of conversations occurring at time when prosecution contended conspiracy continued was not error even though defendant contended that conspiracy had expired at an earlier date, where judge charged that existence of conspiracy must be determined without regard to and independently of statements and declarations of others but, having determined that defendant was member of conspiracy, jury could then consider the declarations of other coconspirators made during existence of conspiracy. U. S. v. Soblen, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1962, 301 F.2d 236, certiorari denied 82 S.Ct. 1585, 370 U.S. 944, 8 L.Ed.2d 810. Criminal Law ☞ 673(1)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Evidence relating to criminal conduct and political activity of alleged coconspirators during the period before the conspiracies began was properly admitted to show motivation and community of interest on the part of the conspirator where instructions were given making it clear to jury that evidence was to be considered only for such purpose and that defendant was not on trial for his activities prior to conspiracy alleged in indictment. U. S. v. Soblen, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1962, 301 F.2d 236, certiorari denied 82 S.Ct. 1585, 370 U.S. 944, 8 L.Ed.2d 810. Criminal Law ☞ 673(2)

In prosecution for making false statement of material fact to Internal Revenue Agents willfully attempting to evade wagering excise taxes and conspiring to commit offense against United States, admission of Revenue Agents' testimony without cautionary limitation concerning substance of four interviews with defendants was not reversible error when from all the evidence jury could conclude that a conspiracy had been conclusively established. U.S. v. Clancy, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1960, 276 F.2d 617, certiorari granted 80 S.Ct. 1611, 363 U.S. 836, 4 L.Ed.2d 1723, reversed on other grounds 81 S.Ct. 645, 365 U.S. 312, 5 L.Ed.2d 574. Criminal Law ☞ 1169.2(2)

Evidence of admissions of coconspirators may be presented prior to conclusive establishment of conspiracy without commission of error so long as the conspiracy is established at some time during course of trial. U.S. v. Clancy, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1960, 276 F.2d 617, certiorari granted 80 S.Ct. 1611, 363 U.S. 836, 4 L.Ed.2d 1723, reversed on other grounds 81 S.Ct. 645, 365 U.S. 312, 5 L.Ed.2d 574. Criminal Law ☞ 427(3)

In a conspiracy prosecution, mere fact that the government failed to prove that two codefendants were members of the conspiracy charged did not make it prejudicial error to try defendant with such codefendants, and in view of evidence which linked defendant with conspiracy to traffic in narcotics, introduction of evidence of a projected but unsuccessful swindle by codefendants to sell a government agent flour described as a narcotic could not have constituted serious prejudice to defendant. U.S. v. Marcone, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1960, 275 F.2d 205, certiorari denied 80 S.Ct. 879, 362 U.S. 963, 4 L.Ed.2d 877. Criminal Law ☞ 622.7(4)

In prosecution for income tax evasion and conspiracy to evade income taxes, fact that government attempted to establish its case by specific items of unreported income and the net worth method was not prejudicial to the defendants where no lack of good faith was shown. U.S. v. Keenan, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1959, 267 F.2d 118, certiorari denied 80 S.Ct. 121, 361 U.S. 863, 4 L.Ed.2d 104, rehearing denied 80 S.Ct. 254, 361 U.S. 921, 4 L.Ed.2d 189. Criminal Law ☞ 1165(1)

In prosecution for unlawful sales of government owned wool being made into army jackets, a conspiracy to defraud the government and for making of false statements about disposition of wool serge furnished manufacturer, admitting the government's exhibit which was a compilation of the evidence basic to the prosecution's calculations of the amount of serge furnished which was not returned was proper. U. S. v. Fabric Garment Co., C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1958, 262 F.2d 631, certiorari denied 79 S.Ct. 1117, 359 U.S. 989, 3 L.Ed.2d 978. Criminal Law ☞ 432

In prosecution of police officials, liquor dealers and others for conspiring to violate laws of United States by importing intoxicating liquors into dry state of Oklahoma, admission of testimony as to activities of some of defendants in relation to prostitution, gambling, graft and corruption resulted in no error when evidence clearly showed that control of prostitution and gambling was part of conspiracy and when trial court carefully advised jury as to what extent such evidence could be considered. Jones v. U. S., C.A.10 (Okla.) 1958, 251 F.2d 288, certiorari denied 78 S.Ct. 703, 356 U.S. 919, 2 L.Ed.2d 715. Criminal Law ☞ 369.2(8); Criminal Law ☞ 673(5)

In prosecution for conspiracy to import heroin in violation of narcotic laws, §§ 173 and 174 of Title 21, letter of special narcotic agent sent to an alleged coconspirator out of presence of defendants was improperly admitted, but in view of fact that letter contained not one syllable which could have damaged defendants who were not even

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

mentioned therein, error was harmless. U. S. v. Morello, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1957, 250 F.2d 631. Criminal Law ⚡ 1169.1(10)

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate narcotic laws where question arose as to whether or not certain of defendants had been in a certain location, there was no error in permitting hotel registration cards to be introduced in evidence and refusing to admit bail bond applications to be introduced for purpose of comparison of signature, where no contention was made that defendants had signed registration cards. Poliafico v. U. S., C.A.6 (Ohio) 1956, 237 F.2d 97, certiorari denied 77 S.Ct. 590, 352 U.S. 1025, 1 L.Ed.2d 597, rehearing denied 77 S.Ct. 718, 353 U.S. 931, 1 L.Ed.2d 725. Criminal Law ⚡ 404.85

Where proof of conspiracy to defraud United States by obtaining entry of an alien by false representations required as an element proof of a collusive divorce terminating the unconsummated marriage between alien and a citizen, defendant was not harmed by proof that he procured a witness to swear to false affidavit and to give false testimony. U.S. v. Rubenstein, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1945, 151 F.2d 915, certiorari denied 66 S.Ct. 168, 326 U.S. 766, 90 L.Ed. 462. Criminal Law ⚡ 1169.1(2.1)

Allegedly irrelevant evidence in prosecution for conspiracy, which either so directly concerned only a single conspirator's participation as not to confuse, or was relevant background material as to a conspirator participating in all transactions, was not prejudicial. U.S. v. Rosenberg, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1945, 150 F.2d 788, certiorari denied 66 S.Ct. 90, 326 U.S. 752, 90 L.Ed. 451, certiorari denied 66 S.Ct. 91, 326 U.S. 752, 90 L.Ed. 451. Criminal Law ⚡ 1169.1(2.1)

In prosecution for conspiracy to export platinum without license, admission of the platinum was not error in view of convincing evidence of other extensive dealings in platinum, where necessity of weighing evidence as to each accused was brought home to jury by a detailed charge and statement as to each defendant. U.S. v. Rosenberg, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1945, 150 F.2d 788, certiorari denied 66 S.Ct. 90, 326 U.S. 752, 90 L.Ed. 451, certiorari denied 66 S.Ct. 91, 326 U.S. 752, 90 L.Ed. 451. Criminal Law ⚡ 404.55

Even if a memorandum was used by one of government witnesses to fix a date, the error, if any, in denying request of defendants' counsel to see the memorandum was harmless. Harper v. U. S., C.C.A.8 (Mo.) 1944, 143 F.2d 795. Criminal Law ⚡ 1170.5(1)

In prosecution for conspiracy to use mails to defraud and for using mails in furtherance of scheme to defraud, error, if any, in admission of books of corporation was not prejudicial where no use was made of them in proving the fraud. U.S. v. Feinberg, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1944, 140 F.2d 592, certiorari denied 64 S.Ct. 943, 322 U.S. 726, 88 L.Ed. 1562. Criminal Law ⚡ 1169.1(10)

In prosecution for conspiracy to use mails to defraud and for using mails in a scheme to defraud by obtaining control of corporate business by means of false statements and disregard of interest of minority stockholders, where one defendant left company in December, 1940, and other in January, 1940, error, if any, in admitting report of accountants to board of directors for year ending November 30, 1940, did not require reversal. U.S. v. Feinberg, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1944, 140 F.2d 592, certiorari denied 64 S.Ct. 943, 322 U.S. 726, 88 L.Ed. 1562. Criminal Law ⚡ 1169.1(2.1)

In prosecution for conspiracy to defraud the United States by setting up an unregistered still for manufacture of alcohol to be possessed and sold without payment of stamp taxes, where a defendant testified and denied all participation in conspiracy and he was permitted to introduce evidence as to his reputation for veracity, improper exclusion of evidence regarding his reputation as to moral character was not reversible error. U.S. v. Latin, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1943, 139 F.2d 569. Criminal Law ⚡ 1170(1)

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate internal revenue laws relating to intoxicating liquors, where evidence of other instances of recent activities touching illicit liquors in connection with one of the defendants was impressive, any error in admitting evidence of such defendant's similar convictions nine or ten years earlier was not prejudicial. Burt v. U.S., C.C.A.5 (Ala.) 1943, 139 F.2d 73, certiorari denied 64 S.Ct. 936, 321 U.S. 799, 88 L.Ed. 1087. Criminal Law ⚡ 1169.11

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In prosecution for using the mails in furtherance of a scheme to defraud by sale of cemetery lots to the public for purposes of investment and for criminal conspiracy to commit that offense, exclusion of evidence of good faith with regard to statements made by a prosecuting official to certain of the defendants in reference to an investigation was not error, where there was no semblance of proof that any such statements had influenced defendants. Blue v. U. S., C.C.A.6 (Ohio) 1943, 138 F.2d 351, certiorari denied 64 S.Ct. 1046, 322 U.S. 736, 88 L.Ed. 1570, rehearing denied 64 S.Ct. 1259, 322 U.S. 771, 88 L.Ed. 1596, certiorari denied 64 S.Ct. 1046, 322 U.S. 737, 88 L.Ed. 1570. Conspiracy ⚡ 45; Postal Service ⚡ 49(5)

In prosecution for using mails in furtherance of a scheme to defraud by sale of cemetery lots to the public for purposes of investment and for criminal conspiracy to commit that offense, admission of evidence of certain communications made to one of the conspirators by one of the accused but not proved to have been sent through the mails was not prejudicial or erroneous. Blue v. U. S., C.C.A.6 (Ohio) 1943, 138 F.2d 351, certiorari denied 64 S.Ct. 1046, 322 U.S. 736, 88 L.Ed. 1570, rehearing denied 64 S.Ct. 1259, 322 U.S. 771, 88 L.Ed. 1596, certiorari denied 64 S.Ct. 1046, 322 U.S. 737, 88 L.Ed. 1570. Criminal Law ⚡ 422(1); Criminal Law ⚡ 1169.1(2.1)

In prosecution of individual defendant for conspiracy to violate Public Utility Holding Company Act, § 791 of Title 15, testimony of officer of parent holding company of company for which individual defendant was employed, with reference to defendant's expense account, though immaterial, did not constitute prejudicial error, where inflation of defendant's expense account was not claimed to be for purpose of contributing to fund for political contributions in violation of said section. Egan v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Mo.) 1943, 137 F.2d 369, certiorari denied 64 S.Ct. 195, 320 U.S. 788, 88 L.Ed. 474. Criminal Law ⚡ 1169.1(7)

Alleged error in admission of evidence in prosecution for conspiracy to violate internal revenue laws was not prejudicial where evidence complained of could not have deprived defendants of any substantial right. Johnson v. U.S., C.C.A.5 (Ga.) 1941, 124 F.2d 101. Criminal Law ⚡ 1169.1(2.1)

Where, in prosecution for conspiracy to obstruct due administration of justice, one defendant testified as to character of his business and denied having stated that he was go-between and that his business was fixing permitting introduction of testimony limited to that defendant that he had made such statements was not error. Craig v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1936, 81 F.2d 816, certiorari dismissed 56 S.Ct. 670, 298 U.S. 637, 80 L.Ed. 1371, certiorari dismissed 56 S.Ct. 671, 298 U.S. 637, 80 L.Ed. 1371, rehearing denied 83 F.2d 450, certiorari denied 56 S.Ct. 959, 298 U.S. 690, 80 L.Ed. 1408, rehearing denied 57 S.Ct. 6, 299 U.S. 620, 81 L.Ed. 457. Criminal Law ⚡ 673(3); Witnesses ⚡ 380(2)

In prosecution for conspiracy to harbor fugitive from justice, alleged error in admitting receipt of investigating officer to witness for money received by witness from accused, which receipt contained serial numbers of bills, was not prejudicial. Piquett v. U.S., C.C.A.7 (Ill.) 1936, 81 F.2d 75, certiorari denied 56 S.Ct. 749, 298 U.S. 664, 80 L.Ed. 1388. Criminal Law ⚡ 1169.1(10)

Defendants in liquor conspiracy case were not prejudiced by admission of evidence that codefendant bought coal for boat seized while unloading liquor. Campanelli v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1926, 13 F.2d 750. Criminal Law ⚡ 1169.1(2.1); Criminal Law ⚡ 1169.7

Defendant was not prejudiced by admission in evidence of unsigned letter addressed to him, found on codefendant, where court directed jury not to consider it. Campanelli v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1926, 13 F.2d 750. Criminal Law ⚡ 1169.5(2); Criminal Law ⚡ 1169.7

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

1075. ---- Prejudicial error, admissibility of evidence, review

Two defendants convicted of a conspiracy to defraud the United States could not contend that the admission of certain reports of investigators of the Alcohol Tax Unit was prejudicial to a codefendant and that they were entitled to take advantage of the error, where those reports were admitted against a fourth defendant alone, and the record contained no indication that the jury was ever informed that the reports were evidence against the other defendants. Glasser v. U.S., U.S. Ill. 1942, 62 S.Ct. 457, 315 U.S. 60, 86 L.Ed. 680, rehearing denied 62 S.Ct. 629, 315 U.S. 827, 86 L.Ed. 1222, rehearing denied 62 S.Ct. 637, 315 U.S. 827, 86 L.Ed. 1222. Criminal Law ☞ 1136

Audio tapes of three phone conversations between coconspirator and undercover FBI informant were erroneously admitted, since government did not challenge in its brief defendants' assertion that no conspiracy existed at time of conversations; however, admission of the evidence did not constitute reversible error since it was "highly probable" that tapes did not contribute to jury's judgment of conviction. U.S. v. Jannotti, C.A.3 (Pa.) 1984, 729 F.2d 213, certiorari denied 105 S.Ct. 243, 469 U.S. 880, 83 L.Ed.2d 182, certiorari denied 105 S.Ct. 244, 469 U.S. 880, 83 L.Ed.2d 182. Criminal Law ☞ 1130(6); Criminal Law ☞ 1169.7

Even if hearsay was erroneously admitted at defendants' conspiracy trial, such testimony lacked significant prejudicial effect and could not serve as basis for reversing defendants' convictions. U. S. v. De Los Santos, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1980, 625 F.2d 62, rehearing denied 633 F.2d 582. Criminal Law ☞ 1169.1(9)

In prosecution for conspiracy to obstruct justice, stemming from shooting of government witness in criminal investigation, it was error to admit evidence concerning prior conspiracy to murder that witness which did not involve defendants, but which did involve same criminal investigation and might have involved one unindicted coconspirator. U. S. v. Truslow, C.A.4 (W.Va.) 1975, 530 F.2d 257. Criminal Law ☞ 338(4)

Admission of photographs of defendant's brother-in-law, who entered United States illegally, and of passport of unidentified female, which items were seized on illegal search of defendant's automobile, as well as testimony related to key, which was found on brother-in-law and insertion of which in lock of defendant's automobile commenced the illegal search, when considered with resulting inference that defendant's vehicle was to be used to transport the aliens and receipt of testimony that key fit the automobile, was prejudicial error requiring reversal of conviction of conspiracy and of smuggling and unlawfully transporting aliens. U. S. v. Portillo-Reyes, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1975, 529 F.2d 844, certiorari denied 97 S.Ct. 267, 429 U.S. 899, 50 L.Ed.2d 185. Criminal Law ☞ 394.4(12); Criminal Law ☞ 1169.1(8)

Testimony of FBI agent that he had taken defendant, charged with conspiracy and with causing, with unlawful and fraudulent intent, a falsely made security to be transported in interstate commerce, into custody for unrelated car theft charge should not have been received; however, receipt of such testimony was not prejudicial error where defense counsel brought the same information to jury's attention in attempting to show that defendant's oral statements to agent were involuntarily given and it was not alleged that such testimony was elicited in order to meet any improper innuendoes flowing from agent's testimony. U. S. v. Acreman, C.A.8 (Ark.) 1970, 434 F.2d 338. Criminal Law ☞ 369.1; Criminal Law ☞ 1169.3

Admission of particularized statements given by defendants in response to separate interrogations, before conspiracy prosecution in which severance was denied, without adequate instructive limitation as to purpose for which jury could consider each statement, was error vitiating convictions of all defendants on conspiracy and substantive counts. Green v. U. S., C.A.10 (Okla.) 1967, 386 F.2d 953. Criminal Law ☞ 673(2)

Record established that accumulation of evidence of wrongdoing by codefendants, and especially admission improperly into evidence of certain post-conspiracy testimony of codefendants before SEC and attorney general and codefendant's letter, and failure to sever as to defendant, were prejudicial to defendant, requiring reversal of conviction, on substantive fraud counts as well as on conspiracy count, in prosecution involving conspiracy to defraud public by distribution of oil company stock at grossly inflated prices. U. S. v. Kelly, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1965, 349 F.2d 720, certiorari denied 86 S.Ct. 1467, 384 U.S. 947, 16 L.Ed.2d 544. Criminal Law ⚡ 1166(6); Criminal Law ⚡ 1169.1(2.1)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Where suitcase and machine guns were admissible against one of three defendants in prosecution for illegal possession and conspiracy but inadmissible against remaining two defendants charged only with conspiracy because seized in violation of their rights under U.S.C.A.Const. Amend. 4, but where such evidence was introduced early in trial and was referred to, left in view of jury, and handled by witnesses throughout trial, instructions, even though careful and complete, directing jury to disregard evidence as against defendants charged with conspiracy only, did not serve to insure them against prejudice. Castro v. U. S., C.A.5 (Fla.) 1961, 296 F.2d 540. Criminal Law ⚡ 673(4)

Conviction of participation in single conspiracy which included codefendant was reversed on account of possible prejudice against defendant from improper admission of illegal evidence against codefendant. Daily v. U. S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1961, 293 F.2d 33. Criminal Law ⚡ 1186.1

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate Internal Revenue liquor and illicit still laws, admission of testimony of arresting officer as to statements made by alleged coconspirators after their arrest was reversible error, in absence of evidence of any conspiracy which continued after such arrest and after destruction of still. Mosley v. U.S., C.A.5 (Fla.) 1960, 285 F.2d 226. Criminal Law ⚡ 427(2); Criminal Law ⚡ 1169.7

In prosecution for conspiracy and using mails to defraud, admission of witness' summaries based on all books and records in evidence to show connection of each of several defendants with fraudulent scheme was prejudicial error in absence of evidence as to which of records was basis for each conclusion contained in summaries, where all books and records were inadmissible against all or any one of several defendants, although each book or record was admissible against some defendant. Wilkes v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1935, 80 F.2d 285. Criminal Law ⚡ 400(8); Criminal Law ⚡ 1169.1(2.1)

On trial for conspiracy to oppose enforcement of the draft by force, admission of evidence of a highly seditious and disloyal speech by a third person, with whom defendant was not shown to have any connection, was reversible error. Enfield v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Okla.) 1919, 261 F. 141. Criminal Law ⚡ 338(4)

Evidence of an alleged fraudulent mining-stock scheme had no direct tendency to prove a scheme to defraud through fictitious horse-race bets, and the admission of such evidence was prejudicial error. Shea v. U. S., C.C.A.6 (Ohio) 1916, 236 F. 97, 149 C.C.A. 307.

On a trial for participation in a conspiracy to use the mails to defraud, error in admitting an instrument containing positive averments of facts tending to establish accused's guilt cannot be disregarded as nonprejudicial. Todd v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Mo.) 1915, 221 F. 205, 136 C.C.A. 615. Criminal Law ⚡ 1169(1)

Where a contract between codefendants charged with conspiracy to defraud the United States was introduced in evidence by the prosecution as tending to prove such conspiracy, it was error to exclude evidence offered by defendants to show that on learning that such contract might be unlawful it was superseded by another claimed to be legal, especially where evidence was admitted of acts done by the defendants subsequent to the date of the alleged substituted agreement. Perrin v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1909, 169 F. 17, 94 C.C.A. 385. See, also, Benson v. U.S., Mo.1909, 169 F. 31, 94 C.C.A. 399. Criminal Law ⚡ 396(1)

1076. ---- Confessions, admissibility of evidence, review

In prosecution of defendant and others for conspiring to deal unlawfully in alcohol, the admitting in evidence of a confession of a codefendant made after termination of alleged conspiracy, and referring to defendant, did not,

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

under circumstances, constitute reversible error by trial court which repeatedly admonished jury that confession was to be considered only in determining guilt of confessor and not guilt or innocence of other defendants. Delli Paoli v. U.S., U.S.N.Y.1957, 77 S.Ct. 294, 352 U.S. 232, 1 L.Ed.2d 278. Criminal Law ⚡ 1169.5(5)

In prosecution for conspiracy to transport stolen shirts in interstate commerce, even if trial court mishandled admission of confession of a codefendant which contained a single reference to defendant, by admitting the same in the Government's case in chief before the declarant took the stand, any such error was harmless beyond a reasonable doubt in view of other evidence supporting the verdict of guilty. U. S. v. Maddox, C.A.5 (Ala.) 1974, 492 F.2d 104, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 92, 419 U.S. 851, 42 L.Ed.2d 82. Criminal Law ⚡ 1169.7

Where one Internal Revenue agent was under no police compulsion to meet with another and, once at meeting, was free to say nothing or leave at any time he chose, and was induced to make self-incriminating statements by his eagerness to avail himself of chance to conceal his past derelictions, his statements, which were recorded by other inspectors by arrangement with second mentioned agent, were admissible even if given in response to "interrogation" and even though no Miranda warnings were given. U. S. v. Viviano, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1971, 437 F.2d 295, certiorari denied 91 S.Ct. 1659, 402 U.S. 983, 29 L.Ed.2d 149. Criminal Law ⚡ 412.2(3)

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate certain narcotics laws, where a codefendant made a confession which was introduced in evidence against such codefendant only, instruction that jury should consider such confession only as against defendant against whom it was offered would be deemed an adequate instruction as to consideration to be given such confession, in view of fact no objection was made as to alleged insufficiency of instruction and in view of fact record did not disclose whether or not court further instructed in its charge to the jury, or whether defendant made a request for further instructions on the subject. Parente v. U.S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1957, 249 F.2d 752. Criminal Law ⚡ 825(4); Criminal Law ⚡ 847

In reviewing admissibility of confession as evidence, appellate court must consider evidence in relation thereto as a whole, and must act judicially to determine whether or not there are facts, or fair inferences to be drawn therefrom, which, if unanswered, would justify men of ordinary reason and fairness in concluding that confession was involuntary and resulted from improper inducements. Anderson v. U.S., C.C.A.6 (Tenn.) 1941, 124 F.2d 58, certiorari granted 62 S.Ct. 941, 316 U.S. 651, 86 L.Ed. 1732, reversed on other grounds 63 S.Ct. 599, 318 U.S. 350, 87 L.Ed. 829. Criminal Law ⚡ 1134(2)

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate liquor law, omitting the names of defendants in reading to jury a confession by defendant who had pleaded guilty did not cure error in reading such confession as evidence of the existence of conspiracy. Gambino v. U. S., C.C.A.3 (Pa.) 1939, 108 F.2d 140. Criminal Law ⚡ 528

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate liquor laws, the reading in evidence of confession of a defendant who had pleaded guilty was error as admitting "hearsay" as against other defendants. Gambino v. U. S., C.C.A.3 (Pa.) 1939, 108 F.2d 140. Criminal Law ⚡ 528

1077. ---- Declarations of coconspirators, admissibility of evidence, review

No error occurred in admitting coconspirator's statement, even though such statement was made after termination of conspiracy, where defendant "opened the door" to such inquiry by cross-examining witness as to alleged exculpatory statement also made by the witness. U. S. v. Nardi, C.A.1 (N.H.) 1980, 633 F.2d 972. Criminal Law ⚡ 396(1)

There must be independent evidence of conspiracy and of defendant's participation in it, other than alleged coconspirator statements themselves, to permit admission against defendant of declarations made by coconspirators; the independent evidence need not have established participation of defendant beyond a reasonable doubt but must be sufficient at least to take the question to the jury. U. S. v. Gresko, C.A.4 (W.Va.)

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

1980, 632 F.2d 1128. Criminal Law ⚡ 427(5)

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate section 1001 of this title by knowingly making or causing to be made false, fictitious and fraudulent representations in an application to Small Business Administration for the guaranty of a bank loan, witness' testimony that alleged coconspirator had told him that he had to give defendant specified sum of money to get the loan was hearsay, but was admissible within hearsay rule exception pertaining to statements of a coconspirator made in furtherance of a conspiracy which has been established by competent evidence, and failure of government to question alleged coconspirator concerning truth of his alleged out-of-court declaration was not so prejudicial as to require reversal. U. S. v. Kramer, C.A.10 (Colo.) 1975, 521 F.2d 1073, certiorari denied 96 S.Ct. 1104, 424 U.S. 909, 47 L.Ed.2d 313. Criminal Law ⚡ 423(1); Criminal Law ⚡ 1168(2)

Where statements were received on government's offer of proof that declarant would be shown to be a coconspirator and court instructed jury that before it could use statements against anyone but declarant, it had to find that declarant was coconspirator, and there was no indication that jury did not follow such instruction and no motion to strike such declarant's testimony at close of evidence was made, introduction of such statements was not ground for reversal of conviction. U. S. v. John, C.A.8 (Mo.) 1975, 508 F.2d 1134, stay denied 95 S.Ct. 1115, 420 U.S. 917, 43 L.Ed.2d 391, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 1948, 421 U.S. 962, 44 L.Ed.2d 448, rehearing denied 95 S.Ct. 1948, 421 U.S. 962, 44 L.Ed.2d 448. Criminal Law ⚡ 1169.7

Proof that certain person bought amphetamines from defendant, then tried twice to buy again and was refused did not make out prima facie case of charged conspiracy that such person was to find buyers, then get pills from defendant and deliver them to buyers, as affecting admissibility of alleged coconspirator's statements. U. S. v. Spanos, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1972, 462 F.2d 1012. Criminal Law ⚡ 427(5)

Admission of extrajudicial statements made by dead coconspirator did not violate defendant union official's right to confront witnesses against him. U. S. v. Weber, C.A.3 (N.J.) 1970, 437 F.2d 327, certiorari denied 91 S.Ct. 1524, 402 U.S. 932, 28 L.Ed.2d 867. Criminal Law ⚡ 662.11

In absence of showing that statement made by conspirator to coconspirator was made during course of alleged conspiracy or that it was made by conspirator in defendant's presence, it was error to admit statement without limiting it to conspirator, and statement would be disregarded when Court of Appeals considered evidence bearing on defendant's involvement in alleged conspiracy to receive or sell jewelry stolen in interstate commerce. U. S. v. Ford, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1963, 324 F.2d 950. Criminal Law ⚡ 673(2); Criminal Law ⚡ 1134(2)

Any residual recollections which jury might have held of one defendant's reference to other defendants in extrajudicial admission were without prejudice to other defendants where only cumulative to other evidence which was sufficient to tie them with conspiracy and to warrant finding of guilt in each case. Carter v. U. S., C.A.5 (Fla.) 1962, 304 F.2d 881. Criminal Law ⚡ 1169.7

In prosecution for alleged conspiracy to violate statutory provisions relating to manufacture, sale, possession, transportation, and distribution of untax-paid whiskey, wherein evidence of guilt of three of defendants was clear, abundant, and strong, any error in admission of a co-defendant's testimony that he told arresting officers that he had been delivering whiskey for one of the three defendants for some three or four years was harmless. Roberson v. U.S., C.A.6 (Tenn.) 1960, 282 F.2d 648, certiorari denied 81 S.Ct. 167, 364 U.S. 879, 5 L.Ed.2d 102. Criminal Law ⚡ 1169.12

In prosecution for conspiring to offer and give a bribe to a United States internal revenue agent, where evidence was sufficient to warrant jury in drawing inference that defendants conspired and agreed together to commit offense of bribery, trial court did not err in overruling objection of a defendant to admitting into evidence extra-judicial acts and declarations of codefendant nor in not striking them from the record, nor in not instructing the jury to disregard them. Marbs v. U.S., C.A.8 (Mo.) 1957, 250 F.2d 514, certiorari denied 78 S.Ct. 703, 356

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

U.S. 919, 2 L.Ed.2d 715. Criminal Law ⚡ 422(1); Criminal Law ⚡ 696(1); Criminal Law ⚡ 779

Codefendant's statement in prosecution for conspiracy to violate narcotic laws to effect that while he was in jail with another codefendant, other codefendant had stated that defendant was another individual's narcotic connection did not constitute reversible error as to defendant, where question, which gave rise to statement, was not objected to and statement was stricken, after objection was made. U S v. Carminati, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1957, 247 F.2d 640, certiorari denied 78 S.Ct. 150, 355 U.S. 883, 2 L.Ed.2d 113. Criminal Law ⚡ 1169.5(3)

Where a substantive charge of burglary was dismissed as to one defendant, and there was no evidence tending to connect him with a conspiracy prior to the burglary other than statements of a codefendant made after her arrest and thus incompetent as to him, and his admissions showed only that he was accessory after the fact, his conviction for conspiracy was improper. Cleaver v. U. S., C.A.10 (Colo.) 1956, 238 F.2d 766. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(11)

Where fourteen codefendants had entered pleas of guilty to conspiracy to violate internal revenue laws relating to nontax paid whiskey, testimony of a codefendant erroneously admitted over defendant's objection that after codefendant's arrest another codefendant had said he got all the whiskey from defendant and his brother, was, under the circumstances, so impressive that its prejudicial effect could not be removed from the minds of the jury by its subsequent, but tardy, exclusion, and by an instruction of the court to disregard it. Scarborough v. U. S., C.A.5 (Ala.) 1956, 232 F.2d 412. Criminal Law ⚡ 1169.5(2)

In prosecution for conspiring to import and sell heroin in United States in contravention of law, permitting a narcotics agent who testified for prosecution to testify as to statements allegedly made to him by another person, which statements connected defendant with alleged traffickers in narcotics, was error where such alleged statements were not made by a conspirator in furtherance of conspiracy charged in indictment, and permitting such testimony required reversal of conviction under circumstances. United States v. Sansone, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1953, 206 F.2d 86. Criminal Law ⚡ 423(6); Criminal Law ⚡ 1169.7

In prosecution for conspiracy to transport stolen motor vehicles in interstate commerce, where timely objection was not taken to reading of statements, made by coconspirators to witness after conspiracy had ended, and such witness was cross-examined by counsel for defendants, trial judge did not err prejudicially in overruling motions, made at close of government's case, to exclude testimony with respect to such statements of coconspirators. Metcalf v. U.S., C.A.6 (Ky.) 1952, 195 F.2d 213. Criminal Law ⚡ 1168(4)

In prosecution for presenting false claims against government and for conspiracy to commit such offense, admission in evidence of extra-judicial statements made by co-defendant to F.B.I. was error, where co-defendant admitted that he had perjured himself in making one of statements, notwithstanding charge that statements were not to be used as evidence against defendant and limited use for purpose of impeachment of co-defendant as witness. U. S. v. Toner, C.A.3 (Pa.) 1949, 173 F.2d 140. Criminal Law ⚡ 673(4)

In prosecution for conspiracy court properly admitted statements by a defendant showing that such defendant had not regarded what he claimed at the trial was a loan to a codefendant, and which the prosecution contended was a bribe, as constituting an ordinary commercial transaction. Phelps v. U. S., C.C.A.8 (Minn.) 1947, 160 F.2d 858, rehearing denied 161 F.2d 940, certiorari denied 68 S.Ct. 1525, 334 U.S. 860, 92 L.Ed. 1780. Criminal Law ⚡ 422(5)

Where defendant testified without personal objection concerning transaction with codefendant with whom he was charged with conspiracy and in view of admitted facts and other testimony in record, it appeared that neither defendant nor codefendant was prejudiced by such testimony, no reversible error resulted. Murphy v. U.S., C.C.A.6 (Tenn.) 1943, 133 F.2d 622. Criminal Law ⚡ 1169.2(2)

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate certain laws, where most damaging evidence against defendant was testimony of coconspirator, whose reputation for veracity was not good and whose story was vigorously contradicted, but prosecution introduced a host of witnesses whose fragmentary contributions of proof corroborated and were corroborated by testimony of the coconspirator, so that defendant's guilt was established beyond a reasonable doubt, the conviction was not objectionable on ground that it was based on uncorroborated testimony of a coconspirator. Stewart v. U. S., C.C.A.5 (Ala.) 1942, 131 F.2d 624, certiorari denied 63 S.Ct. 854, 318 U.S. 779, 87 L.Ed. 1147. Criminal Law ⚡ 511.1(6.1)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Whether it was necessary that testimony of a conspirator against his codefendants in prosecution for conspiracy to transport stolen jewelry in interstate commerce be corroborated was not an issue on appeal where objection to admission of such evidence was made on the ground that it tended to show defendants had committed an offense other than that charged in the indictment. Banning v. U.S., C.C.A.6 (Mich.) 1942, 130 F.2d 330, certiorari denied 63 S.Ct. 434, 317 U.S. 695, 87 L.Ed. 556. Criminal Law ⚡ 1043(3)

That testimony of codefendant, who pleaded guilty to charge of conspiracy to transport stolen jewelry in interstate commerce, that he and codefendants participated in another jewel robbery was uncorroborated, did not render such testimony inadmissible in the prosecution for conspiracy. Banning v. U.S., C.C.A.6 (Mich.) 1942, 130 F.2d 330, certiorari denied 63 S.Ct. 434, 317 U.S. 695, 87 L.Ed. 556. Criminal Law ⚡ 428

In prosecution for using mails to defraud and for conspiracy so to use the mails defendant was not deprived of fair and impartial trial, in absence of showing of prejudice, by permitting codefendant with whom he had been in continual conference, without knowledge that codefendant would be called as witness for the government, to testify for the government at codefendant's request. U. S. v. Beck, C.C.A.7 (Ill.) 1941, 118 F.2d 178, certiorari denied 61 S.Ct. 1121, 313 U.S. 587, 85 L.Ed. 1542. Criminal Law ⚡ 508(3)

In prosecution for possessing with intent to pass and utter counterfeit $10 silver certificates of the United States government, and conspiracy to possess, pass, and utter the counterfeit money, the erroneous admission of conversation between government agent and one of the conspirators, did not require reversal, where the testimony was merely a repetition of the conspirator's direct testimony, and, on motion of government, the testimony was stricken by the court sitting without a jury. U.S. v. Corso, C.C.A.7 (Ill.) 1938, 100 F.2d 604. Criminal Law ⚡ 1169.7

Conviction for possessing counterfeit United States obligations with intent to pass would not be reversed on ground that witness who testified against accused was an accomplice, or that he, on his own word, was shown to be man of bad character. Trant v. U.S., C.C.A.7 (Ill.) 1936, 88 F.2d 475. Criminal Law ⚡ 1159.4(6)

Admission of hearsay statements of coconspirator, constituting mere narration of past events, to effect that defendant had given warning of presence of prohibition officer, was error. Clark v. U.S., C.C.A.5 (Ga.) 1932, 61 F.2d 409. Criminal Law ⚡ 425

Any error in permitting witness to testify accused's codefendant was "dope peddler" was harmless, where codefendant pleaded guilty to charge. Benese v. U.S., C.C.A.5 (La.) 1928, 25 F.2d 231, certiorari denied 49 S.Ct. 17, 278 U.S. 612, 73 L.Ed. 536. Criminal Law ⚡ 1169.2(2)

Testimony that one alleged conspirator and defendant referred to another alleged conspirator and defendant as the boss was harmless, where first conspirator had made similar reference before conspiracy ended. Vachuda v. U.S., C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1927, 21 F.2d 409. Criminal Law ⚡ 1169.7

In prosecution of defendant for conspiracy to commit offense against United States, for aiding and abetting attempted armed robbery of national bank, and for being an accessory after the fact, denial of defendant wife's request to delete part of defendant husband's statement which tended to show husband's state of mind when bank alarm sounded, his knowledge of time and intended flight was not error where defendant wife's statement and testimony were substantially to same effect, and jury was instructed that such testimony bound only husband. U. S. v. Anthony, M.D.Pa.1956, 145 F.Supp. 323. Criminal Law ⚡ 696(3)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In prosecution for criminal conspiracy, evidence of acts and extrajudicial statements or declarations of other alleged conspirators than defendants is admissible to show such third parties' membership in conspiracy. U. S. v. Schneiderman, S.D.Cal.1952, 106 F.Supp. 892. Criminal Law ⚡ 423(4)

In determining whether alleged conspirators, not named as defendants in indictment for conspiracy, were knowingly and wilfully members of conspiracy during period covered by indictment, so as to authorize consideration of their statements or declarations in connection with case of any defendant found to have been member of conspiracy, only statements or declarations and acts and conduct of persons whose membership in conspiracy is in question and not statements or acts of others may be considered. U. S. v. Schneiderman, S.D.Cal.1952, 106 F.Supp. 892. Criminal Law ⚡ 423(4)

Where government was entitled to have defendants charged with conspiracy tried jointly, and evidence incompetent against one defendant but competent against the other defendants was offered, and no motion for severance was made, and trial court had no way of knowing in advance that such a situation would arise, admission of evidence with admonition to jury that evidence was to be considered only against defendants as to whom the evidence was competent and not against the defendant as to whom evidence was incompetent, was not prejudicial. U.S. v. Rose, W.D.Ky.1940, 31 F.Supp. 249. Criminal Law ⚡ 921

1078. ---- Evidence against codefendant, admissibility of evidence, review

In prosecution for conspiracy charging defendant and codefendant with conspiring to defraud Immigration and Naturalization Service, there was sufficient evidence of defendants' participation in alleged conspiracy to support admission of various coconspirator's statements against him. U. S. v. Bithoney, C.A.1 (Mass.) 1980, 631 F.2d 1, certiorari denied 101 S.Ct. 869, 449 U.S. 1083, 66 L.Ed.2d 808. Criminal Law ⚡ 427(5)

In prosecution for conspiracy to transport stolen telephone equipment in interstate commerce, Government had duty to disclose details of its plea bargaining agreement with coindicttee who testified, and testimony produced in making such disclosure, including information about sales of other telephone equipment, was properly received. U. S. v. Nicholson, C.A.5 (La.) 1976, 525 F.2d 1233, certiorari denied 96 S.Ct. 2170, 425 U.S. 972, 48 L.Ed.2d 795, certiorari denied 97 S.Ct. 105, 429 U.S. 837, 50 L.Ed.2d 103. Criminal Law ⚡ 422(2)

Extrajudicial statements of codefendants are admissible once a conspiracy or joint venture has been shown whether or not it is specifically charged in the indictment. U. S. v. Tanner, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1972, 471 F.2d 128, certiorari denied 93 S.Ct. 269, 409 U.S. 949, 34 L.Ed.2d 220. Criminal Law ⚡ 422(1)

Evidence of two rifles and several clips of ammunition which were taken from first defendant charged with conspiracy and smuggling at time of his arrest was properly received as to second defendant where latter was fully protected by court's instruction that such evidence was received only with respect to first defendant. U. S. v. Bowe, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1966, 360 F.2d 1, certiorari denied 87 S.Ct. 401, 385 U.S. 961, 17 L.Ed.2d 306, certiorari denied 87 S.Ct. 779, 385 U.S. 1042, 17 L.Ed.2d 686, rehearing denied 87 S.Ct. 1040, 386 U.S. 969, 18 L.Ed.2d 127. Criminal Law ⚡ 673(4)

One of defendants was not prejudiced in prosecution for violations of this section and conflicts of interest statute, § 281 of this title, because of evidence admitted against one or more of his codefendants. U. S. v. Johnson, C.A.4 (Md.) 1964, 337 F.2d 180, certiorari granted 85 S.Ct. 703, 379 U.S. 988, 13 L.Ed.2d 609, affirmed 86 S.Ct. 749, 383 U.S. 169, 15 L.Ed.2d 681, certiorari denied 87 S.Ct. 134, 385 U.S. 889, 17 L.Ed.2d 117, certiorari denied 87 S.Ct. 44, 385 U.S. 846, 17 L.Ed.2d 77. Criminal Law ⚡ 1169.1(2.1)

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Error cannot be predicated upon admission in conspiracy case of competent and admissible evidence against one defendant even though such evidence is inadmissible as to remaining defendants, especially where judge correctly instructs jury as to proper use of evidence. Castro v. U. S., C.A.5 (Fla.) 1961, 296 F.2d 540. Criminal Law ⚡ 673(4)

Even if some of evidence was relevant only to issues other than individual defendant's participation in alleged conspiracy or only in respect of corporate defendant's participation therein, admission of evidence was not prejudicially erroneous as to individual defendant, where individual defendant sought only to exclude such testimony generally and without requesting a limiting instruction. Egan v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Mo.) 1943, 137 F.2d 369, certiorari denied 64 S.Ct. 195, 320 U.S. 788, 88 L.Ed. 474. Criminal Law ⚡ 673(4)

Evidence competent as to other defendants than appellant was properly admitted in conspiracy trial; latter's rights being protected by instructions. Haffa v. U.S., C.C.A.7 (Ill.) 1929, 36 F.2d 1, certiorari denied 50 S.Ct. 240, 281 U.S. 727, 74 L.Ed. 1144. Criminal Law ⚡ 673(4)

Admitting certificates showing that prohibition agents had been dismissed and evidence of acts of one defendant against that defendant only, in prosecution for conspiracy to accept bribes, was not harmful. Harvey v. U.S., C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1928, 23 F.2d 561. Criminal Law ⚡ 1169.7

1079. ---- Overt acts, admissibility of evidence, review

Admission of testimony that defendant, in prosecution for conspiracy and substantive offenses, had frequently visited witness' female neighbor was proper for its probative value in showing that defendant had access to neighbor's telephone through which he received call from alleged coconspirator, despite claimed prejudice arising from fact that defendant was married man. U. S. v. Kompinski, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1967, 373 F.2d 429. Criminal Law ⚡ 338(7)

Where the proof was sufficient to implicate defendant in the more general conspiracy with which he was charged, the undisputed overt acts of his co-conspirators were attributable to him. U. S. v. Boyance, C.A.3 (Pa.) 1964, 329 F.2d 372, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 1645, 377 U.S. 965, 12 L.Ed.2d 736. Conspiracy ⚡ 41

There was no error in admitting, subject to later connection, evidence of alleged overt acts before conspiratorial agreement had been established when judge cautioned jury that all evidence on conspiracy charge had been stricken and repeatedly cautioned jury to disregard it. U. S. v. Sahadi, C.A.2 (Conn.) 1961, 292 F.2d 565. Criminal Law ⚡ 681(3)

In prosecution for conspiracy, although submission of one overt act to jury was improper in that no evidence relating thereto was introduced, such error was harmless in view of fact that occurrence of five remaining overt acts not only was clearly established but was undisputed. U.S. v. Bletterman, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1960, 279 F.2d 320. Criminal Law ⚡ 1168(1)

Where it was clear that defendants had committed a large number of overt acts to effect object of their conspiracy, including other overt acts specified in indictment, and it was thus not conceivable that jury had found them guilty of only the overt act allegedly not proved, any lack of direct proof in respect to that overt act could not be deemed to have been prejudicial. Giardano v. U.S., C.A.8 (Mo.) 1958, 251 F.2d 109, certiorari denied 78 S.Ct. 1136, 356 U.S. 973, 2 L.Ed.2d 1147, rehearing denied 78 S.Ct. 1382, 357 U.S. 944, 2 L.Ed.2d 1558. Conspiracy ⚡ 43(12)

Where there was proof of overt acts in pursuance of alleged conspiracy within period of limitations, submission of evidence to jury as to overt acts which occurred before period of limitations did not authorize a reversal. U.S. v. Cohen, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1944, 145 F.2d 82, certiorari denied 65 S.Ct. 553, 323 U.S. 799, 89 L.Ed. 637, certiorari denied 65 S.Ct. 553, 323 U.S. 799, 89 L.Ed. 638, certiorari denied 65 S.Ct. 554, 323 U.S. 800, 89 L.Ed. 638.

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Criminal Law ⚡ 1169.11

Overt act may be considered with other evidence in determining whether there was conspiracy, but it must be established that conspiracy was existing when overt act was committed. Dahly v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Minn.) 1931, 50 F.2d 37. Conspiracy ⚡ 27

1080. ---- Intent, admissibility of evidence, review

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate federal narcotics laws, even if indictment could properly have charged only one aspect of the conspiracy, evidence of dealings with second supplier would have been admissible to show defendant's intent with respect to prior transactions, since during negotiations defendant did not refer to heroin but rather to "the stuff." U. S. v. Sir Kue Chin, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1976, 534 F.2d 1032. Criminal Law ⚡ 371(1)

1081. Sufficiency of evidence, review

When reviewing a claim of insufficient evidence, court examines the admissible evidence to determine whether, when viewed in the light most favorable to the jury verdict and accepting all credibility choices which tend to support that verdict, there was sufficient evidence upon which a reasonable trier of fact could find defendant guilty beyond a reasonable doubt. U.S. v. Allred, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1989, 867 F.2d 856. Criminal Law ⚡ 1159.2(7)

Standard of review for sufficiency of evidence of single conspiracy is whether any rational trier of fact could have found single conspiracy on evidence presented. U.S. v. Bloch, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1982, 696 F.2d 1213. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(1)

On challenge to sufficiency of independent evidence to establish existence of conspiracy, evidence must be viewed in light most favorable to government. U. S. v. Young, C.A.8 (Mo.) 1980, 634 F.2d 1136. Criminal Law ⚡ 1144.13(3)

In analyzing contention that evidence at trial for conspiracy to transport stolen securities in interstate commerce was insufficient to prove that defendants were members of an overall, single conspiracy, Court of Appeals was required to view evidence in light most favorable to the prosecution in order to sustain the conviction. U. S. v. Salerno, C.A.3 (N.J.) 1973, 485 F.2d 260, certiorari denied 94 S.Ct. 1596, 415 U.S. 994, 39 L.Ed.2d 891, rehearing denied 94 S.Ct. 2415, 416 U.S. 1000, 40 L.Ed.2d 778. Criminal Law ⚡ 1144.13(8)

Where jury, in a prosecution for conspiracy to violate the Sherman Act, § 1-7 of Title 15, found a corporate defendant guilty of participation in the conspiracy, applicable rule in judging sufficiency of the record to sustain the conviction was to consider it in the light most favorable to the prosecution, and to reverse only if Court of Appeals found that there was no substantial evidence, on the record as a whole, to support the verdict. Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co. v. U.S., C.A.4 (Va.) 1958, 260 F.2d 397, certiorari granted 79 S.Ct. 289, 358 U.S. 917, 3 L.Ed.2d 237, certiorari granted 79 S.Ct. 290, 358 U.S. 918, 3 L.Ed.2d 237, affirmed 79 S.Ct. 1237, 360 U.S. 395, 3 L.Ed.2d 1323, rehearing denied 80 S.Ct. 42, 361 U.S. 855, 4 L.Ed.2d 94. Criminal Law ⚡ 1144.13(8); Criminal Law ⚡ 1159.2(10)

Where sufficiency of evidence to connect accused with conspiracy was challenged, only question for court on review was whether facts as found by jury operated as substantial proof of guilt. Hall v. U.S., C.C.A.10 (Okla.) 1940, 109 F.2d 976. Criminal Law ⚡ 1158(1)

The weighing of conflicting evidence in prosecution for violations of bankruptcy law and for conspiracy was exclusively for jury, and was not reviewable. U.S. v. Shapiro, C.C.A.7 (Wis.) 1939, 101 F.2d 375, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 774, 306 U.S. 657, 83 L.Ed. 1054. Criminal Law ⚡ 1159.3(6)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Appellate court will not review the weight of the evidence on which conviction for conspiracy was had. Westfall v. U. S., C.C.A.6 (Ohio) 1924, 2 F.2d 973, 3 Ohio Law Abs. 481.

1082. Witnesses, review--Generally

In prosecution for violation of internal revenue laws and conspiracy, defendants were entitled to an opportunity to examine and cross-examine witnesses at trial to determine whether government was using against them evidence derived from leads and clues furnished by materials illegally obtained from defendants and used to procure (subsequently dismissed) indictments by prior grand jury; but, on record presented, reviewing court could not hold that such opportunity had been denied defendants. Lawn v. U.S., U.S.N.Y.1958, 78 S.Ct. 311, 355 U.S. 339, 2 L.Ed.2d 321, rehearing denied 78 S.Ct. 529, 355 U.S. 967, 2 L.Ed.2d 532, rehearing denied 78 S.Ct. 529, 355 U.S. 967, 2 L.Ed.2d 542. Criminal Law ☞ 394.5(1)

In conspiracy prosecution, the district court did not exceed its authority in asking witness whether there had been a full disclosure of his connection with a certain still when he appeared before a certain judge, even though appearance was simply for the purpose of arraignment and no testimony was offered, where no one attempted to explain to the court the nature of the appearance at the time of the questioning, and it was later brought out on cross-examination that appearance was only an arraignment and that there was no necessity for testimony on that day. Glasser v. U.S., U.S.Ill.1942, 62 S.Ct. 457, 315 U.S. 60, 86 L.Ed. 680, rehearing denied 62 S.Ct. 629, 315 U.S. 827, 86 L.Ed. 1222, rehearing denied 62 S.Ct. 637, 315 U.S. 827, 86 L.Ed. 1222. Criminal Law ☞ 656(2)

In prosecution for using interstate wire facilities in carrying out scheme to defraud certain hotel casinos and for conspiracy involving same scheme, testimony of witness, who had been indicted along with defendants but who subsequently pleaded guilty and testified for government, as to planning and execution of alleged conspiracy was admissible where witness was testifying to facts in his own knowledge. U. S. v. Scallion, C.A.5 (La.) 1976, 533 F.2d 903, certiorari denied 97 S.Ct. 824, 429 U.S. 1079, 50 L.Ed.2d 799, rehearing denied 97 S.Ct. 1342, 430 U.S. 923, 51 L.Ed.2d 602, on rehearing 548 F.2d 1168, certiorari denied 98 S.Ct. 2843, 436 U.S. 943, 56 L.Ed.2d 784. Criminal Law ☞ 508(3)

Trial court did not err in admitting into evidence government witness' testimony that defendant's $10,000 loan to him was at a highly usurious rate of interest where loan was paid off out of proceeds of securities swindle and existence of loan represented influencing factor in defendant's participation in the conspiracy. U. S. v. Aloï, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1975, 511 F.2d 585, certiorari denied 96 S.Ct. 447, 423 U.S. 1015, 46 L.Ed.2d 386. Criminal Law ☞ 369.2(3.1)

Testimony as to defendant's prior bankruptcy was admissible in prosecution for mail fraud and conspiracy as circumstantial evidence tending to establish defendant's motive, intent, or design in carrying out alleged scheme to defraud applicants for loans, notwithstanding that such testimony tended incidentally to put defendant's character in issue; nor was such testimony inadmissible on ground that possible prejudice outweighed probative value. U. S. v. Pichnarcik, C.A.9 (Wash.) 1970, 427 F.2d 1290. Criminal Law ☞ 338(7); Criminal Law ☞ 376

In prosecution for smuggling and conspiracy relative to alleged plot to blow up Statue of Liberty, trial judge correctly concluded that confusion and delay which would have resulted from introduction of testimony of third party that government witness had asked him to participate in a plan to blow up Statue of Liberty outweighed its slight probative value. U. S. v. Bowe, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1966, 360 F.2d 1, certiorari denied 87 S.Ct. 401, 385 U.S. 961, 17 L.Ed.2d 306, certiorari denied 87 S.Ct. 779, 385 U.S. 1042, 17 L.Ed.2d 686, rehearing denied 87 S.Ct. 1040, 386 U.S. 969, 18 L.Ed.2d 127. Criminal Law ☞ 417(1)

In view of fact that trial judge was alert to protect defendant while he was testifying and that facts sought by government from FBI agent and from defendant's coconspirator were relevant to defendant's intent to commit crimes charged and his knowledge of overall fraudulent scheme, defendant was not entitled to reversal on ground of prejudicial misconduct by government counsel in examining two government witnesses and in cross-examination of defendant. U. S. v. Mayo, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1965, 340 F.2d 943. Criminal Law ↪ 1171.8(1)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Where alleged co-conspirator testified that he had been told by government agent that he would be a fool to testify at trial, it was a proper rebuttal for agent to testify to further conversations between agent and alleged co-conspirator respecting his reasons for testifying and to incriminating admissions made in course of such conversations. U. S. v. Allegetti, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1964, 340 F.2d 254, certiorari denied 85 S.Ct. 1531, 381 U.S. 911, 14 L.Ed.2d 433, rehearing denied 85 S.Ct. 1800, 381 U.S. 956, 14 L.Ed.2d 728, certiorari denied 85 S.Ct. 1532, 381 U.S. 911, 14 L.Ed.2d 433, certiorari denied 88 S.Ct. 830, 390 U.S. 908, 19 L.Ed.2d 876. Criminal Law ↪ 683(1)

If trial judge erred in originally ruling, after three alibi witnesses had testified for a defendant, that he could call only two more witnesses on subject, error was cured by later ruling allowing him to call as many alibi witnesses as he desired. U. S. v. Bentvena, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1963, 319 F.2d 916, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 345, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 271, rehearing denied 90 S.Ct. 894, 397 U.S. 928, 25 L.Ed.2d 108, rehearing denied 84 S.Ct. 515, 375 U.S. 989, 11 L.Ed.2d 476, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 346, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 271, rehearing denied 84 S.Ct. 1162, 377 U.S. 913, 12 L.Ed.2d 183, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 353, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 272, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 354, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 272, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 355, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 272, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 360, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 272. Criminal Law ↪ 675

Record on appeal in forgery prosecution disclosed that trial judge had not improperly limited cross-examination. Gardner v. U. S., C.A.10 (Colo.) 1960, 283 F.2d 580. Witnesses ↪ 268(1)

In prosecution for conspiring to defraud United States and to commit certain offenses against laws of United States by violating sections of Internal Revenue Code pertaining to illicit, unlawful, and fraudulent manufacture, possession, transportation, distribution, removal and concealment of nontax-paid distilled spirits and for making false, fictitious and fraudulent reports, court did not err in permitting a witness to state what was in a bill of lading shown to be in possession of one of defendant. Ellijay Feed & Supply Co. v. U.S., C.A.5 (Ga.) 1960, 277 F.2d 791. Criminal Law ↪ 398(2)

Where trial in prosecution for concealing assets from trustee in bankruptcy and conspiring to transfer assets of one corporation to another in contemplation of bankruptcy lasted 11 days and there were some 1,470 pages of transcript, and the jury had ample opportunity to observe defendant while he was on witness stand who repeatedly was evasive and unresponsive and trial judge was obliged to take an active part to keep proceedings in proper channels and most of judge's questions were directed toward that end and judge cautioned jury that his instructions to defendant has nothing to do with his guilt or innocence, defendant could not claim prejudice on ground that trial court repeatedly rebuked him and his counsel. U.S. v. Switzer, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1958, 252 F.2d 139, certiorari denied 78 S.Ct. 1363, 357 U.S. 922, 2 L.Ed.2d 1366, rehearing denied 79 S.Ct. 16, 358 U.S. 859, 3 L.Ed.2d 93. Criminal Law ↪ 1166.22(3)

In prosecution for concealing assets from trustee in bankruptcy and conspiring to transfer assets of one corporation to another in contemplation of bankruptcy, wherein most of trial judge's some 920 questions were designed to clarify testimony and point out its relation to former testimony, and court uniformly allowed ample time for explanation of any resulting inconsistencies and avoided personalities whenever possible, and court did not address itself to credibility of any witness nor did court remark on weight to be given to any particular piece of evidence, defendant was not prejudiced by such questions. U.S. v. Switzer, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1958, 252 F.2d 139, certiorari denied 78 S.Ct. 1363, 357 U.S. 922, 2 L.Ed.2d 1366, rehearing denied 79 S.Ct. 16, 358 U.S. 859, 3 L.Ed.2d 93. Criminal Law ↪ 1166.22(5)

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate internal revenue laws relating to nontax paid whiskey, if question asked defendant on cross-examination as to whether he had been convicted of manufacturing moonshine whiskey for which he had paid a fine related to a conviction for a misdemeanor some twenty years before present charge, same question should not be repeated upon another trial. Scarborough v. U. S., C.A.5 (Ala.) 1956, 232 F.2d 412. Criminal Law ☞ 369.6

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

A decision whether coconspirator should take stand as witness was matter for determination of counsel in its conduct of trial, and that such trial strategy was unsuccessful in securing the hoped-for acquittal of conspirator does not render coconspirator's failure to testify a ground which can be urged by conspirator after trial as error. Beeler v. U.S., C.A.5 (Tex.) 1953, 205 F.2d 454, certiorari denied 74 S.Ct. 130, 346 U.S. 877, 98 L.Ed. 385. Criminal Law ☞ 1137(2)

In prosecution against 16 defendants for conspiracy to defraud United States of taxes on distilled spirits, the District Court's action in punishing a government witness for contempt for refusal to testify was not prejudicial to accused where no light was thrown on whom the witness was to testify against or what he would say. U.S. v. Novick, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1941, 124 F.2d 107, certiorari denied 62 S.Ct. 795, 315 U.S. 813, 86 L.Ed. 1212, rehearing denied 62 S.Ct. 913, 315 U.S. 830, 86 L.Ed. 1224. Criminal Law ☞ 1170.5(1)

In prosecution for conspiracy to defraud United States of taxes on distilled spirits, wherein accused admitted that he played the numbers, in order to explain his association with a codefendant who was a bookmaker, action of district court in permitting city detective in rebuttal to testify that from papers found in accused's possession which were admitted in evidence on cross-examination of accused, detective could determine that accused had been a policy banker rather than mere player, and in holding that there was no unfair surprise or confusion of issues, was not an abuse of discretion. U.S. v. Novick, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1941, 124 F.2d 107, certiorari denied 62 S.Ct. 795, 315 U.S. 813, 86 L.Ed. 1212, rehearing denied 62 S.Ct. 913, 315 U.S. 830, 86 L.Ed. 1224. Criminal Law ☞ 369.1; Criminal Law ☞ 683(1)

In prosecution for conspiring to obstruct the administration of justice and to defraud the United States, testimony in respect of a certain trial before a particular judge was not improperly received on ground that case was in a District Court, whereas indictment related only to proceedings in the Circuit Court of Appeals, where indictment specifically mentioned that particular case as having been duly brought in the United States District Court for the Southern District of New York and included that court and that case by general words of description as being within the purview of the conspiracy. U.S. v. Manton, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1939, 107 F.2d 834, certiorari denied 60 S.Ct. 590, 309 U.S. 664, 84 L.Ed. 1012. Conspiracy ☞ 43(12)

Excluding testimony of wife of one defendant charged with conspiracy tending to show alibi, did not require reversal under evidence. Green v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Wash.) 1927, 19 F.2d 850, certiorari denied 48 S.Ct. 117, 275 U.S. 557, 72 L.Ed. 424, 72 L.Ed. 729, rehearing granted 48 S.Ct. 207, 276 U.S. 609, 72 L.Ed. 729, affirmed 48 S.Ct. 564, 277 U.S. 438, 72 L.Ed. 944. Criminal Law ☞ 1170(1)

Refusal to permit defendants to testify they did not believe their acts unlawful was not erroneous. Ford v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1926, 10 F.2d 339, certiorari granted 46 S.Ct. 475, 271 U.S. 652, 70 L.Ed. 1133, affirmed 47 S.Ct. 531, 273 U.S. 593, 71 L.Ed. 793. Criminal Law ☞ 390; Criminal Law ☞ 448(3)

Testimony was material in a prosecution for conspiracy where it would tend to impeach a witness for the government and to show that a defendant was not in the conspiracy. Holmes v. U.S., C.C.A.5 (Tex.) 1920, 269 F. 96. Conspiracy ☞ 45

Trial court in prosecution for conspiracy involving possession and use of counterfeit money properly refused defense counsel's request to peruse testimony of witness which had been given before grand jury where defense counsel sought only to see that there might be inconsistencies in testimony of witness and there were numerous other witnesses who corroborated testimony of witness. U. S. v. Boyance, E.D.Pa.1963, 215 F.Supp. 390.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Criminal Law ⚡ 627.9(4)

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate Smith Act, § 2385 of this title, by advocating and teaching and helping to organize as Communist Party persons teaching and advocating overthrow of government by force, witnesses' conclusions that certain persons not named in indictment were members of Communist Party were necessary as practical matter, where no direct indicia of party membership existed, and defendant's remedy was by full cross-examination of witnesses, not by motion to strike their testimony. U. S. v. Schneiderman, S.D.Cal.1952, 106 F.Supp. 892. Criminal Law ⚡ 451(1); Criminal Law ⚡ 696(1)

1083. ---- Harmless error, witnesses, review

In conspiracy prosecution, the district court did not commit prejudicial error in reading into the record the fact that witness, who had testified, was indicted in Wisconsin in 1936, and 1938, and that he pleaded guilty to one indictment and that the other was dismissed, where witness had briefly referred to his troubles in Wisconsin in his testimony. Glasser v. U.S., U.S.Ill.1942, 62 S.Ct. 457, 315 U.S. 60, 86 L.Ed. 680, rehearing denied 62 S.Ct. 629, 315 U.S. 827, 86 L.Ed. 1222, rehearing denied 62 S.Ct. 637, 315 U.S. 827, 86 L.Ed. 1222. Criminal Law ⚡ 1166.22(4.1)

Where record showed convening of court and presence of judges and court officers, indictment contained indorsement stating that it was filed in open court on September 29, 1939, and immediately following indictment in record was motion-slip discharging September grand jury dated September 29, 1939, and containing notation, "The Grand Jury return 4 Indictments in open Court. Added 10/30/39", that informal clarification of clerk's indorsement was not an error requiring reversal of convictions, as against contention that there was no showing that indictment was returned in open court by the grand jury. Glasser v. U.S., U.S.Ill.1942, 62 S.Ct. 457, 315 U.S. 60, 86 L.Ed. 680, rehearing denied 62 S.Ct. 629, 315 U.S. 827, 86 L.Ed. 1222, rehearing denied 62 S.Ct. 637, 315 U.S. 827, 86 L.Ed. 1222. Criminal Law ⚡ 1167(1)

Witness' brief, hearsay account of comments by one coconspirator about other crimes was not prejudicial to defendant, where trial judge immediately instructed jury to ignore the remark except to the extent that they might be statements of a coconspirator having to do with alleged conspiracy on trial. Brinkley v. U. S., C.A.8 (Ark.) 1974, 498 F.2d 505. Criminal Law ⚡ 1169.5(5)

Evidence as to certain conversations was not inadmissible in a conspiracy prosecution on theory they bore no relationship to the conspiracy charged, and, in any event, in view of proof of guilt, admission of the testimony, if error, was not prejudicial. Arnold v. U. S., C.A.9 (Wash.) 1964, 336 F.2d 347, certiorari denied 85 S.Ct. 1348, 380 U.S. 982, 14 L.Ed.2d 275. Criminal Law ⚡ 338(1); Criminal Law ⚡ 1169.1(2.1)

In prosecution for mail fraud, securities fraud and conspiracy, there was no reversible error in receiving testimony of losses by witnesses, as against contention that government called aged, unemployed, uneducated or widows to testify so as to evoke sympathy and engender antipathy, where it appeared that government presented cross-section of investor witnesses and defendants made no objection at the time. Farrell v. U. S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1963, 321 F.2d 409, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 631, 375 U.S. 992, 11 L.Ed.2d 478. Criminal Law ⚡ 1171.8(1)

In prosecution for conspiracy in regard to marihuana and for substantive violations of customs and other laws in regard to marihuana, alleged error in declining to grant defendant's motion to produce the notes of customs inspector which he had used to refresh his memory regarding license number of automobile seized was harmless where there was no dispute about the number or identification of seized automobile. Padron v. U.S., C.A.5 (Tex.) 1958, 254 F.2d 574, certiorari denied 79 S.Ct. 22, 358 U.S. 815, 3 L.Ed.2d 57. Criminal Law ⚡ 1170.5(1)

In prosecution for conspiracy in regard to marihuana and for substantive violations of laws in regard to marihuana, permitting government to inquire of defendant as to other alleged offenses was not prejudicial where matter began with defendant's own testimony on direct, that he had been convicted of a felony in another federal court, and was concluded with permissible answer which district attorney had been seeking all along, that that conviction was for possession of marihuana, a similar offense to that for which he was on trial. Padron v. U.S., C.A.5 (Tex.) 1958, 254 F.2d 574, certiorari denied 79 S.Ct. 22, 358 U.S. 815, 3 L.Ed.2d 57. Criminal Law ☞ 1169.11

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In prosecution for selling narcotics and for conspiring to violate federal narcotic laws, government's calling of coconspirator to testify was not error even if government knew that coconspirator would not testify if called as a witness. U. S. v. Romero, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1957, 249 F.2d 371. Criminal Law ☞ 706(7)

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate narcotic laws, it was not improper for trial court to sustain objections to defendant's cross-examination of government witnesses as to whether the testimony of another witness was correct, what witness had said during trial of another unrelated case respecting the veracity of government witnesses, where his wife secured money to buy a new automobile and the reasons why he gave up his job of selling narcotics. Poliafico v. U. S., C.A.6 (Ohio) 1956, 237 F.2d 97, certiorari denied 77 S.Ct. 590, 352 U.S. 1025, 1 L.Ed.2d 597, rehearing denied 77 S.Ct. 718, 353 U.S. 931, 1 L.Ed.2d 725. Witnesses ☞ 330(3)

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate narcotic law, no prejudicial error resulted on cross-examination of government witness in excluding question as to location of jail in which witness was confined where location was disclosed on subsequent cross-examination. Poliafico v. U. S., C.A.6 (Ohio) 1956, 237 F.2d 97, certiorari denied 77 S.Ct. 590, 352 U.S. 1025, 1 L.Ed.2d 597, rehearing denied 77 S.Ct. 718, 353 U.S. 931, 1 L.Ed.2d 725. Criminal Law ☞ 1170.5(5)

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate narcotic laws, there was no error in permitting government to cross-examine two of their witnesses on contradictory testimony given before grand jury after witnesses had turned hostile taking government by surprise. Poliafico v. U. S., C.A.6 (Ohio) 1956, 237 F.2d 97, certiorari denied 77 S.Ct. 590, 352 U.S. 1025, 1 L.Ed.2d 597, rehearing denied 77 S.Ct. 718, 353 U.S. 931, 1 L.Ed.2d 725. Witnesses ☞ 380(5.1)

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate narcotic laws, where one of the decross-examination of government witness as to whether burglary for which witness had been sentenced was first time he had committed a burglary was not prejudicial error, where criminal activities of witness had been previously shown. Poliafico v. U. S., C.A.6 (Ohio) 1956, 237 F.2d 97, certiorari denied 77 S.Ct. 590, 352 U.S. 1025, 1 L.Ed.2d 597, rehearing denied 77 S.Ct. 718, 353 U.S. 931, 1 L.Ed.2d 725. Criminal Law ☞ 1170.5(5)

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate narcotic laws, where one of the defendants had remained in courtroom hearing government witness' testimony and then pleaded guilty, and testified thereafter as a government witness, there was no error in refusing to permit such testimony on ground that he had remained in courtroom after a separation of witnesses had been ordered by the court at the outset of trial. Poliafico v. U. S., C.A.6 (Ohio) 1956, 237 F.2d 97, certiorari denied 77 S.Ct. 590, 352 U.S. 1025, 1 L.Ed.2d 597, rehearing denied 77 S.Ct. 718, 353 U.S. 931, 1 L.Ed.2d 725. Criminal Law ☞ 665(3)

Where, in prosecution for conspiring to defraud United States by inflating cost basis of tuition rate and increasing cost charged to Veterans Administration for supplies and veterans' training under Servicemen's Readjustment Act of 1944, § 693 et seq. of Title 38, refusal to permit use of witness, who admittedly had not been told all about defendants' independent corporation, as an opinion witness on issue whether one defendant had intended to defraud the United States in regard to such corporation was proper. U. S. v. Weinberg, C.A.3 (Pa.) 1955, 226 F.2d 161, certiorari denied 76 S.Ct. 305, 350 U.S. 933, 100 L.Ed. 815. Criminal Law ☞ 449.1

In prosecution for conspiring to defraud United States by inflating cost basis of tuition rate and increasing cost charged to Veterans Administration for supplies in veterans' training under the Servicemen's Readjustment Act of 1944, § 693 of Title 38, refusal to allow witness to show that Veterans Administration functioned by information

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

other than the cost statements in determining tuition rates was not substantial error. U. S. v. Weinberg, C.A.3 (Pa.) 1955, 226 F.2d 161, certiorari denied 76 S.Ct. 305, 350 U.S. 933, 100 L.Ed. 815. Criminal Law ☞ 1170(1)

In prosecution for conspiring to defraud United States by inflating cost basis of tuition rate and increasing cost charged to Veterans Administration for supplies in veterans' training under the Servicemen's Readjustment Act of 1944, § 693 et seq. of Title 38, refusal to permit witness to testify that Veterans Administration had, at one time, withheld payments to defendants' schools because they had purchased tools from company in which school stockholders had an interest but later resumed such payments was not substantial error. U. S. v. Weinberg, C.A.3 (Pa.) 1955, 226 F.2d 161, certiorari denied 76 S.Ct. 305, 350 U.S. 933, 100 L.Ed. 815. Criminal Law ☞ 1170(1)

Where defendant's own counsel elicited from an alleged co-conspirator testimony concerning illegal sales of marihuana made by defendant prior to dates of illegal sales charged in indictment, defendant could not claim admission of such testimony as prejudicial error. U. S. v. Tramaglino, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1952, 197 F.2d 928, certiorari denied 73 S.Ct. 105, 344 U.S. 864, 97 L.Ed. 670. Criminal Law ☞ 1137(5)

In prosecution for transporting and conspiring to transport stolen motor vehicles beyond borders of state, wherein one of defendants had testified as to identity of vehicles alleged to have been stolen, allowing jury to refer to alleged forged bills of sale, not as substantive proof, but as bearing on recollection of defendant testifying as to identity, was not error. U.S. v. Mura, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1951, 191 F.2d 886. Criminal Law ☞ 783(1)

In prosecution for conspiracy to organize Communist Party of United States as a group to teach and advocate overthrow of government by force or violence, refusal to permit a defendant to state his understanding of the expression "converting the imperialist war into a civil war" appearing in a Party pamphlet was not harmful to such defendant where such defendant had stated that the Party had never used the expression in any war in which the United States took part and another defendant later explained that the expression had its origin at the time of the seizure of power by the Communists in Russia in 1917. U.S. v. Dennis, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1950, 183 F.2d 201, certiorari granted 71 S.Ct. 91, 340 U.S. 863, 95 L.Ed. 630, affirmed 71 S.Ct. 857, 341 U.S. 494, 95 L.Ed. 1137, rehearing denied 72 S.Ct. 20, 342 U.S. 842, 96 L.Ed. 636, rehearing denied 78 S.Ct. 409, 355 U.S. 936, 2 L.Ed.2d 419. Criminal Law ☞ 1170(1)

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate the Foreign Agents Registration Act, § 612 of Title 22, where Government's witness, an investigator, for national security reasons, was permitted to testify under an assumed name, refusing to permit cross-examination as to part of his background which antedated by several years the period covered by his testimony was not error, where none of data testified to by him was obtained by witness during period which was barred to cross-examination, and defense thoroughly developed the various avenues of cross-examination and anything further would have been cumulative. U.S. v. German-American Vocational League, C.C.A.3 (N.J.) 1946, 153 F.2d 860, certiorari denied 66 S.Ct. 976, 328 U.S. 833, 90 L.Ed. 1608, certiorari denied 66 S.Ct. 976, 328 U.S. 833, 90 L.Ed. 1609, certiorari denied 66 S.Ct. 977, 328 U.S. 833, 90 L.Ed. 1609, certiorari denied 66 S.Ct. 977, 328 U.S. 834, 90 L.Ed. 1609, certiorari denied 66 S.Ct. 977, 328 U.S. 834, 90 L.Ed. 1610, certiorari denied 66 S.Ct. 978, 328 U.S. 834, 90 L.Ed. 1610. Witnesses ☞ 270(2); Witnesses ☞ 282.5

In prosecution for impersonating an officer of the United States, and for conspiracy to commit such offense, testimony of sheriff that accused for about a year and a half prior to time when offense was committed did not have a job but for part of the time was "supposed to have an antique shop" was so immaterial that its admission was not prejudicial. Westenrider v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Nev.) 1943, 134 F.2d 772. Criminal Law ☞ 1169.1(6)

In prosecution for conspiracy to injure property of Tennessee Valley Corporation by destroying corporation's transmission lines, refusal to permit sheriff to state how many company deputies had been employed to guard premises of company served by such transmission lines, and whether deputies were paid by company, and whether sheriff had instructed deputies to search all cars passing over highways in vicinity of mines of company, was not error, since such testimony was irrelevant. Anderson v. U.S., C.C.A.6 (Tenn.) 1941, 124 F.2d 58, certiorari

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

granted 62 S.Ct. 941, 316 U.S. 651, 86 L.Ed. 1732, reversed on other grounds 63 S.Ct. 599, 318 U.S. 350, 87 L.Ed. 829. Criminal Law ☞ 338(1)

In prosecution for conspiring to defraud the United States of taxes on distilled spirits, wherein witness on direct examination testified that he took the accused to a garage at request of another defendant, refusal to permit cross-examination intended to elicit witness' opinion that the accused was simply a messenger sent by the other defendant was not error. U.S. v. Gallo, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1941, 123 F.2d 229. Criminal Law ☞ 448(1)

In prosecution for using mails to execute fraudulent scheme by defrauding investors by sale of units in oil leases and for conspiracy, where indictment contained allegation that a part of the scheme was that in addition to price per acre to be charged investors, defendants would require a payment of $5 per lease unit as an alleged fee for recording the unit whereas defendants intended that only a comparatively small number of leases would be recorded and defendant intended to appropriate the balance of the payments, admission of testimony of government witness that according to his examination of defendants' books they had made a profit of some $38,000 from recording fees was not error where court instructed jury to disregard such allegation of the indictment. Simons v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Wash.) 1941, 119 F.2d 539, certiorari denied 62 S.Ct. 78, 314 U.S. 616, 86 L.Ed. 496. Criminal Law ☞ 1169.5(2)

In prosecution for using mails in execution of scheme to defraud investors by sale of fractional parts of oil leases and for conspiracy, testimony regarding conversation with a defendant who had been indicted but acquitted wherein such defendant made many statements which could have been taken as admissions of his connection with the conspiracy and which contained accusations against the codefendants was not error where court instructed jury that consideration of such testimony was limited to the defendant with whom the conversation was had. Simons v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Wash.) 1941, 119 F.2d 539, certiorari denied 62 S.Ct. 78, 314 U.S. 616, 86 L.Ed. 496. Criminal Law ☞ 1169.5(5)

In prosecution for using mails to defraud and for conspiracy, committed by fraudulent sales of cemetery lots through a corporation, testimony of post office inspector that his analysis of sales records indicated that lots were purchased for specified low price was not prejudicial, though inspector testified on cross-examination that he obtained the price from an invoice, where there was other testimony that lots had been purchased for such price. U. S. v. Beck, C.C.A.7 (Ill.) 1941, 118 F.2d 178, certiorari denied 61 S.Ct. 1121, 313 U.S. 587, 85 L.Ed. 1542. Criminal Law ☞ 1169.2(2)

In prosecution for using mails to defraud and for conspiracy, allegedly committed by fraudulent sales of cemetery lots through a corporation, admission of testimony of attorney representing purchaser of the lots, and of such attorney's correspondence with the corporation, showing claim that the purchase had been carried out through misrepresentations and in violation of state law, and corporation's admission that it had been ordered by state authority to desist from further sales within the state, were not reversible error. U. S. v. Beck, C.C.A.7 (Ill.) 1941, 118 F.2d 178, certiorari denied 61 S.Ct. 1121, 313 U.S. 587, 85 L.Ed. 1542. Criminal Law ☞ 1169.1(2.1)

In prosecution for conspiracy to harbor fugitive from justice, refusing to strike testimony which was repetition of testimony in prior prosecution for conspiracy to harbor another fugitive which prosecution resulted in acquittal was not error, conspiracies to harbor different individuals being separate offenses. Piquett v. U.S., C.C.A.7 (Ill.) 1936, 81 F.2d 75, certiorari denied 56 S.Ct. 749, 298 U.S. 664, 80 L.Ed. 1388. Double Jeopardy ☞ 102

Admission of testimony, identifying defendants in moving pictures of conspirators' rendezvous, was not prejudicial error, in view of previous testimony as to persons there. Feigenbutz v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Mo.) 1933, 65 F.2d 122. Criminal Law ☞ 1169.2(2)

Admission of testimony relative to apportionment among alleged conspirators in accordance with admissions of defendants did not require reversal. Green v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Okla.) 1928, 28 F.2d 965. Criminal Law ☞

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

1186.4(5)

Witness' answer on cross-examination that indictment against him had been dismissed and new one substituted was not prejudicial. Falter v. U.S., C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1928, 23 F.2d 420, certiorari denied 48 S.Ct. 528, 277 U.S. 590, 72 L.Ed. 1003. Criminal Law ⚡ 1169(5)

Admission of testimony of housekeeper for alleged conspirator, tending to connect another defendant with conspiracy, was not error, viewing instruction. McDonnell v. U.S., C.C.A.1 (Mass.) 1927, 19 F.2d 801, certiorari denied 48 S.Ct. 114, 275 U.S. 551, 72 L.Ed. 421. Criminal Law ⚡ 673(2)

Testimony that alleged conspirator communicated by telephone with another, admitted to contradict the former, was not prejudicial to latter under instruction. McDonnell v. U.S., C.C.A.1 (Mass.) 1927, 19 F.2d 801, certiorari denied 48 S.Ct. 114, 275 U.S. 551, 72 L.Ed. 421. Criminal Law ⚡ 673(3)

Where prohibition agent's connection with conspiracy to extort money was clearly proved, improper cross-examination as to his relations with certain woman was not prejudicial. Apt v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Mo.) 1926, 13 F.2d 126. Criminal Law ⚡ 1170.5(5)

In prosecution of three individuals and corporation for conspiracy to violate Bankruptcy Act, former § 52 of Title 11, by concealing bankrupt corporation's property, admission of testimony that one of individuals had been earlier connected with bankruptcy of another corporation was not prejudicial, where question relating thereto was not objected to, and the only objection then made was request for withdrawal of jurors, which defendants were not entitled to have granted. Kaplan v. U.S., C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1925, 7 F.2d 594, certiorari denied 46 S.Ct. 107, 269 U.S. 582, 70 L.Ed. 423.

In prosecution for conspiracy to import liquor and to transport same, any error in excluding testimony of defendant officers as to oral reports of liquor seized made to sheriff was not reversible under former § 391 of Title 28, in view of unsound reason urged for admission and doubtful materiality of offered testimony. Parmenter v. U. S., C.C.A.6 (Mich.) 1924, 2 F.2d 945, certiorari denied 45 S.Ct. 514, 268 U.S. 697, 69 L.Ed. 1163.

Notations on envelopes produced by borough councilman, who testified that he placed money allegedly received from garbage hauler in envelopes and noted thereon the date, time and place of payment, were highly relevant to issues in action charging another councilman and the hauler with, among other things, obstruction of justice and making a false material declaration to a grand jury; councilman's testimony that other councilmen told him the money was from the garbage hauler fell within coconspirator exception to hearsay rule, rule 801 of the Federal Rules of Evidence, Title 28, and, in any event, in light of councilman's testimony any error in admitting the envelopes was harmless. U. S. v. Long, W.D.Pa.1976, 421 F.Supp. 1355, affirmed 574 F.2d 761, certiorari denied 99 S.Ct. 577, 439 U.S. 985, 58 L.Ed.2d 657. Criminal Law ⚡ 422(1); Criminal Law ⚡ 1169.2(7); Obstructing Justice ⚡ 15; Perjury ⚡ 32(1)

Testimony of treasury agent that defendant's photograph had been shown to an informer during the investigation of alleged conspiracy involving counterfeit money was not prejudicial error as an objectionable reference to "rogues gallery" photographs where there was no indication that photoprach came from files of secret service and reference to photograph was stricken upon objection of defendant's counsel. U. S. v. Boyance, E.D.Pa.1963, 215 F.Supp. 390. Criminal Law ⚡ 1169.5(3)

1084. ---- Prejudicial error, witnesses, review

In prosecution for violations of sections 77q and 78ff of Title 15 and for conspiracy under this section, where prejudicial material sent to jury room erroneously was not plainly cumulative to evidence relating to offenses charged, contest as to credibility was not one-sided, and jury deliberated for five days before finding guilt,

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

erroneous transmission would not be found to be non-prejudicial on ground that evidence of guilt was overwhelming. Dallago v. U. S., C.A.D.C.1969, 427 F.2d 546, 138 U.S.App.D.C. 276. Criminal Law ☞ 1174(6)

In prosecution for conspiring to violate § 212 of this title prohibiting bribery of customs officials and §§ 173, 174 of Title 21 concerning narcotics laws, wherein government witness, while being cross-examined as to his failure to mention name of one of defendants in his testimony before grand jury, stated that he was unable to give a direct answer without an explanation and court rules that he might answer and explain, answer by witness that he did not give name of such defendant because at that time he was not dealing with such defendant and that such defendant was in jail was inadmissible and prejudicial but was unforeseeable and was not induced by prosecution and instruction by court to disregard the answer cured the error. United States v. Stromberg, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1959, 268 F.2d 256, certiorari denied 80 S.Ct. 119, 361 U.S. 863, 4 L.Ed.2d 102, certiorari denied 80 S.Ct. 123, 361 U.S. 863, 4 L.Ed.2d 102, certiorari denied 80 S.Ct. 124, 361 U.S. 863, 4 L.Ed.2d 102, certiorari denied 80 S.Ct. 130, 361 U.S. 868, 4 L.Ed.2d 108. Criminal Law ☞ 369.1; Criminal Law ☞ 1169.5(3)

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate, and substantive offenses in violation of, Alcohol Tax Laws, it was error to permit Government's principal witness to testify that two of the alleged conspirators had, four days subsequent to "raid" on illicit distillery, instructed the witness not to talk to any federal agents; but, on record presented, such error could not have affected substantial rights of the two defendants who were not present at time of conversation testified to, and, accordingly, it would not require reversal of convictions. United States v. Chieppa, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1957, 241 F.2d 635, certiorari denied 77 S.Ct. 1057, 353 U.S. 973, 1 L.Ed.2d 1136. Criminal Law ☞ 422(6); Criminal Law ☞ 1169.7

In prosecution for conspiracy to transport stolen motor vehicles in interstate and foreign commerce against a defendant who had signed a fictitious name to second certificate of doing business, the fact, brought out on cross-examination of government's witness, that defendant had executed prior certificate which was signed with his own name and later withdrawn, related to a collateral matter as to which cross-examiner had no right to impeach the witness. United States v. D'Ercole, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1955, 225 F.2d 611. Witnesses ☞ 330(3)

In prosecution for alleged conspiracy to steal government property, action of prosecutor in asking defendant whether defendant had been convicted previously in tax evasion case although prosecutor knew or should have known that judgment of conviction had not been entered was error. U.S. v. Levi, C.A.7 (Ind.) 1949, 177 F.2d 827. Criminal Law ☞ 722.5

Where prosecuting attorney in prosecution for conspiracy to steal government property improperly asked whether defendant was the same person who was previously convicted of tax evasion, and evidence was as consistent with innocence of conspiracy as with guilt, and record indicated unreliability of an alleged accomplice, but court gave no instruction as to close scrutiny to be given to accomplice's testimony, court could not regard error as harmless and would remand case for new trial. U.S. v. Levi, C.A.7 (Ind.) 1949, 177 F.2d 827. Criminal Law ☞ 1171.8(1)

In prosecution for conspiracy to defraud the United States and for presenting false claims to a federal agency, by padding pay rolls of subcontractor, ultimately paid by War Shipping Administration when prime contractor on cost plus basis was reimbursed for payments made to subcontractor pursuant to invoices submitted by subcontractor, error in admitting in evidence testimony of witness who prepared a "schedule" as basis for testimony that unsupported invoices had been submitted to prime contractor, which schedule was based only on testimony of employees the witness considered reliable, as determined from a comparison by witness of employee's testimony and statements previously made by employees, was not corrected by cautionary statement of trial judge that jury should determine whether employees told the truth. U. S. v. Ward, C.C.A.3 (Pa.) 1948, 169 F.2d 460. Criminal Law ☞ 1169.5(2)

In prosecution for conspiracy to defraud United States, and for presenting false claims to a federal agency by padding pay rolls of subcontractor, ultimately paid by War Shipping Administration when prime contractor on cost

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

plus basis was reimbursed for payments made to subcontractor pursuant to invoices submitted by subcontractor, testimony of expert, who prepared a "schedule" as basis for his testimony, that unsupported invoices had been submitted to prime contractor, which schedule was based only on testimony of employees the expert considered reliable, as determined by expert from a comparison of employee's testimony and statements previously made by employees, was a prejudicial invasion of the province of jury to determine credibility. U. S. v. Ward, C.C.A.3 (Pa.) 1948, 169 F.2d 460. Criminal Law ⚡ 486(4)

In trial of two attorneys and others for conspiracy to obstruct administration of justice and operate unregistered still, admission of testimony that certain person said outside attorneys' presence that other defendants were sent out by political leader to get a place to put a still, that such defendants corroborated such statement, and that witness said that such leader wanted them taken care of and that their attorney had just been in leader's office was error prejudicial to such attorney, so as to require reversal of his conviction of obstructing justice, though he was acquitted on count of indictment for conspiracy to operate still. U.S. v. Perlstein, C.C.A.3 (N.J.) 1941, 120 F.2d 276. Criminal Law ⚡ 1169.1(9)

In prosecution of physician for sale of drugs in violation of Harrison Anti-Narcotic Act, § 2550 et seq. of Title 26, testimony of narcotic agent that defendant's office was a mecca for badly emaciated, very nervous, very fidgety patients was irrelevant and constituted prejudicial error. Nigro v. U. S., C.C.A.8 (Mo.) 1941, 117 F.2d 624. Criminal Law ⚡ 338(1); Criminal Law ⚡ 1169.1(6)

In prosecution for conspiracies and attempts to defraud income tax, where government contended that accused derived large profits from sales of illicit beer from brewery under control of accused, who testified that he was merely acting for two others who were real owners, testimony that accused when arrested was asked who murdered such alleged owners and replied that he did not wish to tell and that he took care of those matters in their own way was irrelevant and prejudicial, but not ground for reversal, where conviction was otherwise right and testimony came out without any prompting. U.S. v. Wexler, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1935, 79 F.2d 526, certiorari denied 56 S.Ct. 384, 297 U.S. 703, 80 L.Ed. 991. Criminal Law ⚡ 1169.1(2.1)

Review of record as a whole, in prosecution for conspiracy and interstate transportation of a stolen security, established that the defendants, whose cross-examination consumed approximately two and one-half days of trial, were not severely and prejudicially limited in the cross-examination of government's primary witness or of any other government witness. U. S. v. Riccobene, E.D.Pa.1970, 320 F.Supp. 196, affirmed 451 F.2d 586. Criminal Law ⚡ 956(4)

1085. Instructions, review--Generally

Conscious avoidance jury instruction at trial for conspiracy to commit securities and tender offer fraud was justified by evidence that defendant's lack of actual knowledge of unlawful source of his alleged coconspirator's investment advice was due to his conscious effort to avoid confirming an otherwise obvious fact; defendant knew coconspirator was a credit officer for a bank and would thus be privy to confidential financial information, and suspicious timing of his trades suggested high probability that coconspirator's tips were based on inside information. U.S. v. Svoboda, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 2003, 347 F.3d 471, certiorari denied 124 S.Ct. 2196, 541 U.S. 1044, 158 L.Ed.2d 735. Criminal Law ⚡ 772(5)

In prosecution, based on rebate program, for mail and wire fraud and conspiracy to commit mail and wire fraud, jury instructions adequately defined terms "scheme or artifice to defraud" and "material" representations; instructions specified that materiality was to be considered in reference to what a reasonable person would consider important. U.S. v. Fredette, C.A.10 (Wyo.) 2003, 315 F.3d 1235, dismissal of habeas corpus affirmed 65 Fed.Appx. 929, 2003 WL 1795858, certiorari denied 123 S.Ct. 2100, 538 U.S. 1045, 155 L.Ed.2d 1084. Criminal Law ⚡ 800(1)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Possibly improper procedure employed by court which precluded defendants from having opportunity to read instructions as they were given to jury, and thus effectively denied defendants opportunity to be heard prior to court instructing jury so as to preserve alleged error in failure of court to instruct jury on multiple conspiracies, in prosecution of several defendants for conspiracy to smuggle, transport, and harbor illegal aliens, did not result in error requiring reversal in light of instruction which adequately informed jury it could not find defendants guilty of uncharged conspiracy even if proved. U.S. v. Loya, C.A.9 (Idaho) 1987, 807 F.2d 1483. Criminal Law ⌘ 1172.1(5)

Defendants were not entitled, as a matter of law, to an instruction that coconspirator should be considered a government agent in determining whether there was entrapment, since there was no evidence that coconspirator attempted to induce defendants beyond informing them of availability of offer to purchase political favors. U.S. v. Jannotti, C.A.3 (Pa.) 1984, 729 F.2d 213, certiorari denied 105 S.Ct. 243, 469 U.S. 880, 83 L.Ed.2d 182, certiorari denied 105 S.Ct. 244, 469 U.S. 880, 83 L.Ed.2d 182. Criminal Law ⌘ 772(6)

Where no request was made at trial for statute of limitations instruction regarding conspiracy charge, nor was objection taken to failure to give such instruction to jury, defendants waived right to raise limitations defense on appeal. U.S. v. Walsh, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1983, 700 F.2d 846, certiorari denied 104 S.Ct. 96, 464 U.S. 825, 78 L.Ed.2d 102. Criminal Law ⌘ 1038.2; Criminal Law ⌘ 1038.3

In prosecution for receiving stolen goods, with value of $5,000 or more, and with conspiring to transport in interstate commerce stolen goods with value of $5,000 or more, it was proper for trial court to instruct jury that, as a matter of law, values of individual items should be aggregated to reach jurisdictional amount. U. S. v. Smith, C.A.10 (Kan.) 1982, 692 F.2d 658, certiorari denied 103 S.Ct. 1183, 459 U.S. 1200, 75 L.Ed.2d 431. Receiving Stolen Goods ⌘ 9(2)

In view of instruction in prosecution on charge of conspiracy to steal goods from interstate shipment with intent to convert such goods to defendant's own use, taken as a whole, trial court did not abuse its discretion in denying defendant's proposed instruction as to membership in conspiracy. U. S. v. Shigemura, C.A.8 (Mo.) 1982, 682 F.2d 699, certiorari denied 103 S.Ct. 741, 459 U.S. 1111, 74 L.Ed.2d 962. Criminal Law ⌘ 829(3)

In prosecution for conspiracy to commit mail fraud, mail fraud and tax evasion, failure to submit instruction on "puffing" did not require reversal where jury was instructed on good faith defense to crime and defense counsel failed to submit instruction despite raising issue during closing argument. U. S. v. Shelton, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1982, 669 F.2d 446, certiorari denied 102 S.Ct. 1989, 456 U.S. 934, 72 L.Ed.2d 454. Criminal Law ⌘ 1173.2(3)

A conviction for conspiracy to violate federal law is valid as long as court's instructions inform jury that defendant's guilt must be based on his agreement to commit at least one of conspiracy's objectives violating federal law. U. S. v. Giese, C.A.9 (Or.) 1979, 597 F.2d 1170, certiorari denied 100 S.Ct. 480, 444 U.S. 979, 62 L.Ed.2d 405. Conspiracy ⌘ 48.2(1)

In prosecution for conspiracy to manufacture and sell United States currency, cumulative effect of improper instructions and statements made by trial judge to jury did not warrant reversal, in view of overwhelming evidence supporting conviction. U. S. v. Araujo, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1976, 539 F.2d 287, certiorari denied 97 S.Ct. 498, 429 U.S. 983, 50 L.Ed.2d 593. Criminal Law ⌘ 1186.1

Instructions which explained essential elements of conspiracy, which focused jury's attention on the importance of determining each individual's involvement vel non in the conspiracy, and which instructed the jury that it must find beyond a reasonable doubt that single conspiracy having two objects, as charged, had been proven was sufficient to inform jury that it must find a single conspiracy and not multiple conspiracies. U. S. v. Bernstein, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1976, 533 F.2d 775, certiorari denied 97 S.Ct. 523, 429 U.S. 998, 50 L.Ed.2d 608. Conspiracy ⌘ 48.2(1)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Where Government's theory in prosecution for conspiracy and substantive offenses was that escrow holder was at the very heart of the conspiracy, requested charge that, inter alia, an escrow holder is neither concerned with nor responsible for defects in validity of instruments delivered nor responsible for private understandings which are neither included in the written terms of the escrow or otherwise communicated to him was properly refused. U. S. v. Wayman, C.A.5 (Ga.) 1975, 510 F.2d 1020, certiorari denied 96 S.Ct. 84, 423 U.S. 846, 46 L.Ed.2d 67. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.2(2)

Trial judge in conspiracy prosecution erred when he instructed jury that once existence of agreement or common scheme or conspiracy is shown, only "slight evidence" is required to connect particular defendant with conspiracy, since such language describes standard to be used by appellate courts in judging whether evidence against particular defendant supports submission of conspiracy prosecution to jury, not standard under which jury should operate in reaching verdict. U. S. v. Brasseaux, C.A.5 (La.) 1975, 509 F.2d 157, rehearing denied 511 F.2d 1192. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.2(1)

Defendants, who did not request clarifying instruction that conspiracy had terminated before trial, could not complain on appeal that a third defendant's flight from trial was imputed to them by the standard instruction that the acts of one conspirator in furtherance of the conspiracy and during its existence may be considered against coconspirators; in any event, it was doubtful that the jury misunderstood, particularly since in instruction on statements of coconspirators, the judge specifically mentioned that statements after termination of the conspiracy were evidence only against the person making them. U. S. v. DeLeon, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1974, 498 F.2d 1327. Criminal Law ⚡ 1038.3

In conspiracy case, requested instruction that proof of several and separate conspiracies involving some but not all of the defendants is not proof of the single conspiracy charged, and that if the government, in the jury's opinion, failed to prove existence of a single conspiracy, the jury must find each of the defendants not guilty was properly refused. U. S. v. Estrada, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1971, 441 F.2d 873. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.2(1)

Where prosecution of defendant charged with large scale check kiting involved long and complicated trial and trial judge fully complied with his obligations in instructing jury, judge's comments on evidence did not show confusion or unfairness and did not constitute partial direction of verdict. U. S. v. Jones, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1970, 425 F.2d 1048, certiorari denied 91 S.Ct. 44, 400 U.S. 823, 27 L.Ed.2d 51. Criminal Law ⚡ 656(1)

Court properly instructed jury, in prosecution of defendants for, inter alia, conspiring to use the mails with intent of promoting an unlawful business enterprise involving prostitution offenses, that it first had to determine whether the existence of a conspiracy was proved, and then determine from the acts and declarations of each defendant whether he became a participant in that conspiracy; and that, contingent on the jury's finding, beyond a reasonable doubt, that both of such facts were proved, then the acts and declarations of each coconspirator were admitted against all whom the jury found to have joined in the conspiracy. U. S. v. Rizzo, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1969, 418 F.2d 71, certiorari denied 90 S.Ct. 1006, 397 U.S. 967, 25 L.Ed.2d 260. Criminal Law ⚡ 779

In prosecution for bank robbery and conspiracy, charge given to jury relative to defendant's right to elect not to testify in his own behalf was, if different, more favorable to defense than charge requested, and appeal based upon sole point that refusal of such requested charge was error was frivolous. U. S. v. Geaney, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1969, 417 F.2d 1116, certiorari denied 90 S.Ct. 1276, 397 U.S. 1028, 25 L.Ed.2d 539. Criminal Law ⚡ 1173.5

Giving of instruction concerning inferences that might be drawn from unexplained possession of recently stolen goods was not error at defendant's trial for transporting stolen goods in interstate commerce and of conspiring to so transport stolen goods. U. S. v. Russo, C.A.2 (Conn.) 1969, 413 F.2d 432. Receiving Stolen Goods ⚡ 9(2)

Where defendants in prosecution for fraudulent sale of securities, fraud in the use of the mails and for conspiracy did not request instruction that, under Utah law, every member of corporate board of directors is charged with constructive knowledge of acts and omissions of other directors, there was no question relating to instructions preserved for appellate review. Wall v. U. S., C.A.10 (Utah) 1967, 384 F.2d 758. Criminal Law ⚡ 1038.3

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Record failed to support claim, on appeal from convictions for violating and conspiring to violate § 152 of this title that jury was not properly instructed on need to prove that each of individual defendants knowingly and fraudulently caused transfer of corporate funds to one of their codefendants. U. S. v. Castellana, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1965, 349 F.2d 264, certiorari denied 86 S.Ct. 934, 383 U.S. 928, 15 L.Ed.2d 847, certiorari denied 86 S.Ct. 935, 383 U.S. 928, 15 L.Ed.2d 847, rehearing denied 86 S.Ct. 1368, 384 U.S. 923, 16 L.Ed.2d 444. Bankruptcy ⚡ 3862

Where evidence as to participation of two defendants in conspiracy to stage planned automobile collision for purpose of defrauding insurance companies was direct and adequate, and there was no danger that jury might have been confused by overall conspiracy charge which could not be substantiated, conviction of such defendants would not be disturbed. Barnard v. U. S., C.A.9 (Or.) 1965, 342 F.2d 309, certiorari denied 86 S.Ct. 403, 382 U.S. 948, 15 L.Ed.2d 356, rehearing denied 86 S.Ct. 567, 382 U.S. 1002, 15 L.Ed.2d 491, rehearing denied 86 S.Ct. 567, 382 U.S. 1002, 15 L.Ed.2d 492, certiorari denied 86 S.Ct. 404, 382 U.S. 948, 15 L.Ed.2d 356, rehearing denied 86 S.Ct. 568, 382 U.S. 1002, 15 L.Ed.2d 492. Criminal Law ⚡ 1165(1)

Even if more detailed instructions as to elements of specific offenses alleged to be subject matter of conspiracy were necessary, they were supplied in connection with other counts, each of which was also separately alleged in conspiracy count as overt act, and where conviction on them as substantive counts was affirmed, it was immaterial that charge as to other substantive counts was defective. Walker v. U. S., C.A.5 (Ga.) 1965, 342 F.2d 22, certiorari denied 86 S.Ct. 117, 382 U.S. 859, 15 L.Ed.2d 97. Criminal Law ⚡ 1177

In prosecution for conspiracy, where charge stated in detail elements of conspiracy, it was only necessary that charge require proof of conspiracy between two or more alleged conspirators, and commission of at least one of overt acts alleged in indictment. Walker v. U. S., C.A.5 (Ga.) 1965, 342 F.2d 22, certiorari denied 86 S.Ct. 117, 382 U.S. 859, 15 L.Ed.2d 97. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.2(1)

Evidence in conspiracy prosecution did not warrant requested instructions on affirmative defenses. Mount v. U.S., C.A.5 (Tex.) 1964, 333 F.2d 39, certiorari denied 85 S.Ct. 188, 379 U.S. 900, 13 L.Ed.2d 175. Criminal Law ⚡ 814(8)

Whether conspiracy instruction forewarned jury against their use of statements as substantive evidence of defendant's guilt unless given when conspiracy was still in existence was unimportant where statements admitted were used only for limited purpose of impeaching credibility of two government witnesses by defense attorney on his cross-examination under Jencks Act, § 3500 of this title, or by government on redirect examination under doctrine of "verbal completeness." Newman v. U. S., C.A.8 (Ark.) 1964, 331 F.2d 968, certiorari denied 85 S.Ct. 672, 379 U.S. 975, 13 L.Ed.2d 566. Criminal Law ⚡ 779

It was not error to tell the jury that an act done at the direction of the defendants or with their aid would satisfy the requirement that there be proof of overt acts in order to establish conspiracy to commit offense against the United States. Carbo v. U. S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1963, 314 F.2d 718, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 1625, 377 U.S. 953, 12 L.Ed.2d 498, rehearing denied 84 S.Ct. 1902, 377 U.S. 1010, 12 L.Ed.2d 1058, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 1626, 377 U.S. 953, 12 L.Ed.2d 498, rehearing denied 84 S.Ct. 1903, 377 U.S. 1010, 12 L.Ed.2d 1058, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 1627, 377 U.S. 953, 12 L.Ed.2d 498. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.2(1)

In prosecution for conspiring to fraudulently effectuate, on behalf of union, compliance with subsection (h) of § 159 of Title 29 by filing of false non-Communist affidavits, court properly declined to single out and explain application of evidence as to each affidavit as such procedure would have been confusing and would have served to disproportionately emphasize particular ingredients of government's case. Dennis v. U.S., C.A.10 (Colo.) 1962,

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

302 F.2d 5. Criminal Law ⚡ 811(2)

Where, at several places in charge, court quoted form of non-Communist affidavit requiring that affiant not, at time of making it, be member or affiliated with Communist party and jury had knowledge that affidavits were required to be periodically filed by same person, and it was abundantly clear that falsity depended upon affiants' membership or affiliation at time of filing, court did not err in refusing to further instruct that falsity depended upon membership or affiliation at time of making affidavit. Dennis v. U.S., C.A.10 (Colo.) 1962, 302 F.2d 5. Criminal Law ⚡ 829(3)

In prosecution for conspiring to transport in interstate commerce lewd and obscene film, nothing in record required granting of requested instruction that any ruling or other circumstance as to what court might think about case should be disregarded and the verdict should be based entirely upon the evidence. Parr v. U. S., C.A.5 (Tex.) 1958, 255 F.2d 86, certiorari denied 79 S.Ct. 40, 358 U.S. 824, 3 L.Ed.2d 64. Criminal Law ⚡ 768(1)

In prosecution for conspiracy, mail theft, and uttering and forging a United States Treasury check, evidence that conspirators bought narcotics with proceeds of check and that narcotics were then used by defendant along with the other conspirators was highly probative and the chance of prejudice was slim in view of the court's prompt instructions on another occasion to disregard all references to narcotics. U S v. Johnson, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1958, 254 F.2d 175, certiorari dismissed 78 S.Ct. 1378, 357 U.S. 933, 2 L.Ed.2d 1369. Criminal Law ⚡ 673(5)

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate federal statutes by dealing in untaxed liquor, record failed to disclose any prejudice or bias on part of any witnesses requiring a special instruction on such subject, where court's general instruction required jury to take into consideration the prejudice or bias of any witness. Papalia v. U.S., C.A.5 (Fla.) 1957, 243 F.2d 437. Criminal Law ⚡ 785(1)

Where, in prosecution for conspiring to attempt willfully to evade income taxes due United States by third parties, evidence revealed that defendant received $3,000 in regard to third parties' tax account, permitting grand jury notes to be read to show that Internal Revenue agent had "got" the $3,000 which alleged, unindicted conspirator gave defendant after such conspirator had testified that agent "knew" of the $3,000 wrought only an insubstantial factual change, and trial court's failure to instruct on evidentiary value of the notes was not reversible error. U.S. v. Gordon, C.A.3 (Pa.) 1957, 242 F.2d 122, certiorari denied 77 S.Ct. 1378, 354 U.S. 921, 1 L.Ed.2d 1436. Criminal Law ⚡ 1173.2(8)

Refusal of requested charge, in conspiracy prosecution, on definition of conspiracy, was not error, where definition was covered in charge as given. U.S. v. McKee, C.A.2 (Vt.) 1955, 220 F.2d 266. Criminal Law ⚡ 829(1)

The district judge's refusal of defendants' requested instruction to jury that existence of conspiracy charged, so far as one of defendants was concerned, and his connection therewith, could not be established by any other alleged co-conspirator's acts and declarations, was not prejudicial to him, if erroneous, where whole record affirmatively showed that verdict of conviction and judgment thereon would not have been different had such instruction been given. Benatar v. U.S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1954, 209 F.2d 734, certiorari denied 74 S.Ct. 786, 347 U.S. 974, 98 L.Ed. 1114. Criminal Law ⚡ 1173.2(1)

In prosecution for buying false ration cheques, for fraudulently obtaining subsidies from the Defense Supplies Corporation, and for conspiring to commit both such offenses, charge was not insufficient because judge did not read or explain to the jury the regulation requiring petitions to be supported by statements made to the O.P.A. and by ration cheques, and regulation forbidding the purchase of forged ration cheques. U.S. v. Center Veal & Beef Co., C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1947, 162 F.2d 766. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.2(2); War And National Emergency ⚡ 315

In prosecution for conspiring to defraud the United States in rationing of rubber tires, instruction that defendants had no title to or right to sell tires disposed of by certain defendants, was not error, where there was no objection made until appeal that defendants could have acquired the title to the tires by abandonment, and where instruction was given because of testimony of certain defendant that he felt that he had a right to dispose of the tires. Phelps v. U. S., C.C.A.8 (Minn.) 1947, 160 F.2d 858, rehearing denied 161 F.2d 940, certiorari denied 68 S.Ct. 1525, 334 U.S. 860, 92 L.Ed. 1780. Criminal Law ⚡ 1038.1(3.1)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In prosecution for conspiring to defraud the United States in rationing of rubber tires, defendants' requested instruction that if jury should find from evidence that defendants or two or more of defendants conspired to commit a different or disconnected conspiracy or conspiracy other than that alleged in indictment, it was jury's duty in such case to find defendants not guilty as charged, was properly refused in view of instructions given by the court. Phelps v. U. S., C.C.A.8 (Minn.) 1947, 160 F.2d 858, rehearing denied 161 F.2d 940, certiorari denied 68 S.Ct. 1525, 334 U.S. 860, 92 L.Ed. 1780. Criminal Law ⚡ 829(3)

In prosecution for conspiring to defraud the United States in rationing of rubber tires, refusal to give defendants requested instructions that there was no regulation that imposed duty on rationing officials of personally examining or releasing any turn-in tires, was not error where no contention was made that those defendants who were officials owed duty of personally examining tires. Phelps v. U. S., C.C.A.8 (Minn.) 1947, 160 F.2d 858, rehearing denied 161 F.2d 940, certiorari denied 68 S.Ct. 1525, 334 U.S. 860, 92 L.Ed. 1780. Criminal Law ⚡ 814(3)

Where individual defendant was convicted only on conspiracy charge under an indictment charging both conspiracy and substantive offenses, defendant could not complain on appeal of instructions, either given or refused, which related only to counts of indictment charging substantive offenses. Egan v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Mo.) 1943, 137 F.2d 369, certiorari denied 64 S.Ct. 195, 320 U.S. 788, 88 L.Ed. 474. Criminal Law ⚡ 1172.8; Criminal Law ⚡ 1173.3

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate federal law, instruction that jury could consider whether reward influenced testimony of witnesses, the same as jury might consider testimony of accused, "who have as much or more at stake than anybody," was proper. Marino v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1937, 91 F.2d 691, certiorari denied 58 S.Ct. 410, 302 U.S. 764, 82 L.Ed. 593. Criminal Law ⚡ 786(3)

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate federal law, evidence of second conspiracy participated in by some of accused, which second conspiracy was not described in indictment, was not prejudicial, under instruction that evidence should not be considered as showing that such accused participated in conspiracy described in indictment. Marino v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1937, 91 F.2d 691, certiorari denied 58 S.Ct. 410, 302 U.S. 764, 82 L.Ed. 593. Criminal Law ⚡ 673(5)

Instruction on conspiracy with persons unknown was justified by indictment. McDonald v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Okla.) 1925, 9 F.2d 506. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.2(1)

"We think it proper during the progress of a conspiracy trial, and when of necessity items of evidence are being received which, at the time, are competent against only one defendant, to caution the jury as to the lawful effect of such evidence; and to do so frequently enough so that the trial court may be sure the jury understands the distinctions which should be made. Indeed, a direct instruction to the jury on this subject, at an early stage of the trial, may often be advisable; but it does not follow that judgment of conviction should be reversed because the record does not show that the court of its own motion gave such caution." Steers v. U.S., C.C.A.6 (Ky.) 1911, 192 F. 1, 112 C.C.A. 423.

If a conspiracy count charges that the defendants conspired to violate several statutes, some of which are felonies and some of which are misdemeanors defendants on trial for such a charge may suffer prejudice if jury is not properly instructed; indeed, explanatory instructions are necessary in order for court to determine what penalty to impose in event of guilty verdict. U. S. v. Haim, S.D.N.Y.1963, 218 F.Supp. 922. Criminal Law ⚡ 796

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In prosecution for mail fraud and conspiracy to commit mail fraud, evidence was sufficient to find existence of a single conspiracy, and therefore refusal to give multiple conspiracy instruction was not reversible error even though co-defendants had created and operated a nearly identical company. U.S. v. Easton, C.A.8 (S.D.) 2002, 54 Fed.Appx. 242, 2002 WL 31814951, Unreported. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(5); Criminal Law ⚡ 1173.2(2)

1086. ---- Harmless error, instructions, review

In prosecution for conspiracy to defraud the United States by impeding, impairing, obstructing and defeating lawful function of Internal Revenue Service and Department of Treasury in collection of tax revenue, district court's failure to expressly rule on admissibility of evidence as to one defendant or to give cautionary instruction regarding evidence relating to early stages of conspiracy did not amount to reversible error since record demonstrated there was sufficient evidence other than coconspirators' statements independently establishing single conspiracy. U.S. v. Little, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1984, 753 F.2d 1420. Criminal Law ⚡ 1168(2); Criminal Law ⚡ 1173.2(9)

Where among the 18 overt acts enumerated in the indictment were various illegal importation counts and jury found defendants guilty on all substantive counts, error, if any, in trial court's neglecting to specify that overt act must be one charged in the indictment before it is an element of conspiracy was harmless. U. S. v. Cranston, C.A.1 (Mass.) 1982, 686 F.2d 56. Criminal Law ⚡ 1173.2(1)

Any error in failing to instruct jury that defendant may be found guilty of substantive crimes committed by coconspirator only with respect to those acts of the coconspirator performed in furtherance of conspiracy was harmless with respect to assault convictions where evidence overwhelmingly established that defendants' escape effort, during which assaults occurred, took place in furtherance of conspiracy of which defendant was convicted. Government of Virgin Islands v. Dowling, C.A.3 (Virgin Islands) 1980, 633 F.2d 660, certiorari denied 101 S.Ct. 374, 449 U.S. 960, 66 L.Ed.2d 228. Criminal Law ⚡ 1173.2(1)

In view of evidence linking defendant with alleged master mind of money "laundering" scheme error, if any, in admitting, without limiting instruction, corporate minute book which had been given by alleged "mastermind" to codefendant and which listed defendant as a stockholder and which was admitted against codefendant, was harmless. U. S. v. Enstam, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1980, 622 F.2d 857, certiorari denied 101 S.Ct. 1351, 450 U.S. 912, 67 L.Ed.2d 336, certiorari denied 101 S.Ct. 1974, 451 U.S. 907, 68 L.Ed.2d 294. Criminal Law ⚡ 1169.2(7)

Even if it was error to deny bank president a charge that if jury found a conspiracy to falsify quarterly earnings statement solely by fictitious exchange transactions it should not convict him, error was harmless as jury could have found that conspiracy was not carried out solely by fictitious foreign exchange transactions. U.S. v. Gleason, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1979, 616 F.2d 2, certiorari denied 100 S.Ct. 1037, 444 U.S. 1082, 62 L.Ed.2d 767, certiorari denied 100 S.Ct. 1320, 445 U.S. 931, 63 L.Ed.2d 764. Criminal Law ⚡ 1173.2(2)

In prosecution for conspiring to manufacture and sell counterfeit United States currency, error in instructing jury that it could consider evidence of prior acts of conspirators other than defendants in determining whether defendants acted with guilty knowledge or intent did not constitute prejudicial error in view of evidence which was correctly admitted and in view of defendants' failure to take proper exceptions thereto. U. S. v. Araujo, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1976, 539 F.2d 287, certiorari denied 97 S.Ct. 498, 429 U.S. 983, 50 L.Ed.2d 593. Criminal Law ⚡ 847; Criminal Law ⚡ 1172.2

Where defendant was convicted both of perjury and conspiracy, but trial court's failure to instruct jury on defendant's theory of action did not taint perjury conviction, reversal of convictions and sentences under perjury counts was not required. U. S. v. Garner, C.A.6 (Tenn.) 1976, 529 F.2d 962, certiorari denied 96 S.Ct. 2630, 426 U.S. 922, 49 L.Ed.2d 376, certiorari denied 97 S.Ct. 138, 429 U.S. 850, 50 L.Ed.2d 124. Criminal Law ⚡ 1173.1

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Refusal to give defendant's proffered instruction that neither association with conspirators nor knowledge of illegal activity constitutes proof of participation in a conspiracy was not error where substance of such instruction was adequately contained in instruction given. U. S. v. Johnson, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1974, 504 F.2d 622. Criminal Law ⚡ 829(12)

Where defendants were charged with conspiracy to transport obscene material in interstate commerce, court's instruction which referred to necessity of proof that defendants knew or could reasonably foresee that interstate facilities would be used was erroneous but did not require reversal in view of evidence showing defendants' knowledge that interstate facilities were used. U. S. v. Cangiano, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1974, 491 F.2d 906, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 188, 419 U.S. 904, 42 L.Ed.2d 149, affirmed 95 S.Ct. 204, 419 U.S. 933, 42 L.Ed.2d 162. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.2(2); Criminal Law ⚡ 1172.1(3)

Any jury confusion engendered by trial court's first charging that on commission of crime a participant in conspiracy to commit offense is not automatically guilty of substantive offense, court's subsequent reversal and later reversion to original answer, to which no objection was taken, did not require reversal. U. S. v. Miller, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1973, 478 F.2d 1315, certiorari denied 94 S.Ct. 144, 414 U.S. 851, 38 L.Ed.2d 100. Criminal Law ⚡ 1038.1(3.1)

Witnesses should have been referred to in trial court's instructions in prosecution for conspiracy to transport forged securities in interstate commerce as "alleged accomplices" rather than "accomplices" but error was harmless inasmuch as jury could not have failed to discern that purpose of instruction on accomplice testimony was to alert it to need for caution in weighing testimony. U. S. v. Thompson, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1973, 476 F.2d 1196, certiorari denied 94 S.Ct. 214, 414 U.S. 918, 38 L.Ed.2d 154. Criminal Law ⚡ 780(3); Criminal Law ⚡ 1172.1(5)

In conspiracy prosecution, instruction last sentence of which was "no person can intentionally avoid knowledge by closing his eyes to facts which prompt him to investigate" was not erroneous because it was not qualified with specific instructions informing jury that guilt cannot be based on negligence, where instructions plainly stated that knowledge could not be "intentionally" avoided and hence did not suggest that negligence was an acceptable basis for finding of guilt. U. S. v. Grizaffi, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1972, 471 F.2d 69, certiorari denied 93 S.Ct. 2141, 411 U.S. 964, 36 L.Ed.2d 684, certiorari denied 93 S.Ct. 2142, 411 U.S. 964, 36 L.Ed.2d 684. Criminal Law ⚡ 772(6)

Defendants, who were charged, inter alia, with unlawfully using the mails with intent to promote an unlawful business enterprise involving prostitution offenses, could not on appeal object that no instruction was given with respect to madam's right to invoke her U.S.C.A. Const. Amend. 5 privilege; moreover, court's failure to give such a cautionary instruction without request was not plain error. U. S. v. Rizzo, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1969, 418 F.2d 71, certiorari denied 90 S.Ct. 1006, 397 U.S. 967, 25 L.Ed.2d 260. Criminal Law ⚡ 1038.3

Refusal of trial judge to dismiss jury panel after he admonished defendant for his belated appearance and, in presence of jury, negated claim of defendant's attorney that court had promised not to reprimand defendant in presence of jury for his tardiness was, at most, harmless error beyond reasonable doubt, in view of instruction to jury that court did not intend to say anything that reflected upon character or honesty of defendant's attorney. U. S. v. King, C.A.6 (Tenn.) 1969, 415 F.2d 737, certiorari denied 90 S.Ct. 465, 396 U.S. 974, 24 L.Ed.2d 443. Criminal Law ⚡ 1166.22(3)

Confusion in charge which in one instance referred to substantive counts of indictment as overt acts under conspiracy count did not rise to level of error. U. S. v. Powell, C.A.5 (Ga.) 1969, 413 F.2d 1030, certiorari denied 90 S.Ct. 177, 396 U.S. 887, 24 L.Ed.2d 162. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.2(2)

Statement in instruction on credibility of unindicted co-conspirator that such co-conspirator is "an accomplice of the accused in this case" was error in that it was jury's function to determine whether such co-conspirator, an admitted accomplice, was accomplice of accused in crime charged in indictment; however the error did not have substantial influence on jury and was not reversible error. U. S. v. Fellabaum, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1969, 408 F.2d 220, certiorari denied 90 S.Ct. 125, 396 U.S. 858, 24 L.Ed.2d 109, certiorari denied 90 S.Ct. 55, 396 U.S. 818, 24 L.Ed.2d 69. Criminal Law ↻ 761(2); Criminal Law ↻ 1172.3

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Failure of trial court to charge jury in prosecution for fraudulent sale of securities, fraud in the use of the mails and for conspiracy that, under Utah law, every member of corporate board of directors is charged with constructive knowledge of acts and omissions of other directors did not constitute miscarriage of justice. Wall v. U. S., C.A.10 (Utah) 1967, 384 F.2d 758. Criminal Law ↻ 1038.3

Conspiracy prosecution instruction referring to "persons unknown" in language of indictment, while making it clear that only six named defendants were involved under evidence, was not prejudicial error. U. S. v. Lester, C.A.6 (Ky.) 1966, 363 F.2d 68, certiorari denied 87 S.Ct. 705, 385 U.S. 1002, 17 L.Ed.2d 542, rehearing denied 87 S.Ct. 951, 386 U.S. 938, 17 L.Ed.2d 813. Criminal Law ↻ 1172.1(2)

Instructions as given on subject of conspiracy count were proper, and no prejudicial error resulted from denial of any of requests submitted by defendants on that subject, in prosecution for conspiracy to defraud public by distribution of defendants' oil company stock at grossly inflated prices. U. S. v. Kelly, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1965, 349 F.2d 720, certiorari denied 86 S.Ct. 1467, 384 U.S. 947, 16 L.Ed.2d 544. Conspiracy ↻ 48.2(2); Criminal Law ↻ 1173.2(2)

Demands by defense counsel that trial judge explain his rulings on admissibility of evidence, documentary and otherwise, were properly refused, in stock conspiracy trial. U. S. v. Kelly, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1965, 349 F.2d 720, certiorari denied 86 S.Ct. 1467, 384 U.S. 947, 16 L.Ed.2d 544. Criminal Law ↻ 695.5

That trial judge allegedly "promised" to grant parts of defendants' request for instructions but later changed his mind and that this and other rulings allegedly amounted to refusal to comply with rules and impaired ability of counsel to make proper summation to jury on behalf of defendants in stock conspiracy prosecution, did not under circumstances constitute error. U. S. v. Kelly, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1965, 349 F.2d 720, certiorari denied 86 S.Ct. 1467, 384 U.S. 947, 16 L.Ed.2d 544. Criminal Law ↻ 835

In prosecution for violating and conspiring to violate § 152 of this title instruction that jury might find defendants guilty of substantive counts if they were members of conspiracy at time of withdrawals of corporate funds and that withdrawals were in furtherance of conspiracy was not erroneous. U. S. v. Castellana, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1965, 349 F.2d 264, certiorari denied 86 S.Ct. 934, 383 U.S. 928, 15 L.Ed.2d 847, certiorari denied 86 S.Ct. 935, 383 U.S. 928, 15 L.Ed.2d 847, rehearing denied 86 S.Ct. 1368, 384 U.S. 923, 16 L.Ed.2d 444. Bankruptcy ↻ 3862

In prosecution for possession of recently stolen goods and for conspiracy, giving instruction that government had sustained its burden of connecting testimony of different witnesses, that court overruled all objections that had been theretofore sustained and that testimony relating to acts and conversations and statements by several defendants was admissible against all whether or not each was present when such acts were done, such conversations were had or such statements were made was not prejudicial error. U. S. v. Baxa, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1965, 340 F.2d 259, certiorari granted 85 S.Ct. 1556, 381 U.S. 353, 14 L.Ed.2d 681. Criminal Law ↻ 1172.2

Question whether there was error in instruction on conspiracy count of which defendant was convicted need not be considered on appeal where sentence on such count and two other counts were concurrent, and evidence was sufficient to sustain conviction on two other counts. U. S. v. Goldstein, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1963, 323 F.2d 753, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 677, 376 U.S. 920, 11 L.Ed.2d 615. Criminal Law ↻ 1177

Lack of further emphasis than that provided in charge on conspiracy to violate § 173 of Title 21, on knowledge of illegal importation was not that "plain error" necessary to warrant reversal in absence of exceptions taken below. U. S. v. Bentvena, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1963, 319 F.2d 916, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 345, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 271,

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

rehearing denied 90 S.Ct. 894, 397 U.S. 928, 25 L.Ed.2d 108, rehearing denied 84 S.Ct. 515, 375 U.S. 989, 11 L.Ed.2d 476, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 346, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 271, rehearing denied 84 S.Ct. 1162, 377 U.S. 913, 12 L.Ed.2d 183, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 353, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 272, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 354, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 272, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 355, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 272, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 360, 375 U.S. 940, 11 L.Ed.2d 272. Criminal Law ⚡ 1056.1(5)

In prosecution for criminal conspiracy to defraud United States in exercise of its governmental function, trial court would not be deemed to have committed prejudicial error in instructions to jury through an implication that defendants were guilty, where trial judge, after complaint, expressly charged jury that he did not intend to tell them how to decide the case and that jury was not to infer from anything that judge said that judge believed defendants were guilty. Hunsaker v. U. S., C.A.9 (Or.) 1960, 279 F.2d 111, certiorari denied 81 S.Ct. 52, 364 U.S. 819, 5 L.Ed.2d 49. Criminal Law ⚡ 1172.3

Fact that government's bill of particulars stated that government would not contend at trial for conspiracy that any other persons than defendants were coconspirators with defendants did not render court's instruction, that persons other than defendants could be conspirators, erroneous. Shayne v. U.S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1958, 255 F.2d 739, certiorari denied 79 S.Ct. 39, 358 U.S. 823, 3 L.Ed.2d 64. Indictment And Information ⚡ 121.5

In prosecution for conspiring to transport in interstate commerce lewd and obscene motion picture film, no harmful error resulted from giving of instruction that one committing an act constituting an offense or aiding or abetting or inducing commission of such offense is a principal, as a precautionary charge relating to accomplice testimony. Parr v. U. S., C.A.5 (Tex.) 1958, 255 F.2d 86, certiorari denied 79 S.Ct. 40, 358 U.S. 824, 3 L.Ed.2d 64. Criminal Law ⚡ 1172.2

In prosecution for conspiring to transport in interstate commerce lewd and obscene motion picture film, wherein defendant opened question of plea of a codefendant during cross-examination of codefendant, who was called as witness for prosecution, it was not error to show that codefendant had entered a plea of guilty and it was not error for court to state that codefendant was in contempt. Parr v. U. S., C.A.5 (Tex.) 1958, 255 F.2d 86, certiorari denied 79 S.Ct. 40, 358 U.S. 824, 3 L.Ed.2d 64. Criminal Law ⚡ 657; Criminal Law ⚡ 1137(5)

In prosecution for conspiracy, wherein indictment was filed September 17, 1954, and it was alleged that conspiracy began in June, 1946, and court expressly charged that for defendant to be found guilty it must be found that he did not withdraw from conspiracy on or before September 17, 1951, and required jury to answer affirmatively the query whether an overt act in furtherance of conspiracy had been committed after September 17, 1951, there was no error with relation to statute of limitations. U.S. v. Klein, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1957, 247 F.2d 908, certiorari denied 78 S.Ct. 365, 355 U.S. 924, 2 L.Ed.2d 354. Criminal Law ⚡ 772(4)

Where, in conspiracy prosecution, court by its charge confined defendants' crime to that of conspiring with each other, giving of further instructions that, even if jury found one defendant guilty as charged, if they found the second defendant was not proven guilty beyond a reasonable doubt, jury would be bound to acquit the guilty one did not constitute reversible error. U. S. v. Weinberg, C.A.3 (Pa.) 1955, 226 F.2d 161, certiorari denied 76 S.Ct. 305, 350 U.S. 933, 100 L.Ed. 815. Criminal Law ⚡ 822(6)

Where defendants were either guilty of actual fraud or were not guilty at all, refusal of defendants' requested instruction on constructive fraud was not error. U. S. v. Sylvanus, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1951, 192 F.2d 96, certiorari denied 72 S.Ct. 555, 342 U.S. 943, 96 L.Ed. 701. Criminal Law ⚡ 814(5)

In prosecution for conspiracy to kidnap, wherein court instructed jury as to presumption of innocence and that the government must prove defendants guilty beyond a reasonable doubt, giving of instruction that it was not necessary for the government to show an actual agreement, but that it was necessary that jury believe from all evidence and circumstances that there was a conspiracy between the defendants, was not cause for reversal. U.S. v. Bazzell,

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

C.A.7 (Ill.) 1951, 187 F.2d 878, certiorari denied 72 S.Ct. 73, 342 U.S. 849, 96 L.Ed. 641, rehearing denied 72 S.Ct. 171, 342 U.S. 889, 96 L.Ed. 667. Criminal Law ⚡ 823(4)

Refusal to give requested charges relating to conspiracy and sale of products at above ceiling price was harmless in view of general charge favorable to defendants, presenting defenses as favorably as evidence warranted. Johnson v. U.S., C.C.A.5 (Fla.) 1948, 167 F.2d 339. Criminal Law ⚡ 829(3)

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate internal revenue laws relating to intoxicating liquors, where jury found that defendants committed the overt acts charged in Alabama, failure to give requested charge that jurisdiction to convict rested on finding that such overt act had been committed in Alabama was harmless. Burt v. U.S., C.C.A.5 (Ala.) 1943, 139 F.2d 73, certiorari denied 64 S.Ct. 936, 321 U.S. 799, 88 L.Ed. 1087. Criminal Law ⚡ 1173.3

Failure to instruct jury that acts of other defendants with respect to conspiracy, outside presence of defendant, were not admissible to establish conspiracy charge against defendant, unless other competent evidence for such purpose had established a prima facie case of conspiracy against him, was not prejudicial to defendant, where all reasonable doubts, if any, as to existence of conspiracy among other defendants were proved beyond a reasonable doubt by evidence other than acts of other defendants. U.S. v. Vanco, C.C.A.7 (Ill.) 1942, 131 F.2d 123. Criminal Law ⚡ 1173.2(5)

Instruction that jury might consider government witness as an accomplice was improper on ground that it was an instruction upon a question of fact, but error was harmless, where court further instructed that it was jury's duty to disregard any expression of opinion by court upon any question of fact and that it was their duty to determine all questions of fact for themselves. U.S. v. Vanco, C.C.A.7 (Ill.) 1942, 131 F.2d 123. Criminal Law ⚡ 757(4); Criminal Law ⚡ 823(12)

In prosecution for conspiracy to transport lottery tickets in interstate commerce, in which there was no dispute at trial concerning definition of lottery or any doubt that scheme included prizes to be distributed by lot or chance, and only issue was whether accused conspired with codefendant to conduct the lottery, district court's failure to define lottery in its instructions was not error. Deacon v. U. S., C.C.A.1 (Mass.) 1941, 124 F.2d 352. Criminal Law ⚡ 800(1)

Where instruction in toto, concerning "reasonable doubt" was not prejudicial, fact that District Court attempted to explain what was meant by the quoted words by means of examples, such as one's doubt about whether it will rain or whether prices will go up and example of an individual "banking" his judgment and investing his money in buying goods against a price increase because of possibility of war, did not require reversal. U.S. v. Novick, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1941, 124 F.2d 107, certiorari denied 62 S.Ct. 795, 315 U.S. 813, 86 L.Ed. 1212, rehearing denied 62 S.Ct. 913, 315 U.S. 830, 86 L.Ed. 1224. Criminal Law ⚡ 1172.2

In prosecution for using mails in scheme to defraud and for conspiracy, that trial judge informed jury that codefendant had entered plea of nolo contendere to first count and other counts had been dismissed was not prejudicial error where court made it clear that codefendant's plea could not be considered by stating that jury could consider only defendant's own statements, actions, and conduct, and not codefendant's, unless jury should find from the evidence that codefendant was a party to the scheme. Kelling v. U. S., C.C.A.8 (Minn.) 1941, 121 F.2d 428. Criminal Law ⚡ 1172.1(2)

In prosecution under indictment charging substantive offenses and conspiracy, alleged error in instruction on conspiracy and in permitting conviction of separate defendants of separate conspiracies would not affect conviction on the substantive counts, notwithstanding that joinder of defendants on the substantive counts might have been improper if there were in fact separate conspiracies. U.S. v. Twentieth Century Bus Operators, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1939, 101 F.2d 700, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 821, 307 U.S. 624, 83 L.Ed. 1502. Criminal Law ⚡ 1172.1(2)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In prosecution of two corporations and their officers for falsifying documents, bribery and conspiracy, where jury, after agreeing on substantive counts, asked whether defendants could be found guilty of conspiracy if the corporations merely conspired with the same persons, no with each other, court's charge that conviction might be had, showing that question was understood to refer to a continuing conspiracy, was not error in absence of request to charge that defendants could not be convicted for separate conspiracies. U.S. v. Twentieth Century Bus Operators, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1939, 101 F.2d 700, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 821, 307 U.S. 624, 83 L.Ed. 1502. Criminal Law ⚡ 825(2)

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate federal law, wherein court gave instruction regarding weight to be given testimony of accomplices and person convicted of crime, explanatory statement that "person convicted of crime is in somewhat the situation of the accomplice" was not prejudicial. Marino v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1937, 91 F.2d 691, certiorari denied 58 S.Ct. 410, 302 U.S. 764, 82 L.Ed. 593. Criminal Law ⚡ 785(12); Criminal Law ⚡ 1172.2

Under indictment charging defendants in two counts with committing certain offenses and in third count with conspiring to commit such offenses, instruction that it was jury's duty to return verdict of guilty under first two counts as to one of defendants was not prejudicial as influencing guilty verdict on third count, where several of over acts alleged in conspiracy count bore no relation to offenses charged in first and second counts, and evidence showed such overt acts were committed pursuant to alleged conspiracy. Patterson v. U.S., C.C.A.6 (Mich.) 1935, 82 F.2d 937, certiorari denied 56 S.Ct. 677, 298 U.S. 657, 80 L.Ed. 1383. Criminal Law ⚡ 750

In prosecution for conspiracy and use of mails to defraud in sale of gold mining stock, refusal to instruct jury to disregard statement which government's counsel read in argument that state of Washington afforded no protection against fraudulent mining stock, and his remark that that was reason federal government stepped into case, was not prejudicial error where statement was contained in article in publication which jury had been permitted to take to jury room without objection or restriction. Levine v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Wash.) 1935, 79 F.2d 364. Criminal Law ⚡ 1173.2(9)

Charge as to number of defendants required to participate was too favorable to accused. U.S. v. McCann, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1929, 32 F.2d 540, certiorari denied 50 S.Ct. 18, 280 U.S. 559, 74 L.Ed. 614.

Instruction authorizing conviction, though conspiracy was mere continuance or renewal of conspiracy entered into outside district, if erroneous, was favorable, and not prejudicial. Sloan v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Mo.) 1929, 31 F.2d 902. Criminal Law ⚡ 1172.7

Instruction authorizing conviction by proof of any of several acts, one of which occurred outside district, though erroneous, was not prejudicial. Sloan v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Mo.) 1929, 31 F.2d 902. Criminal Law ⚡ 1172.2

Instruction regarding jury's duty to settle case, given when jury returned asking for further instructions, was not objectionable. Wissel v. U.S., C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1927, 22 F.2d 468. Criminal Law ⚡ 863(2)

Where conspiracy involved 310 illegal transactions, instruction that, even if jury disbelieved testimony of witness whose testimony related to 20 transactions only, there was sufficient evidence, if believed, to find verdict of guilty, was not error, since main defense consisted in attacking such witness, and not in controverting government's case. A Guckenheimer & Bros Co v. U S, C.C.A.3 (Pa.) 1925, 3 F.2d 786, certiorari denied 45 S.Ct. 509, 268 U.S. 688, 69 L.Ed. 1157.

In a prosecution for conspiracy, where it was shown that a witness for the government had been divorced from a former husband and had married another government witness, there was, at least, no reversible error in refusing instruction requested by defendants regarding the legal sufficiency of the ground for the divorce and the legal right of the two witnesses to marry. Wilkes v. U.S., C.C.A.6 (Tenn.) 1923, 291 F. 988, certiorari denied 44 S.Ct. 181,

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

263 U.S. 719, 68 L.Ed. 523. Criminal Law ⚡ 1173.2(9)

Since it was not required that charge specify which witnesses should be considered accomplices, use of word "perhaps" in relation to one particular person, if error, was at worst harmless error in prosecution for conspiracy and mail fraud, where such person was not named in the indictment as a conspirator, and where, while such person knew from prior dealings with defendant that padded bills for physical therapy were to be used to defraud insurance company, he knew nothing of conspiracy to stage fake accident, and it was doubtful that he was a member of conspiracy to stage a fake accident to defraud by use of the mail. U. S. v. Stitt, W.D.Pa.1974, 380 F.Supp. 1172, affirmed 510 F.2d 971, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 1949, 421 U.S. 962, 44 L.Ed.2d 448. Criminal Law ⚡ 1172.1(5)

1087. ---- Prejudicial error, instructions, review

Where indictment charged a single conspiracy and proof established eight or more distinct conspiracies, instruction that indictment charged but one conspiracy and that to convict a defendant jury would have to find that he was a member of that conspiracy was erroneous in application to proof made. Kotteakos v. U.S., U.S.N.Y.1946, 66 S.Ct. 1239, 328 U.S. 750, 90 L.Ed. 1557. Criminal Law ⚡ 814(3)

Where evidence was insufficient to prove the overall conspiracy charge in the indictment but trial court failed to tender any instructions regarding either multiple conspiracies or the jury's responsibility to disregard evidence introduced by the government relating to conspiracies with which defendant was not involved, such failure constituted plain error. U. S. v. Lindsey, C.A.7 (Ind.) 1979, 602 F.2d 785. Criminal Law ⚡ 1038.2

Where defendant was charged with conspiring with unknown persons to obtain illegally firearm for purpose of damaging property occupied by foreign officials, where defendant's acquaintance lacked any intention of committing criminal act and was therefore not charged as a coconspirator, where principle dealings occurred between defendant and his acquaintance and most evidence adduced at trial was material only to them, and where unknown persons charged as coconspirators were at best minor players at fringes of major plot, trial court committed reversible error in failing to carefully admonish jurors to exclude from their consideration of conspiracy all evidence of any agreement between defendant and acquaintance, in view of substantial possibility that jury might have convicted defendant for conspiring with acquaintance. U. S. v. Perl, C.A.4 (Md.) 1978, 584 F.2d 1316, certiorari denied 99 S.Ct. 1050, 439 U.S. 1130, 59 L.Ed.2d 92. Criminal Law ⚡ 673(2); Criminal Law ⚡ 1173.2(9)

Not only did erroneous instruction as to substantive offense of willful misapplication of bank funds require reversal of conviction of such offense it also required reversal of convictions obtained under count alleging conspiracy to commit such offense and offense of making false statements in connection with a loan since jury was instructed that a finding that a conspiracy to violate either statute existed would support conviction, and verdict on conspiracy count was a general one and it was unclear on what grounds the convictions were based, notwithstanding that instructions on the false statement count were correct. U. S. v. Gallagher, C.A.3 (N.J.) 1978, 576 F.2d 1028. Criminal Law ⚡ 1186.1

Although trial court in conspiracy prosecution erred in instructing jury that only slight evidence was required to connect particular defendant with conspiracy after existence of agreement of common scheme or conspiracy was shown, such action did not, in context of entire charge and circumstances of case, constitute plain error requiring reversal in absence of objection by defendant at trial. U. S. v. Brasseaux, C.A.5 (La.) 1975, 509 F.2d 157, rehearing denied 511 F.2d 1192. Criminal Law ⚡ 1038.1(5)

Failure of trial court, in prosecution on one count of conspiracy and one count of stealing goods in excess of $100 from a truck moving in the interstate commerce, to state in its charge to the jury that knowledge that the stolen goods were in interstate commerce was an element of the conspiracy offense constituted plain error which had to be noticed on appeal regardless of defense counsel's failure to clarify the basis of an objection and to pursue the matter on appeal. U. S. v. Houle, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1973, 490 F.2d 167, certiorari denied 94 S.Ct. 3174, 417 U.S. 970, 41 L.Ed.2d 1141. Criminal Law ⚡ 1038.2

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In conspiracy prosecution, if it was error to refuse to give instruction concerning weight to be given to testimony of expert witnesses such error fell far short of being prejudicial. U. S. v. Grizaffi, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1972, 471 F.2d 69, certiorari denied 93 S.Ct. 2141, 411 U.S. 964, 36 L.Ed.2d 684, certiorari denied 93 S.Ct. 2142, 411 U.S. 964, 36 L.Ed.2d 684. Criminal Law ⚡ 1172.1(2)

Challenged instructions to jury, in prosecution for conspiracy to manufacture and dispense methamphetamine, when considered in context with the other instructions concerning defendant's participation in the conspiracy, some of which were more favorable to defendant than the law required, were not prejudicially erroneous. U. S. v. Shockley, C.A.9 (Wash.) 1971, 441 F.2d 1151. Criminal Law ⚡ 822(1)

That jury found defendant guilty of conspiring to violate federal bank robbery provision, indicating acceptance of testimony by chief government witness, who testified to defendant's knowledge that conspiracy was one to rob bank, did not render harmless erroneous instruction that defendant could be convicted despite lack of knowledge that conspiracy was to rob bank, since jury was not required to accept all of witness's testimony just because it accepted part of it. U. S. v. Gallishaw, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1970, 428 F.2d 760. Criminal Law ⚡ 1172.8

Failure of court to clearly charge jury that D.C. Code 1961 Ed. § 22-1301 and this section provided more severe penalty when value of property involved exceeded $100 was not prejudicial error where all defendants were charged with getting or conspiring to get property worth more than $100 and were sentenced on that basis, where government's proof of value was adequate and not contested and where there was no real issue as to value and no request for more specific instruction. Cupo v. U. S., C.A.D.C.1966, 359 F.2d 990, 123 U.S.App.D.C. 324, certiorari denied 87 S.Ct. 723, 385 U.S. 1013, 17 L.Ed.2d 549. Criminal Law ⚡ 1173.2(4)

Government evidence, in prosecution for conspiracy to violate liquor laws, was sufficient to present question for jury as to whether government agents had induced defendant to commit the crime, and refusal to submit such requested instruction was prejudicial error even though defendant asserted his innocence. Sears v. U. S., C.A.5 (Ga.) 1965, 343 F.2d 139. Criminal Law ⚡ 772(6); Criminal Law ⚡ 1173.2(3)

Instruction to jury to disregard testimony that one of defendants had admitted to narcotics agent that prior to unlawful sale of narcotics charged in indictment he had furnished considerable amount of cocaine to certain person did not cure prejudice to defendants whose defense was entrapment, inasmuch as it could not be said with fair assurance that jury's verdicts of guilty were not substantially swayed by the stricken testimony. U. S. v. Clarke, C.A.3 (Pa.) 1965, 343 F.2d 90. Criminal Law ⚡ 1169.5(2)

In view of length of trial, number of witnesses and difficulties inherent in making separation between count charging conspiracy to possess goods which accused knew were stolen from interstate shipment and count charging possession of such goods reversible error in court's remarks to jury with respect to conspiracy count required reversal of judgments and sentences on other counts. U. S. v. Allegretti, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1964, 340 F.2d 243, on rehearing 340 F.2d 254, certiorari denied 85 S.Ct. 1531, 381 U.S. 911, 14 L.Ed.2d 433, rehearing denied 85 S.Ct. 1800, 381 U.S. 956, 14 L.Ed.2d 728, certiorari denied 85 S.Ct. 1532, 381 U.S. 911, 14 L.Ed.2d 433, certiorari denied 88 S.Ct. 830, 390 U.S. 908, 19 L.Ed.2d 876. Criminal Law ⚡ 1186.1

Charge in prosecution for conspiracy to import narcotics was prejudicially erroneous in listing elements of crime without charging that knowledge of illegal importation was necessary element, and was not saved by court's earlier recital of this requirement in connection with charge on substantive count against individual defendant. U. S. v. Massiah, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1962, 307 F.2d 62, certiorari granted 83 S.Ct. 1698, 374 U.S. 805, 10 L.Ed.2d 1030, reversed on other grounds 84 S.Ct. 1199, 377 U.S. 201, 12 L.Ed.2d 246. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.2(2); Criminal Law

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

⌘ 823(4); Controlled Substances ⌘ 98

Failure to instruct what kind of participation had to be proved before jury could find that defendant, a retired officer, conspired to receive compensation for representing a seller in sales to the United States was prejudicial error. U.S. v. Gillilan, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1961, 288 F.2d 796, certiorari denied 82 S.Ct. 38, 368 U.S. 821, 7 L.Ed.2d 26 . Conspiracy ⌘ 48.2(2); Criminal Law ⌘ 1173.2(2)

In prosecution for robbing and conspiring to rob a bank, court's instruction on alibi defense which omitted altogether conception and rule that accused has to do no more than create in minds of jurors a substantial doubt concerning his whereabouts at time in question, and which may well have suggested to jury that accused bore burden of persuasion on alibi defense, was error, and error was not cured by proper general instruction stating in clear language that throughout the case the burden remains on government to convince jury of guilt beyond reasonable doubt. U.S. v. Barrasso, C.A.3 (N.J.) 1959, 267 F.2d 908. Criminal Law ⌘ 778(8); Criminal Law ⌘ 823(6)

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate former Emergency Price Control Act, 50 App. former § 901 et seq., by selling whiskey at prices in excess of maximum prices, to engage in business of buying distilled spirits for resale at wholesale without having secured a basic permit, and to carry on a wholesale liquor business without having paid required tax, giving of instruction that furnished an erroneous formula for ascertaining maximum wholesale price for whiskey was reversible error, where jury returned only a general verdict of guilty. Samuel v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1948, 169 F.2d 787. Conspiracy ⌘ 48.2(2); Criminal Law ⌘ 1172.1(2)

Where there was no evidence of the single overt act charged in the indictment other than the confession of codefendant, instruction that defendant might be found guilty of the over act charged was prejudicial error even though there was undisputed proof of an overt act not charged in the indictment. U.S. v. Negro, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1947, 164 F.2d 168. Criminal Law ⌘ 814(5); Criminal Law ⌘ 1172.6

In prosecution for attempting to evade corporate taxes and for conspiring to do so, an instruction that, by the filing of an amended return, the defendants had admitted that the original return was false and untrue, was prejudicial error in view of another instruction which assumed existence of conspiracy, though the court in other instructions properly submitted the issue of intent and willfulness, since "false" denotes an intentional, deliberate, and willful untruth, or something beyond mere inaccuracy. Heindel v. U.S., C.C.A.6 (Ohio) 1945, 150 F.2d 493. Criminal Law ⌘ 823(11)

Instruction in effect that verdict of not guilty was setting at defiance law and reason, when jury gave promise of disagreeing, was erroneous, and deprived defendants of fair and impartial trial. Wissel v. U.S., C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1927, 22 F.2d 468. Criminal Law ⌘ 863(2)

In trial of two of seven persons indicted for conspiracy, instruction that both must, or neither could, be found guilty, was erroneous. Martin v. U.S., C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1927, 17 F.2d 82. Conspiracy ⌘ 48

Instruction offered by defendants in prosecution for conspiracy to commit larceny at a national bank accurately informed jury that proof of an overt act in furtherance of the conspiracy within the five years preceding the indictment was a necessary element of government's burden; thus, where instruction was refused and charge given to jury in no way informed it that such a requirement existed, defendants were entitled to a new trial. U.S. v. Greichunos, N.D.Ill.1983, 572 F.Supp. 220. Criminal Law ⌘ 772(4); Criminal Law ⌘ 922(2)

Where at time coconspirator was in fact questioned about his guilty plea to conspiracy charge, inquiry was inappropriate, government had not alerted court or defendant to its intention to offer that evidence, limiting instructions told jury not to consider guilty plea as substantive evidence but failed to give jury guidance as to proper utility of evidence, and limiting instructions were not given until following day, inappropriate admission of

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

testimony was not cured by court's instructions. U.S. v. Calafati, E.D.Pa.1983, 569 F.Supp. 50. Criminal Law 1169.5(2)

1088. Findings of fact, review

In prosecution alleging violations of this section, sections 922 and 924 of this title and section 2778 of Title 22, district court properly denied defendant's requested instruction on good faith on the ground that there was insufficient evidence to justify it. U.S. v. Wilson, C.A.4 (Va.) 1983, 721 F.2d 967, post-conviction relief denied 901 F.2d 378. Weapons 17(6)

In the Second Circuit, a conspiracy conviction will be allowed to stand if proof exists of defendant's intent to commit offense which survives review. U. S. v. Mowad, C.A.2 (Conn.) 1981, 641 F.2d 1067, certiorari denied 102 S.Ct. 94, 454 U.S. 817, 70 L.Ed.2d 86. Conspiracy 28(1)

In conspiracy prosecution, reviewing court must make independent evaluation of record to determine, first, whether sufficient evidence was presented for jury to conclude beyond reasonable doubt that conspiracy existed and, second, whether there was sufficient nonhearsay evidence by which jury could tie each defendant to conspiracy. U. S. v. Buschman, C.A.7 (Wis.) 1976, 527 F.2d 1082. Criminal Law 1159.5

Where college disciplinary hearing board in its "findings of facts" made only one reference to the existence of conspiracy in its statement as to six named students but addressed document containing such findings to attorneys for all six students, findings of conspiracy as to the six named students were sufficiently clear to permit reviewing court to weigh sufficiency of evidence against each individual student on basis of the conspiracy finding. Jenkins v. Louisiana State Bd. of Ed., C.A.5 (La.) 1975, 506 F.2d 992, rehearing denied 510 F.2d 384. Colleges And Universities 9.30(7)

Finding that consent to airport search of luggage was given by defendant, and that such search was made with probable cause, was not clearly erroneous in prosecution for conspiracy to pass and keep counterfeit notes, of passing counterfeit notes, and of possessing counterfeit notes. U. S. v. Crain, C.A.9 (Wash.) 1973, 485 F.2d 297. Criminal Law 394.6(4)

Allowing jury to find, in prosecution for conspiracy to defraud United States and Securities and Exchange Commission that woman's assignation with employee of the Commission was an overt act in pursuance of general conspiracy charged in the indictment, even though it antedated employee's first knowledge of investigation of corporation, was not erroneous since past favors can constitute consideration for action as much as the promise of future ones. U. S. v. Peltz, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1970, 433 F.2d 48, certiorari denied 91 S.Ct. 974, 401 U.S. 955, 28 L.Ed.2d 238. Conspiracy 27

Finding that defendant had insufficient assets and was financially unable to pay for a transcript of proceedings of trial wherein he was convicted for conspiracy, thus warranting an order directing that minutes of trial be transcribed at government expense, was not clearly erroneous. U. S. v. Sacco, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1970, 430 F.2d 1304. Criminal Law 1077.2(3)

Evidence in prosecution for conspiracy to defraud the Veterans Administration by preventing its loan guaranty program from being administered in accordance with section 1801 et seq. of Title 38, and regulations supported trial court's finding that there was single conspiracy rather than multiple conspiracies. U.S. v. Levinson, C.A.6 (Mich.) 1968, 405 F.2d 971, certiorari denied 89 S.Ct. 1746, 395 U.S. 906, 23 L.Ed.2d 219, certiorari denied 89 S.Ct. 2097, 395 U.S. 958, 23 L.Ed.2d 744, rehearing denied 90 S.Ct. 37, 396 U.S. 869, 24 L.Ed.2d 124, rehearing denied 90 S.Ct. 36, 396 U.S. 869, 24 L.Ed.2d 124. Conspiracy 47(6)

In prosecution for conspiring to teach and advocate overthrow of the United States government by force and violence, action of court in finding clear and present danger without permitting a hearing to give defendants opportunity to produce evidence that no clear and present danger existed was not erroneous, where evidence which defendants would have offered would have been immaterial in view of court's undoubted knowledge of world conditions, coupled with considerations of similar uprisings in other countries and touch and go nature of our relations with countries with whom such ideological doctrines were attuned. U. S. v. Mesarosh, C.A.3 (Pa.) 1955, 223 F.2d 449, certiorari granted 76 S.Ct. 218, 350 U.S. 922, 100 L.Ed. 807, reversed on other grounds 77 S.Ct. 1, 352 U.S. 1, 1 L.Ed.2d 1. Constitutional Law ⚡ 268(2.1); Criminal Law ⚡ 304(1)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate Internal Revenue Laws relating to moonshine liquor, weight of circumstantial evidence was for jury, and where jury, acting within scope of its function and with justification, found accused guilty, its findings would not be disturbed on appeal. Whaley v. U.S., C.C.A.5 (Ga.) 1944, 141 F.2d 1010, certiorari denied 65 S.Ct. 46, 323 U.S. 742, 89 L.Ed. 595. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.2(2); Criminal Law ⚡ 1159.6

A finding that conspiracy existed to obstruct passage of mail and to restrain trade or commerce could not be disturbed by reviewing court, where it was supported by substantial evidence. U.S. v. Anderson, C.C.A.7 (Ill.) 1939, 101 F.2d 325, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 822, 307 U.S. 625, 83 L.Ed. 1502, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 822, 307 U.S. 625, 83 L.Ed. 1503, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 823, 307 U.S. 625, 83 L.Ed. 1503, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 823, 307 U.S. 625, 83 L.Ed. 1504, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 823, 307 U.S. 625, 83 L.Ed. 1504, 86 L.Ed. 1504, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 824, 307 U.S. 625, 83 L.Ed. 1505, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 824, 307 U.S. 625, 83 L.Ed. 1506, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 825, 307 U.S. 625, 83 L.Ed. 1506, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 825, 307 U.S. 625, 83 L.Ed. 1507, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 825, 307 U.S. 625, 83 L.Ed. 1508, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 826, 307 U.S. 625, 83 L.Ed. 1508, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 826, 307 U.S. 625, 83 L.Ed. 1509. Criminal Law ⚡ 1159.2(10)

Facts established provided adequate basis for jury's finding that mailings identified in substantive counts were in furtherance of essential part in execution of fraudulent scheme and were not collateral to the scheme for purposes of prosecution for mail fraud and conspiracy to defraud by use of mails. U. S. v. Iezzi, W.D.Pa.1976, 451 F.Supp. 1027, affirmed 573 F.2d 827, certiorari denied 98 S.Ct. 2248, 436 U.S. 911, 56 L.Ed.2d 411, rehearing denied 98 S.Ct. 3130, 438 U.S. 908, 57 L.Ed.2d 1152, certiorari denied 99 S.Ct. 165, 439 U.S. 854, 58 L.Ed.2d 160. Postal Service ⚡ 50

1089. Verdict, review

That jury returned general verdict of guilty to conspiracy charging two objects and evidence was insufficient to support one object did not require reversal where evidence was sufficient to support other object. U.S. v. Beverly, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1990, 913 F.2d 337, certiorari denied 111 S.Ct. 766, 498 U.S. 1052, 112 L.Ed.2d 786, certiorari granted 111 S.Ct. 951, 498 U.S. 1082, 112 L.Ed.2d 1039, affirmed 112 S.Ct. 466, 502 U.S. 46, 116 L.Ed.2d 371, rehearing denied 112 S.Ct. 1253, 502 U.S. 1125, 117 L.Ed.2d 484, dismissal of habeas corpus affirmed 972 F.2d 351, post-conviction relief denied, habeas corpus granted in part. Criminal Law ⚡ 1175

1090. Acquittal or conviction of others, review

Conspiracy conviction did not have to be reversed due to coconspirators' acquittals after judgment of acquittals were reversed. U.S. v. Pardue, C.A.8 (Ark.) 1993, 983 F.2d 850, rehearing denied, certiorari denied 113 S.Ct. 3043, 509 U.S. 925, 125 L.Ed.2d 728. Conspiracy ⚡ 24(6)

Possible acquittal of codefendants not yet tried, or retried after jury disagreement, does not warrant reversal of conviction for conspiracy. De Camp v. U.S., App.D.C.1926, 10 F.2d 984, 56 App.D.C. 119. Conspiracy ⚡ 24(6)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

1091. Multiple defendants, review

Since court of appeals determined that evidence with respect to conspiracy and substantive counts was insufficient as to two of three defendants, court would reverse conviction of third defendant under conspiracy charge where there was no attempt to prove that the third defendant had conspired with anyone other than the first two defendants. U. S. v. Barnes, C.A.6 (Tenn.) 1967, 383 F.2d 287, certiorari denied 88 S.Ct. 780, 389 U.S. 1040, 19 L.Ed.2d 831. Criminal Law ⚡ 1186.1

Order of Securities and Exchange Commission containing ex parte, hearsay allegations or recitals of serious wrong-doing on part of one of three co-conspirators was inadmissible and prejudicial to named co-conspirator and to second co-conspirator who had been a Commission employee who had intervened improperly with other Commission employees and general guilty verdict as to all three defendants would be reversed in prosecution for conspiracy to defraud United States concerning its right to have business and affairs of Securities and Exchange Commission administered in a proper manner. Abrams v. U. S., C.A.D.C.1964, 327 F.2d 898, 117 U.S.App.D.C. 200. Criminal Law ⚡ 1169.1(9); Criminal Law ⚡ 419(12)

Reversal of one defendant's conspiracy conviction required reversal as to the other who otherwise might be the only one ever convicted, absent proof that person not charged conspired with him, under indictment referring to conspiracy embracing persons unknown. Lubin v. U. S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1963, 313 F.2d 419. Conspiracy ⚡ 24(6)

It is no ground for setting aside a conviction of certain defendants of conspiracy that the evidence may be equally strong against others who were acquitted. Bryant v. U.S., C.C.A.5 (Tex.) 1919, 257 F. 378, 168 C.C.A. 418, motion denied 40 S.Ct. 117. Criminal Law ⚡ 877

1092. Multiple object conspiracy, review

Trial court's failure to instruct jury with respect to materiality element of offense of making false entry in record of lending institution required reversal of convictions for conspiracy for which false entry offense was one of several object offenses alleged in indictment, where court was unable to determine on review of general verdict form which object offense jury selected as basis for conspiracy conviction. U.S. v. Pettigrew, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1996, 77 F.3d 1500. Criminal Law ⚡ 1173.2(2)

A conspiracy conviction must be reversed if the trial court instructed the jury that it need find only one of the multiple objects alleged in order to convict of conspiracy, in a case in which the reviewing court holds any one of the supporting counts legally insufficient. U.S. v. Lopez, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1986, 803 F.2d 969, certiorari denied 107 S.Ct. 1958, 481 U.S. 1030, 95 L.Ed.2d 530, rehearing denied 107 S.Ct. 3246, 483 U.S. 1012, 97 L.Ed.2d 750, certiorari denied 107 S.Ct. 1959, 481 U.S. 1030, 95 L.Ed.2d 530, denial of post-conviction relief affirmed 988 F.2d 124. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.2(1); Criminal Law ⚡ 1172.1(3)

In prosecution charging multiple-object conspiracy, trial judge's instruction permitted jury to convict by unanimously finding any one of three objects and since jury could have focused on a legally insufficient object of conspiracy, convictions on conspiracy count would be reversed. U.S. v. DeLuca, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1982, 692 F.2d 1277. Conspiracy ⚡ 48.2(2); Criminal Law ⚡ 1172.1(3)

1093. Multiple counts, review

Erroneous admission of evidence that alleged coconspirator had told government agent that he had turned his numbers work over to defendant would require reversal of conviction under indictment count charging conspiracy to commit lottery offenses; and since it was probable that such evidence had also been considered by jury in connection with related count charging defendant with operation of a lottery, conviction on that count would also be reversed. Taylor v. U.S., C.A.D.C.1958, 260 F.2d 737, 104 U.S.App.D.C. 219. Criminal Law ⚡ 1169.7

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Where conviction was sustained on a count sufficient to support the sentence, it would not be disturbed for alleged errors relating to another count. Deacon v. U. S., C.C.A.1 (Mass.) 1941, 124 F.2d 352. Criminal Law ⤴ 1167(2)

Where the jury was allowed over objection to consider together defendant's guilt of violation of former § 338 of this title in respect of each of three frauds alleged, each was required to be proved, and where there was insufficient evidence for jury to find that defendant participated in either of two frauds alleged, his conviction was required to be reversed. U.S. v. Groves, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1941, 122 F.2d 87, certiorari denied 62 S.Ct. 135, 314 U.S. 670, 86 L.Ed. 536. Conspiracy ⤴ 43(12); Criminal Law ⤴ 1186.1

Where there was a single sentence upon counts sustained by evidence, judgment would not be reversed on the ground that another count was unsupported by evidence. Brand v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Mo.) 1916, 236 F. 219, 149 C.C.A. 409.

1094. Sentence, review

Defendant's sentence enhancement for having derived more than $1,000,000 in "gross receipts" from his crime of conspiring to commit bank and credit card fraud was proper, although loans that defendant obtained which did not result in loss to lenders were considered in determining gross receipts; defendant obtained loans as result of his offense, and even if loans were improperly included in calculation of gross receipts, defendant's receipts would have totaled more than $ 1,000,000, since he could not subtract 10% fee he paid to have checks cashed. U.S. v. Khedr, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 2003, 343 F.3d 96, on subsequent appeal 87 Fed.Appx. 218, 2004 WL 303921. Sentencing And Punishment ⤴ 736

Defendant was properly sentenced for convictions of conspiracy to kidnap and conspiracy to exploit minor in sexually explicit film by considering conspiracy to kidnap guidelines, rather than conspiracy to murder guideline, since kidnapping was object of conspiracy and eventual murder of victim was "other offense"; thus, it was proper to consider first-degree murder as specific offense characteristic for alleged plan that would have resulted in filmed murder of young boy, and then to reduce defendant's sentence three levels since crime was not successfully completed. U.S. v. Depew, C.A.4 (Va.) 1991, 932 F.2d 324, certiorari denied 112 S.Ct. 210, 502 U.S. 873, 116 L.Ed.2d 169. Sentencing And Punishment ⤴ 653(2)

Where conspiracy count and related substantive count of vote buying differed only in the most technical sense, confinement imposed on each was concurrent and defendants were placed on supervised probation, and same fines were imposed on each count, the concurrent-sentence doctrine was applied and appellate court declined to review the conspiracy count on finding that evidence supported conviction on substantive count. U.S. v. Canales, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1984, 744 F.2d 413, rehearing denied 750 F.2d 69. Criminal Law ⤴ 1177

Defendant, who was convicted of armed robbery and conspiracy to commit armed robbery, was not entitled to relief due to fact that presentence report erroneously indicated that he had been convicted of various crimes, in view of fact that trial court was advised prior to sentencing that such information was erroneous and court indicated that it did not consider that information. U. S. v. Kelly, C.A.8 (Minn.) 1982, 687 F.2d 1217. Criminal Law ⤴ 1177

Even though only one defendant of three raised issue of failure of government to elect between counts in multiplicitous indictment charging three counts of conspiracy, all three defendants who were jointly indicted and received identical sentences were entitled to have their sentences vacated and have matter remanded for resentencing on single conspiracy count. U. S. v. Bradsby, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1980, 628 F.2d 901. Criminal Law ⤴ 1181.5(8)

Despite trial judge's statement to jury after it had returned its verdict that those defendants who pleaded guilty would not receive as heavy sentence as those who were tried, trial judge did not use improper standard in imposing heavier penalty upon defendants than upon their co-conspirators who pleaded guilty, in view of fact that sentences imposed upon defendants were based almost totally upon probation report for each defendant. U. S. v. Araujo, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1976, 539 F.2d 287, certiorari denied 97 S.Ct. 498, 429 U.S. 983, 50 L.Ed.2d 593. Sentencing And Punishment ↻ 56

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

As trial judge who imposed identical total sentences on all four defendants could not have intended that codefendant who entered guilty plea to five counts of bank robbery and one conspiracy count should serve longer sentence than defendants who did not plead guilty and were subsequently convicted of the bank robbery counts and acquitted of the conspiracy count, codefendant's conviction of conspiracy would be vacated along with vacation of all defendants' convictions of all but one of the bank robbery counts. U. S. v. Fleming, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1974, 504 F.2d 1045. Criminal Law ↻ 1181.5(1)

Absent anything to suggest that defendant's sentence was imposed as penalty for his standing trial in contrast to pleas of guilty by his codefendants, trial judge did not abuse his discretion in sentencing defendant to two years imprisonment, with six months to be served in jail and probation for balance of sentence, on conviction of conspiracy to receive and have possession of chattels, moving as part of interstate shipment, known to have been stolen and substantive offense of receiving and having possession of such stolen chattels. U. S. v. Jackson, C.A.6 (Ohio) 1970, 422 F.2d 975. Conspiracy ↻ 51; Receiving Stolen Goods ↻ 10

Even if evidence of conspiracy was insufficient, judgment of conviction would not be reversed where conviction on count charging substantive offense was clearly sufficient and sentences upon counts ran concurrently. Juarez-Flores v. U. S., C.A.5 (Tex.) 1968, 394 F.2d 161, certiorari denied 89 S.Ct. 311, 393 U.S. 942, 21 L.Ed.2d 278. Criminal Law ↻ 1177

Since convictions and sentences on the substantive mail fraud counts were valid, Court of Appeals need not consider validity of concurrent sentences imposed on conspiracy count. Bannister v. U. S., C.A.5 (Fla.) 1967, 379 F.2d 750, certiorari denied 88 S.Ct. 861, 390 U.S. 927, 19 L.Ed.2d 988. Criminal Law ↻ 1177

Refusal of trial judge to impose sentence on certain defendant, who had pleaded guilty and testified for government in codefendants' stock conspiracy trial, until after conclusion of codefendants' trial, was not prejudicial to codefendants, on theory apparently that if he had been given suspended sentence that would have been proof positive in eyes of jurors that he was perjuring himself to earn his reward. U. S. v. Kelly, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1965, 349 F.2d 720, certiorari denied 86 S.Ct. 1467, 384 U.S. 947, 16 L.Ed.2d 544. Criminal Law ↻ 1177

Any insufficiency of proof to sustain conviction for conspiracy was harmless where sentence predicated upon conspiracy conviction ran concurrently with sentence for substantive offense. U. S. v. Berger, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1964, 338 F.2d 485, certiorari denied 85 S.Ct. 925, 380 U.S. 923, 13 L.Ed.2d 809. Criminal Law ↻ 1168(1)

Court of Appeals would reduce invalid two-year sentence of defendant on conspiracy count by federal District Court to one-year maximum which might have been legally imposed by District Court instead of remanding case to District Court to permit District Court to resentence defendant by imposing consecutive sentences for substantive offenses so that two-year sentence for conspiracy would be valid, where codefendant, who had receive same sentences, had begun serving sentences so that he could not be resentenced to impose consecutive sentences for substantive offenses. U. S. v. Magliano, C.A.4 (Md.) 1964, 336 F.2d 817. Criminal Law ↻ 1187

Defendants were entitled to sentence under less severe of several statutes involved, where, under general instruction given, jury might have found defendants guilty only as to conspiracy to commit act wherein maximum penalty could be no more than five years, and might or might not have found defendants guilty of having conspired to violate one or more of three conspiracy statutes involving heavier penalties, and in event government did not consent to such resentence, defendants were entitled to new trial. Brown v. U. S., C.A.D.C.1962, 299 F.2d 438, 112 U.S.App.D.C. 57, certiorari denied 82 S.Ct. 1593, 370 U.S. 946, 8 L.Ed.2d 812. Criminal Law ↻ 29(5.5);

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Criminal Law ⚡ 1189; Sentencing And Punishment ⚡ 520(2)

Presumption of law is that court imposed sentence, which was within maximum sentence imposable on good count, on good count only, and not on defective count. Herman v. U.S., C.A.5 (Fla.) 1961, 289 F.2d 362, certiorari denied 82 S.Ct. 174, 368 U.S. 897, 7 L.Ed.2d 93. Criminal Law ⚡ 1144.17

Defendant suffered no prejudice from his prosecution for two counts of conspiracy under different sections of the narcotics laws for the same activities when the defendant received only concurrent sentences. U S v. Allen, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1959, 267 F.2d 491. Criminal Law ⚡ 1177

Where defendant was convicted on count of conspiracy to bribe police officer, and also was convicted on intimately related bribery counts, and sentence under conspiracy count was for longer time than his concurrent sentence for bribery, conspiracy and bribery charges would be affirmed if no reversible error impaired conspiracy conviction. Monroe v. U.S., C.A.D.C.1956, 234 F.2d 49, 98 U.S.App.D.C. 228, certiorari denied 77 S.Ct. 94, 352 U.S. 872, 1 L.Ed.2d 76, certiorari denied 77 S.Ct. 94, 352 U.S. 873, 1 L.Ed.2d 76, rehearing denied 77 S.Ct. 219, 352 U.S. 937, 1 L.Ed.2d 170, rehearing denied 78 S.Ct. 114, 355 U.S. 875, 2 L.Ed.2d 79. Criminal Law ⚡ 1177

Where defendants were convicted on conspiracy and substantive counts and received concurrent sentences, appeals from convictions must fail if the conviction of each of the defendants could be sustained as to either of the counts on which a verdict of guilty was returned. O'Malley v. U. S., C.A.1 (Mass.) 1955, 227 F.2d 332, certiorari denied 76 S.Ct. 434, 350 U.S. 966, 100 L.Ed. 838. Criminal Law ⚡ 1177

Court of Appeals need not consider the sufficiency of evidence to support the conviction of accused under counts charging him with substantive offenses against the narcotics law, § 4704 et seq. of Title 26, where the sentences imposed on him on each of such counts and on the conspiracy count, were the same and were ordered to run concurrently. U. S. v. Iacullo, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1955, 226 F.2d 788, certiorari denied 76 S.Ct. 435, 350 U.S. 966, 100 L.Ed. 839. Criminal Law ⚡ 1134(3)

One pleading guilty to each of three indictments, charging 15 violations of, and conspiracy to violate, §§ 2553(a) and 2554(a) of Title 26, § 174 of Title 21 and this section, for each of which offenses applicable law prescribed maximum penalty of five years imprisonment for first offense, was in no position to complain to Court of Appeals of three concurrent ten year sentences imposed on him by district court, as total number of years for which he was sentenced was less than maximum permitted by said sections. U.S. v. Kapsalis, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1954, 214 F.2d 677, certiorari denied 75 S.Ct. 583, 349 U.S. 906, 99 L.Ed. 1242. Criminal Law ⚡ 1177

Where evidence was insufficient to sustain convictions on conspiracy count, but sentence imposed on each defendant was a general sentence imposed concurrently on conspiracy count and substantive count with which such defendant was charged, judgment and convictions would be affirmed if there were no other error and if evidence was sufficient to support convictions on substantive counts. Rent v. U.S., C.A.5 (Tex.) 1954, 209 F.2d 893. Criminal Law ⚡ 1177

Where sentences imposed on defendants for conspiracy to defraud the United States and violations of the income and excise tax laws were within the limits permitted by §§ 145(b) and 2707(c) of Title 26 the asserted severity of the sentences was not reviewable on appeal. Kobey v. U.S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1953, 208 F.2d 583. Criminal Law ⚡ 1158(1)

Where defendants were given single sentence on both conspiracy and substantive counts and sentence imposed was less than could have been imposed on substantive count alone, and no complaint was made of insufficiency of evidence to support conviction on substantive count, judgments of conviction would not be reversed for alleged insufficiency of evidence to sustain conviction on conspiracy counts. Thomas v. U. S., C.C.A.5 (Ala.) 1948, 168 F.2d 707. Criminal Law ⚡ 1168(1)

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Where defendant was sentenced to serve terms of seven years each on three counts charging defendant with possessing, selling and transferring certain counterfeit federal reserve notes, and to serve two years on a count charging conspiracy to commit offense by unlawfully possessing, transferring and using counterfeit obligations, the sentences to run concurrently, the sentences were within the maximum statutory penalties and would not be disturbed because of seeming severity. U. S. v. Sorcey, C.C.A.7 (Wis.) 1945, 151 F.2d 899, certiorari denied 66 S.Ct. 821, 327 U.S. 794, 90 L.Ed. 1021. Conspiracy ⚡ 51; Counterfeiting ⚡ 21

Additional punishment for conspiracy was proper although conspiracy had been so far executed as to accomplish the substantive offenses which were its aim. U.S. v. De Normand, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1945, 149 F.2d 622, certiorari denied 66 S.Ct. 89, 326 U.S. 756, 90 L.Ed. 454, rehearing denied 66 S.Ct. 165, 326 U.S. 808, 90 L.Ed. 493, rehearing denied 66 S.Ct. 331, 326 U.S. 811, 90 L.Ed. 495, rehearing denied 66 S.Ct. 676, 327 U.S. 816, 90 L.Ed. 1039, certiorari denied 67 S.Ct. 769, 330 U.S. 822, 91 L.Ed. 1272, rehearing denied 67 S.Ct. 860, 330 U.S. 854, 91 L.Ed. 1296. Conspiracy ⚡ 37; Conspiracy ⚡ 51

Where it was plain from indictment that the substantive offenses of selling heroin illegally, charged in the first two counts, included every element of the offense charged in third count of conspiracy to sell heroin illegally, only one offense was committed and sentence imposed on conspiracy count was set aside. Freeman v. U.S., C.C.A.6 (Mich.) 1945, 146 F.2d 978. Sentencing And Punishment ⚡ 520(3)

Where identical terms of imprisonment were imposed under both counts of indictment and sentences were to run concurrently, appellate court was not required to consider accused's contentions respecting one count of indictment where it sustained conviction as to other count. Deacon v. U. S., C.C.A.1 (Mass.) 1941, 124 F.2d 352. Criminal Law ⚡ 1134(3)

Where defendants were convicted upon four counts for transportation of motor vehicle in interstate commerce, knowing the same to have been stolen, for stealing and carrying away, with intent to convert to their own use, bakery products constituting interstate shipments, for conspiracy and for possession of goods stolen from an interstate shipment, knowing the same to have been stolen, and no testimony irrelevant to charge in first count or in any wise prejudicial to defendants in their trial on that count was introduced because of the pendency of the other counts, and there was no error in the conviction and sentence upon first count, and sentence imposed was such as might have been imposed under that count, it was unnecessary to consider the other counts. Carpenter v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Iowa) 1940, 113 F.2d 692. Criminal Law ⚡ 1177

Where accused was convicted on counts charging substantive offenses, neither of which was charged as an overt act, as well as on count charging conspiracy, and court imposed same sentence as to each count to run concurrently, it was not necessary to determine whether reversal should be had under conspiracy count. Hall v. U.S., C.C.A.10 (Okla.) 1940, 109 F.2d 976. Criminal Law ⚡ 1134(3)

On conviction of two defendants on indictment charging in one count conspiracy to have in their possession counterfeit coins and to attempt to pass such coins and charging in second count possession of counterfeit coins, sentence of one defendant on second count to 10 years in penitentiary and to pay fine of $500 with provision that he be placed on probation on first count for period of five years to begin at expiration of sentence on second count or on his release from custody under such sentence, and sentence of other defendant on first count to term of two years with provision that he be placed on probation on second count for term of five years to begin at conclusion of sentence on first count or on his release from custody would not be set aside on appeal as cruel, unusual and excessive. Reavis v. U.S., C.C.A.10 (Okla.) 1939, 106 F.2d 982. Sentencing And Punishment ⚡ 1487; Sentencing And Punishment ⚡ 1488

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate § 301 et seq. of Title 49 sentences which were within limits of penalty fixed by former § 88 of this title [now this section] would not be disturbed notwithstanding contention that said former section should not be used to subject one to a more severe penalty than that which may be imposed for the substantive offense. Martin v. U. S., C.C.A.10 (Colo.) 1938, 100 F.2d 490, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 590, 306 U.S. 649, 83 L.Ed. 104, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 590, 306 U.S. 649, 83 L.Ed. 1047, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 590, 306 U.S. 649, 83 L.Ed. 1048, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 591, 306 U.S. 649, 83 L.Ed. 1048, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 642, 306 U.S. 651, 83 L.Ed. 1050. Conspiracy ↪ 51

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

One convicted in District of Columbia of conspiracy to deliver information concerning national defense to foreign country was properly sentenced under D.C.Code, § 24-201 et seq., as against contention that such law was applicable only to offenses against the Criminal Code of the District. Farnsworth v. Zerbst, C.C.A.5 (Ga.) 1938, 98 F.2d 541. District Of Columbia ↪ 4

Separate counts charging conspiracy to rob and steal mail matter charged same offense entitling defendant to release on service of maximum imprisonment for single offense. Bertsch v. Snook, C.C.A.5 (Ga.) 1929, 36 F.2d 155. Sentencing And Punishment ↪ 571

Determining severance in conspiracy cases is discretionary, and not subject to review, except for abuse. Olmstead v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Wash.) 1927, 19 F.2d 842, certiorari denied 48 S.Ct. 117, 275 U.S. 557, 72 L.Ed. 424, 72 L.Ed. 729, rehearing granted 48 S.Ct. 207, 276 U.S. 609, 72 L.Ed. 729, affirmed 48 S.Ct. 564, 277 U.S. 438, 72 L.Ed. 944. Criminal Law ↪ 622.6(3); Criminal Law ↪ 1148

Where evidence sustained conviction under conspiracy count, and sentence was less than could have been imposed thereunder, sufficiency of evidence as to substantive offenses was immaterial. Cantrell v. U.S., C.C.A.5 (Tex.) 1926, 15 F.2d 953, certiorari denied 47 S.Ct. 572, 273 U.S. 768, 71 L.Ed. 882. Criminal Law ↪ 1134(3)

Where defendant was convicted on two indictments, one charging conspiracy against one person and the other a conspiracy against such person and others, and under the evidence and instructions both verdicts may have been founded on the same conspiracy against the one person only, but a single sentence should have been imposed. Roberts v. U. S., C.C.A.8 (Colo.) 1922, 283 F. 960. Sentencing And Punishment ↪ 540

In light of the sentences provided to other defendants who shared similar roles in "boiler room" operation, defendant securities broker, who pled guilty to one count of conspiracy to commit securities fraud, mail fraud and wire fraud, would be sentenced to 41 months in prison, to be followed by three years of supervised release; downward departure was appropriate because case presented aggravating circumstances of a kind, or to a degree, not adequately taken into consideration in formulating Sentencing Guidelines since loss provision did not make sense when up to 250 people were participating, and the loss was difficult, if not impossible, to apportion fairly. U.S. v. Monroig, S.D.N.Y.2003, 2003 WL 1461640, Unreported. Sentencing And Punishment ↪ 852; Sentencing And Punishment ↪ 870

1095. Fine, review

Court of Appeals had no authority to reduce or strike fine imposed on conviction of substantive count and conspiracy charge, even though conspiracy charge was reversed, where fine was within maximum sentence imposable upon conviction of substantive offense. Herman v. U.S., C.A.5 (Fla.) 1961, 289 F.2d 362, certiorari denied 82 S.Ct. 174, 368 U.S. 897, 7 L.Ed.2d 93. Criminal Law ↪ 1183

1096. Substantial evidence, review

There must be "substantial evidence" connecting particular defendant to conspiracy, and, to satisfy such test, it must be shown that particular defendant had deliberate, knowing, specific intent to join conspiracy. U. S. v. Bulman, C.A.11 (Fla.) 1982, 667 F.2d 1374, rehearing denied 673 F.2d 1342, certiorari denied 102 S.Ct. 2305, 456 U.S. 1010, 73 L.Ed.2d 1307. Conspiracy ↪ 47(1)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In reviewing sufficiency of the evidence question, court of appeals must view the evidence supporting convictions in the light most favorable to the government and all credibility choices and inferences must be made in support of the jury's verdict; the test is whether reasonable minds could have found the evidence inconsistent with every reasonable hypothesis of defendant's innocence. U. S. v. Burgin, C.A.5 (Miss.) 1980, 621 F.2d 1352, rehearing denied 627 F.2d 239, certiorari denied 101 S.Ct. 574, 449 U.S. 1015, 66 L.Ed.2d 474. Criminal Law ⚡ 1144.13(3); Criminal Law ⚡ 1144.13(5); Criminal Law ⚡ 1159.2(8)

Standard for appellate review of sufficiency of evidence in conspiracy cases requires "substantial evidence" that, beyond a reasonable doubt, the accused knowingly participated in the conspiracy. U. S. v. Harbin, C.A.5 (Fla.) 1979, 601 F.2d 773, certiorari denied 100 S.Ct. 433, 444 U.S. 954, 62 L.Ed.2d 327. Criminal Law ⚡ 1159.2(10)

When sufficiency of evidence to support any criminal conviction, including conspiracies, is challenged on appeal, correct standard of review is "substantial evidence," it being understood that evidence is to be viewed in light most favorable to Government; accordingly, "slight evidence" rule as used and applied on appeal in conspiracy cases in the Fifth Circuit would be banished as to all appeals hereafter decided. U. S. v. Malatesta, C.A.5 (Fla.) 1979, 590 F.2d 1379, certiorari denied 99 S.Ct. 1508, 440 U.S. 962, 59 L.Ed.2d 777, certiorari denied 100 S.Ct. 91, 444 U.S. 846, 62 L.Ed.2d 59. Criminal Law ⚡ 1144.13(3); Criminal Law ⚡ 1159.2(5)

Prosecution must establish by substantial evidence, restricted to proof aliunde, fact that conspiracy existed; once the existence of conspiracy is clearly established, slight evidence may be sufficient to connect a defendant with it. U. S. v. De Cavalcante, C.A.3 (N.J.) 1971, 440 F.2d 1264. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(1)

In prosecution for conspiring to violate bankruptcy laws, questions of knowledge and participation were jury issues and there was adequate substantial evidence to support jury verdict on both questions. Jacobs v. U. S., C.A.8 (Iowa) 1968, 395 F.2d 469. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(3.1); Conspiracy ⚡ 48.1(2.1)

Existence of conspiracy was established by substantial evidence independent of extrajudicial statements of defendants. Atkins v. U. S., C.A.9 (Wash.) 1962, 307 F.2d 937. Criminal Law ⚡ 409(6.1)

Where evidence affords satisfactory proof that conspiracy has been formed but slight evidence connecting defendant therewith may still be substantial and if so, sufficient. Isaacs v. U. S., C.A.8 (Minn.) 1962, 301 F.2d 706, certiorari denied 83 S.Ct. 32, 371 U.S. 818, 9 L.Ed.2d 58, certiorari denied 83 S.Ct. 33, 371 U.S. 818, 9 L.Ed.2d 58. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(1)

In prosecution for conspiracy to commit bank robbery, for commission of bank robbery or aiding in commission thereof, and for putting life in jeopardy by use of dangerous weapon in committing bank robbery or aiding in commission thereof, there was substantial evidence, aside from confession of robber, to corroborate admissions of each defendant and sustain finding that other defendants had participated. United States v. Caron, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1959, 266 F.2d 49. Conspiracy ⚡ 47(11); Robbery ⚡ 24.20

Where there was substantial evidence in existence for the triers of fact to pass upon the question of conspiracy, the appellate court could not disturb the verdict on appeal. Sandez v. U. S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1956, 239 F.2d 239, rehearing denied 245 F.2d 712. Criminal Law ⚡ 1159.2(10)

A reviewing court must sustain verdict of conviction if there is substantial evidence to support it. U.S. v. Gallo, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1941, 123 F.2d 229.

In passing on the sufficiency of the proof to connect an accused with a conspiracy to obstruct justice and to defraud the United States, it was not the province of the Circuit Court of Appeals to weigh the evidence or to determine credibility of witnesses, but that court was required to take that view of the evidence most favorable to the government and sustain the jury's verdict of conviction if there was substantial evidence to support it. U.S. v.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Manton, C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1939, 107 F.2d 834, certiorari denied 60 S.Ct. 590, 309 U.S. 664, 84 L.Ed. 1012. Criminal Law  1144.13(3); Criminal Law  1159.2(10); Criminal Law  1159.4(5)

In conspiracy prosecution, any substantial evidence of knowledge and participation in conspiracy will justify verdict of guilty. Beland v. U. S., C.C.A.5 (Tex.) 1938, 100 F.2d 289, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 485, 306 U.S. 636, 83 L.Ed. 1037. Conspiracy  47(1)

In prosecution for conspiring to deal in distilled spirits on which no tax had been paid, where defendant, a police officer, testified that he had never taken money from any person at the home of a codefendant, the admission of testimony in rebuttal to the effect that defendant had extorted money from witness under threat of arrest over objection that testimony was not proper rebuttal did not warrant reversal even if testimony was incompetent, where verdict was sustained by competent evidence and trial was in all other respects fair and impartial. Diehl v. U.S., C.C.A.8 (Mo.) 1938, 98 F.2d 545. Criminal Law  1168(2)

1097. Affirmance, review

Conviction under former § 88 of this title [now this section] affirmed except as to one codefendant. Agnello v. U.S., U.S.N.Y.1925, 46 S.Ct. 4, 269 U.S. 20, 70 L.Ed. 145.

Conviction for conspiracy to violate National Prohibition Act, former § 1 et seq. of Title 27, and regulations as to industrial alcohol, affirmed. Selzman v. U.S., U.S.Ohio 1925, 45 S.Ct. 574, 268 U.S. 466, 69 L.Ed. 1054. See, also, Knable v. U.S., C.C.A.Ohio, 1925, 9 F.2d 567; Robinson v. U.S., C.C.A.N.Y.1923, 290 F. 755, certiorari denied 44 S.Ct. 6, 263 U.S. 700, 68 L.Ed. 513.

On appeal, court of appeals must affirm jury's finding of guilt if its review of record discloses at least slight evidence of a particular defendant's knowing participation in a conspiracy which has been established by other independent evidence. U. S. v. Anderson, C.A.5 (Ga.) 1978, 574 F.2d 1347. Criminal Law  1159.2(10)

In conspiracy cases, finding of guilt will be affirmed if review of the record below discloses at least slight evidence linking a particular defendant to a conspiracy that has been established by other independent evidence. U. S. v. Morrow, C.A.5 (Fla.) 1976, 537 F.2d 120, rehearing denied 541 F.2d 282, certiorari denied 97 S.Ct. 1602, 430 U.S. 956, 51 L.Ed.2d 806. Criminal Law  1159.2(10)

In prosecution for scheme and artifice to defraud by mail, fraud by wire communication, interstate transportation of security converted and taken by fraud and for conspiracy, convictions were affirmed notwithstanding contention that trial court allowed indictment to go to jury room without removing from all counts the names of codefendants not on trial and, as to one defendant, permitted hearsay testimony without proper cautionary instruction and allowed conviction on insufficient evidence and that, as to second defendant, government in bad proceeded to trial on 29-count indictment knowing it would not present evidence on 22 of the 29 counts. U. S. v. Mitzkoff, C.A.5 (Fla.) 1975, 524 F.2d 488, certiorari denied 96 S.Ct. 1473, 424 U.S. 972, 47 L.Ed.2d 741. Criminal Law  673(1); Criminal Law  700(1); Criminal Law  858(3)

Under the concurrent sentence doctrine, where defendant was sentenced to five years on a conspiracy count and ten years on a substantive count, to be served concurrently, affirmance of conviction on the latter count, supported sentence regardless of whether defendant had a valid defense to the conspiracy charge. U. S. v. Wilson, C.A.8 (Mo.) 1974, 497 F.2d 602, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 655, 419 U.S. 1069, 42 L.Ed.2d 664. Criminal Law  1177

Defendant's conviction for conspiracy to commit mail fraud must be affirmed in view of the additional untried coconspirator named in indictment, notwithstanding acquittal of the only named codefendant. U. S. v. Sparrow, C.A.10 (Utah) 1972, 470 F.2d 885, certiorari denied 93 S.Ct. 1913, 411 U.S. 936, 36 L.Ed.2d 397. Conspiracy  24(6)

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Defendants were not entitled to relief, on appeal from conviction of use of interstate telephone facilities for gambling activities and for conspiring to commit such offenses, on theory that tape recording, which was apparently made as a record of bets, and which was seized could not have been subject of search warrant because it was mere evidence rather than fruit or instrumentality of crime. U. S. v. Fuller, C.A.4 (S.C.) 1971, 441 F.2d 755, certiorari denied 92 S.Ct. 73, 404 U.S. 830, 30 L.Ed.2d 59, certiorari denied 92 S.Ct. 74, 404 U.S. 830, 30 L.Ed.2d 59. Gaming ☞ 60

Where defendants were properly convicted upon conspiracy count of indictment, and sentences imposed on each count were the same and not more than maximum allowable, convictions for conspiracy and interstate transportation of merchandise obtained by fraud were affirmed and it was not necessary for reviewing court to consider evidence as to second count charging interstate transportation of merchandise obtained by fraud. Cave v. U. S., C.A.8 (Iowa) 1968, 390 F.2d 58, certiorari denied 88 S.Ct. 2059, 392 U.S. 906, 20 L.Ed.2d 1365. Criminal Law ☞ 1177

With exception of conviction of one defendant on one count, convictions of each defendant of only those substantive offenses committed in furtherance of conspiracy while he was a member thereof were proper and would stand. Gradsky v. U.S., C.A.5 (Fla.) 1967, 376 F.2d 993, certiorari denied 88 S.Ct. 224, 389 U.S. 908, 19 L.Ed.2d 224, rehearing denied 88 S.Ct. 488, 389 U.S. 998, 19 L.Ed.2d 505. Criminal Law ☞ 59(1)

Conspiracy conviction will be upheld where circumstances, acts and conduct of parties are sufficient to establish that they entered into agreement to commit crime charged, followed by overt act to carry out agreement. McManaman v. U. S., C.A.10 (Kan.) 1964, 327 F.2d 21, certiorari denied 84 S.Ct. 1351, 377 U.S. 945, 12 L.Ed.2d 307. Conspiracy ☞ 47(1)

Convictions, for unlawful transportation of narcotic drugs, unlawful importation of narcotic drugs and conspiracy to defraud the government, were affirmed. White v. U S, C.A.9 (Alaska) 1958, 254 F.2d 137, 17 Alaska 624, certiorari denied 79 S.Ct. 48, 358 U.S. 829, 17 Alaska 498, 3 L.Ed.2d 68. Criminal Law ☞ 1182

Record on appeal from conviction for violation of this section disclosed no error and judgment would be affirmed. Hudson v. U.S., C.A.4 (N.C.) 1955, 226 F.2d 221.

Convictions for conspiracy will be upheld if circumstances, acts and conduct of parties are sufficient to establish them. Blackford v. U. S., C.A.10 (Kan.) 1952, 195 F.2d 896, certiorari denied 72 S.Ct. 1041, 343 U.S. 945, 96 L.Ed. 1350. Conspiracy ☞ 47(1)

In prosecution for violations of Mail Fraud Act, former § 338 of this title, for violations of fraud provisions of Securities Act of 1933, § 77q(a)(1) of Title 15, and for conspiracy to commit such offenses, where guilt of defendants was clearly proved and no error appeared which substantially prejudiced defendants, convictions were required to be affirmed. U. S. v. Monjar, C.C.A.3 (Del.) 1944, 147 F.2d 916, certiorari denied 65 S.Ct. 1191, 325 U.S. 859, 89 L.Ed. 1979, certiorari denied 65 S.Ct. 1192, 325 U.S. 859, 89 L.Ed. 1979, certiorari denied 65 S.Ct. 1192, 325 U.S. 859, 89 L.Ed. 1980, certiorari denied 65 S.Ct. 1193, 325 U.S. 859, 89 L.Ed. 1980, certiorari denied 65 S.Ct. 1194, 325 U.S. 859, 89 L.Ed. 1981. Criminal Law ☞ 1186.4(4)

A conviction of conspiracy is sustained if, on consideration of all the evidence, jury is satisfied beyond reasonable doubt of accused's guilt. American Tobacco Co. v. U.S., C.C.A.6 (Ky.) 1944, 147 F.2d 93, certiorari granted 65 S.Ct. 864, 324 U.S. 836, 89 L.Ed. 1400, certiorari granted 65 S.Ct. 865, 324 U.S. 836, 89 L.Ed. 1400, rehearing denied 65 S.Ct. 1021, 324 U.S. 891, 89 L.Ed. 1438, affirmed 66 S.Ct. 1125, 328 U.S. 781, 90 L.Ed. 1575. Criminal Law ☞ 561(2)

Where defendants charged with conspiracy to possess explosives were represented by competent counsel, and no objection was made to any evidence offered, to charge of court, or to argument of counsel, and where sufficiency of evidence was not questioned in trial court, and there were no exceptional circumstances involving the fairness, integrity, or public reputation of judicial proceedings, conviction should be upheld. Sanderson v. U.S., C.C.A.5 (Tex.) 1944, 145 F.2d 825, certiorari denied 65 S.Ct. 866, 324 U.S. 862, 89 L.Ed. 1418. Criminal Law ⚡ 1036.1(1); Criminal Law ⚡ 1036.8; Criminal Law ⚡ 1037.1(1); Criminal Law ⚡ 1038.1(1)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Where a general conspiracy to violate former § 88 of this title [now this section] and § 77q of Title 15 by use of mails to sell worthless securities was charged and two separate but closely connected conspiracies were proved, conviction would not be disturbed. Kopald-Quinn & Co. v. U. S., C.C.A.5 (Ga.) 1939, 101 F.2d 628, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 835, 307 U.S. 628, 83 L.Ed. 1511, certiorari denied 59 S.Ct. 835, 307 U.S. 628, 83 L.Ed. 1512. Criminal Law ⚡ 1159.2(10)

Conviction under former § 88 of this title [now this section] affirmed. Liberato v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Wash.) 1926, 13 F.2d 564. See, also, Thompson v. U.S., C.C.A.III.1926, 10 F.2d 781, certiorari denied 46 S.Ct. 352, 270 U.S. 654, 70 L.Ed. 782.

Conviction of conspiracy to use mails to defraud, affirmed. Redmond v. U.S., C.C.A.1 (Mass.) 1925, 8 F.2d 24. See, also, Newingham v. U.S., C.C.A.Pa.1925, 4 F.2d 490, certiorari denied 45 S.Ct. 638, 268 U.S. 703, 69 L.Ed. 1166; Sherwin v. U.S., C.C.A.Tex.1924, 297 F. 704, affirmed 45 S.Ct. 517, 268 U.S. 369, 69 L.Ed. 1001.

Where three persons were charged with conspiracy to embezzle and misapply the funds and credits of a national bank, and the proof was sufficient to convict two of them, but not the third, the charge against him would be treated as surplusage, and the conviction of the others sustained. Breese v. U.S., C.C.A.4 (N.C.) 1913, 203 F. 824, 122 C.C.A. 142. Conspiracy ⚡ 43(12)

1098. Reversal, review

On the government's concession, which was accepted by the Supreme Court, that petitioner's conviction of conspiracy with unknown Nazi agents to export gold and to commit counterfeiting offenses could not stand because of failure to prove contacts with such agents, conviction was reversed. Bates v. U.S., U.S.III.1944, 65 S.Ct. 15, 323 U.S. 15, 89 L.Ed. 13, conformed to 148 F.2d 907. Criminal Law ⚡ 1186.6

Government's use of subpoenas in securing pretrial interviews of witnesses, the failure to provide defendants with a bill of particulars and the failure to transcribe grand jury testimony, of an FBI agent did not constitute an "abusive prosecution" so as to warrant reversal of defendants' convictions of conspiring to defraud the United States, since indictment adequately informed defendants of charges against them, FBI agent whose grand jury testimony was at issue was not a government witness in its case-in-chief, and Government used subpoena to secure pretrial interview of only one witness who testified at trial and that witness was advised by his counsel that he was not required to appear. U. S. v. D'Andrea, C.A.7 (Ind.) 1978, 585 F.2d 1351, certiorari denied 99 S.Ct. 1795, 440 U.S. 983, 60 L.Ed.2d 244, rehearing denied 612 F.2d 1386. Criminal Law ⚡ 1166(10.10); Criminal Law ⚡ 1167(1); Criminal Law ⚡ 1170.5(1)

Where, there was a failure to agree to informer's request for percentage of money seized and where neither defendant was known to Secret Service before informant came to them with information of alleged conspiracy, reversal of convictions for conspiracy to possess counterfeit money was not required on ground that informer had contingent fee agreement with Secret Service to produce evidence against defendant; agent's statement that reward depended on "final results" was insufficient to require reversal of conviction on such ground. U. S. v. Edwards, C.A.5 (Fla.) 1977, 549 F.2d 362, certiorari denied 98 S.Ct. 107, 434 U.S. 828, 54 L.Ed.2d 87, rehearing denied 98 S.Ct. 494, 434 U.S. 960, 54 L.Ed.2d 321. Criminal Law ⚡ 1186.1

In view of defendant's testimony at a subsequent trial that he not only participated in a burglary but also participated in a conspiracy to suppress evidence of that burglary involving perjury and destruction of records, alleged "outrageous conduct" by government officials in seizing and destroying his records and "perjuring themselves before the grand jury" did not require reversal of defendant's convictions of conspiracy, burglary and illegal interception of oral and wire communications, entered upon guilty plea. U. S. v. Hunt, C.A.D.C.1975, 514 F.2d 270, 168 U.S.App.D.C. 374. Criminal Law ↻ 1186.1

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Where neither appellant joined motion for new trial with motions for judgment of acquittal, appropriate disposition on finding insufficient evidence to sustain conspiracy convictions was to reverse and remand with directions that indictments be dismissed as to the conspiracy counts. U.S. v. Peterson, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1974, 488 F.2d 645, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 49, 419 U.S. 828, 42 L.Ed.2d 53. Criminal Law ↻ 1181.5(1)

Reversal of conviction on count charging conspiracy to violate offenses named in three substantive counts, one of which was based on unconstitutional statutory provision, would not preclude government from securing new indictment containing no reference to conspiracy to violate the constitutionally invalid provision. U. S. v. Baranski, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1973, 484 F.2d 556. Double Jeopardy ↻ 108

Exclusion, in prosecution of former bank officer for misapplying funds of federally insured bank and for conspiring to misapply such funds, of testimony to effect that bank representative, who was prosecution witness, and who, on cross-examination, testified that he had not attempted to suborn perjury, after interviewing witnesses and failing to obtain any incriminating evidence against defendant had suggested that, in return for favorable treatment in connection with witnesses' loan balances, witnesses perjure themselves by stating that defendant demanded money from them before they could obtain loans, and that bank representative had stated that he was out to get defendant was reversible error. U. S. v. Haggett, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1971, 438 F.2d 396, certiorari denied 91 S.Ct. 1638, 402 U.S. 946, 29 L.Ed.2d 115. Criminal Law ↻ 1170.5(1); Witnesses ↻ 352

Even though FBI stood by while coconspirator who was also informant participated in conspiracy to extort money to induce official action, and FBI had knowledge that others intended to keep money for their own use, such conduct did not violate due process and did not require exercise of court's supervisory power to reverse defendant's convictions when there was no claim that informant's activity violated any specific of the Bill of Rights or any statute relating to the conduct of investigations. U. S. v. DeSapio, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1970, 435 F.2d 272, certiorari denied 91 S.Ct. 2170, 402 U.S. 999, 29 L.Ed.2d 166, rehearing denied 91 S.Ct. 2249, 403 U.S. 941, 29 L.Ed.2d 722. Constitutional Law ↻ 266(5); Criminal Law ↻ 394.1(2)

Although jury was carefully instructed that improperly admitted telephone recording was only to be considered against one of the codefendants being prosecuted for conspiracy, where actual effect of recording was to compensate for questionable credibility of witness, court could not say that there was not a reasonable possibility that evidence complained of might have contributed to both convictions which were reversed. Laughlin v. U. S., C.A.D.C.1965, 344 F.2d 187, 120 U.S.App.D.C. 93. Criminal Law ↻ 1186.1

Where there was no direct testimony that passenger in automobile involved in planned collision for purpose of defrauding insurance companies had knowledge of planned accident, and other evidence of his association with his brother, who did not question sufficiency of the evidence on which he was convicted, was not very convincing, passenger might have been prejudiced by efforts of government to involve all defendants in all collisions on its theory that there was an overall conspiracy, and hence conviction as to passenger would be reversed and case remanded for new trial. Barnard v. U. S., C.A.9 (Or.) 1965, 342 F.2d 309, certiorari denied 86 S.Ct. 403, 382 U.S. 948, 15 L.Ed.2d 356, rehearing denied 86 S.Ct. 567, 382 U.S. 1002, 15 L.Ed.2d 491, rehearing denied 86 S.Ct. 567, 382 U.S. 1002, 15 L.Ed.2d 492, certiorari denied 86 S.Ct. 404, 382 U.S. 948, 15 L.Ed.2d 356, rehearing denied 86 S.Ct. 568, 382 U.S. 1002, 15 L.Ed.2d 492. Criminal Law ↻ 1189

In conspiracy prosecution, if evidence as to several diverse conspiracies was introduced, such diverse conspiracies radiating from one central figure, as the spokes from the hub of a wheel, such fact would be ground for reversing judgment of conviction for entering into one of the conspiracies. Leyvas v. U. S., C.A.9 (Cal.) 1958, 264 F.2d 272.

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Criminal Law ⚡ 1169.11

In prosecution for conspiracy to deal in heroin and for sale of heroin, reference to fact that defendant had been arrested when his residence was being searched under warrant authorizing arrest of his son as suspect in robbery, was not basis for reversal, especially where prosecutor requested jury not to take into consideration the fact that defendant's son was wanted by police. U. S. v. Campisi, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1957, 248 F.2d 102, certiorari denied 78 S.Ct. 266, 355 U.S. 892, 2 L.Ed.2d 191. Criminal Law ⚡ 1169.5(3)

Where there was evidence, from which jury could reasonably conclude that internal revenue agents and accountant formed a single ring for purpose of fixing real or purported government claims based on defective income tax returns to defraud the United States and that conspiracy had a continuing character, conviction of one of the agents for conspiring to defraud the United States would not be reversed, on ground that proof showed not one conspiracy but a number of separate conspiracies to some of which such agent was not a party. U.S. v. Witt, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1954, 215 F.2d 580, certiorari denied 75 S.Ct. 207, 348 U.S. 887, 99 L.Ed. 697. Criminal Law ⚡ 1159.2(10)

Evidence being sufficient to sustain conviction under conspiracy count, and sentence imposed by trial court on all of the counts being less than the maximum amount that could have been imposed on conspiracy count alone, reversal could not be predicated upon lack of evidence to sustain finding of guilty on substantive counts pertaining to counterfeiting. U. S. v. Sferas, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1954, 210 F.2d 69, certiorari denied 74 S.Ct. 630, 347 U.S. 935, 98 L.Ed. 1086. Criminal Law ⚡ 1177

Where bad faith of accused charged with using and conspiring to use the mails to defraud in connection with mythical estate was amply demonstrated by proper evidence but there was so much error on the record and so many instances of prejudicial matter being placed before jury over objection that accused had not been tried in accordance with substance and form of law, convictions were reversed. U. S. v. Sprengel, C.C.A.3 (Pa.) 1939, 103 F.2d 876. Criminal Law ⚡ 1166.6

In prosecution for conspiracy to defraud United States by agreement to sell gold to mint by falsely concealing in required affidavit true origin of gold where government witness testified that defendant signed with fictitious names source slips required by California law for use in purchasing gold, exclusion of evidence showing custom permitted by state whereby persons other than actual producers signed source slips, offered to explain defendant's conduct, in signing other people's names to slips, was reversible error, especially where court improperly indicated that custom violated federal law. Hills v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1938, 97 F.2d 710. Conspiracy ⚡ 45

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate revenue laws relating to untax-paid distilled spirits, sole defendant, who failed to plead nolo contendere or not guilty to indictment, was not accorded fair trial, requiring reversal of his conviction in view of prejudicial atmosphere arising from proceedings in presence of jury relating to sentencing codefendants, after withdrawal of pleas of not guilty and substitution of pleas of guilty, unfair arguments of prosecuting attorney, and improper admission of evidence. Minker v. U S, C.C.A.3 (Pa.) 1936, 85 F.2d 425. Criminal Law ⚡ 1186.1

Error, requiring reversal of conviction of one of two conspirators, carries reversal as to the other. Silk v. U. S., C.C.A.8 (Neb.) 1927, 19 F.2d 73. See, also, Morrow v. U.S., C.C.A.Mo.1926, 11 F.2d 256; Williams v. U.S., C.C.A.S.C.1922, 282 F. 481. Criminal Law ⚡ 1186.1

1099. New trial, review

Where the making of speech by defendant congressman, charged with conspiracy to defraud the United States, was only a part of the conspiracy charged, government should not be precluded from a new trial on the count after all reference to motives and substance of defendant congressman's speech had been eliminated. U. S. v. Johnson, U.S.Md.1966, 86 S.Ct. 749, 383 U.S. 169, 15 L.Ed.2d 681. Criminal Law ⚡ 1189

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Where convictions under count charging conspiracy to defraud the United States by operation of a tax fixing ring might have rested on impermissible ground defendants were entitled to a new trial. Grunewald v. U.S., U.S.N.Y.1957, 77 S.Ct. 963, 353 U.S. 391, 1 L.Ed.2d 931. Criminal Law ¶ 1165(1)

Where error as to one defendant in a conspiracy prosecution requires that a new trial be granted him, the rights of his codefendants to a new trial depend upon whether that error prejudiced them. Glasser v. U.S., U.S.Ill.1942, 62 S.Ct. 457, 315 U.S. 60, 86 L.Ed. 680, rehearing denied 62 S.Ct. 629, 315 U.S. 827, 86 L.Ed. 1222, rehearing denied 62 S.Ct. 637, 315 U.S. 827, 86 L.Ed. 1222. Criminal Law ¶ 1189

In prosecution for conspiracy to defraud the United States, the denial of one defendant's right to have the effective assistance of counsel guaranteed by U.S.C.A.Const. Amend. 6 required that conviction be set aside and a new trial ordered as to that defendant, but that error did not require that convictions of codefendants be set aside and that new trials be ordered as to them in absence of a showing by codefendants that the denial of defendant's constitutional rights prejudiced them in some manner. Glasser v. U.S., U.S.Ill.1942, 62 S.Ct. 457, 315 U.S. 60, 86 L.Ed. 680, rehearing denied 62 S.Ct. 629, 315 U.S. 827, 86 L.Ed. 1222, rehearing denied 62 S.Ct. 637, 315 U.S. 827, 86 L.Ed. 1222. Criminal Law ¶ 1166.10(1); Criminal Law ¶ 1189

Where one defendant in his affidavit in support of motion for new trial alleging improper constitution of the jury offered to prove allegations contained therein but record was barren of any actual tender of proof on his part, and there was no indication that the court refused to entertain such an offer, if made, another defendant did not even make an offer of proof in his affidavit, and the third defendant did not file an affidavit, defendants' showing was insufficient to entitle them to a new trial. Glasser v. U.S., U.S.Ill.1942, 62 S.Ct. 457, 315 U.S. 60, 86 L.Ed. 680, rehearing denied 62 S.Ct. 629, 315 U.S. 827, 86 L.Ed. 1222, rehearing denied 62 S.Ct. 637, 315 U.S. 827, 86 L.Ed. 1222. Criminal Law ¶ 956(10)

New evidence that would have afforded defense counsel additional grounds upon which to impeach prosecution witnesses whose credibility already had been vigorously challenged, or to bolster defendant's own suspect credibility, allegedly discovered after defendant had been convicted of various substantive and conspiratorial crimes relating to his involvement in multi-million dollar Medicare fraud, did not warrant new trial. U.S. v. Canova, C.A.2 (Conn.) 2005, 412 F.3d 331. Criminal Law ¶ 942(1)

Defendant convicted of conspiring to illegally import parrots from Mexico was not entitled to new trial based on newly discovered evidence in form of telephone toll records of another person who had been linked to conspiracy, under theory that those records supported defense that smuggled parrots were intended for, and ultimately delivered to, that other person; those records did not contradict testimony that conspirators intended to and did deliver parrots to defendant, or second coconspirator's testimony that defendant continued to purchase baby parrots from him after she became aware that he was smuggling parrots, and, in any event, delivery to other person in question would not have ruled out delivery of birds to defendant. U.S. v. Freeman, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1996, 77 F.3d 812, rehearing and suggestion for rehearing en banc denied 84 F.3d 435. Criminal Law ¶ 945(1)

Evidence of irregular accounting methods in defendants' furniture store operation combined with presence and use of large amounts of cash by defendants established that evidence preponderated in favor of guilt rather than innocence on tax evasion in conspiracy to defraud Government charges, and thus, defendants were not entitled to new trial on ground that verdict was against weight of evidence. U.S. v. Ludwig, C.A.7 (Wis.) 1990, 897 F.2d 875. Criminal Law ¶ 935(1)

Defendant convicted of conspiracy to defraud United States was not entitled to new trial on basis that instructions on conspiracy count failed to distinguish between substantive felony offenses alleged and substantive misdemeanor offenses alleged where record failed to reveal anything that would have justified jury in finding defendant, who was sentenced in accordance with felony offense, guilty of conspiracy merely to commit misdemeanor. U. S. v. Vincent, C.A.5 (La.) 1981, 648 F.2d 1046. Criminal Law ¶ 922(2)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

District court did not abuse its discretion in denying motion for new trial on basis of newly discovered evidence on charge of conspiring to knowingly and fraudulently transfer and conceal assets in contemplation of bankruptcy proceeding with intent to defeat bankruptcy law where there was sufficient evidence to establish defendants' participation in conspiracy even if prosecution witness recanted testimony regarding meeting where agreement to defraud creditors was allegedly originated. U. S. v. Ward, C.A.8 (Ark.) 1976, 544 F.2d 975. Criminal Law 945(1)

In prosecution for conspiring to manufacture and sell United States currency, improper reference by trial judge to "the tendency of human beings to lie when confronted with an accusation" did not warrant reversal in view of failure of defendants to object to such statement before trial court, even though, by making such statement, trial judge improperly interjected his own personal views of human nature into the charge. U. S. v. Araujo, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1976, 539 F.2d 287, certiorari denied 97 S.Ct. 498, 429 U.S. 983, 50 L.Ed.2d 593. Criminal Law 1035(8.1)

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate the federal banking laws, letter from bank president to president's attorney, after bank closing, which contained statements in relation to loans which contradicted subsequent testimony of president, did not require new trial on grounds of newly discovered evidence as to first defendant, where it was not conclusively demonstrated that the new evidence would probably produce an acquittal since the letter was corroborative of essential aspect of Government's case, that being that defendant directed the transfer of funds out of escrow account, and where, in relation to second defendant, the material in the letter was only marginally relevant to charges against him. U. S. v. Running, C.A.8 (Iowa) 1974, 506 F.2d 1068. Criminal Law 945(1)

Where government's initial theory was that defendants had induced four women to travel to Saigon to work as dancers in nightclub and had then forced them to engage in prostitution and where government, during trial, changed its theory to one in which defendants merely arranged for the women who were willing to work as prostitutes to go to Saigon, and where defendants presented affidavits which set forth evidence which might have been sufficient to cause jury to accept defendants' version that there was no discussion between them and the women about working as prostitutes and that there was no forced prostitution in Saigon, defendants were entitled to have the evidence considered by trial court on motion for new trial. U. S. v. Zemater, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1974, 501 F.2d 540. Criminal Law 1181.5(3.1)

Where ambiguous testimony and unavailability of a full transcript made it impossible to determine whether independent evidence of a conspiracy existed, new trial was warranted. U. S. v. Rodrigues, C.A.3 (N.J.) 1974, 491 F.2d 663.

Where reversible error committed by trial judge with regard to instruction on counts charging illegal transportation of aliens had no effect on jury's verdict of guilty on the conspiracy count and the sentences received on transportation counts were less than the sentence on the conspiracy count and made to run concurrent with it, neither new trial nor rehearing on sentencing was necessary. U. S. v. Jacobo-Gil, C.A.9 (Cal.) 1973, 474 F.2d 1213. Criminal Law 1177

Alleged errors in the admission of evidence, in prosecution for conspiracy to violate section 1341 of this title and substantive violations of such section, did not furnish basis for new trial. U. S. v. Wolfson, C.A.3 (Del.) 1972, 454 F.2d 60, certiorari denied 92 S.Ct. 1792, 406 U.S. 924, 32 L.Ed.2d 124. Criminal Law 921

Alleged failure of prosecutor to point out at trial instances in which testimony of accomplices differed from their grand jury statements was not a basis for requiring new trial, where defense counsel was well aware of contents of his own conversation with one of witnesses, and where grand jury testimony of each witness was given to defense counsel who were afforded adequate time for its perusal before engaging in cross-examination and in probing thoroughly all inconsistencies referred to. U. S. v. Hamilton, C.A.8 (Mo.) 1971, 452 F.2d 472, certiorari denied 92 S.Ct. 1796, 406 U.S. 925, 32 L.Ed.2d 126. Criminal Law 1189

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Prosecutor's negligent nondisclosure of existence of indictment against major prosecution witness did not entitle defendants convicted of mail fraud and conspiracy to a new trial, where witness' trial testimony dealt only with manner that defendants acquired credit card, and central issue raised by defense was whether defendants used the card in good faith. U. S. v. Bonanno, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1970, 430 F.2d 1060, certiorari denied 91 S.Ct. 366, 400 U.S. 964, 27 L.Ed.2d 384. Criminal Law ⚡ 919(1)

Record supported conclusion of trial court that, despite asserted new evidence offered by defendants as basis for new trial, witness had not lied at trial. U. S. v. Tourine, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1970, 428 F.2d 865, certiorari denied 91 S.Ct. 581, 400 U.S. 1020, 27 L.Ed.2d 631, rehearing denied 91 S.Ct. 968, 401 U.S. 966, 28 L.Ed.2d 249. Criminal Law ⚡ 942(1)

Newspaper article, which referred to defendant, in prosecution for transporting forged check in interstate commerce and for conspiracy to commit such offense, as "reputed crime syndicate loan shark" and which stated that another person had been named in indictment and that such person was slain in gangland fashion, did not contain remarks of such grave and inherently prejudicial nature, as to raise such doubts as to accuracy of jurors' statements that no prejudice had been instilled by article as to call for new trial. U. S. v. Solomon, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1970, 422 F.2d 1110, certiorari denied 90 S.Ct. 2201, 399 U.S. 911, 26 L.Ed.2d 565, rehearing denied 91 S.Ct. 26, 400 U.S. 855, 27 L.Ed.2d 93. Criminal Law ⚡ 957(1)

District judge who presided at defendant's trial for conspiring to print counterfeit United States currency and who listened to and observed witnesses who testified, including author of two letters written after conviction the first of which stated that defendant did not print the counterfeit money, as witness had testified during trial, and second of which repudiated first letter, did not abuse his discretion in denying motion for new trial. U. S. v. Hersh, C.A.5 (Tex.) 1969, 415 F.2d 835. Criminal Law ⚡ 911

Where rights of defendants were prejudiced by all defendants being tried together when two conspiracies were proved instead of the one charged, all defendants were required to be retried since the overwhelming guilt as to some might have unduly influenced the jury as to others who were less involved and it would be prejudicial to the parties to remand the cause for a single trial of multiple conspiracies, but rather on remand there should be two separate trials. U. S. v. Varelli, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1969, 407 F.2d 735. Criminal Law ⚡ 1189; Criminal Law ⚡ 1192

Denial of one defendant's motions to reopen his case and for new trial on ground of purported newly discovered evidence, largely showing that defendant could not have been present at places where alleged coconspirator had testified they had met, was not improper, where it was not until three weeks after coconspirator completed testifying that defendant made his claim, defendant in testifying had not stated that it had been geographically impossible for him to have been present where coconspirator had placed him, and there was no satisfactory showing why documentary proof could not have been brought to court's attention during the trial by exercise of due diligence. U. S. v. Edwards, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1966, 366 F.2d 853, certiorari denied 87 S.Ct. 852, 386 U.S. 908, 17 L.Ed.2d 782, certiorari denied 87 S.Ct. 882, 386 U.S. 919, 17 L.Ed.2d 790. Criminal Law ⚡ 938(1)

Where claim of termination of association of parties including defendant convicted of conspiracy to conceal assets in contemplation of bankruptcy was made during counsel's opening statements to jury and was sought to be shown on first motion for new trial, it did not warrant consideration on second motion for new trial as newly discovered evidence. Strauss v. U. S., C.A.5 (Fla.) 1966, 363 F.2d 366, certiorari denied 87 S.Ct. 602, 385 U.S. 989, 17 L.Ed.2d 450. Criminal Law ⚡ 938(2)

Prosecution's reference in summation to availability of unused evidence regarding associates of one of the defendants, who had made self-incriminatory statement to grand jury which had been admitted to evidence against him only with names of the other defendants deleted, constituted reversible error entitling the three other defendants to a new trial on charge of conspiracy and substantive offense of transporting stolen cigarettes in interstate commerce. Kitchell v. U. S., C.A.1 (Mass.) 1966, 354 F.2d 715, certiorari denied 86 S.Ct. 1970, 384

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

U.S. 1011, 16 L.Ed.2d 1032. Criminal Law ☞ 719(1); Criminal Law ☞ 1171.3

In face of overwhelming proof of defendants' guilt of possession and transfers of counterfeit money and conspiracies to do the same no prejudicial error resulted because trial judge did not interview jurors singly regarding newspaper articles relating to a tape recording, and did not justify new trial. U. S. v. Largo, C.A.7 (Ill.) 1965, 346 F.2d 253, certiorari denied 86 S.Ct. 240, 382 U.S. 904, 15 L.Ed.2d 157. Criminal Law ☞ 1174(1)

In reversing convictions which were improper under principle of collateral estoppel because of previous acquittal of substantive offenses arising out of post office burglaries, court of appeals would direct judgment of acquittal as to counts charging conspiracy to break and enter where evidence to prove such conspiracy, if believed, would show contrary to former acquittal that defendant was a principal guiding force; but as to counts charging receiving stolen goods and conspiracy to receive, new trial would be ordered, with government prohibited from offering evidence that defendant participated in burglaries directly or as aider or abetter. U.S. v. Kramer, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1961, 289 F.2d 909. Criminal Law ☞ 1187; Criminal Law ☞ 1189

In prosecution of defendant, an executor of estate, for willfully attempting to evade part of estate tax due and for submitting false and fraudulent documents to Secretary of State as well as conspiracy to commit substantive crimes, dismissal of conspiracy indictment at close of government's case did not require new trial on substantive charges on ground that testimony introduced with reference to conspiracy allegedly prejudiced the rest of the case, where fact to which testimony related was generally supported by other clearly competent evidence. U.S. v. Alker, C.A.3 (Pa.) 1958, 255 F.2d 851, certiorari denied 79 S.Ct. 27, 358 U.S. 817, 3 L.Ed.2d 59. Criminal Law ☞ 913(1)

In prosecution for conspiracy and for violating Alcohol Tax Laws, corporate defendant could not successfully urge as ground for new trial allegedly newly discovered evidence that before events involved its charter had been declared forfeited for nonpayment of state taxes. U S v. Indian Hill Farm, Inc, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1958, 255 F.2d 282. Criminal Law ☞ 938(3)

Where although judgment of acquittal was required to be entered as against two defendants charged with conspiracy to violate the Smith Act, § 2385 of this title, it was not clear that government must fail in effort to cast a prima facie case against remaining defendants charged with same conspiracy, and although such remaining defendants urged that they should be acquitted they also asked alternatively for a new trial, a new trial would be ordered as against such remaining defendants. U. S. v. Kuzma, C.A.3 (Pa.) 1957, 249 F.2d 619. Criminal Law ☞ 1189

In prosecution for conspiring to defraud United States, fact that two of jurors had been members of a Republican club in years immediately preceding trial of defendants, who held political office during Democratic Administration, was not a basis for a new trial. Connelly v. U.S., C.A.8 (Mo.) 1957, 249 F.2d 576, certiorari denied 78 S.Ct. 700, 356 U.S. 921, 2 L.Ed.2d 716, rehearing denied 78 S.Ct. 991, 356 U.S. 964, 2 L.Ed.2d 1072, certiorari denied 78 S.Ct. 701, 356 U.S. 921, 2 L.Ed.2d 716. Criminal Law ☞ 918(3)

An application to Court of Appeals for order granting new trial of prosecution for conspiracy to export gold bullion on alleged ground of newly discovered evidence directed to testimony of government witness that no promises had been made to witness by anyone connected with government but if witness co-operated and testified against accused a suspended sentence would be recommended as to witness would be denied, in view of government's affidavits. United States v. Brecher, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1957, 242 F.2d 642. Criminal Law ☞ 958(6)

In prosecution for conspiring to teach and advocate overthrow of United States government by force and violence, action of trial court in denying defendants' motion for new trial because of publicity that testimony of one of state's witnesses received in area of trial as to his testimony before Senate Permanent Sub-Committee on Investigations, was not erroneous, where each of jurors was questioned individually and alone by court about his knowledge of incidents and where after inquiry, during which each juror was put under oath, court concluded that jurors had not been influenced by such publicity. U. S. v. Mesarosh, C.A.3 (Pa.) 1955, 223 F.2d 449, certiorari granted 76 S.Ct. 218, 350 U.S. 922, 100 L.Ed. 807, reversed on other grounds 77 S.Ct. 1, 352 U.S. 1, 1 L.Ed.2d 1. Criminal Law ¶ 925.5(1)

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

In trial of two attorneys and others for conspiracy to obstruct due administration of justice, government counsel's questions, not based on any matter in record, on cross-examination of one of such attorneys for purpose of leaving jury with impression that such defendant was linked to county political leader in vast criminal scheme were improper and ground for new trial after his conviction. U.S. v. Perlstein, C.C.A.3 (N.J.) 1941, 120 F.2d 276. Criminal Law ¶ 706(5); Criminal Law ¶ 1170.5(5)

On a trial for mail fraud and conspiracy in connection with a sale of stock, the insistent efforts of the trial court to connect defendants with the books and literature of the corporation, its frequent and unnecessary interruptions of both direct and cross-examinations that were being competently conducted, and its lengthy and inquisitorial cross-examination of defendants, including those who appealed, conveying to the jury, though inadvertently, the impression that the court was insisting upon a conviction, require a new trial where there is a substantial conflict in the evidence. Williams v. U.S., C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1937, 93 F.2d 685. Criminal Law ¶ 918(5)

Where, after conviction for selling cocaine and for conspiracy in violation of Harrison Act, § 2550 et seq. of Title 26, one of joint defendants recanted as to testimony tending to connect another with crime, his recantation might be a ground for a new trial of the defendant affected by that testimony. Harrison v. U.S., C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1925, 7 F.2d 259.

The granting of the prayer of a petition of defendants in a prosecution under former § 88 of this title [now this section] for the appointment of a commissioner to take newly discovered evidence in support of motion for new trial, was within the discretion of the court, and its refusal to grant such petition did not constitute error where it appeared that the court had not abused its discretion. Nee v. U S, C.C.A.3 (Pa.) 1920, 267 F. 84.

Where only two persons are indicted for conspiracy and the crime is in every sense indivisible, its essence is the mental confederation not of any two of numerous persons, but of the two particular defendants, and if after conviction of both a new trial is granted, to one of them, it must also be granted to the other. Feder v. U.S., C.C.A.2 (N.Y.) 1919, 257 F. 694, 168 C.C.A. 644.

Where a verdict of guilty was rendered in a trial for conspiracy to defraud the United States of duty on imported merchandise against a member of a firm that was implicated in the conspiracy, the verdict was contrary to the evidence, and a new trial should be granted. U.S. v. Cohn, C.C.S.D.N.Y.1904, 128 F. 615, affirmed 145 F. 1, 76 C.C.A. 31, certiorari denied 26 S.Ct. 755, 200 U.S. 618, 50 L.Ed. 623.

Where parties have been indicted for conspiracy, tried together and found guilty the grant of a new trial to one of the accused does not require that a new trial should be granted to any co-conspirator. U.S. v. Cohn, C.C.S.D.N.Y.1904, 128 F. 615, affirmed 145 F. 1, 76 C.C.A. 31, certiorari denied 26 S.Ct. 755, 200 U.S. 618, 50 L.Ed. 623. Conspiracy ¶ 49

Jury's question, whether it had to be shown that defendant knew money she had delivered to undercover agent posing as hit man was part of scheme to kill witness in co-conspirator's criminal trial, did not indicate that jury misunderstood instructions, and therefore new trial was not warranted; question could indicate that jury was properly focussed on central issue of defendant's knowledge, and trial court referred jury to relevant conspiracy instructions. U.S. v. Saffold, D.Kan.1996, 915 F.Supp. 260. Criminal Law ¶ 928

Gun dealership's convictions for conspiracy to defraud government and mail fraud in connection with dealership's knowing participation in scheme to circumvent Treasury regulation banning importation of assault rifles was not miscarriage of justice warranting new trial, even though dealership's agent was acquitted; there was evidence that dealership was party to all transactions involving 70 assault rifles, and court would not speculate as to meaning of jury's acquittal of agent so as to support grant of new trial. U.S. v. McCabe, C.D.Ill.1992, 792 F.Supp. 616. Criminal Law ⚡ 913(1); Criminal Law ⚡ 933

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

New trial in prosecution for conspiracy to violate this section and sections 1341 and 2314 of this title, was not required on grounds of prejudicial publicity. U. S. v. Sinclair, D.C.Del.1977, 433 F.Supp. 1180.

Where essence of Government's charge was that movant, as "banker" of policy operation, caused messenger, by means of threats against him and father-in-law, to travel to Puerto Rico to return proceeds of his theft of funds from the operation, movant was not entitled to new trial on ground of newly discovered evidence that messenger and his father-in-law had committed perjury when they said that they had not cheated the operation of the funds, inasmuch as there was no showing that introduction of such testimony at trial would have produced a different verdict. U. S. v. Marquez, S.D.N.Y.1973, 363 F.Supp. 802, affirmed 489 F.2d 753, affirmed 490 F.2d 1383, certiorari denied 95 S.Ct. 44, 419 U.S. 826, 42 L.Ed.2d 50. Criminal Law ⚡ 938(1)

Documents allegedly showing that there was meeting between defendants between time when government witness testified defendants met and time codefendant alleged first meeting took place did not tend to furnish evidence of defendant's innocence of conspiring to receive kickback and of agreeing to receive improper payment in connection with pension fund loan, were not such as would probably produce acquittal, and thus were not basis for granting new trial. U. S. v. Wenger, S.D.N.Y.1970, 320 F.Supp. 1269. Criminal Law ⚡ 945(1)

Admittedly incidental and inadvertent remark of one defendant (testifying on his own behalf in a joint trial of defendants charged with conspiracy and counterfeiting), disclosing his acquaintance in prison with one of the other defendants who did not testify, did not, when reviewed against totality of evidence, require that latter defendant be granted a new trial. U. S. v. Beatty, D.C.Md.1968, 282 F.Supp. 202. Criminal Law ⚡ 921

Defendant charged with conspiracy to knowingly transport in interstate commerce, with fraudulent intent, counterfeit securities was not entitled to new trial on basis that newspaper accounts of trial proceedings prejudicially prevented a fair trial in view of court's interrogation of each jury member as to alleged prejudicial effect of newspaper reportings. U. S. v. Natale, D.C.N.J.1966, 250 F.Supp. 381. Criminal Law ⚡ 925.5(4)

Trial for conspiracy and illegal sale of narcotics was unfair because of absence of special employee of government, who defendants claimed induced them to make illegal sales to government agents, particularly where sole defense was entrapment, and failure of government to produce former employee at trial or show that reasonable efforts to do so were fruitless entitled defendants to new trial. U. S. v. Clarke, E.D.Pa.1963, 220 F.Supp. 905. Criminal Law ⚡ 918(2)

Codefendants convicted of conspiracy were not entitled to new trial because of court's refusal to permit them to open up the case as to transactions not involved in indictment, where codefendants joined with other defendants in asking court to limit the government in its proof to transactions stated in indictment. U.S. v. Thomas, E.D.Wash.1943, 52 F.Supp. 571. Criminal Law ⚡ 921

Defendants, convicted of conspiracy to defraud the United States by making false documents to secure insurance under modernization of homes provisions of National Housing Act, § 1701 et seq. of Title 12, were not entitled to new trial on theory that because some of defendants' salesmen were acquitted statements made on applications filled out as result of salesmen's efforts were accurate, where many statements were false on their face, salesmen were only charged with conspiracy and not with violating substantive provisions of said sections, and a jury need not be consistent in its verdicts. U.S. v. Thomas, E.D.Wash.1943, 52 F.Supp. 571. Criminal Law ⚡ 933

In appeal of conviction for conspiracy to commit wire fraud and interstate wire fraud, based on a fraudulent loan,

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

new trial was not warranted where alleged newly discovered evidence did not establish that one witness's trial testimony was perjurious or material to the elements of the offense of conviction; sufficient independent evidence, in form of testimony of a number of witnesses, clearly proved fraudulent transaction, and alleged new evidence related to another transaction over three months later. U.S. v. Bui, C.A.2 (Conn.) 2003, 70 Fed.Appx. 14, 2003 WL 21461916, Unreported. Criminal Law ☞ 945(2)

1100. Remand, review

Where case was subject to remand for error in denial of application for production of a transcript of evidence, defendant's objection to three year sentence on conspiracy count would be sustained without discussion. Edwards v. U.S., U.S.Okla.1941, 61 S.Ct. 669, 312 U.S. 473, 85 L.Ed. 957. Conspiracy ☞ 51

Remand for resentencing was warranted in prosecution for conspiracy to defraud the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) and aiding and assisting the filing of false or fraudulent tax returns, in light of Booker decision affecting use of sentencing guidelines, which guidelines the district court had regarded as mandatory. U.S. v. Crockett, C.A.10 (Utah) 2006, 435 F.3d 1305. Criminal Law ☞ 1181.5(8)

Where writs of certiorari were granted limited to issue of whether petitioners had been improperly convicted of substantive offenses committed by members of conspiracy before petitioners had joined conspiracy or after they had withdrawn from it, on remand Court of Appeals' scope of review was narrowed to this issue and the defendants were not entitled to a re-review of alleged errors presented to and decided by Court of Appeals on the appeal or to assert for the first time other errors which were not within purview of mandate of Supreme Court. Gradsy v. U.S., C.A.5 (Fla.) 1967, 376 F.2d 993, certiorari denied 88 S.Ct. 224, 389 U.S. 908, 19 L.Ed.2d 224, rehearing denied 88 S.Ct. 488, 389 U.S. 998, 19 L.Ed.2d 505. Criminal Law ☞ 1192

Visa fraud defendant's Sixth Amendment challenge to his sentence, which district court imposed prior to United States Supreme Court decision in United States v. Booker and Second Circuit's decision in United States v. Crosby, on ground that sentence was based on facts not proved beyond reasonable doubt to jury, warranted remand for further proceedings in conformity with Crosby. U.S. v. Konstantakakos, C.A.2 (N.Y.) 2005, 121 Fed.Appx. 902, 2005 WL 348376, Unreported. Criminal Law ☞ 1181.5(8)

1101. Habeas corpus, review

The sufficiency of an indictment charging a conspiracy under former § 88 of this title [now this section], "to defraud the United States out of the possession and use of, and the title, to divers large tracts of public lands of the United States," as against objections based on the lack of description of the lands, the uncertainty of the allegations as to the means to be used to carry out the alleged conspiracy, the failure to give the names of the fictitious or disqualified persons through whom the fraud was effected, the indefiniteness and inconsistency of the allegations, and the improper conclusion, would not have been determined on habeas corpus to inquire into a detention to await a warrant for the removal of the accused, under former § 591 of this title, to the federal district, where the trial was to have been had, but such objections were for the trial court to determine. Hyde v. Shine, U.S.Cal.1905, 25 S.Ct. 760, 199 U.S. 62, 50 L.Ed. 90. See, also, Dimond v. Shine, Cal.1905, 25 S.Ct. 766, 199 U.S. 88, 50 L.Ed. 99. Habeas Corpus ☞ 474

Where indictment in four counts charged the same bank robbery by force and violence and with use of deadly weapon jeopardizing lives of three separate persons, and also charged conspiracy to commit bank robbery, the first four counts charged but a single offense of bank robbery with deadly weapon endangering human life, and defendant who had served punishment imposed on one of the counts charging the aggravated offense and that imposed for conspiracy was entitled to release on habeas corpus as sentence served covered all of the counts of the indictment. Dimenza v. Johnston, C.C.A.9 (Cal.) 1942, 131 F.2d 47. Habeas Corpus ☞ 507

18 U.S.C.A. § 371

Petitioner, who sought habeas corpus relief after adverse decision of National Appellate Board with regard to his eligibility for parole, had to bear responsibility, both under criminal law and before board of parole, for actions of his confederates in furtherance of their conspiracy to commit armed robbery by use of dangerous weapon, of which he was convicted. McArthur v. U. S. Bd. of Parole, S.D.Ind.1976, 434 F.Supp. 163, affirmed 559 F.2d 1226. Habeas Corpus ↪ 516.1

Record in proceeding on motion to vacate sentence imposed on conviction of aiding and abetting robbery of bank and of conspiracy to rob bank did not support contention that defendant had received ineffective assistance of counsel. Calvert v. U. S., W.D.Ky.1971, 323 F.Supp. 112. Criminal Law ↪ 1618(10)

In habeas corpus proceeding for petitioner's release from imprisonment under sentence on his conviction of conspiracy to violate narcotics laws, proceedings in his previous prosecution for unlawfully transferring marihuana and judgment entered and prison sentence imposed on his conviction thereof are presumed to be regular and valid so that petitioner, being lawfully in prison under such sentence, is not entitled to discharge from confinement under subsequent sentence and may not secure judicial determination of validity of previous conviction and sentence. Wilkins v. Kearney, E.D.Tex.1956, 142 F.Supp. 567. Habeas Corpus ↪ 229; Habeas Corpus ↪ 770

18 U.S.C.A. § 371, 18 USCA § 371

Current through P.L. 109-279 approved 08-17-06

Copr. © 2006 Thomson/West. No. Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works

END OF DOCUMENT

© 2006 Thomson/West. No Claim to Orig. U.S. Govt. Works.